CONCESSION IN REFORM PLANSHouse Leaders Agree
To Exempt Veterans' AdministrationREP. GRISWOLD MAKES PROPOSALPossibility Raised that More Groups May Seek Exclusion Of
Other Bureaus

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—House opponents of the government's reorganization bill won a new concession from administration leaders today when they agreed to an amendment exempting the Veterans' Administration from any merger.

Representative Warren (D-N. C.) author of the general reorganization provision, said he saw no objection to such an amendment and that it probably would be approved.

Chairman Cochran (D-Mo.), of the reorganization committee, said he would not oppose it.

A member of the House Veterans' Committee, Representative Griswold (D-Ind.), said demands for exemptions of the Veterans' Administration were based on fears that it might be placed on a proposed new department of welfare and "put in a test-tube on a shelf."

Some congressmen said approval of an amendment excluding the Veterans' Administration from the measure would open the way for proposals to exempt other agencies. They asserted this raises the possibility of "log rolling" among groups that do not want various bureaus touched.

Representative Dempsey (D-N. M.), said proposed changes to prohibit Federal control of education and to empower Congress to vote on departmental changes by the chief executive did not go far enough.

"That does not mean we have lack of confidence in the President," Dempsey declared, "nor do we question his sincerity of purpose. We do, however, view with deep concern and will strenuously oppose any further infringement on the powers constitutionally delegated to the Congress as the direct representatives of the people of the nation."

Japanese Protest
Russian Activity

Moscow, April 4.—(AP)—Japan today protested to Soviet Russia against military assistance which she alleged the Soviet government was lending to China.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japan's ambassador, warned Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Minister, that Russia would have to "assume responsibility" for the consequences if such aid were continued.

Japanese sources said the protest was delivered on instructions from Tokyo and that it was based on two incidents.

Shigemitsu, they said, told Litvinoff that a Soviet plane was shot down near Nanking in January and two bodies found in the plane were those of Soviet army fliers.

A Soviet bomber was shot down 10 miles northeast of Wuhu March 14, the Japanese said.

WHAT IT MEANS:

The Future For Spain if Franco Wins

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

(AP Feature Service Writer)

Washington—Heads of governments all over the world are anxious by watching General Francisco Franco's march to the sea and asking their experts—confidentially—to guess the train of events in a final nationalist victory in Spain.

The guesses are confidential because no government is willing publicly to count other people's chickens before they're hatched.

Naturally, the guessers don't agree on details, but enough of their opinions have leaked out in democratic capitals to make a composite of the scene after Franco wins—if he does.

Possible Developments

Here are the four big developments the guessers expect in the wake of insurgent success:

1. Methodical, red-sashed General Franco would scrap the seven-year-old republic that succeeded the Bourbon monarchy in 1931, and

Cabinet Supports Blum Financial
Policy ProposalSweeping Changes Interpreted to Include Control Over Foreign Exchange and Revaluation of Franc Up to Parliament

Paris, April 4.—(AP)—The cabinet, with President Albert LeBrun presiding, today gave formal approval to Premier Leon Blum's sweeping financial proposals which financiers interpreted to include a measure of foreign exchange control and revaluation of the franc.

Parliament approval, however, was considered highly doubtful. Reflecting a widespread feeling that the Socialist Premier's program would lead to his defeat, the franc strengthened in official dealing on the Bourse. It closed at 32.24 to the dollar, as compared with Friday's official closing of 32.71.

Most important of the proposals were:

Centralization of all dealings in foreign exchange in the Bank of France with a requirement that documentary evidence be produced of the necessity for any purchase or sale of foreign currencies.

MEET TONIGHT
TO TALK SITE
IN FARMVILLEPublic Invited to Air Views on Location of Projects

The public is invited to attend a meeting at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight, at which time suggestions regarding the location of an athletic field and recreation centers will be heard.

The meeting is being held at the call of the Board of Aldermen, members of which have expressed the desire to locate the projects in the most appropriate sections and on sites which will prove satisfactory to the most concerned.

Options are held on three sites on which to locate the athletic field and others are being considered. Land may be purchased adjacent to the Third street school property, the old fair grounds and a section south of the new Tenth street highway.

A number of prominent citizens are interested in having the athletic field located in one section and recreation centers situated elsewhere.

Municipal authorities are anxious for a good attendance at tonight's meeting as they have expressed a desire to have any person having suggestions on the projects air his views.

In addition to a stadium, playground facilities for white and colored children, tennis courts, etc., are proposed. The Board of Aldermen was ordered to authorize up to $35,000 in bonds for the projects at an election last Monday. It also is hoped that a like amount will be available from WPA funds.

Threatens Clerks
In Store Robbery

Reid's Store, Inc., was the victim of a bold robbery Saturday by a Negro, who brandished a knife and threatened clerks if they interfered while he grabbed an armful of clothing and made his escape.

The Negro entered the store, walked over to a counter and started picking up the clothing. When clerks came over to wait on him he waved the knife at them and told them to stand back or he would cut them. Local police were called, but the Negro fled before they arrived and so far they have not arrested him.

TAX REVISION
BILL DRAFTEDMeasure Described as Business Recovery Bill

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—The Senate finance committee wrote into final form today its tax revision measure, described by Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) as a "business recovery bill."

Excluding social factors which might enter into tax computations, the following summary compares the bill with the existing law, with the rate a corporation having $10,000 net income would pay under the existing law, the house bill and the measure approved by the senate committee.

Present law, if the corporation distributed none of its profits it would pay on a graduated corporate income scale and a graduated scale of undistributed profit levies. Its tax would be $2,082. If all net income was distributed to shareholders, the corporation would pay only $1,040.

House bill: a modified form of the undistributed profits tax would apply only to corporations having net incomes above $25,000. The corporations with $10,000 net income would pay under a graduated scale of income taxes which would make its total tax $1,325.

Senate committee: The corporation would pay $1,325. (Continued on page two)

ture Three Small
Chinese Villages

Shanghai, April 4.—(AP)—Japanese, advancing under cover of artillery and aviation through smoking ruins and against raking machine gun fire, reported today they had occupied Taierschwang in Southern Shantung province on the Central China front.

Chinese were retreating southward to the ancient Grand canal crossing into Kiangsu province, the Japanese said. Chinese defense lines on the north bank of the canal and about Taierschwang were said to have been wiped out.

It took the Japanese nine days to conquer three small villages in the vicinity, indicative of the strong Chinese resistance, and eight days to smash through the southern gates of the town.

Casualties were extremely high on both sides with estimates from foreigners that there were 200,000 Japanese in the battle along the southern Shantung border, now the main center of the war.

On Taierschwang Chinese droned houses with kerosene and burned them to provide a crude smoke screen against continuous Japanese attacks.

Mrs. J. L. Hillard
Claimed By Death

Mrs. Maude Summers Hillard, 28, wife of J. L. Hillard of Greenville died at 6 o'clock this morning in the Pitt General hospital following an illness of one week.

Mrs. Hillard was born in Mississippi, moving to this city about 11 years ago with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Summers, who are connected with the local branch of the Salvation Army.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Bettie Joyce and Annie Grace Hillard; two sons, Critz and William George Hillard; her parents, three sisters, Mrs. John O. Sykes of Columbus, Miss., Mrs. Agnes Rushing of Charlotte and Mrs. Nadine Eldridge of Sumter, S. C.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at S. C. Wilgerson and Sons Funeral home on Dickinson avenue by Rev. T. M. Grant, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, assisted by Capt. Clarence Bates of the Salvation Army. Burial will follow in Greenwood cemetery.

Active pallbearers will be Mitchell White, T. I. Moore, P. L. Good son, Vick Forrest, Dr. Joseph Smith, Lee A. Folger, Jr., Sam Northrup, Guy Evans.

Hoey Unlikely To Halt
Execution Of Negro Boy

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, April 4.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey, like Judy Canova's brother Zeke, "ain't a sayin'" but there are strong indications that the Chief Executive will not interfere with the execution of Mann (Hiawatha) Smith, Negro rapist and youngest person ever to be sentenced to die in North Carolina.

Unless executive clemency, in the form of a commutation, is exercised Smith will die in the lethal gas chamber Friday of this week. The Governor has had the entire case record before him since last week and has been giving it prolonged and intense consideration.

