Greensboro, April 3.—(AP)—The body of another negro man was taken today from the debris left by last night's tornado to swell the death toll to 12, with at least one other person expected to die during the day.

Men armed with shovels, pick axes and crowbars, and aided by tractors dug into the ruins and all parts of the devastated area and searchers expressed the belief one or more other negroes had perished in the Five Points cafe, where the body of Robert Mitchell, 18-year-old negro was uncovered in mid-morning.

Greensboro, April 3.—(AP)—Men and machines dug today into the debris left by last night's tornado seeking possible other dead to add to the list of 11 compiled during the night. One child, seriously injured, was not expected to live through the day, doctors reported.

The storm was Greensboro's first recorded tornado and left in its wake damages estimated at upwards of $1,500,000 to a strip of business and residence property, some two and one half miles long and three to four blocks wide. More than 100 persons were injured.

Fire followed the storm despite a downpour of rain which lasted for a few minutes.

Three of the known dead were burned fatally. They were Mrs. Ruby Bain and Mrs. J. B. Ayers and her daughter, Gloria.

Mrs. J. W. Sparrow, a daughter of Mrs. Bain, was trapped in her burning home with her mother, but was rescued.

The 400 block of Correll street and McAdoo avenue were the worst hit spots. Only one building of the eight in the Correll block was left on its foundation. Seven were completely destroyed and in the area at least five were killed.

Harry Brown, Member of Pitt County Bar Association for Seven Years, Enters County Race

Harry Brown today announced his candidacy for solicitor of Pitt county court, subject to the Democratic primary in June.

With the announcement of Mr. Brown, three candidates are in the field for the place now held by Jack Spain, who is seeking the judgeship of the court, held by Dink James, who is seeking re-election.

The other two candidates for solicitor of the court are Charles Whedbee and Eli Bloom.

Mr. Brown is a member of the Pitt county bar association, having become affiliated with the body seven years ago. A native of this county, he was educated at Carolina, Wake Forest and Washington and Lee, having studied law at the last named place.

The candidate's announcement sets forth that if elected he will "perform the duties of the office efficiently, honestly and fairly."

To Confer in London

London, April 3.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden informed the House of Commons today that Britain, France and Belgium were ready to fight as allies if attacked by Germany, but that Britain was anxious to talk permanent peace with Adolf Hitler.

Eden announced that Franco-British-Belgium army general staff conversations would be held in London at a date not yet fixed, but assured the commons that technical details worked out by the generals, would be invoked only in case the Nazi Reich attacked either France or Belgium.

Such conferences were proposed under the London accord of the Locarno powers, reached after Germany occupied the Rhineland in defiance of the Locarno pact and Versailles treaty, but Hitler in his proposals for liquidation of the crisis warned that the Reich considered the proposed conversations most inopportune.

In an exchange of letters with France and Belgium, Great Britain agreed "in return for reciprocal assurances from your government to take in consideration of your government all practical measures available to his majesty's government for the purpose of insuring the security of your country against unprovoked aggression."

Summer School Feature

The Summer School number, the first of regular quarterly bulletins to be issued by East Carolina Teachers College, has come from the press, and is being distributed.

The new department added this year, the Commercial Department, which offers courses leading towards a certificate in Commerce, is a new feature of the Summer School. The educational field trips, as electives in certain departments, which were first offered last summer, proved so popular that two of these, at least, will be offered this year. One will be through New England and Canada, and one to the Southwest, including the Texas exposition, and probably as far as Mexico City, if there is demand for it. These offer regular college credits.

All departments of the College will be in operation and the same procedures and regulations apply as during the regular school year. There are thirty-three teachers in the summer faculty, all of them from the regular staff.

The attention of teachers is called to the fact that State certificates may be renewed in a six weeks' term.

Those who have begun the two-year course are warned that they will have to complete the course by the end of the summer school of 1937 in order to get a diploma or to obtain a B certificate from the State Department. After this date, this certificate will not be given for two years of college work and the two-year normal school course will be discontinued by East Carolina Teachers College.

Vote to Go Ahead with Project

The Board of Aldermen, after hearing protests from a group of women, last night voted to go ahead with the widening of Dickinson avenue, which will necessitate the destruction of a number of shade trees along the route.

The State Highway and Public Works commission has already made a survey of the project, which also includes erection of an underpass at the cotton mill, and it was the opinion of the aldermen that the plans had gone too far to turn back now. The project will be carried on with federal funds, Mayor M. K. Blount said, when and if it is completed.

Miss Lella Higgs, declaring that she was speaking for the women who live on the avenue and the various women's clubs of the city, was the first to be heard. She said that the women were heartily in favor of going ahead with other improvements, but declared that the addition of more trees on each side of the street was a high price to pay for the destruction of the shade trees.

The section of the project opposed by the women was the portion from Paris avenue to the Atlantic Coast Line railroad station.

Miss Higgs called attention to the fact that some of the trees had been there for a quarter of a century. She said that everyone does not ride these days and added that the shade looked mighty good to a pedestrian on a hot summer day.

Miss Higgs was followed by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, who said she was speaking in behalf of the Women's club and said that the majority of the members of that organization "vigorously protested" the destroying of the trees.

Mayor Blount then explained the project, setting forth that the entire project would cost approximately $90,000 or $100,000. He said the city had been working on the plan for some five years.

Washington, April 3.—(AP)—The Senate Finance committee voted today to curtail drastic features of the war profit bill, leave a sufficient "profit motive" to induce industry to do its utmost to win a war and put the measure in shape for reporting to the floor this session.

Instead of the 99 per cent tax on all individual income above $10,000 as proposed in the bill drafted by the Senate Munitions Chairman Connally (D. Tex.) of a finance subcommittee, said his group had been directed to draft a bill to take "70 or 80 per cent of income in the higher brackets."

Moreover, Connally said, the lead to be borne by smaller incomes would be increased under committee instruction.

The subcommittee will begin meetings Monday, he said, to shape the tax section of a bill to go along with the modified industrial control section, revised by the military affairs committee last session.

in City Last Night

The monthly meeting of the Greenville Ministerial Association was held with Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Ryan, as hosts, last night.

It was decided to omit the morning devotional Holy Week services this year, and to concentrate our efforts in cooperation with the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in their series of services to be led by Bishop William McDowell of Washington, D. C. The congregations of the city will be urged to participate in these services as fully as possible.

