BILL PROPOSES REGISTRATION EACH 12 YEARS

Measure Offered By Rep. Robinson Of McDowell

WORK CONTINUES ON REVENUE ACT

Jack Dempsey Visits House; Aubrey Williams Invited Talk to Both Houses Friday

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Representative Robinson of McDowell gave the legislature a bill today to provide for a new registration of voters every 12 years in the state, and before 1940 in counties not having had a new registration within two years.

The measure was in line with the gubernatorial recommendation for a new state-wide registration.

Bills were introduced in increasing numbers, the House getting nine and the Senate six.

Already well along with the first consideration of the proposed revenue bill, the joint finance committee met again this afternoon to work on license tax schedules. The joint appropriations committee also met and prepared to start public hearings tomorrow.

Jack Dempsey, the former champion heavyweight boxer, visited the House a few minutes. "I feel as nervous as I if I were facing a 20-round fight," Dempsey told the legislators as he thanked them for inviting him to appear.

Both the House and Senate adopted resolutions inviting Aubrey Williams, administrator of the NYA, to address a joint session at noon tomorrow.

Each division also adopted a resolution calling for regular committee meetings on Friday and Monday afternoons during the session to expedite work. Often during the session the legislature has been virtually idle from the end of the regular Friday meetings until Monday night, so that members could go home.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to enable the Supreme court, with the approval of the governor, to fix the pay of the court marshal-librarian.

The House sent to the Senate a bill to permit Jones county to build a court house from delinquent tax receipts.

New bills introduced in the Senate include a measure to permit selling tax paid liquor seized by officers to hospitals or allow it to be sold to ABC stores; prohibit caravans from advertising in Lenoir county 30 days before an agricultural fair.

Special Officers Attending Course

Chapel Hill, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Representatives of the Federal Alcohol Tax unit acted as instructors today at a short course for ABC officers from 27 counties operating liquor stores.

Wade Gardner, solicitor of the Wilson county Recorder's court; State Solicitor H. L. Koozick of Greensboro and Prof. Albert Cowles, head of the Institute of Government, discussed yesterday legal aspects of the work of ABC officers, including searches and seizures and court room procedure.

Proposed From Dock

Gravesend, Eng.—(AP)—A 22-year-old married man was committed for trial on charge of abducting a girl of 15 after he proposed marriage to her from the dock. The girl said, "I will." He said he planned a divorce.

A Pond Again

New Holland, N. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—What was once a 50,000-acre "Holland in America" now lies at the bottom of North Carolina's largest lake.

Upwards of $17,000,000 was spent 15 years ago in reclaiming the 50,000 acres of rich farm land from the bottom of Lake Mattamuskeet in Hyde county. A complete settlement—including a 23-room hotel, houses, barns, highways and bridges were established beneath sea level.

One of the largest pumping stations in the world—its capacity a million and a quarter gallons a minute—was built to clear the lake of water and keep it clear. It was not equal to the task, though, and slowly homes and farms were inundated. Water stood in the hotel lobby.

Lake Mattamuskeet is now back where it started, the home of thousands of ducks, wild geese and fish. Recently it was made a federal migratory wildfowl refuge.

Jack Benny, radio comedian, is shown as he appeared before a federal grand jury in New York which indicted him on charges of transporting, possessing and smuggling $2,100 worth of jewelry. George Burns, another radio comedian, was indicted on a similar charge recently.

AID PROMISED FOR FARMERS

Missouri Share-Croppers to Get Help of Two Agencies

New Madrid, Mo., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The prospect of food supplies and assistance from two federal agencies encouraged more than 1,000 southeast Missouri tenant farmers today in their demonstration against share-cropper poverty.

Officials of seven surplus commodity warehouses were ordered by Assistant Social Security Administrator P. Carter to make supplies available to the families, camped at scattered sites along two major highways.

The Farm Security Administration and the Surplus Commodities Corporation announced food and other assistance will be provided.

Officials said the FSA would make financial grants, not to exceed $20 a month, to families needing help and also assist them in finding new farm connections. The SCC arranged to distribute food.

The families, three-fourths of them Negroes, huddled around camp fires and oil-barrel stoves again last night. Temperatures were well below freezing, but the possibility of rain continued.

Most of them had inadequate protection against the open air.

Slice Freight Rates On New York Apples

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 12.—(AP)—New express rates, approximately one-half the present charges, on apples shipped from New York, to Florida, Georgia, and North and South Carolina were announced today.

The State Department of Agriculture, practicing a wider market for state apples as a result, said the rates would be effective immediately. They cover shipments of not more than 50 pounds in each container.

Group Representing ABC Counties Out On A Limb

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—Legislators from the 27 ABC counties in which there are liquor stores have been caught clearly "out on a limb" by the proposal to finance a large part of the State's school program through the tax on liquor to a point possibly double its present rate.

None of them are saying a thing or making a remark that makes no bones about the fact that they are really facing a troublesome dilemma.

The general sentiment among them seems to be that there's nothing much they can do about stopping the plan; while they are sure to "catch the devil" back home if they permit the state to snatch away a large percentage of the counties' profits.

Of course it may ultimately be found possible to do enough political trading to put something of a crimp in the higher liquor-tax

NOMINEE SAYS IMPROPER FOR HIM TO SPEAK

Frankfurter Feels He Should Not State Views on Court

STATEMENT READ TO COMMITTEE

Supreme Court Appointee Accepts Second Invitation Appear Before Body

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Felix Frankfurter's nomination for the Supreme Court was approved today by a Senate Judiciary sub-committee.

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Felix Frankfurter testifying on his own nomination for the Supreme Court, said today he thought it would be "improper" to express his personal views on matters affecting the high bench.

The liberal Harvard law professor nominated to succeed the late Justice Cardozo, read a brief statement before a Senate Judiciary sub-committee.

Saying he had "taken the liberty of putting on paper" his remarks, Frankfurter added: "I, of course do not wish to testify in support of my nomination."

Frankfurter said he considered it "improper" for a nominee to the court to express his personal views on matters affecting the court.

The Harvard law professor accepted the group's second invitation to testify after having declined the first.

Frankfurter had asked Dean G. Acheson, Washington lawyer, to represent his interests here. Acheson, a former student of the appointee, conferred with the committee in closed session late yesterday after several witnesses had objected vigorously to the nomination.

The testimony brought a denunciation of one witness by Sen. Borah (R-Idaho) who thundered his objection to discussion of Frankfurter's Jewish birth.

