For North Carolina

Washington, June 17. — (AP) — Five hundred-odd members of the 75th Congress who had begged for weeks to quit work, finally went home today—to ask the voters to return them next January.

Until the gavel whacked off adjournment last night they wrangled over Roosevelt's proposals, just as they had done ever since the court reorganization bill was submitted 16 months ago.

The senate and the house in their last meeting approved the President's $3,753,000,000 relief and public works program, but enacted over his veto a bill continuing low interest rates on government loans to farmers.

Then filibustering senators shelved a proposal to furnish $12,500 to the senate lobby committee. Senator Burke (D-Meb) contended the money would be used to abridge freedom of the press, a statement which Chairman Minton (D-Ind) of the committee hotly denied.

The lobby argument kept the senate in session until 8:22 p. m. while members grew noisier and noisier. Occasionally applause rang out in the crowded galleries in violation of the rules.

The House, always hilarious just before adjournment, listened to round-robins of praise of majority and minority members alike. It was 9:08 p. m. before Speaker Bankhead could stop the oratory.

Meanwhile construction of a half-million coast guard base at Elizabeth City, N. C., appeared certain as the second deficiency appropriation bill went to the White House after final congressional approval.

Virtually the last business transacted by the house and senate in the final hours of the session last night was approval of a conference report adjusting senate-house differences in the bill, which contained $540,000 to build the Elizabeth City air base.

Also, a new $1,500,000 veterans' hospital for the state stood out as a major achievement of the North Carolina congressional delegation in the session just adjourned.

Other accomplishments also were marked up for the delegation including the successful effort to get $3,500,000 to continue work on the Blue Ridge parkway.

While no decision had been reached by the board at four o'clock, Chairman B. M. Lewis stated that it was possible that appointment would be made before the meeting was adjourned. In case the appointment is not made this afternoon, he said, the matter will be deferred until Monday, as no meeting of the board tomorrow is contemplated.

Predicts 76th Congress
To Be One of Importance

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, June 17.—The Seventy-sixth Congress, to convene next January, will be of "vital importance to the country," Senator Robert R. Reynolds said in a final press release of the Seventy-fifth Congress.

He gave a resume of problems certain to come before the next Federal legislative session, listing among them: (1) Reorganization of Federal agencies, (2) Nuisance taxes, (3) Wholesale revision of the tax structure, (4) Foreign policy, and (5) Emergency expenditures.

In addition, he said, the next Congress will be in position to see how the recently adopted agriculture and wage-hour programs have worked out, and will therefore be in better position to make any changes which may seem to be necessary.

The reorganization of Federal agencies, which Reynolds sees as certain again to be a Congressional issue, divided the North Carolina and almost all other delegations on New Deal and Anti-New Deal lines.

Stemming Flood Appears Hopeless

Shanghai, June 17.—(AP)—A hundred mile long blanket of muddy water spread rapidly southeast through Honan province today as half-naked Japanese engineers, aided by thousands of Chinese peasants, labored desperately in rushing currents to mend broken dykes of the Yellow river.

Continuing rain, however, appeared to doom their efforts as the yellow cascade pouring through wide breaks in the dyke north and west of Kaifeng reached the walls of a city nearly 100 miles south of the normal course.

An Associated Press correspondent flying over the flood area reported the river appeared to be changing its course to join China's other great river, the Yangtze.

The yellow torrent was slowing into a tributary of the Hwai river, whence it would reach the Yangtze below Nanking, former Chinese capital.

The water seemed to be cutting a new channel from which it might not be diverted until Japanese could repair the broken dykes some time next fall or winter.

Japanese staff officers at Kaifeng, said the task of stemming the flood now appeared to be hopeless. Almost 90 per cent of the giant stream's water was roaring through quarter-mile gaps into the countryside, 30 feet below the river bed which has been built up through centuries of silt.

It was estimated a full 500,000 homeless Chinese soon would be in flight before the flood.

Ordered Held For Perjury Charges

G. H. Harris was bound over to Superior court under bond of $500 by Magistrate John Ivey Smith this morning on a charge of perjury which was brought after the defendant had allegedly misrepresented the age of a prospective bride.

All of the persons involved lived in the Ayden community.

Harris is alleged to have sworn that Miss Francis Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Smith, and the prospective bride was 18 years old when as a fact she was only 16. Relatives of the girl had Harris and the prospective bridegroom, Jarvis Harris, nephew of G. H. Harris, indicted. The charge was quashed as to Jarvis Harris.

Kitchen Damaged By Fire at Gully Home

Fire which started from a fire in a wood kitchen cook stove in the home of O. C. Gully on the corner of Fifth and Pitt streets about 10:30 this morning, did damage estimated at $150.

George Gardner, chief of the fire department, said the blaze broke through the chimney in the attic over the kitchen. The fire, however, was confined to the kitchen part of the house.

F. Atkinson pronounces the death sentence on him at Miami. Calmy McCall, son of a minister, heard the long sentence through the traditional ending "And may God have mercy on your soul." Skeegie's body was found in a thicket near Princeton more than a week after he was snatched from his bed. Standing beside the prisoner is Sheriff Coleman of Dade county, Florida.

