Column of 15,000 Italians Drive Toward Capital City

FRANCE FACING CRITICAL TEST

Election Results Show Decisive Swing with Communists Gaining in Late Vote

(By Associated Press)
A motorized column of 15,000 troops from Marshal Pietro Badoglio's northern army drove down the imperial Ethiopian highway today en route from Dessie to Addis Ababa.

The fascist commander-in-chief in East Africa sent out this column of white Italian soldiers Sunday morning to augment the advance guard of native Askari warriors already advanced in positions far up the Dessie-Addis Ababa road.

Marshal Badoglio reported his southern army, under General Rodolfo Graziani, was menacing Sasa Baneh, strategic outpost of Harar, second city of Ethiopia, lying near the only railway line in Ethiopia.

France faced a critical test of its political forces as the election results showed a decisive swing to the left, with communists showing considerable gains in the late returns.

The voting, however, showed that the Radical Socialist party would still retain a leadership in the new assembly although the party sustained some losses.

In Austria, Vice Chancellor Ernst von Starheimberg said flatly he would oppose any attempts to disband his private army instigating a succession of conferences of government officials to deal with the impending crisis.

The young prime minister, who would be a repetition of the bloody socialist and the Nazi civil wars of 1934 should any attempts be made to curb his military power by disarming his Heimwehr, or home guard.

Thanks Expressed To Local Citizens Furnishing Autos

Greenville Musicians Took First Place in Girls' Trio and Tied for First Place in Mixed Chorus

The faculty and the students of the Greenville Senior and Junior high schools today expressed their appreciation to the people named below for making it possible to take one hundred and forty-four Junior and Senior high school students to the State Music Contest at Greensboro. Thirty-six automobiles were required to carry out this vast undertaking. "It is rather a fine tribute to a community and to a school that the people of the community will do a thing like this for the school," said J. H. Rose, superintendent.

To take the Senior high school group, the following citizens loaned their cars: H. L. Hodges, Mrs. J. H. Blount, Mrs. A. W. Fleischman, E. G. Flanagan, Mrs. R. E. Harris, Mrs. Gilbert Peele, A. C. Tadlock, Mrs. W. H. Smith, Miss Eugenia Thomas, John Clark, Mrs. L. L. Rives, Rev. B. Starling, John Lautner, Rev. Worth Wicker, B. G. Abeyounis, Penrose Perkins, Mrs. Nash Joyner, Mrs. Selma Carson Moore, Miss Eva Hodges, V. M. Mulholland, Sheriff Whitehurst, W. C. Clark, Dr. L. R. Meadows.

To carry the Junior high school group the following contributed automobiles: A. E. Hogwood, Mrs. Graham Flanagan, Miss Mozelle Jones, C. J. Moye, E. W. Hellen, Mrs. B. McK. Johnston, Mrs. C. A. Robertson, Miss Frances Wahl, Spruill Spain, N. S. Blanchard, Miss Edna Grace Anderson, Mrs. Roy Harris, Miss Elizabeth Quinberry.

This large group of people was moved from Greenville to Greensboro and back without any accident whatsoever. The superintendent of schools wishes also to express his appreciation to the people who contributed cars, and also to those who contributed their time to make the trip possible. The Greenville group took first place in the girls' trio, and tied for first place in the mixed chorus. They also took several second places among the class B schools. It is rather significant that no class B school was awarded more than one first place. Next year the Greenville school will move up in the A class and compete with Raleigh, Charlotte, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, and towns of that size.

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company Scheduled to File Reductions This Afternoon

Some exchanges with low rates will not be affected.

PENNSYLVANIA RACE WATCHED

President Roosevelt To Have Opposition in Primary

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—Political interest centered today on tomorrow's presidential primary in Pennsylvania and the opening of the annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Members of Congress were slow to volunteer comment on President Roosevelt's Saturday night speech in New York. Republican committee spokesmen had as yet made no reply to it.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan advanced by his state for the Republican nomination attracted new attention with his efforts in the Senate to force publication of benefit payments under the AAA.

Senator Borah of Idaho is running unopposed in the Pennsylvania contest. Party leaders were watching to see how his vote would compare with President Roosevelt in the Democratic primary.

The Democratic primary will find President Roosevelt opposed for the first time in a state-wide contest. Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York, a new deal critic, is entered.

On the eve of the Chamber of Commerce meeting, which is expected to reflect organized business sentiment toward the new deal, one of the organization leaders called out industry to form a "solid front" against unfair attacks by demagogues. He was Philip J. Fay of San Francisco, vice-president of the Chamber.

Weller then fled and was surrounded by police near Nebraska Hall on the campus he fired a bullet from his 32 calibre pistol into his chest. The reason why Weller shot Kurz was not immediately known.

Kurz later said his life had been threatened by Weller, who Saturday was given notice of dismissal from the university faculty.

Mrs. H. H. Golden, of Palmer, mother of a university student, said Weller fired twice at Kurz after the two men ran out of a consultation room. The first bullet did not take effect.

News Behind The News

CONTEMPT: Arthur Mullen's suit to collect $49,000 for "legal services" in procuring a PWA grant for a Nebraska power authority has several oddities invisible to the unpracticed eye. It may herald a showdown between President Roosevelt and his floor manager at Chicago.

Mr. Mullen was forced to go to court because Secretary Ickes branded his bill as excessive and refused to approve it. Under the PWA contract the Cabinet member must pass on the fee before payment by the Nebraska agency, which obtained its funds from the government. The hard-boiled Secretary of the Interior offered to settle for $10,000, but the lawyer flew out of the room. At a subsequent conference he was almost thrown out.

But here's the catch: Mr. Mullen is suing the power district, which originally okayed his bill as proper. The Nebraska agency cannot offer a defense. In view of its record attitude, and Mr. Ickes can't submit evidence that the fee is exorbitant. The result may be that the Secretary will be adjudged in contempt if he refuses to honor a court judgment. He says he will. And so far FDR has backed him.

GIANT LINERS GO TO RESCUE OF FREIGHTER

San Quentin Crippled in Middle of Atlantic Ocean

ANOTHER VESSEL HAD SOUGHT AID

Disabled Steamer Ivanhoe Reported to Be Able to Await Arrival of Tugs

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Two freighters, crippled in mid-Atlantic during a heavy gale, proceeded without assistance today after three liners had swung from their courses to give aid.

The Ivanhoe, owned by the North Atlantic line, broke a rudder yesterday, but when the Polish liner, Pilsudski, reached her side this morning she said she needed no immediate help.