The ministers of the city are purchasing a loving cup to be given as the token of award to the winning team of the Sunday School Baseball League, which is being organized for play early in the summer.

Another item of interest to the community is the decision to promote another daily vacation Bible school soon after the close of the regular school session. This work was omitted last year because of the infantile paralysis epidemic, but it is hoped it can be carried on this year with renewed zeal and productive results.

of Killing Young Wife

San Jose, Calif., April 3.—(AP)—Wife-murder charges against David A. Lamson were dismissed today and he was ordered liberated immediately.

The district attorney, Fred Moore personally asked Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco to dismiss the charges against Lamson who had faced three trials.

Moore said it was impossible to obtain a jury to convict the defendant. Lamson, former Stanford University press executive, was convicted at his first trial for slaying his young wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, and sentenced to hang. The State Supreme Court granted him a new trial. Juries in the second and third trials disagreed.

Lamson was accused of clubbing his wife to death in the bathroom of the home Memorial Day, 1913. The defense contended she fell and injured herself fatally.

COLLEGE TALKGubernatorial Candi-

dents and Faculty

A. H. Graham, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, today addressed students and faculty members of East Carolina Teachers College and later was a luncheon guest at the college.

Mr. Graham was the second of three candidates who will speak at the college assembly. Dr. R. W. McDonald spoke some weeks ago, and Clyde R. Hoey is scheduled for a talk in the near future.

Lieut.-Governor Graham reviewed the progress of education in North Carolina from the turn of the century and dealt especially with legislation relating to education.

Going back to the days of Governor Aycock, the candidate recalled first efforts, and their setbacks, to increase the length of school terms, and attempts to secure appropriations to be distributed in the various counties in efforts to secure a standard four-months term.

He recounted the progress of schools from the days when bad roads and $25 a month salaries for teachers were in vogue. He referred to the period after the World war as one of increased wealth during which time much progress was made.

"However, in 1929," he added, "farm products of the state went down" and officials experienced difficulty in collecting taxes, and the teachers were carrying unpaid vouchers for months at the time.

He reviewed activities of the 1933 and 1935 legislatures and what progress they made toward making a comeback. He referred to the sales tax of 1935 as a means of securing necessary revenue to keep the schools open.

The speaker also pointed to advances made in transporting children to and from school.

Setting forth his present stand on school problems, Mr. Graham said: (1) We must provide a curriculum which will enable our boys and girls to search for the truth; (2) Our teachers must be informed and must be thoroughly trained in order that they may not only teach, but inspire our boys and girls to the highest ideals within them to develop themselves to their utmost capacity."

Rome

(By Associated Press)
Reports reaching Rome today said strategic Lake Tana, center of the British interests in Ethiopia, had been reached by the Italian troops after a drive down the western section of the northern front.

Italian officials, however, reiterated Premier Mussolini's guarantee that British interests around the lake, which forms the head waters of the blue Nile, would not be molested.

The commander-in-chief of the Italian armies, Marshal Pietro Badoglio, telegraphed Rome about the reaching of Lake Tana by his troops under command of the secretary general of the fascist party, Athille Starace, and told of an Ethiopian retreat at Lake Ashagi on the eastern section of the northern front.

Informed sources in London envisaged direct peace negotiations between Italy and Ethiopia after the departure from Addis Ababa of Emperor Haile Selassie's most trusted advisor, Everett Colson, who is on his way to Egypt on sick leave.

Further sanctions against Italy were asked by the Ethiopian government in a note to the League of Nations while the French government, informed sources said, may ask for financial sanctions against Germany for her violation of the Locarno pact.

Jury Fails to Halt
Further Death of Convicted Murderer

Trenton, N. J., April 3.—(AP)—A close associate of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman said today that the Gov. is prepared to grant Bruno Richard Hauptmann another reprieve.

The governor's secretary said "the governor will not comment" on the report.

(Copyright by Associated Press)
Trenton, N. J., April 3.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's counsel lashed out shortly before noon today in a last desperate effort to save him from the electric chair after the Mercer county grand jury had given notice it would not again seek to interfere with the Lindbergh killer's execution.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defense counsel demanded that the Hunterdon county grand jury be convened to consider charges that Paul H. Wendel—and not Bruno Richard Hauptmann—kidnapped the famous baby.

He directed his demand to Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., the Hunterdon prosecutor, who has been most vigorous in the efforts to see that the Hauptmann death sentence is carried out. The execution is set for 8 o'clock tonight.

If Hauck refused to act, Fisher indicated he might call upon Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, the trial judge, to order Hauck to convene the grand jury and to join him in an effort to stay the execution. The development brought swift reaction.

Hauck said he would confer with the Attorney General, David T. Wentz, immediately to determine what to do.

Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, warden of the prison where final preparations have been made for the execution, came to the attorney general's office shortly afterward and it was apparent that another climax of the famous case was drawing near.

The action, however, was seen as developments which Governor Hoffman might regard as sufficiently important to move him to extend a second reprieve to the prisoner.

Col. Kimberling said shortly after noon that "as it stand now it looks as though the execution will go through."

(Copyright by Associated Press)
Trenton, N. J., April 3.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, thrice paroled slayer of the Lindbergh baby, turned on his execution day to Gov. Harold G. Hoffman to save him "from the electric chair."

His only other hope, the Mercer county grand jury, failed him just before last midnight when it suddenly decided to discontinue further investigation of charges that the murder for which Hauptmann is scheduled to die at 8 o'clock tonight, was committed by another man—Paul H. Wendel.

No further requests for a stay of execution will come from the grand jury it was revealed by an authoritative source, which also said that "a technicality last night prevented the body from voting a 'no bill' in the Wendel case."

When Warden Mark O. Kimberling reached his office this morning he immediately announced the "no bill" of the grand jury had told him there would be no further request for a stay from that body. Kimberling said he was going ahead with preparations for the electrocution tonight, meanwhile seeking advice from other authorities as to what he should do.

That left it squarely up to Gov. Hoffman, whose comment less than a week ago—"no second reprieve"—seems to close even that door to Hauptmann's hope.

But many high official sources were confident that the Governor, now firmly committed to a full investigation of the Lindbergh case, would find a way to prolong the Bronx crier's life, even in the face of Attorney General Wentz's opinion that his power of reprieve has expired.

