In May Day Celebration.
Baltimore, Md., May 4.—Little Miss Beverly Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Jones, who is one of the fortunate children who has been selected to lead the procession of the May queen in the May Day celebration to be held in Baltimore on May 17. This annual celebration is one of the loveliest and most elaborate of its kind and is considered to be Maryland's most beautiful May procession.

Miss Beverly has made several other public appearances, having been selected as one of the Shirley Temples of Rocky Mount at the Carolina Theatre while she was making her home in Rocky Mount last winter. She is a frequent visitor in Greenville at the home of her paternal grandmother, Mrs. W. R. Jones, at 110 Pitt street.

Troop 30 Boy Scouts.
Troop leaders and Scouts taking tests will meet in the basement of the Methodist Church tonight at 7:30.

First Presbyterian Church.
Special services are being held in the First Presbyterian Church this week under the leadership of the Rev. J. J. Murray, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Lexington, Va. Week-day hours, 7:45 p. m.; Sunday hours, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. The general theme of the services is "The All-Sufficient Christ." Subjects have been announced as follows:

Tuesday, May 5—"Church Behind Closed Doors."
Wednesday, May 6—"Religion—Prison or Power."
Thursday, May 7—"Zacchaeus, a Man Who Needed Christ."
Friday, May 8—"Love's Final Commendation."
Sunday, May 10, a. m.—"A Colony of Heaven."
Sunday, May 10, 8 p. m.—"God's Problem and God's Yearning."

CHINESE BEAUTY STANDARD UPSET BY HONAN DECREES

Nanking (AP)—Admirers of old fashioned feminine beauty in the interior province of Honan must change their ideas on what is winsome and attractive, for the authorities have started a campaign against "filly feet" and long hair. The cruel practice of binding little girls' feet so that they would resemble the lotus lily in bud has been illegal for years, but in the interior girls still are deformed to meet traditional standards of grace. Shingled hair for little girls and shoulder length bobs for young ladies is another order of the new day in a land where long braids or coiled tresses once were marks of gentility.

WINDSOR LINKS EXTENDED BY KING EDWARD'S ORDER

Windsor, England (AP)—The nine-hole golf course at Windsor Castle is being extended to 18 holes and the hazards are being made more difficult as part of the alterations ordered by King of Edward. He has intimated that late in the year, when court mourning is ended, he will use the castle for entertaining.

King George and Queen Mary seldom stayed at Windsor, preferring their Norfolk home, Sandringham House, when not at Buckingham Palace.

Mongolia Adopts Four-Way Flag.
Kaglan, China (AP)—The many-sided loyalty of the Mongols of Inner Mongolia is revealed by the new flag adopted by the newly established Mongolian government in northern Chahar. A blue field, the dominating color, represents Mongolia, while three short perpendicular stripes of red, yellow and white symbolize China, Manchoukuo and Japan.

Good Roads Bring Trouble.
Santa Barbara, Calif. (AP)—Widening of highways and elimination of curves in California have been accompanied by an increasing accident toll, said Ray Ingels, director of the state motor vehicle department.

Mr. McDougal in Tarboro Hospital. Friends of H. A. McDougal will be glad to learn that he is getting along very nicely following an appendicitis operation which he underwent in a Tarboro hospital.

Lamar Stringfield At College.
Lamar Stringfield, North Carolina's noted musician and composer, played at the college assembly on his morning two lovely numbers on his famous seventy-five year old flute which he introduced as one of the finest of flutes and his audience would add, by one of the finest flute players.

The first number was a Nocturne by his teacher, and the other was one of his own compositions, "A Doll's Lullaby."

Before the musical numbers, he made a short talk on music, giving a few facts that showed the importance of music. "More money, he said, is spent for music in some way or other than any other commodity in the world not excepting automobiles." He called attention to the fact that five thousand people stood in line last week in the "little country town of New York" to hear Toscanini's last performance with the Philharmonic Orchestra. He also called attention to the work of James C. Harper who has charge of the Lenoir high school band. The school is a hundred per cent musical, as everybody is either in the band or trying to get in it. Mr. Stringfield introduced his talk by saying that he was going to make a political speech, but left his audience to infer in what sense it was political. He left this thought with them, however, "No leadership was ever built from 'It Can't Be Done'."

PEACE ACTION

Do you remember that the United States has pledged its honor, in your name and that of your neighbor, in a solemn agreement with the other leading nations of the world, never to use war again to settle a dispute with any of them? "The High Contracting Parties solemnly declare," says Article 1 of the Kellogg Pact, "in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another."

And Article 2, it will be remembered, adds clearly that settlement of disputes between the numerous nations signing the pact shall never be sought except by pacific means.

If we mean to keep our word, we need only enough armed forces for defense of our borders. Yet our total appropriations for army and navy go up and up. In 1932 $889,084,000 was appropriated for national defense (from National Budget of the U. S.—1932). Each year since, the amount has increased, until the 1935-6 figures stand at nearly a billion dollars.