U. S. DEMANDS
GERMANY PAYCalls on Nazis to Assume Debts Of Austria

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—The United States demanded emphatically today for the second time that Germany assume Austria's debt to this government and American citizens.

Hugh Wilson, American ambassador in Berlin, delivered a formal note to the German government on instruction from Secretary Hull.

The United States declared its "discontent from the indicated position of the German government as to its legal responsibilities."

Germany, through Finance Minister Funk, has stated it was not liable for Austria's obligations.

The United States note also expressed "the hope that Germany may yet undertake the payments incumbent on it both under international law and under equity."

The note declared that under international law, the state taking over another country "assumes the debt and obligation of the absorbed state, and takes the burdens with the benefits."

Austria's debt to this government totals $24,055,708. American-subscribed loans floated by Austrian municipalities and development projects aggregate even more.

Austria's total debt to the United States, public and private, is slightly more than $60,000,000.

DISCONTINUANCE OF
TWO TRAINS OPPOSED

The board of directors of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce went on record last night as against the proposal of the Atlantic Coast Line railway to discontinue passenger trains Nos. 38 and 39, operating between Kinston and Weldon.

The railroad has posted notices in its stations declaring that it will make application on June 18 with the Utilities Commission for permission to take off the trains, one operated each way daily.

The board adopted a resolution opposing the proposal and announced that a delegation would be sent to Raleigh when the petition is argued before the commission.

The Board of Directors of the Merchants Association met earlier in the week and adopted a resolution similar to that favored last night by the governing body of the Chamber of Commerce.

Pitt ABC Officers
Get Another Still

J. M. Ward and J. L. Taylor, Pitt County ABC officers, added another illicit distillery to their list this morning when they located a 50-gallon copper outfit in Greenville township, on the old Stokes road.

The officers reported that the still was hot when they found it, but the operators had left the scene, probably being warned by a lookout.

Two and one-half gallons of "spirits" was found at the still, together with 100 gallons of beer, ready to run.

This still runs the total number captured by the ABC enforcement officers to more than one hundred since starting operations thirteen months ago, they stated.

Cholera Epidemic
Spreads In India

Lucknow, India, June 17.—(AP)—India's cholera epidemic, already having taken an estimated 16,500 lives in the United Provinces, was reported today to be spreading over a vast area of northwestern India.

The epidemic was said to have reached in Afghanistan beyond the northwest frontier, and into India's central provinces.

Anti-cholera inoculations have been administered free to 600,000 persons in the United Provinces where the battle against the seven-week-old scourge was being directed by a woman member of the new Nationalist government.

Health workers dumped 115 tons of potassium permanganate in polluted wells to purify them.

Governor Fred Cone will set the week for McCall's execution, Supt. Chapman then will fix the day of the week.

Agriculture Department
Plans Backed By Grange

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, June 17.—The State Grange has thrown its full influence squarely back of the Department of Agriculture's intensive campaign for a better and fuller marketing program in North Carolina.

In a statement commenting the department's plans, Harry B. Caldwell, State Master of the Grange, said the executive committee of the organization will "give its full support to this important movement to improve the farmer's income."

Simultaneously with the Caldwell announcement the Department announced a new step in its marketing drive with a statement from Randal B. Etheridge, chief of its marketing division that poultry will be graded in North Carolina for the first time in the history of the state, beginning July 1.

"We deplore the fact that of $19,000,000 spent annually for agricultural purposes, only one-half of one per cent is spent to help growers better prepare their crops for the trade," Mr. Caldwell quoted an executive committee resolution. Demanding a better marketing program for the state, the resolution urged that "additional personnel funds should be made available at once to the end that the Department of Agriculture's marketing services, the absence of which in our agricultural program is costing farmers thousands of dollars every month."

Mr. Caldwell added: "The failure to provide adequate marketing facilities is revealed in the fact that the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation has found Tar Heel growers, in many instances are unable to meet the federal grading standards required when surplus crops are bought in efforts to relieve chaotic market conditions."

"With 40 pin-bookers operating on one big tobacco market, and with Eastern Carolina lettuce growers finding Arizona growers serious competitors, the need for more marketing information cannot be over-

HOPE TO BEGIN WORK SOON ON RIVER PROJECTAllocation Of Funds
Announced by Secretary WoodringWOULD PROVIDE WATER FREIGHTCalls for Twelve-Ft.
Channel, 100 Feet
Wide from Washington to Near City

With the announcement in Washington yesterday by Secretary of War Harry Woodring that allocation had been made for a waterway transportation project on the Tar river, hopes were expressed here that work would begin in the near future.

The Tar river project was included in the rivers and harbors bill approved by the House Appropriations committee and subsequently enacted by both houses of Congress. It carried an appropriation of $328,000 for the work of clearing a 12-foot channel 100 feet wide between Washington and Hardee's creek, with a turning basin 1,500 feet above the mouth of the creek. The project is the largest of those approved for North Carolina.

Local efforts have been underway for some time looking toward securing water transportation for Greenville. When the project was approved several years ago it was rejected by engineers and would have dropped there except for the interest of Congressman Lindsay Warren in the project.

