FRENCH HEADS REFUSE PLEAS OF AMERICANS

Employees of Hospital Join in Strike Movement

PHYSICIANS ASK FOR PROTECTION

'Folded Arms' Strike of Institution Attendants Forces Doctors Assume Duties

Paris, June 18.—(AP)—An appeal from the United States ambassador for police to evacuate striking employees of the American hospital, whose walkout endangered the care of 85 Americans, was denied by the French government today.

Ambassador Jesse Isador Straus asked assistance from the foreign office shortly after French hospital workers began a "folded arms" strike demanding shorter hours.

The hospital called for police protection as the assistants, scrubwomen and other employees quit work and gathered in the kitchens. Straus, accompanied by officials of the institution, told the foreign office an occupational strike could not be tolerated. He asked that police be ordered to evacuate the workers.

Hospital officials said his request was refused on the grounds such action might "cause trouble which might be serious."

At the institution resident physicians took over the strikers' duties, scrubbing floors, polishing brass and cleaning patients' rooms.

The doctors who assumed extra jobs included Dr. W. W. Tyson of Durham, N. C.

Woolfolk Elected Legion Comm'der Pitt County Post

Report Made on Progress of Fair To Be Operated by Pitt County and Farmville Legion Units

S. M. Woolfolk, prominent in American Legion affairs and adjutant of the local post for a number of years, was named commander of the unit at the regular monthly meeting of the organization this week.

Mr. Woolfolk, who succeeds Hicks Corey, will take over his new office in the fall, when other officers elected at the meeting will assume their duties.

Other officers named at the meeting included: Thomas J. Swain, first vice commander; B. B. Basden, second vice commander; J. W. Rook, third vice commander; S. L. Bridges, adjutant; H. H. Duncan, chaplain; Dr. J. M. Barrett and A. B. Corey, sergeants-at-arms; D. J. Whichard, Jr., historian; Dave Moore, child welfare officer; J. B. Kittrell, public officer; and Thomas J. Swain, athletic officer.

Instead of naming delegates to State convention, to be held in Asheville July 26-28, the post voted to designate any member who attended a duly delegates representative. The unit has six votes at the convention and these will be divided on a pro-rata basis among the members attending the meeting.

D. J. Whichard, Jr., president of the Pitt county fair to be operated this year by the Pitt County and Farmville fairs, made a report on progress made thus far toward holding the exposition.

He announced that T. J. Swain had been named executive secretary of the fair association. He also stated that plans are rapidly going forward and from an entertaining standpoint, the exposition would provide the best free acts available. A grand display of fireworks will be offered.

The county farm and home demonstration departments have pledged their cooperation in making the fair a real agricultural exposition. The premium list now is being made up and will be completed as soon as all the ads and other material are available. The fair will be held the week of October 26.

Action Completed On Deficiency Measure

Washington, June 18.—(AP)—Congress completed action today on the $2,375,000,000 relief deficiency appropriation bill and sent it to the White House.

Congressional action on the long fought measure, carrying $1,425,000,000 for relief, was completed when the senate agreed to elimination of its amendment for reviving the Florida ship canal.

GOP CHAIRMAN REAL FIGHTER

John Hamilton Makes Rapid Political Strides

Topeka, Kas., June 18.—(AP)—Initiative, political resourcefulness and the audacious nature symbolized by his red hair are accounted the factors behind the rise of John D. M. Hamilton, new chairman of the Republican national committee.

That sandy tatch, his friends say, fits perfectly the personality of the Scotch-Irishman who got into politics by defying party bosses, who jumped on the New Deal with both feet early in the Roosevelt administration and who master-minded Alf M. Landon's nomination for President.

Those who came to know him during Landon's pre-convention campaign and who saw him in action at Cleveland were not surprised to learn that his favorite diversion is watching prize fights.

Born in Fort Madison, Iowa, he went to Kansas as a child when his father, a railroad executive, was transferred to Topeka. He was graduated from Phillips Andover Academy and in law at Northwestern University.

Just out of the army, Hamilton was serving as an assistant state's attorney in 1920 when he decided to run for probate judge of his home county. Republican leaders refused to support him. He ran anyway, made a house-to-house canvass for votes and came out of the election with the judgeship.

Five years later he became a state legislator at 33, was speaker of the Kansas House of Representatives at 35, unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1885, Pitt, concrete paving for 54 of a mile of U. S. route 264 in Greenville, Conn. and Homewood of Chapel Hill, $24,087.60.

WINDSOR POSTOFFICE TO GO IN SECOND PLACE

Windsor, June 18.—Windsor postoffice is to be placed in the second-class rating after July the 1st, according to information from the Postoffice Department officials. This move is noted with gratification by the Windsor people since it indicates increased postal business in general. It has been a third class office for many years except for a brief period a few years ago when it came into second class and later lost rating because of the depression and the diminished stamp and postal business.

Rain Postpones Heavyweight Battle

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Rain today forced postponement of Joe Louis' 15-round heavyweight bout with Max Schmeling at the Yankee Stadium until tomorrow night.

A steady rain and weather bureau predictions that showers would continue throughout the day and night led promoter Mike Jacobs to announce the postponement. Originally the bout was to have been held tonight.

Jacobs said that in the event of further rain tomorrow he would try to hold the fight Saturday, possibly in the afternoon if that can be arranged.

OPPOSITIONS CRY "SHAME, RESIGN"

Storm of Shouts Follow Announcement That Bans Failed and Not Needed

London, June 18.—(AP)—Opposition members of the house of commons shouted "shame! resign!" at Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today when he announced Great Britain would lead a move for the lifting of League of Nations sanctions from Italy.

From government benches there came a little loyal cheering, but the roars of "shame" created turmoil in the house.

Eden himself assumed much of the responsibility for the government's about face on the questions of sanctions, applied in an effort to prevent Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

The storm of shouts burst out after Eden had announced: "His majesty's government, after mature consideration, on advice which I, as foreign secretary thought it my duty to give, has come to the conclusion there is no longer any utility in continuing these measures as a means of pressure on Italy."

Over the storm Eden declared: "We have to admit that the purpose for which sanctions were imposed has not been realized."

He added he considered the situation in Ethiopia one "which nothing but military action from outside the country could possibly reverse."