Hauptmann awakened earlier than usual today, started immediately to read the bible and told his guards he was "confident and not worrying."

Cries of critics that movie money is swelling the New York theatre are disproved this year by the fact that Broadway has had one of the best seasons in recent history.

PLANNING FOR GALA OPENING

Celebration Being Ar- ranged for Opening of Fort Macon

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 3.—A joint celebration of the formal opening of Fort Macon State Park, across the sound from Morehead City and Beaufort, and the 100th anniversary of the completion of the massive all fortification, is now being planned. J. S. Holmes, state forester, announced today.

Restoration of the fort was completed last fall under the joint direction of the National Park Service and the Department of Conservation and Development through the emergency conservation work program.

The point overlooking Beaufort inlet has been the site of a fortification for more than two centuries, although the present fort has been completed only 100 years. As early as 1712, there is mention in historical records of protective works at the point against the raids of the Spaniards. Construction on the restored fort was started in 1834 but was not completed until 12 years later. Cost of construction amounted to about $463,700, and at that time it was considered one of the finest military fortifications in the United States.

The fort figured in events during the Civil War, being seized by the Confederates at the command of Governor Ellis in 1861, but was recaptured about a year later by Union forces under General Parks who captured Col. Moses A. White and 450 men who composed its garrison.

Part of the improvement and restoration program which has been carried out includes the construction of a new road from the Atlantic Beach causeway, making the park available for the first time by automobile; restoration of old garrison rooms, officers quarters, and masonry work; construction of a keepers cottage, picnic pavilion, and rest rooms; remodeling of a cottage on the grounds which will be available for rental; and some sand fixation for the protection of the road and buildings.

Plans have been made, Mr. Holmes said, to close the fort during week days but to allow it to remain open on Sundays until the formal opening. Free admission to the fort will be continued for the present, at least, it was stated.

"At times, I felt like I must scream if a door slammed or there was an unusual noise," writes Mrs. P. A. Odum, of Haines City, Fla. "I did not feel like doing my housework, and as I had other work besides, I felt more like lying down. A friend of mine asked me to try Cardui which I did. After my first bottle, I felt much better. I continued taking it until I had taken six or seven bottles. By this time I was so much improved I was able to leave it off."

alternative as to which was the most beneficial, the widened street or the trees, to the city.

M. D. Lassiter, property-owner on the street who will have to give up some of his land, declared "if you ever let sentiment interfere with business you are ruined. He added, "I am for it, let's go." He said that the city must go forward or backward.

Mrs. Moore was on her feet immediately declaring that a pretty street was just as much a commercial asset as anything. She said that cutting down the trees, was "a fearful price to pay" to increase business.

Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, representing the Sans Souci Book club, objected to the destruction of the trees.

Miss Higgs again took the floor to ask that, if the trees were cut down, steps be taken to remove all telephone and other utility poles from the street.

The city engineer was asked by a board member about how many trees would have to be removed if the project is carried out. He replied that he did not think that there were more than 10 good ones on each side. He explained that, in his opinion, many of the trees would not live but a few more years since they were in a bad condition.

After voting to go ahead with plans to widen the street, the board instructed Mrs. J. L. Hassell, member, to seek to find out if the trees could be moved elsewhere on the avenue. Mrs. Hassell said today she would seek the advice of an expert in hopes that the trees could be transplanted.

Proof of Ford V-8 Economy

MOVE up to high-priced car performance—without the extra cost! The thrill of driving a Ford V-8 can be matched only in cars costing hundreds of dollars more. The Ford V-8 is responsive. It picks up more easily. At all speeds you get the smooth, effortless flow of power which means truly fine car performance.

—And in a Ford V-8 you get this performance at less cost.

In bringing the V-8 to the low price field, Ford designed an engine, which with the dual downdraft carburetor, simply takes the gas used by a "4" of similar size and splits it into eight equal charges. In fact, the Ford V-8 with its sparkling performance and 8 cylinder smoothness is the most economical car Ford ever built. Definite cost records of large passenger car fleet owners show actual savings in the operation of the Ford V-8 over previous Ford models.

Test this great car yourself. Get behind the wheel and drive it. Feel the thrill of modern V-8 performance. Then, remember, that it's over-all economy is greater than those famous Ford models of past days. Your Ford Dealer

Dress Rehearsal For Minstrel.
At the dress rehearsal last night of the Carolina Minstrels, who present their third annual show in the Austin auditorium at eight o'clock tonight, they proved they were ready with the best show they have ever put on.

The stage is a work of art, with the log cabin on the edge of the woods, a full orange moon slowly rising, seen through the trees. Axson Smith is the genius who created the staging.

Not all were in full regalia last night, as the costumes of the star performers, furnished by a New Bern firm, were not brought over until today. A member of the firm is seeing to the careful fitting and appropriateness of each one. He will remain through the performance tonight and inspect all before they appear before the footlights. This is the first time a professional costumer has ever supervised the costuming of performers for any show given at the college.

The lighting effects add greatly to the show. The songs are catchy and some of the features are good enough to win approval from Major Bowes, so critics say who have seen the show. The "Wood Sisters," someone said, are as good as the Boswell Sisters.

The gates to the college campus will be left open tonight, so people can enter with cars. Tickets will be on sale at the door and the curtain is expected to go up at eight o'clock.

This is not on the program sponsored by the college entertainment committee, but is a special show sponsored by the Varsity Club. Special tickets must be secured by everybody, students as well as the general public.

The soloists include Mrs. Knott Proctor, Mrs. John Karsnak, Miss Ona Shindler, Miss Agnes Pulliove, Mrs. C. W. Parsons, R. F. Pittman of Ayden, and others.

MOUNT PLEASANT NEWS

Instead of our regular pastor next Sunday, we will have as officiating minister, Mrs. H. H. Settle. This isn't the first time Mrs. Settle has conducted services at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church, and it is a real pleasure to have the opportunity to hear her again.

Mr. J. G. Sullivan, teacher of the Young People's class, has started a drive to enlarge our Sunday school. Each member of the class has promised to bring a new member. When a given number has joined we are to have a community picnic. Every one is cordially invited to attend Mt. Pleasant Sunday school and to join, if possible.

