DEFENDS 1938

SECRETARY HULL
RECALLS TREATY

Reminds Europe's
Hair-trigger Nations that Briand-Kellogg
Pact Still Binding

Washington, May 28. — (AP) — Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), indicated today the administration would have a fight on its hands if it tried to write back into the tax laws business levies favored by President Roosevelt.

In a speech defending the 1938 tax revision law against the President's criticism, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee declared there would have to be a tax bill next year, but he added significantly that would only be because some "nuisance" and other minor levies needed revision.

Earlier the Treasury disclosed the administration would ask Congress next session for a thorough re-writing of the laws to codify and simplify them and incorporate the President's favored business levies, the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes, in the forms he desires.

Meantime Secretary Hull reminded Europe's hair-trigger nations that the Briand-Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war is no less binding today than when it was signed in Paris 10 years ago.

With an eye on the tense German-Czechoslovakian situation, the Secretary of State explained he was re-emphasizing the anti-war pledge at this time because he wanted no false interpretation of United States policy to grow up.

This nation, he said, has been following recent developments in Central Europe with "close and anxious attention."

Other developments: Representative O'Connell (D-Mont.), said he would ask President Roosevelt to take some personal action in behalf of an investigation of alleged infringements of civil liberties in Jersey City, N. J.

Funeral Held For
Mrs. Whitfield

Final rites for Mrs. Frances Taylor Whitfield, 27, who died in Tayloe Hospital, Washington, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, were held from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Taylor, 1019 Cotanche street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Rev. J. C. Spivey, Holiness minister here. Interment was made in the Greenville cemetery.

Mrs. Whitfield picked a small pimple on her cheek a few days ago from which blood poisoning resulted. She was a member of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, near Greenville. She was born in Greenville and spent her entire life here except for the past nine months that she lived in Williamston.

Surviving, besides the parents, are her husband, R. L. Whitfield; a step-son, R. L., Jr., and a step-daughter, Clara Mae Whitfield; three sisters, Mrs. Willie Braxton, Misses Dorothy and Jane Taylor; three brothers, Roy C., Jasper and Rufus Taylor, all of Greenville.

MORE THAN 50 HURT IN DETROIT PICKET CLASH

C. I. O.-affiliated pickets at the American Brass Co. in Detroit, Mich., are shown in the picture at top just before the police charged them in what turned out to be a free-for-all fight between unionists, non-striking workers and police. When workers left the plant, an estimated 600 unionists met them in the street, forced cars to the curb, and often pulled out and beat the non-striking occupants. The picture below shows an unidentified picket who was knocked unconscious in the fighting, about to be moved from the scene by his fellows.

BOMBS RAINED
ON BARCELONAValencia Also Undergoes
Terrific Rebel Bombardment

Barcelona, May 28.—(AP)—Eight low-flying planes bombed Barcelona heavily this morning.

The raiders were clearly visible in the blue sky as they roared through a terrific blaze of anti-aircraft fire.

The bombardment lasted 50 minutes and was concentrated in the southern part of the port city.

Immediate reports on casualties and damage were not available. Nine tri-motored insurgent bombers also raided Valencia, but no casualties or damage was reported.

Spanish government officials said Major Julian Tancozo, former insurgent military governor of Irún, who spent seven months in a French jail for complicity in an attempt to seize a Spanish Government submarine at Brest, France, had been killed in action.

Hendaye, France, reports meanwhile said insurgent dispatches told of an entire Government division being split to pieces in a futile attempt to storm the defenses of Trémp, vital hydro-electric power.

Grady Fires At Winborne
Regarding Write-up Issue

Raleigh, May 28.—Paul D. Grady, of Kenly, opponent of Stanley Winborne in the primary for Utility Commissioner, has fired back at the incumbent commissioner in the disputed matter of whether or not there have been "write-ups" of power company assets during Mr. Winborne's term of office.

In a letter to this bureau Mr. Grady said:

"I notice that the afternoon papers quote Mr. Winborne as denying that there had been any write-ups in the value of utility properties in this state during the past 19 years. Mr. Winborne thereby shows a surprising ignorance of what has been going on and demonstrates that his chief duties have been as a filing clerk for the public utilities operating in North Carolina.

"If Mr. Winborne will refer to the Federal Trade Commission's report on the Southern Public Utility Company at page 211, he will find detail of the 1936 write-up of the assets

"It's About Over"
For Rebel Chief

San Luis Potosi, Mex.—May 28.—Swarthy Rebel Chieftain S. Cedillo was hidden somewhere in the bushes eight miles northwest of this state capital today, closely pursued by Federal troops after two narrow escapes from capture.

Four followers who escaped with him by plane from a hide-away ranch northeast of Palomas, when surprised yesterday by Federal troops, were reliably, but unofficially reported to have been captured.

The soldiers of President Cardenas, beating back in force thru the brush-covered hills, declared the capture of Cedillo himself was imminent.

A high army official expressed the belief Cedillo had tried to escape by working northward toward the United States.

