Pittsburgh from New

in Pennsylvania

Uniontown, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—Ten persons were killed today in the crash of a giant transcontinental and western transport plane against a mountain side near this coal mining town in Southwest Pennsylvania.

The plane carried 10 passengers, two pilots and a hostess.

Miss N. H. Ganger, the hostess, telephoned her officials in New York she and two passengers survived.

Every available ambulance was rushed to the scene from this coal mining town, situated about 40 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

The plane was en route from New York to Pittsburgh. Searching planes had taken off from the Pittsburgh airport after it was reported four hours over due.

State police said a WPA worker found the giant ship crumpled on the ground.

A. B. Saylor of the staff of Uniontown hospital, said ambulances were en route from the scene of the crash bringing the dead and injured.

'High School Day'
Will Be Observed
At Local College

Invitations Sent to Seniors of More Than Three Hundred High Schools in North Carolina

Invitations to be guests of the college at a "High School Day" on Tuesday, April 21, went out today from East Carolina Teachers College to the seniors of more than three hundred high schools in Eastern North Carolina.

The day has for its purpose the desire to interest a greater number of high school graduates in a college career in some institution of higher learning.

Both the serious and the lighter sides of campus life will be shown.

Visiting seniors will be given opportunity to accompany guides around the college grounds and through the most interesting buildings such as those housing the laboratories, the library and the class rooms, with work going on as usual; the power house, which furnishes both heat and light for the institution; the modern and sanitary laundry; and the great kitchen, and dining rooms, prepared to care for its hundreds of students. The girls will go through one of the women's

NEARLY 200 DIE AS TORNADO AND FIRE SWEEP GAINESVILLE

A tornado, with subsequent fires swept the business district of Gainesville, Ga., killing at least 183, injuring hundreds of others and devastating the downtown section. National Guardsmen, firemen, doctors and nurses were rushed to the stricken town to recover bodies and care for the injured. This graphic picture, taken by an Associated Press photographer from the top of the wrecked courthouse, shows a section of the demolished and charred business district as the storm subsided. Additional Disaster
Relief Funds

A message received by officials of the local chapter of the Red Cross today asked the Greenville organization to raise an additional $1,500 for the relief of flood and tornado sufferers.

The additional request makes a total of $2,500 the local chapter has been called on to contribute. The chapter was originally asked to raise $750. The figure was then boosted to $1,000 when it was discovered the suffering and damage was much more than had been expected.

The total raised to date has surpassed the $1,000 mark, today's contributions of $53.15 having boosted the total figure to $1,053.77.

The Greenville High school band, which was one of 15 that participated in a music festival in Raleigh Sunday, was the subject of much praise.

The local band was also scheduled to join the others in a parade and mass concert in Nash square, Raleigh, but the added attraction was called off because of threatening weather.

The Greenville High School band was in the group which received the highest praise from the audience of some 1,500 music lovers. H. A. McDougle is conductor of the local musicians.

Carolina Taking Lead
In Rural Electrification

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 6.—North Carolina is now leading every state in the United States in rural electrification before the Federal Rural Electrification Administration was even thought of in Washington. It was pointed out today by Chairman Dudley Bagley of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, in reply to the intimation by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald that this state was not cooperating with the "New Deal" in its rural electrification program.

At the present time more than 1,200 miles of rural electric lines have either been built, are now under construction in North Carolina since the N. C. Rural Electrification Authority was created by the 1935

Carolina Flood Waters
Do Big Damage To Crops

One Death Attributed to Heavy Rains of
Last Night, Today

(By Associated Press)

Carolina rivers, already out of their banks at some points, rose slowly toward flood crests today as small tributaries, swollen by a four inch rain disgorged their heavy loads.

Flood waters covered lowlands at many points, damaging spring crops and 21 highways in South Carolina and nine in Western North Carolina were closed.

The Southern Railway suspended service over several lines in South Carolina.

One death was attributed to the high waters. Betty Jo Mast, aged three, wandered from her home near Boone, N. C., and drowned in swollen Cove creek, ordinarily a small stream.

Little damage was done by the high waters, except to farm lands and highways. A creek overflowed its banks into some 200 negro homes at Charlotte yesterday, but quickly subsided. Cross creek left its banks at Fayetteville this morning and covered parts of Ray avenue and Mason streets there to a depth of two feet.

Although the rainfall in the Carolinas foothills the past 24 hours averaged about four inches, it was far greater at some points. Torrential rains accompanied a tornado which struck Anderson, S. C., yesterday killing one person, injuring 30 and causing extensive property damage. For the past six days the rainfall there was 11.16 inches.

At Charlotte 5.44 inches fell in 48 hours, two inches more than the normal rainfall for the entire month of April.

The streams in Eastern North Carolina, which have been flooded several times this year already, were expected to feel the full effect of the flood for a day or so yet, although they were rising today.

The Yadkin river was out of its banks from its source almost to its junction with the Pee Dee in South Carolina. Similarly the Catawba was at flood stage as far oceanward general assembly at the specific request of Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, and without a single penny of aid from the Federal government, Bagley said. The cost of these 1,200 miles of rural electrification lines will be in excess of $1,200,000 and will serve more than 6,700 rural customers.

In addition to the lines already built or under contract, the state authority within the last few days has approved the application of several rural membership corporations to secure loans from the Federal Rural Electrification Administration to build additional lines. So by the end of the present year Chairman Bagley thinks the chances are good to have approximately 2,000 miles of rural lines

"If it requires a special session of the Legislature in order that North Carolina meet all requirements for old age security and immediate protection of the tobacco grower, then I am heartily and unreservedly in favor of a special session," declared Clyde R. Hoey, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor who opened his Eastern North Carolina speaking campaign in the Pitt County court house Monday night.

3 More Candidates
File with State Board

Raleigh, April 7.—(AP)—Three more candidates for nominations in the Democratic primary, June 6, filed today with the State Board of Elections.

They were: Rep. John H. Kerr of the second district; Allison James of Winston-Salem, who is opposing Rep. Frank Hancock in the fifth district, and Paul D. Grady of Kenly, who is in the three-way race for the designation for Lieutenant-governor.

Dr. F. M. Davis, surgeon at the Pitt General hospital, suffered an injured knee last night when his car struck the rear-end of a truck parked on the Farmville road, near Ballards Cross Roads.

