SENATOR SAYS CONGRESS HAS RELIEF POWER

Sen. Harrison Asserts Right to Aid Debt-Ridden Firms

SENATE TO STUDY TAX MEASURE

Finance Committee to Continue Executive Sessions on House Bill Next Week

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—Chairman Harrison (D-Mass.) of the Senate finance committee today upheld the right of Congress to give a measure of relief to debt-ridden corporations as provided in the $803,000,000 House bill revising the corporate income tax structure.

The Mississippi announced his committee would continue next week executive session study of the measure now before the House and would not begin public hearings until Thursday. Secretary Morgenthau is expected to be the first witness in open session.

"It is taking a lot of time explaining this bill," he told reporters after a third closed meeting of his committee today. The House was in recess but administration chiefs hoped to pass the bill by Thursday.

Harrison said Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) a member of the committee, had questioned the constitutionality of provisions whereby corporations in debt and under contract not to pay in any dividends until the debt was paid and could be allowed certain credits under the bill not given other corporations.

Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the Treasury, was asked to furnish a brief on the subject. "My own opinion is," Harrison said, "that it is merely a question of classification and Congress certainly has the right to classify these rates of taxes and give certain credit to debt-burdened corporations."

The committee chairman said everything would be done to speed the bill once it gets through the House, so that Congress could adjourn before the presidential nominating conventions.

Several Arrested For Participation In White Slavery

Negroes Charged With Forcing White Women Prostitute Themselves With Negro Men in N. Y.

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover announced today arrests of eight persons, "in what is believed to be a ring of negro men engaged in white slave traffic" of transporting white women from Chicago, Ill., to the Harlem district in New York City for prostitution.

The chief of the investigation bureau said three negro men and five white women were named in a complaint filed this morning before the U. S. commissioner in New York.

Hoover said the white women were brought to New York City and "forced to prostitute themselves with negro men in the Harlem district, their illicit earnings furnishing the income for the negro men who drove expensive automobiles and frequently made trips to other cities to attend prize fights."

Local Telephone Co. May Make Reduction

Raleigh, April 25.—(AP)—The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company which operates in several counties in Eastern North Carolina is expected to file "a substantial rate reduction schedule" with the Utilities Commission next week.

This was learned authoritatively today after conferences yesterday between Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne, Associate Commissioner F. W. Hanft and officials of the Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Company.

One of the reductions in the Carolina territory it was understood, would be placing a limit of 18 months on the 25-cent per month now charged for the use of hand sets.

Weekly Weather

JOBLESS SEIZE NEW JERSEY LEGISLATIVE CHAMBER

After the New Jersey legislature adjourned for a week without providing relief funds, these unemployed comfortably cocked their feet on the desks of the legislative chamber at Trenton and prepared to remain in "mock session" until the lawmakers find money to feed them. The shabbily clad but orderly men and women brought out food and ate it "on the floor." (Associated Press Photo)

Although Many Cases Disposed of Many Remain Yet

A two weeks' term of Pitt county Superior court was completed here yesterday afternoon and the docket had been cleared of a large number of cases on the calendar for each of several past terms.

The docket, however, is far from being completely cleared as many cases still remain to be disposed of. The part of the county court judgment in revoking the driving license of Tom Wainwright for being drunk on the highway was ordered void.

A directed verdict of not guilty was ordered in the case charging Sam White with illegally transporting whiskey.

Flonnie Boykins was found not guilty in a count charging driving drunk and without proper license.

Charlie T. Watson also was acquitted of a charge of driving drunk.

A $50 fine and costs of court were assessed against S. F. Peterson for driving drunk. His licenses were revoked for one year.

R. P. Collier was ordered to pay the costs of court upon conviction earlier in the term of practicing plumbing without a license.

A 12-months' road sentence was meted out to Henry Cox for having whiskey for sale. Joe Everett was given a six-months' sentence for selling without license, the sentence suspended upon provision he pay the cost of court, close out his filling station and remain of good behavior for two years.

Bennie Taft entered a plea of guilty to assault with a deadly weapon and, upon payment of $500 to Mrs. W. L. Copeland and the costs of court, prayer for judgment was suspended until the October term of court, until which time he was allowed to make the payments.

