State-Wide Straw Vote Gives R. W. McDonald Nearly Half Of Ballots

First Returns from All Counties Show Wide Margin

CLYDE R. HOEY RUNNING SECOND

Legislator and Administration Foe Has Clear Majority In This Section

By C. A. PAUL

Unless Ralph W. McDonald should be halted, and right sharply, the first complete statewide tabulation in The Daily Reflector gubernatorial poll will show him leading the four-man race by a wide margin.

While the results so far are somewhat scattered, they come from every section of the state. With first returns in from more than 80 of the state's 100 counties McDonald has more than 46 per cent of the total, with Clyde R. Hoey running second with a little more than 34 per cent. Graham is showing up a poor third, with 17 per cent, while McRae is garnering only two per cent of the total.

In 10 counties in the Charlotte area Hoey has a little more than 52 per cent of the total. McDonald 33 1-2, and Graham and McRae splitting the remainder about evenly. Included in the Charlotte count is Hoey's home county, Cleveland, which is returning an 87 per cent for its long-haired son. McDonald however, is leading Hoey by more than 3 to 2 in Charlotte and Mecklenburg county.

Returns from Forsyth, McDonald's home county, and eight nearby counties, show the Winston-Salem man far in the lead, polling three votes to Hoey's one, with Graham getting about one-half as many as Hoey. Only one vote out of hundreds counted in the Winston-Salem area was marked for McRae.

McDonald has, apparently, covered the waterfront exceedingly well, for he is running far ahead in the Wilmington and Elizabeth City areas. In five counties in the Wilmington territory McDonald is leading his nearest competitor, Hoey, by more than 2 1-2 to 1, and is outdistancing Graham by more than 3 to 1, and is leaving McRae farthest behind, almost by 20 to 1.

In the seven counties in the Elizabeth City area McDonald has a majority of one vote over all his competitors, with McRae failing to register thus far.

In Salisbury and Rowan county Hoey and McDonald are neck and neck with Graham being submerged about 2 1-2 to 1 by both the leaders.

In the Raleigh territory, composed of five counties, McDonald is piling up a tremendous lead, having a clear majority over all three opponents. He is registering leads of more than 3 to 1 over Hoey and Graham, while McRae has fewer than a dozen votes out of the hundreds tabulated thus far.

Durham and its four nearby counties are returning a heavy McDonald vote, with the college professor getting a majority of the total and plenty to spare. He is running ahead of Hoey almost 4 to 1, and ahead of Graham by more than 2 to 1.

In Concord and Cabarrus county Hoey is polling about 50 per cent of the total vote. McDonald about 25 per cent, with Graham and McRae dividing the remainder.

In the Reidsville area Rockingham and Caswell counties are returning a plurality for McDonald, with Hoey running a good second, but only one vote ahead of Graham.

In the Rocky Mount territory, which comprises four counties, early returns show McDonald leading Hoey about 3 to 1, Graham about 6 to 1. In the two counties in the Kinston district, Jones and Lenoir, McDonald leads too, but not by such a wide margin, but he is polling more than 40 per cent of the total, with Hoey second and Graham getting about one-half as many votes as Hoey.

In the Goldsboro and Wilson areas, made up of four counties, McDonald thus far has more than a clear majority over all opponents, running ahead of Hoey more than 2 to 1, ahead of Graham 3 to 1, and with McRae barely registering.

In the Greenville area composed of five counties McDonald has a clear majority with a vote of more than 2 to 1 over Hoey and 3 to 1 over Graham with McRae receiving only 4 votes.

At Asheville the picture changes sharply. With 17 counties in the district and hundreds of ballots recorded, Hoey has a commanding lead, outdistancing McDonald a little better than 2 to 1 and maintaining a lead of more than 3 to 1 over Graham.

Vote Now

If you have received one of The Reflector gubernatorial poll ballots, vote it now. The first statewide tabulation to be published next Thursday will include the votes cast up to Saturday of this week. Votes cast after that time will not be included in the statewide tabulation until a week following the first tabulation publication. You naturally want your favorite candidate to make the best possible showing. Cast your ballot now and help to increase his vote.

MANY REMAIN WITHOUT JOBS

Federation Says Industry Not Absorbing Unemployed

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—The American federation of labor contended today that the country still will have 7,000,000 unemployed when business reached its 1929 level.

After estimating the number of jobs last night at 12,184,000, the federation said in its unemployment survey: "When business reached its lowest depression point in March, 1933, 11,342,000 of those who had jobs in 1929 had been laid off and business had fallen 42 per cent below normal, according to the analysts index.

"With 72 per cent of the business loss regained, we should have found work for 72 per cent of the depression unemployed if we expect to restore employment by the time business again reaches normal.

"That is, we should have reemployed 8,120,000; actually we have reemployed only 5,270,000."

The survey said that "little progress had been named toward reemployment in the first quarter of 1935" with 559,000 getting jobs from January to March. The Federation blamed lengthened work hours.

Fuad, 1st, of Egypt Entombed Today In Royal Mosque

King Goes to Last Resting Place Unaccompanied by New King, His 16-Year-Old Son Farouk

Cairo, Egypt, April 30.—(AP)—King Fuad, one of Egypt's first constitutional monarchs, was entombed in the royal mosque at Al-Farouk today after being borne from Abdin palace on a gun carriage draped with the national flag, through the heart of his capital.

King Fuad went to his last resting place unaccompanied by the new king, his 16-year-old son, Farouk.

The former crown prince, who was proclaimed king after his father's death Tuesday went to Buckingham Palace in London while the funeral procession was passing through Cairo and was escorted by King Edward for half an hour in the English monarch's private apartment.

King Farouk was expected to leave London this afternoon for Cairo, his studies in England cut short by his ascension to the Egyptian throne.

Farm Bureau Offices In Munford Building

The headquarters of the North Carolina Farm Bureau have been moved from 403 1-2 Evans street to the Munford building at Five Points. The organization is located on the second floor, room number six.

Charles J. Brockway, acting executive secretary, said the Bureau was forced to move because of the rapid growth of the organization. He invited visitors to call at the new headquarters.

Latest Returns Show Gains For Roosevelt

Philadelphia, April 30.—(AP)—Latest returns from Tuesday's primary gave President Roosevelt 420,560 votes and Col. Henry Breckinridge 24,582 in 4,772 of the 7,993 precincts in the state, in the presidential preferential balloting.

Senator William E. Borah, opposed in the Republican preferential balloting, received 274,490 4,537 districts.

LARGE DEFICIT IS PREDICTED BY SECRETARY

Morgenthau Places Figures at $5,966,000,000 This Year

APPEARS BEFORE FINANCE GROUP

Declares Payment Of Bonus Is Partly Responsible For Biggest Deficit In Years

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—A treasury deficit of $5,966,000,000—the biggest in peace time history—was forecast by Secretary Morgenthau for the current fiscal year today in urging Congressional enactment of President Roosevelt's full tax program.

Morgenthau said prepayment of the bonus was partly responsible for the huge figure, by which he said expenditures would exceed income in the 12 months ending June 30.