The proposal was passed by Congress only last August, and the appropriation was secured at least three years earlier than under normal procedure.

It was originally hoped to bring the channel all the way up to Greenville, but it was decided that the difficulties which would have been encountered at Red Bank, just below Greenville, would bring an unfavorable report from the army engineers and then it was decided to work on a project coming as far as Hardee's creek, about three miles from the city.

The city of Greenville already has options on terminal sites along the creek and before the channel is completed plans call for erection of terminals and a hard surface road to the main highway.

The Norfolk-Baltimore and Carolina steamship company has made arrangements for extending its service to Greenville upon completion of the project. It also is understood that officials of the Norfolk-Southern railroad are considering laying a spur track from its main line to the terminal for picking up freight bound for the exterior.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by two younger brothers.

Following the funeral services, conducted by Rev. W. H. Brunson, Christian minister of Ayden, assisted by Rev. J. S. Starling, Methodist minister of Grifton, burial will be made in the Dennis cemetery near Ayden.

Dorothy Browning
Loses On Appeal

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy "Sunshine" Browning Hood, adopted daughter of the late Edward W. "Daddy" Browning, lost an appeal today in her court fight for Browning's $3,000,000 estate.

The Appellate Division denied, without opinion, her application for a reversal of a Surrogate's court decision which prevented her from becoming the principal beneficiary.

Counsel for Mrs. Hood said the case would be carried to the Court of Appeals at Albany.

In her appeal to the intermediate court, Mrs. Hood based her main attack on a so-called charitable trust fund in which the late real estate operator placed the larger part of his residuary estate. The fund was set up to award annual prizes to persons who achieved distinction in specified fields.

The Surrogate court's decision returned last December narrowed the long-fought battle over Browning's millions down to two girls—now grown to womanhood and married—who are Mrs. Hood, who lives in Dunn, N. C., and Mrs. Frances "Peaches" Heenan Browning Hynes, who married a Denver, Colo., theatre manager.

1934 LICENSE PLATES 'GOOD' UNTIL THE LAW SAW THEM

Rawlins, Wyo.—(AP)—They were good in 1934, 1935, 1936 and 1937, and so one puzzled western Wyoming rancher can't understand why his old automobile license plates aren't any good in 1938.

"I thought, as long as I stayed on a country road, any old set of plates would do," the rancher told Highway Patrolman C. A. Lane.

To Dance Here

La Trinita, Spanish Dancer, will appear at the East Carolina College, on June 20, 1938. This famous dancer has appeared in the principal cities of Europe and recently gave a New York recital which was acclaimed by the critics. La Trinita studied with the Andalusian Gipsies from Malaga, Spain, from whom she drew that feeling of Spanish art and that style characterized as Flamenco. Fascinatingly costumed, she is a vivid and lithe figure on the stage. Her dances are heightened by the crisp click of her castanets, which she uses with great virtuosity.

William Kulkman, Pianist, will accompany her and will also appear on the program as solo artist.

LONG-WILLIAMS Two Popular Young People Plight Their Troth

Thursday evening at St. Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene of one of those incidents always so full of interest to our people, the marriage of a popular couple. The church was most beautifully decorated for the occasion, the chancel being a bower of exquisite flowers and palms and the auditorium festooned with ribbons.

From the front of the chancel was suspended an immense wedding bell of flowers with a row of brilliant lights on the arch above. All together it was a fit picture indeed amid which the ceremonies were soon to be solemnized. The audience was not long in filling every pew and all available standing room.

Just before 10 o'clock the bridal party reached the church, and as Mrs. J. B. Cherry rendered the wedding march they entered in the following order, Master Cecil Cobb preceding to open the flower gates.

The ushers, Jesse Speight and J. B. Jarvis, Dr. Zeno Brown and J. G. Moxe.

Next came the flower girls, little Misses Bettie Russ of Raleigh, and Allie Estelle Green, who strewed the aisle with beautiful flowers as they passed through.

Behind these came the maid of honor, Miss Beattie Jarvis, followed by the bride on the arm of her brother, Capt. R. Williams.

The groom with his best man, B. F. Tyson, entered through the chapel

"Sports For All" Enjoyed at College

The program of social events at the College for the summer term last night featured a "sports mix" under the supervision of Coach J. D. Alexander.

Designed originally for the campus and moved inside on account of rain, the "sports for all" program drew a large number of students and faculty to the Robert H. Wright Building for an hour of relaxation.

Games of all sorts—batminton, dart throwing, bowling with rubber balls and pins, ring throwing, shuffleboard, and others—created much fun.

This was preceded last week by an informal get-together on the campus Friday night. With Miss Dora Coates and Miss Louise Williams in charge, and will be followed next week by a barbecue picnic.

Cotton Men May Grow Automobile Handles If Harvest-The-Whole-Plant Idea Works Out

STALK & CO. This cotton harvester, made to garner the whole plant, cuts and dumps the harvest in 150-pound bales ready for the market. By-products from stalks means extra profit.