A few hours later the British freighter, Saint Quentin, toward which the luxurious liners, Bremen and Washington, were ploughing through heavy seas, sent word she would continue unaided.

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Two giant liners sped to the aid of the crippled freighter, San Quentin, in mid-Atlantic today after another vessel, the Ivanhoe, reported immediate assistance was unnecessary.

The liner Pilsudski, which braved the heavy seas to stand by the Ivanhoe after the latter's rudder broke, notified the line's New York office that she again was proceeding on her way.

"Arrived at disabled steamer Ivanhoe, proceeding on my voyage as Ivanhoe now considers she can await the arrival of salvage tug ahead on way."

The San Quentin, however, was believed to be in a more precarious condition than the freighter. The last wireless report from the British cargo ship last night said her steering apparatus was damaged and her radio room flooded.

The Bremen and the Washington, queens of the German and American Merchants Mariner, sped to give assistance, although bad weather and high seas slowed their progress.

Messages yesterday from another British freighter, the Rushpool, also told of difficulties but in the absence of further reports no vessels swerved from their courses to aid her.

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—Republican Leader Snell plunged into the House controversy over the $803,000,000 tax bill today with the assertion that "no sober minded man should vote for new taxes on our people to further encourage this shameful extravagance of political boondoggling."

Snell who earlier had called on his party members to meet tonight to may strategy to pursue when the measure reached the amendment stage to-morrow, said he believed the bill would "destroy many small and struggling business organizations."

Difficulties confronting the tax measure were emphasized further when Senator La Follette (P. Wis.) told newsmen he would fight for a boost in individual income and surtaxes when the bill reaches the senate.

Before Snell spoke, Representative Vinson (D. Ky.), member of the house ways and means committee, which wrote the bill, had defended the measure, terming attacks against it "glittering generalities."

Three times, Snell said, congress has been told in the President's budget message that no new taxes would be needed, and each time it has been called upon later to pass a new tax bill.

Interesting Information Found In Straw Ballots

Reflector Poll Presents Cross Section Picture of Politics

Hoy is a two to one favorite for governor over Graham based on the lawyers' vote while so far not a single lawyer has cast his ballot for McDonald.

The Reflector's poll of five eastern counties on the gubernatorial race. One voter doesn't like either of the four candidates returning his ballot with the notation, "Don't like either one, one is as crooked as the other." Another voter declares Grissom is his candidate indicating that he favors the Republican nominee to the four Democrats running. While a large number of ballots voted so far in the Reflector poll do not designate the sex nor occupation of the voter, those that do have designations present a varicolored cross section picture of the political situation in this section.

From the farmers of this section McDonald has received as many votes as all three of the other candidates with Hoy and Graham about even and McRae trailing far behind. The physicians are voting even for Hoy, Graham and McDonald each having received one vote from a physician. McDonald has received one each from the real estate and insurance men to none for the other candidates. When it comes to the teachers Hoy and McDonald are even two men teachers, one of them a county supervisor, voting for Hoy and two female teachers designating McDonald as their preference. McDonald is a two to one favorite over Graham and Hoy in the merchants' vote. Hoy and McDonald are at an even break among the office workers having received three each in this classification. Among the story clerks and traveling salesmen McDonald is a three to one favorite over Hoy and Graham combined. Hoy stands high with the unemployed having received three of their votes to two each for Graham and McDonald.

Hoy has received the only vote that has come from a U. S. light-house keeper. Graham has received one vote each from a prison guard, a fireman and a railroad man. McDonald likewise received one vote from a railroad man, and one each from a female postal messenger, a fertilizer and peanut manufacturer, another manufacturer and a retired merchant. Among the tobaccoists Hoy has all the support having received three votes to designate with the other candidates receiving none in this classification. Hoy has likewise received the only vote cast by a rural letter carrier, and one designated "hiring. Single votes for McDonald include a filling station operator, a truck driver, a telephone worker and a garage mechanic. "McDonald every time" says one farm woman who lists her occupation as raising chickens and supervising the farm.

COURT DENIES GRANT APPEAL

Wife-Killer's Plea for Death Stay Is Refused

London, April 27.—(AP)—The court of criminal appeal today dismissed an appeal by Dr. Buck Ruxton, "devil's beef tub" killer from the death sentence for the murder of his wife.

Lord Hewart, the lord chief justice of England, announced the decision after the three judges of the court had considered a long plea by Dr. Ruxton's attorney, Norman Birkett, who claimed the judge had misdirected the jury in the original trial.

Dr. Ruxton killed his wife and a servant "on or about" September 15, 1935. Their bodies were dismembered and thrown in a ravine on the Scottish border called the "devil's beef tub."

Ruxton was arrested October 13 and convicted by a jury March 13, 1936. He was to have been hanged April 1, but the hanging was postponed while Birkett carried an appeal to the high court.

SAY GOVERNOR CAUSES TREND

Claim Actions Helping McDonald and Graham

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, April 26.—Dislike for the sales tax and the manner in which it is being administered together with widespread dissatisfaction with Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and his attitude, arising from his refusal to call a special session of the general assembly to consider tobacco control, old age pensions, liquor legislation, unemployment insurance or the restoration of the sales tax exemptions on food, are more responsible for the strength being shown by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor than any other factors, according to most impartial political opinion here now.

Even some of those known to be close personal friends and strong supporters of Governor Ehringhaus are at last admitting that his attitude towards the tobacco farmers, those desiring a change in the liquor control law, social security legislation and allied objectives is probably doing more to help Dr. McDonald and in a lesser degree Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham than any other one thing besides the sales tax.

This same attitude is likewise regarded as being one of the biggest obstacles in the path of Clyde R. Hoey for the nomination, despite the fact that Governor Ehringhaus is regarded as being a supporter of Hoey for the gubernatorial nomination.

Several of those connected with the state administration here who attended the mass meeting of tobacco farmers Tuesday, heard the speeches their representatives made, heard the farmers talk among themselves and then heard Governor Ehringhaus reply, while admitting that the Governor had logic and reason on his side, are convinced that the Governor converted very few to his side of the argument. Many frankly say they believe the Governor's speech made from 25,000 to 50,000 more votes for Dr. McDonald. For while most observers here now agree that a tobacco compact would not do much good right now, a great many maintain that if Governor Ehringhaus had taken the lead in the tobacco compact movement, instead of hanging back, he could have used his influence and have persuaded the compact leaders in South Carolina to enact a compact bill under which North and South Carolina and Virginia could have cooperated without Georgia for 1936.

