REBELS ENTER VILLAGE NORTH OF BARCELONA

Occupy Last Major Stronghold in Northern Spain

NEW LOYALISTS LINE SHATTERED

Insurgent Military Leaders Predict Completion of Catalonia Conquest

Perpignan, France, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Insurgent dispatches reported today General Franco's Navarrese army corps entered Gerona, the last major Government stronghold in northeastern Spain at 10:30 a. m. (5:30 a. m., EST.)

Gerona, an old walled city and capital of a province by the same name is only 25 air line miles and 36 miles by road from the French border. Figueras, temporary capital of the Spanish Government is 22 miles to the north.

The Government's newest defense line was said to have been shattered and an advance to the frontier apparently was only a question of days.

Insurgent air squadrons heavily bombed the refugee-choked region along the border.

Insurgent military leaders in Barcelona predicted last night they would capture Gerona "within the next 24 hours" and said they were hopeful of completing the conquest of Catalonia within a week.

The two columns had advanced about 50 miles since the capture of Barcelona. Insurgent and Loyalist air raids were taking a heavy toll.

Two Admit Charge Robbing Woman

Lumberton, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Sheriff Clyde Wade announced today he had arrested two men who, he said, gave their names as Edward Stephens and Iron Thomson, the latter an Indian, in connection with a robbery yesterday of Mrs. Mary E. Barnes, 62-year-old widow.

The sheriff said the men had confessed. County officers Fleming Brisson and F. L. Crump found the elderly Mrs. Barnes last night when she had practically freed herself from a post to which she had been tied six hours earlier by two robbers. She was not injured.

Believes Convicts Out Of This Area

Capt. F. W. Jacobs, superintendent of the Pitt county prison camp, said today he believed two convicts who escaped Thursday night had made their way out of this section.

The last definite trace seen by officials of the two escapees was in Pinetops, where they allegedly stole an automatic shotgun, abandoned the prison truck in which they escaped and attempted to steal an automobile.

The two convicts are Simon Garis, serving a four to six year term imposed in March, 1937, for larceny in Halifax county, and John Williams serving one and a half to two years imposed in Mecklenburg county for house breaking and larceny.

They escaped in a prison truck after breaking the lock off the garage door. They had been assigned to kitchen duty, washing dishes.

Ask Uniformity In Licensing Boards

Reflector Bureau. By LYNN NISBET. Raleigh, Feb. 4.—Last summer a small electrical contractor in Henderson county was summoned to come to Raleigh to stand trial before the Board of Examiners for violations of the law. He could not find out what he was charged with, until after lengthy court proceedings. Not so many years ago the State Board of Examiners in Optometry had long sessions over the revocation and restoration of one or two licenses.

Senator Prince thinks it is time for the state to set up uniform procedure in all these licensing boards, and he has offered a bill looking to the end, which is now pending in Senate Judiciary No. 2. The bill provides, briefly, that approximately the same procedure will apply to the revocation of physicians' licenses and the license of a public accountant or an electrical contractor. Its main purpose is to safeguard the rights of licensees against hasty or prejudicial judgments.

DRAWS FOUR QUEENS - AND HOW!

W. E. Badgett, 35-year-old construction foreman of Galveston, Tex., whose wife presented him with quadruplet daughters, here demonstrates his happiness. Quoth he: "Four of a kind—and four queens at that!"

Murphy Rebukes Solons For Deserting Capital

Raleigh, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Members of the General Assembly were rebuked today by Representative Murphy of Rowan for the week-end exodus from Raleigh.

He said it was a "reproach on this General Assembly when I look over this House and see every God-blessed seat empty."

"I don't blame them for going home," he declared, "but after all, they were elected to represent the people of the state."

Saturday sessions of the Assembly are usually attended by only a handful of members, as most of them go home to "commune with the boys" over the week-end.

Not only that, but the Highway Users conference, in its anti-diversion campaign this week has been urging radio listeners to talk to their assemblymen this week-end about an anti-diversion resolution unfavorably reported by the Senate Finance committee.

The House received, passed under suspension of the rules and sent to the Senate one new bill, by Withdrawal in Rutherford county.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate House bill 216 by Jarrett of Cherokee.

The Senate passed and ordered enacted into a law House bill 183 by Representative Morse of Pasquotank to validate proceedings in respect to the foreclosure of tax certificates in Pasquotank county's drainage district number one.

Strapless Swim Suits to Last Inch. St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—Beach style critics this winter have decided that about the last spars inch of material had been short from milady's bathing costume with removal of the shoulder straps.

In the place of the conventional straps, a contrivance of rubber elastic tape strung through the upper pleating holds up the top part of the suits. Wearers generally appear to be pleased with the strapless outfits, especially for sun bathing. No unsightly white line is left over each shoulder and the coat of sultan is general and even for display with evening clothes.

Many Shades Of Opinion In Election Sub-Group

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Feb. 4.—There are as many shades of opinion in the sub-committee of the elections law committee, just named by House Chairman George W. Phillips of Onslow, as there were colors in the coat of Joseph, famed controller of Egyptian supplies and fugitive from the embrace of Potiphar's wife.

