Wise, N. C., April 14.—(AP)—Five young persons returning home from a dance were burned to death and one critically burned near here early today as their automobile crashed with a fruit truck and burst into flames.

The party of six was en route home to Palmer Springs, Va. The truck driver and his helper escaped death in the fire by jumping.

The identified dead as announced by Coroner J. W. Shearin:

J. P. Kimball, 24, of Palmer Springs.

George Newell, 21, of Palmer Springs.

Miss Margaret Willis of South Jacksonville, Fla., visiting in Palmer Springs.

Woodrow Tucker, of Palmer Springs.

Carr Tucker, of Palmer Springs.

Mrs. Woodrow Tucker and Newell were taken to a hospital at Henderson, suffering critical burns. Newell died there a few hours later and physicians said Mrs. Tucker was not expected to live.

The bodies, charred almost beyond recognition, were taken from the machine to Warrenton and prepared for burial.

Coroner Shearin said four bodies were left in the wreckage when the two persons remaining alive were removed and sent hurriedly to the Henderson hospital.

Coroner Shearin held an inquest later in the morning and said the wreck was caused by "careless driving of J. P. Kimball."

Albert Quilling of Orlando, Fla., the truck driver, suffered burns on one hand as he attempted to rescue those caught in the flames.

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—Legislation authorizing the reconstruction corporation to lend up to $50,000,000 for rehabilitation work in areas stricken by floods and other catastrophes in 1935 and 1936 was sent to the White House today by Congress.

The House agreed to a conference report on the measure which was approved yesterday by the Senate. The standing vote in the House was 85 for the report and 11 against.

The bill as it passed the House provided the aggregate of the loans should not exceed $25,000,000 but receded to the Senate amended which fixed the total at $50,000,000.

Rep. Goldsborough (D-Md.) of a House conference committee explained recent violent storms in the south made the increase necessary.

The entire morning session of Pitt County Superior court was taken up with the case of Claude Smith, charged with secret assault upon Luther Coward. Both are farmers of Swift Creek township and the case is being hotly contested.

The defendant is charged with shooting Mr. Coward.

Indications were the afternoon session would be devoted to the case and it also was possible part of tomorrow's session would be consumed with trial.

Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 14.—The McDonald campaign automobile continues to chug right along gathering momentum every day in spite of the almost frantic efforts of his opponents to stop it by scattering tacks, nails, broken glass and even mud in an effort to stop it, according to observers from many different sections of the state.

And while the McDonald campaign equipage at first resembled a Model T Ford of uncertain ancestry, it is now beginning to take on the appearance of a Packard or Rolls-Royce, giving every indication of being well supplied with campaign gasoline, otherwise known as maxims or money.

The addition of Timous T. Valentine of Nashville, as associate campaign manager for Dr. McDonald, to the headquarters staff of the former college professor, is regarded as another distinct gain for the McDonald forces. It is not making the managers of either Clyde R. Hoey or A. H. (Sandy) Graham stand up and cheer, since Valentine is conceded to be as able a political strategist as there is and to know eastern North Carolina politics as well as any one in the state.

It was Valentine as much as any one who succeeded in pushing the campaign of R. T. Fountain to its peak in 1932, in which Fountain was almost nominated in the second primary. It was likewise Valentine, as manager for Harold D. Cooley, who two years ago routed the supposedly unbeatable organization of George Ross Poy here in the Fourth Congressional District and succeeded in electing Cooley to Congress.

That the appointment of Valentine as associate manager of the campaign and as chief assistant to Campaign Manager W. L. Lumpkin is a distinct gain for the McDonald forces and a real wallop to both Hoey and Graham in the eastern counties, is generally conceded. For Valentine is not only regarded as an able political organizer with first-hand knowledge of conditions in most of the eastern counties, but also is admitted to be an expert money getter. For while the McDonald campaign now shows signs of having more money behind it than ever before—he has already signed contracts for 13 radio broadcasts to cost about $5,000 between now and June 6—the acquisition of Valentine is regarded as indicating that it will have still more campaign funds available. The belief is that McDonald can and will step on the gas of his campaign Packard from now on.

Texas recorded 1,823 deaths from automobile accidents in 1935, compared to 1,579 in 1934.

BALTIMORE TALKPresident Calls Upon Youth to Be "Social Pioneers" for Modern Society

Baltimore, April 14.—(AP)—Offering the suggestion that the active working years of every American bread-winner be limited to 47, President Roosevelt had placed before the nation today a broad outline of the New Deal position on the problem of unemployment.

Amid cheers of supporters, who had gathered for a democratic rally after an old tie torch light parade last night, Mr. Roosevelt called on youths to be "social pioneers" and help "bring under control" the forces of modern society.