Dr. Ernest K. Cameron Turns Pulp Into Rayon

(By The AP Feature Service)

CHAPEL HILL.—A new plan to take the backbone out of the cotton field—and put back more money into the cotton farmer's jeans—is being worked out here by Dr. Frank K. Cameron, a University of North Carolina chemist.

When the Rust brothers tried the same thing, with a mechanical cotton picker, they made a national sensation.

Instead of using a picker, Dr. Cameron would cut down the cotton plant and harvest it, stalk and all. And instead of selling the cotton plant in the usual way, he would utilize the whole plant. From it he would extract cellulose for the rayon and plastic industries.

With this system, he figures, the farmer might make $10 to $15 an acre net, against $10 or less under the old.

Experimented 8 Years

Dr. Cameron says his method of growing the utilizing cotton will never supplant the conventional system entirely. But if put into use it would eliminate over-production of lint cotton, raise cotton prices and put the cotton business on a more profitable basis.

His calculations are based on current prices. If cellulose prices dropped and lint prices soared, that would be another story.

Dr. Cameron has been at his experiments for eight years. At first he and associates financed the experiments largely from their own funds. Recently their work attracted enough attention for the Cotton Research Foundation of Memphis to arrange a fellowship.

Under the Cameron system, back-aches would cease long before the harvest started.

Plants In Close Rows

Instead of planting the cotton widely spaced, then thinning and cultivating it laboriously, the cotton farmer would plant it in close rows, with more plants in the row, crowding the plants to force early maturity.

Then, with a machine like one already built, he would cut the cotton plant, bale it in 150-pound bales, and haul it to a cellulose processing plant. There the cotton seed oil would be extracted by a new chemical process, the proteins extracted by alkalis, and from the residue of stalks, bolls and lint cellulose recovered for manufacturing things like rayon, high grade paper, auto door handles, viscose sponges, soda straws, book bindings, jewelry and ornamental braids.

The cotton harvesting machine, unlike the cotton picker, was fairly easy to construct. A large implement concern with generations of experience in building grain harvesters soon built a cotton harvester for Dr. Cameron. He quotes the company (John Deere) as estimating the per acre harvesting cost at 20 cents in large scale operations. The harvester would sell for about $1,500. It might be owned cooperatively.

Dr. Cameron's own work has been in the research laboratory developing practical processing methods and checking up on uses for products derived from the whole cotton plant.

Now he feels that things are far enough along for some industrial firm to build an experimental plant.

"We can produce as much pulp per acre as the growers of wood cellulose," he says.

HUSBAND'S NEGLECT CAUSED BY "MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN!

We had been so happy! Then, suddenly, after 3 years of marriage, I felt Jim's love growing cold. Often, he actually seemed ashamed of me!

"It's your own fault," my Mother said. "You've let your complexion get so dry, lifeless, coarse-looking. And men just hate that ugly 'Middle-Age' Skin!"

"You're using the wrong soap," she explained. "Change to Palmolive! Because Palmolive is made with Olive Oil. That's why it keeps skin so soft, smooth, young!"

Mother was right! It was only four weeks ago that I changed to Palmolive. And now my husband's so proud of my lovely complexion, he takes me everywhere again!

And so I say—use only Palmolive. If you want a lovely complexion! Let this pure, gentle soap that's made from a secret blend of Olive and Palm Oils keep your complexion alive with beauty!

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The story so far: Asy Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has enraged Quammet. She was killed by a left-handed blow from the knife of her sister, Pam Frye, who lives in Octagon House. Interested parties are: Tim Carr, once married to Marina; Jack Lorne, the artist; Roddy Strutt, whose plane crashed the night of the murder; Peggy Boone, another artist; Jennings, an estate plumber; and person unknown who smokes Turkish tobacco, burned down the barn, bigged Asy, Tim and Pam's father, and destroyed Jack's mural sketches. Missing is a $50,000 lump of ambergris belonging to Pam, interviewing Roddy's injured pilot, Asy learns the crash was deliberate, and that Marina and a lot of others had probably seen the ambergris from the plane before Pam found it on the beach. Unable to get it away from Pam, Marina was going to use Roddy in a hijacking scheme.

Chapter 37

Problems Of A Congressman

AS Asy left the hospital, a large black sedan drew up. Elliott, the Congressman from the district, hurried up to him.

"You're one of the hardest men I ever found Asy," he said, "that I ever knew. I've been on your trail since yesterday afternoon."

"There's no justice," Elliott said, "None at all."

Asy grinned. "How's things?" he inquired, "from the rockbound coasts of Maine to the sunny shores of California?"

"It's fate, I suppose," Elliott said, "that the only time in my life I used that sentence was also the only time you ever heard me speak. Listen, this Quammet business is getting me hot under the collar. The citizenry is aroused. I'm pretty aroused myself. This post office and this damn mural—do you know how they happened?"

Asy waved toward the coupe. "Come sit down," he said, "and tell me I been wondering just what part you played in that. Asy, I don't mind sayin', I think you'd ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"I am. Look, you know me, and you know I've done as much for this neck of the woods as anyone could do for a solid Republican block crying in the wilderness. And you know how little ice I cut."

"I'd almost forgotten," Asy said, "about modest and honest politicians. It's wonderful."