Mr. Asa Spain, Mr. Bill Smith and our Superintendent O. J. Stancill attended the union meeting at Manteo.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fuller and son, Roy, Jr., and Miss Pattie Jenkins of Raleigh, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jenkins Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Mayo were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross.

Mrs. Willis Honored.
Falkland, April 3.—Honoring Mrs. Harold Willis of Greenville, a recent bride, formerly Miss Annie Mayo of Falkland, the Woman's Auxiliary of Falkland was host at a miscellaneous shower given at the Falkland teacherage.

Mrs. Ruby Windley and Miss Mary Ellenberg greeted the guests at the door and invited them to register in the bride's book, which was presided over by Miss Cornelia Jordan.

During the evening the guests made an attractive bride's book, wrote their favorite recipes and best wishes, which were later presented to the bride.

Mrs. Windley and Miss Ellenberg were assisted in serving by Mrs. G. H. Pittman, Misses Mattie Smith and Elizabeth Gooding. Individual feed cakes, decorated with wedding bells, pink mints in which rose confettis and punch, were served. The bride's plate was marked by an old fashioned nosegay of white jonquils.

After refreshments, Mrs. Willis was invited to cut a large wedding cake which was found to contain numerous gifts.

IMPRISED GOAT EATS POLICE FODDER SUPPLY

Augusta, Ga., April 3.—(AP)—Artemus Thomas, a negro, is crippled and gets about town in a wood cart pulled by a goat.

More than once, when Artemus has been arrested for drunkenness, his goat has had to be taken into custody for participating in the celebration.

City police wish Artemus wasn't a cripple, because his goat eats deep into the fodder supply at the stockade stables.

Golden Rain

by Margaret Wildmer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning, taken from the restricted life of an impulsive aristocrat in Persia, Pa., to the wild life of her Aunt Phina
and brother Owen in New York, finds herself having a great time.
And a surprising one too. She has just learned that big, awkward Camilla Wendell is a poet, in fact she is reading some of her work. Camilla, incidentally, has tried tact-fully to show Iris how empty much of her present life is—without the least success.

Chapter 25 BODY BLOW

IRIS looked up, her eyes full of tears. "You do beautiful work," she said. "Have you typed them and sent them out?"

Her father had done a little verse, and some art criticisms; she knew the procedure. Aunt Ella had typed clear beautiful copies on a little typewriter she bought, and had made a card index for sending and resending.

"Oh, I wouldn't dare!"
"Yes, you would. That's silly. I'll tell you just how to do it."

She began a matter-of-fact description of Aunt Ella's routine.
Camilla stared at her, her dark face lighted with excitement; to the excitement was added another expres-day—that reminds me—about the old music books you said you sang those songs from. He said Mr. Black would be coming over soon and he'd send them by him."

Iris's heart leaped. To see Morgan —to talk to him again!

"When?"
"I don't know. When his lady-love desires, I gather. It seems he's decided to settle down in Persia for life with a girl named—was it Katie Oliver?"

"Katie Oliver?" Iris's voice was steady. She hoped her face was too.
"Are you sure?"
"Well, nothing's sure but death and income taxes; I've only Will's word of it." Phina said carelessly.
"Make it a heart."

Iris hoped she made her own bid
in a voice that showed nothing.
Men were like that. If you told them you didn't love them they found another girl who did. She hadn't known how sure she had felt of Morgan's continued love; that she could write, telephone, walk in any moment, and find his love waiting there for her, as sure and indiscrutable as her family. She hadn't known she cared as much as this.

IRIS jumped as the house telephone rang. It might be Morgan. But it was "a man with a package," the known bootlegger's formula.

It might be Morgan

sion that had never been there before hope.

Just then Owen came in, whistling, a tune Iris knew in even this short time meant a few minutes of stolen heaven with Sigrid; it was a Norwegian folksong, his unconscious Sigrid-motiv Camilla, poor girl, could not know. Iris saw her hands tremble saw her turn eagerly. She was at her worst with Owen.

He greeted her with that slow kindness which he gave everyone and cast a look at his sister which meant "get rid of her."

So presently poor Camilla went,
eager, hurt to the last moment.

"Don't forget about the poetry," Iris said. It seemed all the comfort she could give her. Camilla squeezed her hand gratefully, and was gone.

"Gosh!" said Owen, with a man's hardness, dropping on a chair.
"Thanks for getting her out, Iris.
You're a swell girl." He reached for a cigar. "Any designs I make for the Camel are well-earned money, believe it or not."

"Oh, Owen! She's mad about you.
And she is a real poet, I believe.
She showed me some of her poetry."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
gators to dig up stickier dirt on the $200-a-month promoters. They're afraid that Lawyer Sullivan may be too easy-going and methodical for the kind of an inquiry the politicians want.

The first few days' examinations were a flop from the standpoint of beleaguering candidates for reelection. Chairmen have complained to Chairman Bell that he won't hold the headlines unless he turns on the heat. The investigation produced no more color or fireworks than an amateur's church play. The caucus room isn't even equipped with a sounding board so that the few score spectators and reporters can hear R. E. Clements' testimony about fat salaries, rakishness and collections.

Mr. Bell promised sensations, however. After the first disappointment, the show was taken off the boards so that committee sleuths could present a more impressive picture of getting rich quick off the old folks. The inquiry's sponsors are concerned over personal politics, not Townsend economies.

JUICY: Normally unruffled AAA-ers are jittery over Senator Van-denberg's demand for publication of the names of payment beneficiaries.
The Wallacers insist they have a sound case technically, but realize it may look bad politically.

Simple mathematics shows that 1 cotton grower removes 15,000 acres from production at an average benefit payment of $15 an acre, he will draw down $225,000. But the public hasn't dreamed that Uncle Sam paid such high rewards for the plough-under policy. The prevailing impression is that the AAA aided distressed farmers by doling out from $400 to $1000 a year to individuals. So Vandenberg's move may dramatize the whole issue of "scarcity."

It may also spring some unwanted surprises. Preliminary studies reveal that heavy subsidies went to Texas while Republican territory, not to Democratic cotton states. Many anti-New Dealers who denounced AAA vocally will be disclosed as having pocketed the checks cheerfully.