Devoting most of his address to a discussion of continuing large scale unemployment, the President promised that it would be attacked "from every conceivable angle." But it was his suggestions for limits on the wage earner's life span that aroused much discussion and speculation today.

Mr. Roosevelt did not indicate whether the administration is planning specific proposals along these lines beyond the social security and other programs already enacted.

But he did indicate that the New Deal, in spite of the invalidation of NRA, still hopes to attain certain of that experiment's objectives. He said the government "must and will give consideration" to shorter hours, stability of employment and "adequate minimum wages."

Again he called on industry to "undertake reasonable reduction of hours of work per week while at the same time they keep the average individual pay envelope at least as large as it is today."

Street Causes Little Damage; No Less Monday's Fire

Fires yesterday and today did little damage, but the total loss suffered in the city so far this month is greater than that for any other month in some time.

A fire this morning at the home of Laura Edwards, negro on Roosevelt street, was caused by sparks falling on a shingle roof. Loss was estimated at about five dollars.

Yesterday's fire trash burning on Fourteenth street, did not cause any damage.

The fire early in the month at the home of W. M. Moore, caused property loss estimated at more than $900, and the entire loss in the city so far in April runs near the $1,000 mark.

Chief George Gardner of the fire department today again called attention to the fact that low property loss provided low insurance rates and asked the citizens to be on the alert at all times to help prevent disastrous fires.

TWO HELD IN DEATH

Sanford, April 14.—A negro jury summoned Sunday by Dr. J. F. Foster, coroner, to investigate the death of Jim Hayes, 40, negro, has not rendered a verdict. In the meantime Sawyer Lee and Emanuel McIVER, negroes, are being held as possible suspects pending further investigation.

Hayes was found dead Saturday night on the tracks of the Seaboard Air Line Railway in the colored section of Sanford. He had a deep gash over the eye, and it is reported that he had had a fight a little while previous to the finding of his body.

E. F. Arnold, Pitt county farm agent, reported today upon his return from Washington that Senator Robert R. Reynolds assured him there yesterday that he would introduce the tobacco compact bill in the Senate as soon as that body disposes of the Ritter impeachment trial.

The American League baseball season opened in Washington this afternoon and the senators did little work.

The Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, was scheduled to conclude hearing arguments on the trial this afternoon.

Senator Reynolds will have the floor when the body convenes again after the trial and he said that he would offer the tobacco bill the first thing.

Mr. Arnold who conferred with other senators and congressmen, as well as department officials, said that high officials with whom he talked were unable to see why Governor Ehringhaus has not called a special session of the legislature to consider the compact bill. He added that there seemed to be little likelihood in Washington that Congress would not enact the measure and the President sign it.

He said that Senator Reynolds expressed the opinion the measure already passed by the House would have "no trouble" in the Senate. He also said he talked with other congressmen who expressed the same opinion.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
News Behind The NewsWASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CRUX: Bad news for immediate settlement of Europe's war problems has been furnished to our diplomatic insiders by a distinguished American soldier-lawyer-politician who was taken into Mussolini's confidence and then permitted to explore Italian-held Ethiopia with engineers and surveyors.

The truth is that Il Duce doesn't yet know whether he wants the land which he is on a fair way to conquering. He hasn't discovered whether it will furnish colonization for several million Italians, though he doesn't dare to tell that to his people. It may be several years before he learns whether development of agriculture and minerals will sustain as many men as he has labored to overwhelm Haile Selassie.

Here's where this problem touches Europe, and possibly the United States. If Ethiopia turns up pavé dirt, a strong Italian settlement there will constitute a permanent threat to Great Britain, and compromise will be impossible. A war involving the world may prove inevitable. But if there's no gold in the emperor's hills, Il Duce will faceback toward Europe—and a transitory peace based on raw politics and balances of power may result. (Continued on page four)

Drunkenness Is On Increase

Raleigh, April 14.—(AP)—Calling for the election of public officials "from constable to governor" who "have the courage to enact and enforce laws against the liquor traffic," Cale K. Burgess, director, told the trustees of the United Dry Forces, "drunkenness and other debauchery resulting from strong drink" have increased rapidly in North Carolina.

The United Drys met to map plans for activities during the campaigns leading up to the primaries and election this year.

Citing a "typical month" before liquor stores opened in 14 Eastern counties, about 18 having stores and comparing the similar months after the stores open, Burgess said records of arrests showed an increase of 79 per cent in public drunkenness since the stores opened.

For Pitt county he used October, 1934, with 42 arrests as compared with 52 in the month in 1935; Vance showed 23 in March, 1935 and 88 in March, 1936; Wilson showed 53 in September, 1934, and 156 in September, 1935; reports showed 41 in March, 1935, and 45 in March, 1936.

Since Jan. 1, 1935, Burgess said the dry forces had raised and expended $11,510.59 in the "fight against strong drink."