IMREDI SLATED TO BE GUSTED

Hungarian Premier Faces Hostile Parliament Session

Budapest, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Parliament began a new session today with the opposition in increasingly rebellious mood against Premier Imredi.

The session was expected to furnish a new test of Imredi's strength in the midst of a delicate situation created by border incidents with Czechoslovakia over territory awarded Hungary following the Munich agreement.

The opposition forced Imredi's resignation last November 23, but later grudgingly gave him sufficient support to enable him to resume the Premiership.

Charges against Imredi were that he is planning abolition of parties in favor of a one-party Fascist system.

The Premier denied accusations that his organization of a super-political group for "Hungarian race protection" gave the dissidents, formerly of the government party of national unity, material on which to base their charges.

Dies Of Injuries From Plane Crash

Atlanta, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Injuries received in a "flivver" plane crash today 15 miles south of here were fatal today to Harold Knowlton of Westfield, N. Y., passenger on a return flight from the Miami air races.

Knowlton suffered injuries to his skull and neck when a plant piloted by James Earl McGinnis, also of Westfield, crashed in a forced landing here yesterday.

Mishaps marked the northbound trip yesterday of four other planes from the races. One crashed in a wooded section of east central Georgia, critically injuring two fliers and three others, beset by a heavy blanket of fog, were reported to have been forced down on the Georgia coast.

Fractures of both legs and severe head and internal injuries were received by Jack Winters of Danville, Va., when his cub plane crashed near Middleville, about 40 miles south of Augusta.

Dan Lewis of Roxboro, N. C., Winters' companion, was reported in a serious condition in an Augusta hospital.

HOMELESS SHARECROPPERS CAMP ON HIGHWAY

Claiming they were forced from their rickety homes by eviction notices and other misfortunes beyond their control, hundreds of sharecropper families piled their meager possessions in camps beside the highways in the vicinity of New Madrid, Mo., and staged mass demonstrations against working conditions in the southeast Missouri belt country. Here's one family prepared the noonday meal in camp.

SCHOOL HEADS MEET IN CITY

Legislative Committee Discusses Proposed Changes

Delegates to one of six district conferences of the North Carolina State School Board in session here today discussed recommendations of Governor Hoey's Commission and adopted two resolutions relative to school betterment in the State.

One of the resolutions urged that North Carolina's appropriation for vocational training be increased to match fully the Federal appropriation for this State. At present, North Carolina is not deriving full benefit because it is not matching dollar for dollar with available Federal money.

Another resolution approved the position of the legislative committee of the North Carolina School Board Association on all proposed public school legislation.

J. H. Rose, City School superintendent, and a member of Governor Hoey's Commission, outlined and discussed various proposals made to the State's chief executive by the Commission. Recommendations of the Commission were approved some time ago by the legislative committee.

Special emphasis today was placed on the following recommendations:

- 1.—Addition of a twelfth year in North Carolina's school program.
2.—Increase in teachers' salaries; and—
3.—Teacher retirement.

P. W. Watkins, member of the Durham school board and chairman of the Legislative Committee of the North Carolina Association of School Boards, presided. He was introduced by Superintendent Rose.

John T. Thorne, member of the Pitt county School Board, acted as secretary for the conference.

Besides the Greenville meeting, others have previously been scheduled to be held in Raleigh, Lumberton, Greensboro, Asheville and Charlotte.

International Wheat Board Calls Session

London, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The International Wheat Advisory Board today decided to call an international conference to deal with the world's wheat problem. It will be the first since August, 1933, and probably will be held in London.

Representatives of the following countries expressed willingness "in principle" to participate in the conference, although some made reservations: Soviet Russia, Canada, Denmark, Finland, Italy, Rumania, Spain and Yugoslavia.

Minister Of Tarboro To Address Kiwanians

Dr. J. L. Peacock of Tarboro, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club to be held at the Woman's club building Friday evening, 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. Peacock is a former President of Shaw University, Raleigh, but for the past several years has been pastor of the Baptist church at Tarboro, where he is also a member of the Kiwanis club, and an active member of the Masonic order. His subject will be "World Affairs."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that unfarmers' fruit juices, excluding cider, increased from 1,000,000 cases in 1937 to 24,000,000 cases in 1938; tomato juice jumped from 230,000 cases to 16,000,000 cases.

Duce Presents Demands Set As Price Of Peace

Lays Down Policy Before Prime Minister Chamberlain

Rome, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini presents to Prime Minister Chamberlain today his demands upon Europe, constituting in effect a definition of the "justice" which he sets as the price of peace and likely revolving about control of the Mediterranean and colonial concessions.

Mussolini laid down the policy of "peace founded on justice" in a friendly toast at the banquet he gave the British minister last night.

Chamberlain, in an answering toast, said his way was for a "just and peaceful solution of international difficulties by the method of negotiation."

The two talked informally for 90 minutes yesterday. They chatted again after the banquet. The formal conference today included, as in the previous discussions, Foreign Ministers Lord Halifax and Count Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law.

The foreign ministers' conversation was understood to have served as a background for more important talks later with the two Premiers present. Reliable sources said no important decisions were reached.

To Open Campaign For Birthday Ball

The campaign drive for contributions to the aid in the war against infantile paralysis will start January 16th and continue until the President's Ball, which will be Monday night, January 30th, it was announced this afternoon by County Chairman Hoover Taft.

The "March of Dimes" button campaign will be conducted largely through the school children in all the schools of the county, with prizes awarded to those classes selling the greatest number of buttons in each community. These buttons will be distributed to the various principals, who in turn will allot them to the classes.

The objective of the committee in giving this part of the campaign to the school children is furtherance of the plan to give all ages the opportunity to do something in this drive. The healthy children of Pitt county thereby aid the crippled children of the county and nation.

No Dissent As Sales Tax Called Permanent Policy

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—The sales tax, cause of more fire and brimstone in North Carolina than a whole range of active volcanoes, yesterday became to all intents and purposes a part of the state's tax policy even a faint murmur of dissent.

A perfunctory motion by Durham's Victor S. Bryant, a bored second by some undistinguishable member of the joint Finance committee, and a scattering chorus of weak "ayes" from the group turned the trick.

Bryant moved to adopt the preamble to the Revenue Bill of 1939, the preamble committing the General Assembly to a permanent rather than a biennial Revenue bill.