If there were no aggravating circumstances in the case, it is almost certain that Governor Hoey, one of the kindest and most merciful of men, would have little trouble arriving at a decision. The very idea of executing a 16-year old is repulsive to him, but the Smith record presents features indicating that the atrocious crime

'HITLER SHALL NEVER HAVE HIM', SAYS MOTHER

Mr. and Mrs. Egon Israel, late of Germany, are shown with their new son in Irvington, N. J., where they revealed the story of the German Nordic girl's flight to America to give birth to her boy of Jewish blood. Prevented from marrying in Germany, the Israls were wed in this country a few hours before the baby arrived. "He's an American," said Mrs. Israel. "Hitler shall never have him."

BODY OF NEGRO
FOUND IN PITTDeath Believed Caused by Blow From
Blunt Instrument

The body of a Negro man identified as Herbert Daugherty, about 60 years old, was found in an open field near the May farm in the Winterville section this morning about 10 o'clock.

The body was brought to Williams Funeral Home and an investigation is being conducted by the coroner's office.

A white farmer by the name of Newhorn discovered the body when he went to look at his potato patch. Tracks of the Negro were traced to the home of another Negro in the community, Sam Shep, but he was not at home when officers went there today. The planned to return again tonight. The body was found about a mile and a half from the house and officers declared they found splashes of blood along the route.

The coroner's office reported that the dead Negro, who had been engaged in ditching in the vicinity recently, had a reputation for drinking heavily during week-ends and advanced the theory that he was struck in the head with a blunt instrument following an argument and died while on his way home.

He lived with his son-in-law, Lemon Carmon, in Winterville, and was said to have a number of close relatives in Pitt county.

Pitt County Convict

Raleigh, April 4.—(AP)—Governor Hoey today paroled Jesse Lee, given 18 months in Johnston county in December for larceny of tobacco, and Bill Culliver, convicted of transporting whiskey in Pitt county in January, and given three months.

Oil Stove Fire
Firemen this morning were called to a Negro house on Roosevelt street, but the blaze, in the home of Washington Miller, was out before they arrived. Damage was listed as negligible. The excitement was caused when an oil stove blazed up.

A thrice-weekly air service is now operating between Peking and Tokyo.

Blue Mold

Here is one for Ripley's "Believe it or Not."

While most farmers are doing everything in their power to curb blue mold, dreaded tobacco plant disease, a group of Pitt County growers are encouraging it.

Reports brought to the city today by Less Buck of Chitwood township were to the effect that a group of farmers in that section were purposely placing disease-infected plants in their beds to stunt the growth since the plants are growing too fast to set out.

LEWIS SEEKING RETAIN OFFICEPitt Politics Warming
Up With Two More
Announcements

County politics took on added interest today with announcement of B. M. Lewis, present chairman of the County Board of Commissioners, for re-election to the board, and announcement of E. L. Nichols for the office of sheriff.

Nichols is a native of the Bell-arthur community and is well known throughout the county.

Lewis, from the Farmville section of the county, is now serving his second term on the board. In 1934 he was elected as one of the five commissioners elected by the county at large and in 1936 under the new district set-up he was elected to represent district number three. The district is composed of Farmville, Falkland, Fountain and Beaver Dam townships. Since last December, when Roy T. Cox of Winterville, resigned as chairman of the board, Lewis has served as chairman.

TWO KILLED IN
JEALOUS PLOTDeaths Listed as Murder and Suicide by Sampson Coroner

Clinton, April 4.—(AP)—Coroner Paul Crumpler officially listed as murder and suicide today the death of a 21-year-old farmer and a 20-year-old jazz orchestra player who loved the same girl.

The bodies of the victims, Cameron Tew, a Clinton youth, and the rival he shot, Rudolph Smolka, an Elmira, N. Y., musician, lay side by side in an undertaking establishment here.

In a Fayetteville hospital, critically injured, was the girl, Grace Carter, shot four times by Tew, while she and Smolka sat at a piano in the Carter home here Saturday night.

Witnesses, Sheriff Carlisle Jackson said, told this version of the killings:

The young people were gathered in the parlor and Grace was playing the piano. Smolka, beside her, was singing. Tew, his hand clutching a revolver in his overcoat pocket, eased up behind Smolka and shot him in the back.

Then he turned the gun on his sweetheart and fired four times. Tew's body was found yesterday in Six Run creek. He had died from drowning.

NEGRO HELD IN ASSAULT CASEMilton Reaves Under $1,500 Bond for Attacking Chief

Milton Reaves, Negro who admittedly cut Chief of Police George Clark Thursday night when the officer took him and another Negro in custody after they had broken in Perkin's department store, was bound over to Superior court under bond of $1,500 at a preliminary hearing this morning.

Reaves is charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, inflicting dangerous and serious wounds.

James Little, who was found in the store with Reaves, was bound over to the higher tribunal under bond of $1,000. Little, who was knocked down by Preston Clark, son of the police chief, when he tried to make his get-away, was locked up immediately after he was taken, but Reaves made his escape, later being found near Kingston.

Four other Negroes who took Reaves to Kingston were ordered held under bond of $300 each for their appearance in Superior court on charges of aiding and assisting Reaves to escape after he had committed a felony, the parties having knowledge of the charge. They were Clint Hardy, Jack Reaves, Mary Daniels and Martha Joyner.

Several other cases were heard at this morning's session of police court. Bennie Harrell was ordered held under bond of $300 for his appearance in County court to face a charge of assaulting Jack Harris with a deadly weapon, a cue stick in a pool room Saturday night.

Mary Vines, Negro, was fined five dollars and taxed with costs of court upon conviction of being drunk and disorderly.

Johnnie Moore was fined $10 and taxed with costs upon conviction of a similar charge.

Lavey Tingen was fined $10 and taxed with costs upon conviction of drunkenness.

Heber Tyson, Negro, was taxed with court costs on a charge of crashing a red traffic signal.

Charlie Avery, convicted of being drunk and disorderly, was ordered to pay the costs of court.

RALEIGH LAST WEEK

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, April 4.—(AP)—The State Board of Elections, backed by an attorney general's ruling, forestalled a Republican state-wide primary. The Governor and the State Planning Board laid plans to obtain for North Carolina one of the four experimental laboratories to be set up in the United States by the Department of Agriculture. The Supreme Court heard argument in weighty cases. The Commissioner of Revenue issued a report showing that the state's tax receipts are fully up to standard.

All those events of general importance and interest occurred in this capital city last week, but to the Raleigh citizen there was only one real happening during the period: the Postoffice was moved back into a revamped, renovated, rehabilitated and remodeled building from which it moved to "temporary" quarters about a year and a half ago.

Madrid Clear Away
Debris Worst Bombardment of War

Hendaye, France, April 4. (AP)—Insurgent General Franco's offensive entered its decisive phase today with massed armies striking down the main highways to Barcelona and the Ebro valley to the sea after having taken two immediate objectives, Lerida and Gandesa.

In the fourth week of the offensive and the 21st month of the Spanish war the insurgent legions drove into the vital stronghold of the Government's militia. They were campaigning to cut Spain in two and capture the seat of the Government, Barcelona.

General Garcia Valino's Navarrese corps and the Italian Black Arrow division moved against the village of Cherta, about six miles above Cortosa, which looks down on the Mediterranean, after having pushed southeast from Gandesa.

General Juan Yague's Moorish corps, after entering Lerida, threw out advance guards on the road to Barcelona, 80 miles to the East, while mopping up the last bitter resistance within Lerida.

In Madrid wrecking crews moved in the wake of ambulances to clear away the destruction from Sunday's artillery bombardment, worst of the Civil war.

The salvage crews had as their first concern a search for charged wires, the replacing of twisted street car rails and the filling of places caused by the shells which rained on the city from heavy stationary insurgent batteries in the former Royal park west of Madrid.

The death toll approached 50 today and more than 300 were injured.

Commoner Struck
By Fellow Member

London, April 4.—(AP)—Emanuel Shinwell, a Laborite member of Parliament, strode across the floor of the House of Commons today and slapped the face of Commander Robert Tatton Bower, a Conservative member, just before the opening of foreign affairs debate.

The house was thrown into uproar by the almost unprecedented scene. Cabinet members shouted at Shinwell, "get out." The Laborite resumed his seat after administering a resounding slap.

A remark by Bower to which Shinwell apparently took exception sounded like "go to Poland," though what was meant was not clear.

The disorder indicated the nervous conditions in the House arising from Laborite demands that the Chamberlain government resign to permit an election test between the Labor policy of collective security against Prime Minister Chamberlain's policy of dithering with dictators.