Observers at the scene asserted ironically "it's about over" and said that with capture of Cedillo his

New Deal Tide Ebbing

Babson Urges Coalition of Conservative
Democrats and Republicans

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass., May 28.—The political tides are beginning to run against the New Deal. This is no partisan statement. It is merely a recognition of the inexorable Law of Action and Reaction as applied to politics. A few months from now the mid-term national elections will be held. Every member of the House, one-third of the Senate, thirty-three Governors, and a large number of state legislators will then be up for re-election. Straws in the wind, showing which way 1940 will go are bound to emerge from these November elections. In fact, from the Spring primaries, we are already able to gain some idea of the trend.

Outstanding among these primaries was last week's vote in Pennsylvania—the second largest state in the Union, politically speaking. Here the defeat of John L. Lewis' candidate was the outstanding feature. A close second in importance was the unexpected landslide victory of Judge Arthur H. James for the Republican Governorship nomination. The defeat of Lieutenant-Governor Thos. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for Governor means that the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania are no longer enthusiastic over the CIO. Above all, they do not want the CIO in high political office.

Republican Primary Significant
Lieutenant-Governor Kennedy is secretary-treasurer of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers Union—which is the keystone in the arch of the CIO. Mr. Lewis staked his own political future on securing the nomination for Mr. Kennedy. More than that, the usually astute Jim Farley put the Administration out on a limb by giving an eleventh-hour endorsement to Kennedy. It was an implied White House command to the Democratic voters of Pennsylvania. And what happened? The voters administered a stinging rebuke to

DENIES MOTION FOR NON-SUIT
IN OUSTER CASE

Recess Granted Upon
Motion of Counsel
For Defense

TO RESUME CASE
WEDNESDAY NEXT

D. R. Hollowell, Auditor, Last Witness
Put on Stand By Petitioners

Judge G. Vernon Cowper, presiding over the Sheriff Whitehurst ouster hearing here Friday afternoon denied a defense motion for non-suit, but granted a recess of the hearing until next Wednesday, to give the defense the opportunity to prepare its case for presentation.

The defense had asked for a recess of one week, but Judge Cowper declared that he believed counsel should be able to prepare their defense by Wednesday, and set that date for resumption of the hearing.

Cross examination of D. R. Hollowell, auditor, who has occupied the stand since Tuesday morning was completed during the afternoon session and after a brief redirect examination of the witness the prosecution rested its case.

During the early part of the afternoon session Hollowell's cross examination was interrupted by intermission of the Peace John Ivey Smith and Justice of the Peace A. L. Woodard to take the stand for brief periods to identify certain of their records for presentation into evidence.

Immediately following resting of the case defense counsel made a motion that the matter be non-suited on the grounds that the petitioners had failed to substantiate the charges set forth in the ouster petition. Following presentation of arguments on the motion Judge Cowper denied the motion.

The defense then requested a week's recess in the hearing to permit preparation of the case for presentation. In view of the volume of figures included in the evidence presented by the prosecution, Judge Cowper stated that he realized that time would be needed by the defense to give proper study to the matters involved and granted a recess until Wednesday.

Yesterday's proceedings ended the third week of the hearing, the longest in the history of the county. With announcement that more than a hundred defense witnesses will be summoned, the case probably will continue for many days after hearings are resumed on June 1.

Question Of Diversion
Becomes More Important

Raleigh, May 28.—Opponents of diversion of high funds are watching the Congressional wrangle over Federal roads funds with more than ordinary interest for two reasons—first, they have always felt that the Federal tax on gasoline was out of diversion of all sums over those granted back for road purposes in the states, and consequently feel that any cut in these grants would amount to increased diversion and second, they think that any slash in Federal grants to North Carolina will make increasingly important adoption of an anti-diversion amendment in the 1939 General Assembly.

Under the recommendation of President Roosevelt, Federal funds for roads would be slashed almost in two, but since he came out for such a drastic cut, there has been a change in the Administration's economic policies, and the President himself is said to look with favor on expenditures for state roads.

But under the Conference report now up for discussion in both houses of Congress North Carolina would get a total of $6,962,000 for the next two years, compared with the $8,000,000 approximately, received and to be received during the current biennium.

Thus there will be quite a drastic reduction in the Federal funds to be received by North Carolina in the next biennium, and anti-diversionists point out that there will accordingly be greater need to see to it that all revenues collected by the state from automotive taxes shall be used only for highway purposes.

HIGH SCORE BY
SENIORS HERE

Marks Made by Local
State Average

Rating especially high in their scores on the state senior examinations, this year's senior class has a median score of 72 as compared to the state average of 44.

Of the 113 seniors present the day the exam was given, 103 were above the state median. This means that only ten were below the state average. A score of 58 is that suggested by the University Testing division which a student should make to be recommended for college. Eighty-two of the 113 seniors made over 58.