SHIFT: Wealthy Republican contributors have left influential friends know that they will padlock their political pocketbooks unless G. O. P. warriors on Capitol Hill and in the national committee exhibit more fight against FDR. The ultimatum accounts for the sudden publicity spurt in the House and among the Fitcherites.

Republicans have abandoned hope that their Senators will combat the administration's program. Except for Senator Vandenberg. It's the Democrats who are offering all criticism in that body. In the lower chamber Messrs. Snell, Taber, Bacon and Wadsworth—all New Yorkers—have shouldered the burden of what attack there has been.
Mr. Fletcher has reopened fire after a silence due to a shift in his publicity and research forces.

Unless the national G. O. P.—ers

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN
SILLY: A number of conservative
New Yorkers are getting annoyed with the duPonts for their quaint ideas about public relations. The Wilmington brothers are privately charged with responsibility for Alfred Sloan's faux pas when he blasted the New Deal for retarding recovery in the midst of a report to General Motors stockholders which featured an enormous increase in earnings.

An outstanding financial leader puts it: "Those fellows persist in playing down Roosevelt's alloy. First they spotlight Al Smith in a way that advertised the Liberty League in letters a mile high as representing nothing but concentrated wealth. They got such a kickback from that that the League has virtually had to go out of business."

"Apparently that didn't teach them anything. This Sloan business is just as dumb. Business has a perfectly good case against the New Deal, but we'll never get it across to the voters that way. I wish the duPonts would hire a good public relations adviser who could tell them how to express their indignation without making themselves—
and us—look silly."

DELAY: The long deferred announcement on the plan to tax corporate surpluses will soon be going strong.
The voices will be those of the U.
S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers. The hands will be those of large stockholders with wide corporate interests who would be especially hard hit by the tax. The big bank—which will not themselves be affected by the levy—are also beginning to chip in their nickel's worth of criticism on similar inspiration.

Success will be laid on the burden
the tax would impose on small corporations and those that are still struggling to get out of debt. The reflex principle of punishing judicial corporate management will also be featured. Little if anything will be said about the woes of wealthy individuals who are chiefly concerned.

The delay in the attack traces to
(a) the need to create and catch with fire those who will carry on the fight in public and (b) the desire to conserve ammunition with the House subcommittee gave them a specific target to shoot at.

NEVER: The Supreme Court's refusal to review the Bureau case—which went against the government in the lower courts—practically guarantees that there will be no high court rubin on the constitutionality of the holding company act before October, 1937. The Electric Bond and Share case—picked up by the Securities Exchange Commission as the ideal test from its viewpoint—will be at least that long en route undoing by the obvious intention of government lawyers to kill as much of the reasonable can Meowles they evidently plan to default on other test suits in the lower courts to prevent their reaching the Supreme Court on appeal ahead of the chaos exhibit.

The best-posted New York utility and legal sources now go so far as to predict that there will never be ly encouraged by recent European developments. Consumption of the red metal tops 1929 in England and Germany and is almost as high in France. War preparations of course account for part of this demand but —surprisingly—are not the main factor in it.

The point is that European nations are only now developing electric power facilities to the degree we reached twenty-five years ago.
Transmission lines are being rapidly expanded and production plants hooked up with each other for greater efficiency. This has meant stringing many hundreds of miles of new wire. Both industrial and domestic use of electricity have taken a big jump.

FARM AGENCY HELPING MANY

Numerous Loans Being Made to Farm Families in N. C.

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 2.—Approximately 750 farm loans per week are being made to families eligible for rehabilitation under the rural rehabilitation activities of the Resettlement Administration, Vance E. Swift, state director in charge of this work announced today. Loans totaling approximately $1,000,000 have already been advanced to farm families; to finance spring planting of crops, and additional loans are being approved every day, Swift said.

Before any farm family can get a rehabilitation loan, it must voluntarily agree to follow approved farm and home management plans worked out by the county rural rehabilitation supervisor in cooperation with the county farm agent. Plans for food and feed, including a garden to help provide food for the family, are among the requirements which must be met.

"These loans are extended to distressed farm families for such things as seed, livestock, fertilizer, farm equipment and other supplies needed for making a crop," Swift said. "From one to five years are allowed for the repayment of the loans. A longer term is allowed for the repayment of loans for mules and equipment than for other items. This makes it possible for the farmers aided by the rural rehabilitation division to re-establish themselves without being forced to sell their food and feed crops at the end of the first year to pay their debts, as was the case under the old system under which the small farmers had to give crop liens to the time merchants for their seed and supplies."

"Under the rehabilitation plan, the farmer gets the cash from the loan, then buys his supplies at cash instead of time prices from any merchant he wants to trade with."

The families which may get these loans are selected by the voluntary county advisory committees, who have practical knowledge of local conditions. These committees not only pass on the need of the families, but the character and willingness to work as well, Swift pointed out.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — Administration leaders in the senate displayed about as speedy footwork seen during the present session of congress on the Davis resolution calling for an investigation of WPA.

The committee on expenditures in the executive departments has the final say as to just how drastic the proposed investigation will be. Senator Lewis of Illinois is chairman. Democratic whip of the senate, he nevertheless has put himself on record as favoring the Davis resolution.

Apparently other members of the senate high command entertain different views. At least, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, suddenly awoke to the fact that the committee on expenditures in the executive departments was due to an oversight on his part, shv two Democrats.

The Davis resolution previously had been approved by Lewis' committee four to nothing, reported 't out and placed it squarely on Vice President Garner's desk.

Report Recalled.
Robinson moved quickly. He hurried to the desks of Key Pittman of Nevada, president pro tem of the senate, and Alben Barkley of Kentucky, Robinson's chief aide with suggestions that they accept assignments on the committee.

They did.
There was nothing left for Lewis as chairman of the committee, to do but withdraw the report. He said for the record that in view of the additions to the committee membership he would do so and seek consideration again by the committee.

An Orthodox Probe.
That there will be action on the Davis resolution no one doubts. Robinson's move in filling in the two Democratic vacancies on the committee means, however, that any investigation of WPA will proceed along orthodox lines.

The presence of Pittman and Barkley renders it virtually certain there will from now on be nothing like a unanimous vote such as that which prevailed before, without sanction of administration leaders.

There's a further check on the proposed investigation. Whatever recommendations are made by the committee on expenditures in the executive departments for looking into WPA must be reviewed by the senate's committee on audit and control of contingent expenses. That's where the money must come from.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina is chairman of that committee and there's little doubt as to how he would view such a situation.