There isn't even the dim shadow of an intangible doubt that the sales tax will be enacted as part of the Revenue bill and so adoption of the preamble meant, in effect, official admission of a fact already quartered—that the Sales Tax is here to stay.

There might have been some serious show of opposition, pro forma at least if Senator Wills, Lumpkin, comrade-in-arms of Dr. McDonald in the historic sales tax battles of 1935 and 1936's Governorship race, had been present, but the Franklin man, although a member of the committee, wasn't there and no one else raised a voice.

After all, it probably made no difference. Had there been opposition it would have died almost a-borning, so overwhelmingly pro-Sales tax is the Finance committee, as well as the whole General Assembly for that matter. Just the same, it was almost with tears that veteran news men watched the peaceful extinction and execution of the preamble.

WPA REQUEST OF ROOSEVELT CUT BY GROUP

Full Committee Supports Recommendations of Sub-Body

PROPOSES SUM OF 725 MILLION

Contends Thousands are Carried on Rolls Neither Rightfully Nor Justifiably

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The House Appropriations Committee, contending that WPA rolls carry "thousands neither rightfully or justifiably their own" formally recommended today a $725,000,000 appropriation to keep the relief going until June 30.

The full committee thus went along with a sub-committee in a revolt against the administration's spending program.

President Roosevelt asked $875,000,000 for WPA, but that figure, the committee said, "presses a continued degree of unemployment out of harmony with general recovery indications."

Four Republican committeemen asserting that "a national scandal requires immediate action," went even further. They said in a minority report that funds should be appropriated now only to keep WPA operating until April 7.

By that date, they added, there should be a basis for future conduct of relief activities, "revamped and revised."

Also, the Senate confirmed by a vote the nomination of former Senator Pope of Idaho to be a director of the TVA.

Acting after Senator Bridges had spoken against the nomination.

Also confirmed by the senate today was John W. Hanes of North Carolina to be under secretary of the treasury, succeeding Roswell Magill, resigned.

School Girl Hurt When Hit by Auto

Johnnie Hyman, Pitt county Negro, is being held in jail on charges of hit and run, driving while drunk and failure to stop for a school bus, after having allegedly struck a seven-year-old girl who had just got off a Grimesland school bus yesterday afternoon.

The little girl, Jessie Coline Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jones of Grimesland, route one, received only bruises and scratches when she was struck by the automobile as she started across the road after having left the bus.

Patrolmen H. B. Smith and C. R. Williams, who investigated the accident, said Hyman was in a drunken condition, failed to stop when he drove up behind the parked bus, struck the child and then ran into the woods. They said the Negro later came out of the woods and was later picked up by a white person in a truck who witnessed the accident. Patrolman Smith, in answer to a radio call, was on his way to the scene of the accident when he was stopped by the truck driver. Hyman was brought here and locked up in the county jail. Patrolman Williams went to the scene of the accident and arrested Forrest Simmons, Negro, said to be owner of the car, who was with Hyman at the time of the collision. A Negro woman, also in the automobile, was not held.

The collision occurred about two miles from Grimesland on the Greenville highway as children were being taken home after school.

Long Train Ahead

Edmonton, (AP)—Plans for a 700-mile tractor-train freight haul are being completed by Frank Corser, lumberman. He plans to haul freight from McMurray to the Yellowknife mining field.

Athenaeum Club Meets.
On Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 10, at her home on Greene street, Mrs. John L. Winslow was a delightful hostess to the members of the Athenaeum Book Club.

There was an interesting discussion of current events in response to the roll call.

During a short business session presided over by the president, Mrs. S. M. Crisp, the club voted unanimously to adopt a resolution endorsing state aid for public libraries in North Carolina. The club also decided to hold an open meeting in the form of a tea and inviting the other book clubs of Greenville in March.

Mrs. Whistead, who was in charge of the program for the afternoon, introduced Mrs. J. H. Rose who in her most charming manner, gave a very interesting and entertaining paper on the "History of Women in Aeronautics."

After distribution of club books, members were invited into the dining room where a delicious salad and sweet course with coffee were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mrs. W. H. Bradsher. The dining room table was lovely in its decorations, having as its centerpiece a most unique and appropriate report. Each member was remembered with a very attractive favor in the form of a miniature airplane bearing the name Athenaeum and the date.

Thu-Sat-Mon.

Chatham Book Club.
The Chatham Book Club met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Luther Bowling on Summit street.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. S. Neal, and the regular business of the club was transacted.

The topic for the afternoon was "Women Columnists," and was very ably presented by Mrs. Carl Adams, who selected as the three most outstanding columnists of today, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Gilmer, better known to the public as Dorothy Dix, and Dorothy Thompson.

Mrs. Roosevelt, probably the best known columnist through her daily feature "My Day," has given us a much better insight into the most interesting and important household in the land. Dorothy Dix 60-year-old New Orleans social leader and director of the Times-Picayune, is well known to the public. Her column has been published for 33 years without missing an issue. Dorothy Thompson, Mrs. Sinclair Lewis, in private life is best known as a political commentator. Her column "On the Road" syndicated by the New York Herald-Tribune, now appears in 14 newspapers. Mrs. Adams adds Nell Battle Lewis and Blanche Manor to this list as North Carolina's most prominent women columnists.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Hendall, served a delicious salad course with coffee.—Reported.

Glee Club To Give Opera.
As the annual entertainment of the Greenville senior high school glee club, the Gilbert and Sullivan light opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," will be presented Tuesday night, January 17, in the high school auditorium.

A cast including Ella Frances Evans, James Allen, George Tyndall, Wilma Harris, Norman Wilkerson, Rosalie Brown, Ward Williams, Claude Hardy, Russell Rogers and Edwin Clark will be supported by choruses of girls and senior boys.

The opera is under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler, music teacher, and R. G. Walsler, dramatics instructor.

School children will be admitted at special rates for a matinee performance Monday at 3:30.

Literature Department.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Literature Department of the Woman's Club was held at the home of Mrs. J. N. Hart, Tuesday afternoon, January 10. Mrs. K. T. Puffrell presided over the business meeting. She issued the invitation from the A. A. U. W. to hear Mrs. Ernest Groves of Chapel Hill, on Monday evening, January 16.

After the business meeting, Mrs. L. A. Stroud, in a most charming manner very ably reviewed Marquand's book, "The Late George Apley," a Bostonian.