"If the league means to enforce an Ethiopian peace which the league can rightly approve, then the league must take action of the kind most inevitably lead to war in the Mediterranean—and no man can say such a war can be confined to the Mediterranean."

Nish, Yugoslavia.—(AP)—Experimental plantings of rice and cotton in southern Yugoslavia has been so successful that agricultural authorities expect the country within a few years to grow enough for its domestic needs. A rice crop of 3,000 tons and a cotton yield of 1,340,000 pounds were reported.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON By Ira Bennett

CAMPAIGN: Advisers are pulling and hauling at President Roosevelt, urging him to make a campaign trip through the West, and counseling him not to do so. The first batch is scared by the G.O.P.'s snuff westward. The second batch is convinced that the President will do best by spending the summer at home. One of them said: "Why not let well enough alone? Why take great risks?"

Apparently the scales swing in favor of those who advocate a presidential charge upon midwestern strongholds. They argue that something spectacular must be done to counteract the G.O.P.'s attempt to capture the west. They regard the President as his own best vote-getter. They remind him of the tremendous welcome he received in 1932 when he invaded G.O.P. states.

Much depends upon the Landon plan of campaign. He, too, is already bombarded by advice pro and con. Undoubtedly the East would like to see Landon in action. Pres-

BALDWIN ASKS FOR ALLIANCE

Declares Collective Security Tried and Failed

London, June 18.—(AP)—Prime Minister Baldwin declared in the House of Commons today that collective security has failed and called for a peace alliance of Great Britain, Germany and France.

The prime minister's words came after a session in the house when Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced Great Britain would lead a move for the lifting of League of Nations sanctions from Italy.

Prime Minister Baldwin warned the house "we, as trustees of the people ought to remember if there is a war against this country near the Mediterranean they will pay for it on the first night with their lives. The first blow may come from the air."

Saving collective security had failed, Baldwin declared: "If possible it shall not fail again. I regard it as of first importance that Germany, France and ourselves should work for peace through all Europe side by side."

Of the $69,600 due Pitt county veterans, it is estimated that at least $200,000 is for ex-soldiers served by the Greenville postoffice. There are approximately 1,000 veterans in the county who will receive payments.

The payments are handled in the postoffice, the money order window being used for the purpose. The bonds are receipted at the window and immediately are placed in the batch to be sent to Raleigh.

While the workers continue at an almost steady pace, it was evident that some of the veterans are retaining their bonds as an investment or for cashing at a late date.

Request Second Primary

Wilson, June 18.—Two Wilson County Democratic candidates for office have asked for a second primary according to an announcement made by George Tomlinson, chairman of the County Board of Elections.

The two requesting second primary balloting to determine the party's nominee for the offices are Clifton Tomlinson who tried L. S. Watson by one vote for the nomination as county commissioner from the Black Creek-Cross Roads District and Tom Ellis, second high to Lonnie Harrell in the contest for the Gardner-Saratoga - Stationsburg district nomination as county commissioner.

Reflector Continues Saturday's Schedule

As it did last Saturday and plans to continue to do, The Reflector will be published about Noon this Saturday and it is necessary that the usual weekend church, civic club and other notices be in The Reflector office by Friday afternoon.

Last week a number of notices were brought in early Saturday morning and since it was the first time the new schedule had been in operation, arrangements were made to handle them. In the future, however, it is imperative that all such announcements be furnished the paper by Friday afternoon if they are to be assured of getting in the paper.

Hamilton Says Farley Will Have Hard Time Picking Six States for FDR

Washington, June 18.—(AP)—A prediction that the democrats would break a precedent of 48 years' standing by renominating President Roosevelt by acclamation took its place today beside a republican forecast that the Landon ticket would win overwhelmingly in November.

Rep. Cannon (D. Mo.) democratic convention parliamentarian for the past 16 years, expressed the belief that the convention next week at Philadelphia would name Mr. Roosevelt without the formality of a ballot—the first man to be so honored since Grover Cleveland in 1888.

The prediction of a sweeping republican victory came from John D. M. Hamilton, national chairman and campaign manager for Governor Alf M. Landon.

Arriving in New York for conferences on party finances, he said democratic chairman James A. Farley "will have to do some picking to name six states that the democrats will carry."

Democratic leaders here today were concentrating much of their efforts on the drafting of the party platform. Those in charge of the work declined to talk about it, but some sources indicated that tentative plans drawn for submission to the convention resolutions committee make a tacit bid for support by progressives.

GLASS SLATED NEW POSITION

Virginia Senator In Line Head Banking Committee

Washington, June 18.—(AP)—Senator Carter Glass of Virginia appeared headed today for a new position of influence over the nation's monetary and banking policy almost on the eve of a democratic convention which will redefine the party's attitude toward such questions.

The sudden death yesterday of the veteran Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, chairman of the senate bank and currency committee, placed Glass in line for this chairmanship, in some ways the most important on Capitol Hill.

It was still uncertain today whether Glass would accept the position, but in view of his lifelong interest in banking and fiscal affairs most observers believed that he would.

The expected increase in his power added interest to recent speculation as to whether he would plunge into the council of the democratic convention in Philadelphia next week determined to fight for platform planks representing his views on money and banking.

Governor Declines Prevent Execution Of Wife Murderer

John Horne of Chowan County Scheduled to Die by Gas at State's Prison Tomorrow Morning

Raleigh, June 18.—(AP)—Governor Ehringhaus declined this morning to intervene for John Horne, Chowan county man, sentenced to be executed by gas at state's prison tomorrow for the murder of his wife.

Parole Commissioner Edwin M. Gill announced "the governor will not intervene for John Horne," and said a final ruling in the case of John Pressley, Gaston county negro, also scheduled to be executed tomorrow would be announced later.

Horne was convicted of killing his wife by cutting her throat at an Edenton textile mill. He wounded himself shortly afterwards.

A lenient reported Horne was sane and Gill said "the only question in Horne's case had been his sanity."

McDonald Insists Platform Pledges Removal of Tax From What Average Family Buys

Raleigh, June 18.—(AP)—Hubert E. Olive, state manager for Clyde R. Hoey in his campaign for democratic gubernatorial nomination asked again today if Dr. Rahn W. McDonald "will stand on the democratic platform."