Washington (AP)—Officials of the American Federation of Labor from President Green down the line, have inaugurated plans designed to revive interest among labor unions in organization of cooperatives.

Failure has dogged the heels of the unions repeatedly in their past efforts in this direction. Cooperative undertakings — both for producers and consumers have met with very little success.

Two recent developments, however, have encouraged labor officials to experiment again.

The first is the department of agriculture's active interest in encouraging organization of farmer cooperatives to eliminate expenses in buying and selling. The A. F. of L. has received assurance from the department that consumers' cooperatives of workers can count upon its assistance in developing contacts with farmers.

The second is that the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor has completed a study of organization and management of cooperatives, including a suggested constitution and by-laws.

Idea Works in Europe

With these two aids immediately at hand, labor officials think the time is ripe to attempt experiments again. In Great Britain, Ireland, Denmark, Sweden, Russia and Belgium the idea has proved generally successful, and the principles and methods, tested by experience in those countries, are believed by labor leaders here to be safe guides.

"Cooperatives are not an automatic method of solving problems," says President Green of the A. F. of L. "They require management, devotion and time, for accounts must be balanced in cooperatives as well as in any other enterprise."

Producers Also Involved

Labor leaders explain that under cooperatives the interest on capital is limited. No financial group or wealthy individual is permitted a controlling interest. They are not for the purpose of making money, but to distribute goods economically.

Retail cooperatives, they point out, become increasingly effective as the cooperative principle is carried back to the wholesaler and then to the producers. The objective is to give to consumers in the form of better goods, service and prices, that which now constitutes profits in business.

"Cooperatives should be entered upon," says Green, "with the definite understanding they promise help in satisfactory living."

Probably no subject before congress has more amusing and bewildering aspects than the attempt to do something about the lobbyists.

The whole situation is one of paradoxes and automobiles. Every member of congress has a pretty good idea what a lobbyist is, yet the most astonishing intricacies arise when anyone tries to put a definition down on paper.

It does not suffice simply to follow the dictionary, and say that lobbying consists in trying to influence legislation.

That would make a lobbyist out of every president of the United States, who is required by the constitution to "recommend to their (congress) consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

It also would make lobbyists out of all groups and individuals who seek to exercise the constitutional right of petition. If a stigma were put upon that sort of activity, the tendency certainly would be to destroy one of the primary tenets of Democratic government.

Legislators Also 'Lobby'

Neither does it help to say that a lobbyist is one who brings unusual or extra-legal political or other pressure to bear to influence legislation.

The strongest pressure most members of congress ever encounter comes from patronage-controlling administrations and political organizations. A great deal of such pressure comes from members themselves, who seek to crack the party whip or make "log-rolling" agreements with their colleagues.

Congress hardly could be expected to pass a statute making lobbyists out of its own members, and no party in power ever will make a law casting discredit on the numerous legislative agents of its own administration.

Consequently, an effort has been made to narrow the field. The bill passed by the house is aimed at "those who accept employment . . . to influence legislation," and at organizations "the principal purpose of which" is to influence legislation.

Too Much For Congress

Finally, what about the political consequences of formally branding as lobbyists the representatives of such organizations as the American Federation of Labor, the Farm Bureau Federation, or the American Legion?

The job of figuring it all out appears a little too much for congressional minds. Some bill may be passed, having the effect of a political gesture, but the feeling is widespread that lobbying will continue, regardless, and much after the well-established custom of these many years.

COURT RULING UPHOLDS LEVY

United States Supreme Court Decision Effective

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 1.—The winning of the Norfolk and Western tax case before the U. S. Supreme Court by the State Department of Revenue not only means that the state will not have to refund some $200,000 in taxes to that railroad, but serves to establish the state's method of taxing railroads as sound and equitable removes for all time the danger of any further effort by any railroad to question the North Carolina laws taxing railroad earnings within North Carolina. Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell pointed out today.

He paid high tribute to the work done by Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell who argued the case for the Department of Revenue before the U. S. Supreme Court several weeks ago.

Since 1927 the Norfolk & Western has paid the taxes levied by North Carolina on the portion of business done by its lines in North Carolina under protest, on the grounds that the cost of operating these lines was more than the revenue from them and that hence it owed the state no taxes, Maxwell said. But the state contended that since the rates charged on these branch lines extending into North Carolina were higher than the rates charged on the main lines, the railroad earned some profit and assessed the taxes accordingly.

The railroad paid the taxes under protest and sued to recover them on the grounds that the cost of operating the lines into North Carolina was more than the revenue from them as computed by the formula for the entire system.

Commissioner Maxwell maintained that while the cost of operating these branch lines was admittedly higher, that the revenue was also higher, due to the higher rates charged, so that these higher rates should be taken into consideration in working out the net earnings, instead of the main line rates, which were much lower.

Maxwell's contention was proved when he obtained J. W. Roberts of Chicago, an expert railroad accountant, to make a study of the rates charged by the Norfolk & Western in North Carolina, and found that the earnings of the road in North Carolina were 59 per cent greater than was shown by the main line formula and that instead of losing money in North Carolina, the road was actually operating at a profit and hence should pay the taxes assessed.

The action of the U. S. Supreme court upholds the contention of Maxwell.

FEWER DEATHS ARE EXPECTED

Decrease in Automobile Accidents Expected for March

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 2.—A substantial decrease in the number of fatal and nonfatal automobile accidents in the state in March is expected by Captain Charles D. Farmer of the State Highway Patrol, in spite of the good weather which prevailed during most of the month, he said today. All of the accident reports have not yet been received and tabulated, but enough are in to show that the total will not be as high as last March, when 83 persons were killed in highway accidents.

"If the reduction in the number of accidents in March is as great as we now have reason to believe, it will show that the safety campaign which the newspapers and the state highway patrol have been waging together for the past several months, with the help of the new driver's license law, are really accomplishing results," Capt. Farmer said. "It will also remove the weather as a factor, since on the whole the weather was good for driving during March in most sections of the state."

Captain Farmer also points out that there are 35,285 more cars and trucks licensed now than in March, 1935, the total registration as of today being 416,372 while a year ago today the registration was 379,087. In addition, there are thousands more of out-of-state cars passing through North Carolina every day, most of these to and from Florida. But in spite of the larger number of vehicles and heavier traffic there are fewer accidents, the records show.