"I'm a member," Elliott said, "of one of the most feeble and impotent committees existing. Bear that in mind. And bear in mind that last winter I was sick. I had three operations, interspersed with pneumonia. And frankly, I didn't care much about the government at that time. I paid no attention to it. I didn't know that for various and sundry reasons that committee had suddenly become vastly important, and my vote infinitely so. People came to see me in the hospital and said, I had a swell new post office, where did I want it?"

"And you said, Quammet?" Asy demanded.

"Why, I didn't believe them!" Elliott said. "I thought they were kidding. I said, kidding back with a straight face, the one town on the Cape that needed a luxurious post office was Quammet. They said okay, and asked me how I spelled it. Then I got sick again, and then in a comparatively healthy interlude, the boys came back and said, did I want a mural? I said, sure. I still thought they were kidding."

Hot Water

"AN" then you got sick again?" Elliott said. "And well, think what I thought when I saw the pictures of the place!"

"Well, there's the story of that. Over a Congressman got fooled, I'm fit. But look here, Asy, here's what's bothering me. I've been flooded with petitions—before the murder and after—and it's plain that Quammet is mad. Now, I can settle the thing in time, and get the mural condemned for being unsanitary, or something—God knows it is! But I've got to let the shouting die down first. I can't touch the thing now. And the town—"

"Is impatient?"

"More than that," Elliott said. "Here, take a look at some of my anonymous mail."

Asy read through half a dozen. "Pam and the rest all spoke the truth," he said finally. "Quammet's mad clear through. In a way, you can't blame 'em."

"I don't," Elliott said. "I'm in that mural, too! They'll do something crazy and get every one into hot water. See here, Asy, this murder business. How much of it is due to the mural?"

"I don't honestly know," Asy said. "I don't know. If the person who killed Marina killed her because she inspired her husband to stick in those caricatures, then it was a native who knew enough about her and him to know that she'd be responsible. People do odd things when they're mad, particularly when a lot of 'em are all mad about the same thing. But I wonder now," he paused and

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—Probably there are more gadget and gimmick collectors in Washington than any place else and a good reason is that the government supplies big offices and huge desks where gadgets can accumulate.

Where an ordinary $5,000-a-year executive in a business concern would have a desk only big enough for a telephone and a couple of cigar butts, the same executive in Washington might, but not certainly, have a glass-topped expanse the size of a backyard garden plot.

And how the mementoes and gadgets pile up. For instance, Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission, has a nautical clock in his office. It doesn't chime the hours but chimes "bells" as on a ship, so that instead of quitting work at 4 or 5 o'clock of a hot afternoon he knocks off at six bells, or maybe it is two bells of the second watch (this bell business drives us whooshy.) On his desk is an anchor and the usual telephones and penholders a person has to put up with, but for the most part he keeps his desk swept up and holy-smeared.

Table For Donkeys

So many donkeys have accumulated for President Roosevelt that he has set aside a special table for them, leaving his own desk free for an assortment of trays, letter openers, a vase of flowers and the prize of all—a brightly turned butt of a brass naval shell cut down to ash-tray size. A few other favored officials about the capitol have trays like it.

The nautical tone of the administration is reflected in dozens of congressional offices where members have clocks set in a ship's helm (steering wheel to you).

Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas has a totem pole on his desk. He says it isn't a totem pole but instead is a PWA art project in wood, but we say it is a totem pole.

Nearly all the veteran Senators have their walls decorated with the originals of political cartoons. Sent them by the cartoonists. They haven't seen any displayed except those giving the member a boost. Senator Capper of Kansas has papered his office with photographs reaching back to the first Roosevelt days.

And A Machine Gun

Senator Borah's desk is so filled with papers and books there is no room for anything except an ash tray, put there for guests. He doesn't smoke. He has a bronze bust of himself in his office.

Delegations are forever bringing in this and that and it was a silver delegation which installed in the office of Senator Pittman of Nevada a huge silver disk inscribed with the ancient Aztec calendar.

Senator Copeland's office is burdened with a half dozen ship models in glass cases, not to mention the vase of red carnations from which he daily selects one for his label.

We have never seen a wine decanter on or near a congressional desk but some spirited beverages are nearby in many offices.

Among the shoddiest offices we recall are those of the famed White House brain troops, Ben Cohen and Tommy Corcoran, and they are practically gadgetless.

Senator Sheppard of Texas has fought most of his public life for prohibition. But there is not a Carrie Nation hatchet among his mementoes. Instead, as chairman of the military affairs committee this peaceful-looking Senator has decorated his desk with samples of small arms ammunition and, lo and behold, he has a Browning machine gun mounted back of his chair, tripod and all.

AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT PLANS BACKED BY GRANGE

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, June 17.—There appears to be some apprehension in Democratic circles that the stirup in Johnston over the manner in which the primary was conducted there may land the county in the Republican column in November, with G. O. P. legislators and perhaps county officials.

Those who fear such a consummation gloomily shake their heads and point out that Johnston "has gone Republican before," but an examination of election returns of the past year shows that there would have to be a tremendous turnover to oust the Democrats in November.