A nol pros was taken in the case of Grover Garris, charged with operating an automobile without proper license.

Fred Powell was convicted of abandonment and given a six-months' road sentence, suspended upon provision he pay into the court the sum of $8 each month for the use of his child, the payments to continue until the child is 10 years old.

Jack Moyer was given a two-year sentence and taxed with the costs, on a charge of driving drunk, the sentence to be suspended upon provision he pay the costs of court and refrain from the use of intoxicating liquor and narcotics for two years. His driving licenses were revoked for 12 months.

A cash bond of W. H. Warren was ordered forfeited, the costs of court to be paid out of the $75 security, the rest going on checks.

Revolutionary Group in Honduras Forced to Flee

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, April 25.—(AP)—The Honduran government, throwing loyal troops and bombing planes against a revolutionary movement, reported today two rebel groups were routed completely and fled from the country leaving many dead.

An official communique said one group of Honduran rebels operating near the border of the Central American republic of Nicaragua was hard pressed by Nicaraguan national guardsmen and crossed into Honduras attacking the town of Paraiso.

Government troops repelled the rebel attacks vigorously, the communique said, and four military planes flew over the revolutionary causing great havoc with bombs and machine guns.

"At the precinct meetings on Saturday, May 9th, North Carolina Democrats will for the first time elect a woman on every precinct committee in the State."

This is the announcement made by J. Wallace Winborne, State Chairman, Mr. Winborne says further, "The Plan of Organization, as amended at the last meeting of the State Executive Committee, requires that every precinct meeting transact the following business:

"Elect the precinct committee of five active Democrats, at least one of whom shall be a woman. The Committee so elected shall immediately elect a Chairman and Vice-Chairman, one of whom shall be a woman."

Mrs. Charles W. Tillet, Jr., State Vice-Chairman, is working for a strong organization of women in the coming campaign.

"A careful check reveals," says Mrs. Tillet, "that of the vote cast in the last election, 45 per cent of the vote was the women's vote."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington

By RAY TUCKER
GRADUAL: Although President Roosevelt is supported to favor a political realignment—Conservatives versus Democrats—he has to friends that he doesn't expect the "great divide" to rend the major parties as early as 1940. He has been reported as looking for a new set-up in that year.

Mr. Roosevelt now believes that it will require a few more years for such a sharp transition. He thinks that existing parties will begin to disintegrate four years hence but that natural alliances of liberals and conservatives will not coalesce until later. In 1940 he predicts that there will be four political groups in the presidential field—Roosevelt liberals, Smith-Raskob Democrats, the Republicans and left-wingers.

The President's confidants, rightly or wrongly, think his attitude casts light on his policies if he is reelected. They don't count on him to step out as the champion of an ultra-liberal party. Although his sympathies lie in that direction, they understand that he will let nature take its course and not force a premature split-up.

SUCCESS: Army men spitter against the restoration of Major General Johnson Hagood to active command, although they must sound off privately. They say the White House let them down and cite an unknown incident as backstage proof.

FASCISTS ADD TO CRITICISM OF SANCTIONS

Blackshirt Troops Reported to Have Occupied Lake Tana

RED CROSS UNITS AIDING INJURED

Battle Between Belligerents Reported to Have Been Begun in Somaliland.

(By Associated Press)

Premier Mussolini heaped further criticism today upon economic and political sanctions against his fascist nation as blackshirt troops were officially reported to have completed their occupation of the Lake Tana region in Ethiopia.

The official daily report from Marshal Pietro Badoglio declared an Italian column had occupied Barbar Jivoris at the southern extremity of Lake Tana and that a battle had begun yesterday on the Somaliland front near Sasa Baneh.

Six Red Cross trucks, one British ambulance and one Ethiopian ambulance left Addis Ababa on the road to Dessaye to give treatment to "a great many wounded Ethiopians who need care."

At Geneva the international Red Cross committee told the League of Nations again it could not turn over evidence in its possession concerning alleged violation of war convention in Ethiopia.

LENOIR BLAZE DAMAGE HEAVY

Fire Destroys La Grange Postoffice and Auto Garage

La Grange, April 25.—(AP)—Fire early today destroyed the Spence Motor Sales Company and the post office here and damaged a funeral parlor with total damage set at between $40,000 and $50,000. A family living over the garage said there was an explosion in the business house below them and fire resulted almost immediately. No one was hurt.