Last night McDonald, opponent for the nomination, answered the question already put by Olive with the statement: "I have always stood on the democratic party platform."

Olive charged today that McDonald "tried to wriggle out of the situation."

The Hoey manager termed McDonald's statement a "half answer" to my question," and said the "squirming professor" was platform to suit his own absurd interpretation and then said he stood on "that platform." But I want to know how he stands on the platform the convention voted.

Olive cited the party's platform declaration it could not pledge complete elimination of the sales tax now.

He quoted the platform: "The democratic party notes with gratification the fact that business is not escaping the proper share of governmental cost in North Carolina and asked if McDonald accepted "this statement which is a direct contradiction of statements made by Dr. McDonald in the first primary campaign."

McDonald said he platform pledged the removal of the sales tax from everything that the average family buys," and added: "I certainly stand on the platform."

McDonald will make a radio address here at 7:15 tonight.

CHANGE LOOMS TARIFF SET-UP

Administration May Alter Its Trade Treaty

By PRESTON GROVER
Washington, June 18. (AP)—
Informed sources predict the administration ultimately may revise its reciprocal trade treaty program.
In the dozen or more trade treaties negotiated so far, Secretary of State Hull has agreed to lower tariffs on certain commodities. But it has not been specified that each treaty nation must buy from the United States an amount equal to what it sells to the United States.

The evident premise has been that once trade barriers are removed commerce will perk up and the United States will get an even break. This process would be speeded because, under "most favored nation" treaties with other countries, tariff cuts granted to one must be granted to the others.

Mr. Hull's view has been that stimulation of trade was imperative and that the reciprocal treaties could be used to pry down international barriers without disadvantages to the United States.

But certain trade developments have caused some to speculate whether the secretary of state may not modify his position.

Brazil, with which a reciprocal treaty recently was negotiated, is reported to have agreed with Germany for an exchange of $46,000,000 in trade. To some that means simply this: That Brazil is prepared to ship her products to the United States under the lowered tariffs but is diverting her own buying power to Germany rather than taking United States goods.

It is argued that if a quota treaty had been signed Brazil would have been obligated to buy a predetermined quantity of American goods in return for the opportunity to sell here.

Part of Mr. Hull's theory has been that the treaties would work by "triangular trade." Thus Brazil, for instance, would be permitted to sell here and with the money buy from another nation which in its turn would buy from the United States.

This commerce would react to a ship over a wider field.
Now reports are that Australia, which might ordinarily serve as one corner of such a "triangle" has put up tariff and quota barriers against
United States goods.

The Brazilian and Australian instances lead to conjecture as to whether Mr. Hull will restrict the "most favored nation" scheme, or perhaps say outright that any reciprocating nation should be prepared to buy a dollar's worth of wheat or cotton from the United States for every dollar's worth of fine wine or coffee the United States buys from the treaty-signing nation.

Olympic squad of six athletes, which will be joined on arrival in Germany by Jack Lovelock, the country's great miler, already has started its long journey halfway around the world to the games.

The team comprises a pair of distance runners, V. P. Boot and C. H.
Matthews; a cyclist, G. R. Giles;
and three boxers, T. Arbuthnot, N.
Fisher and C. Gordon. Boot, who ran a 4.22 mile in the tryouts, is considered the outstanding member of the squad. Matthews is a fair 5000-meter man, though his best times fall to stomp him as a probable winner at Berlin.

New Zealand still is counting upon Lovelock to present his native country its first Olympic gold medal

DR. M'DONALD ADDS WORKERS

Campaign Headquar- ters Are Being Expanded

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, June 18.—The campaign
headquarters of Dr. Ralph W. Mc-Donald are being expanded and more workers are being added, while the secretarial division is being moved into the second floor of the Wake County McDonald headquarters building on Fayetteville street, State Campaign Manager W.
L. Lumpkin, said here today.

He denied reports, however, that the main headquarters offices were being moved out of the Sir Walter Hotel, as had been reported, or that a second suite of headquarters offices had been rented in the Carolina Hotel here, although he admitted that some rooms in the Carolina hotel have been used for "conferences" from time to time. It has been known here for some time that most of the more important McDonald "councils of war" have been held in rooms at the Carolina hotel rather than in the Sir Walter, evidently to get as far away as possible from the atmosphere of the Clyde R. Hoey headquarters.

The McDonald headquarters are located on the seventh floor of the Sir Walter and the Hoey headquarters are located on the ninth floor.

"We just did not have room in our headquarters space in the Sir Walter for all the stenographers in our secretarial forces, so decided to move this division into space which was available in the Wake County headquarters building," Lumpkin said. "We have materially increased the number of stenographers and clerks, due to the increased amount of work we have had to do lately.
But we will continue to maintain the principal headquarters offices on the seventh floor of the Sir Walter Hotel, as in the past. We are not planning to open up any

We're old hands at distilling —this is our Family's Recipe!

Us Wilkens have been distillers since way back when. There was Grandad Wilken. He passed his secrets on to my Dad who made over a million barrels his own self. Just like you'd expect, we've always had our own notions on what tastes best. That's how our Family's Whiskey came to be. It's just our own Family's Recipe—the very same whiskey we distillers drink ourselves.

The tremendous interest in Dr. McDonald and his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor, who will enter a second primary with Mr. Hoey for the nomination on July 4, together with the short length of time before that date, has made it necessary to materially increase the personnel of the headquarters secretarial staff, Lumpkin said.

SEEKS AVENGE FATHER'S LOSS

Sen. Clark Demands Death Two-Thirds Rule

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, June 18. (AP)—
A son will avenge the defeat of his father for President if the Democrats scrap the "two-thirds rule" at Philadelphia.

The son is Bennett Champ Clark, United States senator from Missouri. The father was the late Champ Clark, speaker of the house who lost the Democratic nomination at Baltimore in 1912 after receiving a majority of the votes on early ballots.

Senator Clark, as chairman of the rules committee for the national Democratic convention at Philadelphia, will report the resolution calling for abrogation of the 104-year-old two-thirds rule.

"To say that it will give me a sentimental pleasure," says Clark, "is putting it mildly. I've been whooping it up to do away with that thing all my life."