In recommending that the senate add to the $803,000,000 house tax bill the temporary processing taxes asked by President Roosevelt, Morgenthau also estimated that the 1937 deficit would be $2,675,000,000.

He said that except for the bonus payment voted by congress there would have been declining deficits in both years.

Appearing as the first witness as the finance committee opened hearings on the bill, passed yesterday by a 267 to 93 house vote, the treasury chief said federal credit depended upon "scrupulously adherence to an orderly program looking to a balance of the federal budget as just as soon as the needs and the abilities of our people make that possible and thereafter upon a steady reduction in the public debt."

President Roosevelt's suggestion for temporary processing taxes did not even receive committee approval in the house.

The treasury secretary for the first time disclosed that the new corporate tax plan, estimated to yield $620,000,000 annually in revenue, would raise only $310,000,000 for the first year.

It must be recognized, he said, "that the choice of an income tax as the means for raising additional revenue necessarily involves a delay in realization of increased receipts."

Three Candidates In City Election Not To Be Opposed

J. A. Watson Seeking Post To Be Vacated by Mrs. J. L. Hassell; Aldermen Taft and Massey Running

No contests will be run-off at the city elections to be held here Monday, May 4, no two candidates for the Board of Aldermen having announced from any one ward which is to select a member. Time for filing expired five days prior to the election.

J. A. Watson has filed for the post from the second ward, now held by Mrs. J. L. Hassell, who will not seek re-election.

Dr. M. B. Massey is seeking re-election from the Fourth ward and will not be opposed in the election. Joseph M. Taft is unopposed in his candidacy for re-election to the board from the Third ward.

Only three vacancies are to be filled at the election this year. Mayor M. K. Blount was named to succeed the late Mayor R. C. Flanagan and under a ruling of the attorney general of North Carolina will complete the full term for which his predecessor was elected.

The present terms of the mayor and the five other aldermen do not expire for another year.

The five aldermen not up for election this year are: first ward, L. B. Fleming; second ward, Vernon Parrish; third ward, H. H. Duncan; fourth ward, A. C. Tadlock; and fifth ward, A. E. Hobgood.

Shad Fishing Season Extended Until May 5

Fishermen in this vicinity were elated today over an announcement that they would be allowed to continue their sport longer than the scheduled time.

C. R. Jones, Pitt county game warden, announced today that the shad season had been extended to May 15 in commercial fishing waters.

New Rates Are Announced By Carolina Telephone Co.

Subscribers Having Had French Types For As Long As 18 Months, No Longer to Be Charged Extra; Other Reductions

J. H. Pitts, group manager of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, today announced the new rates to be put in effect June 1 for Greenville and other places under the supervision of the plant here.

ANOTHER HELD WENDEL PROBE

Sol Marcus of Trenton Arrested on Fugitive Warrant

Trenton, N. J., April 30.—(AP)—Assistant District Attorney Francis Madden of Queens County, N. Y., announced today the arrest of Sol Marcus, 33, of Trenton in connection with the Wendel case. Marcus was held without bail by Police Judge Andrew Duch. He is expected to be transferred to the Mercer county jail today. Lieut. James Di Louie of the Trenton police, who accompanied two Brooklyn detectives on making the arrest, said Marcus delivered money from some one in New Jersey to those charged in Brooklyn, N. Y., with kidnapping Wendel. The kidnapping delinquent Bruno Richard Hauptmann's execution for the Lindbergh baby kidnapping three days.

Last Rites Held For Virginia Harrington

Virginia Dare Harrington, two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Annie Cannon Harrington, died last night at 7:15 o'clock at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Briley on the Washington highway, near Grimesland. She had been ill only a short time with pneumonia. Funeral services were conducted from the home this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Mr. Dixon of the Grimesland Methodist church in charge. Burial was in Porter cemetery near Simpson.

Robert Cummings, now in pictures, hoaxed his way into show business by adopting the name and English personality of one "Blade Stanhope Conway."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

REALISTIC: You can take with plenty of doses of salt spray reports that business and industry and finance are biting off their noses to spite Franklin D. Roosevelt's classic profile.

The dominant though unadmitted attitude at the recent convention of the Chamber of Commerce was that private interests must make their plans and push ahead without regard for administrative policies. It was clearly expressed in the cocktail comment that "We've probably got to live with this man for five more years, so let's not make faces at him." Though dubious about tomorrow, the membership seemed to feel that they should be as gay as FDR would permit. Moreover, they don't want to furnish him with an alibi.

Here are a few straws: Whirligig exclusively reported that Liberty Leagues Raskob is buying farm land and gambling for a rise in value. Now it turns out that a New York insurance company directed by Al Smith and Herbert Hoover has financed a forty-year housing program at 4 per cent because it's underwritten by the government.

The Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads have sold recent issues for as low as 3 3-4 per cent (Continued on page four)

MOVES SETTLE WAGE DISPUTE

Sec. Perkins Calls Conference For Washington

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins today asked the anthracite coal operators and representatives of United Mine workers to reach an agreement at this morning's meeting, May 1 suggest the committee adjourn to reconvene at 9 p. m. Washington time tonight in the United States Department of Labor building at Washington. Please wire if agreeable.

Miss Perkins sent the telegram to W. W. Inglis, chairman of the operators' conference, and to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers.

The secretary decided upon this action after repeated efforts by Edward McGrady, assistant secretary, had failed to bring the two groups into agreement.

The reductions, approved by the State Utilities commission last week, will average nearly 10 per cent in Greenville, but the saving percentage will be higher in Ayden, Farmville, Fountain and Snow Hill.

In the places named, other than Greenville, a flat 25 cent reduction will be made on every type of telephone, business and residence. Mr. Pitts explained that since the average rate in these places is lower than that for the Carolina company as a whole, the per cent of the cut would be greater.

The 25 cents per month surcharge on the monophone, or French, type telephone will be discontinued if a subscriber has been paying the charge for 18 months. If he has paid it several months he can pay the difference and no further extra charge will be made. A subscriber wishing to change from the wall of desk style may do so upon payment of the full surcharge of $4.50 and the change of equipment cost of $1.50. The $4.50 also may be paid in 18 monthly installments, with the extra cost to be discontinued when the full surcharge has been paid.

Mr. Pitts emphasized there was no difference in the cost of the service of a wall, French or desk set, but that the surcharge of $4.50 for the French type was added to pay for the difference in the cost of this style and other types of telephones.

The new rates, to be effective June 1, for Greenville follow:

Special business line, old rate, $4.00, and duplex business line, old rate, $3.50, will remain the same; special resident line, old rate, $2.50, new rate, $2.35; duplex resident line, old rate, $2.00, new rate, $1.75.

Extension lines for business under the old rates cost $1.25 for desk telephones and $1.50 for monophone types. Under the new rates $1.00 will be charged for service of all types.

Under the old rates resident extensions cost $1.00 for desk and $1.25 for monophone. The new rate is $1.75 for all types.

Single line telephones are designated as special, and duplex lines as duplex.