Topping the list of high-scorers is Kenneth Henderson with a score of 126 points. Earle Hellen and Louis Mayo tied for second place with scores of 114 each. Next in order are Baxter Clark and Geraldine Sanders, 104 each; Doris Duval, 102; Edgar Case, Charles Clark, Elizabeth Gates, and R. O. Everett with 100 points each.

In the highest classification for the state, 92-150 points, 2.20 per cent of the seniors of the state were placed. Greenville High placed 17.70 per cent of its senior group in this top classification. The same per cent made the second classification. No G. H. seniors placed in the four lowest divisions.

The examination is an annual affair sponsored by the Testing Division of the University of North Carolina.

"The record of the 1938 senior class of Greenville high school is certainly one of the best in the state," declared Superintendent J. H. Rose.

Hong Kong, China, May 28.—(AP)—Official estimates counted 500 persons killed and 1,000 injured today in Canton after day-long Japanese air raids on the crowded gateway of Southern China.

Entire city blocks were reduced to ruins.

The Japanese raiders, flying low over the shattered Wongsha railway station district, were reported to have followed their attack by machine gunning rescue workers digging in the ruins for victims.

Forty persons were said to have been killed and 50 injured in the hall of machine gun bullets.

The Japanese armies concentrated their death-dealing projectiles around the Wongsha station of the Hankow-Canton railway line, over which men and munitions have poured into Central China to fight the Japanese invaders.

The railway apparently was the main objective of the bitter attack.

Shanghai, May 28.—(AP) The Japanese army officially announced the occupation today of Kweiteh after fierce hand-to-hand fighting in the Lunghai railway city 90 miles west of Suchow.

While Japanese forces battled westward along the Lunghai toward the strategic junction city of Chengchow and fanned out southward through the heart of Honan province, army leaders released an incomplete tabulation of a munitions and equipment seized in the capture of Suchow.

They said the properties included 26,000 rounds of rifle and machine gun ammunition, 40,000 hand grenades, 15,000 anti-aircraft gun shells.

Hankow, May 28.—(AP) Japanese aerial attacks on Heilchow, eastern terminus of the Lunghai railway, wrecking a woman's school and a church of the Southern Presbyterian Mission were reported today to the United States consulate general.

Bethel Lumber Co.
Damaged By Fire

Fire which started in the boiler room, caused heavy damage at the Bethel Manufacturing Company this morning, but officials were unable to estimate the total loss.

W. J. Smith, president of the company, said a spark evidently fell into shavings and started the blaze, which destroyed the boiler room, dry kiln, planing mill and some lumber. He said the loss was "rather heavy," but declined to estimate the loss pending a complete check.

A nearby cotton gin and warehouse were threatened at one time, but the fire was confined to the lumber manufacturing company.

Home Beautification Notes
The following notes are quoted from John Harris, Landscape Specialist:

June Calendar
1. The following plants should be pruned now if they are finished flowering and if they are in need of it: Barberry, kerria, Japanese quince, deutzia, pearlshell, lilac, spirea, goldenbell, viburnum, chokeberry, shadblow, sweetshrub.

2. If an attempt is made to water the newly sown lawn it should be well soaked once or twice a week late in the afternoon, rather than daily sprinkling. Light sprinkling tends to stimulate shallow root growth and makes the plant less drought resistant.

3. Keep your flower garden and small shrubs worked just as you do your vegetable garden. Do not allow grass or weeds to grow up around the shrubs.

Keep woods mold or some form of mulching around azaleas and rhododendrons to keep down grass; do not cultivate these plants.

4. If your roses are affected with black spot or if your crepe myrtles are affected with powdery mildew, use fine dusting sulphur on them in the morning while the dew is on, or spray them with Bordeaux Mixture. Be sure that both sides of the leaves are covered.

5. When you have finished with your farm tools, remember to keep them out of sight and not scattered over the yard.

6. Collect early perennial flower seed from your garden. Allow them to dry about two weeks and then plant to have new plants next year.

7. German Iris may be divided and transplanted now. Cut back foliage to 3 and 4 inches of roots.

8. Pick off all dead blooms from flowers and shrubs.

9. May to August is the best season for propagating soft wood cuttings. Write for directions if you are interested in rooting some cuttings.

10. Sow the following flowers now for next year: Canterbury bells, myosotis, sweet williams, wall flower, columbines, hollyhocks.

11. Sow the following annuals for late bloom: Alyssum, candytuft, corn flower, larkspur, clarkia, marigold, stocks, snapdragons, zinnias, asters, sunflowers, lupin.

4-H Encampment
Only two weeks until time for the 4-H Encampment. A good number of members have already signed up to go. Have you finished your work? Wrong addresses have been given by several members and their mail is returned each time. Check your address and see if you have given it correctly. Camp letters and ribbons have been returned because of incomplete or wrong addresses. One girl forgot to sign her work.

Home Beautification Notes
The following notes are quoted from John Harris, Landscape Specialist:

June Calendar
1. The following plants should be pruned now if they are finished flowering and if they are in need of it: Barberry, kerria, Japanese quince, deutzia, pearlshell, lilac, spirea, goldenbell, viburnum, chokeberry, shadblow, sweetshrub.