When the young daughter refused to marry the man the family had chosen for her, but married the man of her choice from the "wild and woolly west" of Pennsylvania; and when John goes to New York to make his home instead of going into partnership with his father in Boston.

The club was glad to welcome as its guests for the afternoon Mrs. Milton White, Mrs. A. W. Fleischman, Mrs. Simons and Mrs. Ed Harvey.

Mrs. Hart, assisted by several club is well brought out through a few things such as:

When old Uncle William, who is very wealthy, marries his nurse just a few months before his death. The George Apleys make visits among their friends and tell them how happy the family is over the affair and that it was known to them for some time.

When John Apley came back from France and married a divorced woman, the family again visited friends and explained to them just how lovely the young wife was and how happy the family was to accept her as one of its number.

When the young daughter refused to marry the man the family had chosen for her, but married the man of her choice from the "wild and woolly west" of Pennsylvania; and when John goes to New York to make his home instead of going into partnership with his father in Boston.

The club was glad to welcome as its guests for the afternoon Mrs. Milton White, Mrs. A. W. Fleischman, Mrs. Simons and Mrs. Ed Harvey.

Mrs. Hart, assisted by several club members and Mrs. Earl Hellen, crowded a very colorful plate of delicious sandwiches, candied grapefruit peel, kumquats and spiced tea.—Reported.

Mrs. Groves To Speak Here.

Mrs. Gladys Hoagland Groves, nationally known lecturer and author, will speak at the Woman's Club on Monday evening, January 17, at 8 o'clock at a meeting sponsored by the Social Studies Group of the American Association of University Women, with the Woman's Club, the Parent-Teacher Association of the Training school, and the assembly committee of the college as co-operating sponsors.

This is the first of a series of monthly programs on family relationships that are being arranged by the Social Studies group. Mrs. Groves, the January speaker, is an eminent sociologist who will discuss "Living in the Family Group." Men and women of Greenville and vicinity are invited to hear this timely address.

In February a physician will speak on family health as a part of good family relationship; in March an attorney will talk on laws pertaining to the family; and in April a personality clinic will be held for three days, with Dr. Wallace Nygard of the State Board of Public Welfare as the director. All of the meetings will be open to the public, and there will be no charge for any clinic.

Mrs. Groves, the speaker for next Monday evening, and her husband, Dr. Ernest Groves of the University of North Carolina, have pioneered in preparing and delivering courses to college students in marriage, family relationships, and problems of "Living in the Family Group." Mrs. Groves is known over the United States, both as a lecturer and writer. She has spoken before state, regional and national conferences; and last summer at the University of Florida, she was head instructor of a "Short Course for the Florida Congress of Parents and Teachers."

The chairman of the Social Studies group of the A. A. U. W. is Mrs. Hazel Brown Madry of the University of North Carolina, Social Welfare department of Pitt family relationships, and problems Attend Funeral in Portsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Vandford and daughter, Miss Kelly Rip, Vandford, left this morning for Portsmouth, Va., to attend the funeral of Mrs. Clara Brinkley. Mrs. Brinkley was the mother of Mrs. Larry Allen.

Mr. Allen was formerly of Greenville. Just twelve days ago, Mrs. Allen lost her brother. Both the mother and brother died with pneumonia.

TIME TO CUT DOWN

The chief fight in Washington at this time seems to be over whether or not there will be a cut in the expenditure of public funds. It is our opinion that those who are favoring cuts in public expenditures are right, for no individual, corporation, or government has ever been able to spend itself out of debt with borrowed money.

DON'T LET THE SLOT MACHINES COME BACK

The section of the revenue bill submitted by the advisory budget commission that would tax slot machines, should by all means be stricken from the measure by the committee. As we see it, the slot machines were outlawed by the Flanagan bill in 1937 after a hard fight, and there should be no backtracking along this line now.

There is no reason why the revenue act should carry any provisions for licensing something that is already outlawed by the other statutes and to provide for licensing of the machines now, would be an entering wedge by way of which we would soon find the "one-armed bandits" again prevalent throughout the state. Doing away with the slot machines was a good thing, and the best way to keep our state free from their evils is a strict enforcement of the Flanagan law.

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

"RAINDROPS" FROM SUN DO FUNNY FALLING TRICKS
By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

Ann Arbor, Mich. — Storms on the sun have "raindrops" of fire, but the blazing drops do not appear to obey all the laws of gravitation. The antics have been photographed in a motion picture telescope of the McMath-Hulbert observatory of the University of Michigan at Lake Angelus near here.

The storm clouds take the shapes of huge banyan trees, and of vast arches like rainbows and loops. It is from these three types that the fiery rain descends. The drops are huge knots of fire.

But these knots do not fall straight down. They spiral downward along the trunks of a banyan tree cloud. Or they slide down the sides of an arch or loop. They do not show the 32-foot-per-second acceleration which a falling object has on earth.

The drops of fire fall at uniform speeds. Those clocked to date range from eight miles a second to 104. Sometimes the drops speed up, but not as gravitation would demand. Instead they change speed abruptly and each new velocity is a multiple, that is, once or twice faster, of the preceding speed.

The unknown lady who fainted yesterday while Miss Perkins was speaking was not consciously protesting that the distinguished guest was saying. She was overcome by the heat and the pressure of other people.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — Virtually all the speculation as to what will happen when independent Democrats team up with Republicans to harness the administration's power on hazy assumptions that Republicans stick together like flies on a molasses can. But they don't.

We checked back over the important votes of the 1937-1938 senate and about the only matter on which the Republicans voted unanimously was to keep politics out of relief.

That was a high ideal which the Republicans could vote for safely because they did not have control of the relief administration.

What might have happened if Republicans controlled relief in another matter. Certainly a goodly number of Democrats voted against such a restriction. Democrats had to measure high ideals on one side against the advantages of using WPA in tough battles in the primaries and were not too bashful to say so.

Republican senators were close to unanimous against the original wage and hour bill, only two voting for it. When it came up of conference in a much milder form, however, several Republicans indicated they were less critical of it.

Labor Problem Localized
When this legislation comes up for amendment this session Democratic independents probably will find adjusting but a solid bloc of Republicans to rely on, either to push through one type of amendment or to block others. With many senators and the same is true in the House—labor has become very much of a local problem, depending whether the CIO or AFL is stronger back home. Even the Supreme court couldn't evaluate that situation to a national basis.

On the controversial confirmation of Hugo Black to the Supreme court, the vote came before his alleged Klan affiliation was published, three Republican senators voted for him while nine Republicans opposed.