They also believe he could have secured modifications in the Virginia act if he had taken an aggressive stand in favor of tobacco compact legislation when the Virginia legislature was still in session. Even now, a good many observers believe there is still time to secure revision of the South Carolina compact bill if North Carolina would fall into line. Accordingly, there is widespread agreement here that the Governor's speech not only irritated most of the 5,000 farmers who attended the mass meeting here, but thousands of other farmers, merchants and business men whose livings are dependent upon tobacco and continued good prices for it.

But it is the sales tax, more than the Governor's refusal to call a special session, which is the open ball on the back of the public in almost every section of the state, and which is keeping the public dissatisfied with the present administration, even administrative supporters and advocates of the sales tax now privately agree. This conviction is borne out by the enthusiasm with which Dr. McDonald's attacks on the sales tax are received, especially his thrusts at Dr. M. C. S. Noble, Jr., Assistant Commissioner of Revenue. McDonald says that as far as he has been able to learn, Noble's only qualification for this post is that he has curly hair. It is no secret that the merchants of the state probably love Noble less than any other state official and that the manner in which he has administered the sales tax law in some sections has not added any incense to the aroma surrounding the present administration.

Figures available in the Department of Revenue, based on revenue collections so far this year, indicate that the budget could have been balanced in 1935 without removing the exemptions from the sales tax and applying this tax to necessary foods, especially if a state-wide liquor law had been enacted. Most observers here now agree. They also agree that these exemptions could now be removed from the sales tax by a special session of the general assembly and still leave the state enough revenue to balance its budget the rest of this fiscal year and the next. A great many also agree that it has been the application of the sales tax to the most essential foods—the fat back, flour and sugar of the very poor—that has caused the greater amount of the resentment against the sales tax. For even in 1935, the public had become pretty well accustomed to the sales tax on other articles.

If Governor Ehringhaus would now call a special session of the general assembly not only for the enactment of a tobacco compact act—even though it would not have any other than psychological effect—and also ask the legislature to restore the exemptions to the sales tax and take it off the essential foods, he could not only regain most of the popularity and good will he has lost in the last year or so, but could also cut most of Dr. McDonald's platform out from under him, many maintain. And if he should also recommend the enactment of old age benefits and a state wide liquor law to pay for the pensions plan, he could also chop away most of Graham's platform from under him and thus virtually assure the nomination of Mr. Hoey, a good many observers are convinced.

But no one, not even any of his close friends, expects Governor Ehringhaus to do any of these things. Instead, it is expected that he will become more and more adamant—those not his friends say stubborn—in his refusal to call a special session for any purpose and to reject any suggestions except from the small group of "yes men" who are always in agreement with his policies.

As a result, Dr. McDonald and Sandy Graham are expected to continue to capitalize on the resentment and opposition his actions and attitude have engendered in all sections of the state and to try to stir this resentment up to a white seething heat—and if possible, to hate—by June 6, as Hoey strives nobly to make progress in spite of it. And if Hoey manages to win the nomination it will have been won in spite of rather than because of the support of the Ehringhaus administration, most observers agree.

MANDARIN GARB BANNED FOR CHINESE OFFICIALS

Nanking, (AP)—The long gown and jacket which have been the distinguishing apparel of Chinese scholars and gentlemen for centuries, are to be forbidden to all government officials of high rank.

In the belief that skirts make for effeminacy and give the wearer subconscious encouragement toward inactivity, the Chinese government has ordered its officials to wear western styled suits or the semi-military uniform popularized by modern China's hero Sun Yat-Sen.

WHAT IS IT?

That is a question that has been asked hundreds --- yes, thousands --- of times, during the past week in the city of Greenville.

What Is This MILLION DOLLAR CLUB

And the thousands who have asked the question, who have been interested in knowing what it is, will be more interested in it after getting that information.

The Million Dollar Club Is—

A group of Greenville's leading spirits—men and women keenly alive to their own opportunities for success, but never forgetting their greater opportunities and responsibilities in service to Greenville.

An unofficial, unchartered organization of volunteers who during 1936 will make an investment of $130,000.00 for themselves—an investment that will pay them over 6 per cent, TAX-FREE, with the utmost safety and security.

A body of men and women who, while thus profiting themselves directly, will profit themselves and all of Greenville, by the investment of that $130,000.00 in homes for a still greater Greenville.

With Individual Investment of Only $2.50 a Week

The Million Dollar Club

Will finance the building of over 300 new homes in our city during the next 6 1-2 years.

How will they do it? Simple enough: Each member of this Million Dollar Club will subscribe for at least ten (10) shares of stock of the Home Building & Loan Association. Their joint effort—a weekly investment of ONLY $2.50 EACH—will make available $130,000.00 a year for the financing of Greenville homes. The average home loan is slightly over $2,800. That will mean the addition to our city of approximately 50 new homes a year for a period of six and a half years.

Can you imagine a finer service to the community, or one that is possible with so little individual effort.

The Million Dollar Club will be composed of many people who have never before discovered the opportunities and privileges for themselves, and the service to their city, offered in the Building and Loan plan; and of many others who have long participated in both its profits and its service. To the latter this story of service is more or less familiar, but a part of it is worth repeating:

We Aided 48 Greenville Citizens to Build During 1935

It is evident, therefore, that there is open to the Million Dollar Club a very large service to Greenville—one of which the city is in pressing need. It is a fortunate circumstance that the thousand rare spirits of this club can perform that service and at the same time profit themselves through steady investment in one of the strongest savings-investment plans known to the world: their money handled under direct State supervision and safeguarded to them by first mortgage liens on Greenville real estate! Of course you will want to join the Million Dollar Club. First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Probation After Death," was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, April 26.

The golden text was from I Peter 1:3, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "By faith Noah was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him; for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God." (Heb. 11:5).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus said substantially, 'He that believeth in me shall not see death.' That is, he who perceives the true idea of Life loses him belief in death. He who has the true idea of good loses all sense of evil, and by reason of this being ushered into the undying realities of Spirit, such a one abideth in Life—life obtained not of the body incapable of supporting life, but of Truth, unfolding its own immortal idea. Jesus gave the true idea of being, which results in infinite blessings to mortals."