"There is no doubt about it—the drivers in North Carolina are driving more carefully than ever before, and are obeying the highway laws better," Capt. Farmer said. "And while the highway patrol has been doing fine work in educating drivers, I am convinced that the newspapers of the state have done more to bring about safer driving and make people more safety conscious than any other one thing. I am only hoping that with conditions getting better, the newspapers will not let up in their safety drives. For if they do, we will soon slip back and have just as many accidents as before."

SING PRAISES OF 'NEW DEAL'

Bankers of State Experienced Prosperous Period

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 2.—The bankers of North Carolina should have no cause to complain about the "New Deal" since the net profits in 1935 amounted to $2,665,322 as compared with net profits of $1,771,497 in 1934 and a net loss in 1933 of $663,608 and a loss of $475,686 in 1932, according to a statement issued today by Commissioner of Banks Gurney P. Hood.

The net profits of the commercial banks in North Carolina in 1935 amounted to $2,665,322, in 1934 to $1,771,497, but amounted to only $50,539 in 1932, before the "New Deal" came into office, in Washington, Hood pointed out. The entire amount of losses charged by both commercial and industrial banks in North Carolina from 1932 through 1935 amounted to $9,411,068, but all of this accumulated prior to March 4, 1933, the statement said.

"On account of conditions which existed prior to March 4, 1933, the commercial banks showed large losses in 1932 and 1933, but good profits in 1934 and 1935," the statement continues. "On account of the same conditions, the industrial banks showed a very small profit for the years 1932, 1933 and 1934, but their profits in 1935 were very good."

"The commercial banks made a profit of 10.2 per cent in 1934 on their entire capital, surplus and undivided profits and a profit of 10.4 per cent in 1935. After charging off losses and taking credit for recoveries and profits on sales, their net earnings in 1934 were 6.5 per cent, but 8.7 per cent in 1935."

"The net operating profits of industrial banks in 1935 on their entire capital, surplus and undivided profits amounted to 12.3 per cent and in 1934 these profits amounted to 6.4 per cent. After charging off losses, taking credit for recoveries and profits on sales and providing for dividends on preferred stock, the percentage of net earnings amounted to 18.3 per cent in 1935 and to 2.1 per cent in 1934."

STATE SCHOOL SESSION LONG

Only Two States in South Have Longer Terms Than N.C.

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 2.—Only two states in the south have an average school term that is longer than the North Carolina school term, these two being Virginia and Florida, Lloyd E. Griffin, executive secretary of the State School Commission, pointed out today.

Virginia has a school term of 170 days and Florida of 164, days as compared with the North Carolina average of 160 days, Griffin pointed out, based on the figures available for the 1934-35 school year, no figures are available whatever on the average length of the school term in Maryland, Mississippi and Missouri.

The average length of the school term in the following states for the 1934-35 school years, is as follows: North Carolina, 160 days; South Carolina, 147 days; Tennessee, 143 days; Virginia, 170 days; Florida, 164 days; Georgia, 136 days; Louisiana, 159 days; Alabama, 152 days and Kentucky, 152 days.

"The only reason the average school term length in Virginia and Florida exceeds that in North Carolina, is because a larger portion of the population is concentrated in the larger cities in Virginia and Florida, where a longer school term prevails," Griffin said. "But if the larger cities were eliminated, the school terms in both Florida and Virginia would be found to be considerably shorter than in North Carolina, which is the only state in the south having a minimum term of 160 days for the rural schools."

"It is a fact, of course, that when North Carolina adopted the state-wide eight months school term in 1923, that this worked a hardship on some of the larger cities and towns which up to that time had had a nine months school term. But more and more of these cities and towns are now voting supplemental taxes for a ninth month, so that by next year most of these should again have the larger term, thus increasing the average for the state beyond the present 160 days. In addition, there are some 200,000 more children in eight months schools now than prior to 1923, so on the whole North Carolina is really far ahead of the other southern states, especially its rural schools."

Blount's QUALITY SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

Thousands of Eastern Carolina farmers have found that quality speaks for itself. "All the world will beat a path to the door of the fellow who makes a better mousetrap" is true of the man who makes a better fertilizer. In three short years Blount's Fertilizers have become the accepted standard for fertilizer value in this section. Heartily endorsed by prominent growers everywhere, Blount's Fertilizers consistently produce maximum yields and top prices. Their quality speaks for itself!

November 20, 1935.

I have used and handled many brands of fertilizers and for the past few years I have used only Blount's. It is my opinion and the opinion of my customers, that these are the best. I have used and sold them again this season. I have matched these extreme seasons and I am satisfied that they are as good as can be made.

H. E. STALLINGS,
Pilot, N. C.

November 30, 1935.

I have been farming all my life and I have used all the leading brands of fertilizer on the market, but I must say that I have never used anything but the Blount Fertilizers manufactured in Greenville, N. C. I expect to use them again in 1936 and I cheerfully recommend them to all my farmer friends.

The tobacco grown with Blount's averaged more money per acre than any of that I grew with other brands last season.

"MY TENANTS SAY THEY DO NOT WANT ANYTHING ELSE BUT BLOUNT'S"

November 30, 1935.

I used Blount's Fertilizers under a part of my tobacco crop during the season 1935 and made a better quality and more pounds of tobacco than I did with any other brand. I expect to use the same fertilizers again in 1936. My tenants say they do not want to use anything else and I do not believe there is a better fertilizer made.

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, April 3.—The State-wide radio speech delivered last night by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald from Winston-Salem, in which he attempted for the first time to tell where and how he expects to get the $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 in new tax revenue which is generally agreed will be necessary to put his program into effect, is being alternately praised and cursed here today. Most of McDonald's supporters regard the speech as a masterpiece and has already won him thousands of additional votes, because of the vigorous manner in which he denounced the Democratic "machine", the corporations, the lobbyists, the present and past Democratic administrations and because of his promises to kick out all present appointive state officials, to abolish useless offices, to "restore" the public schools to the people, cut the price of automobile license tags to $5 and lower power rates.