2. If an attempt is made to water the newly sown lawn it should be well soaked once or twice a week late in the afternoon, rather than daily sprinkling. Light sprinkling tends to stimulate shallow root growth and makes the plant less drought resistant.

3. Keep your flower garden and small shrubs worked just as you do your vegetable garden. Do not allow grass or weeds to grow up around the shrubs.

Keep woods mold or some form of mulching around azaleas and rhododendrons to keep down grass; do not cultivate these plants.

4. If your roses are affected with black spot or if your crepe myrtles are affected with powdery mildew, use fine dusting sulphur on them in the morning while the dew is on, or spray them with Bordeaux Mixture. Be sure that both sides of the leaves are covered.

5. When you have finished with your farm tools, remember to keep them out of sight and not scattered over the yard.

6. Collect early perennial flower seed from your garden. Allow them to dry about two weeks and then plant to have new plants next year.

7. German Iris may be divided and transplanted now. Cut back foliage to 3 and 4 inches of roots.

8. Pick off all dead blooms from flowers and shrubs.

9. May to August is the best season for propagating soft wood cuttings. Write for directions if you are interested in rooting some cuttings.

10. Sow the following flowers now for next year: Canterbury bells, myosotis, sweet williams, wall flower, columbines, hollyhocks.

11. Sow the following annuals for late bloom: Alyssum, candytuft, corn flower, larkspur, clarkia, marigold, stocks, snapdragons, zinnias, asters, sunflowers, lupin.

Phi Sigma Pi Has Banquet.
The Tau chapter of the Phi Sigma Pi, national education fraternity at E.C.T.C., had its regular Founder's Day banquet the night of May 25, in the college dining hall, with President Francis Percebe acting as host. The guest and speaker for the evening, Dr. A. D. Frank, head of the History Department of the college, made a very interesting talk on the subject "The Place of a College Graduate in Our Democracy."

Members attending the banquet and speaking during the evening were Francis Percebe, Fodie Hodgess, Ray Pruette, Harvey Deal, Leo Burks, Jr., Bertram Bateman, Sam Dees, Thornton Stovall and Louis ReBarker.

Alumni members present were Bill Sledge, Jimmy Carr and Hyatt Forrester.

Dr. ReBarker, Mr. Hollat and the sponsor of the fraternity, Dr. Beecher Flanagan, were the honorary members present.

This fraternity, though only three years old at E.C.T.C., has a membership of thirty-four, twenty-one alumni members and thirteen members on the campus.

BIRTH OF A REVOLT

Strong Man Heads for the Wilds as Cardenas Moves In

(By The AP Feature Service)
Long known as the "strong man" of San Luis Potosi state, General Saturnino Cedillo has been assailed as the "soul of the rightist movement" in Mexico. When the government ran into financial trouble after seizing foreign oil holdings, there were indications Cedillo thought the time ripe for revolting. Here's what happened just before President Cardenas moved in with government troops and the skirmishing started:

1. GENERAL CEDILLO poses for a photographer as Mexico wonders whether this old hand at revolution is really going to start something. That fellow standing in the doorway is a bodyguard. He, or somebody like him, is always close to the general.

2. HIS RANCH HOUSE, in which the top picture was taken, is called Las Palomas. That means "The Doves." Cedillo, no dove, had flown when government troops arrived to seize him after he had denied the regime.

3. A FOLLOWER, member of Cedillo's private army whose strength used to be estimated at 18,000, has his suitcase packed. He's ready to go with his leader. Those are his sisters—they'll be saying "adios" in a little while.

4. CEDILLO CAVALRYMEN may be ready for some good old guerrilla fighting, but flight comes first. They're resting in the shade near their homes before heading for the hills. When there's no trouble brewing, these fellows are pretty good farmers.

ago, this would be a significant setback. Last week's results showed that both the Democrats and the Republicans of Pennsylvania want no more New Deal programs—whether in the guise of a CIO official named Kennedy, or a "liberal" Republican named Pinchot.

As I said at the opening of this article, the tides are running against the New Deal. Here is another forecast, although you must realize that politics is a difficult subject to put under the scalpel of the statistician. This prediction is that the New Deal will lose around seventy-five seats in the House next November. The Republicans in Congress are beginning to show signs of life for the first time since 1933. They will be a real fighting group in the next session. Allied with the anti-New Deal Democrats, they have an excellent chance of restoring the constitutional system of checks and balances between Congress, the White House and the Supreme Court.

'Coalition Or Chaos'
This brings up sharply the question of 1940, particularly the presidential race. To me the issue is crystal clear—and Pennsylvania's primary results last week only serve to make me more certain of the situation. If the Republicans want to defeat the New Deal in 1940 bring back a Conservative Administration to the nation, they can do it. But they must form a coalition with the Conservative Democrats. Both groups must unite on one man for their Presidential candidate and support him. First, the anti-New Deal Democrats must break away from the Rooseveltian "Democrats" and nominate one of their own men. Then the G.O.P. should nominate the same Conservative Democrat as its candidate.