While no reduction was made in business telephones, subscribers having had French types for as much as 18 months will not be required to pay the 25 cents surcharge.

BODY ATTACKS REVENUE PLAN

Chamber of Commerce Asks Committee Condemn Plan

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—The convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was asked by its resolutions committee today to attack administration tax plans, condemn legislation to control labor conditions and approve a proposed survey of available jobs.

The resolution on taxation said "the first step in bringing order into the finances of the federal government should be a reduction of expenditures, but by Congress and the executives to those amounts which are needed for efficient accomplishment of purposes which are necessary and appropriate for the federal government."

On business and social security a resolution said: "When government attempts by legislative measures or executive fiat to impose upon business rules of conduct pertaining to such matters as wages, hours, conditions and terms of employment or other restrictive measures interfering with the free play of economic forces it retards both the material and spiritual progress of the nation."

"Here again the interference by government in attempts to reduce the whole complex problem to one of legislative formulae can only postpone the final solution by making it more difficult for business to assume its own obligations in the matter."

The unemployment resolution urged the cooperation of all business groups and government agencies in a survey by a special committee of "the possibilities of reemployment by private enterprise."

A resolution on agriculture urged a "complete investigation of the effects of countries" and said steps should be "taken at once to put an end to effects of this kind prejudicial to agriculture or any other field of enterprise."

PAROLE SET-UP IS COMMENDED

Attorney-General Cummings Praises State's System

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 29.—Enthusiastic commendation and indorsement was given by U. S. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to the new North Carolina parole system and the manner in which it is being administered by Commissioner of Paroles Edwin M. Gill in the course of his address before the State Service Conference in Durham this week. Further approval was given to the parole system and the manner in which it is being administered by Dr. P. K. Bixby, assistant director of the Federal Division of Prisons, under Attorney General Cummings and the Department of Justice.

"I think you have every fundamental included in your parole program and I believe your idea of utilizing to a maximum existing agencies, such as the welfare and police departments in the counties and towns of the state, will bring highly satisfactory results," Dr. Bixby said after spending almost the entire day Monday inspecting the parole office, its files and the system being used, also the Central Prison and other prison camps in this area.

When Attorney General Cummings came to that portion of his address dealing with the Federal parole system, he turned towards Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and Paroles Commissioner Gill and congratulated them upon the work being done in this state and upon the system being used. A parole expert in his own right, Mr. Cummings received his information concerning the North Carolina system through experts in his own department who were consulted while the new system was being perfected.

"With a Governor so interested in social reform and a parole commissioner so well informed on the fundamentals as well as the details of parolies, I believe the program has a bright future in North Carolina," Dr. Bixby said. "In my opinion, steps should be taken as soon as possible to stabilize and insure permanence for the new parole system in your state."

Mr. Cummings indorsement of the state parole system was not included in the text of his prepared address, but came spontaneously, following a brief outline of the new system presented to the Social Service Conference by Commissioner Gill.

CENTENNIAL DIRECTORS BUILD PRAIRIE SCHOONERS

Dallas, Tex. (AP)—Genuine prairie schooners, stage coaches and ox carts are so rare in the southwest today that Texas Centennial exposition directors, collecting "properties" for the $150,000 historical pageant, are forced to reproduce most of the frontier-day vehicles they need.

They have found that virtually all antiquated coaches and wagons preserved from the nineteenth century have been taken to distant states. The cost of borrowing or buying them for the Texas show would be prohibitive.

"While we can find only two authentic old stage coaches in Texas, more than 100 of them are in New York state alone," explains August Vollman, properties director.

REPORT DEMAND STILL BRISK FOR OLD FASHIONED HERBS

Richmond, Va.—(AP)—Modern medicine hasn't crowded out the seller of old-fashioned herbs.

The sellers report demands are still brisk for rat bane, May apple root, dogwood bark, gall of the earth, wild cherry and redwood bark.

Child Health Day Finds 47 States Planning Bigger Welfare Programs

Forty-seven states have signed their intention of cooperating in child-health provisions of the federal social security act in an effort to assure Young America a better future.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Child Health day May 1, draws new significance this year from expanded state and federal welfare programs fostered by the social security act.

Katherine Lenroot, children's bureau director, estimates $3,000,000 is being spent nationally and locally for child welfare in the first half of 1936 and expects an equal amount will be appropriated for the second half.

The social security act authorizes federal grants to states for four types of children's aid—maternal and child health services, crippled children's services, child welfare services and aid to dependent children.

Child Aid Most Popular
Federal money is allotted on the basis of proved state need—after the state has devised a plan acceptable to the social security board for handling the funds and has established a state agency to administer the plan.

States must match federal money 50-50 for crippled children's and maternal and child health services and two-for-one for dependent children's aid. For child welfare work no ratio has been set. With state legislatures, the children's aid provisions of the social security act have proved most popular. All but one state, North Dakota, have submitted plans for receiving at least one type of federal assistance for child welfare.

Many Plans Approved
For the first quarter of 1936, the social security board approved 38 state plans for child and maternal health services, releasing $387,857; twenty-six state programs for crippled children's services, calling for federal grants of $168,763 and 17 state proposals for aid to dependent children, with federal appropriations totaling $89,175 to 12 of these states.

State child welfare programs submitted to the social security board contemplate the following activities for the year: pediatrics and obstetrics courses for doctors, nurses and teachers; parental classes and clinics; health conferences for pre-school children; public health nursing and home instruction; immunization services; special investigations for goiter and tuberculosis among school children.

dains protective police escorts, recently was re-elected by a 15,000 majority.

Milwaukee citizens who repeatedly have voted for the perennial mayor and against other socialist candidates on his ticket explain they like Hoan but not socialism.

Only once has the man who abandoned a promising career as a hotel chef to attend college, study, law, and enter politics, had a council majority to support his views. Aided by two progressives, the socialists controlled the council in 1932-36.

At the recent election seven socialist aldermen and the city attorney were defeated for re-election. A non-partisan city attorney, treasurer and comptroller were named to office.

Many voters were frank to express belief that good government results from an official set-up in which non-partisans and socialists are watchful of the other.

Under such a system, Milwaukee in 20 years virtually has abolished corruption, vice and major crime; won fame for municipal credit, public health, fire prevention and traffic safety; built up its schools, parks and playgrounds; spent more than $157,000,000 for public improvements; and has established an amortization fund that will equal the public debt in 1943.

The man at the helm during this period of achievement was only 35 when he first assumed the mayoral burden.

Hoan, born in Waukesha, Wis., in 1881, left school at 14 and from kitchen helper advanced in seven years to chef in leading Chicago and Milwaukee hotels.

He entered the University of Wisconsin when he was 21 and was graduated in 1905 as president of his class. After a year in the restaurant business, he entered law school and was admitted to the bar in 1908.

He still likes to cook, gets his own meals when Mrs. Hoan is away from home, and many are the stories of tasty dishes he serves his friends at his north woods summer home.

Hoan paces the floor restlessly while conversing, talks rapidly in a high, twangy voice and punctuates his speech with swift gestures and an occasional descriptive cuss word.