While the last Congress was debating this huge appropriation, Senator Boileau, of Wisconsin, introduced a bill intended to bring our performance a little nearer our promise. The Boileau Bill provided for combining army and navy in a Department of National Defense, the sole purpose of which would be to defend the nation against invasion and do away with arming on the vast scale necessary for aggressive or foreign warfare.

If expeditions against a foreign country are not to be a part of our policy, it would seem poor economy, as well as bad psychology, to spend enormous sums trying to keep ahead of other nations in the armament race.

Signed: Greenville Council for Peace Action.

All Sufficient Christ, Subject of Dr. Murray

Special Series of Services Opened At Presbyterian Church

The series of special services being held this week at the First Presbyterian church were opened last night by a timely and heart-researching sermon on "The All-Sufficient Christ" given by the guest preacher, the Rev. J. J. Murray, D. D. of Lexington, Virginia.

The speaker asserted that one persistent question is always asked the Christian: "What difference does it make—this religion you profess?" That question, though it may come from the cynic or from one who makes no profession as does the Christian, is nevertheless a searching question, a sincere question, Dr. Murray held. "The answer," he said, "is found in the fact as to whether or not you and I have found Christ, as the all-sufficient answer to our lives. Such is not found either in theological class-rooms or books of sermons, but in a vital experience of mastery and control by Him who holds the key to life."

There are people who do have more than a secondhand acquaintance with religion, who do have more than what they have merely gained from others—people who welcome truth, who learn to widen their sympathies, who learn to lose themselves in great causes, who learn to give of themselves in helpful service. Such people find at least three differences that Christ makes in their lives. For one thing, He gives them inward powers of spiritual resources. For another thing, He makes life beautiful. For yet another thing, He furnishes the motive for all thorough and sacrificial living and service.

"What difference does it make?" All the difference in the world if the all-sufficient Christ has been found, if friendship with Him is being enjoyed.

Tonight Dr. Murray will bring a message to the community on "The Church Behind Closed Doors," the service beginning promptly at 7:45, and ending within the hour. Special music tonight will consist of a solo by Miss Bessie Brown.

PREPARES FOR UTILITY SUIT

New Deal Girds For Big Battle Challenging Powers

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington—Although the case is surrounded with a mass of technicalities not easily understandable to the layman, administration leaders are watching every move being made in a suit before the District supreme court here which promises to rival the Schaechter decision invalidating NRA in importance.

It is the action brought by four utilities companies challenging the constitutionality of PWA and, in particular, to block more than $2,000,000 in loans and grants for the construction of municipally-owned power plants.

Striking at the heart of Title 2 of the national recovery act, the importance of the suit to the government lies in the fact that the New Deal's entire power program is headed straight for a supreme court test.

There is little doubt of that. The court itself made it clear in the beginning that the case would not stop there.

The choice of counsel on both sides also indicates that it will be a fight to the finish. The government turned to one of its outstanding "brain trusters"—the bushy-haired, quick-thinking Jerome Frank to act as chief counsel and gave him two special assistants, Alexander Holtzoff and John W. Scott of the department of justice.

Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in the Wilson administration, and Dean Acheson, former under-secretary of the treasury, who resigned from the administration after reported disagreement with the fiscal policies of President Roosevelt, represent the utility companies.

The real significance of the case, say administration insiders, is that the supreme court must decide whether execution of the public works policy laid down by congress is an administrative or a legislative function.

The government contends that the allowing of PWA loans and grants is an administrative matter. That section of the national recovery act under which NRA codes were set up was thrown out by the supreme court on the promise that the delegation of authority to the President was unconstitutional.

The utility companies have raised the same point. Their contention is that congress made an unlawful delegation of legislative power to the President and his administrators by leaving to their discretion the type of projects to be financed from public funds.

STATE SYSTEM IS COMMENDED

Western Counties Enthusiastic Over New School Set-Up

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, May 5.—Both the people generally and the school teachers are enthusiastic over the state supported eight months school term in the western counties of the state. Lloyd E. Griffin, executive secretary of the State School Commission said today, following a trip in which he visited almost every county from Rutherford county on west.

Griffin, accompanied by C. F. Gaddy, assistant secretary of the commission in charge of transportation, spent most of last week on a "get acquainted" trip through the western counties, since Griffin had not visited these counties since he became head of the commission.

"It was one of the most pleasant trips I have ever taken in North Carolina, since instead of hearing kicks and complaints, we heard commendation and praise for the present school law and the manner in which it is being administered," Griffin said. "Most of the people in these western counties say the schools are better now than they have ever been and admit that if the state had not taken them over when it did, many of the schools would have been forced to close. They readily agree that they now have better schools, better teachers, better transportation and a longer term than ever before—and that their taxes are much less than before the state took over the support of the schools without levying any property taxes."

"The county superintendents, principals and teachers are also pleased with the state supported school system," he told us. First, because since it went into effect that they have received their pay promptly and on time at the end of each month, where under the old system of state and county support they frequently had to wait months until the taxes were collected, or else go without part of their pay entirely. The superintendents like the system also because they always have their allotment of state money on hand with which to keep all bills paid up to date. The merchants and coal dealers like the system since they now know that they will be paid promptly each month."