Introduced at the first Democratic convention in Baltimore in 1812 as a move to Andrew Jackson to impede John C. Calhoun, the rule requiring a two-thirds vote to nominate has prevented two majority candidates from winning a presidential nomination.

On the 10th ballot Clark mustered 556 votes, 11 more than a majority, to Woodrow Wilson's 352. Yet eventually Wilson was nominated and subsequently elected President.

That defeat embittered Champ Clark, and the feeling persists in his family today.

But for the two-thirds rule Martin Van Buren would have been nominated in 1844, since he had a majority on the first ballot. It robbed him of victory, however, and gave it in a stampede of weary delegates to James K. Polk, the first "dark horse" nominee in American politics.

At New York in 1924, William G. McAdoo favored abolition of the rule, but the rules committee said "no" and was upheld. At one time McAdoo came within 20 votes of a majority.

Again in 1932, the supporters of Clark but finally gave up after persuasion, but finally gave up after persuading the convention to recommend the change be made in 1936.

Both President Roosevelt and National Chairman Farley have announced themselves in favor of discarding the two-thirds rule at Philadelphia.

NOBLEMAN'S DEBTS 'GAME' FOR HUNGARIAN HUNTERS

Moson, Hungary (AP) — An impoverished nobleman of this region hit on the scheme of inviting Budapest hunters to his estate as paying guests. The bargain was that the hunters were to have all the game they shot.

All went well until the hunters, about to return to Budapest with 3,000 hares and 2,000 pheasants, were met by tax and bill collectors. The game was sold and the money applied to the nobleman's debts. But it was fun, and the hunters returned to the estate determined to shoot their host out of debt, if possible.

Finds Career Due To Strain.
St. Louis, (AP) — Despite his name, there's a strain of Scotch in Frank Pedzuck, and that's how he became a painter of horses, he admits.

Five years ago, he sent for an art correspondence course for his 10-year-old son. The boy didn't like it. Rather than waste it, the father took the course.

Pedzuck had been interested in drawing since he was a boy, but after jobs as printer, painter, acrobat, building contractor and finally, apartment manager, his interest in art had waned.

He started with the usual landscapes and sketches, but an early admiration for horses led him to specialize. Recently he sold a horse painting. Now he is at work on a third.

An Evening With Shakespeare

Bob Jones, Jr. made the great characters of Shakespeare appear in quick succession on the College stage last night and made his audience feel that they had indeed had not only a profitable evening with Shakespeare, but a most delightful entertainment. He chose the great characters, each of whom is a central figure in a great play. Each appeared in the authentic costume, correct in every detail, and each spoke his own lines with cuttings arranged so as to unify the character. He brought the presentations together in one harmonious whole by having an introduction in which he presented the plan of the program. Each character was introduced by giving a brief synopsis of the play and fitting the character into the plot.

The simplicity and directness of his narrative and explanations were in fine contrast to the dramatic characterizations. He seems to have the sincere purpose of presenting the great characters and plays in such a manner that the young people of this age will find them interesting and worthy of their attention and the older folk will enjoy renewing their acquaintance with old friends.

His dramatic effects were secured by having the dark background and with lighting effects that brought out the picturesque costumes. The few stage properties and accessories used by the characters such as the drinking cup, weapons, and staff, were as authentic as the costumes.

Between scenes, the songs of the period were sung by Donald Swenk, accompanied by Miss Eugenia Thomas, of the College faculty. The songs were: "Under the Greenwood Tree," "The Willow Song," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Benedict's Stream," "Who Is Sylvia?" "Drink To Me Only," and "Hark, Hark, The Lark." Between scenes the momentary darkening of the house was used in place of a curtain. Mr. Jones brought his own technician with him.

Of the seven characters chosen several were from the tragedies, one from an historical play, and one from the most humorous of Shakespeare's plays. As proof that his dramatic presentations of characters was good, one finds that people in the audience did not agree as to which was best. Some liked him best as the hunch back king, Richard, because of his excellent facial expression. Others preferred the rollicking comedy of Falstaff, while still others thought his Hamlet best. Some of the students found it an excellent bit of dramatic work illustrating their serious study of Shakespeare while others found it merely a delightful entertainment.

Bob Jones, Jr. is the head of Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tennessee, which has as its purpose specialization in the speech and dramatic arts and music. Faculty and students in the school form dramatic companies presenting plays, but unlike the Carolina Play-makers, they do not write their own plays.

Mr. Jones will spend most of the summer at Northwestern University continuing his study. The three people in his company met from widely scattered places to fill a series of engagements at Summer Schools. Mr. Jones came from Canada, his singer, who is a student in the school, from Michigan, and his technician from Florida. The young lady who was on the program as a soloist and was scheduled to meet them had to go to the hospital with appendicitis instead. She and Mr. Swenk, who sang last night, frequently sing duets and he is her accompanist.

SALES TAX MUST BE REPEALED

The argument in this section being used against the removal of the sales tax is that if the sales levy is removed the tax will go back on the land and naturally our farmers do not want any more tax placed on their land. In this connection it is well to point out that the candidates who have advocated the removal of the sales tax have declared that other sources of revenue can be found in order that the tax might not be placed on land. In view of these declarations no farmer or other person need have any fear that his land taxes will be increased if the sales tax is removed.

The recently held State Democratic Convention went on record as declaring in its platform that the sales tax was an emergency measure and that the sales tax must be removed from "ALL necessities" by the 1937 legislature.

The removal of the sales tax from "all necessities" would leave only a luxury tax and Dr. McDonald has declared that he stands squarely on this platform and if nominated and elected will endeavor to carry out this mandate of the convention. So far Mr. Hoey has made no statement as to his stand on this phase of the platform, but certainly if he expects the support of the Democrats of the state he must and will stand on the platform.

If Mr. Hoey, like Dr. McDonald, comes out squarely on this phase of the platform then the sales tax issue is removed from the present campaign because the next legislature has received its mandate from the convention.

Those who are led to believe that nomination of Dr. McDonald will lead to higher land taxes because of the removal of the sales tax are just not up on the subject, for the sales tax must be removed regardless of who is elected governor, if the already nominated Democratic legislature carries out the party's platform.