Shinwell said he had acted "in a bit of temper," apologized to the speaker and left the House. Bower also apologized to the House.

There are approximately 3,300 standing committees in the 48 state legislatures.

Philharmonic Orchestra Tonight.
George H. Shapiro, the man who is to conduct the Little Philharmonic Orchestra at E. C. T. C. tonight, has been active for twenty-five years in the field of music, as a performer, a composer, and a conductor.

Shapiro studied under the great orchestra leaders Hans Richter and Arthur Nikisch.

On his personal concert tours he has played before audiences all over the world, and has appeared "by royal command" before Great Britain's Queen, and other crowned heads.

As a composer Shapiro has produced more than four hundred songs, and a number of orchestral works, comic operas, and ballets. He has literally hundreds of orchestration to his credit. Indeed, all the numbers this group will give at the college tonight are his arrangements.

He is widely experienced as a conductor, also, having conducted in such European centers as Munich, Hamburg, Leipzig, and Brussels, and throughout England and Holland.

Shapiro's versatility is indicated by the fact that he was on tour with Isadora Duncan for two years, and later with Princess Anastasia of the Royal St. Petersburg Ballet.

The composition he conducted most widely for Isadora Duncan were "Bachovsky's" "Pathétique" and Beethoven's "Seventh Symphony."

The fourteen musicians making up the orchestra are all men of musical reputation, who have played in many of the most famous symphony orchestras in this country and abroad.

Home Playground Contest.

Cooperating with Greenville's program to provide adequate playgrounds for children, the local branch of the American Association of University Women is sponsoring a contest in behalf of the very young children. Parents are urged to provide play space and equipment in their own yards for their children of pre-school ages.

For the best playgrounds the association will give selected pieces of playground apparatus. In awarding these prizes the judges will take into consideration the choice of play space, suitability of equipment to meet the child's needs, and most economical expenditure of money in providing materials.

Parents desiring to enter the contest should register with Mrs. W. S. East (telephone 1014-W) during the first week in April. The contest will end at the close of "Better Homes Week" April 24-May 1.

Play equipment for young children was displayed in Blount-Harvey's window last week and was worked out by the educational committee of the association, with the aid of a college class under the supervision of Miss Katherine Holtzclaw.

Present Program.

The primary grades of West Greenville school presented a most interesting and entertaining program to a well filled auditorium on Friday evening, April 1st, in the school building.

Features of the program included a group of poems, songs and dances by Miss Pulllove's first grade; a dramatization of "Brer Rabbit and the Farmer," by Miss Hadley's second grade; a display of handicraft

Just after 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon there was a fire alarm that had the town hustling for a few minutes. The alarm was caused by a shanty down near the river catching on fire. No damage done. It was noticeable that notwithstanding it being Sunday and all the boys had on their best clothes, nearly every member of Hope Fire Company answered roll call at the engine house. The boys are always ready when the alarm sounds.

THE SITUATION EASIER The War Feeling Slightly Relaxes Today

The war news is not so exciting today, the action which the President and Congress are expected to take being again postponed. President McKinley announced that he is momentarily expecting a cablegram from Sagasta notifying him of a formal proposition for an armistice to the insurgents in Cuba.

The Pope today urged the Queen Regent of Spain to grant an armistice to the Cubans.

JAPAN AGREES TO PAY

Japan has indicated that she will agree to meet the American demand for $2,140,000 as indemnity for the sinking of the American gunboat Panay. There was no hesitation on the part of Japan to meet the American request, which was submitted on March 22.

The text of the indemnity note submitted to Japan is of particular interest for it includes a sum of money to cover the property loss of three Socony-Vacuum Oil Company vessels which were being conveyed upon the Yangtze by the Panay. When the incident occurred on December 12, 1937, there was little or no mention by the American Government of the fact that the Panay was acting as a convoy for the tankers. All of the emphasis in the American press was placed on the fact that the Panay was evacuating our nationals from the war zone. The frank admission of the indemnity note shows the real truth of the situation. The United States gunboat was conveying war supplies in a war zone where there was a normal expectancy of attack because of the cargo being conveyed. This information of the Panay affair should be a warning to American citizens to examine with special care any charges of infringement on American rights in war zones. As the facts now show, it is a clear case of risking American lives to protect the property interests of the oil companies. If the Neutrality Law had been invoked, such protection would not have been accorded and that affair would not have happened.

Intangible Taxes Fall Far Short Of Expected Revenue

Returns From Division Less Than Half $2,000,000 Which Had Been Expected to be Realized

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, April 2.—Report of revenue collections for March left just one fly in the ointment for Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell—that is the failure of returns from the new levy on intangibles to reach even the million dollar mark.

Elsewhere along the line Mr. Maxwell had good reason to break out in a rash of optimism. For instance the combined items making up the "Revenue Division" finally attained a total higher than the same items for the corresponding nine months of the preceding fiscal year.

Up to March this total had been running behind because of the huge deficit in inheritance tax collections. That deficit has now been made up by huge increases in other items over last year, though the inheritance tax returns are still nearly two million less than last year.

As things stood at the end of March, the state had collected from all revenue division items (inheritance, privilege, franchise, income, sales, beverage, gift, intangible and miscellaneous taxes) a grand total of $31,720,700.84 against $31,280,076.26, an increase of $440,624.58.

All of which was very encouraging, but the total to date of $811,434.14 from intangible taxes was less than half the estimated $2,000,000. Those who sat through many long and arduous sessions of the joint Finance committee of the last General Assembly (as this correspondent did) will recall that Mr. Maxwell's first estimates of the intangible returns was only one million, and that upward revision to double that figure was due more to the fact that it became clear that the state was going to be obliged to split with local units than to any real facts and figures showing that the yield would be much higher than originally estimated.

On the whole, the Maxwell estimates of current fiscal year receipts are proving almost uncannily correct.

Bad Guess.

Oakland, Calif.—(AP)—While a jury debated a $7,500 auto accident suit against Robert G. Meyer, counsel for opposing sides agreed on an out-of-court settlement for $1,600. The jury was discharged and the case closed. Then Meyer learned to his dismay that the jurors had reached an agreement in his favor.

an iron hand, like Dictator Primo de Rivera who modernized the country in the prosperous nineteen-twenties. If Franco would rule, he must suppress the so-called "red" opposition, some of which is composed of moderates, much like members of the democratic and republican parties in this country. He also must watch for revolt within his own ranks. It is axiomatic in Spanish politics that a military dictator is in serious danger from some lieutenant or other who thinks he can run the country better than his chief.

3. Franco would "pay back" Mussolini and Hitler for the many thousands of volunteers and the millions of dollars worth of equipment they have sent him.

The insurgent leader's first step in foreign policy might be to proclaim the independence of Spain and emphasize her friendship for Germany and Italy.

This presumably would bolster the prestige of European dictatorships by increasing their number, but, for popular Spanish consumption, deny that Franco had traded Spain's independence for Italian and German assistance in his war against the republic.

Next Franco presumably would make economic concessions to the dictator nations, probably allowing them to exploit some of Spain's natural resources, and throwing their way as much trade as a war-drained nation could give the "have-not" nations.

France is expected to make secret military treaties with Germany and Italy to cover eventualities in case of a general European war. He might permit troops to pass through Spain and let Germany and Italy establish secret naval bases on Spain's Mediterranean coast.

Such concessions would menace France in two ways. Troop passage would force her to patrol three borders—the Spanish, Italian and German. Naval bases in the Spanish Mediterranean would threaten to cut off communication with her north African colonies.

4. As the inevitable penalty of civil war, Franco would have to turn to an outside power to get money to rehabilitate his country and run his new government, and the natural spots for credit would be London and New York.

British and American observers seem to think those nations hold a trump card in an economic game with Mussolini and Hitler in Spain. After all, Hitler and Mussolini are clamping down to keep money in their countries. At the same time, London is looking for places to invest money and the United States is willing to pay cash for Spain's cork and olive oil. Franco will be sorely emptied to carry water on both shoulders.

The Story So Far: As the wedding of aristocratic Judith Goodloe begins, three people are torn with conflicting emotions. Loving someone else, Judith is marrying Reuben Oliver—self-made man and outsider—for his money. Desperately in love with Judith, Reuben blindly refuses to realize that his fortune is evaporating. And Cissy Rogers, maid of honor, loves Reuben. In her hand is the telegram confirming his bankruptcy. Shall she give it to him, and stop the wedding?