R. G. Creech postmaster, said between $200 and $300 of stamps and stamped postals and envelopes burned in addition to some mail but that the most of the postoffice valuables were in his safe.

H. D. Spence of Kingston owned the building in which the motor company and postoffice were located. Eight used cars and two new ones were destroyed.

The loss was partially insured.

Barkley Of Kentucky Suggested Keynote

Philadelphia, April 25.—(AP)—The committee on arrangements of the Democratic National Committee decided today to recommend United States Senator A. W. Barkley of Kentucky as the temporary chairman and keynote of the convention which meets here June 6.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas will be the permanent chairman.

It was decided that President Roosevelt, if renominated, will be formally notified in a Saturday night outdoor meeting at the University of Pennsylvania, Franklin Field.

Tobacco Group To Meet; President Signs Compact

State Advisory Committee Called to Gather In Raleigh Monday to Consider New Steps; Roosevelt Signs Control Bill

Raleigh, April 25.—(AP)—The state tobacco advisory committee will meet here Monday to consider the next step in the growers' movement to obtain a special session of the legislature for enactment of tobacco control legislation.

J. E. Winslow of Greenville, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, has called on chairmen of the tobacco committees in every county to "organize for more concerted action in the future."

Winslow said "The farmers will not give up the fight and take the attitude we are licked." He asked farmers of each county to call more meetings and elect three-member committees to represent the at any future conferences with the Governor.

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the Kerr bill authorizing tobacco growing states to enter into compacts for control of tobacco production.

Under the new law each state would adopt practically identical regulatory legislation similar to the Virginia legislation already enacted by the Virginia legislature. The program would not become effective unless all cooperating states acted.

The measure specifically authorizes compacts for flue cured, Burley and dark fire cured tobacco grown in Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

These states may enter into a compact to control these types without any further action by congress.

Ralph Garrett Discusses Foreign Leaf Situation

Expects Little Shrinkage in Sale Due War Scare

Ralph M. Garrett, president of the Person-Garrett tobacco company, said today following his return from a tour of European countries in the interest of the leaf industry, that the war scare across the continent was not as bad as was feared in the States, and that he did not believe it would have much ill effect on the foreign sales of American tobacco.

About 80 per cent of the tobacco sold on the local warehouses goes to foreign markets and a big per cent of this goes to England, the chief country visited by Mr. Garrett.

England is securing more and more of its tobacco from its colonial possessions, however, and thereby the American product is growing less in demand, the leading tobaccoist said.

"While English colonies have been growing tobacco for some time, they have gone in for raising the weed on a more extensive scale," he said. Canada, South Africa and India and growing the product in increasing quantities, he added, and American sales in England are being threatened.

The China market, Mr. Garrett said, "has gone to pieces," leaving England more than ever the chief foreign market left open to American grown tobacco.

In discussing the local situation, he said farmers "would be in their own light if they planted too much tobacco." He explained that in his opinion the way for local growers to secure a good price for the product was to reduce their acreage. Too much tobacco almost certainly will reduce the price offered, Mr. Garrett explained.

Special Meeting Set For Scout Executives

Jake Skinner, Sagamore of the Greenville District Pow Wow Circle for Scoutmasters and Scouting, announces a special meeting for Monday, April 27th at 7:00 p. m. to be held at the Third Street American Legion Hut.

At the meeting the activities committee, Wyatt Brown, Roy Campbell and R. L. Powell will complete plans for a council camporee to be sponsored by the Greenville District.

The Camporee, one night of patrol camping and scout activities for two days, will be for the 1,600 scouts in the East Carolina Council.

Every scout in Pitt and Greene counties are urged to be present and do their part in making this activity one of the most successful of the year.

A. L. Tucker Jr., Starts Setting Out Tobacco

A story carried Thursday relating that at least one Pitt county farmer had started setting out tobacco incorrectly gave the name of A. L. Simpson, Jr., of near Simpson.

The name of the farmer should have been A. L. Tucker, Jr., of near Simpson. Reports received from other sections of the county indicate that a number of growers have begun setting out tobacco plants.