Here are some possibilities: Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, Senator Walter George of Georgia, or Senator Josiah Bailey of North Carolina. Any of these men can give the combined Conservatives a victory over the New Deal candidate. If we are to avoid economic chaos in America we must elect men to public office who realize that dishonest politics, unbridled expenses, and soaring taxes are choking industry and lowering living standards. We must repent our sins. If we do, big crops, low money rates, and new industries can give us the greatest prosperity America has ever reported.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quermet. She was killed by a left handed blow from her sister's knife. Suspected Pam Frye disappears because someone who smokes Turkish tobacco is trailing her to discover the whereabouts of $50,000 worth of ambergris she found. Agreeable Tim Carr, boarder at the Frye's Octagon House, is left handed, smokes Turkish tobacco, and hated Marina. And Roddy Stuart, whose alibiing plane crash looks deliberate, is offering a reward for the murderer. Asey goes to Octagon House to make sure Pam's ambergris is safely hidden. From an open window he hears Tim's grandmother ask him, "Where did the girl put it?"

In the meantime, he might see if Pam Frye had really hidden her ambergris in the cellar. There was an inside, built-in chute for coal attached to the window on which he had been working. Probably Pam had wheeled her barrow over from the Lorne's garage and dumped her ambergris, still covered with the tarpaulin, down the chute. Then, somehow, she had got it into the coal bin and covered it with coal.

He was so positive that the ambergris would be in under the coal that it came as a shock to find that it wasn't.

Pam might, of course, have wheeled the barrow directly in the back door. The abnormally high door sill would have presented a problem, but if she solved it, she might have left the ambergris in any one of the other rooms.

Asey began a cautious investigation. One of the rectangles was a laundry, with old-fashioned soapstone tubs. There was no trace of the ambergris there. The other odd rectangular room was fitted up as a workshop. Everything was in plain sight, and there were no closets or cubby holes in which to hide anything. The other triangle which matched the furnace room was empty except for an old churn and a dust mop. The two largest rooms, the peculiar six-sided things, were both jammed full of dusty furniture.

Nothing was big enough to hold the ambergris. The old trunks were far too small, and the lids were still opened from the frenzied search of Hanson's men for Pam Frye, the night before.

"Yup," Asey put on his gold rimmed glasses. "I found my sprigs. They—where are you? They was—oh, I thought you was that cop," he added as Aaron Frye walked up to him.

"Yes," Mr. Frye said. "Yes."

"I'm inco," HE stated searchingly at Asey, and Asey stared back at him. He had almost forgotten what a distinguished looking man Aaron was, with his massive head and white hair that somehow canceled his slight stoop. His grey flannel suit was old, but neat and well cut.

"Yes," Mr. Frye said, obviously puzzled as to what Asey was doing and who he was anyway. "What is going on? I'm sure Pam never mentioned anything about having the windows fixed, although the dear Lord knows they need it. I should have got to it myself—see here, if you're more reporters."

"The last time you seen me," Asey said, "was at your wife's mother's house. A fourth of July back—oh, ten years ago, easy. I was teachin' your daughter to sail, around that time."

"Oh," Frye was obviously relieved, "you're—"

"Yup, but I'm inco," Asey told him. "Right now, I'm the man Pam hired to fix windows. I can't see why she didn't tell you. She made a point of my comin' here this afternoon. Name of Nickerson."

"Why, I do remember now, Nickerson," Frye played up nobly, once he had been given his cue. "Yes, indeed, Nickerson. I wonder if you could fix my study window? The latch is very bothersome. In fact," he added as they walked down the hall to the door, "it's really beyond repair, but Pam said she was certain you could fix it if anyone could. Ah, Shorty," he spoke to the trooper, "it's Nickerson, you know. Quite all right, really. My daughter told me that he was coming, but I forgot. I'm forgetful. Shorty knows how forgetful I am, too. He had to leave the house from flames today when I absent-mindedly filled the oil stove tank with water. I can't think why I never did before—it's all right if he fixes the latch on any window, isn't it, Shorty?"

"Sure, I guess so, Mr. Frye. Sure, all right. Go ahead, Hanson said no one was to come to see you, but he's gone till midnight."

In the book lined study at the front of the house, Aaron pulled up an old Morris chair and sat down. "Where is she?"

Asey shook his head. "She was all right with me last night. Pam said she lit out. But I'm not worryin' about her, because I think she's one girl that can take care of herself. I'm not worryin' a bit about her. Now let's—how absent-minded are you?"

Frye smiled. "Terribly, sometimes. As I was today about that stove. More often, as Pam knows, it's a matter of policy. A very polite method of ignoring things I don't want to be bothered with. Particularly town affairs. But if there's something you wish to tell me, and you're afraid I'll blurt it out—well, I think you may safely trust me."