Dr. Davis was not seriously injured, but his condition will necessitate him being confined to the hospital for a few days.

Due to the heavy rains, Dr. Davis said he was unable to see a light on the truck, which had stopped to make some repairs. He drove his car into the rear of the machine. No one was riding with the local surgeon when the accident occurred.

Tupelo, Miss., April 7.—(AP)—Tornado-wrecked Tupelo prepared to bury almost 200 of its dead today as civilians and soldiers continued searching for more victims.

Almost 200 bodies had been identified and they lay stacked in several buildings as embalmers continued work started yesterday.

Hundreds more, injured when the tornado cut a path of destruction a mile wide and four miles long through the residential section, were treated in temporary shelters here and in nearby Mississippi and Tennessee hospitals.

Governor Hugh White estimated property damage at about $8,000,000.

Between 750 and 1,000 of the town's finest houses were leveled.

THREE POINTS
IN PROPOSALS

France Turns to Geneva with Peace Offers for Rhineland

(Copyright by Associated Press)

Paris, April 7.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin, ready to serve notice on Britain that she must join repressive action against Germany in the event of a "breakdown of negotiations," turned to Geneva today with France's proposals in the Rhineland crisis.

Official sources said the French regarded the March 19 London agreement of the Locarno powers providing for military aid in the event of a German attack and former assurances to "meet the new situation" as their trump card.

Flandin carried to Geneva a three point plan to meet the situation caused by German remilitarization of the Rhineland and simultaneous denunciation of the Locarno pact.

Informed sources said the program which Premier Albert Sarraut's cabinet approved yesterday and which Flandin intended to submit to the League of Nations' council, included:

1. A request to the other Locarno powers—Great Britain, Belgium and Italy—to seek action against the Reich under the league covenant.

2. A refusal to accept any fortifications of the Rhineland bordering on France and Belgium, which was demilitarized under the treaties of Versailles and Locarno.

3. An absolute rejection of Hitler's proposal for formulating negotiations of new separate peace pacts to be substituted for France's policy of a collective security system.

Graham Said Benefitted
By Address Of McDonald

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 7.—The candidate who has profited most from the state-wide radio speech made last week by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor is Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham, despite the fact that Dr. McDonald mentioned Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby much more frequently than Graham, according to reports as to the reaction from various sections of the state.

While the McDonald speech made a very strong appeal to that group of his followers concerned with the removal of the sales tax, the speech was a decided disappointment to those who had hoped McDonald would present a clear-cut, definite program for getting the new revenue needed to put his program into effect, comment heard the past few days indicates.

The result has been that those who had been for McDonald provided he could present a reasonable and workable plan for getting the $10,000,000 in new taxes needed to replace the sales tax and the $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 additional revenue needed to put the remainder of his program into effect, were not satisfied with the new taxes, he suggested in his speech, reports from various sections indicate.

Those who are deserting McDonald because of the inadequacy of his tax program, however, are going to stay.

TAR EXPECTED
DESERT BANKS

"Very Heavy" Floods
Predicted for Other
State Streams

B. T. Clark, in charge of the local weather bureau, said today the Tar river was rising rapidly, and predicted it would at least reach its flood stage of 14 feet.

Heavy rains last night and this morning will carry the stream out of its banks, it is predicted, but whether it would reach the more than 17 feet high mark of the season was not known.

Rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock this morning was stated by Mr. Clark to have amounted to 2.23 inches, with another big reading expected tomorrow morning.

The river was standing at 12.3 feet this morning but the water was reaching new high ground hourly.

As a result of the heavy rains last night and today many farms in this county were reported flooded and in several places the highways were under water. Tobacco plant beds were reported to have suffered heavily.

WARNINGS ARE ISSUED FOR
CAPE FEAR, NEUSE RIVERS

Raleigh, April 7.—(AP)—Lee A. Denson, in charge of the weather bureau here, today forecast "very heavy" floods for the Cape Fear and Neuse rivers in eastern North Carolina with floods in the Roanoke and Tar rivers also.

Depths the streams will reach were not figured definitely by Denson this morning as water from three to four inches of rain over the Piedmont and Upper Coastal regions yesterday and last night was still flowing into the streams.

"The Cape Fear at Fayetteville will go above 50 feet, maybe above 55 feet, by morning," Denson said. At 55 feet the stream would be 20 feet above its bank level.

Deaths followed the wind's destruction of the three-story plant and some 45 bodies, mostly those of women, were removed from the smoldering ruins yesterday. Anderson said, however, that of 125 workers who checked in yesterday morning, only three had been accounted for.

Brenau college escaped the storm's fury except for losing part of the roof and numerous windows. None of the women students was killed. Riverside military academy also is located on the outskirts of the city, but, too, escaped damage.

Ask Committee To

Group Asked to Meet at County
Agent's Office Wednesday Night
To Consider Farm Program

The county farm agent's office today sent letters to 42 Pitt county farmers advising them they had been appointed to serve as committeemen on the soil conservation and allotment program sign-up and requesting them to attend a meeting here Wednesday night.

E. F. Arnold, county agent, announced that the meeting would be held at 7:30 p. m. in the farm agent's offices for the purpose of going over the work to be done, and requested each member of the special committee to be present for the meeting.

A work sheet was included in each letter to the committee members and the farmers were asked to fill out the blanks for their respective farms and bring them to the meeting.

The new soil conservation program has been explained to farmers on various occasions, and the meeting Wednesday night is for the purpose of getting the plan started.

Push Drive Introduce
Purebred Hogs in Pitt

A drive for introducing more purebred hogs and chickens on negro farms in Pitt county has been pushed by Dr. D. Durfee, local colored farm agent of the State College extension service.

At the same time he is encouraging the colored farmers to raise more meat so they will have enough to supply their families throughout the year without having to "go to town to buy it."

To prevent disease, Durfee has been busy vaccinating young pigs and has planned to inoculate 75 hogs.

Uncle Sam Faces 'Dirty' Problem As Nation Moves To Conserve Soil

Much rich top soil wears thin if cultivated steadily, bringing a foot-deep layer of coarser, less fertile material to the surface. A deeper stratum of sandy clay lies below the intermediate material and above the basic rock. Map shows degree of erosion. Areas 1 and 2—maximum erosion by water; 3 and 4—generally not serious but bad locally in 3; 5—wind erosion, serious where soil cultivated; 6—much serious erosion with over-grazing a principal factor.