The farm crop control bill found two Republican senators in support. It opposed.

Two Republicans supported the Guffey coal control bill, seven opposed it. The housing act drew four opposing Republican votes, eight for it.

Dissension On Neutrality
And how about neutrality? Will suspicious Democrats seek to join with the "Republican bloc" to curb the President's freedom in international affairs? One important piece of legislation which affects that control is the Neutrality (better called Isolation) Act.

When it came up in 1937 the Republicans split wide, five opposing and nine supporting. Moreover, its operation in the Spanish and Sino-Japanese war situation has developed open further dissension.

Will the Republican bloc align solidly with independent Democrats to modify the President's national defense aspirations? As Al Smith would say, let's look at the record. The first step of this big defense program was taken last session when the billion dollar Navy authorization bill came up. Eleven Republicans voted with the Administration

Germany-bound. This seal barking a protest is one of 10 dispatched from San Pedro, Cal., to the Haggenbush brothers of Germany, in exchange for animals desired by the San Diego, Cal., zoo. Zoo Keeper Charles Smith, watching them leave for Germany said: "They're the only type of seals in the world that can be trained to do as they're told and no back talk, either."

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Reflector Bureau.

RALEIGH, Jan. 12.—The Senate and House were scheduled to hold a joint session and listen to Madame the Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins at twelve noon. The hour had passed by about ten minutes and Speaker Lubby Ward of the House began to get a bit impatient.

He dispatched Sergeant-at-Arms Tom Brown across the Capitol to inform the Honorable Senate that the House awaits it for joint session.

Cut went Tom—then back he shuffled in a very brief space of time.

"It'll be just a few minutes," he proclaimed. "They're praying now."

Some members of the House seemed to think, in advance of the Perkins arrival, that the Labor Secretary has horns like the old prints of the Devil; but after her address most of them thought, the only horns she wears are on that noted hat.

Said one Representative, who threatened to hang, draw and quarter your correspondent if his identity should be revealed: "She talks a whole lot better than she looks."

Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill is making absolutely no comment on proposals to change North Carolina's method of execution.

"I haven't a thing to say about it," he declared positively.

Incidentally, Mr. Gill has never attended an execution though it is his unpleasant duty to determine who shall die and who shall live.

"I've never felt like attending an execution," he said. "No matter how bad they are, all have a human side. I get to know them in investigating their cases, and it gets too close to me for me to want to see any one of them die."

The oldest member of the legislature in year is the youngest member of the senate in point of service this session. Senator Joseph H. Separk of Gaston was not able to take the oath of office as a senator until this week. He is 67 years of age, but one of the most debonair men about the capitol.

There were more shining shoes around the halls and lobbies of the capitol yesterday afternoon than have been noticed before. The reason was presence of Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor in the Roosevelt cabinet. Miss Perkins was widely quoted five years ago as saying that Southerners did not wear shoes, and the assemblyman wanted to convince her that they did. Hence, the shining surfaces of the pedal coverings.

Yesterday saw the first school visitation of the legislature the seventh grade of one of the Raleigh schools filling the house lobby. They were accorded lobby courtesies upon motion by Representative Hatch. The only other "courtesy" was extended to former Representative J. C. Hobbs of New Hanover.

While marking time waiting the hour for Secretary Perkins to address the joint session, the house received and passed under suspension of rules, only one bill. Offered by Uzzel of Rowan, the act applies only to the town of China Grove and exempts from the six months limitation in force there certain delinquent notes and bonds.

This U. S. Page from Bladen is just about the Bombshell he is nicknamed. He comes rather close to lying up to his boast.

"There are none of them any better than I am or half as damn mean."

Judge Walter Suer, from Chatham, was spied hurrying through the Capitol by a Raleigh acquaintance who hadn't seen him for some time.

"Hey, Judge, are you a member this time?" he called.

"I have committed that investigation several times before, but now I know better," came back the judge.

Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, had a lengthy conversation with Governor Clyde R. Hoey yesterday, but what went on was not disclosed.

The incident may be important in the fight sure to be made against increased tuition charges in the state-supported colleges.

Action of the House in inviting Jack Dempsey to attend today's session drew caustic criticism in many quarters, not so much because of the invitation itself but because Representative W. T. Hatch of Wake introduced it almost before Miss Frances Perkins, U. S. Secretary of Labor, had left the all of the House after making an address before a joint session.

Iredell's veteran Zeb B. Turlington spoke against the resolution, after a tabling motion by U. S. Page had failed, but it was adopted on a vote by an obviously big majority.

tion for the bill, three against. One thing should be noted in connection with the aye bill. Of the eleven Republican senators for it, nine came from seacoast states which likely would benefit from any such building, and which also would be the first attacked by an enemy navy. There won't be any such sea-coast attraction to the big airplane factories are located in seacoast states.

The Republicans have split at various times on phases of almost every issue. They broke ranks time after time on different farm projects and labor legislation. On just what issue is the harmony of Republicans and Democratic Independents to begin?

Frankfurter Will Sit On A Court That Has Swung To Liberal Views

By MORGAN M. BEATTY (AP Feature Service Writer)

WASHINGTON — Much of the New Deal shooting will have been over by the time Felix Frankfurter reaches the Supreme Court.

But the architect of the New Deal, the Harvard professor who inspired much of the so-called liberal law-building under Franklin D. Roosevelt will have the satisfaction of knowing that the court has come far toward his way of thinking.

Old Trend Wiped Out.
In the last two years, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes has led the trend. The court has overruled itself once, and it has upheld such legislation as the Wagner labor act, the right of government to regulate wages and hours for women, and change the cold content of the dollar.

Those decisions wipe out, in a large measure, the criticism Frankfurter long has implied, if not spoken— that the court had refused to recognize the Constitution as a flexible document, framed to meet changing conditions.

Important decisions that have progressed too far for Frankfurter participation include questions of the government's TVA power yardstick, and the sit-down strike as an economic weapon for labor.

Still ahead with the probability that Frankfurter will help frame them, are decisions on the legality of the Federal wage and hour law, the new farm act, and many labor cases, of secondary importance.

But the legality of the New Deal has been fairly well established.

Back To Wilson.
Mr. Roosevelt already has appointed two justices classified as liberals—Hugo Black of Alabama, and Stanley Reed of Kentucky. Now he has named as successor of the late Justice Cardozo, who was a Jew, Austrian-born Frankfurter, also a Jew.