MOTOR BLOODSHED

Spring is here! And to millions of us, the lure of the open road will soon become irresistible. Then off we'll go, for fishing trips, picnics, sight-seeing drives.

Last year, 36,000 bloody corpses dotted the streets and highways of the United States. This year, if the ten per cent of drivers who cause 90 per cent of the accidents aren't curbed, the record will be worse.

Do you belong to that 10 per cent? You'll undoubtedly say you don't—it's a rare driver who will admit to carelessness or recklessness or incompetence. And here's hoping you really don't. But it won't do you any harm to think over your driving practices.

Do you ever pass on curves or hills? If so, you have been guilty of an act that has caused thousands of fatalities and millions of injuries.

Do you ever drive on the wrong side of the road, or weave in and out of traffic, impatient to save a few minutes to be spent later telling your friends what a hot-shot driver you are? If so, you are a potential killer.

Do you regard speed restrictions as something for the other fellow—who naturally, isn't in your class as a driver—to obey, and for you to break at will? Excessive speed is the principal single cause of motor bloodshed.

Do you drink and drive? Alcohol and gasoline mix into a fuel that has taken a legion of people on the longest journey of all—to the Great Beyond.

Do you put off repairs to your car until a tomorrow that may never come? Bad brakes, defective lights, uncertain steering are friends of the casket maker.

Spring is here—make sure that it isn't the last Spring you'll enjoy on this earth.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

"Does" gives a tipoff on the kind of campaign he will wage next fall. One wag suggests that Mr. Roosevelt will be "all things to all men."

CONTRASTS: A member of the presidential entourage has evolved a plausible theory linking Mr. Roosevelt's visits to New York City with subsequent resumption of his vocal warfare against "entrenched greed" etc.

In driving to his uptown residence from Pennsylvania Railroad Station, the White House cavalcade first clatters across Thirty-Fourth Street. It threads through a district of garment workers, small storekeepers, department store truckmen—a section where $35 a week is good pay. Men and women drape the windows to wave at him. Traffic stops and horns honk. A cheering, smiling throng quickly lines the curb. Mr. Roosevelt responds with grins and hat-raising.

The scene changes when his car swings into Park Avenue's cold canyon of exclusive clubs, calm, dignified apartment houses and dog-walkers. Emptiness and silence shroud the presidential parade. To the cliff dwellers he's a President who has deserted and betrayed his and their class. They don't hide their resentment at his under-dogging. Nor does FDR. His face grows grim. He settled back stolidly in his cushioned seat. But he isn't the first Chief Executive who discovered Father Knickerbocker serving raspberries instead of strawberries on a picnic ground.

SOLID: The first gun—and a loud one—in the veterans' drive for pensions has been fired. And the identity of the gunner in this instance reveals how intense the barrage will become at the next session of Congress—when the bonus checks have gone over the tops of counters.

The formal demand for general gratuities to widows and orphans was made by the National Tribune, a nationwide veterans' newspaper published at Washington. The owners are ex-Senator Rice Means of Colorado and John Lewis Smith, two extremely influential legionnaires. What makes their attitude significant is that Mr. Lewis is a candidate for national commander of the American Legion at the next convention. He would not declare for pensions, presumably, unless he thought it would boost his popularity with the Legion membership.

Other vets' organizations have formally endorsed the pension movement. But it could be blocked—at least for several years—if the Legion held aloof. It was this sort of disagreement which killed the bonus proposal last year. But now it looks as if the ex-soldiers will present a solid front for payments which will eventually top the $31,000,000,000 national debt. C'est la guerre!

HURDLE: Gov. Alf Landon's presidential troubles seem to spring from his supporters' salesmanship. They are doing too thorough a job in painting him as a liberal, independent fellow who won't be bossed if he takes over the White House.

William Edgar Borah is the real villain of this pre-convention drama. In trying to woo Borah liberals, Mr. Landon's spokesmen are promising that he will disappoint his conservative backers once he is nominated. They insist that he will step out as a man whose sympathies lie with the underdog, although they might not run away with him as fast and far as FDR's have. They let on that the very men Mr. Borah despises would be unhappy under a Landon administration.

These whisperings, naturally, have reached the ears of Easterners like Messrs. Hillel, Borahack, Pomeroy, "Dave" Reed—true conservatives all. They begin to suspect that "President" Landon might take them for a ride down the left side of the street—and against their political traffic. That's why they're holding off. But you'll see them leaping aboard the Landon bandwagon if he defeats the Hoover forces in today's California primary. Every political expert sees this coastal encounter as the Governor's highest hurdle.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
CROSSED: As if the G. O. P. didn't have troubles enough already, eastern and western branches of the party are indulging in a minor civil war on the subjects of foreign trade.

Candidate Frank Knox started it with a recent New York speech which endorsed Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade agreements in principle. He suggested that the Republican party could do worse than to adapt the idea for its own program as a stimulus to trade and prosperity. His argument struck a responsive chord among many eastern conservative leaders—including Ogden Mills—who saw in it the only reasonable hope of restoring shrunken export markets for American manufacturers. But western Republicans gave Colonel Knox a terrific bawling out for his bright thought. They are trying to sell mid-western farmers the idea that Hull's policies are responsible for flooding the country with imports of foodstuffs ruinous to American agriculture. George Peek—ex-trade adviser to President Roosevelt—has been active in developing this angle of attack and it has been registering pretty well. Just another case of crossed wires!