Laws permit liquor stores in some counties and allowing state-wide sales of high-powered beer and wine have converted practically every filling station into saloons and have filled our towns with beer parlors and drink taverns that in many respects are more harmful than the saloons of former years," Burgess reported.

Free All Slaves

Geneva, April 14.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government asserted to the League of Nations today that the Italian forces in East Africa have poison-gassed 13 Ethiopian cities.

Just as this protest was received the Italian government informed the League that Premier Mussolini had decided to free all slaves in Ethiopia.

The communication came to Geneva while Salvador de Madariaga, president of the league council, "committee of 13" discussed the possibility for peace with Walde Marim, the Ethiopian delegate to the League of Nations.

Dr. Madariaga had been instructed by his committee to ask simultaneously to the Ethiopian and Italian envoys today, but Baron Pompeo Alais, the Italian delegate informed the League that he could not reach Geneva from Rome until tomorrow.

Marim told de Madariaga and J. A. C. Avenol, secretary general of the League, that peace should be won in the spirit of the League covenant. League officials said they were pessimistic as to possibilities for peace.

Chicago, April 14.—(AP)—Two kidnappings, with one election worker abducted under a policeman's fire sent the Illinois primaries off to a turbulent start in Chicago today.

The violence came as a bumper Chicago registration began to pour into the polling places.

One victim was Paul Witkowsky, 60, who, the police were told, was identified as a retired business man and a personal friend of Governor Horner. The other was a democratic precinct captain.

Two election judges were removed after the police reported they found 17 marked ballots on the person of Philip Zimmerman.

Bitterness engendered by one of the most hectic campaigns of the century, prompted elaborate precautions at the polls as national leaders watched the voting in the republican presidential preference due: between Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News.

It was the first man-to-man test of the two ranking contenders for the GOP nomination. Observers agreed the results would have an important bearing on the party's pre-convention battle.

Headquarters of Knox, outspoken critic of the administration, promised a sweeping triumph. E. J. Cook, Borah's manager foresaw a very handsome victory.

Democrats stalwarts concentrated on getting out a "smashing vote" for President Roosevelt—unopposed on their party's preferential ballot—to clinch their claims that Illinois was still in the new deal column. They anxiously awaited comparison of the Borah-Knox and Roosevelt's totals as an indication of comparative popularity.

The drive to raise $2,500 in Pitt county to aid flood and tornado sufferers was a little more than $500 short of its goal today, contributions since last published having amounted to $78. A total of $1,894.71 has been raised thus far.

Donations turned yesterday and today included one of $25 from the Greenville tobacco company and another of $7.50 from the employees of the company.

Chairman W. A. Ryan expressed satisfaction that a number of persons are continuing to send in voluntary contributions are not waiting to be called on directly for a donation. He urged that the people of the county continue to do this, adding that if they would there would be no doubt but the local chapter of the Red Cross would reach its quota.

It was also recalled that a number of citizens are sending in "additional" contributions to the fund. He said such action showed a fine spirit by those who made gifts before the quota was reached and the extent of the suffering was greatly increased by tornadoes and more floods.

Contributions made since last reported follow:

CAMPAIGN MILE IS JULED IN SPAIN

Barcelona, Spain.—(AP)—President was established here when a mile was sentenced to two years in jail for electioneering.

The beast was placed in the garage of the city lock-up when found wandering about during the recent electoral campaign with campaign propaganda stenciled in large white letters on his black flanks.

A jury gravely convicted the dumb defendant on charges of violating an ordinance forbidding mobile electioneering.

Someone suggested that feeding and housing the prisoner might be a problem. Whereupon the judge sagely decreed that the general amnesty decree, which had freed some 25,000 political prisoners should be applied to the mule and the animal was given to the Humane Society.

HARD WAY AROUND
IS MOLLISON'S GOAL

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Around the world in 21 days by airplane the "hard way," spanning both the Pacific and the Atlantic, is the ambition of Jim Mollison, flying husband of England's Amy Mollison.

He hopes to start in August. From England Mollison plans to hop across Europe, down through India and thence across to Australia. From Brisbane he will head for Los Angeles, including among his ambitious plans a 3,100 mile hop across the Pacific from Suva to Honolulu.

A transcontinental hop from Los Angeles to New York and a dash across the Atlantic would bring him back to his starting point.

Dr. Falconer expects to leave Dallas May 7. At New York he will become a passenger on the new Zeppelin, the von Hindenburg across the Atlantic to Germany. From Frankfurt he will fly to Berlin, Amsterdam and Rome. Cairo, Egypt, is the next stop listed; then Baghdad, Jodhpur, Rangoon, Singapore, and Batavia. A chartered plane will take him to Manila, where he will fly on one of the new clipper ships for San Francisco via Guam, Wake, Midway and Hawaii.