Junior-Senior Banquet and Dance

The auditorium of the Robert H. Wright Building was turned into a bower of loveliness for the Junior-Senior banquet and dance on Saturday night. The colonial motif was carried out to the minutest detail. The hall was turned into a lovely colonial garden under a trellis arbor of vines and wisteria. An imposing colonial mansion, which was a backdrop curtain painted especially for this occasion, faced the white picket gate and fence, which formed the entrance. The stage formed a terrace in front of the mansion. The color scheme was green, white and lavender, with blue lights creating the moonlight effect.

Nearly a hundred tables, arranged for four at a table, were placed along the sides of the hall under the trellis edge of the arbor, with the space in the center left for the floor show, which was given during the dinner.

The program also carried out the southern colonial motif. Oscar Speed and Miss Ruby Lucas, in colonial costumes, gave a lovely colonial dance. A local negro quartet sang a number of old melodies. The waitresses were College girls dressed and made up as old time negro mamies, which added the colonial touch.

The tables were lighted with lavender tapers, with the place cards packages of mints in lavender cellophane with the names on dainty cards on which were pictures of a colonial couple.

The grand march opened the dance with all in attendance in the march. The Citadel Bull Dogs, seated on the terrace, furnished the music, and it was pronounced by the dancers as about the best they had ever known at the college dances. The march was led by Miss Margaret Norman, president of the Junior class, and her partner, Oscar Roberson, and Miss Ethel Vick.

The prizes were awarded to children under twelve years old drawing the best likeness of the little star.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Vance Perkins, Mrs. N. E. Ward, Mrs. John Winstead, Mrs. Cecil Bilbro and Mrs. James Johnston, members of the art committee of the Junior Woman's Club.

Seeing Through My Windshield

(By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.)

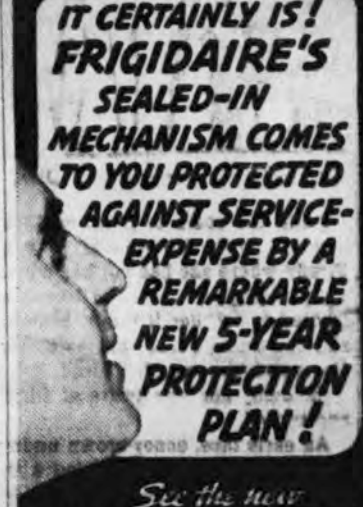

Control of Insects.
For the control of insect pests the first essential is good equipment. For the home gardener, the piece of equipment of most general use is a compressed air sprayer of 2 or 3 gallons capacity. A hand duster is also desirable. The second essential is a supply of spray and dust materials. This brings up the subject of a practical means of measuring spring materials in small amounts. The home gardener is not usually equipped with scales for weighing small amounts and must therefore seek some means of measuring the materials. An 8-ounce glass measuring cup is quite useful for this purpose. It is graduated in thirds and quarters and is suitable for measuring most materials.

The following control measures are suggested for some of the early garden pests:

BEAN BEETLE: Spray with magnesium arsenate at the rate of 1 pound to 50 gallons of water or 1 ounce (1-3) cup to 3 gallons. Begin spraying as soon as the adult beetles become numerous and repeat every week or ten days or as often as necessary. Magnesium arsenate may be used as a dust by mixing 1 pound with 3 pounds of hydrated lime. The spray or dust must be applied to the under side of the leaves. Good control has been reported by dusting with "Rotenone."

A rotenone dust should contain .75 rotenone which is the active ingredient killing the bean beetle.

FLEA BEETLES: Cucumber Beetles: Flea beetles often cause severe damage to potato, tomato, pepper and egg plants. The cucumber beetle stunts cucumber and melon plants. The greatest damage occurs immediately after the plants appear above the ground. These pests can be controlled by dusting with Poisoned Bordeaux powder or Rotenone dust. Make several applications a week apart. Dust can be applied with a sack or a small hand duster.

JUSTICE IN PITT COUNTY

A number of years ago the writer sat in the local courtroom and heard one lawyer declare to the jury that the court was apparently a place where the "poor white man" and the "Negro" got punished and the man with money or influence behind him went free. In the years that have passed since that time the happenings in the Pitt County Superior Court have brought the lawyer's saying back to mind vividly.

During the two weeks' term just closed one man convicted of drunken driving and hit-and-run driving had sentence suspended upon payment of costs and good behavior and his driver's license revoked for a period of one year. Of course the revocation of license was mandatory and even had the court desired to do so, this part of the sentence could not be suspended. In another case a white man entered a plea of guilty to drunken driving, reckless driving and hit-and-run driving, causing the death of another man. It was not until after investigation that led directly to the guilty man did he admit his crime. This man was let off by a revocation of his license and the payment of $575 to the mother of the man he killed.

Here's what the News and Observer has to say about this kind of justice, and we want to add our loud "AMEN" to it:

In Superior Court, in Pitt County, with Judge J. Paul Frizzelle on the bench, J. C. Taylor, of Greenville, entered a plea of guilty to reckless and careless driving, driving while drunk, and hit-and-run driving in connection with the death of Jesse Jones, who was run over by Taylor on February 9.

On recommendation of Solicitor D. M. Clark, Judge Frizzelle let Taylor off with no punishment for his crime except the revocation of his driver's license for a period of 12 months. One wonders how many people he would have had to kill while driving drunk, how many people would he have had to let dead, or dying in the road to get a single day in jail or a single dollar's fine.

It is true that Taylor agreed to pay the mother of the victim $575, but her right to damages is, as Judge Frizzelle and Solicitor Clark both know, a matter for the civil courts, having nothing to do with the punishment for crime which ought to be the criminal court's only concern.

The use of the criminal courts as an agency for the collection of private damages is a misuse of their function which paramours the private aspects of a case and disregards the public welfare. And a judgment which permits a deadly automobile driver, as in this State of bloody roads to escape all punishment save the loss of his license by paying a trifling sum in private damages, indicates that judges and solicitors are not yet awakened to the fact that highway safety needs judicial support.

For most of us it would be difficult to conceive of a criminal more menacing to everybody in North Carolina than the drunken, hit-and-run driver. To turn him loose with only the loss of his license as

Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL HOUTSON

SYNOPSIS: Dirk Joris has heard Elmer Fleming tell his older brother Rupert that she will marry him, and that the reason is Elmer's drinking. Dirk has taken Elmer home after the scene, and has driven from her house, near the old Joris estate, across the river to Jersey. He is to meet Elmer's cousin Isabel at a tent show, one feature of which is a fortune teller of note. Dirk has presented himself at Madame Chowdhury's tent.