"Have you any idea what Pam found on the beach yesterday afternoon?" Asey asked.

Enlightening Conversation

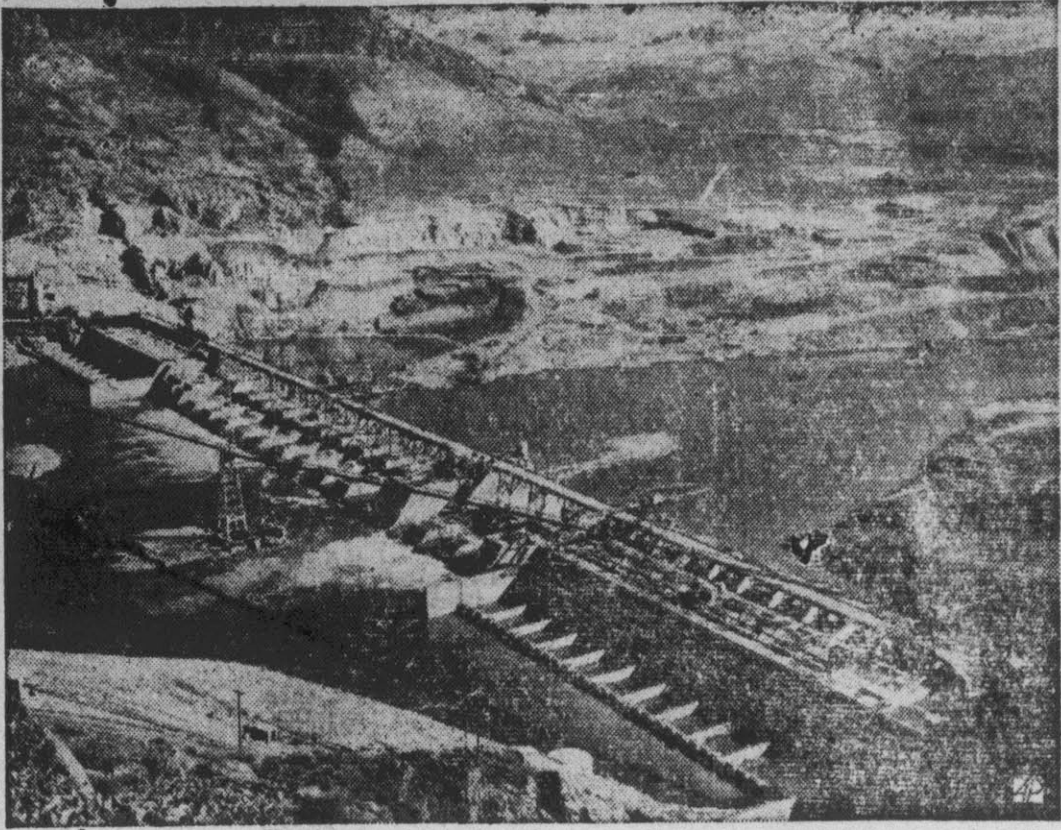

"I DON'T know," said Tim, "but by heaven I'm going to find it!"

"You will, Timmy. You will. I know you will. And I hope that you don't let grass grow under your feet when you do."

Timothy laughed. "When I find it," he said. "When—well, I'll act all right."

"But there's still the chance," Mrs. Carr said, "that it'll come to light some other way, even if you do manage to find it first. You can't guess how many people she might have told.

Raleigh, May 28—In one and the same day William A. Devin, Jr., campaign manager for Frank Hancock, and the candidate himself charged:

1—That the CIO is contributing to the campaign fund of Senator Robert R. Reynolds.

2—That the partisans of Senator Josiah W. Bailey are supporting Senator Robert R. Reynolds.

In other words, "Our Bob" is donning a set of pink whiskers every morning (thereby fooling the CIO into thinking he is in favor of sit down strikes, Dubinsky and Harry Bridges) while in the afternoon he puts on the haberdashery of an economic royalist (thereby inciting all the Budget Balancers and Spend-Lend Viewers with Alarm in his camp).

Clever reptiles, these chameleons; but no whit so clever as the gentleman from Buncombe, if Devin and Hancock are right.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—Big and booming former Senator Jim Watson of Indiana, who chats with his hand on your knee, teased Democrats with a book full of statistics at a recent picnic in Washington at which he was invited to speak.

The former Republican majority leader is seeking re-election in Indiana this year after being washed out on the political beach in the early Roosevelt years. He said Democrats could find more hungry people to feed in election years than in other years. In 1934 he reported, government relief and benefit checks began pouring out in high volume in the months before election but took a sharp recession during 1935 when there was no election.

In 1936, he said, the relief rolls increased steadily, but during 1937 even during the months of the decline from July onward, hundreds of thousands were dropped from relief rolls. Now 1938 rolls around and he says the administration is seeking to extend the relief rolls in time for the fall congressional elections.

But such statistics don't seem to annoy Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, who counts the noses on relief. He told a Senate investigating committee that he could "make a case" if anybody would to challenge his relief allotments.