Dr. Falconer, a quiet man with a reputation for finishing whatever he undertakes, has been traveling almost constantly since his retirement in 1931 as senior examiner for the United States civil service commission.

Even before then Dr. Falconer traveled extensively, and lived for a time in Manila.

He is a bachelor.

On previous world trips he was accompanied by John Saxton of New York but on his projected flight will travel alone.

WASHINGTON DAY BOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—(AP)—The Senate's crop of youngsters—those who rode in on the unprecedented wave of Roosevelt popularity in 1934—are amazing old timers by the way they are stepping out these days.

Holt of West Virginia, Minton of Indiana, Schwelmbach of Washington, even that old war horse of politics—Elmo of Mississippi, who has been observing a self-imposed year of silence—have been parading across the front pages during the past few weeks with as much gusto as the oldest senators in point of service.

Only "Honest Vic" Donahue of Ohio seems to have hesitated the temptation to join the parade. He hasn't made a speech yet, says privately he has no idea when he will break his silence.

There are varying opinions as to how these new senators have acquitted themselves in their initial attempts.

Bilbo, of course, suffered a crushing defeat. Five hours display of oratory on his part to block the confirmation of a federal judge netted him exactly four votes including his own on the showdown.

Minton and Schwelmbach, members of the Black lobby committee, have been savage in their attacks on those who would attempt to thwart their investigation. Only time can prove how effective their actions have been.

Benson of Minnesota, who came to Washington to take the seat of the late Senator Schall, has been active, but his career in the Senate ends with the present session. He plans to return to Minnesota and run for governor this year on the farmer-labor ticket.

Guffey of Pennsylvania has his name on one of the major "New Deal" measures passed during the present Congress—the Guffey-Snyder coal bill. In addition, he is chairman of the Democratic senatorial elections committee charged with the duty of electing as many Democrats as possible to the Senate in November.

Since the days of the late Huey Long, the time-honored custom of newcomers to the Senate being seen and not heard until they had served their apprenticeship no longer prevails. Some still observe it and even those who break it are a bit apologetic. Bilbo apologized elaborately before he launched his five-hour speech.

Things move so fast in Capitol hill these days and are of such importance that from sheer necessity the "youngsters" are forced into activity.

Fred MacMurray is called Hollywood's busiest hero. In 18 months, he has played 11 leading roles.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

Emil Hurja

(By The Associated Press)
Mention two opposing candidates to the gentle-faced Emil Hurja and in two minutes he will be knee-deep in statistics proving which one will win.

That's why he has a private office at national Democratic headquarters. That's why long distance calls will buzz at his elbow as the 1936 campaign builds to a climax. He will pick the political front while the Democratic spellbinders are out "holding that line." He does it on vote statistics he has gathered from every county in the country since 1928.

He's been classed as a wizard since he predicted the Democrats would pick up nearly 20 house seats in 1934. The party expected to lose about 75 seats, but Hurja was right.

He came to inner political councils by the unorthodox route of Texas newspapering and statistical work in New York. He has never held an elective office, but his advice is expected to influence largely the direction of the Democratic offensive.

TODAY..the President of the United States throws out the first ball...and the 1936 season is on

Baseball...it's America's outstanding gift to the world of sport

SENATORS, representatives, statesmen, judges, doctors, lawyers, business men and Jimmy the office boy... they're all out for the opening game.

Thrills never to be forgotten... perhaps a home run... or an electrifying no-hit game... perhaps some callow recruit, unheard of in the big time, smashing his way into the hearts of the fans.

Baseball brings pleasure to the millions who watch it, and rewards the stars who play it.

Such popularity must be deserved...

At every game and wherever you go you will find people enjoying Chesterfields.

Why...because Chesterfields are outstanding for the pleasure they give...outstanding for mildness...outstanding for better taste.

More and more smokers, men and women both, enjoy Chesterfield's pleasing taste and aroma...such popularity must be deserved.

San Francisco, Unafraid Of Quakes, Observes 30th Anniversary Of 'Fire'

By SAM JACKSON

San Francisco (AP)—A city unafraid of earthquakes but still jittery about fires will pause April 18 to remember a day 30 years ago when both catastrophes struck at once, taking between 550 and 600 lives and wreaking damage of $350,000,000.

San Franciscans have been accused of referring to the tragedy of 1906 as a "fire" instead of a quake because of a false sense of pride—a refusal to recognize California's ever present earthquake threat. But to 300,000 refugees who camped in parks and streets for three days while the flames roared, the disaster was primarily a "fire."

The earth jolt occurred at 5:12 in the morning; the great San Andreas fault slipped a job undersea and violently jarred the coast over an area 55 miles long and 30 miles wide.