Unmasked Men Rob Kinston Man of $160

Kinston, April 25.—(AP)—Three unmasked bandits held up Richard King's filling station several miles from here last night and escaped with an estimated $160. King was at his home next door when the bandits went there and ordered him to open his safe, but he refused despite threats.

HEAR REMARKS ON ATHLETICS

Kiwanis Club Program Devoted To Sport Events

The status of various athletic activities in Greenville was related by speakers at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club last night when the Athletic committee, headed by Donald Conley, was in charge of the program.

Ben Gardner and Sidney Holland of Fountain furnished several enjoyable numbers with stringed instruments. The boys received much applause with the playing and singing.

Berry Bonfield led in club singing. Mrs. Ray Tyson was at the piano. R. C. Deal told the history of athletics at the college, explaining that only four years ago the institution put out its first athletic team. He told how the college, with no financial aid from the state, had made rapid progress. He said that it was hard to get a junior college to play the local team now and that members of the Little Six colleges were always glad to schedule a contest with the teachers, since they always had good teams.

The various teams are financed by voluntary contributions and receipts from gate receipts. Mr. Deal said that attendance at contests of the local high school and college was poor, adding that he was of the opinion no incorporated town in the country furnished such poor support as Greenville afforded its high school teams.

Kiwanian Deal said that when the college put out its first athletic team, a baseball nine four years ago, it was made up of four boys who could play baseball and five who were willing to try. He traced the progress of the various teams up to the present date when they are recognized, and feared, by teams representing much larger colleges.

G. V. Smith related some of the difficulties the Greenville organization of the Coastal Plains baseball league was experiencing. He said that many old faces would be missing from the lineup this summer, but added that the officials were working to replace them with good players. He said that a salary limit had been set and the club was having a hard time staying within its bounds as players are demanding high salaries.

He also told of difficulties in raising money to finance the club. He said that officials had deferred putting on a drive to secure funds because disaster relief campaigns were being waged when it was planned to put on a move for baseball funds. He added, however, that Greenville would have a baseball club and that he hoped it would be as good as those in the past.

M. B. Massey described several amusing incidents that occurred during his experience playing golf. He related how Mr. Deal was once forced to play a ball which was lodged in a tree, adding that the college professor made a comical sight in his plight to dislodge it.

Mr. Massey said golf brought together people from all walks of life and put them on equal footing. He told of a league in Eastern North Carolina which brings golfers from various towns together in match games.

The attendance prize, given by Mr. Conley, was won by Dink James.

Guests other than those on the program, included H. B. Mayo of Fountain, W. W. Morgan of the local high school faculty, Thornton Ryan, son of Kiwanian W. A. Ryan, and W. E. Hooker.

ORGANIZATION IS SANCTIONED BY PRESIDENT

Good Neighbor League Enters National Picture Today

IDEALS OPPOSITE LIBERTY LEAGUE

Dr. Frank P. Graham North Carolina University President, on Board Directors

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—Bearing the endorsement of President Roosevelt, a newly formed "good neighbor league" entered the national picture today. One of its leaders said it would fight for ideals "opposite to those of the American Liberty League, bitter critics of the new deal."

The new league in its salutary announcement listed several leaders in church, educational, peace and social welfare groups as among the directors, including Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina.

Dr. Stanley High, protestant clergymen who recently was engaged by the democratic national committee to do organization work, is on a three-member executive committee which, the announcement said, will have actual direction of the affairs of the organization.

Asked if the organization would combat the Liberty League, Dr. High said today:

"We just intend to go ahead with our own program and if in advancing our ideals which are opposite to those of the American Liberty League we should combat the Liberty League, we would nevertheless go right ahead."

The announcement said Mr. Roosevelt endorsed the principle of the organization, "which has just been formed to work for the safeguarding of the good neighbor policy toward the good neighbor ideal and to support practices in our national and international relationships and those political candidates who give the best hope that progress may be continued."

Bumper Lint Crop With Low Average Rests On Weather

From New On Season's Cotton Crop Depends on Weather With Increase Being Forecast

New Orleans, La., April 25.—(AP)—Decision on whether the South will have a bumper cotton crop and low prices or a small crop and high prices today rested with an influence that respects no domestic allotment plan—the weather.