Washington, April 1.—(AP)—Soil is suddenly playing a stellar role in the nation's affairs. Soil must be conserved, says the federal government, and Congress writes a conservation program as substitute for AAA.

For more than 300 years Americans have planted and reaped much as they pleased. Soil always has been waiting for use. Won't it always be there? Don't we raise too much wheat now? If we do, why worry about soil?

Soil is not just land and it isn't always dirt. It isn't earth. It's a special kind of all three. It's that living surface layer which produces plants richly in any given area.

Layer On Layer
Soil has layers. If you could dig up a ten-foot slice from the backyard you could see the different colors. That top layer is almost always the richest one. It is actually alive. There is bacterial and chemical action in it which produces the food that plants need.

It is rock that has been ground to dust by wind and rain and then enriched by decaying vegetation. It is a happy composite that nature turns out after long slow work. It actually takes 400 years to produce an inch of it.

Left alone, Mother Nature would wash away about that amount every 400 years. So there would be a slow, well-balanced change of the surface which would leave this valuable thing called "soil" on top.

But 300 years ago the Mayflower landed at Plymouth Rock. It brought a busy tribe followed by more of their kind. They plowed and planted and their ancestors are still doing it. The wild, protective plants and grasses were cleared from the land. The soil lay exposed to wind and rain between the rows of cotton and corn. It never got a chance to absorb decaying vegetation and rebuild its own health.

Now, in some places—particularly in the great, red plains of Oklahoma—soil conservation experts have found that soil washes away at the rate of 25.4 tons an acre every year. At any rate, say the experts, Old King Cotton can't grow there in another 40 years. The earth cotton needs will literally wash out from under it. And that's "erosion."

Crop Rotation Urged
This is the way simplified book-keeping on the nation's soil supply stands today:

Total acres in the United States 1,902,000,000.
Total tillable acres 610,000,000.
Total acres which have been, or are planted in crops, 413,000,000.
Total acres affected by erosion, 300,000,000.

Not all the 300,000,000 acres affected by erosion are seriously damaged. But many of them are so damaged as to make the farmer's return from them hardly worth the labor. In other places erosion has gone so far that deserted barns and silos stick drearily up out of shifting mounds of sand. Dust storms of the last two summers have testified dramatically to the needs of the soil.

Government scientists, after research, say that crop rotation is the way out. It will give the land the natural rest which it needs. To that end government experts expect to enlist virtually all of the 3,000,000 farmers who enlisted in AAA.

SHORT SESSION
COUNTY COURT

Tom Worthington was convicted of being drunk on the public highway and was fined $25, the costs to be deducted, and had his driver's license revoked for six months. Heben disrupted by the invalidation appealed to Superior court and bond of the AAA. It is necessary that

State and Federal authorities cooperate as speedily as possible in preventing the return of low prices for tobacco and cotton, which would be ruinous.

The candidate reviewed the accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration and said:

"I supported Franklin Roosevelt for the nomination in the convention of 1932 and I made 45 speeches in behalf of his election. This year I again expect to campaign the state in his behalf and in behalf of all the nominees of the Democratic party, whoever they may be."

Despite the rain Mr. Hoey had an audience large enough to fill every seat on the main floor of the court room, inside as well as outside the rail, and a score or more in the balcony.

'HIGH SCHOOL DAY' WILL BE OBSERVED AT LOCAL COLLEGE

There will be given on this campus demonstrations of the many extra-mural activities which students take part in—archery, quoits, tennis, croquet, etc.

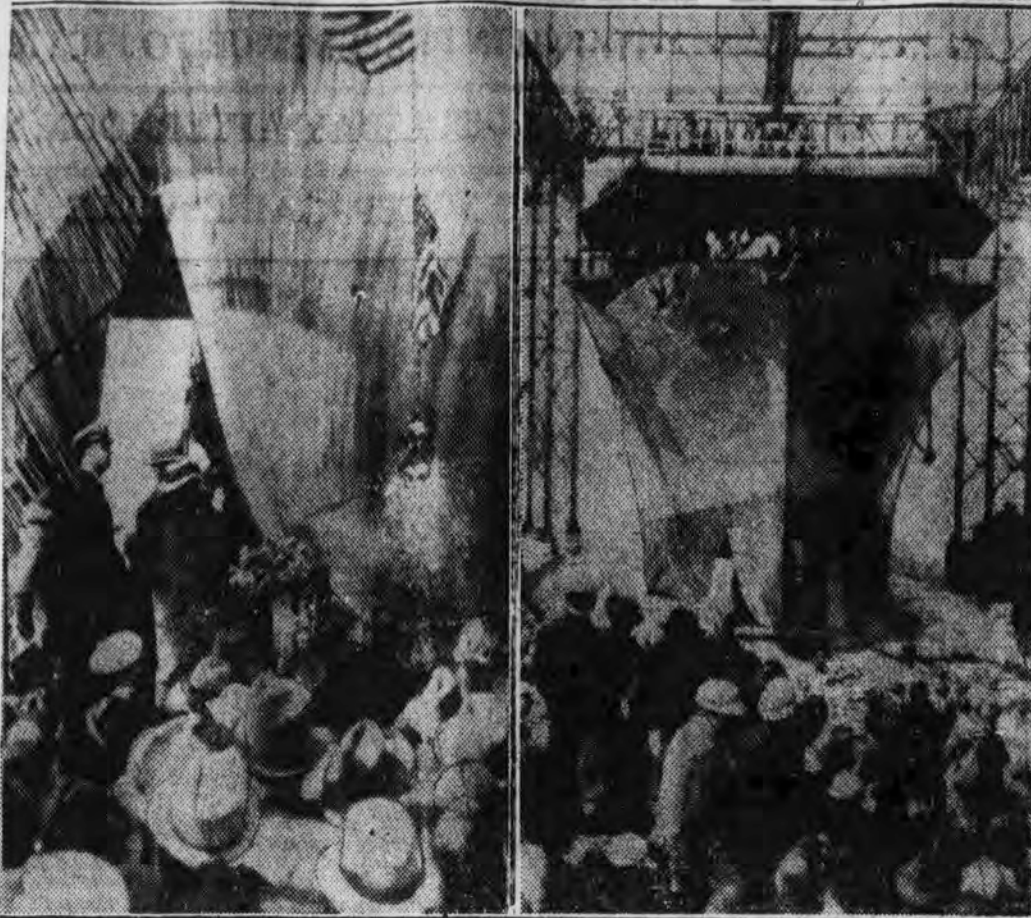

Visitors will also have a chance to talk with representatives of the various departments in which they may be interested, and to ask questions concerning work given.