Chapter Four

CIRCUS QUEEN

"ENTER!" the woman intoned and billowed forward. Arriving at Dirk, she smiled, showing rather bad teeth. She looked him over, a blue-eyed young man in white summer-dresses and light slatted topcoat, a bare-headed young man with drops of rain on his bright chestnut hair. A young man all alone.

"Come in," she said more softly. "I tell your future and your past. I tell names and places. I conceal nothing."

It sounded much too thorough, and as Madame Chowdhury lifted an inner curtain, beckoning with a fat dark hand, Dirk murmured that he was merely looking for some one, and dropped the flap.

No knowing when Isabel would appear, and there would be the session with Madame Chowdhury for Natalie before they could leave. He had left the umbrella in the car, would wait in the m'n tent out of the way. Buying a ticket, he went in, found a seat low in the reserved tiers.

The trapezists were performing, flying here and there to swing from each other's hands. The rain dripped through the seams of the tent. The rings to which the performers' lungs must be wet, he thought. Presently the man and woman in their pink tights bounded to the ring and ran out, making way for the clown, a spotted, tumbling fellow whose entrance woke a squeal of juvenile laughter.

A man stood at the performers' exit not far from Dirk. Heavy-set, dressed in loose-fitting rather seedy clothes, he leaned against the edge of the tiers, watching the rings. A weathered panama hat was pulled down on his face, throwing it in shadow, a face thick-set like his body, heavy-jawed, with a bulbous nose and a ragged black mustache.

An unlighted cigar twisted at the corner of his mouth, and his eyes stayed with the clown and the ringmaster, not missing a move, not laughing. It was an old story to him.

A GUST of applause and laughter followed the exit of the clown. "Fire!" the ring-master shouted, and Dirk turned to see a girl flying into the arena on a coal-black horse. The girl was dressed in red-tight trousers, flaring at the ankles, silver buttons down the side, a silver-and-red bolero, a white sombrero.

Slim and straight she stood, taking off her hat as she came, holding it in her hand. Her hair rose and fell, a long curling bob, black as the horse. She seemed as much a part of her mount as if she had been a flaming wing.

Now she had dropped into the saddle, had hung her sombrero on the ground. Round and round the ring she went, the horse gathering speed. Suddenly she had swooped under him, and left her saddle, was in it again, while the crowd applauded. Now she stood with one foot on the horse's head and one in the saddle, crouching slightly, a flying pose, a beautiful pose.

The man in the panama hat still stood at the exit. There was no anxiety in his face any more than there had been amusement while the clown performed. He was endowed with faith, or with indifference.

It was over. Firefly had dropped again into the saddle, had leaned over to recover her sombrero, waving with it to the applauding crowd, putting it on. Now she was standing as she had stood at the first, was riding from the ring.

DIRK, clapping loudly, stood as she passed him. Their eyes met, and a little smile touched the corners of her mouth. Dirk snatched the rose from his lapel, and with a deft movement flung it to her.

"Bravo!" he shouted. She caught the token lightly, thrust it into the neck of her blouse, galloped off.

Almost at once the horse returned, reins dangling, the clown jumping at his side, endeavoring to mount him. Now he succeeded, attempting to stand on his back as the girl had stood, succeeding for a flash, only to bend forward with stiff knees and grip the pommel, shaking first one pantalooned leg in the air and then the other, affecting to be in a paroxysm of fear.

Round and round they went. No one was afraid of the clown. He was so funny. How could any one be afraid when he so whoopingly, jitteringly feared for himself?

The man in the panama hat was gone from the exit. Firefly, the girl-rider, stood in his place. Not quite in his place—back farther in the shadow, slightly outside the tent. A dark green cape was thrown about her slight red figure, and she stood watching the clown.

Suddenly she was aware of Dirk.

Amid the roars of laughter Dirk stepped down. He wanted to ask Firefly where she had got her pony. A Spanish pony, it looked like. He wanted to tell her it was a beauty, and she was a darned plucky rider. He hoped she wouldn't mind.

Suddenly she was aware of Dirk, and turned.

An eerie face, honey-brown under the rouge, long lashes beaded with make-up, amber-brown eyes, wide now, and rather startled, a curved mouth lacquered in carmine. Dirk's rose shined at the edge of her blouse, dead-white against the spangles, and the warm gold-olive of her skin.

A glance at him, and a glance back of her into the dark of the lot. Dirk apologized, and said, "You took me off my feet with your riding."

Again that little smile at the corner of her mouth. Again her eyes went to the clown.

"I'll bet you can ride, too," she said.

"What makes you say that?" he asked.

"The way you watched." So she had noticed him. "I ride a little," he told her. "Not like you."

Suddenly she white-ed, and some one screamed. She was gone from him, flying toward the ring. People were standing in the tiers. People were in the ring. The black horse had slipped and fallen. They were lifting him off the clown.

Steiner, the opposition named him keynoter—as Whirligig long ago forecast—out of pique at Manager Hamilton rather than enmity to Mr. Landon. But in the back of their minds they picture the Oregonian as a possible nominee or vice-presidential candidate. Anyway, they demonstrated that they still finger the party machinery—if naught else.

RYNAMITE: Republicans regularly roost Henry Fletcher for not opening a deep-throated barrage against Harry Hopkins' relief methods and expenditures. They complain because the heaviest pounding on Capitol Hill has been done by a Democrat—Rush Holt of West Virginia.

But the Fletcherites' explanation is that the G. O. P. is withholding its fire until the campaign. They have heard and some New Deal sources concede it—that several WPA state administrators have records which won't bear political scrutiny. Hired and volunteer sleuths are supposed to be engaged in assembling material which will be uncoiled when and where it will do the most damage. To divulge it now would furnish Mr. Hopkins a chance to revamp his setup, as he has done on several fronts.

High-up Democrats privately admit that they shiver over the amount of political dynamite lurking in WPA cellars. They are quietly dropping the suggestion that the administration's own detectives be assigned to make an undercover study of the personnel as a basis for wholesale shifts and dismissals.

BLANK: Several inquisitive Congressmen got the shock of their lives on a recent visit to the White House. They announced, somewhat solemnly, that they were waiting upon the President to get the low-down on the bills which were on his "must" list.

Mr. Roosevelt exhibited some irritation, though he did not lose his good humor. He replied that he had never characterized any legislation as "must stuff" since the emergency period of his administration. He insisted that newspaper correspondents had coined the phrase out of their city-room experience, and that he had never used or applied it to legislative procedure.