On The Record
One man in Washington enjoys having Congress hang on forever and ever during political years, even though members mourn over being kept away from their home work. He is the man who makes records of bright remarks by the Senators—to be played over the home radio station at Oskoska or Peoria.

Unable to get home to speak, the members of Congress can make a 15-minute record for $7.50 and send it back to the home station which usually is glad enough to run it off on the air without additional charge.

Some members have made a regular feature of it. Senator Pope of Idaho has interviewed over a period of months such dignitaries as Ambassador Chengting T. Wang of China and Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson.

The transcription service will supply all the sound effects, from a machine gun to the sound of a river steamer bringing the member into the wharf at Paducah.

The Gracious East
Col. Tsi-Ming Chow, Chinese military attaché here, is one of the few foreigners ever admitted to the school for advanced tactics at Fort Leavenworth. He liked the training he received so well that he named his son Fort Leavenworth Chow.

Gen. Robert E. Lee, in the last year of the War Between the States, declared himself in favor of a gradual emancipation of the slaves.

Greenies Lose Another Close Game; Bears Winners, 6-5

Bears' Relief Hurler Stops Local Rally In 9th Frame

The Greenies lost another ball game yesterday on account of an error in the ninth inning, going down in defeat, 5-6, before the New Bern Bears.

With the score tied at 5-all as the last half of the ninth inning came up the Bears added the winning run when Harper came all the way from first to home on Miller's wild throw after fielding Burge's bunt. None was out when the winning tally was scored.

The Greenies will meet New Bern here Monday afternoon. League officials having ruled that all games rained out Thursday would be played Monday.

New Bern made one in the first and neither team scored any more until the third when the Greenies made one to even the count. Both teams were held scoreless then until the sixth when Greenville added three in its half. The lead was short-lived, however, as the Bears came back in their half of the frame to make four and take the lead.

The three Greenville runs were made when Riley homered to send in two men ahead of him.

The Greenies threatened seriously in their half of the ninth. Mullins, first man up hit for three bases. Miller walked, but Harrison fanned. Stowe laid down a bunt, but Mullins was held at third as the hitter was throw out a first. Thompson then fanned to end the inning with two men on bases. The Greenies' seventh inning run was sent in on Riley's single. The Greenville right fielder batted in four of the local's five runs. Pitcher Calliguri batted in the Greenies' first run.

Speaking of tough breaks and strange circumstances, Harrison of the Greenies pitched 2-3-3 innings, allowed no hits but got credit for losing the game. He walked a runner and a wild throw by a teammate produced the loss.

Martins Defeat Bugs Without Much Effort

Williamston, May 25.—Harry Swain, red-haired chunker for Williamston's Martins, yesterday afternoon gave an exhibition of just-about-perfect relief hurling.

Rushed in with one out in the first inning, Swain proceeded to turn in a one-hit job over the rest of the route as the Martins won from Clarence Roper's Goldsboro Bucs, 9-3.

The Bug runs came at the expense of Svitt (not a typographical error). Svitt, a newcomer, issued a pair of walks and yielded hits to Jans and Frost while retiring one batter. The damage amounted to a trio of runs.

Only Goldsboro hit off Swain was a single by Daniels in the seventh. The Martins tallied twice in the third, then proceeded to win the fifth. Ignasiak singled, Villapique also singled, and Bowen doubled to send in the tying and winning runs.

In the eighth, the Martins made four runs off Swain. Epp and Epp walked and Epp singled. Epp and Epp walked and Epp singled. Epp and Epp walked and Epp singled.

Batting leaders were Howard Epp and Eddie Ignasiak, each with a double and two singles.

Outfielder Iros of Goldsboro was chased from the park for protesting too freely over a third called strike by Umpire King.

Eagle Edge Win Over Aces In Fast Contest

Ayden, May 25.—A pair of sixth-inning runs came in very handy for Kingston when rain ended play in the next inning of yesterday's Kingston-Ayden game here. Those six-inning runs proved to be the tying and winning scores in a 6-5 decision.

Rain stopped play just after Kingston had completed its seventh turn at bat. The downpour made resumption of the game impossible and the official ending of the day's doing was the last completed inning. The Eagles didn't score in the seventh.

Dallas Patton's double was the winning blow. Wyrostek opened the sixth with a single. Southworth bunted, and Pitcher Bill Herring threw into center field. Then Patton delivered his two-bagger, scoring Wyrostek and Southworth.

The other Eagle tallies came in the second. Wyrostek's single, a walk, an infield out and Wright's single sent in a pair of runs. Then Henning homered for two more.

An error, Schuerholz's single, and Kravitz's triple brought two tallies for Ayden in the fifth. Gasaway's fly scored Kravitz's and put Ayden in a 5-4 lead. The Aces had scored singletons in the first and third. A walk, a sacrifice, and Gasaway's single produced the first-inning Ayden; Herring's triple and Carnahan's single produced the other.