Entertainment features of the day include a short program in the morning in the Robert H. Wright building, at which time President L. R. Meadows will welcome the high school visitors, their parents, principals, and superintendents; a baseball game with the Rocky Mount team of the Piedmont League will be played in the afternoon, and a good recent moving picture will be shown.

At one o'clock a barbecue dinner will be served on the back campus.

Preliminary letters sent out to county superintendents some time ago to inquire what the schools thought of the plan received such favorable response that definite arrangements are now being worked out to care for the great number of visitors expected on the campus for the occasion.

PEACE ACTION

Suppose the nations of the world should agree to renounce war, as a number have done—our own included—in the Kellogg-Briand Pact. Then how could they settle quarrels, if unable to resort to war?

The Locarno pact names several other ways of settling disputes which any nation could use.

One suggestion is that nations may settle disagreements by "friendly diplomacy," that is, by agreement reached by their own representatives.

If the quarrel is too heated for that, conciliation may be used. A Conciliation Commission, composed of one representative of each of the nations at odds and three impartial members, would investigate and make suggestions intended to bring the matter to agreement.

Years ago through the work of W. J. Bryan, the United States had conciliatory treaties with thirty nations. Their most important features were the arrangement for a permanent commission to investigate and report, and for a "cooling-off period" of twelve months before beginning hostilities.

A third substitute for war suggested by the "New Deal" is arbitration. In this case the dispute would be referred to an "arbitral tribunal" formed on lines laid down in the Hague Convention with Dr. McDonald, since the in 1907. The United States has re-speakers bureau of the National sorted in a number of cases, and Executive Committee has just in- has treaties with a few nations now, vited Governor Ehringhaus to go committing her to this method of to Atlanta, Ga., and make a rous- settling disputes with them; but in ing "New Deal" speech before the each case she destroys the force Democratic Women's Organization of the treaty by reserving the right there.

On step the American people can take toward really "renouncing war as an instrument of national policy" (as we agreed to do) is to urge more conciliation and arbitration treaties which agree to submit all disputes to some of these agencies for peaceful settlement. And every citizen can have a part in this.

AERIALIST. Vera Kinnis, star of "Jumbo," says: "Thanks to Camels, I get added enjoyment out of my food. I like Camel's milder flavor."

SPEED KING. The winner of the Indianapolis Classic, Kelly Petillo, says: "Camels hit the spot and go a long way in keeping my digestion in good shape."

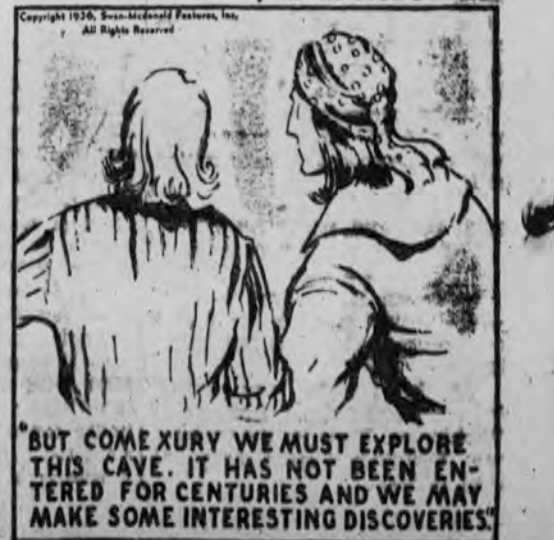

Science and everyday experience agree that Camels pleasantly promote good digestion

People in every walk of life get "keyed up." The constant hurry and mental strain—the worry and tension—tend to slow down the flow of digestive fluids. Camels act as a release from this strain on digestion. Scientific experiments definitely confirm the fact that smoking Camels promotes good digestion. Camels restore and increase the natural flow of the digestive fluids. Enjoy Camels... for digestion's sake... for their cheery "lift"... for supreme smoking pleasure. Camels set you right! They never tire your taste or get on your nerves.

TENNIS CHAMPION. Stamina depends on good digestion. Petite Mrs. Ethel Arnold, whose lightning speed carried her to fame, says: "I smoke Camels and enjoy food more."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Dr. Suhrie Speaks at College
The distinguished visitor and speaker from New York University, Dr. Ambrose L. Suhrie, made a profound impression yesterday upon the students and faculty of the College and the College, including students, faculty, and the president, made a fine impression upon him.

The quality of the student personnel in the teachers colleges in this section of the South is in calculable. He spoke of the seriousness of purpose and the courteous response that were very obvious in the student-body of the College.

The fine spirit of co-operation he found between the faculty and students impressed him. He spoke of his interest in seeing the splendid way in which Dr. Meadows had taken hold of administrative work when he had made his reputation in the past in the field of scholarship and as a teacher. One evidence of Dr. Meadows' fitness for his position he found in the fine spirit of co-operation existing between him and his staff, most of whom had been his fellow-teachers. In speaking of Dr. Meadows he said he felt that he was an "encourager of effort."

Dr. Suhrie spoke feelingly of his long friendship with Dr. Robert H. Wright and of his interesting association with him, especially at national conventions.

Problems of vital interest in teachers colleges were presented by Dr. Suhrie meeting with the faculty yesterday afternoon, and at the close questions were asked.

Senior-Normal Plays

Tonight for the twenty-sixth year, the Senior-Normal Class of East Carolina Teachers College will sponsor a dramatic entertainment for the public. Following the precedent of the classes for almost a decade, it will present three one-act plays. The plays to be presented tonight at eight o'clock, in the Austin Auditorium are "Agatha," "The Threshold," and "The Leap Year Bride."

This class made a big reputation in dramatics for the school during the fifteen years when their play was known as the "Senior Play," when the two year normal graduates were the only seniors and their play was the high spot of the year in entertainments. The Senior-Normal classes by their productions of one-act plays, have added another chapter to their part in the history of dramatics at E. C. T. C. and their reputation has increased.