Some members suspected him of spoofing, but his manner belied that impression. Others walked out mumbling to themselves and wondering if they had imagined certain things—demands for enactment of the Guffey act, the seaketch-rich tax bill last year, the pending tax revision measure, etc. But the net is that they got no insight into the presidential attitude toward such moot matters as chain stores, housing, ship subsidy and "little NRA" bills. The quarterback didn't give them any signals.

New York

By JAMES McMULLEN

PENNSYLVANIA: The Pew family of Philadelphia—who own the Sun Oil Company—form the nucleus of the most effective Republican activity in Pennsylvania. They have never played a prominent role in politics before, but are making up for lost time. J. Howard Pew—head of the family—is a member of William B. Bell's Republican National Finance Committee. New York insiders learn that he is spending his own money with the greatest liberality and party workers who want something to do must be on his list. He has rounded up a good organization and will have a lot to say about the Pennsylvania delegation's attitude at Cleveland.

Alfred M. Landon is a strong first choice for the nomination with the Pews. They are working hard for him behind the scenes. But sources in a position to know say that their main concern is to beat Roosevelt, not to elect Landon, and predict that they will switch their support if convinced that someone else has a better chance of victory. Meanwhile their influence foreshadows Pennsylvania's convention support for Landon.

The Pews are highly regarded by their colleagues in the oil industry. Sun Oil's closest tie-up is with Pure Oil, which has headquarters in Chicago. Ex-vice president Charles G. Dawes is one of Pure Oil's largest stockholders. He is also key man in Col. Frank Knox's paper—the Chicago Daily News.

BALANCING: New York Republican leaders rate the choice of Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon for G. O. P. keynoter at Cleveland as a victory for the "uninstructed delegation" idea. Steiwer is uncommitted if anyone ever was. The Landites accepted him gracefully for the record but were privately very disappointed that they couldn't put over Wayland Brooks—G. O. P. nominee for governor of Illinois—for the job. They are encountering more backstage resistance to their plans to take over the party than they had expected. As predicted in this column, Steiwer is being neatly maneuvered into a position to capture the nomination in case of a deadlock. Borah likes him—which may help. Nobody dislikes him—which would help even more.

Steiwer's record indicates that he's expert at balancing water on both shoulders. He's for economy and the balanced budget—and he voted for the bonus. He's against the New Deal, of course—and he voted for NRA, AAA, TVA and the Wagner labor bill. He voted against the Guffey act (small counterparty of NRA), last year's share-the-wealth taxes and the relief bill.

DOUBLE: Nothing leaks out of the Treasury about the silver negotiations with China, but interested New Yorkers put two and two together and figure the answer is bound to be as follows:

Secretary Morgenthau has never been enthusiastic about the silver purchase policy wished on him by Congress. Its advocates—including Father Coughlin—claimed it would help silver standard China. Actually it means off silver to a paper standard and into the welcoming arms of England. This is no help to the administration's plans for future stabilization on a dollar rather than a sterling basis.

As long as the silver law is on the books Mr. Morgenthau has to buy the metal somewhere. Why not in China? That would give China dollar exchange against which she could manage her paper money more satisfactorily than she can against the pound. This arrangement would have the double advantage of detaching China from the sterling bloc and foiling European speculators who have been riding on the Treasury's silver cartails for a handsome profit. Keen analysts are convinced that this will be the outcome of the parleys.

DISSOLVE: In the early stages of Congressional discussion of the corporate surplus tax it looked as if holding company systems would get out from under the intercorporate dividend tax enacted to force their simplification, with nothing equally painful substituted.

But the holding company executives who privately rejoiced when they discovered this now find they were counting unhatched eggs. The bill as finally submitted to the House socks intermediate holding companies harder than others by abolishing a large part of their exemption for the payment of dividends (to a higher up company). If the bill contains this provision in its ultimate form the intermediate companies might as well dissolve and be done with it.

Railroad holding companies like Allegheny and Chesapeake would be affected along with the more complicated utility systems. But few industrial corporations would be involved because their setups are usually a simple relationship between a single top company and its operating components.

SIGNIFICANT: President George Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank recently made a speech to the Academy of Political Science which didn't get into the newspapers but which startled most of his listeners.

Mr. Harrison prophesied that international currency stabilization was a long way off and inferred that there was much to be said in favor of managed money. Most of his talk could have been made with complete consistency by a member of the Committee for the Nation. His remarks are significant because of the office he holds, because of his former monetary conservatism and because he is obviously working in close harmony with the Federal Reserve Board in Washington.

Also Mr. Harrison has been careful for some time to say nothing in public that could possibly displease the administration.

ANNOUNCEMENT

DIAMOND GAME HERE TUESDAY

Local High School Team to Engage One From Washington

The baseball teams of the Greenville and Washington high schools will clash here tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock at the Third street stadium.

The nine from the Pam Pack under the name of the Pam Pack and should furnish an unusual amount of keen competition owing to the fact that the two teams have for a long time been friendly enemies, and the students as well as others enjoy seeing them engage in any sporting affair.

The Greensies have been easing along during the past few days, having won five successive games. The last game in which the locals participated saw them minus three of their regular players, who were in Greensboro at that time. These faces will not be hidden from view in the Washington game, however.

It took many afternoons of strenuous and consistent practice to enable the Greensies to dispel the jinx that held them spellbound earlier in the season. Their coach, Reynolds May said today that his team was aspiring to pile up more wins and were confident that the remainder of the games to be played this year would be like those of the past, well worth while.

The highs have four games on schedule this week, with two of them being played here. The first game for the week will be played tomorrow afternoon and everyone is urged to attend and give the Greensies the element which any baseball team wishes; that being, support.

HOEY BACKERS SEEM PLEASED

Campaign Managers Express Satisfaction With Reaction

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 24.—The campaign managers for Clyde R. Hoey are not advertising the fact right now or crowing about it, but are secretly delighted at the impression Hoey has been making and the response he has been getting in his recent speeches in eastern counties, many of them regarded as being strongholds of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald. Hoey spoke last night in Lumberton, in Robeson county, had a large audience which became more and more enthusiastic as he assailed the program being advocated by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, one of the other candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor, according to reports received here this morning. Mr. Hoey will speak tonight in Smithfield, Johnston county, where Dr. McDonald is reported as being very strong.

Mr. Hoey spoke in Wilson Wednesday night, another county claimed by the McDonald forces. In spite of this fact and in spite of a pouring rain, the court house was filled and the audience enthusiastic according to several from here who heard him speak in Wilson.