The thermometer and barometer replaced the latest news from Washington as the cotton states realized that from now on this season's crop is in the hands of nature.

For a time it appeared that Texas, whose 4,000,000 bales accounted for more than a third of last year's crop might be in for a serious drought but last week beneficial showers fell over most of the state, cotton sold off on the whole future market on a threat of a scarcity was temporarily allayed.

Cold weather and heavy showers in the eastern part of the belt have delayed planting there and the crop as a whole is round three weeks late.

The potential effect of the new soil erosion plan for control production is still, in the opinion of the trade, as uncertain as the day it became a substitute for the outlawed AAA.

Generally an increase of 10 to 15 per cent from the 28,000,000 acres in production last July 1st is anticipated by the trade.

tion of the War Department's preferential projects, and the military witnesses were supposed to headline them in their Congressional testimony.

General Hagood dashed into headquarters for a minute and refused to study the preferred listing. He explained that he planned to talk impromptu, although high officers understand that he had his "stage money" speech in his pocket at the time. He refused to revise his violent remarks until he heard that the army was contemplating action. Then he forwarded a last-minute demand for the privilege of softening his statements. Despite these indiscretions, he pointed a political pistol at the White House and got away with it—according to his superiors.

ESSENTIAL: Despite demands for his official scalp, Jim Farley confides to friends that he doesn't intend to resign as Postmaster General before, during or after the presidential campaign. By presidential decree he will continue as the outstanding example of technological advances in American politics. He will serve as Postmaster General, Democratic National Chairman and New York State Democratic Chairman. Mr. Farley has frequently proposed that he ought to step out of the Cabinet, but the President won't listen to the suggestion. He wants his political generalissimo around at all times and places. He will have criticism directed at Mr. Farley's three-liming.

FDR's insistence on his favorite's retention strikes practical politicians as a smart move. Though confident of victory in November, the Democrats—the President himself—are taking no chances. They don't dare to entrust reelection problems to an inexperienced and unknown hand. As J. G. Jim swings twice the influence he would if he left the official household. So why quit? And Louis Howe's passing makes Jim invaluable at the White House.

PRESSURE: Gov. Alf Landon is giving a serious case of jitter to his managers. Although not yet nominated, he has outlined an anti-Roosevelt campaign which chills his closest advisers. Visitors from Topeka say that Mr. Landon, if named to oppose President Roosevelt, wants to accept perhaps 80 per cent of the New Deal. In fact, Publicist Michelson whispers that Mr. Landon has endorsed almost the whole Roosevelt program in speeches delivered before he was limelighted into White House stature. How to avoid this dilemma is the chief concern of the Kansas Governor and his friends.

Governor Landon proposes to headline the issue that, although FDR's social and economic solutions are fairly adequate, the Republicans can administer them more efficiently, more inexpensively. A mere twist in the handling of the administrative levers will mean the difference between governmental failure and success, according to this theory. But the Governor's smart advisers recognize that such a campaign argument won't thrill any hearts or stir any pulses. So they're trying to steam up Mr. Landon's political blood pressure to the boiling point.

DISCRETION: The eastern railroads which lost their appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a compromise on its 2-cent passenger fare order are talking belligerently of taking their case to the courts. They may go through with their threat—but insiders doubt it.

Court actions are expensive luxuries and in a rate case the cards are stacked against the railroads. Their suit must be based on "deprivation of property without due process of law"—the old reliable Fourteenth Amendment. But it's hard to prove that a rate is confiscatory unless you have tried it out in practice. Otherwise it's a matter of judgment and the courts are likely to give weight to the fact

Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL HONISTON

SYNOPSIS: Dirk Joris, at dinner in the fine old Joris estate on the Hudson, has heard Elinor Fleming break her engagement to his brother Rupert, because of Rupert's drinking. He has seen Elinor's sardonic manner, and knows it hides a far from sardonic reaction. Now he has taken Elinor home through the pouring rain—sunny weather. And he must go on to a meeting with Elinor's cousin Isabel, over in New Jersey.

Chapter Three

"GOOD NIGHT, DIRK, DEAR," SAID ELINOR.

"You'll be nice to Isabel!"