1940: Senator Vandenberg's colleagues were not surprised when he turned down nomination for the Vice Presidency. His course during the last six months gave a clear picture of his intentions. He avoided the presidential race as long as possible; joined it when he could not keep out; got out as soon as he could, and returned to the prospect of leading the opposition in the Senate.

Some of Vandenberg's intimates say that he became convinced long ago that 1940 and 1936 was to be his climatic year. If elected Vice President he would be tied to the Landon administration. If Landon should make good there would be a renomination; and if not, the nomination would go outside of the Landon entourage.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: The news that old Arthur Burdett Hope Estleton's wife has been murdered in the Chambers away from the Reeves' dinner party—but not before he has observed a curious glance between the Reeveses. No tears will be shed on old Burdett who has administered his great power very badly and who has also some unfortunate snags with the ladies. Nevertheless the murder touches a great many people in some very tender places.

Chapter Six

QUAINT DETECTIVE

"WILL you be staying long, sir?" Edward Perry asked. His guest who had just signed the visitors' book in a firm and microscopically neat hand said, "I hardly know Mr. —"

"Perry, sir."

"Mr. Perry Three or four days anyway—possibly longer. Have you got any claret in the cellar?"

"There are a few bottles, sir, though we don't get much call for it here; wine drinking has gone out practically as you may say."

"A pity. Finum cor hominum lactifera—but perhaps Bible reading has gone out as well."

Perry grinned. "Not so much of it as there used to be, sir," he said. "It's more pictures than prayers nowadays in a manner of speaking."

He walked up two or three yards of well kept path and knocked precisely on the door. It was opened by a broad-shouldered man in police sergeant's uniform. The stiff collar of his jacket was open and a useful looking pair of feet were encased in comfortable carpet slippers. His right hand held a pen. When he spoke Hynton was struck at once by the richness of his voice and by the unexpected quality of it.

"What can I do for you?" he asked. "Let me introduce myself. I am Detective Inspector Kingsley Hynton from Scotland Yard. Here is my identity card."

James White moved back from the door with a welcoming gesture.

Kingsley Hynton accepted the invitation and in a minute or two was sitting facing the other man in a pleasant but rather uncomfortably crowded room. The table which stood between them was littered with various typewritten and printed documents, and a book of police regulations lay open among them.

THE two men took frank stock of each other in the light. Kingsley Hynton saw a strong, agreeable face crowned with black hair and distinguished by one of those square-shaped, dimpled chins which women, for some curious and deep-seated reason, find so irresistible. The In-artists is to obtain embellishment of public building interiors at less cost than regular contract prices. Don't expect too much, and remember that artists must eat.

SILENCE: Old line Democrats are shocked by slighting references to the Supreme Court. Some of them made no concealment of their disapproval of what President Roosevelt said at Little Rock in referring to Tom Jefferson's Louisiana Purchase deal.

On this as well as on several other matters administrations and their conservative brethren occupy different camps. The latter seem to be in a hopeless minority and are in a difficult position—especially those who hold office and hope to hold on. They can't bolt Roosevelt and expect to win. They must swallow their objections and do their best to whoop it up for such objectives as they can support.

Rantankerous local Democrats have blurted out savage criticisms of Roosevelt, but many of them have been indicted to pipe down by sage advice from their representatives in Washington. strenuous efforts are made to form a solid front as the G.I.P. has succeeded in doing. The example of loud cheers of complete silence will be the standard procedure.

RAILS: Before Congress adjourns Senator Wheeler is expected to put through, or try to put through, an extension of power for Joe Eastman as railroad coordinator. Eastman's coordinating job expired June 16 but it can be revived and extended by a slight wave of the wand if Congress isn't too busy otherwise.

Eastman issues a bulky report telling the railroads how to make more money by modernizing, speeding up, taking over motor services, etc. He also reports that new labor agreement rules do not "necessarily" add to the cost of operations. Railroad spokesmen Polley disagree with Eastman.

Railroads are eager to get from under Eastman's coordination plan. They say they coordinated better when there wasn't any coordination.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG New York GIFT: New York G. O. P. backers concede that Landon's record here would vastly have preferred Vandenberg to Knox for second place on the ticket. Vandenberg as a Senator knows all about Washington's wheel within wheels and has the background to advise soundly on the delicate technique.

HAMMET: New York political sharpshooters remark that FDR pulled a neat strategic retreat with the statement in his Little Rock speech

'AMERICA'S OLDEST COP'

"America's Oldest Cop" is the title friends are claiming for Policeman Clarence Levy of Charleston, S. C., who celebrates his 81st birthday in August. He has been on the force 59 years. He is seen with two of his young friends at Madison Square playground where he is on duty. (Associated Press Photo) that the Constitution doesn't need amending. It was pretty timed to the Republican constitutional issue of much of its force.

But acute analysts doubt that the President can squelch the G. O. P. charges that he craves to ravish the Constitution quite as simply as that. Ben Stoll gave the clue to the Republican retort in his convention speech as permanent chairman, when he demanded to know what member of men Mr. Roosevelt would appoint to the Supreme bench in the event of vacancies. If FDR no longer cares about revising the Constitution, the G. O. P. is placed in a beautiful position to ask whether this isn't because he intends to load the Supreme Court at the earliest opportunity with appointees he can trust to share his "judicial" views.

Is a safe bet that the Republicans will be hammering hard at this point all through the campaign?

PRECEDENT: Financial insiders figure there is more than meets the eye behind Jesse Jones' insistence that the only way to solve the problem of the bankrupt Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad is to carve it up and hand over the fragments to eight other roads.

This proposal has run into stiff opposition from rail labor, from towns and cities in Minnesota and Iowa that would lose railroad service or employment, and of course from the bankrupt road's bondholders. Senators Shipstead and Benson are fighting it. Politically the dismemberment plan has no advantages and many serious disadvantages. Yet for all that there are signs that the RFC chief has strong sub rosa backing for it inside the administration.

The point is that a number of railway experts—including some to whom the administration listens—are convinced that the only eventual solution for the railroad financial problem—short of public ownership—is to have the strong roads gradually absorb the weak ones and eliminate uneconomic competition. Naturally it would not be politic to make a public declaration of policy to this effect. The absorption process would in any case take years. But it might be very valuable to officials who hold this view to have the weak Minneapolis and St. Louis swallowed up as a precedent.