"There is no doubt of the fact that there is a steady and definite trend to Mr. Hoey in almost every section of the state and that he is steadily forging ahead," Hubert Olive, campaign manager for Hoey said today. "This is not only borne out by the reports which we are getting from every section of the state, especially following Mr. Hoey's speeches, but is borne out by the newspaper poll being conducted by the afternoon newspapers of the state."

"The latest figures from this poll, as made public yesterday, show that Mr. Hoey is rapidly pulling up on Dr. McDonald, and that Dr. McDonald now has a lead of only 47 votes over Mr. Hoey. The figures from the tabulations of the votes from 51 counties as given yesterday showed McDonald had 536 votes. Hoey 489. Graham 204 and McRae 23. We are confident that as the poll becomes more complete, Mr. Hoey will rapidly outdistance McDonald."

Bob Burns of Van Buren, Ark., is a member of the 1935 Van Buren high school graduating class. The actor flunked out shortly before the war, but the school board gave him a diploma last year anyway.

To be a tight rope walker was Jean Arthur's earliest ambition. She's contented with being in the movies now, however.

TAMING TARZAN

---By PAP

Terry will be criticised for letting him go. Especially if Whitehead should not come up to the mark at second.

That would hardly be fair to Terry. After all, Terry and the New York Giants had tried for half a dozen years to do something with Parmelee. He was wild when the Giants bought him from Toledo in 1929, and he was wild when he was sent to the Cardinals in 1935. Parmelee walked 97 batters to pace the National League pitchers and hit nine men—the latter honor he shared with Daffy Dean.

Parmelee pitched a couple of games for the Giants in 1929, winning one. He was farmed to Newark the next season but was recalled to pitch in eleven games and was charged with the loss of one. He lacked control and was sent to Columbus. That was in 1931. Before the season was over he was back in New York.

A 'Giant' Headache In 1932 he won 14 games for Columbus while losing only one. That earned him another chance with the Giants and he came back to be charged with three losses. The following year he won 13 and lost eight for the Giants. His appendix acted up and had to be removed late in April, 1934. He got back in time to win 10 games for the Giants. Last season he won 14 while losing 10.

Parmelee was one of the Giants' big headaches. He lacked only control to be a great pitcher. To Bill

Terry he was a real "problem child." Terry stuck with him in hopes that he would find himself and be the great pitcher he was physically equipped to be. He hated to pass him along to some other team—if for no other reason that he would have to be called on to bat against him.

SPORT SLANTS

If Bill Terry, the New York Giants' manager, reads the sport pages, as he most likely does, he probably noted with no little interest that the first Cardinal victory of the current campaign was scored by none other than Tarzan

(The Untamed) Parmelee when the former Giant hurler set down the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, after Dizzy Dean flopped dismally in the season opener.

Parmelee is likely to win a lot of ball games for the Cards this season, but the fact that he scored over the National league champions in convincing fashion in his very first start in the Red Bird uniform makes it worthy of note. And a conversation which followed the consummation of the deal which sent Parmelee to St. Louis in exchange for Burgess Whitehead. Other players figured in the deal, but this is not important to this yarn.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete our highway system.

2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists up to 2 cents per mile less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, tires, and car repairs.

3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.

And in addition to these money-reasons concrete pavements give motorists relaxation... comfort... and SAFETY!

Terry is delighted with the fine showing Whitehead made in the opening game against Brooklyn when he made a couple of sensational stops and played a great game around second base. And just when Terry was feeling pretty well satisfied that he got the better of the bargain—along came Parmelee to make his former boss look mighty foolish as a prognosticator. If Parmelee should happen to have a good season in St. Louis,

Terry will be criticised for letting him go. Especially if Whitehead should not come up to the mark at second.

That would hardly be fair to Terry. After all, Terry and the New York Giants had tried for half a dozen years to do something with Parmelee. EDITORS URGE BUYING BONDS

Drive Being Carried On Locally to Sell Peace Bonds

"People will naturally ask," said Rev. R. C. Grady, chairman of the local Peace Bond drive, "if the purchase of a Peace Bond is a sound investment." A good answer is implied in the slogan for this nationwide campaign: "Buy a Peace Bond now rather than a War Bond later!"

"Information we have received from the NCPW indicates how the country is responding to the idea of an investment in peace. For instance, an editorial on the Bond sale in the Rochester, N. Y. Chronicle asserted that peace as an investment ought to appeal to Americans with their financial instincts and wide experience in distinguishing sound securities from 'goldbricks'—it should be obvious with a little thought that as a long-term investment peace outweighs every speculative offering on the market.—Lip service for peace is easy and popular; spending money for it is an evidence of conviction. Said the Buffalo, N. Y. Express, commenting editorially: 'If it is patriotic in wartime to invest in war, it would seem that it is also patriotic in time of peace to invest in peace. Whatever confidence one may have in this or that peace enterprise, the consideration is obvious that only formally organized and financially supported movements for peace can be effective against martial propaganda with its unlimited resources of private and pre-empted public capital. Considering that war is the most expensive thing in the world, peace—if attainable by the medium of volunteer popular subscription—would, at any price, appear comparatively cheap.'"

"A sound investment? For the next few years, at least," said Mr. Grady, "I know of no better investment. For, as church people, for instance, should recognize, unless war can be abolished by the strengthening of peace techniques, foreign missions will come to a standstill and the Church itself will come to an impasse, not even to mention the complete upheaval and destruction of all phases of cultural, scientific, industrial and educational advances and researches. Let us recall a New York Times story of last December 20, to the effect that almost $7,000,000 was spent in 1934-5 by Yale University. Interpreted, that means $7,000,000 to educate young Americans and to equip them to take their places in a war-threatened world. $7,000,000 to educate them for peaceful pursuits—when—as is popularly known—a few bombs dropped in a war would destroy the entire University, students and all. Or, put it another way: the amount it costs—according to estimates—to kill a man in war: $25,000. For that same amount spent to educate 5,107 students—and these figures are not mine, I'm no mathematician!—280 men could be killed!"

"The one immediate issue to be settled by the peoples of this world—and may this country have the grace and courage to lead the way—is the issue where war and peace lock horns. For upon the settlement of that issue rightly depends the future progress of so-called civilized man, organized religion included. A sound investment—this money that goes into the purchase of a Peace Bond? To raise the question—with thoughtfulness—is to answer it! 'May Greenville respond and do its share!'"