He smiled down at her. Need she be so urgent?

"It won't be hard," he answered.

She was always mentioning Isabel, always seeming a little, anxious about her. Dirk had sometimes wondered why. Isabel was so entirely capable of looking out for herself. Tonight there dawned on him with a humorous sense of his own stupidity the fact that Elinor, having relinquished the Joris name, would like to see her cousin take it on.

Driving alone through the rain Dirk dealt with the idea of Isabel as a wife, put it from him, put from him, indeed, the idea of marriage, of taking any woman into Lowrie Woods while his brother was there.

There, too, was his first teacher, with cheeks like red apples, and humorous wrinkles around her brown bright eyes. She always spelled his name with a "c"—Dirk.

And, of course, there had been pals at college, and girls. There had been, and still was, Isabel. That he had never said a word of love to Isabel didn't mean that they weren't close. And yet—close. Certainly the word must imply more than he had ever been to any one. Perhaps he was like his father. Like Rupert. . . .

Poor Rupert. Long engagements were the dickens.

Dirk rode through Yonkers into Manhattan, crossed the Hudson River by way of the George Washington bridge. He had promised Isabel and her guest, Natalie Page, to meet them at some foolish tented show on the Jersey side.

Natalie was a bubbling person, just out of boarding-school, keen for adventure. She was leaving tomorrow, and tonight was her last chance to interview Madame Chowdhury, a Hindu prophetess traveling with the show.

Dirk felt out of the mood for Natalie and Madame Chowdhury. Freddy Nevins would be with the girls, he reflected. Why not miss the place? It would be easy enough with the rain and the scant directions he Dirk lifted the Chowdhury flap of Chowdhury's tent.

The thought, in the light of what Rupert would be like without Elinor, without the hope of Elinor, was impossible. Any wife of his—Dirk's—would have to live under the same roof with Rupert. Elinor must know this. What she did not know, perhaps, was what she had done to Rupert.

Dirk could not bear to think of the future for either Rupert or himself. They had never been close, had never been companions in any sense. Always there had been some separating barrier of temperament, greater than the ten years difference in their ages; but his life must go on in the shadow of Rupert's indefinitely now.

A year ago last June, just home from college, he had promised his father that he would not leave Rupert or Lowrie Wood.

"Not until Rupert and Elinor are married, at any rate. He ought not to be alone," his father had said, and Dirk had promised.

So, close or not, they would stay together.

HAD Rupert ever been close to any one, Dirk wondered, driving through the rain. To their mother who had died when the elder boy was twelve? Perhaps.

Had he even been close to Elinor? Had not Elinor failed to warn herself fully at that dark fire, burning though it must have been for her alone? Elinor was afraid. She was afraid of that dark fire that was Rupert, that fire that had gone a little mad this last year.

Others were afraid of Rupert, too. Underlings in Manhattan where the Jorises had their offices, small politicians here in the village—men who owed their jobs to his influence, or whose secrets he knew.

At home the servants feared him. Even their father had seemed at times afraid of Rupert, of the things Rupert might do.

And he—Dirk—had he even been close to any one? Now and then to his father who, in his way, was almost as inaccessible as Rupert. And perhaps (Dirk smiled) to Genevieve, his one-time nursery-governess, who was so patient and so pretty.

That the Interstate Commerce Commission is a body specifically charged with a careful study of railroad problems and thereby better qualified to give an expert opinion than the court itself.

The railroads are well aware of this. So when they have had time to think it over they will probably decide that discretion pays better dividends than a chip on the shoulder.

50-50. We recently reported that Republican chances of recapturing Pennsylvania are weakened by internal dissension in the G. O. P. arising out of former Governor Gifford Pinchot's efforts to keep a grip on the party machinery. Now had received from Isabel. Afterwards Dirk was to remember this impulse, to reflect how different things might have been if he had obeyed it, and turned back.

He rode on, remembering that he had promised Isabel, remembering the dance that they must fare to later.

The boat-lights beneath the bridge seemed to waver, to run liquid in the drizzle, but the wheels and towers of the Palisades Amusement Park rose a jeweled filigree against the dark. By that landmark Dirk found the pitched tents which Isabel had so sketchedly described. He parked his car among the few that like his own had braved the storm, and joined the damp and rather lifeless crowd.