BISHOP SPEAKS M. E. CHURCH

"Jesus invited the fishermen by Galilee to become fishers of men in which is revealed the supreme principle that the Kingdom of God has the high quality of transforming significance and elevating meaning. Fishermen thus could use their occupation of life and lift its level when the kingdom of God touches it," said Bishop William Fraser McDowell last night in the third of his series of seven sermons being given this week at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church at 7:30 each evening.

His theme was that God revealed to us through Christ for our benefit that the Kingdom of God is at hand and that we must adjust our minds to the fact. He got at this by investigating the text from the point of view of what Christ had in His mind when he said the text, how He looked; and how people looked and thought when they heard Christ's rather abstract statement that the Kingdom of God is at hand and must adjust your minds to it.

To unburden the conventional word "repent" of its present day connotation, Bishop McDowell by illustration showed how the word's true meaning had become lost in being conventionalized and hardened in doctrine and even confused with penitence. How Christ's inference in the word was different from the meaning of it we are brought up to give it.

"Christ did not say what we conventionally think when we use the word 'repent.' He did not say 'one would go to a warmer place if they did not repent.' His motive put another connotation upon the word. He meant one should change their attitude toward life, adjust ones mind to believing the good news that 'the Kingdom of God is at hand.'"

"The people thought this almost too good to be true that the Kingdom of God was at hand—discovered to them. People still feel that way when they are made aware of the fact. Christ tried to show us nothing was too good to be true he said by way of introduction to his theme of the evening.

"All the rest of the Gospel is comment on this text: the Kingdom of God is at hand, adjust your minds to that good news." And at this point the Bishop again emphasized that he is greatly concerned with the sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters of the mothers and fathers falling in love with and wanting the Kingdom of God. In his magnanimous way he insisted that he was not at all concerned to get any young people take his view but wants the young people to see it as it was in the mind of Christ.

With illuminating illustration Bishop McDowell brought out how valuable a virtue it is for people to be able to bear up under adversity but that there is compensation in it for those who can. But he indicated he felt strongly that there is no compensation in righteousness coming to town and people's taking no part in it.

The fact that the coming of the Kingdom of God was not discovered by man but was told to man by Christ was brought out. Men were told that it was about to take its place in the life of man. "It would be an unmitigated disaster if the Kingdom of God were to come and men have no part in it."

"Do not pin it up as something apart. It is real and a gift to us. Christ invited fishermen — makes gospel immortal to men—to become fishers of men.

"This is based on the supreme principle that the Kingdom of God has the high quality of transforming significance and elevating its meaning. These fishermen could use their occupation of life for the Kingdom of God and lift the level of their pursuits by being so touched."

At this point by parable — or story — the bishop brought out that in tending a furnace the motive made all the difference. He said it depended on whether one was just "shaking a furnace grate" or the higher nobler thing of "heating a home." "It makes a lot of difference whether one is performing a drudgery or a service.

"The coming of the Kingdom of God means the changing of the significance of a thousand experiences of life which but for the Kingdom of God would have no significance—Come be fishermen of men and I will use your skill for the Kingdom of God. This is the first note of the kingdom of God."

"Next Christ went into the synagogue and taught. What has this to do with the Kingdom of God? He taught with authority and with a sense of reality which the scribes did not.

"His going in to teach was the first step in the matter of making the mind of the world according to the mind of Christ and that is the most important thing in the world tonight. Meantime—he has revealed not we have discovered—we may think as Christ thought.

"The Kingdom of God means we shall stop all low, unworthy, petty, selfish thinking and go to thinking of life, men, other men than ourselves, of life as Christ thinks of it.

"Think how wonderful it would be to live in a world in which religion puts a different significance on things. Think of living in a world with people trying to make others think with Christ. We would get rid of all hateful ugly qualities that ruin their possessors.

"Think that we live in a world with a Man who can save you. Can take out the unclean spirit from you.

"Men were meant to men and not what they are when possessed by an unclean spirit.

"Identifying with Christ is identifying with the only man with a program for the world.

"The mind of the world is wrong, thinking wrong thoughts. The world is not thinking with Christ not trying to think with Him. We are in the midst of troublous days. We are going to see more. Unless we make enough of Jesus Christ, we are in a peril we do not dream of. If we do not line up with Him, God only knows what is going to happen to us—not despair but a challenge a dare." Bishop McDowell said in closing.

MORE FUNDS NEEDED

With additional floods, tornadoes and fires bringing widespread disasters to several sections of the country this county has been asked to increase its disaster relief fund to $2,500. Already around $1,000 has been raised for the Red Cross in this county, which leaves around $1,500 yet to be raised. There are still a lot of our people who have not responded to these pleas for relief funds and it is to be hoped that they will now come through with liberal contributions. The need is great, hundreds of persons have been killed, thousands injured and additional thousands are homeless. Our immediate section is fortunate that so far we have escaped such disasters and it is as little as we can do to give of our means to help relieve suffering in the stricken areas. Don't delay this matter any longer. Send in your contribution now.

DISTANT: Long-headed government economists puncture the administration's claim that industry and business are renegeing on re-employing workers.

Political and labor leaders continually point out that production has reached a 95 per cent level on the 1923-1925 basis. In some industries output has passed beyond even the 1929 peak. In view of such "recovery," they ask why it is that 12,000,000 people still stand at the factory gates, and why 20,000,000 people must be fed by federal relief funds. The question amounts to a pointed accusation of all employers.

But the non-political economists figure that production will have to reach an index figure of 130 before the present army of unemployed can be taken back to work. More than 6,000,000 "employables" have become applicants for jobs since the base years of 1923-1925. Even industries which have not installed labor-saving machinery have learned to save waste steps and motions, and to buck up their personnel. A worker performs more efficiently in times of depression than when another job can be obtained at the next-door factory. All these factors, in the experts' opinion, destroy the "statistical myth" that recovery is here—or even around the corner.

BORROWERS: Government agencies which lend money to individuals and corporations and cities—the HOLC, RFC, PHA and PWA—face the difficult decision of being tough of lenient with borrowers. The answer may determine whether billions loaned through these agencies will ever be repaid to Uncle Sam.