It's true that Johnston voted Republican both for President and Governor in 1924 and again in 1928, but since then it has stuck loyally in the Democratic ranks, its 1936 Governor's vote in the general election showing 9,554 for Clyde R. Hoey and only 5,535 for Gilliam Grissom. Back in 1924, Isaac M. Meekins and the G. O. P. nominees carried the county over A. W. McLean by 4,842 to 4,727 and in 1928, H. F. Seawell rode the Anti-Smith wave to triumph over O. Max Gardner in Johnston, 7,246 to 5,931. Ehringhaus had no trouble there in 1932, however.

It is not inconceivable that Johnston voters might become so enraged they would turn to the G. O. P. but there are so far no indications of any such eventuality.

Acceptance of an ouster decision by Pitt's Sheriff Whitehurst and his resignation as the Democratic nominee for the November elections, seem to bring to an end a controversy in which practically everybody is loser on the surface of things.

Before getting out himself, the Sheriff swung Pitt's voters against the County Commissioners who have been urging his ouster, so they're out, too. The taxpayers likewise are "out" considerable in the matter of costs, but perhaps an ugly situation has been cleaned up and Pitt can get a new start. If it has, then the affair has been worthwhile.

The State Supreme Court maintained just about its usual proportion of reversals and affirmations in the batch of 43 opinions handed down Wednesday. In 29 cases the lower courts were sustained, in 14 their decisions were found faulty and the cases either reversed or remanded for further action.

Justice Wallace Winborne was the "writing-est" judge this time with seven opinions, including the Bill Payne-Wash Turner case. Justice Michael Schenck and Chief Justice W. P. Stacy each wrote six opinions; Justice Heriot Clarkson four, M. V. Barnhill three, W. A. Devin, two, and A. A. F. Seawell, one. There were 14 "Per Curiam" decisions.

Justice Seawell took no part in the decision of any of the dozen criminal cases decided, as he was Attorney General and had taken part in preparation of briefs for the state in practically all of them. His one opinion was an important one—that finding the Housing Authority Act to be constitutional.

North Carolinians raise quite a corn crop each year, but they sell a comparatively small part of it. Department of Agriculture statistics indicate that of the $45,000,000 crop raised in 1937, only $3,000,000 worth was sold.

Department of Health officials, particularly Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health Officer, are rejoicing that Congress did not drastically cut funds provided by the Bulwinkle bill for a nation-wide fight on syphilis.

Bob Thompson, Governor's secretary, doesn't like Pennsylvania. He says they have too many celebrations of one sort or another up there and always want North Carolina to send a flag or appoint somebody as a delegate.

he added that "the Department's budget for this purpose has been so limited that they have been unable to do more than scratch the surface."

Both Caldwell and Department of Agriculture officials say the need for a markets program will be kept in the public eye unrelentingly and will be forcefully presented to the General Assembly which will meet next January.

Mr. Etheridge's concrete step in pushing the markets program included announcement that C. W. Sheffield, senior marketing specialist, has been licensed by the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics as the state's first supervising inspector of dressed poultry.

Under present plans, licensed graders will be trained to operate in North Carolina, giving consumers in the state the benefit to be derived from buying poultry based on federal grades.

Arrangements have already been made to train inspectors in Durham and Greensboro within the next two weeks, looking toward the improvement of poultry on the markets. Other inspectors will be trained and licensed as rapidly as possible by the State Department of Agriculture's markets division.

Federal-graded poultry will be sold according to the following standards: Grade "A" poultry, or the best prime, well-fleshed and fattened; Grade "B," or choice poultry having normal flesh and good edible quality; Grade "C," or commercial-class poultry which is poorly fleshed and improperly dressed.

In addition to furnishing instructions to applicants who desire to become dressed poultry inspectors, the markets division will furnish the supervision to maintain the standards required by the Federal government.

SUPERLATIVES OF 75TH CONGRESS

TOUGHEST

While justices in the Supreme Court building were handing down decisions favorable to the New Deal, the New Deal was battling to reorganize the court. It was the hardest congressional fight since slavery days. The end last summer after six months of oratory and sudden death of Majority Leader Robinson, was the first New Deal rout.

GABBIEST

Senator Tom Connally of Texas led southern senators in a 29-day filibuster against the anti-lynching bill introduced last January. With legislative gears jammed, Connally and his men finally forced their colleagues to say "uncle," and the bill was laid aside. That was another in a long string of southern victories against such bills.

SADDEST

Pictures like this (Spanish boy greeting his father) and accounts of the wars in Spain and China have made Congress wonder whether it was so smart to pass the neutrality bill a year ago. Now even its father, Senator Nye, wants to change it. The bill puts an embargo on arms shipments to belligerents when President decides war exists.

COSTLIEST

The 75th Congress took its heaviest crack at the federal wallet when it passed the administration's three-billion-dollar spending-lending bill. It was the 1938 depression that prompted the generosity. Even if the money wouldn't cure depression causes, lawmakers hoped it would help tide over farmers and the unemployed, give business a fillip.

HOTTEST

A third of a million telegrams poured into Washington in two weeks before the final vote on the administration's government reorganization bill, making it the heaviest telegram-producer of the session. (Here is Representative O'Connor with some of the messages). The bill passed the Senate but lost out in the House by a narrow margin.