Fire Damage Greatest. San Francisco buildings were violently shaken but few actually collapsed, although chimneys and cornices cascaded to the ground. Insurance companies found that only five per cent of the $350,000,000 damage from quake and fire was attributable to the quake.

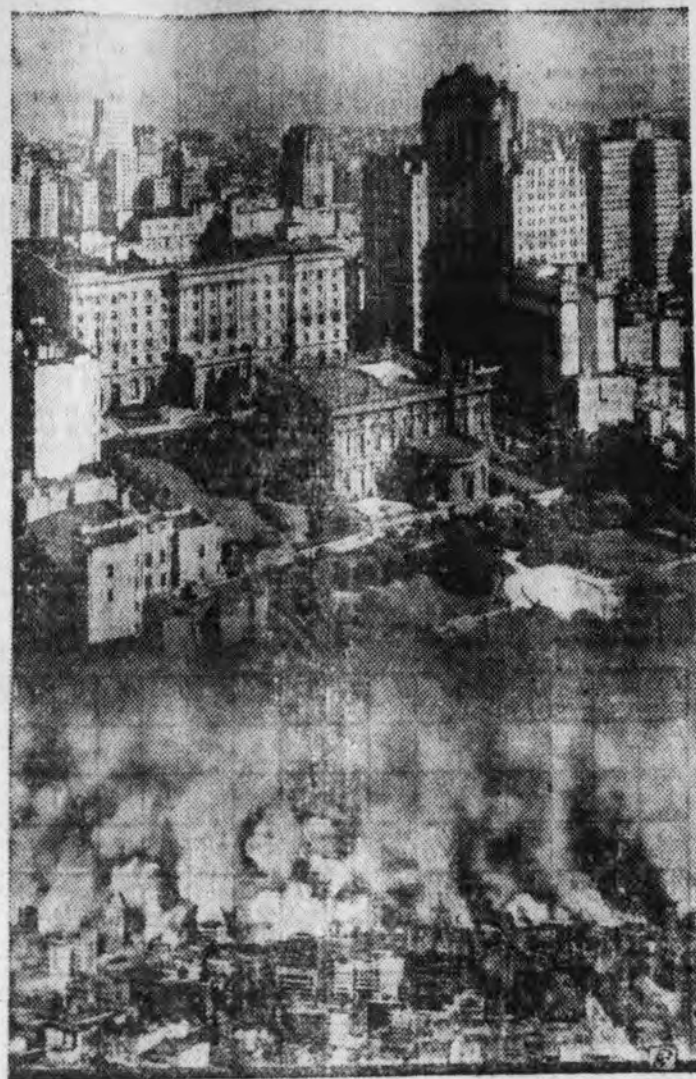

Flames broke out almost at once in scores of places and spread with out hindrance as the city's water system had been jolted to pieces. By evening of the first day eight square miles had been burned and 300,000 of the city's 425,000 residents had deserted their homes in panic.

Whole blocks of buildings were dynamited to create firebreaks. Authorities herded 200,000 of the refugees into Golden Gate park and made desperate efforts to supply them with food and water.

Wind Fanned Flames.

On the second day a stiff wind fanned the flames to new fury and cut off egress down the peninsula on which San Francisco is situated. With the third day the fire abated somewhat but completed the ruin of the financial and shopping districts.

It was not until the fourth day that citizens could set to work to restore the 28,000 buildings which

San Francisco, which rose from the ashes of the fire that followed the earthquake 30 years ago, is ever on guard against a similar disaster. The modern view shows the city from famous Nob hill. The photograph below, copyright by R. J. Waters & Co., pictures the start of the conflagration, April 18, 1906.

lay in embers.

The catastrophe occurred before the days of city planning, and rapid rebuilding, authorities admit, showed more courage and zeal than wisdom. The city of today is one of skyscrapers and of lofty apartment houses crowded close together.

Engineers say that in case of another earthquake few if any buildings would fall. San Francisco, however, vividly remembers the "fire" and is a city on guard against a possible repetition of such havoc.

Golden Rain

by Margaret Wildemer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning has left the genteel poverty of her small town Pennsylvania home for the glittering life of New York. She is set in New York. She is loved by Allan Beckley, although she has not forgotten Morgan Black at home. She also is in love with the gently smiling, handsome, and all her life. Now Phina has been an enormous long island estate from Allan's socially imprudent grandmother. Mrs. Morgan, and is enjoying a summer of open-handed hospitality—partly for Iris sake.

Chapter 34
ENDLESS PARTY

PHINA came back then, and Iris made an excuse to go upstairs.
The stairway was immense like everything else, with a beautiful turn, and fifteenth century tapestries along it. "Your bedroom is the one with the fans," Phina called after her.

She found it finally, at the far end of the house. It was exquisite; paneled in rose brocade, draped with Honiton lace over rose silk, with old fans framed at intervals along the wall, a mirror-topped dressing-table in the center of the room with drapery over its carved top fine enough for a wedding veil.