"From scullery to mayor's office" is the acclamation of Hoan's friends.

"He should be back in the kitchen," some opponents retort.

But many citizens will confide that they think he's an A-1 administrator and is "really only one-tenth socialist and nine-tenths lawyer and business man—and a good one."

Fugitive Motorists Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The net has been tightened around autoists who dodge damage suits arising from accidents by fleeing to another state. Laws in 42 states now permit service of processes on the head of the motor vehicle department as the offender's "true attorney." The defendant is notified by registered mail and judgment may be taken unless he fights the case.

End of cord in Gum-Dipped Tire showing every fiber insulated with liquid rubber

End of cord from ordinary tire showing unprotected cotton fibers inside the cord

The body of the New Firestone High Speed Tire is made from selected long-staple cotton dipped in liquid rubber, absorbing eight pounds of rubber in every hundred pounds of cotton. This patented Gum-Dipping process insulates every fiber in every cotton cord, preventing internal friction which creates the heat so destructive to tire life, and giving to the tire added strength.

This heavy, broad, traction and non-skid tread is held to the cord body of the tire with Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords, a patented construction, making the cord body and tread an inseparable unit.

A leading university in 2350 tire tests has found that the new, scientifically designed Firestone High Speed tread stops a car up to 25% quicker. Its super-traction and non-skid efficiency have also been proved in the famous Pike's Peak Race where for eight consecutive years it has been used on the winning cars.

MAKING ICE from oil heat
may sound like some sort of a miracle, but in thousands of homes all over the country Superfex Refrigerators have proved over a period of years that "coal oil" may be used to make modern refrigeration of the most economical sort. Not a miracle, but certainly a most important blessing to rural homes.

This amazing refrigerator actually provides plenty of cold for keeping foods fresh, freezing ice cubes, and making frozen desserts, simply by burning a small amount of kerosene!

The new 1936 models offer adjustable shelves, ample food storage space, porcelain lining and dozens of other features that save time, work and trouble. And, if you wish, you may purchase a Superfex on easy terms. Ask for free home demonstration.

Miss Brogren Honored.

A very attractive affair of the week was yesterday when Mrs. D. M. Clark and Mrs. David J. Whichard, Jr., charmingly entertained at luncheon and bridge at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, honoring Miss Nettie Brogren of Canton.

Ten attractively appointed tables were placed in an artistic setting of iris, roses and mixed spring flowers. The place of the honor guest was marked with a shouderette of roses and valley lilies.

A tempting luncheon was served. Following the luncheon bridge was played and prizes awarded. Mrs. J. B. Ficklen, winner of high score, was given a sapphire glass pitcher.

and Mrs. M. K. Fort, a potted plant for slams. Table prizes, pottery vases, were cut by Mrs. J. L. Winstead, Mrs. Worth Wicker, Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. A. E. Hogue, Mrs. Vernon Parrish, Mrs. W. A. Darden, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr., Mrs. Edward Batchelor, Mrs. W. P. Moore and Mrs. W. J. Bundy.

Miss Brogren was remembered with silk hose. Miss Carrie Wilson and Miss Ila Johnston, out of town guests, were given dainty handkerchiefs.

Spectacular Performance Given.

Last night, in the first of its two presentations at the high school auditorium, "The First Commandment" was enthusiastically received by a large audience and acknowledged to be a most unusual production, both in conception and performance. The color afforded by the costumes and lighting, and the grace and beauty of the tableaux gave a brilliancy to the performance that is seldom seen in amateur productions. Certainly, nothing of its size and type has ever before been attempted by local amateurs.

The music, furnished by twenty-five of the city's best voices under the capable direction of Miss Eugenia Thomas, contributed continuously to the emotional value of the show from the opening strains of "Holy! Holy! Holy!" to the broad, sweeping jubilation of the "Hallelujah Chorus" which climaxed the drama. The seriousness and spiritual quality which prevailed in every phase of the production made it unique and most impressive.

Credit for achieving these many pleasing and unusual effects is due Miss Grace Hoffman, able professional director from New York. By remarkable work with local people she has produced this high and professional type of entertainment.

Among the players, special mention should be made of the splendid work of Miss Cotten Skinner who two days ago, stepped into the role of the Mother, made vacant by a withdrawal of the cast. Edward Hearne and R. C. Deal gave striking performances as the villainous brothers of Joseph. J. Frank Harrington ably portrayed Reuben, the kindly brother. Rev. R. C. Grady gave an excellent interpretation of Joseph, as did Rev. Worth Wicker as one of the Pharisees.

Assisting the local people were the Rev. Edward T. Gilbert, as Moses; R. Lee Stewart, as Aaron; and M. T. Cameron of Washington, playing the roles they had so convincingly played in the production when it was given in Washington. Their splendid performances were particularly well and appreciatively received by the local audience last night.

Miss Ramona Staples as the "Spirit of Truth" gave an interpretative dance with a large piece of white silk which, at the climax of the dance, symbolized Truth prevailing over the world. She was assisted by a charming group of her dance pupils.

The audience who saw "The First Commandment" last night felt the inspiration of the drama and were lavish in their praises of it. Others look forward to tonight's performance which will also be at the high school auditorium at eight o'clock.

Rev. D. D. MacBryde At College.

Rev. Duncan D. MacBryde, who was licensed and ordained a minister of the Presbyterian Church at a meeting of the Fayetteville Presbytery, held the week of April 25 at Laurel Hill Church, in Scotland county, will be the quarterly speaker for the college Y. W. C. A. at Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Liningood of Williamston, and Dr. Joseph Smith of Greenville.

Senator Rush D. Holt, the Senate's youngest member, buys a Peace Bond from Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council For Prevention of War. This organization has launched a million dollar drive to build a stronger peace movement in America.

services, conferences with the students, and have an open forum.

The theme of his series of talks will be "These Challenging Times and the Challenge of Christ."

Mr. MacBryde was recently awarded a scholarship from the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va., which gives him a year's study in Edinburgh, Scotland. He will begin his work in the early fall and at the close of his year's study will make a tour of the Holy Land before returning to the United States. For the summer he will serve as assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Wilmington. He comes to the campus very highly recommended.

The public is invited to attend the vespers services to be held Thursday, Friday and Sunday evenings at 6:30 o'clock. The morning watch services will be held each morning at 7:15. The hour for the open forum is 3:30 Friday afternoon in the Austin Auditorium.

Exhibit At College.

In an exhibit in the English club room on the second floor of the Austin building of the college will be found a display of books, periodicals, maps, pamphlets, and other materials helpful to teachers of high school English. The exhibit was prepared under the direction of Dr. Lucile Turner, who supervises the practice-teachers who are doing work in English in the Greenville high school and teaches the course preliminary to this.

Accompanying shelves of carefully selected and classified books for the beginnings of an English teacher's library and samples of magazines, is an article by Dr. Turner on how an English teacher could make a hundred dollar investment on herself and for her studies.