DISTURBED: Developments in New York confirm the recent prediction in our Washington column that the religious issue will be injected as violently behind the scenes of the coming campaign as it was in 1928. The "American Christian Alliance"—founded by ex-Anti-Saloon-Leaguer William H. Anderson—heads up in the metropolis and is out for blood.

A pamphlet issued by the Alliance claims that a movement such as is now being organized elected Mr. Hoover in 1928 and can turn the trick for the Republican nominee again. An intensive "non-political" campaign will be launched if adequate funds are provided. They have not been, as yet. Stanley High—the Protestant clergyman who heads the newly-formed Good Neighbor League friendly to Roosevelt—will be a particular target of the Alliance's wrath because of his "tolerance."

Responsible G. O. P. leaders are greatly disturbed to learn of this undesired assistance but don't know how to head it off. One of them remarks: "Our poor old party should certainly pray to be delivered from the ministrations of its 'friends'."

UNHATCHED: Despite G. O. P. Senator Warren Barbour's opposition of reelection, New Jersey Democrats maintain that their candidate—William H. Smathers of Atlantic City—will give him a lively battle.

Reports have been widely current in informed circles that Frank Hague—Democratic boss of New Jersey—would not be averse to Barbour's success at the polls as long as the state's electoral vote was safely delivered to Roosevelt. But political sharps point out that Democratic Senator A. Harry Moore is being primed to run again for governor in 1937 and that Hague might not care to risk being left without a New Jersey Democrat in the Upper House after Moore's retirement. This consideration might tend to make him less broad-minded than he is suspected of being on occasion.

Smathers should run well in southern New Jersey. He is the first Democrat elected to the State Senate from Atlantic County in sixty years. So Barbour—and the Republicans—may be counting unhatched chicks.

OMEN: Bankers well posted on European affairs are nervous about the aftermath of the French elections. They cannot visualize the left wing parties which united for victory at the polls maintaining any sort of cohesion in the formation of a government. This forebodes another series of weak and vacillating ministries incapable of taking a firm stand either on foreign policy or internal finance.

There's another danger also. The striking gains scored by the Communist party—while they give it no great influence in the French parliament—have scared right wingers badly. New York insiders get word of considerable underground agitation among French fascist groups for an immediate coup that would crush the reds before they become any stronger. France is like a stick of dynamite exposed to flying rocks. If one of them hits you will see an explosion as in an explosion.

It should also be borne in mind that internal unrest or even a weak government in France is likely to encourage Hitler to an even bolder attitude—which would hardly be a happy omen for continued peace.

MAGIC: Banking circles also learn that Germany herself is perilously close to financial collapse. The supplanting of Schacht by Goering as economic dictator may be the fatal misstep on the edge of the precipice. A lot depends on Schacht. He is a proud man and not likely to accept demotion gracefully. If he decides to wash his hands of Germany's financial and economic problems—which is quite possible—good night! He has worked miracles in keeping a battered financial hulk afloat and there's no one else in sight who has his magic touch—certainly not Goering.

KARPIS ARREST HOOVER'S FIRST

Although J. Edgar Hoover has devoted a long career to directing the federal government's war on organized crime, he participated in his first actual arrest when he led a squad of his agents in capturing Alvin Karpis at New Orleans. The tenacious chief of the United States Bureau of Investigation is shown riding along the street after Karpis, so-called Public Enemy No. 1, and two companions were seized in front of their apartment. "Woodman, Spare That Tree!"

Many people believe that no useful purpose will be served by destroying the trees on Dickinson Avenue between the A. C. L. Railroad and Paris Avenue. On the contrary they believe it will be a great mistake to cut them down. Some plant and others reap. Mr. Elbert Moyer many years ago set some of these trees but did not live to enjoy their comfort or their beauty. If Mr. Moyer were living today, the writer is sure you would hear his pleading voice—"Woodman, spare that tree."

One of the poets has said that "only God can make a tree." Yes.

and man can, in a few hours destroy these lovely trees that it took the all-powerful God forty years to grow.

The writer would like to see our women more interested in our city government—he has in mind four that he would like to see on the Board of Aldermen.

THE WINNER of the 500-mile Indianapolis classic, Kelly Peillo, says: "Camels hit the spot. I've found that smoking Camels—during and after meals—goes a long way in helping keep my digestion in good shape." Camels set you right!

WOMAN'S WORK is never done, according to the old saying. Mrs. Frank Smith is a typical modern homemaker. "Camels make food taste better," says Mrs. Smith. "My digestion works smoothly when I smoke Camels during meals."

ALL ABOARD! Away from home, a business man meets many conditions that upset the normal routine of digestion. Camels stimulate good digestion no matter where you are. Smoke them for digestion's sake. Camels never jangle your nerves.