She dropped into a squat rose-covered chair and saw through a doorway something she had read of,
but never seen before—an unmistakeable boudoir. The period of the whole thing, like a film over its overt Louis Fifteenthness, was of twenty years ago.

Then her aunt's "Iris, Iris!" brought her out of her dream and downstairs.

Phina was a magnificent organizer. In a week it was as if the family had lived there forever. In a month Iris felt it was her home.
She would have liked to wander all day in the woods and gardens of the incredible demesne. But she had little time, except when Allan Beckley appeared.

And he made love to her. Not in the short-phased brusqueness of the other men who picked her up in their cars for golf or tennis, who drifted in increasingly of a late afternoon for what was called tea —cocktails and hors d'oeuvre served by a superbly impassive map servant in the foyer, or if it was sunny by the swimming pool.

It—this being a season when even the most strongly rooted were retreaching—they came partly for the openhanded hospitality Phina gave.
Phina said it did not matter.

SHE talked this over with Allan next time he drove in and carried her off from an impending bridge expert.

"I told you you shouldn't expect to live up to 'love me for myself alone. Few do for anybody, ever.
Though I might, if you'd let me practice. Maybe I do, anyway."

They were walking together down a path hedged by rosebushes which towered tall above their heads, and were now, toward the end of May, beginning to bud. He held her hand lightly as he talked; as he ended, he drew her to him and kissed her lightly, there in the warm clear sunshine. It was nearly June. Everything felt like exquisite spring, happy summer. And one must be happy.

Phina's said she mustn't be prim.
Aunt Ella's code was thirty years old. She kissed him back. . . . And then she realized the excitement, the warm, thrilling, the warm hold of a man's arms, his lips pressing kisses against hers. He was half laughing, but he was in passionate earnest too. The casual manner, the mockery, had gone.

"You're wonderful—I adore you —your wonderful fresh love—when are you going to make me happy?" she heard him mutter ardently between kisses.

The month that had passed had seen him an almost daily visitor.
He was very fond of him . . . and she was young, she loved love.
There was something missing. He was not Morgan.

And yet, as she moved away from him, she told herself she was foolish. Morgan was lost; Allan was here; every path led straight to him.

"Do you really think I could make you happy—and you me?" she said, against his lips.

"I know it," he told her. He held her tighter.

"Then . . . give me time—and I think I'll try," she said.

She had burned her bridges—she was promised to Allan.

AND then Camilla, tired of waiting for her at the house, was coming towards them, and Allan released her and was the casual charming friend again; he was making his excuses at the luncheon in visitation Phina had sent by Camilla.

Presently he had gone.

Camilla at her side was smiling, more content in the warm sunshine than she had ever seen her. She lifted a linen-gauntleted hand and waved the black morocco book it held. She said gayly, "I've practically finished the thing!"

"Oh, do let me see them. Let's drop the fencing for once, and just have our swim. It will be warm enough in a half hour."

They were speaking of the poems
Iris had encouraged her to collect.
The two girls went off to sit under the striped umbrella by the pool, perhaps five hundred feet from the house. Owen, coming from some other direction, crossed them, spoke, and went on. Camilla colored, but smiled and spoke naturally

"When are you going to make me happy?"

enough, and went back to her book with Iris. He had dropped a notebook on the grass. Camilla saw it.
"Haven't you better take it to him?"
she said.

Iris ran after him with it, and then wished she hadn't, for his face was dark, and he said angrily, "Must I always find Camilla under my feet?"

"Owen! You know I can't stop our fencing practice. I didn't realize you felt so about it. I can arrange to go to her place, if you're really in earnest, but it seems so unkind."

"Sorry. Sigrid's raising the devil again. Camilla at this end seemed more than I could stand. I'll be poor at luncheon."

She went back to Camilla, who, deep in her book, penciling corrections, sharpening phrases, seemed serene enough. They had their swim dressed in the little bath-house, went to luncheon.

The concert rehearsal—it was actually a review—was already in full swing. Iris was a little awed to realize that it was the most important thing of the summer in her part of Long Island. Girls and men both maneuvered to take even the smallest part, as marking them completely a part of the smart group, which had also the backing of those downtowners who run society anywhere, and whose queen, here, was Mrs.
Morgan.

It was Mrs. Morgan herself who telephoned, asking Iris to come down to see her.

(Copyright, 1935-36, Margaret Wildemer)

Iris has a shocking scene, tomorrow.

10 inches where it falls. That amount will equal the flood of waters held back by all the costly TVA dams. FDR would apply this same preventive technique wherever flood threatens, restricting immediate relief to emergency centers. But the engineers—and politicians—can't see that far ahead. He has kept the wires hot to hold them back.