Materials of many kinds used in connection with the teaching of English are displayed. Five large literary maps and a literary chart showing the development of English literature, samples of illustrative material, such as newspaper clippings, blue prints, post cards, and photographs, are among the materials that are attractive to the eye. Samples of inexpensive pamphlets, biographies of contemporary writers, of free pamphlets from publishers and of catalogues, all of which are on display shelves, are other valuable helps shown.

The use of the blackboard is illustrated by drawings of the Elizabethan stage.

Files of clippings and sections of catalogues, most of which were made by N. Y. A. workers, show how small materials should be kept filed. Work books of students give samples of practical work. The exhibit which is open to anyone interested in this work will be found in Room 206 for the next week.

DON'T COOK YOUR FURS!

Sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? But that's exactly what you do when you keep your furs in a stuffy closet or chest for the summer. You see, ordinary summer heat dries the oils that preserves the pelts and keeps them soft. This causes them to crack, tear and shed.

Safe storage in chilled-air vaults conserves these precious oils and protects your fine garments from moths, fire and theft. Call us today. Let us clean, repair and store your furs until you need them again. Your peace of mind will more than offset the small cost involved.

'Open House' At College.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening the Greenville people are especially invited to attend the "Open House" at the college which will be held in the Science building, from two in the afternoon until ten at night. On Saturday from eight o'clock in the morning until 3:30 in the afternoon, those especially invited to see the exhibits are the pupils from public schools and out of town people.

A number of Greenville and Pitt county girls and boys will have projects in the exhibit. Some of those have been worked out in biology classes under the direction of Miss Loraine Hunter. Leo Burks, Jr., has a miniature Beebe's Bathysphere, showing animal life beneath the sea. Allan Moore has an exhibit showing the elements that are necessary to plants and animals. Herbert Hadley has charts of sense organs. Hyatt Forest of Winterville, shows the various methods of purifying water. Miss Vera Dare Rouse, also of Winterville, shows the evolution of man by models of busts. John Jenkins of Grimesland, has a chart of plant tissues and a model of a typical cell.

Exhibits of silk from moth to cloth, linen from flax to cloth, and costumes through various periods are among those interesting to women.

A collection of insects, showing the useful and the harmful ones, a nature corner with an aquarium and other -ariums for plant and animal life, and many other displays will have popular appeal. These are only a few of a great many.

Guides will be on hand to direct the visitors and demonstrators will be with the exhibits. There will be a great variety of exhibits so everyone can find something he likes among the great number to be found on the two floors of the Science building.

Spinster Club Organized

Tarboro, N. C., April 30.—The Spinsters club, composed of a group of charming and attractive Tarboro and Rocky Mount girls has recently been organized and will open its social program with a dance to be given here on May the eighth.

The purpose of the club, as stated by members, is to sponsor dances twice a year, and these will be given in the spring and fall, alternately in the two cities.

Rules of the Spinsters' club require that new members may be taken in only at the loss of a member by marriage. Only charter members may attend dances after marriage and only those who have reached an "acceptable" age (apparently the advanced age of twenty is accepted).

Plans are already underway for the initial dance, and although the club is a joint organization, there will be much competition in the hopes of "outriding" the other units' hospitality. Members of both towns have announced their intention of honoring their sister members at many social functions. In other words, the "Spinsters" have decreed that they expect to keep things lively from now on.

Tarboro's old maids (pardon please) include: Miss Virginia Clark, Miss Nancy Hart, Miss Mary Bynum Fowkes, Miss Elizabeth Hussey, Miss Harriet Holderness, Miss Anna Holderness, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Madeline Jenkins, Miss Bella Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Lane, Miss Polly Norfleet, Miss Elizabeth Porter, Miss Emily Ward, Miss Julia Wiggins.

Rocky Mount self-styled "Spinsters" (don't all laugh) include: Miss Mary Long Battle, Miss Nancy Braswell, Miss Frances Bradley, Miss Foy Mae Bullock, Miss Sara Denny, Miss Joelle Daniel, Miss Elizabeth Harper, Miss Carolyn Huffines, Miss Alta Huffines, Miss Nelle Johnston, Miss Mildred Joyner, Miss Mary James Sutter, Miss Elizabeth Whitehead and Miss Gertrude Young.

Already the club has caused an unexpected reaction and the girls, who need not be reminded that it is Leap Year, for it is apparent that there is method in their madness, have sent out either a challenge or a threat. Depends upon the viewpoint.

Next Thursday (May 7) the first statewide tabulation, complete in every detail, will appear. Every one of the 100 counties will be in the lineup and several thousand ballots will be recorded. An accurate picture of sentiment toward the four candidates will be registered. In this territory only in The Reflector will the tabulation appear.

Will, as the political oldsters have been saying, McDonald's star, rising for more than a year, begin to wane as the first primary draws nearer? Will North Carolina's conservatism assert itself enough to shove Hoy in the lead? Is it true that many voters are switching to Graham as the conservative hope to check the assault of McDonald? The poll, by daily keeping its finger on the pulse of North Carolina politics, will have the answers to these and many other questions concerning the governorship race. The answers can be learned well in advance of the first primary (June 6) by following the tide of the poll in The Daily Reflector.

Gypsy Weather

By MARGARET BELL HOUSTON

SYNOPSIS: Elmer Fleming has finally refused Rupert Joris, because of his drinking. Rupert's brother Dirk, while driving Elmer's cousin Isabel home late at night sees a shadowy figure in his own drive. Although he has had an exciting adventure, coming to the aid of a lovely barkeep-er in a New Jersey tent show, he cannot believe that the figure is real. But it is; the girl is talking to Rupert, who is very drunk and able to gauge the seriousness of her situation.

Chapter Eight

MAD PROPOSAL

"I was born . . ."
Rupert laughed as the girl paused.

"I would have sworn it," he remarked.

He felt that his wits were clearing remarkably.

"I was born in the South, in El Paso," her low voice continued. "My father was a cowboy."

She stopped, and suddenly covered her face with her hands. She sat silent, shivering.

Rupert spoke in the voice that always quieted witnesses.

"Hope Devine," he said musingly.
"Strange name for anything but an angel."

"My father—" she said hastily,
"My father is a preacher. And my mother—"

"Your father is a preacher," repeated Rupert. He kept his head back now, leaned it against the back of the chair. He could see her better so.

"And your mother?"

"She was—She always read a great deal. She found the name in a book, and my father thought—He liked it, and thought—"

She bit her lip, fumbled in the pocket of her cape, found a startlingly red purse, drew out a handkerchief.

"Thought it suited to a parson's daughter," finished Rupert. "Go on."

She looked at him. "Won't you try," she said, "Won't you please try—to understand? I need help.
All this—" Her voice broke. "All this has nothing to do with—"

"Just a minute," said Rupert. "You were talking about your mother. You were about to tell me who she was."

"She was Katherine Adair," said the girl. "From Virginia. She didn't . . . It took her a long time to get used to it out West."

"West?" said Rupert. More than once his ear had caught confusion in the narrative. "Is El Paso West or South?"