DO WOMEN SUFFER MORE THAN MEN?

Physicians tell us the nervous system of woman is more sensitive than that of man. And her nerves are more susceptible to the influences that produce "nervous tension" (strain) which is only another name for "pain."

That is why women especially benefit from Capudine, a pleasant-tasting, quick-acting remedy which relieves high nervous tension and pain by soothing the nerves. For nervous headache, neuralgia, and periodic pains Capudine is ideal. If Capudine does not relieve, you may be sure there is some organic condition which should receive the attention of your oculist, dentist or family physician. The high school junior recently scored a 72, five under women's par, on the 6,050-yard Brookdale course here. On that round she needed only nine puts on the outgoing nine, and 11 puts coming home. Miss Mahon is entering as many tournaments as she can this summer.

Bruce, an artist himself, called in impecunious artists and stirred them to ambitious effort in adorning public buildings—local artists for local projects, nationally known artists for bigger undertakings.

The quality of some of this relief art output is surprisingly good—and some of it is pretty rotten. Bruce is a liberal in art as well as in politics. ## LOCALS STILL LEAD LEAGUE

Snow Hill, Kinston and Williamston Won Yesterday

By JAMES L. WHITFIELD
Although the Greenies dropped a game to the Tarboro Bunnies yesterday afternoon by a 9-3 score, they are still clinching the top in Coastal Plain League standings as result of the 14-11 loss suffered by the Ayden Aces in the hands of the Williamston Martins.

The former University of North Carolina hurler, John Humphries, did the tossing for the Bunnies, and had the locals in a strut for five innings. During that time he struck out eleven men and allowed only two hits. These were made by Brown, who holds the center-field position on the local team. He obtained a double and an infield fly, which the Bunnies had no trouble controlling.

The first frame was started burning by Bare, first baseman for the Bunnies, who produced a circuit drive. There were only three homers during the game. The others were made by Wagner and Booser of the Greenies. Wagner's swat was produced in the sixth inning, and Booser's in the ninth. No men were on bases when the round-trip drives were made.

Holland started on the mound for the locals and was relieved by Mattson in the second frame, after allowing five hits. Mattson did a splendid bit of relief hurling, allowing the Bunnies only six hits during the remainder of the game.

Bassin with three singles and Cavatine with a double and single led at bat for the Bunnies, while the hits by Brown and the homers by Wagner and Booser featured for the Greenies.

The locals play the Goldsboro Gold Bugs at Third street stadium here this afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. The box score:

FIFTEEN ROUNDS—OR LESS

SPORT SLANTS

By PAP

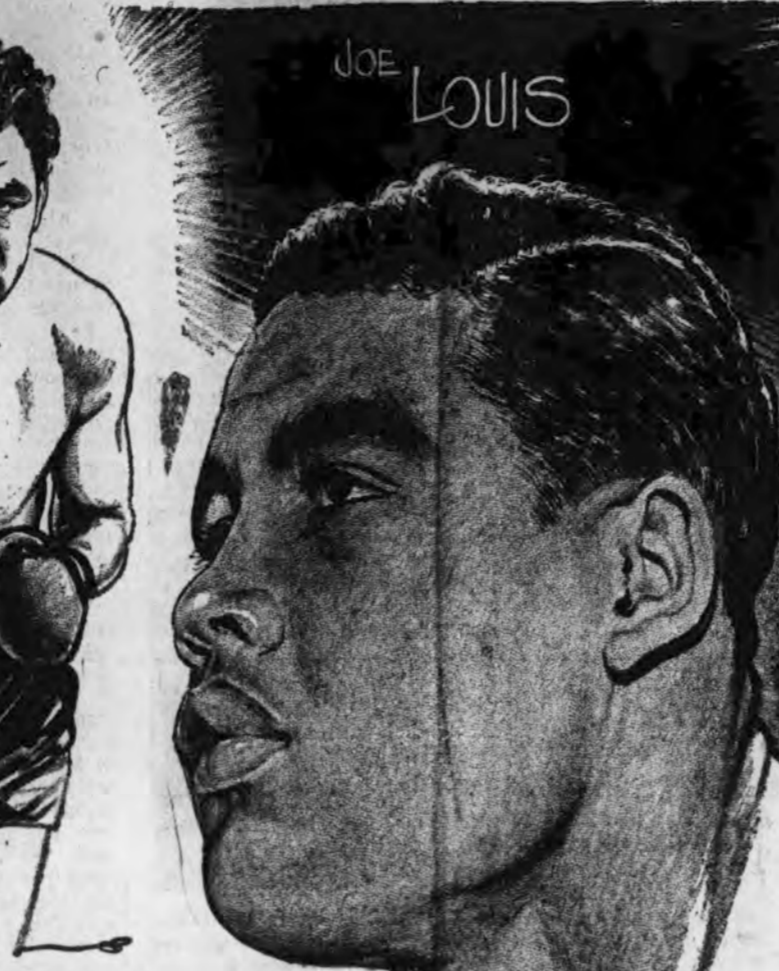

Having disposed of two former heavyweight champions in sensational fashion—Primo Carnera in six rounds and Max Baer in four—Joe Louis will attempt to make it three in a row when he faces Max Schmeling in Yankee Stadium tonight for the chance to meet the Champion of the World, James J. Braddock, in a title match. Few give the German fighter more than a slim outside chance to interrupt the Brown Bomber's triumphant march to a title bout. This is reasonable, for there is little in the 31-year-old former titleholder's record since he lost the crown to Jack Sharkey to indicate he can score anything like the stunning upset which a victory over Louis would mean.

The training sieve, with its accompanying ballyhoo, is over. That is a relief—for the fine hand of that master promoter, Mike Jacobs, was altogether too evident during the weeks of building-up prior to the actual contest. Max Schmeling was inflated to a point where he would appear to have a chance of testing the bomber to such a degree that a real contest would be assured he fans who make the turnstiles click. To the same end Joe Louis was made to look none too formidable in his training efforts. You just couldn't believe any part of what you heard around the camps, and certainly no more than half of what you saw was plausible.

That Right Hand.
 In his workouts Schmeling boxed well, hit hard and appeared to be in perfect fighting trim. His best weapon—a right hand punch—found its mark with amazing regularity. He looked ready for the fight of his life.