The McDonald supporters are also delighted at the manner in which Dr. McDonald pledged his support and that of the State Government, if he is nominated, to President Roosevelt, the "New Deal", old age pensions, unemployment insurance and the "New Deal" farm program, although Dr. McDonald did not mention the fact that under the "New Deal" tax program, some 65 different forms of sales tax have been enacted by Congress.

Nor did McDonald say how he expects to get the $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 needed to put the old age benefits, unemployment insurance and other "New Deal" proposals into effect. Dr. McDonald further promised a "square deal" for labor, to lower the interest rates on state and local bonded indebtedness and that he would favor "honest" audits of all state funds, including those handled by the State School Commission, the Department of Revenue, and the State Highway and Public Works Commission, although these funds are constantly audited by their own auditors, by the Budget Bureau and the State Auditor. Some regard this as nothing more than a thinly veiled charge that the heads of all these state agencies, as well as the Budget Bureau and the State Auditor, are dishonest.

The opponents of McDonald, especially the campaign managers of Clyde R. Hoey and Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham, the other two leading candidates, are withholding any comment on the McDonald speech today, awaiting the reaction. They had nothing to say, when asked for a statement, although it is expected that it will be answered in several different ways later on.

Some of the followers of both Hoey and Graham frankly admit that the speech will make a very strong appeal to a certain class, especially those who have believed for years and still believe that all state officials are crooks, that everyone connected with the State government is dishonest and that all pro-Democratic administrations have been dominated by wealthy corporations.

But among those who know the facts, who have followed the history of the state government for the past 30 years and who are familiar with its tax system, the McDonald speech is not going to create much of an impression, it is maintained. Those who have been reading and analyzing the speech carefully today, after listening to it last night, agree that while it is one of the most masterful appeals to the prejudices of the masses ever delivered in a political campaign, and hence a very skillful address from McDonald's standpoint, that it has two very outstanding weaknesses, as follows:

1. It promises too much.
2. It fails to point out any definite manner where McDonald expects to get the $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 a year in new revenue needed to put his program into effect.

For while Dr. McDonald mentioned several sources of new revenue, he did not mention the type of tax he expects to levy or the approximate amount of revenue he expects to get from these sources. Several of these plans he proposed during the 1935 general assembly, when a member of the house, and not a single one of them was adopted, after months of careful analysis and study.

Film Tree Man Reads Script, Makes Foliage

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, April 3.—Rudy Bylek can make a good imitation of the trees that only God can make. Rudy would rather have the real thing on the movie sets he decorates with shrubbery, flowers and trees. He sends for real trees, up on snow-mantled mountain peaks, cut of tropical islands. If he can do so within his budget. If he can't, he studies the script and the art director's plans and makes substitutes that will pass close-up camera inspection.

Bylek is an Austrian-born student of botany. He uses to make films in Hollywood. Ten years ago his vision failed and he had to quit. He loved trees and flowers and he turned to them for a livelihood. They have repaid him well. He sees again, perfectly, and he is in charge of the nursery on Twentieth Century-Fox's landscaped acres.

Palms Made To Order
He is resourceful. From plaster and wire and wooden frame-work he creates in Hollywood palms to be planted on the desert location for "Under Two Flags." The palms are North African, unlike local varieties.

He makes blossoming apple trees on the framework of orange trees. He shapes wild cherry into trim bay trees, imports real birch bark and the bark of coconut palms.

But his real pride is in the trees that grow. He had crews go to the big snows for white birch, white cedar, quaking aspens and silver-tip firs for "White Fang." He collects desert plants, keeps them alive, uses them over and over in films.

A Film Veteran
He has a yucca, now 30 feet tall, that began its film career in "In Old Arizona" in 1928 as a four-foot fledgling. It has "played" in 13 films since. His special "pet" is a Strelitzia or "bird of paradise" imported from Hawaii and often used in hacienda settings.

Annual Music Contest Here Saturday A. M.

The annual District Music Contest for the counties in this area will be held tomorrow morning beginning at 9:30 in the Greenville High School auditorium.

Contestants from Washington, Wilson, Farmville, Roper, Plymouth, Robertsonville, Greenville and other communities will be here. There will be contests in piano, bands, orchestras, brass ensembles, other instrumental solos, vocal solos, duets, trios, quartets and chorus groups. This contest is always a most interesting day for the boys and girls. The Greenville High School has been successful in past years in these district contests and again is looking forward to a big day.

The judge for the contest is Miss Eugenia Thomas of the faculty of the East Carolina Teachers College. The general public is not only invited but urged to attend the contest. Here is no admission charge. Supt. Julius H. Rose is chairman of this district and will preside over the contest.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

CHARLES MICHELSON

(By The Associated Press)
Charles Michelson, a slightly stooped man whose typewriter all but smokes when he writes of Republicans, has a bigger part in the political show than his title might indicate.

Many a campaign speech rolled off sonorously by a high ranking party leader may be written by Michelson, the Democratic press agent. In addition, it will be up to him to keep the "handouts"—articles that in effect will "point with pride" to the administration's record and "view with dismay" the opposition's ideas—pouring out in an ever-widening stream.

For to this veteran writer, credited with playing an important part in Herbert Hoover's defeat, is entrusted a heavy share of the efforts to get the Democrats the "best press" possible.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 3.—(AP)—Moderate irregular price movements were the rule in today's stock market.
With the European picture a bit spottier, week-end profit taking made its appearance after a steady to firm opening. At the same time domestic trade issues brought buying in selected issues. The trading pace was comparatively slow.
The late tone was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,750,000 shares.

these people should make you happy that even in the midst of so many activities you were willing to serve as chairman of the drive, or obtain aid for these people whose sufferings are beyond description. Everywhere there is utmost praise for what the Red Cross organization is doing for the flood sufferers in the Ohio Valley; and I take it the same is true generally. The Red Cross has seen to it that food is provided, blankets and bedding made available, and that people are able to re-establish themselves in their homes.
As you read this please remember that this is not publicity put out by either the Red Cross or the local committee—this is a quotation from a personal letter which the writer had no idea would be published. Have you sent in your contribution? If not, Why not? Drop in at the Reflector office today or, if this is inconvenient, call Mr. Ryan at 545, leave your name and address and he will call or send for your gift. This need is imperative and must be met. If other organizations will follow the lead of the Kiwanis Club and the Ministerial Association our adjusted goal of $1000 will soon be met.