The question has arisen again and again in the last few months, especially in the HOLC. Individuals have pleaded hard times, unemployment and excessive charges as reasons for not paying interest or principal on their loans. Politicians have intervened on behalf of constituents, and the prospect of political interference in these transactions grows more menacing every day.

Settlement of the question will determine whether borrowers will regard a debt to Uncle Sam as sacred as a nobility to a private creditor, or whether they will mob-

Golden Rain by Margaret Wildemer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning has been taken out of her restricted but aristocratic surroundings in Persia, Pa., and flung into her Aunt's gloomy and artificial set in New York. Iris loves the gaiety and nonsense, now, quite surprisingly, she finds herself in the home of Mrs. Morgan, a rich New York socialite. It is a center of old and very important New York—and to Iris' surprise, it resembles Persia, Pa., more than it resembles Aunt Phina's set. But there are signs that the party is to warm up later.

Chapter 22 ROWDY GUESTS

"PLEASE talk to me," said Allan at that moment, abandoning Georgia to her treasure-trove.

Iris laughed at him. "About what, my lord? Art, literature, big game hunting, or what a darling grand mother you have? I could be particularly enthusiastic about that. Your grandmother's so like people at home she makes me want to spend the evening with her holding her hand."

He smiled. "Granny—Granny's a survivor of a past age. Everything she ever cared for is gone, except my mother and me, and I wasn't even the favorite grandson or my mother the favorite daughter, and Mother's usually in Europe. Granny doesn't like my ideas of life, you know. She likes 'em earnest-minded and civic."

"I wish I could depend on you, Allan."

They laughed together. "I do know, Uncle Will is awfully civic. If he elected a man out of an idiot asylum to be president or even governor, Uncle Will would be respectful and loyal till his term was up. They're rather wonderful, don't you think?"

"Yes—but it can't be an amusing life," said Allan. "Your brother, Irene, looks like the same sort of person. I hear he's a sort of American Captain Molyneux."

Iris hoped it wasn't indiscreet to tell him; he was so gentle and sympathetic. "Yes, that's part of the loyalty. He's designing, thinks it's effeminate. He's made himself an architect, studying nights, but he does this because Phina did so much for him, so many years. I think he's too loyal. I think people should practice the professions they want and marry the people they like, don't you?"

She leaned to him, unconsciously, glowing and sparkling over the simple words. He looked at her as if he were warming himself in her shining personality.

"I wonder if you know what an incredible zest for life you have, Iris, or how unusual it is. Promise me you won't let anybody turn it into synthetic pep and jazz. I need it too much the way it is." He laughed as he finished. "Be nice to Granny. If you pass (I am betraying Granny, but never mind), your aunt can have the Woodlands; if not, not. And as it's the only place to be leased in the whole of our rather watertight community—" He shrugged his shoulders.

Iris was aghast. "Why does it depend on me?"

"Granny has stern ideas about the class of tenants—sterner yet as to the manners of the young. The place is also rather sacred to her because it belonged to Aunt Louise and her son, my cousin, whom she shamelessly preferred to my mother and me, and who are both dead. Madame Phina is taking it only for your sake, as I understand."

"No, that's a mistake, I think," Iris shook her head.

He smiled. "I suppose you know the house's story. It belonged to my mother's sister's husband, an old-lize their political vote for reduction or outright cancellation. Right now some emergency heads are hard-boiled, some are disposed to be sympathetic. But all can danger signals ahead. A borrower's lobby would prove twice as formidable as the veterans' gang-up in favor of advance payment of the bonus."

SMOTHER: Selection of ex-governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois as keynote for the Republican convention connotes more than meets the eye. Mr. Lowden—although he has been out of public life for years—remains very popular with farm organizations. They haven't forgotten that he fought shoulder to shoulder with them for the McNary-Haugen bill when that was their pet.

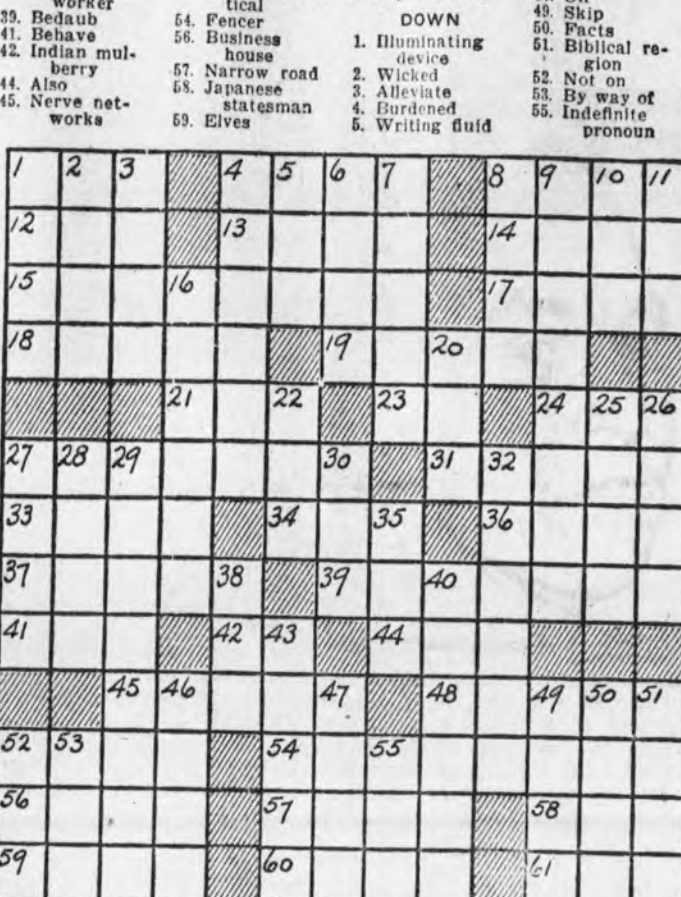

His designation is not a good omen for Lowden—although the Kansas pre-convention position this year has often been compared to Lowden's in 1920. Bringing him back to the limelight is bound to evoked a contrast in the minds of farm representatives between his record of consistent service to agriculture and Landon's rather sketchy accomplishments in that direction. A private canvass of farm group leaders reveals remarkably little Landon sentiment among those who should logically be his keenest supporters. They aren't hostile. They just don't feel he has done anything to merit their enthusiastic support.