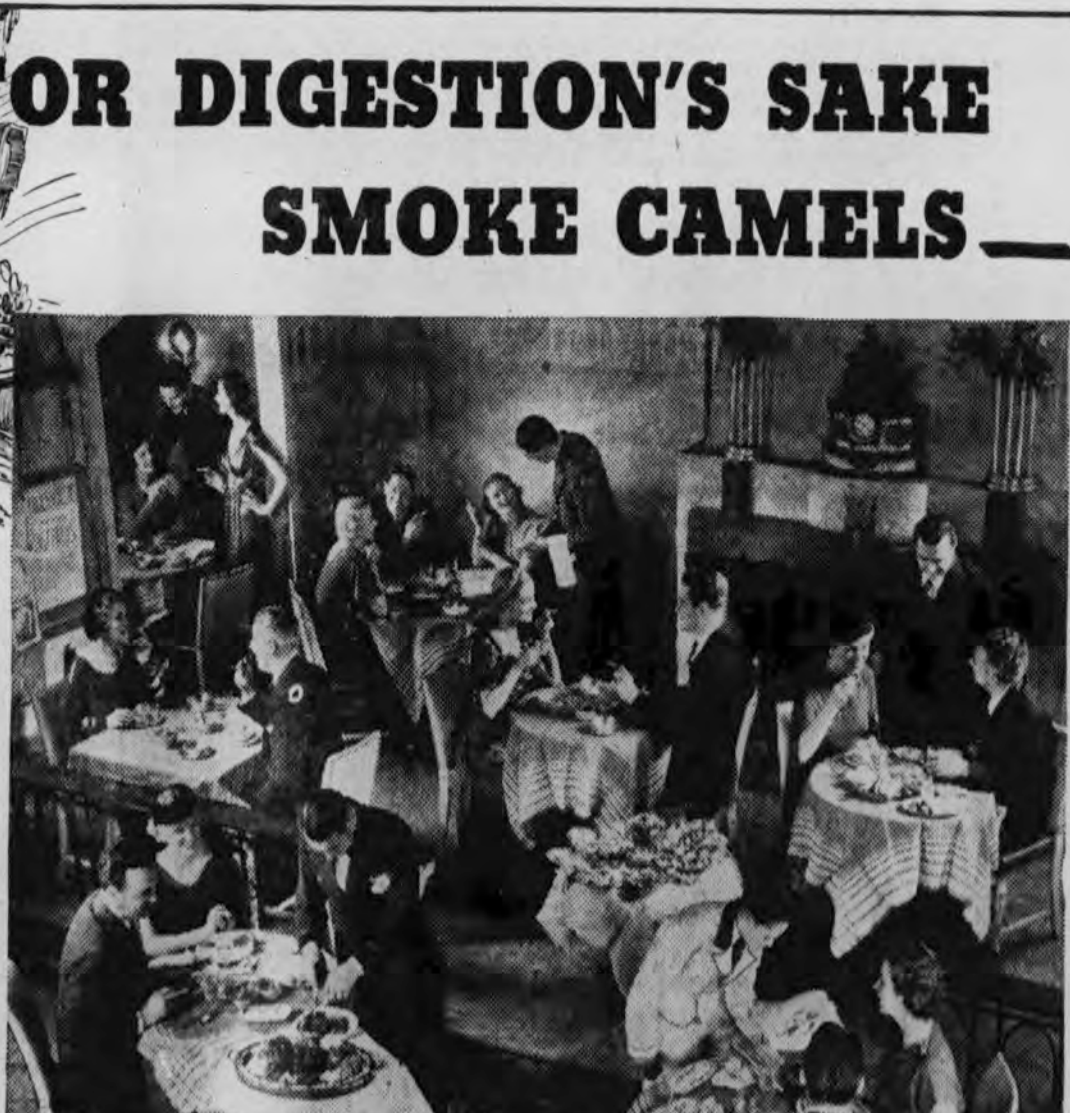

MASTER WELDER—Dan Rafferty has a job where good digestion counts. He needs a steady hand and a steady eye. "Smoking Camels helps my digestion," says Dan. "Camels taste mild and rich." Turn to Camels—for digestion's sake.

SECRETS OF THE DEEP. "Camels make food taste better and digest better," says Henry Siemer, master diver. "That tasty Camel flavor is made to order for me."

Smoking Camels Encourages
Good Digestion, Good Feeling...
Increases Alkalinity

Modern days are trying. Nerves get "wound up." Hurry, worry, and strain tend to interfere with normal processes of digestion.

It is a scientific fact that smoking Camels has an alkalizing effect, through increasing the flow of the alkaline digestive fluids, helping to keep digestion on its proper course. You sense a comforting "lift" and feeling of well-being as you enjoy the delicate flavor of your Camel. You can smoke Camels steadily. With their matchless blend of costlier tobaccos, Camels never get on your nerves or tire your taste.

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS...Turkish and Domestic...than any other popular brand.

GREENIES WIN OVER TARBORO

Highs Get Tenth Victory in Row by 20-2 Score Yesterday

The class "A" conference baseballers of the Greenville high school proved to be too much competition for the Tarboro nine, who dropped a game to the locals at the Third street school here yesterday afternoon by a one-sided score of 20-2 in what was termed the easiest battle of the season.