"It is South to us," she explained.
"It is West to Virginians. She always spoke of it as West."

"And why did it take her so long to get used to it?"

"The hardship," said the girl.
"Her people were rich. She had never . . ."

"I see. Her family was better than your father's."

"No. My father's people were poor, but quite as good. Two of them are prominent politically."

"Prominent politically, and still poor. Yes, I should say they were very good, indeed."

Again the girl's quick glance.
Again her half desperate discovery that he was serious. Rupert straightened himself.

"Good family," he commented.
"Good family on both sides."

He leaned toward her.
"Tell me this," he said. "Are you a decent girl?"

Her eyes widened, meeting his.
"Listen, Miss Hope Devine. I'm not a rich man, though I was richer before the Wall Street crash, when I had just bearded the bulls and bears in their den."

Something was wrong with that.
"I should have said lions," Rupert explained casually. "I bearded the lions—like a Daniel."

"No matter. What I want you to understand is that I am not so well off as I was, but I have enough, and I have this house. You've come here with some little matter that needs smoothing out. Marry me, and all your affairs will be looked after.
That is, if you're a decent girl. Are you?"

THE girl rose, standing beside her chair, her dark dilated eyes on Rupert's face.

"You think I'm drunk or crazy," he said. "That right? Drunk or crazy?"

"You're drunk, of course," she answered. "I knew that at the start.
But I thought—" She looked away, spoke not so much to him as to herself. "I thought—not crazy, too.
Able to think—to tell me what to do."

Suddenly she looked at him.
"If you mean tonight—if you really mean—marry you tonight—"

"Tonight, of course," said Rupert.
"Or very soon."

"It must be tonight," she said.

government sleuths, cheat both Uncle Sam and their customers.
They distribute phony liquor under cover of historic but counterfeit labels. They avoid payment of liquor taxes. And gradually they are resorting to strong-arm tactics in beating off competitors. In short, they operate "within the law" with lawless freedom.

PEP: Passionate predictions that the veterans would stow away bonus payments against a "rainy day" are negated by the rush for applications. The melee recalls army mess and army cries of "When do we eat?"

About 3,500,000 veterans are eligible. In less than two months after passage of the bonus bill more than 2,000,000 had filled out the blanks, held up their right hands before a notary public and then fingerprinted. There was acceleration following the official announcement that payments would be made on the basis of "First come, first served."

The increase was ominous for the Treasury. More than 3,000,000 have made application up to now.

Privately the statisticians say that all who applied before March 15—about 2,000,000—will receive

"Tonight, then."

After a moment she said,
"Will it be legal—with you like that?"

"Legal? Certainly."

"If I should take advantage of you," she answered, "If I should do this just to— For after all, I am decent."

"That's all I want to know," said Rupert. "I've never drinking, I admit. But I've never done anything when I was drunk that I regretted.
Much I've done when I was sober has turned me to get drunk."

She came forward with a catch of the breath, gathering the slipping shawl about her. Rupert opened the door.

"Timothy!" he thundered.

The girl stood looking at the telephone. Rupert picked up the telephone, began to dial. She came over to him.

"Think a minute," she said softly.
"Why do you want to marry me?"

He stood regarding her. In that moment he seemed quite sober, quite himself. He drew his hand down the bright shawl, looked at the mass of fringe crushed in his fingers. He laughed.

"Is it for a joke?" she asked.

"A hell of a joke," he answered, and turned again to the telephone,
his finger stumbling on the dial.

"Let me help you," she said.

He gave her a number, and she dialed quickly. He spoke into the phone with a certain belligerence.

"Connolly? . . . Well, call him to the phone. . . Connolly, this is Joris.
I want a license, a marriage license."

He was forced to repeat this.
"I want it now. . . What do I care how you get it? It's an emergency. And send Duffield to the house. . . Since when? . . . Send Norris, then."

THE girl went over to a window and stood there, her figure like a flame in the dim room. Presently Rupert fitted the telephone-receiver into place.

He went out into the hall.
Through the open door came his voice, giving some direction to old Timothy. The girl glanced at the watch on her wrist.

A little gray woman came into the library. A little noisier gray woman in a hurriedly fastened gray dress and a black apron. It was old Mary, the housekeeper. Outwardly, old Mary appeared tranquil; she seemed never otherwise, but the housemaid and the laundress who followed her looked white and startled. They stood with their backs to the fireplace, very close together.

Old Mary came over to the girl.
"Would you like to go upstairs, Miss?"

She stooped mechanically and picked up something from the rug.
It was a small white rose, wilted and crushed. It looked as if Miss Rupert might have stepped on it.
Old Mary dropped it into the fireplace.

"Will you come, Miss?"

Dirk took Isabel to her home in Hastings, went inside with her as he often did after a party, and they foraged for breakfast—made coffee, fried eggs, moving stealthily in the sleeping house.

It was well after four o'clock when he reached Lowrie Wood. He opened the door upon a lighted hall, upon the sound of a voice. A group of people were in the drawing-room.

Elmer was there. Surely it was Elmer standing in the bright shawl, standing beside Rupert while the tall man spoke before them—spoke in a stillness, broken only by his own closing of the door.

Old Timothy came out. He moved quickly, noiselessly, making a little gesture that begged silence.

"Mister Rupert's being married,
sir," he said.

The man who had been speaking closed his book. The person in the bright shawl turned about. Rupert turned.

"Come in, Dirk!" called Rupert.
"You're just in time."

Dirk came in. He was looking at the girl in the bright shawl, and she, having returned his gaze for an instant, stood now with her face turned away. His glance traveled to Rupert—Rupert, flushed, but with smooth hair, wearing a dahlia on his dinner-coat, and torpidly amused by his brother's stare. He saw Connolly, a heavy, red-faced man, move into the background.

There were papers lying on the piano, and the tall man went over to these. Rupert joined him there, and presently the girl. The man wrote down what Rupert and the girl said.

as public property, known to many thousands of American citizens, for one thing. In short, the answer can be found: (1) in its list of affiliated organizations, none of which is "Communist"; (2) from YWCA national headquarters, a member of NCPW since its beginning 15 years ago; (3) from J. Edgar Hoover, head of Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington;
(4) from anybody of influence in any of its affiliate organizations or among its Vice-Chairmen. (A list of its organizations and a partial list of its officers were recently published in this paper. Any canvasser or myself will be glad to place such information into the hands of interested parties).

Second: as to its stand on "national defense." NCPW does not advocate either elimination of armament or disarmament "by example." It does ask, however, for reduction of armaments by international agreements, maintaining that excessive and competitive armaments breed war. On the other hand, NCPW very definitely takes the position that our nation's present military and naval expenditures, which have been secured by powerful lobbies in Washington composed of shipbuilders and munition makers working with the War and Navy Departments—as the Nye committee revealed—are excessive and unnecessary because of the virtually impregnable geographical position of the U. S.
Hence, NCPW does work to reduce expenditures for the army and navy which this year, 1935-36, are amounting to more than a billion dollars. These increasing sums have already precipitated an armament race which, unless it be soon stopped, will plunge this world into war. NCPW is dedicated to the task of stopping that race and hence preventing war.