On the other hand, Louis appeared at his Lakewood camp slightly blubbery around the waist, with 20 pounds surplus weight as the result of several weeks of inactivity. His handlers had all sorts of difficulty digging up sparring mates who stood up long enough to give the Bomber the sort of work he needed. In practice sessions, Louis appeared to be wide open for right hand punches—Schmeling's pet weapon.

SCOUT FOR A'S LIKES GREENIES

Ira Thomas Says Local Team Is Plenty Good One

By JAMES L. WHITFIELD

Ira Thomas, "ivory hunter" for Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, declared here today that if the rest of the teams were as good as the Greenville and Tarboro units "the Coastal League is a fine one."

Mr. Thomas is in this section of the state scouting the league. The two teams he mentioned are the only ones he has seen in action this year.

When asked what he thought of the players on the Greenville team, he said it was playing a fine brand of baseball. He further said the pitching staff was somewhat weak, but added he was of the opinion this would be strengthened considerably as the season wore on.

"The hitters on the Greenville team will increase their batting averages as soon as they play a few more games, he said.

Thomas said he would see all of the teams in action before he returns to Philadelphia and gives Connie Mack the low-down on the material to be had in the Coastal Plain League.

In giving the qualities of the players who go from the minor to major leagues, Thomas said that natural ability was the only element a scout for a larger league could find in a player off-hand. He said that during his thirty years of experience in the field of baseball, he had learned why some players reach the top and others do not.

He said he could take five players from a minor league, each of whom looked like expert material for a major league, but after the five were put on the firing line, four out of these would go to a certain height while the other would keep on plugging along until he reached the top. The reason for this, he said, lay in the fact the fifth would develop a courage in his heart to keep going, while the others would come to the conclusion that major league baseball was not meant for them, and would try to go no further towards advancement.

According to Thomas, the Coastal Plain League turned out more major league baseball players last year than did the Piedmont League and that they will do the same this year.

Thomas said that Lovell (Chubby) Dean, who was a member of the Greenville staff last season was an idol among the fans of the Athletics. He said it was a remarkable piece of work Dean was doing in ball players in the Coastal Plain League, and that each member would have to pay him a sum of five dollars per year, and whenever a scout from the major leagues wanted to look over or hire new material, he would have to see him personally.

The Athletic scout especially favored Hitchcock, the Greenville shortstop, Ambler, the local second baseman, and Hutson, the shortstop for the Tarboro Bunnies, hinting that each of them had great baseball possibilities. He further said that Ambler's playing tactics had doubled over last season, and that Hitchcock had made a splendid showing, after having seen him in action two years ago.

Poorly refined motor oils, like a swimmer with all his clothes on, can't do an efficient job. They carry too much excess baggage—waste that should be "stripped off" by refining.

Most 25c oils, like a swimmer stripped of part of his clothes, are rid of some waste—but not enough for best performance. No refiner of 25c oils could afford to go further, before Gulf's Multi-sol process was perfected.

GULFLUBE MOTOR OIL, like a swimmer stripped for action, is rid of every bit of excess waste. It's the only Multi-sol-made 25c oil—the finest, purest oil a quarter ever bought. Gulflube gives you better lubrication, lower bills and a cleaner motor. Prove it—at the Sign of the Orange Disc.

HOT CAMPAIGN IS PREDICTED

Race For Lieutenant Governor Takes on New Life

Reflector Bureau.
 Sir Walter Hotel.
 Raleigh, June 18.—The campaign for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor in the second primary promises to arouse almost as much interest as the campaign for the nomination for Governor with indications that it is going to be much more intensive. The contest for the nomination in the run-off is between Paul D. Grady of Kenly, Johnston county and W. P. Horton of Pittsboro, Chatham county.

Horton announced last week when he called for a second primary, that he intended to wage an even more aggressive campaign than he did prior to the first primary and that he would open state headquarters here and have a state campaign manager. The Horton headquarters are now open and busy on the tenth floor of the Sir Walter Hotel here, in the same rooms used as campaign headquarters by Sandy Graham before the first primary. Daniel L. Bell, of Pittsboro, judge of the Chatham county recorder's court, is in charge of the new headquarters as Horton's campaign manager and Judge Walter L. Siler, veteran of many state-wide campaigns, E. B. Hatch, Clerk of Court in Chatham, J. Wade Siler, register of deeds and other Democratic leaders in Chatham county, are assisting him.

"The united democracy of Chatham county feels that Senator Horton should be the next Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina and are confident he will be nominated in the second primary," Judge Bell said today. "Besides being well fitted for the duties of this important office, he has rendered such long, loyal and efficient service to the party as merits recognition. In addition, it should be remembered that Chatham county has been Democratic since it first became a county, but has never been honored by having one of its sons elected to a major state office. Only once, in 1872, has Chatham county ever had a candidate for a state office and in that year the entire state Democratic ticket followed Horace Greely, the Democratic nominee for president, to defeat."

The Horton supporters are confident that a larger percentage of those who voted for George McNeill in the first primary will vote for Horton in the second.

ALF M. LANDON: Picture Story of His Life

At Chautauqua Lake, N. Y., where John and Anne Mossman Landon, attracted by religious meetings, spent many of their summers, Alf M. Landon often visited his parents. There, as at Conneaut lake in his boyhood, he indulged his hobbies of fishing, swimming and boating. There, in 1914, he met Margaret Fleming of Oil City, Pa. Romance on a moon-lit lake... Marriage followed on January 9, 1915, for Landon and the pretty girl (inexpensive) in Oklahoma as well as in Kansas. On April 8, 1917, a daughter was born to the Landons. Christened Margaret Anne and ever since called "Peggy," the baby is shown on her father's knee at about 18 months. Now 19, she is a student at the University of Kansas, her father's alma mater. She was a sophomore last term. Tragedy followed close on romance and parenthood for Alf M. Landon. Never strong after the birth of her baby, Margaret Fleming Landon was sent to Colorado Springs to recover her health. There, in June, 1918, she suffered a sudden relapse and died before Landon could reach her bedside. Her death, followed by only two years that of Landon's mother at Chautauqua Lake in 1916. His father still is living.