Wayland Tucker, skillful hurler on the pitching staff of the local highs took the mound for the third time this year, and allowed only seven scattered hits. This was Tucker's third win of the season.

John Wells sent a thrill through the veins of many spectators while the tilt was in progress by freezing a homer with two men on base. He was followed by Carl Pierce, who obtained a triple and two singles. The batting average of Pierce is taking a climb. Dillon Forbes, the little youngster who has attracted much attention amid the fans in regards to his playing ability hampered out two singles. Dillon can usually be found on third base in the games.

The Tarborians seemed to be totally perplexed yesterday afternoon and could do nothing in preventing the masterful charge of the locals. During the game, the boys of the Greenville high earned a total of 16 base hits. Pulley and Marriot were the only members of the Tarboro nine fortunate enough to do damage enough to score for their team. Edmundson did the twirling for the visitors during the entire game, and Mewborn did the catching.

L. G. Hamilton did the catching for the Greenies and proved very efficient. The biggest game of the season for the locals will be played here Thursday afternoon at the Third Street stadium at 3:30 o'clock with the nine from Fayetteville. This will close the class "A" conference clashes for the Greenville high school. If the game is won, it will give the locals third position in the class "A" conference standings. The Fayetteville highs were defeated by a 19-1 score in the hands of the Greenies when they last met, and the Greenies are aspiring to make the average even greater this time.

Reynolds, May, who has so successfully coached the boys this season urges everyone to attend Thursday's meet.

Training School Boys Beat Ayden Nine 10-8

The seventh grade baseball team of the Training school defeated the seventh graders from Ayden yesterday after noon, eking out a 10 to 8 victory over their rivals.

The local boys out hit the Ayden boys by a wide margin, but the game stayed on an even basis through most of the game. George Clark, hurler for the Training school nine, shut down on the Aydenites in the final frames and took advantage of the margin his teammates gave him to win the battle.

Both sides offered good pitching, errors providing for many of the runs scored. No home run clouds was made by either side.

The two teams will meet in Ayden tomorrow afternoon.

PATROL RADIO TESTS OKEYED

Capt. Farmer Pleased with Experiments Being Made

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, May 4.—The tests of various types of radio equipment being made by the highway patrol now in the hope that Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus will soon authorize the purchase of the equipment needed to assure radio control for the patrol, are proving unusually satisfactory, according to Capt. Charles D. Farmer, commander of the patrol.

Captain Farmer now has three different types of short wave receiving sets in his white, enclosed patrol car and is conducting experiments in an effort to ascertain which of the various types will prove most effective in North Carolina.

Owing to the fact that there is no short wave police radio station in this state powerful enough to be heard over the entire state, or even here in Raleigh, Captain Farmer is turning his receiving sets to the Richmond, Va., police radio station and the Knoxville, Tenn., police station. Both of these stations can be heard very plainly in most sections of North Carolina, especially at night. Capt. Farmer said, since they both have 5,000 watt broadcasting stations.

Captain Farmer is convinced that unless facilities are provided for the highway patrol to have radio control in North Carolina, between 250 and 300 patrolmen will be needed. The 1935 general assembly enacted the law providing for radio control in order to keep the number of patrolmen down to 120.

M'DONALD IS LEADING MAN

Two Other Candidates Claim Gains During Past Week

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, May 4.—Although Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem is undoubtedly in the lead at the present time for the Democratic nomination for Governor, both Clyde R. Hoey and Sandy Graham are rapidly pulling up on the former college professor, with the result that most political circles here are predicting that Dr. McDonald cannot hold his present lead for more than a week or two longer at best.

Most impartial observers maintain that there has been a big change of sentiment this past week in many of the eastern counties where McDonald is conceded to have his greatest strength, and that since he has been forced to transfer most of his campaign effort into the Piedmont and west, much of the strength he has had in the east is going to slip away from him. They maintain that much of McDonald's following is very similar to a leaky inner tube, requiring constant pumping up to keep it inflated, and that while the affable professor is busy in the Piedmont and west, his campaign is punctuated with so many new holes by Hoey and Graham tacks that they will be beyond repair by the time the primary on June 6.

The McDonald managers and supporters deny all these claims of their opponents, of course, and maintain that their claims are nothing but campaign propaganda. They point out that the rival managers have been claiming for some six weeks now that "McDonald has already reached his peak" but that the anti-sales tax candidate has been chugging right along week after week, and that he is going to keep right on gaining from now until the primary.

His managers maintain that there is now little doubt but that Dr. McDonald will win the nomination in the first primary by getting a plurality over Hoey, Graham and John A. McRae, although many of his backers will be satisfied if he can stay in first position until the primary.

The Hoey forces, encouraged by the showing being made by the Shelby orator this past week showing he is pushing McDonald harder than any other candidates, are going to make their biggest effort this week and next to put their candidate into first place, it was learned from those "in the know" although the Hoey headquarters is trying to keep its plans as quiet as possible.