FOGGIEST

Ever since the farm bill passed in February, the Department of Agriculture has been busy explaining it to farmers. Those who have read the bill's 121 pages say it makes Uncle Sam the supervisor of agriculture. It tries to eliminate ups and downs in farm prices by regulating the flow of products to market—with the approval of farmers.

HEALTHIEST

Present-day congressmen may be remembered for their efforts to improve the national health. In the first session they authorized a $750,000 National Cancer Institute and an annual appropriation of $700,000 to fight cancer; in the last, they authorized $3,000,000 to be spent in the next year for a nation-wide educational campaign on syphilis.

HEAVIEST

Sailors will have more work and the world's armaments will be heavier by uncounted tons as the result of the billion-dollar naval expansion bill. It authorizes a 10-year construction program that would give the U. S. its biggest fleet. The three battleships provided may weigh 45,000 tons, heaviest ever built in the U. S.

Rain Halts Greenies In 4th; Greenville Gets New Skipper

'RUBE' WILSON NAMED PILOT

Greenies Had Eagles 6-0 in 4th When Rain Came Yesterday; 'Hard Luck' Delaney Was Pitching

Under the management of H. D. (Rube) Wilson, new pilot secured to replace Monk Joyner, released, the Greenies were well on the way to a victory over Kinston in that city yesterday afternoon when rain halted the contest after four innings.

The locals had garnered 6 runs in the four frames. They scored 4 in the third on a walk and 4 successive hits. Two more were added in the fourth while John Delaney was holding the Eagles scoreless. Not a single safety was hit by Kinston outside the infield.

It was a tough break for Delaney. Greenville's hard-luck pitcher, who has lost some hard ones this season. The new skipper comes from the Newton-Conover team of the North State League highly recommended. He is not only a manager, but a left-handed pitcher of no mean ability and will take his regular turn on the mound. His home is in Bessemer City.

Wilson took charge yesterday before the game with Kinston. John Heavner of Gastonia also joined the Greenies yesterday and played center field.

Loy Bobo, pitcher, was released yesterday.

Carl Pierce

Carl Pierce, son of Deputy Sheriff C. P. Pierce of Greenville, yesterday stole home to give Erwin a 7-6 victory over Laurinburg.

Pierce, who was one of the mainstays in the local high school's basketball and baseball teams before graduating, continued winning laurels as a freshman at Duke University. He is one of the best athletes ever turned out by the local high school.

Yesterday he was walked to open Erwin's sixth inning, went to third on a single, and stole home, providing his team with the one run margin of victory.

NEW BATONS FOR COPS MAKE PARISIANS LAUGH

Paris—(AP)—Paris traffic policemen now carry white batons 10 inches longer than usual. This said a writer in a Parisian weekly, is to enable them to scratch their backs more easily.

Boulevardiers laughed, but they laughed even louder when the joke became so widespread that the police department replied to it. The sticks were longer, explained a communique, to prevent motorists from running over the traffic policemen, since they can be seen more easily.

Schmeling-Louis Fight Brings Dizzy Predictions

By ALAN GOULD

New York, June 17.—(AP)—The closer they get to the fistic festivities, the dizzier the sports experts are becoming in the attempt to decide whether Champion Joe Louis will turn the tables on Max Schmeling, next Wednesday night, or again take it on the chin from the German challenger for the world heavyweight crown.

Not since the second Dempsey-Tunney bout has opinion in critical circles been more sharply divided or as uncertain. Dempsey, the challenger, finally went into the ring in 1927, at Chicago, a slight favorite, despite the decisive licking he took from Tunney the previous year.

Again the beaten man, Louis, has been given the favorite's role, tho for somewhat different reasons. In Dempsey's case, sentiment combined with the old Manassas Mauler's punch to make him the public choice. The so-called "wise money" now backing Louis seems convinced that the champion's youth, plus his punch and the law of averages, will prove too much for Schmeling.

Here And There

All of which remains to be determined.

Along Cauliflower Alley today, as the advance ticket sale hurried the $500,000 mark with ease, you could hear the verbal conflict. It went something like this, as sports writers, fight managers and hangers-on haggle:

"Louis will come out rushing and finish him quick."

"If Joe opens up early, he will get his brains knocked out again by Max's right hand."

"The longer the fight goes the better the champion's chances will be."

"He can afford to bide his time."

"He will outbox Max easily."

"That left jab of his will wear Schmeling down."

"Schmeling always has been a slow starter; the longer the fight goes, the stronger and tougher he will be."

"Louis is worried about Max's right hand. . . . Notice how he shuts his eyes every time he's tagged by a sparring partner?"

"Max will have the psychological edge, right from the start."

"Joe regards that fight as just an accident. . . . He's got just one idea in mind—revenge. . . . He won't make any mistakes this time."

"Schmeling is worried, realizing he was lucky to have everything break right for him the last time. . . . I hear he's up late nights, taking long walks to ease his nerves."

"Max never had a worry in his life. . . . He's the coolest man that ever stepped into a ring. . . . and one of the most methodical. . . . He will take Joe when he gets ready."