Chapter 18

For Richer Or Poorer

"REUBEN, take thee Judith—"
his voice was steady—"to be my wedded wife—"

Cissy shut her eyes. She had come to the end of the world—

Judith's eyes were open very wide. They did not focus on any one object. She felt a tremor pass along Reuben's arm on which her hand rested.

"He's taking it terribly seriously," she tried to feel more solemnly impressed herself.

She was strangely apathetic. She made her responses in a clear voice—"I, Judith, take thee Reuben . . . for richer or poorer . . . until death—"

"Until death!" That had an ominous sound! With the swiftness of lightning tearing across a summer sky, apathy deserted her. It was like coming alive in the midst of one's own funeral—only it wasn't her funeral—it was her wedding! It couldn't be her wedding. It couldn't be without Gary!

Bishop, palms, Jim—the universe went swinging round like a top. Why was she vowing her life away when she wanted to be free? She must have been crazy to think she didn't want to wait for Gary. It was not too late—

Her roving eyes sought an open window—sought escape. Involuntarily she took a step toward it—it wasn't for late.

Beyond the windows—the hedge. A faithful sentinel, standing. The only stable thing in her crazily spinning world. It steadied her. Sanity came back. As long as there were Goodloes there must be boxwood—

She went on with her responses but her hand within Reuben's suddenly went cold.

His fingers tightened over it. And then the bishop was calling her Mrs. Oliver. Gran was kissing her. And Jim—Cissy was kissing Reuben—standing on tiptoe to do it—and Judith Goodloe was married until she died.

Between one clock tick and another the role she had set herself to play had become utterly distasteful. She wanted to step out of it. Wanted to ring down the curtain—

"The photographer from the Sun—to take your picture, Mrs. Oliver," Dick Blout—at her elbow said, "Get a grin on, Rubel!"

Mechanically Judith slipped her arm through her husband's. They stepped before the camera. The wedding party formed a semicircle on either side of them.

The curtain could not be rung down—not yet—

It was a wedding after the Goodloe traditions—another golden link to be added to Amanda's chain of memories. If the link had a flaw it was not visible today.

The bride was toasted in rare vintage. Later there would be a supper that was an epicure's dream come true. The bridal cake—home baked and iced by Amanda's own hands—would be cut with a sword worn by a Goodloe during the Revolution, but it was the Virginia Reel, that crowning triumph of every Goodloe wedding that concerned her now.

"On with the dance, on with the dance!" Regal in black velvet and pearls Amanda signalled the orchestra; herded the guests to the lawn. Everyone present, young and old, formed in two long lines. The bride and groom led off. Amanda and Dick Blout brought up the rear. To the tunes of Dan Tucker, Fair You Well My Lady, Turkey in the Straw, they went up the centre, down the sides—

Swing your partners, balance all—
Swing that gal with the water-fall—

'Have To Tell Her'

HAPPY voices took up the tune. Judith smiled down the long line. Her white satin feet trod a gay measure—her mezzo voice carried clear.

Jim swung his sister around gayly, as Cissy, reckless as a gorgeous pagan princess, started down the center with Reuben.

"How grand you are, Cissy," she smiled down at her, "I'm half afraid to touch you."

His arm-around her was bliss. She torture. She said: "You're pretty swell yourself, old son."

"Thanks! Glad I don't spoil the picture." She thought: "It's my luck to do that!" Now that she had definitely lost him she wanted to spare him. If only she could destroy the telegram that rested like a concealed bomb ready to explode in the heart of her bouquet. If she only dared to fling it away, but—he had to know—

Reluctantly she dipped jeweled fingers between her chrysanthemums and handed him the yellow envelope: "This came just as you stepped before the bishop to say your little piece."

"More congratulations, I guess." He dropped it carelessly into his pocket.

Cissy breathed a sigh of relief. She did a fancy step as she swung on, saying something witty and appropriate to each partner. If Reuben would only forget that telegram until this show was over—

When she met him at the end of the line, his face was terrible.

"Cissy—why in heaven's name did you hold it back?"

She strove for nonchalance: "Did you expect me to stage a melodrama at the altar?"

"It would have been better," tonelessly.

"That's the thanks I get for not breaking up a perfectly good wedding."

He couldn't speak. He felt nauseated and breathless as though an unseen foe had struck him a violent blow over the heart. His feet moved mechanically to the music.

He had to tell Judith—that was his first lucid thought—he had to tell his wife!

"Have to tell her, have to tell her!" The violins wailed it out. The flute carolled it. The drums moaned it: "Have to tell her—"

Then came another thought more terrible. If he hadn't been a coward—a dishonorable coward, he would have told her weeks ago of his precarious position.

"But I thought it would come out all right," Reuben tried to convince Reuben. "I'd have staked my life on the Lottie Justice I was sure—"

From somewhere within him a voice leered back: "You were not sure. You were afraid—"

A servant touched him on the shoulder. "A long distance call, sir."

Lost Opportunity

HE WALKED straight toward the nearest door. He did not deflect his course one inch. He resembled a sleep-walker. The dancing couples got out of his way. Afterwards they remembered Spoke of it! Now—they got out of his way—missing steps to do it—"Swing your partners—balance all—"

Not until the reel was over did he get a chance to speak to Judith. "Can you give me a minute Mrs. Oliver?"—The first time he had called her that.

He led the way to the deserted breakfast room and closed the door. He felt like a deserter facing a firing squad.

"Judith—" His tongue stuck to the roof of his mouth. He was unable to go on.

Outside the twilight had deepened from rose, to mauve, to misty purple. A new crescent moon was swung high. A string of colored lights that stretched across the lawn was suddenly switched on. They made a rainbow spot of light upon the wall; upon Judith's questioning face.

"Yes, Reuben?"

"If I didn't have to tell you—"

He stifled a groan and looked unseeingly at the lanterns.

"What?" she prodded when he didn't speak. "If you didn't have to tell me what?"

"I—I," he swallowed thickly. "I've lost every dollar—every cent!"

Her eyes, very blue beneath the misty white of her veil, stared mutely.

He raised his voice as though speaking to the deaf. It was a relief to shout it: "I've lost everything—I don't own my shirt."

"Don't roar," advised his wife. "I heard you the first time."

"I wasn't sure," Reuben said. From the dining room came the sound of many voices. The savory blend of hot bread, fried chicken, coffee—On the lawn the younger people still danced.

Reuben heard Judith saying as from a great distance. "Didn't you know?"

"I thought I could stave off failure, get back on my feet—"

"When did that," indicating the telegram, "come?"

"Just as we were about to be married."

"I—see."

"Cissy signed for it. Judith—you can't believe I—held this back?"

In the tense silence that hung between them Reuben wondered if he would have held it back, given opportunity? Thank heaven he had not been put to the test for in a revealing flash he knew, undeniably, that Judith was the weakness of his strength, not the strength of his weakness. He wanted to tell her—wanted to shout so the whole world could hear: "I love you, I love you! I was afraid I'd lose you—"

He could not even whisper it! This was his opportunity to level things between them. He let it pass—unwillingly, miserably—but he let it pass. If she had loved him—

Man, Your Story Is News, Too! LET THEM KNOW IT!

Lots of people tell us, "Gosh, it must be a hard job to write a newspaper!" "Well, they're wrong. They're simply all wet. Our big job, getting out a paper, is to gather, edit, set up, print and distribute the news before it's cold. It isn't hard to write the news because real news writes itself! All our reporters have to do is to answer the vital question "Who? What? Where? Why?" Then they let the facts tell their own story.

Now—the text books may not say so, but all that goes for advertising, too! Clothe the advertising message with the fast-moving informative authenticity of a live news-story—and it's our bet that your goods will move quicker? Why? Because readers are hungry for news and every advertiser's story, well told, is news!!

Tell 'em WHO: Make sure the reader sees your name! Tell 'em WHAT: Let every reader, every buyer know what your stuff looks like, what color it is; what it's made of—in a word, how good it is!

Tell 'em WHERE: How can a stranger find your store if she doesn't know the address? How can a reader find your merchandise if she doesn't know the department? Tell 'em WHEN: If your "special" starts tomorrow tell 'em so and tell 'em how long it will last.

And finally, tell 'em WHY: Tell 'em and sell 'em all the reasons why every man and woman ought to own, use and enjoy your merchandise!