There is good reason to believe the Lowden's convention prominence is part of a subtle campaign engineered by certain G. O. P. backstagers to smother Landon's chances with a minimum of ill feeling.

ACCEPTABLE: Here's another angle on Lowden. If the Cleveland convention degenerates into a Madison Square Garden dogfight, stranger things could happen than a sudden move to name the Illinois veteran as the only man behind whom the party can really unite.

A number of G. O. P. big timers are giving serious thought to Lowden. They will be no important boom for him before the convention to dull the edge of dramatic surprise. Nor will he be "drafted" if a simpler solution can be worked out. But past it in your hat that plans will be ready—if a bitter deadlock develops—to spring him with suitable fanfare as the one sure savior of the Republican party and the nation. Properly staged and timed, the act might easily stampede the convention.

It's true that Mr. Lowden is well along in years. That's a handicap—but not insuperable. The industrial east would approve him and he would have a powerful appeal to the all-important farm vote.

It's also understood that he would be acceptable in a pinch to both Hoover and Borah—a vital point in relation to campaign harmony. His prolonged political inactivity would be an asset rather than a liability, because he has not factional enemies. This possibility—take it from the highest New York sources—is worth watching.

CROWDED: The New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads are still beefing about that horrid Interstate Commerce Commission disunion lowering passenger fares to two cents a mile. But that's all you are going to have to pay despite their growls and threats.

This isn't because the Commission is being hard boiled about it. On the contrary, it is willing to accept a 2-1-2 cent compromise if the roads involved agree to it among themselves. The point is that Baltimore and Ohio won't. This road is keen to try the cheaper fare. Now that the Commission has sanctioned the reductions, no amount of cajolery or argument will stop it from putting them into effect.

And right there B. and O. has its neighbors by the ears. New York Central and Pennsy must follow suit no matter how it pains them. Otherwise their passenger traffic—especially on the key New York-Chicago run—will evaporate to their competitor. One B. and O. crowded them similarly to the curb—when it introduced air conditioning cars on through schedules. The others tried to get around the expense of doing likewise by blowing cold air through their cars before departure. It didn't work. Passengers shivered and—beginning shifting to B. and O. So Central and Pennsy had to make the agonizing outlay for air conditioning equipment. You can see why they have no love for Dan Willard. He just won't let well enough alone.

GRAHAM SAID BENEFITTED BY ADDRESS OF McDONALD

ing over to Graham rather than to Hoey, many of these same reports say, because they believe Graham is more liberal and progressive than Hoey and not so close to the present state administration. Some, of course, are flopping over the entire distance from McDonald to Hoey, it is agreed. But most observers are inclined to admit that a majority of those who are leaving the McDonald camp are going to Graham, since he is regarded as being the candidate who stands about half way between the ultra-liberalism of McDonald the old conservatism of Hoey. This movement from McDonald to Graham has also served to cause some defections from the Hoey ranks. It is maintained, especially among those who believe that McDonald is already stronger than Hoey and who have now reached the conclusion that Graham can come nearer defeating McDonald in a second primary than Hoey can.

Virtually all of the McDonald supporters and many of the Hoey backers are convinced that if the primary should be held this week, McDonald would be high man. Hoey second and Graham third, though most of the Hoey supporters maintain that by the time the primary is held Hoey will be in first place and McDonald or Graham in second place. But a majority of the Graham forces maintain that not only is McDonald in first place now but that he is likely to remain there until the date of the primary. They further maintain that in a second primary between McDonald and Hoey, more of the Graham support would go to McDonald than to Hoey, with the result that McDonald would win the nomination if Hoey even runs second.

So if the anti-McDonald forces are going to defeat McDonald in the second primary, they must center on Graham and give him sufficient support to enable him to run second in the first primary. It is maintained, since they are convinced that 99 per cent of the Hoey followers would vote for Graham rather than McDonald in a second primary. The Graham supporters maintain that this line of reasoning is already winning a very large number of Hoey followers into the Graham ranks and that by June 6 there will be no doubt that Graham will be in second place—which is all his managers expect or even want at the present time.

The majority of the Hoey supporters do not agree with this line of reasoning, however. They may admit that for the time being McDonald may be running neck and neck with Hoey, but not ahead of him. They are also convinced that Hoey is going to forge rapidly ahead of both McDonald and Graham, especially since he has decided to open up on McDonald and wage the same kind of fight that McDonald has been carrying against Hoey. They point out that Hoey's audiences the past week or so have been yelling and applauding their approval as he has waded into the Winston-Salem candidate with both fists and feet that by June the McDonald campaign balloon is going to be deflated to a mere bubble. They are convinced it cannot stand up under the withering barrage to which it will be subjected.

SPORT SLANTS

There was a time when the House of Hasset was divided. When Mother Hasset was strong for the New York Giants, Father Hasset was trying his best to root the Yankees into the American league championship.

But all that has been changed. The Hassetts are united, and one big happy family now. And all because Buddy Hasset is a member of the Brooklyn Dodgers with excellent prospects of being their regular first baseman. The Dodgers bought Buddy from Newark, the Yankees farm, when they sold their first baseman, Sam Leslie, back to the Giants. They gave up Ralph Boyle, Jack McCarthy and something like $5,000 in cash for the 24-year-old graduate of Manhattan college. But what of it? They picked up one of the best first basemen in the minors as well as two staunch supporters in his mother and father.

New York Sand-Letter
Hasset learned his baseball on the sand-lots of New York City. He played ball with the Manhattan Prep nine and was the star of the Jasper varsity when he moved on to Manhattan college.

Paul Kritchell, Yankee scout, spotted Buddy in his freshman year at college and kept close tab on him all through his college days. He was the property of the Yankees when he was graduated in 1933. With Wheeling, W. Va., of the Middle Atlantic league, Hasset hit .332 and with Norfolk he boosted the mark to .360.

When he moved on up to Newark of the International league, Buddy was optioned off to Columbus in the American association. He suffered a broken leg in mid-season last year but came back to play the last month of the season. He picked up where he had left off and finished the season with a batting average of .337.

He and Johnny Mize, the former Rochester player now with the St. Louis Cardinals, were ranked as the two best first basemen in the minor leagues.

An Irish Crooner
The Brooklyn clubhouse is sure to resound with the musical notes of Buddy's rich tenor voice. He is an inveterate show-bath singer, specializing in Irish ballads.