"Schmeling fought a perfect fight two years ago, the best in his life, and still it took 12 rounds and a hundred punches to keep Louis down. . . . He can't be any better, whereas Louis is bound to be tougher."

Meanwhile the international demand for working press accommodations has broken all fight records and swamped Walter St. Denis, veteran public relations counsel for Promoter Mike Jacobs, St. Denis today exhibited a list of applications from representatives of fifteen foreign lands, including Japan, Australia, South Africa, Argentina, Brazil, and seven European countries. Canada Mexico and Cuba are also listed.

Thirty-five states and the District of Columbia are on the domestic press list. "Literary rows" will be jammed but the "100 Per Cent Wrong Club", organized two years ago will not have to call another meeting. Taking a leaf from Schmeling's book, the boys are getting cagier with age.

Monday Wrestling Card Announced By Promoter

Farmer Miller, The 'Bearded Terror', To Return

Promoter Jim Johnson's wrestling show at the armory last Monday night was an admitted success, and a good attendance for next Monday night's show is assured by the enthusiastic reception given the rough and tumble artists.

The wrestling card has been completed. The main event of the show will be a 90-minute tussle between Farmer Miller, the bearded beauty, who pinned Williams twice last Monday night, and Larry Schoff, a newcomer from Toledo, Ohio. Schoff is an exceptionally fine wrestler. He started his mat career at the University of Ohio. During his college days he was four times the heavyweight wrestling champion of the Big Ten Conference. He has made quite a name for himself in the ring and is expected to tie the Farmer into a dozen knots.

The semi-final match will open the fireworks—in this contest Ernie Dugan, the bald-headed bad man from Texas, will attempt to pin Eddie Williams. Williams is fast, and his speed should offset the few pounds weight advantage of Dugan.

The management is trying to arrange two more amateur boxing matches, as an added attraction. This part of the show has not been completed yet, so watch this paper for further information.

The game of golf is possibly of Dutch origin.

In many cases, premature gray hair is hereditary.

Knitting was invented in the 15th century.

WON'T BELONG now until Luke Appling, Chicago White Sox, hard-hitting shortstop, is ready to sock the old apple again. At Comisky park he's limbering up fractured right leg which put him out of the Sox lineup three months ago.

VAN DER MEER HURLS SECOND NO-HIT GAME

Johnny Van Der Meer (left), the Cincinnati Reds' 23-year-old fastball southpaw, practically took over baseball's hall of fame when he pitched his second no-hit, no-run game in a row at Brooklyn against the Dodgers. The Reds won, 6-0. In the history of baseball only 10 pitchers ever have hurled two no-hit games, and none of these turned the trick twice the same season. Said Babe Ruth, longtime kingpin of home run wallpapers (right), to Van Der Meer, "Nice going, kid." Van Der Meer pitched one season for the Durham Bulls of the Piedmont League.

Billies Break Beard's Winning Streak, 2-1

Williamston, June 17.—Cecil Longest's pitching and a couple of home runs today stopped the winning streak of Breezy Beard, ace Williamston hurler.

Catcher Bistrotff and Outfielder Barrow hit homers to give Longest and the Snow Hill Billies the runs needed for a 2-1 verdict over the Martins. It was the first defeat of the season for Beard, whose record lists six victories.

Longest held the Martins to three hits. He fanned nine and walked eight. Beard yielded six hits, walked two batters and fanned six.

The Martins' run came in the eighth—on hits by Lakotas and Villepique, a sacrifice and a walk. Villepique, with a double and a single, was the top hitter of the day.

Rain blocked all other Coastal

Reports Robbery Of Auto By Hitch-hikers

Clinton, N. C., June 17.—(AP)—Sheriff Carlyle Jackson of Sampson county, said Edward Smith of Dunn, reported he had been held up by two hitch-hikers today while en route to Wilmington.

Smith reported, Jackson said, the pair took the 1937 coupe he was driving and $3 in cash at gun point. They drove away in the direction of Clinton, he told the sheriff.

Officers revealed today that the story told by W. M. Fornes of near Vanceboro of being held up at pistol point and robbed of $193 in currency, some change, his automobile and 180 gallons of whiskey was a hoax.

The man came to the city late one evening this week and related he was held up on the Vanceboro-New Bern highway by two men and a woman.

Sylvester Outlaw, a third Negro convicted in the same case was executed April 29. The men were sentenced for criminally attacking Mrs. T. R. Coe, white, in Duplin county August 18, 1937.

The ABC act.

One of Mr. King's points was that the ABC law made possession and transportation lawful in many cases theretofore illegal, with the result that indictments must now negative the newly permitted legal aspects. Judge Clarkson ruled squarely and clearly against such a contention.

The opinion-writing Justice did concede to Mr. King an able brief. He wrote: "The case was well argued by defendant's attorney—who had an able brief. He was persuasive but not convincing."

It looks like nothing but a mess of colored paint; but when a metal cylinder of the right size and shape is placed at a certain spot on the canvas, the reflection mirrored on the cylinder becomes a portrait of Bonnie Prince Charlie, pretender to the British throne in the 18th century.