State Dignitaries Claim Laboratory Important To N.C.

Raleigh, April 4.—Location of one of the four U. S. Department of Agriculture experimental laboratories in North Carolina is "extremely important," Governor Clyde R. Hoey said today.

The brief, containing facts upon which this state will base its claims for one of the laboratories will be submitted to the Department of Agriculture about the first of May, possibly a few days earlier, the Governor said.

It will be presented by the entire textile products, high in the

BE THERE TONIGHT

At eight o'clock tonight
the Board of Aldermen will hold an open meeting in the High School auditorium for the purpose of letting the citizens make known their wishes regarding the location of the proposed athletic field and recreation center. This is an important matter and it is to be hoped that interested citizens will attend the meeting and take part in the discussion. There are at this time several schools of thought with regard to locating the project. There are some who feel that the baseball park and stadium should be located in one spot and a portion of the available
money should be retained for the development of tennis courts and other recreational facilities at convenient spots in various sections of the city. There are others who express the belief that it would be better to combine all into one project.
These matters will be discussed in tonight's discussions. Every citizen who is interested should be on hand and let his or her wishes in the matter be known. After the board has reached a final decision and purchased property for the project it will be too late to enter objections. Now is the time to act. Be there tonight.

gadgets out of cotton and such things.

The Governor thinks this is one of the most important projects the state has sought in a long time, and almost everyone else agrees with him.

The Supreme Court's principle problem was whether or not the State Bar, Incorporated, can disbar
an attorney for criminal offenses committed prior to effective date of the Bar act July 1, 1937. It will be some time before the result is known as the court gave attorneys for the Bar and for John Brittain Randolph lawyer sought to be disbarred some thirty days in which to submit further argument.

The Commissioner of Banks exploded the loudest bombshell of the week, though the detonation was set off in all practical intents and purposes charged John G. Dawson, former Speaker of the North Carolina House and a former chairman of the State Democratic Committee, with approximately $45,000 shortage in his accounts as receiver for a bank, long since gone with the wind.

A bevy of attorneys prominent enough in legal and political circles to get mention in any version of "Who's Who in North Carolina," wrestled and scrapped all week before the Utility Commission, sitting en banc to decide whether the Greensboro-Payetteville and Carolina Coach bus lines shall get a franchise to operate between Lexington and Raleigh.

Wilmington's Mayor Thomas E.
Conner, peeved beyond words because his city can't get a half-way decent bus terminal, openly and sneakily branded the whole bus business as a "racket" and suggested that the franchise be sold to the "highest bidder." No decision has been made yet.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, April 4—Almost overlooked in discussion of the impending battle over liquor in the General Assembly is the fact that the Wets are launching a counter attack on the Catawba front.

While dries are holding "temperance" meetings in hundreds of churches throughout the state, while ladies of prohibition persuasion are putting on the white ribbon badges which have marked former drives for legal aridity and while canny dry strategists are carefully mapping their campaign to elect legislators who will vote for a statewide referendum, advocates of county liquor stores have launched a drive against the prohibition lines in Catawba county.

Petitions are being circulated, reportedly with good prospects of obtaining enough signatures, with a view to forcing a local option election on the question of establishing liquor stores.

Under ordinary circumstances
this would not be news of outstanding interest or importance, but right now it shows that the Wets are not planning to fight a wholly defensive battle. They are out to have another try at breaking down
the so often repeated adage that no western county will vote for liquor stores. Many of the controllers feel that this is a boyzeman, deliberately set up and fostered by drys and timid politicians.

Admitting that they went down to defeat in both Mecklenburg and Stokes, the only truly western counties which have voted on ABC stores since the 1937 ABC act went into effect, wets still think they have a good chance to win by bold tactics in many of the other counties.
Catawba is a logical place for them to test the theory that Republicans aren't as dry-voting as many think —if given a chance to cast a secret ballot on the matter of local liquor stores. Then, too, in Catawba the wets will have newspaper support, they believe. And another thing, the county doesn't touch any wet county or state—and no county in North Carolina similarly situated has voted dry yet.

There has been some comment on the fact that the sensational Dawson case down in Kinston did not break sooner in the press,
though the fat had been in the fire
for several months.

The explanation is simple and lies in the fact that North Carolina still has libel laws on the books. A newspaper is privileged to print official charges made in court
but if one had so much as hinted
at the facts before the Banking Commission had filed its motion, it might have been called on to prove them or pay through the nose.

Right now there are two cases
of bank shortages being run down
by Commissioner Gurney P. Hood and his banking commission, but no paper in the state would dare touch either story until some definite official action is taken.

Some see in the Dawson case developments the reason why the former House Speaker and Chairman of the Democratic State Committee was not named to the Supreme court.

Well-grounded reports are that Governor Clyde Hoey had about made up his mind to name Mr.
Dawson to the place now held by Justice M. V. Barnhill, but was persuaded to change his mind by an expose of the Kinston bank liquidation middle.

Also in connection with the Dawson case, many see the real reason why Judge N. A. Sinclair decided not to run for the bench again this year. The Fayetteville jurist, it is pointed out, changed his mind very suddenly after having repeatedly said he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

It is a Sinclair order, disbarring Dawson as receiver, and giving him a clean bill of health, "which is now under fire of the state banking commissioner.

HERE'S A CLOSEUP OF THE MAN F.D.R. FIRED FROM TVA

(By The AP Feature Service)

Washington — The best qualified man we could find in the country.
That was the White House description of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan
when, in 1933, President Roosevelt appointed him chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, first big pillar in the New Deal's planned economy structure.

Morgan became accustomed to the struggle and disappointment early in life. He fought the handicap of ill health. His schooling was poorfaded because his sight was poor.
But the charge that he sabotaged
TVA, brought by his fellow board members, probably is the most bitter poison he ever tasted.

Moral rectitude apparently has been a fetish with Dr. Morgan. He has emphasized the "uplift" program for the folk of Tennessee's valleys and the hills to make them ready "for the changed world brought about by the reclamation of their lands."

An excerpt from his diary, written when he was 18, reads:
"On looking backward (this the last day of the year) I think I see moral but not mental or physical improvement."

At 20 he wrote: "I am rather too discontented for my own good. I think many impulses and emotions conflict, and it is hard to tell what is the right course. I have tried very hard to make exact right and not right as it is popularly interpreted, my guide."

Supporters of board members
David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt
C. Morgan contend Dr. Morgan's uncompromising zeal for carrying out a program as he envisioned it made him intolerant.

Backers of "A. E." assert he has made a characteristic conscientious struggle for democratic principles.
When President Roosevelt chose Dr. Morgan from 150 possibilities to head TVA, the educator had long since attained distinction as a flood control engineer and as a unique contributor to the knowledge of education.

In 1933 he was serving his 13th
year as president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio. He had increased the college enrollment in a few years from 60 to almost 800
students by alternating class-room study with work in stores and laboratories of cooperating business firms throughout the country.

At 20 he was discontented
Dr. Arthur E. Morgan

President Morgan edited the semi-monthly "Antioch Notes." Some years ago Franklin D. Roosevelt's name was put on the subscription list. Mr. Roosevelt liked Dr. Morgan's "frank, pointed and sensible remarks about life and human beings." He proceeded to know more about this the idealist, and the TVA appointment was a consequence.

Dr. Morgan was born in Cincinnati, grew up in the Mississippi river backwoods and at 19 was graduated from high school in St.
Cloud, Minn. Delicate in health, he worked outdoors and slept in a tent
in the North Woods when the mercury registered as low as 30 below zero.

Eye trouble prevented continuation of his studies after high school and he worked his way to Colorado,
via lumber camps, farms and print shops. Returning to St. Cloud three years later he began a surveying career which brought him recognition as an engineer.

He learned drainage and reclamation work, and his services were sought in several parts of the country. He gets the title doctor from an honorary degree in science conferred on him by the University of Colorado in 1925.

He married Miss Urania Jones in 1904. She died the next year. He was married to Lucy Middleton Griscom of Woodbury, N. J., in 1911. He had a son by his first wife. A son and a daughter were born of the second marriage. The Morgans also have an adopted daughter.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — Days before the TVA investigation could take shape, nimble-witted Congressional investigators began to digest the possibilities for making it into headlines.

Back of every Congressional investigation that amounts to pin-weight proportions is the crew of investigators. They are keener than hacksaws and like no other type of investigator. They are a breed unto themselves.