Lefty Muhlenbein took the pitching verdict over Skipper Bill Herring in yesterday's game.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Kingston 040 002-6 7 2

Ayden 1001 030-5 6 1

Batteries—Kingston: Muhlenbein and West; Ayden: Herring and Purcell.

Gettel Blanks Snakes As Mates Win, 9 to 0

Snow Hill, May 25.—The Billies yesterday presented that perfect combination of excellent pitching and top-notch slugging. The result was a 9-0 victory over Tarboro.

Al Gettel, seeking his sixth win of the season, apparently was determined to be very stingy to the Snakes. He yielded only three hits, and he was boss of things all the way. Gettel has lost only one game.

While Gettel was horse-collaring the visitors, the Billies were busy getting eleven safeties, including 3 home runs.

Charlie Gadd, first up in the second inning, hit the day's first homer. That was margin plenty for Gettel, but the Billies pushed over four tallies in the fourth inning and climaxed this scoring with a couple of homers.

Harbin singled to open the fourth inning. Maisano sacrificed, and Gadd singled, sending Harbin in.

Score by innings: R. H. E. Tarboro 000 000 000-0 3 4

LEFTR HAS RED SOX'S NUMBER

Boston.—(AP)—It's a pretty good idea to bet on the New York Yankees when Lefty Gomez pitches against Boston. The Red Sox have beaten Lefty only twice since 1931.

Atlantan Wins

Troon, Scotland, May 25.—(AP)—Charlie Yates of Atlanta, Ga., won the British amateur golf championship today, beating Cecil Ewing of Ireland, in the 36-hole final, three and two.

He may dine until he can't find room for another mushroom, but his palate still is willing. That's what the Swedish restaurants do for you, and that's what I have in mind for that gruff-voiced ex-army officer of an editor who always used to address me as "Mister Cub."

Then, when if the passing thought that a few hors d'oeuvres might be acceptable prods your attention, you get up—unhurriedly of course—and wander over to a sea of complex, undefinable, nameless, but tasty dishes. There are perhaps two hundred of these to choose from, and so you make a careful circumference of the table, piling your plate with far more than you really desire, and back to your nice comfortable chair you go, there's a touch and taste and toy with them until the main dinner comes along.

The dinner! This is a simple but elegantly prepared dinner of your own choice of meats and vegetables.... But, alas, you have gorged on so many hors d'oeuvres that putting away a duck, or shall we say a portion of sugared Virginia ham, is quite out of the question. So you quite contentedly sit there and make a supreme pig of yourself. You keep on until it is past the point of being funny. Of course, there is much that you can not possibly make way with a

Electric Cookery Is Modern

Time was when kitchens were equipped with an old-fashioned pump at the sink instead of clean, convenient plumbing. Then it was that little Willie had to fill the wood box beside the old stove each morning before he started off to school. And Mother slaved her life away in the burning heat of summer over that old stove—cooking and baking endlessly.

YOUR kitchen, you say, is modern. There are shining faucets in a spotless sink. Electric lights make the room pleasant. There is an Electric Refrigerator. But, so long as you cook in the old-fashioned manner, over an open flame—is your kitchen truly modern?

The Electric Range is modern in every respect. It is cool, clean, certain, safe, fast, economical, and beautiful in design. It is the range of today and the range of tomorrow.

Before you buy any cooking device, be sure that it is truly modern. See the new Electric Ranges at your electrical dealer.

TAMMANY LEADER INDICTED IN NEW YORK

Court To Decide Housing and Slum Clearance Appeal

Issue Provides State Supreme Court With Another Government-Private Enterprise Headache

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, May 28.—The Supreme court got another government against private enterprise "headache" to decide when it Friday heard a specially advanced and expedited oral argument in the appeal of Harold Wells, Wilmington real estate dealer, from the decision of Superior Court Judge N. A. Sinclair that the Housing Authorities Law of North Carolina, enacted in 1935, is in all respects constitutional.

It is the first test of the statute under which Wilmington is planning a wholesale program of slums clearance and house building for citizens of less than average means.

The city is assured of a Federal grant of several hundred thousand dollars in the event it is allowed to go through with its plans.

Wells, on behalf of himself and others similarly situated, contends that the Housing Authority, a creature of government, will go into direct competition with citizens of the co-defendant City of Wilmington by renting its "holdings" which are to be tax exempt.

Summing up the brief of Aaron Goldberg, attorney for Wells, says, "It is apparent that the Housing Authority is preparing, in open competition with citizens of the co-defendant, City of Wilmington, to engage in a private enterprise, to wit: the business of acquiring real property for rental purposes, which will be exempt from taxation—resulting in irreparable injury to plaintiff-appellant and other citizens similarly situated, unless enjoined and restrained."

Mr. Goldberg was unable to appear for oral argument, but City Attorney W. B. Campbell of Wilmington, argued vigorously that the authority is a public corporation that its functions would be purely public, that the request for an injunction was properly refused by Judge Sinclair.