But those in close touch with the Hoey campaign strategy agree that his managers are well satisfied last week and that the lead which Dr. McDonald is admitted to have is just enough to scare the Hoey supporters into taking off their coats and going to work as they have not worked before.

During the past week some 60 county managers were called into the state headquarters here for personal conferences with the Hoey managers, while reports have been received from every one of the 100 counties. As a result, his supporters are confident that the organization work which has now virtually been perfected is going to begin to show better results than ever this week and that it is going to cut under and chop down much of the McDonald strength in the east as well as in the west.

Bob showed Ernie how to drive a ball to right field by pushing the hands slightly ahead of the bat. It wasn't easy at first, but constant practice began to bring results. Before long Lombardi was dumping hits into right, catching the outfield flat-footed. Now they play for him in their regular positions, for he hits equally as well in all directions.

SPORT SLANTS

Popping off in baseball has a way of kicking back sooner or later. Bill Terry found this out a couple of years ago, when he more or less innocently inquired whether the Brooklyn Dodgers were still in the National League. On the last day of the season he heard the answer in no uncertain terms when the Dodgers knocked his club right out of the World Series and into second place.

The Cincinnati Reds seem to feel the same way about Charlie Grimm, manager of the Cubs, as the Dodgers felt about Terry two years ago. It all began this spring when the Cubs visited Tampa to play an exhibition game with the Reds.

The manager of the National league champions took time out to answer a few questions for reporters. They wanted to know what Grimm thought of the Cubs' chances of repeating. In reply, Charlie admitted that his club might have some trouble with the Cardinals and the Giants, but asserted that the Cubs would "take the Cincinnati Reds in their regular stride."

When the Reds and their manager, Charlie Dresen, saw the published interview they saw "red." It was the beginning of a beautiful feud... one that flamed into a roaring fire when the Reds invaded Chicago for their 3-game series with the Cubs. They took their spite out on the Cubs' pitchers and annexed the first two games. The Reds lost the third game but what of it? The series was in the bag.

What's more, they aren't likely to let Charlie Grimm forget that slight—and the best way they know of reminding him of it is to trip the Cubs whenever they get the chance. And don't think for a moment that they won't be in there trying to make Grimm eat his own words.

Ernie Lombardi, the Reds' big catcher, has been wielding a mean bat since he was cut down while blocking a Cardinal runner at the plate. Up to the time he was carried off the field he had collected 13 hits in 27 time at bat for an average of .481, and the layoff hasn't dimmed his batting eye.

Lombardi has always been a powerful hitter and now that he appears to have mastered the art of hitting to all fields, has an excellent chance of challenging the batting leaders.

Reformed Hitter.

When Bob O'Farrell was with the Reds he took Lombardi in hand and tried to teach the catcher how to hit to all fields. Ernie had long been known as a dead left field hitter.

The sight of Lombardi stepping up to the plate used to be a signal for all the infielders and outfielders to shift to the left. There was no need of protecting the right side of the field.

O'Farrell went to work on him.

Hubert - Olive, campaign manager for Hoey said today. "There is no longer any doubt but that Mr. Hoey will be high man in the first primary and there is a very real possibility that he may win the nomination and thus make a second primary unnecessary."

The Graham supporters, though conceding that Sandy is now in third place, are far from discouraged and maintain that he has made more gains the past week than either Hoey or McDonald and that he is drawing steadily from both. A good many who have been inclined to support Hoey have now gone over into the Graham camp because they are convinced that Hoey cannot defeat McDonald in a second primary, the Graham forces maintain, while even more are deserting McDonald for Graham in the belief that Graham is the safer and saner candidate and not connected with the "Shell by Dynamite" or the present "Administration Machine."

And while it is agreed that the Graham backers are going to have to do a lot of work to enable Sandy to run second in the first primary, indications are that his managers and workers are going to put more steam back of their efforts this week than ever before in an effort to prove to the state that he can make the grade and pass Hoey and McDonald both between now and the date of the primary. They are depending upon personal work and contact in every county and precinct to put him over.

R. S. Proctor Delivers Two Lectures at High School

R. S. Proctor, well-known for his work with the National Youth Administration, gave two lectures at the Greenville High School yesterday. The first one, "Choosing Your Life's Work," was given at the assembly period to the sophomores, juniors, and seniors, the second one was for parents, teachers, and other citizens interested in vocational guidance.

In his address to the adults last night, Mr. Proctor presented clearly significant facts about the four-fold work of the N. Y. A.; the cardinal principles of vocational guidance, and suggestions about the aspects of teacher-training that help prepare one to give such guidance. To the students he said in substance: Know yourself; know your job; take the training you need; get ready for citizenship; work out a wholesome philosophy of life. There is something wrong in the life of any person whose vocation is not the one for which he is best fitted; whose relations with his family are not happy; and whose attitude toward life is distorted. To both young people and adults, Mr. Proctor emphasized these two facts: Eventually the solution of economic problems for each community must be worked out by clear-thinking, well-prepared citizens, and the homeroom period offers the best possible opportunity for training students in the activities essential in wholesome civic life.