The rain had stopped now, but the tents looked soaked and bedraggled. A merry-go-round revolved torpidly, its music a mere dreary whine. Yet the animals in their cages, the smells of peanuts and popcorn, the voices of the barkers, woke memories in Dirk, stirring memories of old Madison Square Garden, and the circuses to which he and Genevieve used to go.

Such lions, such panthers and tigers—these were mere kittens beside them; elephants swinging prodigious trunks, elephants as big in retrospect as the main tent yonder; impressive hippopotamuses, and ponies with rumpettes on their tails. Ladies flying through burning hoops.

Here was Madame Chowdhury's tent, its flap emblazoned with the signs of the Zodiac. It stood with no barker before it, silent and apparently deserted, the rain dripping from its eaves. Dirk lifted the flap, thinking that he might find Isabel and the others behind it, though if Isabel arrived before him at a tryst it would be the first time.

The inside of the tent was bare, lit only by a lamp burning on a low table. A commodious lady in a soiled white robe and turban sat at the table playing what looked like solitaire. She turned a dark, inquiring face on Dirk, and rose.

York observers now learn of another angle which will militate against a G. O. P. comeback.

Many Pinchot Republicans worked with the Democrats in the 1934 congressional and gubernatorial elections and were rewarded with jobs. It isn't going to be any cinch to wean them away from their new allegiance. This is an added reason why a number of regular Pennsylvania Republicans are so anxious to get rid of the Pinchot influence they are willing to have Roosevelt carry the state—as the best way of discrediting Pinchot leadership for keeps.

Meanwhile Mrs. Pinchot is trying to land the Congressional nomination in a Philadelphia district and a grip on the party machinery. Now all the Pinchot strategists have been called in to help her. Keen political analysts figure that the Republicans will probably regain several Congressional seats in Pennsylvania this fall—but their chances of swinging the state's electoral vote for their presidential nominee are rated 50-50 at best.

SAVED: New Yorkers who have followed the Townsend investigation closely charge privately that Congressman Bell's committee has bungled its job badly. The blame is pinned chiefly on Bell for picking such an inexperienced counsel as Sullivan.

Experts in the technique of investigations say that Sullivan either didn't have enough facts about where the Townsend contributions went before he started or didn't know how to use them. He has failed to dramatize the soft pickings professional organizers were getting from an elder generation not otherwise in the ways of the world. It's rated doubly whether the committee can now make up for its own ineptness and really shatter the movement—as originally planned—by a convincing presentation of the alleged financial frailties of its promoters.

Insiders understand that the apparent futility of the Townsend investigation will save Father Coughlin's National Union of Social Justice from a similar Congressional grilling. Congressional sentiment—as reported by New York scouts—is that a committee which cannot score decisive hits on such comparatively vulnerable targets as the Townsend leaders has no business tangling with the far shrewder Coughlin.

PROMPT: A Liberty League official complains bitterly in private that "treasury terrorism" has completely dried up the flow of contributions. Business men approached lately are scared to death that the income tax will get them if they don't watch out.

There is some justification for their apprehension. In one recent authenticated case a New York Liberty League donor found a Treasury inspector on his doorstep within ten days after the gift.

Asked how the Treasury could have gotten on the trail so quickly, the League official replied: "We aren't taking any chances. Our lists of contributors are filed very promptly in Washington according to law—never a day late."

RESERVATIONS: The Passamaquoddy power project is officially dead. But informed New Yorkers wouldn't be surprised to see it enjoy a modest resurrection after Congress goes home. There are still unallocated funds available which could be transferred to keep its wheels turning until after election. The same is true of the Florida ship canal.

Make The Vegetable Grow.

The highest quality and the greatest yield of vegetables are secured by feeding the plants with fertilizers. Fertilizers should be used even if the ground is reasonably fertile. A fertilizer of a 5-7-5 analysis may be used under beets, carrots, collards, cabbage, turnips and rutabagas, lettuce and all salad crops. For tomatoes, beans (limas and snaps), peas, peppers and sweet corn use a 4-12-4 or 4-10-4 mixture and for sweet potatoes a 3-8-6 or a 3-8-8; (8 to 10 pounds of fertilizer per 100 foot of row space will be sufficient). Do not use stable manure in growing sweet potatoes.