His vocal contributions at the recent dinner of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association had everyone asking who the handsome singer might be. He was Yankee property then—and the man slated to take Lou Gehrig's place at first base when the Iron Man finally showed up.

When Hasset was headed for Clearwater, Fla., to join the Dodgers in training he discovered on the train a young mother who was driven to near distraction because her baby would not stop crying and go to sleep. Buddy volunteered his services and in short order sang the youngster to sleep. So effective was his singing in producing the desired results that Buddy was called upon to repeat the act several times on the journey south.

Hasset is might happy to be with a club that offers him the opportunity to play regularly. The prospect of remaining on the Yankees' payroll and waiting for Lou Gehrig to run down did not appeal to Buddy. "I want action. The chances are that he will find plenty of it with Brooklyn."

Alabama Fights Auto Death Toll With First Aid

Montgomery, April 6.—(AP)—Attempting to curb mounting casualties and deaths from automobile accidents, the Alabama safety commission has begun establishing first aid stations at strategic points along the highways.

Usually, the filling stations, they are equipped by American Red Cross chapters and are designated by large signs reading: "First Aid Station, American Red Cross."

Each shelter so designated is equipped with a telephone to call professional aid, or an ambulance to remove the injured to a hospital where further treatment can be administered.

Plan Numerous Stations
Renee Tipton, state safety director, said a study was being made to determine areas where accidents are most frequent so that first aid stations may be located at these points. Six stations have been opened and it is planned to place more than a score in operation this year.

Frank R. Hoercher, Red Cross field director, is cooperating with Tipton in determining sites and is giving the necessary training to personnel. In addition every man on the state's highway patrol force is being given a course in first aid work.

Scheme Already Working
The value of such work recently was demonstrated when Patrolman John Bryant of Decatur administered first aid to Deputy Sheriff Edgar Blalock, whose throat was slashed by a negro, Bryant, a member of the escort, applied first aid and his physician said his knowledge probably saved the deputy sheriff's life.

Each man on the Alabama force carries a complete first aid kit in his motorcycle or car.

TO FORMULATE SOIL PROGRAM

Committee Charged With Task Given Responsibility

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 4.—Policies of the new soil improvement program in North Carolina will be formulated largely upon the recommendations of the state committee appointed by Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, Dean I. O. Schaub of State College announced today.

The members of committee were selected upon the recommendation of the agricultural extension service which has the final responsibility for administering the new program in this state. County and community committees will complete the organization and these committees will be charged with passing upon the compliance of individual landowners who apply for grants under the Federal act.

The personnel of the state committee was so selected as to give representation to the various regions of North Carolina and to the types of farming found in those regions. Its members are as follows:

L. H. McKay of Hendersonville, represents the mountain region. He also brings to the committee the viewpoint of the livestock, poultry and Irish potato growers. McKay is a young man with vigorous intellect and a successful farmer.

Tom Cornwell of Shelby, represents the southern piedmont region. He is well known as a successful cotton producer but he also represents the varied interest of farming as found in that region.

Flake Shaw of Summerfield, Guilford County, represents the northern piedmont region. He also is a dairy farmer and engaged in general agriculture.

T. B. Upchurch, Jr., of Raeford, represents the southern coastal plain region and the farmers growing cotton, tobacco and general crops in that area. Mr. Scott also knows the viewpoint of the tobacco warehousemen.

B. B. Everett of Palmyra, Halifax county, represents the upper coastal region with its varied agriculture including peanuts, cotton, tobacco and small crops.

Frank W. Hollowell of Elizabeth City, is probably the only newcomer to the official agricultural life of North Carolina. He represents the tidewater region and those who grow Irish potatoes, truck and general crops.

Though there are seven men on this State committee, government regulations only provide for a membership of five and for that reason, the membership will rotate in attendance at the regular or called meetings with five being present in an official capacity at each meeting. The full committee held its initial meeting last week in Dean Schaub's office at State College to acquaint itself with the program and to make preliminary recommendations.

to and from my wheel chair. We were married in 1922.

Mrs. Weightman recalled that in the next five years she made her husband five suits and two overcoats. But in 1922, she testified, he ordered her from their home.

"Once I went back," she said, "but he refused to admit me."

Evidence revealed Mrs. Weightman had been receiving $1 a day separate maintenance since 1924.

After hearing her story, Judge Sabbath gave Mrs. Weightman a divorce from Charles Weightman and restored her maiden name. Weightman signed over a $1,000 insurance policy in lieu of alimony.

Clyde Hoey and the latter addressed the club for a few moments, taking the opportunity to reaffirm his faith in America, asserting he was not one of the pessimists who think the best has been for our country but holds that our country has demonstrated the qualities which see to even greater things.

Other guests of the evening were Dr. Grady Dixon, Rotarian of Ayden; Dr. Paul Jones, Rotarian of Farmville; Snoddy Edwards, Rotarian of Ayden; Roy Campbell gave the attendance prize won by Lawrence Stroud. Dr. G. R. Combs announced with special emphasis the series of sermons Bishop McDowell is delivering at the Methodist Church this week. Bill Lee, club president, called attention to the Spring Flower Show from seven to eleven Wednesday night at the Greenville Floral Company which is operated by Rotarian Lebrun Spence.

DO GREAT DAMAGE TO CROPS

s its meeting with the Waterlee in South Carolina.

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS WARN OF FLOOD DANGERS IN SOUTH

Washington, April 7.—(AP)—A warning of grave flood danger was served on sections of the storm-torn south today as the American Red Cross counted 500 persons dead from tornadoes in that region and redoubled efforts to raise relief funds.

The weather bureau reported rivers in South Carolina were above flood stage and probably would reach the highest levels since the disastrous rampage of 1928. Floods in some section of North Carolina also were predicted. Officials said from three to four inches of rain had fallen in the last 24 hours over a narrow strip from Atlanta to Raleigh.

The Red Cross, estimating that 500 or more had been killed in southern territory this week and last, said 429 bodies already had been recovered. It reported also that 1,727 had been badly injured in the series of storms in six southern states, thousands injured less severely and 3,200 homes destroyed or badly damaged.

Striving to care for the victims of this disaster and preparing to aid in the flood threatened area the organization appealed to its chapters throughout the country to continue soliciting relief funds.

Each Puff Less Acid A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.