They blow in from some unexpected quarter, operate for the most part without more than casual publicity, then filter off into some other work.

An investigator with three years' experience is a veteran. Five years' experience makes an old master.
And all this happens usually while the man is in his late twenties or in his thirties.

Noted in the recent crop are Ferdinand Pecora, whose flashing investigation of big financial names put across the securities and exchange legislation. Now he is on the New York state supreme court.
Stephen Raushenbush headed the Senate munitions committee investigation. Out of it grew the ballyhoo for the neutrality bill, public ownership of munitions factories, and war-profits legislation. Now he is a motive cog in the National Peace conference machinery.

Alger Hiss, one of Harvard's brilliant young lawyers, helped Raishenbush as did Larry Larouche.
Hiss now is in the state department reciprocal trade division, Larouche
in the Indian service.

The Present Crop

Busiest of present investigators are Herbert A. Blomquist, head of the lobby committee staff; Max Lowenthal, master of the hounds for Senator Wheeler's railroad investigation committee; and Robert Wohlforth, doing it for the Senate
civil liberties committee.

They don't come from the placid civil rank. Blomquist came from J. Edgar Hoover's G-man force and

NOTICE OF ELECTION

The Private Laws of the General

Every Club Looks Bad To Graham; Picks Giants Again

Yanks To Repeat But Need Help of 'Holdout DiMag'

By DILLON GRAHAM
(AP Feature Service Writer)

TAMPA, Fla.—The usual baseball forecast tells reasons why various teams are favored. Being in a revolutionary mood today, I'm going to execute an about-face, back into the yarn, tell you what I dislike about every club and then, my friends, you can have my selections for what they are worth.

I dislike the White Sox because they'll miss broken-legged Luke Appling at shortstop.

Catcher Luke Sewell is getting no younger.

Hard-hitting Hank Bonura's gone.

Thumbs down on the Boston Red Sox because they're depending too much on rookie tossers.

Their catching isn't so hot.

They're not even entertaining, since Clown Al Schacht moved on.

I don't like the Yankees because they depend too much on Joe DiMaggio for a spark-plug.

They've been riding too high—they're due for a fall.

(I'm astonished that I can find nothing else to dislike about the Yankees).

Indians Need Southpaws

A frown for the Indians, for they lack left-handed pitching.

Rollie Hemsley is a pretty old dog to learn the new trick of walking a straight line.

They're weak at second base.

I can't offer a vote of confidence in the Tigers since their pitching hasn't improved materially.

Schoolboy Rowe hardly will be of much value.

They'll miss Gerry Walker and Mary Owen.

Mickey Cochrane will be like a nervous old maid, trying to manage from the dugout.

The left side of the infield isn't too fancy.

Too many young pitchers and too many left-hand hitters spell a big "no" for the Senators. I dislike the A's and Browns on too many counts to mention.

Now The National League—

Since miracles rarely happen, I can't vision the Boston Bees getting the pitching they obtained last year. They couldn't punch, even in the Three-I League.

Just to be different, here's a good word for the not-so-daffy Dodgers. They're better than last year, but—

Rookie Pete Coscarart at second base can't hit.

The pitching doesn't sparkle.

The outfield is questionable and the Brooklyn's need another catcher. I find it hard to dislike the Cubs, but they have too many master minds—Grimm, Hartness and Lazzeri. They're too brittle.

Luck has got to desert the Giants sooner or later. They've been the luckiest team in the league for two years.

It's time for Hubbell to start slipping.

They need pitching reserves.

The Reds are almost sure to show a reversal of form. They've got good pitching but I still dislike them because their strongest punches seem to be ineffective left jabs.

The Pirates look good on paper but they can't win enough games on the field. They're about the same ball club which could use better pitching and harder hitting.

I dislike the Cardinals because I can't figure 'em out. They're full of experiments and maybes and ifs. The infield may be shaky and the pitching is uncertain. The Phillies are terrible.

Adding up all my cordial dislikes, I find the situation looks something like this for 1938:

AMERICAN LEAGUE	1937 finish	NATIONAL LEAGUE	1937 finish
New York	1	New York	1
Cleveland	4	Chicago	2
Detroit	2	St. Louis	4
Chicago	3	Pittsburgh	3
Boston	5	Cincinnati	6
Washington	6	Brooklyn	8
Philadelphia	7	Boston	5
St. Louis	8	Philadelphia	7

BIG GAME SET FOR ROCKY MT.

Boston Red Sox Meet Cincinnati Nationals Saturday

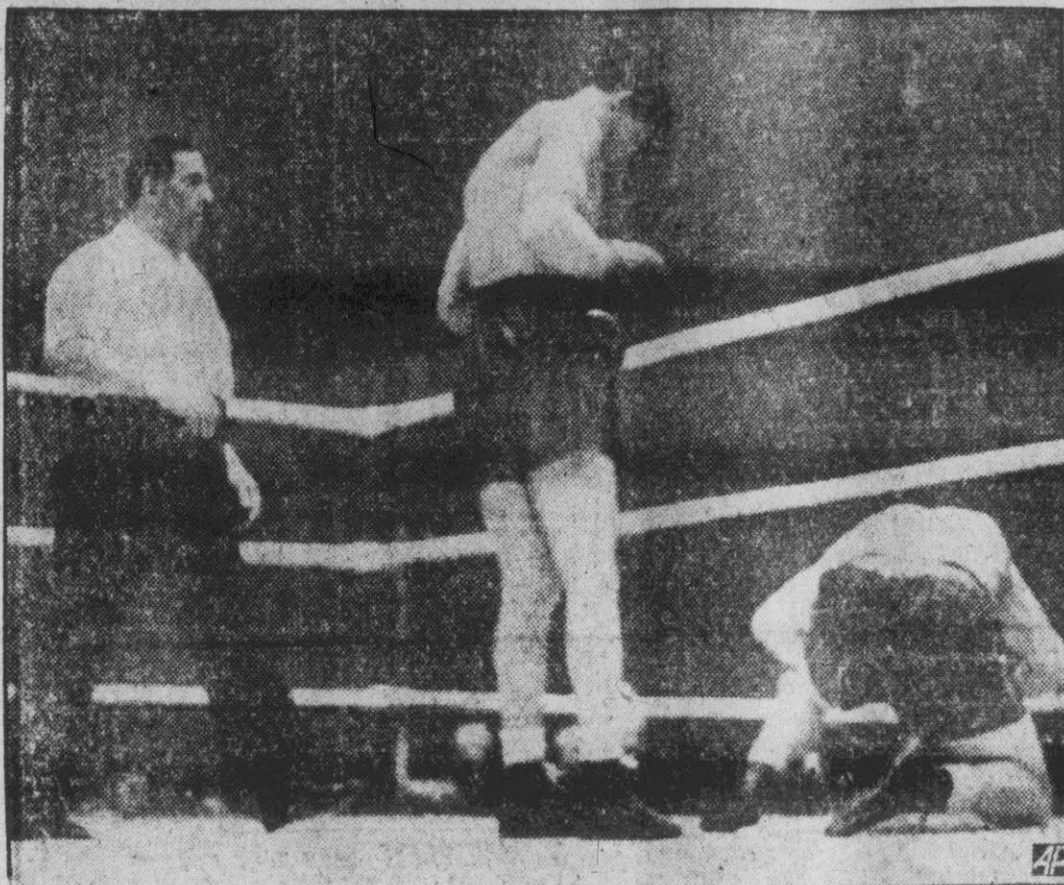

Rocky Mount, April 4.—Eastern North Carolina's biggest baseball attraction of the season will be offered at Briles park here Saturday afternoon when the Boston Red Sox of the American League meet the Cincinnati Reds of the National League in an exhibition game. The contest will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

Some of the greatest players in baseball will appear at the local park when the two teams from the major leagues meet in the seventh game of their spring training series. Such famous stars as Jimmie Foxx, Lefty Grove, Joe Cronin, Eric McNair, Pinky Higgins, Joe Vosmik, Ben Chapman and Doc Cramer will appear in the lineup of Tom Yawkey's highly publicized Red Sox.

One of the game's greatest managers, Bill McKechnie, will bring his first Cincinnati team here and will present Lee Grissom, Paul Derringer, Ernie Lombardi, Lew Riggs, Chuck Hafey, Dusty Cooke, Billy Myers, and Alex Kampouris as the more famous members of his squad.