The personnel of the present court goes back only so far as President Wilson. Wilson named the ultra-conservative James Clark McReynolds, and the liberal, Jewish Justice Louis D. Brandeis, now at 82, dean of the court.

Harding appointed the conservative Pierce Butler, and Coolidge appointed the former attorney general Harlan F. Stone, a man of genial good humor.

Hoover selected the two outstanding fence-sitters, Chief Justice Hughes and Owen J. Roberts. They had a record for conservative law, but both have developed a liberal bent in the last few years.

Mr. Roosevelt can expect a 5-4 split in favor of liberal interpretation of the Constitution, but can get a 7-2 verdict if Hughes and Roberts are in the mood.

No Real Need
Washington insiders are talking much these days about the possibility that Roosevelt may get to appoint one or two more members of the court. Brandeis is said to be willing to retire, and some believe McReynolds may quit.

But that's gossip. After all, there is no real need from the President's point of view for further appointments, unless it might be his desire to give the far west representation on the court.

Frankfurter has said: "The judges of the Supreme Court are in fact arbiters of social policy."

Of democracy, he said: "It is the only way, rough as that may be, to a civilization that adequately respects and thereby helps to unfold the richness of human diversity. . . We know now that it is dependent upon knowledge and wisdom beyond all forms of government."

Frankfurter is a little man with a big mind; one of the keenest minds in the nation, many think.

He has spotted for high posts in the federal government such bright young men as James M. Landis, Thomas Corcoran and Dean Acheson. But a friend says he has never asked a job favor in behalf of anyone—that he knows how to put the right man in the right job when called on.

He and his wife, the former Marion A. Denman of Springfield, Mass., have no children, but every week groups of his brightest students have gathered at their home to match wits with him in long "bull sessions."

Students either like him tremendously or heartily dislike him. In classes, he seems to be a student who happens to know a little more than the rest. Sometimes he turns the lecture over to a student, then stands in the back of the room and helps heckle.

A former student said of him: "He is always thinking. He finds it very difficult to relax. Many people like to spend a nice dull evening and no evening with Professor Frankfurter is ever dull."

The new justice in an omnivorous reader. His walks with friends are his only exercise. He will take a cocktail, and he smokes moderately.

He aids hundreds of causes financially and is prodigal of his time in helping friends.

Two other justices who came from Harvard Law School have been his friends, the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, and Louis D. Brandeis. His views follow theirs in many respects.

'NEW YEAR'S LOVE'

by Angela Lorden

The Characters
Noel Marchand, a beautiful young actress.
Allan Collins, the man she loves.
David Norris, her fiancé.
Yesterday, Noel and Allan kiss each other goodby.

Chapter 25 'I Don't Love Him'

IT WAS following the Saturday night performance that the cast surprised Noel. She had gone as usual to her dressing-room after taking her final curtain call.

She took her time about removing the makeup, getting into her street clothes. She was almost ready when Foster knocked on her door.

"You're wanted on the stage, Noel," he announced importantly. "What for?" she asked in surprise. "Who wants me?"

"Mr. Swanstrom, I guess. You'd better come out."

"I don't understand. Oh, I'll be there in a moment. She had an idea Douglas might be rehearsing Rita in her part. But what did he want with Noel?"

She put on her hat and went out into the wings. The stage was a blaze of light. She saw the whole company there. Somebody saw her and yelled, "Surprise, Noel!"

Her name was called a dozen times. She was so startled, she stood on the edge of the lighted space, staring at them half-frightened. The line parted and she saw a long table, gay with lights and flowers. A huge white bell had been hung from the rafters.

Then they were all around her, everyone from Swanstrom to the stage hands. They were giving a party for Noel.

Finally she found words. "You're all so sweet—why did you do this for me?"

Bottles of champagne were opened. Big trays of sandwiches and platters of canapés were wheeled on and Noel was led to a corner where beribboned packages were heaped high.

"Open them, Miss Marchand!" one of the bit players shrieked expectantly. Noel was soon buried in a mound of paper as she opened box after box and brought gifts to view.

The bride was a wax figure enticing enough for any feminine dreams. Noel, examining the lovely soft white gown with its short train and the veil cunningly capped with fresh white flowers, wished for a moment she were being married like that. With families and friends, those who loved her, and organ music in a church to make it sacred. But David had no family—neither did she.

With a sigh she walked on and heard an exuberant: "Hello there, Miss Marchand!" She turned and saw a good-looking young blonde man in well-cut tweeds. "Why, Mr. Sheldon, how nice seeing you again!"

They shook hands. "May I walk with you a bit?" Tommy asked politely. "Of course, I'd like it. We can talk about—us," she smilingly accepted.

A Long Time
TOMMY suggested they stop for some coffee. In a corner of the restaurant, Noel appraised him across the table.

"You're quite the prosperous young architect—to all appearances," she told him. "Not quite that, but I'm doing well," he admitted and added earnestly. "Thanks to Allan Collins. He got me the job, a good one, too. I'm crazy about it."

Noel laughed at his enthusiasm. "You've been out in California for a month. Just got back early this morning," Tommy explained. "I was helping one of the partners on some important commissions. In fact I was just going down to the office when I met you."

"You haven't seen Mr. Collins yet, then?" Noel wondered if he knew about Allan's accident. Strange he hadn't mentioned it. She asked him. Tommy was shocked by the news.

"Where is he?" he asked. Noel told him the details. She could see he was already planning to report at the office and rush out to Westbury.

When Noel joined Mrs. Marchand in the Plaza lobby, she spoke of her meeting with Tommy. But first she asked, "How is Allan?"

"He's getting better," Mrs. Marchand told her. "They've done all they can at the hospital. He's not happy there." The older woman had a serious, worried look as she went on. "Dr. White is arranging to have Allan taken to Glaburne—he'll be more contented at home."

"He'll be completely well in no time, up there," Noel offered encouragingly. "Not that quickly," Mrs. Marchand protested. She hesitated, then she added, "It may be a long time before Allan is completely recovered."

"What do you mean?" Noel's heart was hammering. She was caught in a terrible fear. "His back was badly injured—they didn't know until they took X-Rays yesterday if the injury would be permanent. Thank God it's only a matter of time and patience for him now."

"Did Allan know how serious it was?" There was a hard lump in Noel's throat. "There was a hard lump in Noel's throat. "I think he suspected; but he realizes now that he will be perfectly well one day."