TVA has attacked the problem in the new way. Rainfall in the Tennessee Valley, for instance, averages 50 inches a year. But proper land use—terracing and contouring—will in this field centers on Senator George Norris' proposal for a Mississippi Valley Authority to harness the "father of waters" and all his brood.

War Department engineers har-angued against it because it would remove guardianship of the Mississippi from their hands, although almost all they have ever done is to construct levees which wash away at the first big rise. Reclamation experts didn't like it because it might turn over irrigation projects to another agency. Almost every New Deal group, privately or publicly, had a sour word for the proposal which embraces the President's ideas even more comprehensively than TVA. It so happened that the objectors weren't aware of that fact.

Mr. Norris won't push the measure to passage this year. He simply advances it as a means of arousing interest in a new method for handling land-and-water resources. It requires revamping, but it will eventually reappear on the Congressional scene as the President's "Mississippi Model." You'll hear a lot more about it.

CONVERSION: Jim Farley's best scouts have sent word to headquarters that sentiment in northeastern states, particularly New England, has suddenly tacked toward President Roosevelt again. It's no secret that most astute Democrats long ago rubbed this section off their 1936 map.

Practical politics—some call it "Tammany politics"—is credited with softening recalcitrant Democrats toward the administration.
Political surveys find no reason of state or economic policy for the apparent revival of the President's popularity in a section which gave Herbert Hoover four states.

What seems to be happening is a real or artificial rejuvenation of the "local organizations." Democratic leaders are laying the ground work for November. They are hunting up men who control from 50 to 100 votes in their districts, placing the out-of-work in jobs and making promises for the near future. Somehow these gestures often work political magic. But whatever the reason, Democrats now insist that they have a swell chance of carrying Massachusetts, Rhode Island and possibly Connecticut.

ATTACKS: Questions of relief wages are coming up. That question nearly beat FDR on his $4,000,000-000. Complaints are made that Hopkins' outfit pays "scab" wages.
Several labor leaders are buttonholing Senators, asking for a provision that will insure "fair" wages.
A lot of stuff will be brought out in Senate debate alleging political profiteering in relief jobs. Several Senators up for re-election are on the anxious seat, fearing attacks along that line.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN

OVERSIGHT: The Securities Exchange Commission is distinctly annoyed at Attorney General Bennett of New York State.

The Commission dug up the dirt about the Stock Exchange firm of Walter P. McCaffray and Co.— which is now being prosecuted for violation of the Martin act (New York's truth-in-securities law).
When it had collected all the dirt it decided to turn it over to the Attorney General because he isn't so tangled in red tape and can move faster. Mr. Bennett promptly swooped down on the accused firm, seized its books and papers and registered an effective picture of virtue triumphing over fraud.

But alas, he neglected even to mention the Commission—let alone give it credit for gathering the matterial on which he acted. The SEC boys don't think that oversight was a bit nice and are in no mood to try further experiments in cooperating with New York State authorities.

TRY-OUTS: Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon is nothing if not chibling since he has been mentioned as a possible presidential nominee.

New Yorkers learn that the Senator has been drafted several times by Henry Fletcher to do speaking chores for the Republican National Committee. He was sent to a state party convention in North Carolina and a little later turned up as a G. O. P. guest artist in Maine.

Republican insiders say these trips are in the nature of try-outs.
The high command wants to find out how he registers with strange audiences. If he goes over well enough in smaller cities he will then be promoted to the major league circuit. Confidential reactions to his efforts to date indicate approval but no vast enthusiasm.

CURIOUSITY: New York banks with state charters are grumbling about William R. White—the new state Superintendent of Banks. Mr.
White has just called upon them to submit statements of their financial condition as of the odd date of March 27.

The point is that these banks had already gotten out one condition statement as of March 4 for the federal authorities—as members of the Federal Reserve system—and many of them had published another one voluntarily as of March 31. Now they must prepare still another at considerable extra expense and growl that Mr. White doesn't seem to care how much of their money he spends.

State authorities have usually issued calls as of the end of the quarter. Insiders say that the Superintendent's irritating deviation from this customary practice is due to legitimate curiosity. It has long been rumored that many banks "dress up" their condition before statement day to make the best possible showing—so that statements do not reflect true average facts.

If important variations show up in the comparative figures for March 27 and March 31 this report will be conclusively confirmed. In any case Mr. White—and the public—will discover whether or not it is true.

HOUSING: New York learns that bureaucrats interested in housing are lobbying in the Senate to block passage of the Wagner housing bill.
It takes away a lot of their power and shuts off their unlimited use of public money. They claim that the Wagner bill is extravagant and a direct subsidy to poor renters, besides demoralizing the real estate market.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor endorses the Wagner bill. Bureaucrats say this is natural, as the bill doesn't reduce wages in building trades but opens the way for immense distributions to union labor.