New York, April 27.—(AP)—Stocks slumped in today's market, many issues yielding one to six points or so.

Plans Being Made For Special Services

Plans are being laid for a successful series of special services under the preaching of the Rev. J. J. Murray, D. D., Lexington, Virginia at the First Presbyterian Church the week of May 4-10. The time for the week-day evening services has been set for 7:45. At an enthusiastic and splendidly-attended mid-week service this past Wednesday night work was outlined for the different groups of the church preparatory to Dr. Murray's coming. Cottage prayer services have been set for this coming week at ten o'clock on the morning of Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at the homes of Mrs. Guy Smith, Mrs. E. W. Harvey and Mrs. R. C. Deal, respectively, with the Rev. J. R. Potts, the leader of these services. At the coming mid-week service of the church reports from the different committees will be heard, and further plans outlined.

Attention is called to the fact that this mid-week service will be held on Tuesday evening instead of Wednesday evening, the hour of 7:30 remaining the same.

A native North Carolinian and a man who has spent most of his ministerial life in eastern North Carolina, Dr. Murray is assured of a hearty welcome on the part of the community. He has been in his present charge, the historic Lexington, Virginia Presbyterian church, since 1924, where he has worked effectively among the Presbyterian students at Washington and Lee University. The theme he has announced for his series of sermons is "The All-Sufficient Christ."

Indians of the Kiowa reservation near Anadarko, Okla., are organizing an all-Indian American Legion post with a prospective membership of 168.

First Commandment to Be Staged Here On Wednesday, Thursday

A most unusual and sensational event is scheduled for Greenville. It is new and different, and cannot be compared to anything ever before produced in this city. "The First Commandment" is a Biblical dramatization in which the most prominent people of the community are taking part. The production is staged with over 60 authentic costumes, unusual lighting equipment, and a dramatization of the most interesting and important events leading up to and connected with the giving of the Ten Commandments. It can only be compared to the gigantic motion picture "The Ten Commandments" and the well known "Passion Play." The actual cast includes 80 of the business and professional people of Greenville. They will wear authentic costumes of 4,000 years ago, long, flowing and colorful robes, with beards and wigs. Including the spectacular and popular dress of the court of Egypt of the time of King Tut.

Rev. R. C. Grady has been chosen for the part of Joseph. He is supported by ten brothers who sell him into Egyptian slavery. J. P. Harrington is Reuben; Edward Hearne is the grasping Judah. The part of Simeon is done by R. C. Deal; Levi by William Harris. The court scenes are given with all the pomp and splendor of ancient Egypt. The costumes are sensational and the color effects remarkable. The Pharaoh of ancient time is portrayed by Rev. W. H. Wicker. Everyone knows the ability of Mr. Wicker to carry this part.

M. T. Cameron of Washington will play the Pharaoh of Moses' time. He is recognized by historians as the famous King Tut. You will find Mr. Cameron in an intensely dramatic role—something different than ever done before by amateur performers. The wise men of Egypt are Dr. M. B. Massey, Thurman Kitchin, J. H. Boyd, III and Sam Dees. Jack Nobles portrays the chief counselor and Edmond Waldrop the part of Steward.

Rev. Edward T. Gilbert of Washington, takes the leading role of Moses. He is one of the most dynamic and dramatic characters of Biblical history. To hear Father Gilbert portray Moses in a most unusual manner is alone worth the price of admission. He is ably supported by R. Lee Stewart, also of Washington, playing the part of his brother, Aaron. Other important characters are Miss Anna Lord playing the part of Miriam; Miss Ramona Staples as the Spirit of Truth, moves with rhythmic grace handling a 40-yard piece of china silk in a most unusual way. She is supported by eight of her girls—also with rhythmic grace, in the manna scene. J. C. Waldrop gives an excellent interpretation of Kobath, Jack Spain as Malachi and Howard Waldrop as Helon. P. W. Picklesimer, J. C. Gaskins and Rev. J. A. McIver are also featured. Another special character is Rev. W. A. Ryan playing the part of Grandfather who in a modern manner interprets the various episodes as they are portrayed, and is supported by Edna Ferguson, Miss Cotton Skinner, Miss Mary Jones and Herbert Waldrop, Jr. Another important and beautiful scene is the Nativity, with Miss Emmy Lou Scales as Mary; W. H. Taft as Joseph and the three kings, J. H. Rose, W. W. Lee, Ed Williams—and the four shepherds.

Miss Eugenia Thomas is director of the choir of 25 voices. This music is interspersed throughout the various scenes.

This is staged in the high school auditorium, sponsored by the Episcopal Church, next Wednesday and Thursday nights. No one can afford to miss this unusual and sensational type of production. The finale is a mass of color and light such as never before seen in Greenville.

INTERESTING INFORMATION FOUND IN STRAW BALLOTS

(Continued from page one) by postal employees on several ballots returned and since absentee voting has been outlawed in Pitt County these ballots are not now votable and must go into the discard. In times past there have been rumors that many "dead" voters' ballots were cast in Pitt County primaries but now that such voting is officially outlawed The Reflector will not permit these votes to be cast in its gubernatorial poll.

While the first returns gave Hoey a lead among the women's votes in the counties being polled by The Reflector McDonald's lead now in the votes cast by the fairer sex indicates that there is a swing in sentiment for the "goodlooking" Winston-Salemite. Among the ballots marked "female" McDonald now has a total of 16 while Hoey has 11.

These are some of the sidelights that the voting in The Reflector poll has given on the political situation as it pertains to the gubernatorial race. The Reflector has already mailed out 1,000 secret ballots to voters in Pitt, Martin, Bertie, Beaufort and Hyde counties and an additional 500 ballots will be mailed each Thursday for the next three weeks. The ballots are being mailed to one out of every twelve registered Democratic voters in these counties and this cross section vote should give a good indication as to how the race will come out in the primary June 6. While this poll is being made by The Reflector in these five counties other newspapers of the state are taking similar polls in their vicinities and on Thursday, May 7 The Reflector will publish the first tabulation of votes so gathered from the 100 counties of the state.

Persons who have received one of the ballots or who receive one in the future are urged to mark them and drop them back into the mails immediately. The ballots are secret and no one knows the identity of the person voting the ballot so there need be no fear on the part of the person in voting and mailing their ballot. The ballots are in the form of government postal cards and require no additional postage.

Mail in your ballot now and watch The Reflector from day to day for the tabulations of the poll.