Stake The Tomatoes.

Staking tomatoes will give ripe fruit a little earlier. After the tomato plants have become well started in the garden drive a five foot stake in the ground near the plant. Prune the plant to one stem and tie to the stake making the first tie about 11-2 feet above ground. When five or six fruit clusters are formed pinch out the top of the tomato plant.

Before his marriage to Venita Varden, Jack Oakie was reported engaged to more actresses than any other actor in Hollywood.

Scott Makes Showing In Campaign Address

Raleigh, April 25.—W. Kerr Scott, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Commissioner of Agriculture, made his first public appearance in his campaign last night in his first campaign speech, delivered in Graham, Alamance county, his home county, according to comment heard here today.

The issue in the campaign, Scott said, was whether the state was to have a progressive department of agriculture, in tune with the times, or an ultra-conservative department. He maintained that the present department is more like a "funeral parlor, where progress is stifled, smothered and buried," and that "not a new idea has been allowed to come through in 20 years."

Friendly Thoughts by S. G. WILKERSON

To be dependent upon another is human. To need sympathy, understanding, to need another's patient consideration and friendliness is natural. To supply such needs is divine.

We urge a consideration of the cost of furnishings that the expenses of the service may be moderated to suit the family's means.

Billroy's Comedians Appear Here Tonight

The big show is here! Billroy's Comedians, "The Greatest Show on Earth for the Money" arrived in Greenville today with the finest equipped outfit that has ever pitched a tent in this fair city, preparatory to their showing here tonight. The entire show is brand new and the equipment is a marvel to see. Eighty people are with the show this season, including 17 star vaudeville acts, headlined by the queen of Fan Dancers, "Daphne" and her company. There are "so many girls you can't count 'em all" and the largest, prettiest, fastest stepping and best-costumed chorus in America under canvas. A brand new play is being presented this season, entitled "Morning, Noon and Night," a three-act comedy farce, featuring that inimitable comedienne, Miss Bonnie Mack better known as "That Funny Old Lady." Billroy's Comedians have never played in Greenville before, but have been keeping faith with Southern audiences for years and are well and favorably known.
A new act with the show this season is the original "Hickville Trio," said to be the funniest "Hillbilly" act on the American stage.
Those who saw the street parade this morning at 11:45 a. m. will bear witness that the only thing cheap about Billroy's Comedians is the admission prices. It was the prettiest display of trucks ever witnessed in this city.
There are 35 huge trucks, cars and busses with the show. The big tent is located on the Higgs lot, W. Dickinson Avenue, on Wilson road, opposite the old Fairgrounds. There is plenty of parking space for cars.
The doors open tonight at 7:15 and the Palais Royale Orchestra will be heard at 7:30. The curtain will rise at 8:15. Popular prices will prevail and ladies accompanied by one paid adult ticket tonight, will be admitted free. Billroy's Comedians will appear for the one performance only tonight moving from here to Rocky Mount for the Monday performance.
Advance reports on the show state it is by far the best and funniest performance that Billroy's has ever presented. The mammoth tent seats four thousand people and is positively waterproof and it is also heated in cold weather.
The show has played to tremendous crowds in North Carolina and the Billroy management seems delighted with the reception they have received in this state. Billroy's have by far the best and biggest show this season in their entire career and further advance reports state that "Daphne" billed as the "Queen of Fan Dancers" lives up to her billings one hundred percent.
All roads lead to the old Fairgrounds and Billroy's Comedians tonight. The Big Show Is Here!

Without the slightest cost or obligation, you will learn the very latest methods of food preparation and kitchen management. How to make many interesting new dishes. How to utilize left-overs, how to plan a week's meals so as to reduce costs and serve a pleasing variety of well-balanced menus. And another thing you'll enjoy will be suggestions for really making use of the "freezing properties" of the electric refrigerator.

Things which will help you plan better meals and make your food budget go a lot further. You'll learn how to make new desserts, new salads, delicious entrees—and how to make them with a minimum amount of work.

Start at the very beginning of the classes and get the full benefit of this unusual school. Remember there are no fees, nothing to buy, and no obligations incurred.