The bureau combine will try to swing FDR over to their side upon his return. He avoided commitment to the Wagner bill before he left.

TURN-DOWN: We recently published here an item to the effect that Chairman Jim Landis of the Securities Exchange Commission had been offered an attractive job as counsel to one of the big broadcasting companies. A follow-up confirms the offer and discloses that Mr. Landis turned it down after giving the matter careful thought.

G. O. P. LEADER EXPECTS WIN

Grissom Says He Can Win Over Any of Four Democrats

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 14.—Gilliam Grissom, the Republican candidate for Governor of North Carolina, expects to be the next Governor of North Carolina—and especially if the Democrats nominate Dr. Ralph W. McDonald as their candidate, he said here today, although he believes he can defeat any candidate the Democrats may nominate.

"I am confident I can win over any one of the four Democratic candidates for gubernatorial nomination, so that it makes no difference to me which one of the four is nominated," Grissom said. "And while I have said I was confident I would be elected if Dr. McDonald should be the Democratic nominee, I am equally confident I could defeat Clyde R. Hoey, A. H. Graham or John A. McRae.

"For while Dr. McDonald may be considered ultra-radical by some members of his party, there are other Democrats who regard Mr. Hoey as being ultra-conservative. Mr. Graham seems to be the middle-of-the-road candidate from what I hear, although I have little opportunity to talk with those supporting him to learn of their attitude. I likewise know very little of Mr. McRae, but do not think I would have much difficulty in defeating him, should he be the Democratic nominee."

If Grissom should be elected Governor in the November election, he would be the first Republican Governor elected in North Carolina in 40 years. Many of the Republican leaders of the state are as confident as Grissom that he will be elected Governor this fall, pointing out that since Grissom is not as radical and extreme in his views especially with regard to taxation, as is McDonald, that he would undoubtedly get the votes of enough conservative Democrats to assure his election, should McDonald be nominated. On the other hand, if either Hoey or Graham should be nominated, the Republican leaders believe that a very large number of the McDonald Democrats would vote for Grissom rather than for the Democratic nominee, since in many respects the platforms of Grissom and McDonald are almost identical, in that both are caustic critics of past Democratic administrations, both oppose the sales tax and favor larger appropriations for schools, old age pensions, and so forth.

WOMAN WANTS GO PRISON TO SAVE STARVING CHILD

ble to do.
She said she did not regret anything she had done. And as for killing the father of her children, she declared that it had never bothered her conscience. Her only plea was that she be sent to the penitentiary now and not be forced to wait until her child was 16 months old, saying that if she were forced to wait her child would surely starve, unless some unforeseen aid came to her.

for Digestion's sake... smoke Camels

BARONIAL DINING at the Winter Place Tavern in Boston. Theodore Roosevelt, Enrico Caruso, Henry Cabot Lodge praised its famous fare. Here Camels reign supreme. Nick Stuhl (left), maitre d'hôtel, says: "Camels have the gift of making great dishes more enjoyable. Camels are the most popular cigarette at the Winter Place Tavern."

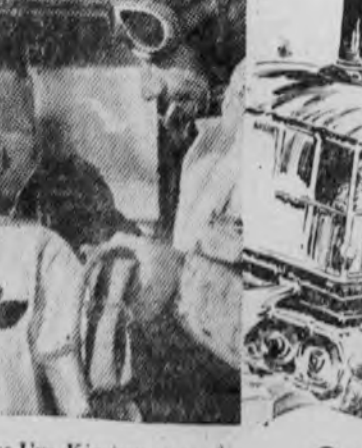

MEASURING THE EFFECT on digestion of smoking Camels (above). Delicate machines measure the flow of digestive secretions. The evidence shows that smoking a Camel increases the secretion of digestive fluids. The importance of this extra secretion in facilitating digestion is a matter of common knowledge. So smoke Camels... for digestion's sake... and for their costlier tobaccos. Camels set you right!

Smoking Camels Promotes Enjoyment of Good Food and Stimulates Digestion

Our nervous modern life often affects digestion. Mental effort—physical rush—slow down the flow of the digestive fluids. Smoking Camels restores and increases this necessary flow. Scientific research definitely confirms the fact that Camels encourage digestion in this pleasant way. Enjoy Camels as much as you like. They never frazzle your nerves.

WORKING AGAINST TIME. Bob Duffey, steam-shovel operator, says: "Work comes first—eating, second. You grab a bite when you can. But trust Camels to make even a quick meal taste good and feel good."

PARACHUTE JUMPER. Miss Uva Kimmy says: "My life depends on making no mistakes. I smoke Camels for digestion's sake. They encourage digestion in a pleasant way. Camels set me right!"

Costlier Tobaccos!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