Opposition to such mounting expenditures for war, however, is only one of ten planks in the Council's platform. Among the others:
strengthening of present neutrality laws so that the United States will not be drawn into foreign wars; emphasis upon need of reducing economic tensions between nations; advocacy of U. S. membership in World Court; advocacy of our entrance into League of Nations—should it survive—on basis of Idaho Senator Pope's resolution to prohibit commitment to use of our armed forces in others' wars; opposition to any universal draft bill as un-American, Fascistic and Prussian and as making for universal suicide rather than universal efficiency; opposition to curbing of elemental rights—speech, press and classroom freedom; advocacy of more appropriations for schools; while its program for peace in the Pacific—aimed at heading off a war with Japan—includes, among other things, repeal of Exclusion Acts in favor of fairer abols of admittance, commendation of State Department's new trade agreement with Japan and abandonment of the Philippine naval base. Incidentally, I might say that NCPW is trying to get Congress to have the War and Navy Departments define "adequate defense" and to define this muchly controversial phrase in the sense of "Adequate for what?"—protection of these shores or adequate for foreign and aggressive warfare!

Surely any loyal American citizen who is not loggerheaded and cross-eyed with militarism can stand—with some reservations perhaps—on such a platform and will gladly contribute to the growing influence of such an organization. If there is anyone who desires to know more about NCPW, either see me or better still, write NCPW, 532

LOCALS BLANK WILLIAMSTON

'Greenies' Whitewash Opponents by Score of 7 to 0

Coach Reynolds Mays' proteges not only blanked the Williamston high school yesterday afternoon by a score of 7-0, but also obtained their seventh successive victory of the season.

Wayland Tucker, masterful young twirler won the favor of the spectators at the game after allowing only two hits for nine innings and by striking out ten men.

The local's team was strengthened considerably by the return of Bill Clark and L. G. Hamilton, strong supporters of the Greenies. Hamilton celebrated his return on the diamond by earning two nits out of four times at the plate. Car Pierce brought his playing into the limelight again by getting three hits out of four trips to bat.

Much excitement was created in the fifth inning. Williamston had men on first and third bases, with no member of their team retired. On the first pitched ball the runner on first attempted to steal second and the runner on third started for home on the play to second. Pierce, local second sacker thwarted the throw and nabbed the runner as he was going down the home stretch. This was Williamston's only opportunity of scoring and brought about much cheering from the bleachers and grandstand, which were partially filled with fans.

Dillon Forbes played a fine game at third as usual and managed to obtain a hit. Others hitting were George Clark, Bill Clark, and Harold Forbes.

Summerlin and Cone were the batteries for Williamston but their baseball ability did not assist in halting the strong charge of the Greenies to any great extent.

Today the Greenies are playing the class "A" conference baseballers of the Charles L. Coon high school of Wilson. Tomorrow, Friday, the Greenies will remain at home and give the local fans a treat by attempting to send the New Bern Bears back to their winter quarters at the Third street stadium at 3:30 o'clock.

GETS RESULTS RADIO SPEECH

Governor Is Pleased with Reaction to Latest Talk

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 30.—Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus is delighted at the response and reaction to his latest radio speech in which he further outlined the reasons for his opposition to calling a special session to deal with tobacco control legislation and a state compact law, he said today. Many telegrams, telephone calls and letters have been received from tobacco farmers and others commending his position and stating that since they have had the facts presented to them they are now in complete agreement with him that a special session could not enact any sort of law that would have any effect on the 1936 tobacco crop, the Governor said.

"The tobacco farmers and others who for a while thought a special session and nothing but a special session would help them, are now coming to realize that the legislature could not do one thing to help them if it were meeting here right now," Governor Ehringhaus said. "Most of them had never read the Virginia compact law, the new Federal law nor the South Carolina law. But now that they have heard me explain all these laws, they realize that it would be impossible to enact any law in North Carolina that would apply to any other state than North Carolina, and that Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia could go ahead and plant and market all the tobacco they want this year and no one could do anything about it."

In addition to the amendment to the South Carolina compact law which provides that it shall not become effective until Georgia takes legislative action to reduce its tobacco acreage, two other amendments were added to it which would prevent it from becoming effective during 1936, Governor Ehringhaus

VINCE DI MAGGIO

By SAM JACKSON
San Francisco (AP)—Joseph T. di Maggio, the New York Yankees celebrated $75,000 rookie, got his first real ball playing job less on his merit than by dint of hard talking by his big brother Vince—and the deal cost Vince his own berth with a ball club.

This fateful episode occurred only two years before the Yankee purchase. It illustrates how quickly the unknown boy from San Francisco's Italian quarter soared to the big top.

At the time—1932—Vince was an outfielder with the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League. His younger brother had learned baseball on city playgrounds, played a little in high school, and was then batting 'em out in the mid-winter league, a local semi-pro organization.

Headed for Fishing Fleet
Joe was not attracting any special attention and it looked as though he were headed for the Italian fishing fleet, in which his father and another brother operated a crab boat.

But Vince recognized Joe as a real ball player. Vince went to the owners of the Seals and talked him up. Although given no encouragement at first, he kept plugging. Finally, the management agreed to take the lad down to spring training at Monterey. The tryout had unexpected results. Joe made the team and Vince was released. Vince now is playing with the San Diego Padres.

His second year with the Seals—1933—Joe began to burn u the circuit. He established a Coast league record by hitting in 61 consecutive games.

For Delivery in 1936.
His performance impressed Yankee scouts so much that a deal was made for him in 1934 despite the fact he was out of the lineup nearly all season after injuring his knee in an automobile. Delivery date was set for 1936, contingent on his full recovery.

In the 1935 campaign it became apparent to the Yankees and to every pitcher of the Coast that di Maggio had recovered, all right. He batted .398. This was one point below the figure set by Oscar Eckhardt—since obtained by the Brooklyn Dodgers from the San Francisco Maggios' 34 home runs, his 151 co-Missions—but considering di runs batted in, his unerring throwing arm and other qualifications, sports writers of the Pacific coast had no hesitation in voting him the most valuable player of 1935 in the league.

His team, rated none too strong in the pre-season calculations, won the 1935 Coast league pennant.

pointed out today. One of these is an amendment which would make it inoperative on any crop already planted before the bill is enacted—and it has not yet been enacted, although most of the South Carolina tobacco crop has already been set out. The other amendment provides that it shall not become effective on farmers producing less than 2,400 pounds of tobacco a year. So in all there are three amendments to the South Carolina compact bill which render it useless in trying to control the 1936 crop.

LEFTY LEARNS

SEEKING DATA ON LOCAL LAW

Oklahoma Interested in N. C. Driver's Statute

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, April 25.—Oklahoma is interested in the North Carolina drivers' license law as the result of a movement under way there to enact a similar law. Director Arthur Fuik of the division of highway safety of the State Department of Revenue, said today. He has received a letter from Oklahoma City requesting a copy of the North Carolina law, also as many details as possible as to how the law has worked out since it has been in operation in this state.