Allan had known, or suspected, when she saw him. Things were making a misty veil over Noel's eyes. Her hands were trembling. "I'm so happy to hear he'll be all right," she looked at Mrs. Marchand, not trying to hide her feelings. Allan's mother patted her arm, understandingly.

The EAGLE TRAIL

To obtain a Merit Badge for Handicraft, a Scout must meet any 18 of the following requirements:

20. Varnish floor or wood work, or refinish furniture.
21. Wax or polish floor.
22. Set glass.
23. Clean out a sink trap.

Merit Badge: Handicraft.
Counselor: The Father of Each Scout.

Scout Troop 37, with Scoutmaster L. S. Spence, registered twenty-one Scouts last week.

Troop 33, with Scoutmaster Sam Dees registered 17 Scouts. A number of other Scouts in this troop will register this week. If you have not turned in your fee please give it to Milton Beland.

Troop 79 of Falkland, also registered and is in good standing for the year 1938.

A window decorating contest has been arranged for the Scout troops of Greenville during anniversary week which starts on Feb. 8. All Scoutmasters are urged to get the use of a window for their troop to decorate.

Each troop in Greenville had 10 Scouts at the Board of Review held Monday night at the Eighth Street Christian Church. More tests than have been passed in a whole year at any board meeting were passed Monday night. Some Scouts passed only part of a Scout rank, while a large number completed the various tests.

The following is a complete list of those who advanced in rank and rank:

Mrs. Marchand hesitated. "I think he suspected; but he realizes now that he will be perfectly well one day."

Allan had known, or suspected, when she saw him. Things were making a misty veil over Noel's eyes. Her hands were trembling. "I'm so happy to hear he'll be all right," she looked at Mrs. Marchand, not trying to hide her feelings. Allan's mother patted her arm, understandingly.

All afternoon, Noel's thoughts were a tumult of conflicting emotions. No use deceiving herself—whatever he did, whenever he married, Allan would always be first in her heart.

"Don't do that," she said to herself. "I don't want to see you seriously," she told Swanstrom when they met that night in her dressing room.

"You sound ominously serious," the producer commented. "I'll see you after the performance."

"When Noel, later, he told her that when he met that night in her dressing room.

"You're an awful fool—but I suppose there's no persuading you. I wish that I could, though."

Meet Atlantic Christian College Friday Night

The East Carolina Teachers College Boxing team will meet the Atlantic Christian college team in Wilson Friday in the opening meet of the season for the Pirate team.

This year's boxing team is built around David Breece, Herbert Willerson, Vernon Tyson and Joe Williams as experienced men with several promising newcomers in the other weight divisions.

Norman Fleming, former Greenville high school boy, looks good in the 112 pound class, while Adams and Braddy fight for honors in the 135 pound division. Charles Brin in the 145 pound division has plenty of competition.

Jesse Gray, a Pitt county boy, is really going places in the fast field. Brin is a natural fighter in the 125 pound division. Charles Moringo is very promising in the heavy weight division. Woodrow Long, E.C.T.C. football tackle, is developing nicely. Long is a big, rugged, husky boy, but he is far from experienced in boxing, this being his first fistie efforts.

A. C. C. will be here for a return match on January 20 and the Atlantic Department at the college is really arranging the fighting facilities and hope to be able to have two sections of portable bleachers ready to accommodate twenty fans Friday night, January 20.

Daughters of the American Revolution are organizing a patriotic celebration at the 1939 California World's Fair next February 22.

GIRLS OF GHS MEET KINSTON

Lady Phantoms Have First Test Tomorrow Night

By JANE HARDEE
Mary Shaw Robeson's Lady Phantoms of G. H. S. will engage the Kinston sextet in their first competition of the season tomorrow night at 7:30 in the high school gym.

The visiting aggregation as well as the locals are out to win.

Probable starters for the locals are Betty Tyson, Audrey Leggett and Joy Flanagan at the forward posts and Jane Hartelton, Doris Roberts and Elizabeth Wells at guard positions.

Although the Lemur team hasn't been scattered, reports show that they have a splendid squad.

Soach Robeson states that she is expecting a fine season from her girls. Several holdovers from last year's squad and a number of recruits, who are showing up well in daily workouts, are on the eligible list of players.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Spice tips: A dash of nutmeg gives pep to buttered cooked spinach; a speck of cinnamon adds flavor to peach, pear, apple or prune sauces; a little cinnamon and cloves added to whipped cream used for topping puddings gives an interesting flavor; a teaspoon of nutmeg gives a full-flavor to old-fashioned pound cake; add some caraway seeds to cottage cheese, served with rye bread and plenty of hot coffee and you have a continental idea; stick whole cloves into apple slices, halves of peaches, pears or apricots, when glazed and served as fowl garnishes and sprinkle paprika mixed with celery seed over the top of cooked cauliflower for a change.

NOW THEY'RE TELLING FISH STORIES VIA SHIP-TO-SHORE TELEPHONE

FISHING BOATS at Miami Beach, Fla., have installed ship-to-shore telephones. In the past only large ships were so equipped. Now a fishing boat with a $350 transmitter-receiver, can talk to the coast guard, to other boats, or to anyone on shore. Here we take a trip on the Hazel Mack to see how it works . . .

SOMEWHERE-at-sea, Peter Crossland (left) Miami Beach sportsman, hooks onto a sailfish, and sees he will be home late. He calls via a radio band that connects with phone headquarters . . .

THE operator rings Mrs. Crossland, who answers: "What? Sailfish? Why don't you bring home something we can eat? . . ."

CROSSLAND eventually lands the fish. Soon he'll be on the phone again, telling his luck to a desk-ridden friend in New York.

top; though there may be balm in Gilead in the form of real action when it comes time to talk turkey over the Sales Tax schedule itself. All this took place at the first meeting of the Joint Finance committee, separate and apart from the Appropriations group, and took place under the direction of Senate Chairman, suave, imperturbable Pat Taylor of Anson and volatile, brusque talking House Chairman W. E. Fenner - two presiding officers about as far apart as opposite poles, but who have been, by the queer workings of practical politics, designated to work together throughout the current General Assembly.

It took place just after Chairman Taylor and Fenner had told the group of the long, arduous task ahead of them and after Mr. Bryant as House finance chairman of 1937, had been quite graciously asked to explain the procedure usually followed in going into the voluminous money raising measures.