Four members of the Rocky Mount pitching staff of 1936 have been outstanding with Boston this spring and will be with the Red Sox when

JOE LOUIS WINS IN FIFTH BY KNOCKOUT

Joe Louis successfully defended his heavyweight boxing title at Chicago, knocking out Challenger Harry Thomas of Minnesota in the fifth round. Here the courage and blond hair from the farm-lands is shown down for the last time, while the impassive Brown Bomber stands over him and Referee Dave Miller hurries up to wave Louis to his corner. A few seconds after this picture was made Thomas was counted out.

STRONG GIANT TEAM CERTAIN

Terry Certain of Power and Reserve Strength

Baton Rouge, La. (AP)—The cordial Colonel says his "Jints" will win because he has the pitching, but has he?

Maybe Bill, no longer "terrible," Terry really believes the New York Giants again will cop the National league flag, perhaps he figured it was the smart thing to say or he might possibly have been whistling in the dark.

Take 'em down in order—Hubbell, Melton, Schumacher, Gumbert. That's a pretty fair big four. But Terry'll need more than that quartet to flash home in front.

The old peccan grower of Meeker, Okla., is likely to begin showing the wear and tear of old age and hard labor most any time now. True Car Owen Hubbell did win 22 games last year but toward the end some of his stuff seemed to be fading.

And, in any event, Terry won't be able to call on King Carl to save as many games as he has in recent years. He'll surprise a lot of baseball folks if he wins 20 games this season.

Gumbert Looks Good

Cliff Melton was one of the freshmen sensations of the majors but many rookies flop as sophomores. Terry is ready to bet, though, that Cliff will have an even better season.

Terry's nomination for the chap who'll really strike his stride this season is Harry Edward Gumbert, who won only 10 games against 11 losses a year ago. The Giants will have ample use for any surplus wins Gumbert may accumulate.

Then there's Hal Schumacher, who has been troubled by a sore arm for several campaigns. Maybe he'll be all right and maybe he won't.

After the big four, what?

The Giants hope for some aid from Hal Vandenberg and Bill Lohman, rookies from Baltimore. Walter Brown and Don Brennan can go good for a few innings. If Clyde Castleman ever gets in shape, he'll just about solve all of Terry's worries.

Outside of the hurling staff, Terry is well fixed for reserves. McCarthy, Whitehead, Bartell and Ott form a good enough infield. And Lou Chiozza has been hopping about so briskly at second that Whitehead, when he recovers from they come here. They are Jim Bagby, Jr., Charlie Wagner, Dick Mikkiff, and Emerson Dickman. They have been classed as the outstanding rookie pitching prospects to be uncovered in Florida during the preliminary work.

The Rocky Mount team of the Piedmont League will suspend practice for the day. The local club will open its home schedule on Sunday, April 24.

N. C. S. Grid Star Decides Turn Pro

State College, Raleigh, April 4.—Connie Berry, the elongated lad who starred on N. C. State college's football, basketball and baseball teams for three years, will turn pro this fall.

He said today that he will accept terms offered by the Chicago Cardinals of the National professional football league, who sought his services after scouting his pass catching last fall.

Berry played end on the eleven being under Hunk Anderson two years and Doc Newton one. He was a center in basketball and for three years was a leading scorer in Southern conference circles. He captained the team during the season just closed and later played with Unique Furniture Makers of Winston-Salem in the National A. A. U. championships at Denver, Colo. In baseball he is a right-handed pitcher.

Berry came to State from Parker high school, near Greenville, S. C. He starred in the Southern Textile basketball championships there. He calls Spartanburg, S. C. home.

John Paul Jones, the American naval hero, became an admiral in the Russian navy after the Revolutionary war.

Good Insurance

Sambo Leslie and Blondy Ryan offer the Giants more insurance against injuries striking their front row snipers. And Gus Mancuso is on hand to share the catching duties with Harry Danning.

The Giants will have Hank Leiber, Joe Moore and Jim Rippie in the outer gardens and Walter Berger ready to fill in. Berger and Leslie will be valuable aides as pinch hitters, too.

Terry says he has the pitching and he'll win, but he'd feel a bit happier if his pitching reserves were as strong and plentiful as his replacements for other spots.

DETROIT TIGER BREAKS ANKLE

Frank Croucher, Detroit infielder, is shown on a stretcher being placed in an ambulance after he broke his right ankle during a Tiger-Cards game at Lakeland, Fla. Helping the crippled Tiger are Trainer Carroll (left) and Pitcher Schoolboy Rowe.

HE REVERSES BABE RUTH'S TURN-AROUND

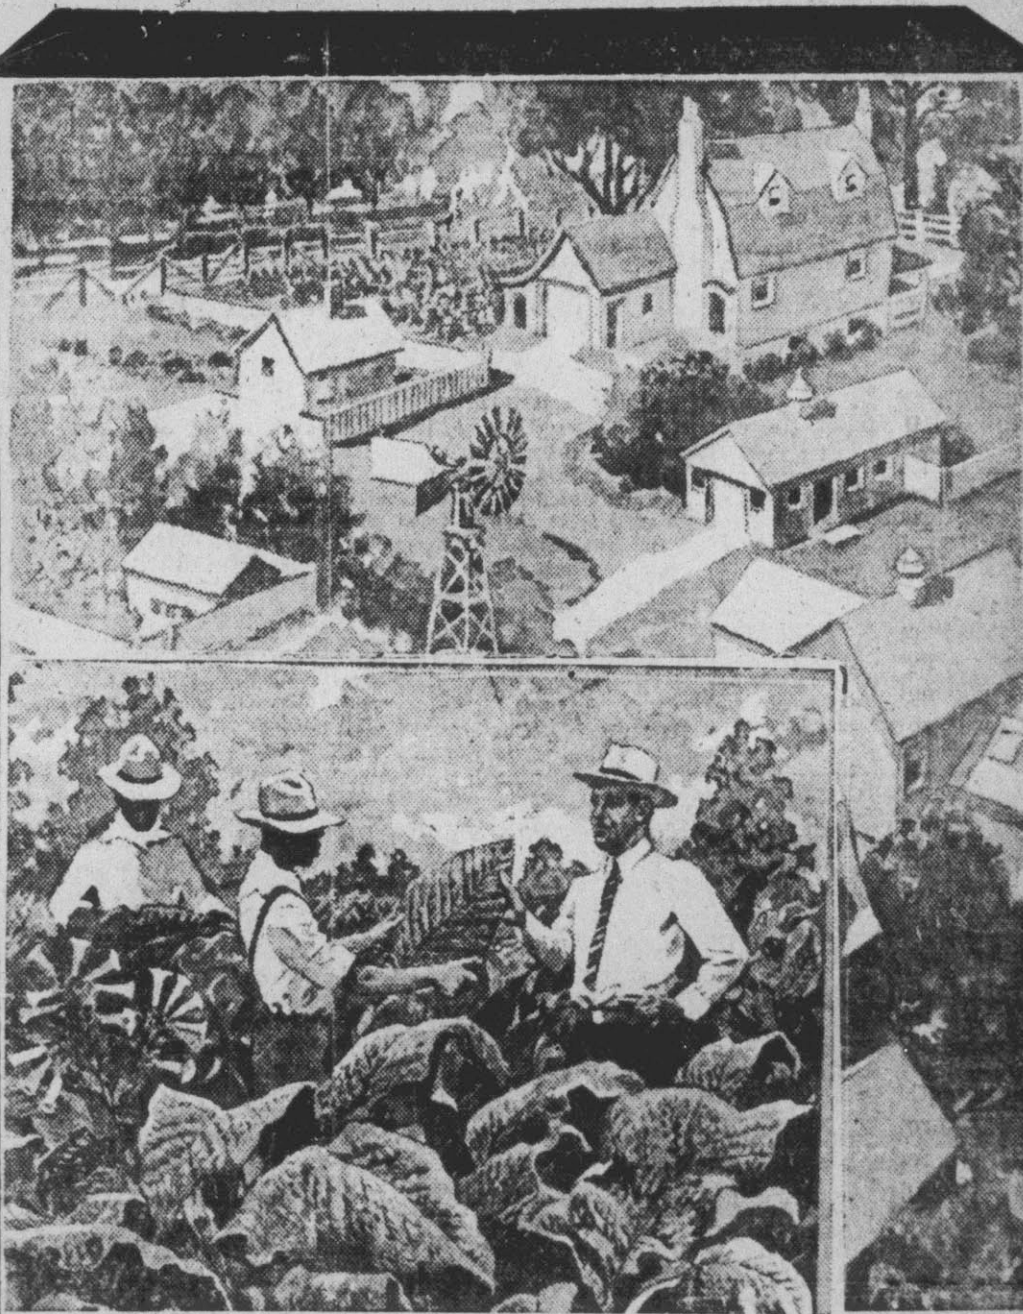

Brooklyn (AP)—Baseball has known many instances where hard-hitting pitchers have turned into outfielders but it is unusual to find an outfielder suddenly blossom out as a twirler.