"The letter was received as the result of a news article the writer had seen stating that fatal automobile accidents had decreased in North Carolina more than 20 per cent since the drivers' license law had gone into effect," Fuik said.

In addition to sending a copy of the drivers' license law as enacted by the 1935 general assembly, Director Fuik pointed out that more than 700,000 drivers' licenses had been issued to date, that more than 2,600 had been revoked, principally for drunken driving, and that several hundred had been suspended pending trial. He further pointed out that since March 16, driving permits have been issued only after the applicant has been examined as to his driving ability by a state highway patrolman and only after a patrolman has signed the application signifying that the applicant has been examined and found able to drive an automobile.

"We are getting more and more inquiries from other states about the operation of our drivers' license law and asking for copies of it," Fuik said. "The fact that fatalities from automobile accidents have been reduced approximately 21 per cent since the law went into effect November 1, 1935, is making other states sit up and take notice."

The fact that more than 2,600 drivers' licenses have been revoked to date under the law is serving to make drivers be more and more careful in observing the law, Fuik said.

FORECLOSURE SALE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain mortgage from Samuel S. Moye and Louisa Moye to G. V. Smith, dated February 15, 1930 and recorded in Book F-16, page 139, the undersigned mortgage will offer for sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the Court House door in Greenville, S. C.

Monday, June 1, 1936

the following described lots in the Town of Greenville:
FIRST TRACT: Being lots Nos. One (1) and (2) Two in Block F of the Henry Sheppard Lilly Cherry lands, containing 1-3 of an acre, more or less, and being the identical lots conveyed to Samuel S. Moye by H. Sheppard by deed dated Dec. 19th, 1902 and recorded in Book P-7, page 178 of the public registry of Pitt county.

SECOND TRACT: Being lot No. Three (3) in Block F of the Henry Sheppard Lilly Cherry lands, containing 1-6 of an acre, more or less, and being the identical lot of land conveyed to Samuel S. Moye by H. Sheppard by deed dated Feb. 7th, 1903, and recorded in Book P-7, page 311 of the Pitt County Registry. Reference is hereby specifically made to the said deeds for a more perfect description of the said property.

Lots Nos. 1 and 2 (First Tract) will be sold first and if they sell for enough to discharge the indebtedness secured by said mortgage and the cost and expenses of the sale, lot No. 3 (Second Tract) will not be offered; otherwise lot No. 3 will be sold.

This sale is made by reason of the failure of the mortgagors to pay off and discharge the indebtedness secured by said mortgage.

This 23rd day of April, 1936.

Harry E. Wilken, Sr.

Our Family's Whiskey—personally, we've supervised the making of millions of gallons!

It's just like Dad said—there isn't but one Wilken Family Recipe, and being as we're the only family that can make it, it's up to us to keep that quality set, like our lives depended on it. And you can just stake all you got on us doing that very thing. We're personally supervising the making of millions of gallons. We're seeing the quality of our Family's Whiskey stays put, if it's the last thing we do.

SEEK HIGHWAY RADIO PATROL

First Tests for Equip- ment Prove Satis- factory

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 30.—Radio control for the state highway patrol, authorized by the 1935 general assembly but still being held up pending a decision by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus as to whether it is necessary and worth what it will cost, is believed to be getting somewhat nearer an actuality. First tests of some of the proposed equipment were made here this week and they were pronounced as entirely satisfactory by Captain Charles D. Farmer.

Whether or not the four or five short wave broadcasting stations will be set up over the state and the patrol motorcycles and patrol cars equipped with receiving sets, still depends upon whether Governor Ehringhaus and Chairman Capus M. Wainwright of the State Highway and Public Works Commission decide the expenditure of approximately $160,000 for the radio equipment is justified and necessary. It is no secret that both the Governor and Chairman Wainwright were both quite cold towards the radio control system at first and were inclined to believe that it would be better to spend this $160,000 on new roads for more people to get killed on than to spend $160,000 to help stop the killing of people on existing roads.

Those who favor the radio control system maintain that it will make the present highway patrol of 120 officers and patrolmen doubly effective and equal to at least 250 patrolmen without radio control. They also maintain that it is just as much the duty of the highway department to spend money to help make the highways safe as to build safe highways from an engineering standpoint and that $160,000 spent for radio equipment will help save hundreds of lives and hundreds of thousands of dollars resulting from accidents.

The reason the general assembly limited the size of the patrol to only 120 men was because it enacted the bill calling for radio control and felt that with radio control the 120 patrolmen would prove as effective as 250 men without radio control. Members of the 1935 assembly point out. The accident records in cities having police radio systems show that radio control had greatly reduced both the number of automobile accidents and reckless driving.

NEW RATES ARE ANNOUNCED BY CAROLINA TELEPHONE CO.

If a subscriber pays the $4.50 surcharge when the French type is installed and moves or changes back to the desk style, he is given a rebate, the rate figured at 25 cents per month.

Mr. Pitts figured that 65 per cent of the resident telephones in the city have had monotype types for 18 months and in addition to the rate reduction, no longer will have to pay the surcharge.

May 1 Is Designated As Child Health Day

President Roosevelt has put his signature and seal to the resolution proclaiming May 1st as May Day—Child Health Day, on which day the health and security of children will be considered throughout the nation. The President's proclamation reads:

"Whereas the health and security of its children are essential to the well-being of the nation; and
"Whereas it is advisable this year as we launch the social security program to encourage by every possible means the development of plans to promote maternal and child health and to extend child-welfare services:

"Now, Therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and designate the first day of May of this year as Child Health Day, and do urge all agencies, public and private, concerned with the health and welfare of children, on this day to study the plans for Federal, State and local cooperation in promoting the health and security of children, to note the extent to which these plans have so far been put into effect, and to make arrangements for carrying their benefits to the children in every county in the United States.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed."

New York Cotton

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged to three lower with steadier cables offset by southern selling.

On the whole the early offerings seemed to be fairly well decided with the market at the end of the first hour quiet around 10.14 for October with the general list about 1 to 3 points net lower.

The market at midday was within a point or two of the lowest with May selling at 11.44 and December at 10.14.

Futures closed steady, unchanged to two lower; spots quiet; middling 11.55.

Hate made him an outlaw

Love made him a man!!

In the history of the old west lives a romantic figure whom fact... tradition and fancy have made legend... from this confusion of truth and fiction... the man himself emerges—

SAGA OF JOAQUIN MURRIETTA WHO RODE FOR LOVE, FOR GOLD... FOR VENGEANCE—

CLEAN

as a Babbling Brook

That's why OLD DRUM leaves a clean taste in your mouth!

Good whiskey begins with good grain. OLD DRUM is distilled from premium grain, used for costliest whiskey.

That's why it's clean... as one sip will tell you. It leaves your mouth feeling fresh. You enjoy OLD DRUM.

If Yankee thrift urges you to buy "under a dollar a pint" whiskey, try OLD DRUM. In its price class, you can't beat it!