By way of parenthesis and without any particular pertinence it is really remarkable - this grace and affability with which Mr. Bryant is being treated on all sides since his narrow defeat for the Speakership. But to get along with this story - after he had outlined the general practice, Mr. Bryant smoothly and almost without pausing from his previous paragraph moved that the committee adopt the preamble. There followed the second and the unanimous adoption as related.

Thereafter the floor was pretty well monopolized by Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell who began his biennial teaching of practical revenue raising in North Carolina.

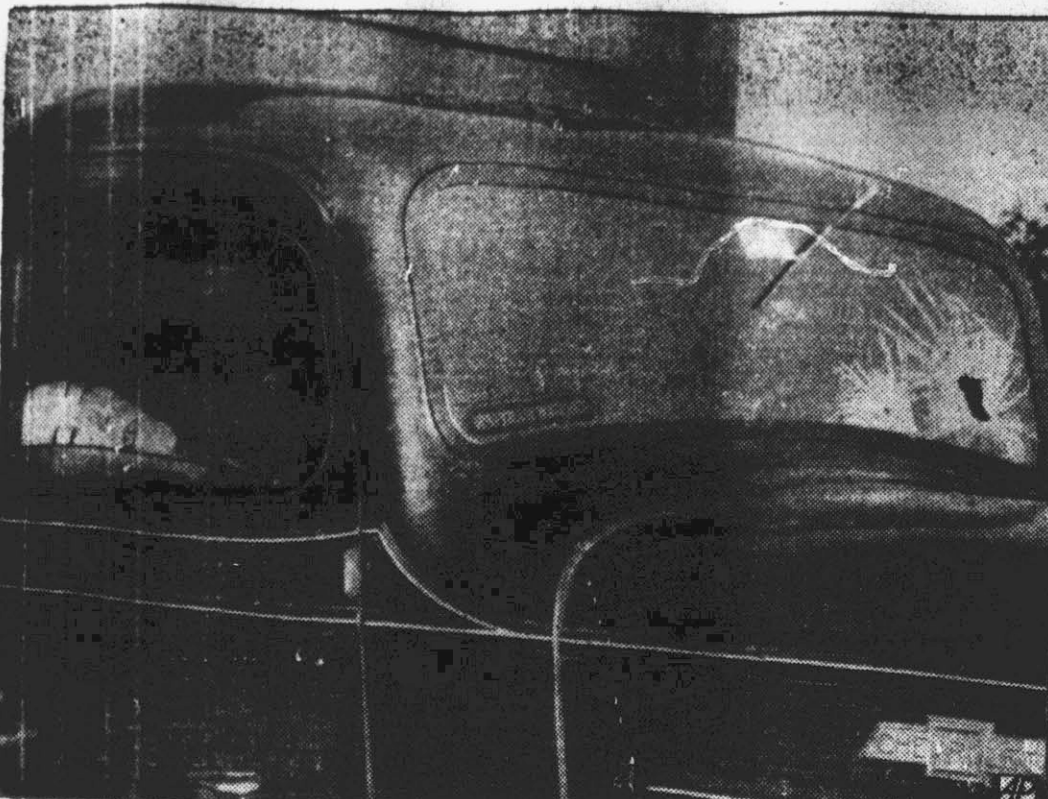

He started off with the pleasing little fiction that "The enactment of a Revenue Bill is a legislative function of the Revenue Department's although everybody above the status of low-grade moron knows that Mr. Maxwell has written more revenue bills than all the 170 legislators combined.

He then plunged into a discussion of the first schedule of the bill - the inheritance tax and the special battle of the budget was definitely on.

The first hitch came in a section devoted to the inheritance tax on the proceeds of insurance policies where the technical point of construction, with everybody apparently agreed on what is wanted but in considerable disagreement over how to word the section.

To wind it up, a sub-committee was authorized and the committee

DEATH STRIKES IN TRUCK DRIVERS' STRIKE

A flare-up of violence in the strike of 5,000 truck drivers in the vicinity of Boston brought death to John Timental, a driver's helper. He died after a beating administered by a crowd of men who forced his truck to the side of a road near Sharon, Mass. His body is shown in the truck as the assailants left it.

passed on to other things.

While the Finance group was getting under way, the joint Appropriations committee was meeting in an adjoining room, with Senator W. B. Robinson, Jr., and Representative John Caffey presiding.

The entire afternoon was devoted almost exclusively to a detailed explanation of the budget, an especially of items of appropriation, with R. G. Doyton, the assistant budget director, doing most of the explaining.

This procedure will probably be continued this afternoon, with the first hearings for interested groups slated to start tomorrow afternoon. Chairman Caffey remarked that it would be Friday the 13th. The Appropriations bill is No. 13 on the Senate side. The combination sounds unlucky - it probably will be for those who seek to increase the amount of money the state is to spend in the next biennium.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 12 (AP) - An uptick in steel and aircraft shares - recent speculative favorites in anticipation of heavier U. S. arms spending - pointed the way for a stock market rally today, but the going on the upside proved difficult.

After the "war babies" had run up for gains to around two points before publication of the presidential armament message, there was renewed selling in these groups when the details became known.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 12 (AP) - Cotton futures slipped unchanged to three higher. Liverpool Bombay and the trade were takers of Southern offerings.

The list was five to nine points above yesterday's close at mid-morning, October advancing from 7.43 to 7.48 for a net gain of eight.

Around midday, when the list was two to eight net higher, March sold off to 8.32 on 8.34, as price-fixing demand was satisfied. October was the steeper at 7.48, a point below the high.

Ball Being Backed By Health Office

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer, today stated that he and his staff were 100% behind the campaign to aid in the work with infantile paralysis.

He said that the money contributed in previous campaigns helped immeasurably and that many, many people, young and old, received treatment and care that they would never have received otherwise.

Dr. Ennett concluded by saying that if any persons who were interested in seeing what happened with the money they contributed, he would be glad to see them and show them exactly how and where it was spent.

HOPKINS DENIES 'SPEND AND SPEND' REMARK

This dramatic picture was made as Harry Hopkins (left), newly appointed Secretary of Commerce, leaned over the desk before Senator Vanderberg, Republican of Michigan, and gave answers at a hearing before the Senate Commerce committee regarding his appointment. Just as the picture was made, Hopkins was denying he ever said: "We will spend and spend tax and tax and elect and elect." The former WPA administrator also said he had done everything in his power to keep politics out of WPA.