Brooklyn has one this year—Schoolboy Cohen. Six years ago he had a trial as an outfielder with the Dodgers. This spring, after a fine mound season for Toledo, he

BURN CHOCOLATE BEANS TO RAISE THE PRICE

Washington (AP)—Housewives may like their cocoa cheap but African Gold Coast farmers who raise it are mighty sore about present prices. Cocoa has been the real "god" of the Gold Coast until recently, says the National Geographic Society. In the 14th century Portuguese discoverers of the region, north of the equator, hoped real gold dust would be their reward. But the golden beans of the cacao tree, introduced from the Americas, proved more valuable than gold itself. Now with prices running against them Gold Coast farmers are burning their chocolate crops by the ton. They expect it to make a difference in prices since almost 40 per cent of the world's chocolate comes from the Gold Coast beans.

Successful Eastern Carolina Farmers Are Growing More Profitable Crops

with

BLOUNT'S Home Mixed FERTILIZERS

Proof of this is reflected in the increased demand by new customers as well as old customers for BLOUNT'S. They have steadily forged to the front because they are the answer to the demand by farmers for a fertilizer that will grow more profitable crops. To do this, a fertilizer must be specially mixed for the demands of the soil.

BLOUNT'S, with over 50 years of selling, testing and experimenting with fertilizers, is meeting this need with "Home-Mixed" brands, specially mixed for the different types of soil.

BLOUNT'S, farmers themselves, and home folks, too, naturally are going to use only the best materials available, and they are going to give you the best service possible.

Use BLOUNT'S this year. They are the shortest route to more profitable crops.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 4.—(AP)—A sport in American Telephone of more than six points, together with improvements in rails and specialties helped prop up a shaky stock market today.

Light profit selling at the start, following the brisk week-end rally, pulled down leaders, especially the steels, as much as two points. The volume was comparatively small, however, and extreme losses were substantially reduced near the fourth hour.

Carrier issues had the benefit of today's meeting of management and union representatives with the President, at which it was hoped a formula for rejuvenation of transportation finances could be worked out. Foreign securities markets gave ground after an early upturn.

Beetles Found In Large Proportion In Tobacco Belts

Already Reported in all Fine-Cured Areas, Pest Now Making Appearance in Old Belt

Raleigh, April 4.—Heavy infestations of flea beetles in old belt tobacco plant beds were reported today by J. O. Rowell, extension entomologist at State College.

Fairly heavy infestations have been found in all fine-cured tobacco growing counties, he said, but the worst damage so far is in Stokes, Surry, Yadkin, Forsyth and Guilford counties.

But even in the areas where beetles are thickest, growers who constructed "beetle-light" beds are not troubled with these insects, Rowell continued.

To construct such a bed, tight-fitting board walls are built around it and provision is made for fastening the canvas cover onto this frame in such a manner that the beetles cannot get inside the bed. Rowell is of the opinion that the growers' best protection against flea beetles is in the construction of such beds in the future.

But if growers whose beds have been infested this year, he recommends dusting with one per cent rotenone. The dust can be blown down through the canvas when the cloth is dry.

In communities where rotenone is not available, growers can dust with a mixture of one part of Paris green to five parts of lead arsenate.

Dusting is better than spraying and half a pound of either rotenone or the Paris green and lead arsenate dust is sufficient for 100 square yards of plant bed.

MR. SHAW PROPOSES A TOAST TO MR. SHAW

London.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw was up to his old tricks the other day.

The toastmaster at a studio luncheon to celebrate the start of production on Shaw's "Pygmalion" called on the white-bearded Irishman for a speech.

Shaw rose and solemnly announced:

"I only get up because of one very important omission. I ask you to drink to the health of Bernard Shaw."

"Ladies and gentlemen..." the 81-year-old vegetarian raised his glass of barley water, "Bernard Shaw!"

The other guests tittered, slipped at their wine.

BLONDIE

DIXIE HIGHLIGHTS

The first Monday in April is an outstanding event in Columbia, Maury County, Tennessee. Here, in this famous outdoor mule market, is staged one of the most colorful and unique shows on earth for the express purpose of paying homage to the common MULE. In a spectacular parade of floats, beautiful girls, calvary, bands, military cadets, race horses, jacks, jennets, ponies, saddle, harness and draft horses, oxen, cows and bulls, top honors go to the mules —something like a thousand—as the cheers of the crowd mingle with the braying of the mules. The big event is always covered by a large array of newspaper correspondents, newsreel men and radio announcers. Widespread interest in the great show has been largely brought about through the efforts of W. D. Hastings, publisher of The Columbia Herald. Between 20 and 30 thousand people attend.

TAR HEEL PENS BROADWAY HIT

New York Critics Hail "I Knew 3,000 Lunatics"

By MARK BARRON

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Broadway occasionally sees a new play which is both entertaining and an impressive social document. And such a one is "All the Living," a drama about the unhappy subject of insane asylums which came in late last week and, from the critical reviews, appears to have an assured chance of being a hit.

This is Hardie Albright's dramatization of the book, "I Knew 3,000 Lunatics," by Dr. Victor R. Small, of Clinton, N. C., and Cheryl Crawford, formerly one of the executives of the Theatre Guild and the Group Theatre, made a smart move in making this her first independent production.

She called in for advice on the production not only Dr. Small, but also Dr. Joseph R. Blalock, superintendent of the Southwest State Hospital, Meridian, Va., Dr. Samuel N. Weingrow, superintendent of the Epileptic Hospital, Skillman, N. J., and Dr. Harland M. Dale, of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Both the doctors and the authors seem to have done an efficient job, for the play excited the first night audience to long applause and one critic to say "it is a pulsing drama about a dark corner in modern life," and another to say that "it is a serious treatment of a vital social problem."

This is the story of young Dr. Kromer who believes that his new formula will cure many insane patients. But, he is frustrated by political red tape in a state medical institution and is driven so angry by the politicians that he is almost insane himself. A new associate comes in and the experiments are finally carried out to success.

In this plot is woven the story of two doctors in love with the same nurse, and one of them finally wins her.

But, what is really important and dramatic is that this play gives a closeup, human view of what goes on behind the scenes of a social institution that ordinarily is closed to the outside population. It not only gives this intimate view of the patients who are recovering under the benefits of the state, but is also an indictment of politicians who hold the ruling reins and who try to handicap the little doctors and nurses who are doing their best to give honest service.

Miss Crawford who cast so many plays for the Theatre Guild does well by herself in this production. She has Sanford Meisner give a moving, passionate performance as the frustrated scientist, Elizabeth Young is pretty and apt in the minor role, the love interest.

All Steel Erected On State Building To House Offices

Raleigh to be Able to Offer Adequate Quarters to Unemployment Commission This Year

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, April 4.—If Raleigh can keep Charlie Powell and his Unemployment Compensation Commission here until December, it may be possible to fix him and it up with adequate quarters without the necessity of moving to Greensboro.

This forecast is made in view of the really rapid progress being made in construction of the new State office building, authorized by the 1937 General Assembly and now rising rapidly to its full five stories just across the street from the present State Department building.

All the structural steel is already in place and all concrete has been poured on the first and second floors. Such progress has been made that it is now predicted the building will be ready for occupancy by December 1st.

The building will, as mentioned, the five stories high, with a basement under one of the wings. Total cost is put at $325,000. Each wing is 135 feet long and 47 feet wide, making the building a V-shaped structure. The entrance will be at the corner where the two wings converge. The outer walls will be of North Carolina granite.

This new building will provide 90,000 square feet of floor space and made it possible for most of the state department and divisions again to be located in buildings grouped around Capitol Square; though it seems likely that even with the new building there will still not be enough space to care for all state agencies.

For the past five or six years there has not been enough space in existing office buildings to house