Before the lecture, two musical selections and a reading were given. Misses Pauline Abeyonik, Mabel Beaman, and Rosalyn Swindell sang "The Lovely Rose," and Misses Beaman and Abeyonik and Messrs. Robert Earl Clark and James Smith sang "The Four-Leaf Clover." These boys and girls are students of Miss. Oona Shindler's, an adaptation of a play of The Prophet, by Khalil Gibran, was appropriate and effective.

At both of the meetings, Miss Dora Coste, chairman of the Education Committee of the American Association of University Women, presided. In the afternoon, Mr. Proctor was presented by J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville schools; in the evening, by Miss Mamie E. Jenkins, retiring president of the A. A. U. W.

New York Cotton

New York, May 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to five points advance on higher Liverpool cables and foreign buying of new crop months.

At the end of the first hour May was about net unchanged at 11.52 while December was selling at 10.21 or five points net higher.

Early demand for May was supplied around 11.52 but the supply at that price seemed to be exhausted and later May advanced to 11.55. Cotton futures closed steady unchanged to nine higher. Spots appropriate and effective.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 5.—(AP)—Quiet but persistent buying came in the stock market today and lifted prices a fraction to three or more points in virtually all categories. The substantial upturn in relatively dull dealings was attributed partly to short covering based on the apparently improved technical position of the lists.

The late stock tone was firm. Transactions approximately 1,400,000 shares.

WASHINGTON DAY BOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington. — The decision of Secretary Morgenthau to appear before the senate finance committee and state his views on the pending tax bill, after he had absented himself from Washington while the house ways and means committee was considering the measure, occasioned no little comment among politicians in the capital.

Yet to those who know the treasury secretary intimately the situation was easy to understand.

One of Morgenthau's secret dreads is having to appear before a congressional committee in an official capacity. Especially is this true as regards the ways and means committee when as controversial a subject as new taxes is involved.

Charged by the constitution with the responsibility of originating all legislation affecting revenue, the 18 Democrats and seven Republicans who comprise that committee are among the shrewdest and most hardboiled men in congress. A member of the cabinet or anyone else, for that matter appears before that group at his own risk.

In the senate finance committee it's a bit different. The going is not so rough. There's an atmosphere of dignity there which is far different from the rough and tumble debate which prevails in sessions of the ways and means committee.

Aside from Morgenthau's personal aversion to making appearances before congressional committees he, probably more than any other member of the President's official family, must be the most careful as to what he says.

As the nation's chief finance officer, every word he utters, whether it be in a carefully prepared statement or in response to sudden questions seized upon by financial and other interests — sometimes with devastating effect.

Morgenthau's failure to appear before the house committee is explained by insiders in various ways. The explanation most generally accepted is that he considered the bill so technical that he thought it best to leave the explanation to his experts in the treasury. After all, the bill does contain 62,000 words and covers 236 pages.

Southern Accents Get Hollywood Gate So Belles Try to Ring in Another Strain

Louisiana's latest gift to the films, Ann Evers (top) and Wilma Francis (bottom), are diligently attempting to forget their southern accents. Hollywood actresses can't draw.

By ROBBIN COON

Hollywood—There are three new Dixie belles in filmland, and their biggest job is to ring in accents clear.

They have cleared the first hurdle in their path to film careers, with the renewal of their optional contracts for another three months. And from now on much will depend on their success in dropping the Dixie drawls they brought from Louisiana.

So Jeanne Perkins from Baton Rouge, Wilma Francis from New Orleans, and Ann Evers, from Clarksville, Va., by way of New Orleans, are watching their 'Is' and their 'final g's' and sounding their consonants with determination and zeal.

Phyllis Loughton, head of the Paramount school for stock contract players, is sure the trio can overcome what she considers the greatest handicap to any player: an English or a southern accent.

Southerners Not Sought.

"We don't sign accents as a rule," she says. "Generally speaking, the southern girl and the English girl have less chance than others in pictures. These girls were signed because they are unusually attractive, and talented, but they must overcome their accents before there can be a real place for them."

The "southern drawl," charming as it is in fiction and often in real life, becomes a handicap because a film player must be easily understood in dialogue—and, says Miss Loughton, in many parts of the country the drawl is regarded as a foreign language.

Overcoming the accent, she emphasizes, is "up to the girls individually." One method she uses is to have the girls listen to records of their own speaking voices, but this is a rare expedient because it is apt to make the speaker self-conscious.

Try Vocal Exercises

"For the most part I suggest exercises," says the teacher. "Sister Susie sewing-shirts-for-soldiers, and other routines in enunciation. Imitation of good diction is the finest method—I tell them to see and hear films of Helen Hayes, Margaret Sullivan, Ann Harding, John Barrymore, Paul Muni, Franchot Tone, and other actors I consider have excellent diction. Our policy with an accent is always to make haste slowly.

"But they can do it, Ann Evers has had training in New York already, and Wilma Francis and little Jeanne Perkins are very willing workers. They have some good examples to follow: Miriam Hopkins, Margaret Sullivan, Gertrude Michael, Gail Patrick—all southern girls who lost or are losing their accents."