TEXAS RANGER POLO TEAM TO MAKE TOUR OF EUROPE

London (AP)—With two coveted trophies already tucked away, Charles B. Wrightsman, 41-year-old Texas oil millionaire, now plans a continental tour with his dashing Texas Rangers polo team.

After bagging the Whitney cup and the Beaufort Club trophy, the Rangers worked out in practice matches against the British-Westchester cup team.

"I never saw polo—far less played it—until I was persuaded to watch the Westchester cup match between England and the United States in 1921," Wrightsman says. "The game gripped me so hard as a spectacle that I determined to learn how to play it myself, organize a team and bring them over to England. It has taken fifteen years to realize that ambition."

 Seattle, (AP)—Eddie Gross, University of Washington freshman, is out for the Olympic tumbling championship. Four years ago when the games were held in Los Angeles, Gross, then a 15-year-old high school sophomore, came within 6-10 of a point of victory. He was nosed out by the veteran Texan, Roland Wolff. Now Eddie is looking forward to a place on the United States team again. Gross has won the Los Angeles city title, the Pacific Coast crown, and the Far West and National tumbling and long horse events.

Befuddlement Reigns As Politicians Ponder Issue

By BYRON PRICE
 (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

The present confused status of the much-advertised constitutional issue has stirred a chorus of "I-told-you-so's" from those who have doubted all along whether constitutional question would figure in any clear-cut manner in the campaign of 1936.

Certainly no other political subject is surrounded, at the moment, with greater popular befuddlement. Even if a sharp line of disagreement between the parties had developed heretofore—and none did in the supreme court decision in the minimum wage case—would have raised much questioning and uncertainty in the public mind.

On the one hand is the silence of Mr. Roosevelt, and the hesitant attitude of the Democrats generally. Some of them want to amend the constitution, and some still are contending that it is possible to accomplish the desired ends without an amendment.

On the other side is the expression of the Republican platform that no amendment is necessary, and the declaration of the presidential nominee, Governor Landon, that he conditionally favors an amendment.

How can such a criss-crossing of opinion be translated into a Democratic-Republican issue which will mean much to the ordinary voter? The chain of events which led up to the present situation is so interesting and so extraordinary that it is well worth reviewing.

Early in his administration, Mr. Roosevelt began to be accused by some of his political foes of seeking to circumvent and nullify the constitution. The American Liberty League was founded, said its charter, "to defend and uphold the constitution."

The NRA decision, followed by the President's "horse and buggy" observation, led to widespread suspicion that the Democrats would favor some sort of amendment. Several cabinet officials hinted broadly that an amendment might be considered necessary.

Yet the project fell far short of an authentic party declaration, and the "horse and buggy" talk gave way to efforts to pass new and acceptable legislation under the constitution as one after another of the New Deal laws was rejected by the supreme court.

Throughout this period ranking Republican leaders spoke often in eulogy of the constitution and the courts as the palladium of liberty—a sentiment incorporated, in fact, in one section of the Republican platform adopted at Cleveland.

Then, just on the eve of the Cleveland convention, came the supreme court decision invalidating New York state's minimum wage law. It was read by many as a denial of the right of the states to deal with that subject.

It took the Republicans, then already on the way to their convention city, completely by surprise. After much telephoning between Cleveland and Topeka, the Landons offered a plank for a constitutional amendment empowering the states to pass labor legislation. Incidentally, they also presented a second proposal to amend the constitution to permit the President to veto individual items of appropriation bills; so that, insofar as they could speak for him, Governor Landon's friends had put the prospective Republican nominee in the position of being the first to advocate, not one, but two, amendments.

Both of these proposals the platform committee rejected, amid great protest that the Republican party hardly could go on record, under the circumstances, as the only party favoring constitutional changes. To which Mr. Landon rejoined in his celebrated telegram, saying he might want an amendment anyway.

Meanwhile, in the southwest, Mr. Roosevelt was throwing out some suggestions that he liked the constitution, and that the only trouble was with its interpretation.

Will the Philadelphia Democratic convention do something to make all of this intelligible, or will it only make matters worse?

THE COW OF COWS

JERSEY COWS are common enough—but Simply Sybil's Pallas is a breeder's dream come true. Near perfect in every respect—wonderful body, level top carrying out well both ways, deep veins, marvelous udder in texture and attachment—fully worthy of her proud title, National Champion. She is the Cow of Cows.

This magnificent Jersey Champion is Nature at her peak—a creature gifted with the vital spark that only Nature can supply, a natural balance of all the elements required in the making of a champion. This natural balance of vital elements is the principal difference between Simply Sybil's Pallas and a common cow—the difference between the best and the rest in almost everything.

And here's another example of the natural balance that makes true quality—Natural Chilean Nitrate. Into this nitrate nitrogen, Nature blended her own secret balance of vital impurities, many minor elements over and above its nitrogen. And Nature herself, aged, cured and mellowed this product through countless centuries in the ground. That is why Natural Chilean stands out a quality fertilizer by every test, in the scientist's laboratory or the practical test in the farmer's fields. It is the safe, sure, balanced food for your crops.

Natural Chilean contains almost two score of major and minor elements such as boron, magnesium, manganese, iodine, calcium, potassium, etc.—each a vital element in growth and healthy development of plants.

Natural CHILEAN NITRATE OF SODA

WITH VITAL IMPURITIES IN NATURE'S OWN BALANCE AND BLEND

Kills CRAWLING INSECTS
 ROACHES, ANTS, FLIES, BEDBUGS, CRICKETS, 32% QUICKER

Kill FLIES, MOSQUITOES,
 with Bee Brand Insect Spray. Actually contains 47% extra killing power (47% more pyrethrins—the most important insect-killing ingredient.)

Get rid of crawling insects with Bee Brand Insect Powder. Tests prove that Bee Brand kills 32% quicker. That's because Bee Brand is ground finer—contains many more killing particles per ounce. Bee Brand Insect Powder is harmless to children and pets and will not contaminate foods. Bee Brand costs no more. Ask for it by name. McCormick & Co., Inc., Baltimore, Maryland.

Kill Garden Insects with Red Arrow Garden Spray. Protects roses, dahlias, other flowers, shrubs. Kills ants in lawns. Easy to use—leaves no poison residue.