DEMOCRATS OF NEW CONGRESS EXTEND BREAK

Factionalism Developing In Fight For Party Control

GARNER HEADING CONSERVATIVES

Senator Asks President to Let Committeemen Say What Happened at Meet

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Congress began the second month of the session today amid indications that Democratic factionalism was developing rapidly into a fight for party control.

Some politicians predicted events of the next few weeks would sharpen the lines of this struggle, with President Roosevelt carrying on his battle for New Deal "liberalism" Vice President Garner working quite as chief of "conservative" forces, and both sides thinking of the presidential nomination in 1940 as the prize to be captured.

There were some signs the democratic split had placed the balance of power in both Senate and House in the hands of the "conservatives" a situation made possible chiefly by Republican gains in the November elections.

Republican members, keenly aware of their own possibilities in 1940, have become more active than in any other Congress of the Roosevelt administration.

President Roosevelt's denial, meanwhile, that he looked upon the Rhine as America's frontier brought a Republican demand that he let Senators tell their version of what he said at a secret conference on foreign affairs Tuesday.

Senator Bridges (R-N.H.)—One of the Military committee members who attended the conference and pledged secrecy, made the demand after the President had disputed some accounts of the meeting and had accused some legislators and some newspaper-woman agitators and senators of misrepresenting his point of view.

Immediately after the conference, word leaked out Mr. Roosevelt had told the Senators that America was selling military airplanes to France because helping the democratic nations of the world was part of the present American policy.

Also, industrial North Carolina found itself today one of the major "activity spots" of the newly created wage and hour administration.

Of the three industry committees named so far by Administrator Eimer Andrews who recommend minimum wage scales, two are for industries which operate extensively in the Tar Heel state.

A North Carolina manufacturing plant, the Central Weaving and Spinning Corporation of Fayetteville was the defendant in the first suit brought by the administration alleging violation of the wage-hour law, and thus may serve as a "test case" for the new act.

The state is a tung tobacco industry, which takes the raw product grown in the state and carries it through every stage of processing until it is ready to be put on the market in the shape of cigarettes, also has come in for scrutiny.

Stemming plants have been granted a seasonal exemption.

TORNADO HITS N. C. VILLAGE

Elizabeth City, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A tornado swooped suddenly down on the little community of Wodville, eight miles from here last night, and virtually destroyed the solid two-story home of Wallace Wood.

Wood, his wife and a 15-month-old granddaughter miraculously escaped with minor cuts and bruises and some burns from a stove which overturned when the wind struck.

The house was flat on the ground this morning with debris scattered everywhere.

The wind, maintaining its intense force over a quarter of a mile and lasting two minutes or less, first struck the home of E. E. Bateman, 200 yards from the Wood home, tearing down a hen house and lifting the Bateman home from its foundation, moving it a yard or more and breaking two chimneys and three windows.

Loss to the Wood home was estimated at $2,500. Wood rescued his wife and child before anyone arrived.

BUILDING COLLAPSE TRAPS EIGHT FIREMEN

Collapse of the roof of this five-story Syracuse, N. Y., office building plunged nine firemen, who were fighting fire on the third floor, into the basement. An hour later rescue workers removed one, whose condition was critical. Efforts to dig out the other eight were hampered by danger of collapsing walls, which had to be braced.

SUBPOENA FOR JURIST ISSUED

Connecticut Judge Is Wanted in New York Manton Case

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A subpoena was issued today by U. S. Attorney Gregory Noonan for Judge Edwin S. Thomas of Connecticut and for the jurist's records.

Thomas was en route to South America on the Grace liner Santa Barbara, which sailed from New York yesterday at 8:12 p. m. Noonan said he sent a wireless message to the master of the vessel at 6:34 p. m. requesting him to ask Judge Thomas to come ashore with the pilot.

Noonan said he received a reply about 9 p. m., saying the judge was continuing his journey.

The U. S. attorney and one of his assistants, John Bowling, wanted to question Judge Thomas in connection with the "Manton case" and another assistant, Irving Kaufman, may want to question him in connection with the inquiry into the affairs of the McKesson and Robbins Drug Corp. The inquiry followed the unmasking and suicide of F. Donald Coster-Musica, head of the firm, and disclosure that assets listed for the firm's crude drug department were largely non-existent.

Martin P. Manton, senior judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, resigned after he was accused by District Attorney Thomas Dewey or accepting loans from litigants with business before his court. Judge Manton, whose resignation becomes effective Monday, denied any wrongdoing in his business affairs.

Noonan said today a subpoena had been issued for Manton to appear before a federal grand jury on Monday, with his records, as soon as he leaves the bench.

Denyer.—(AP)—Airlanes are being used experimentally in an effort to exterminate crows in northern Colorado.

In the first trial more than 15,000 crows were flushed by a plane that swooped close to their roosting place near Erie, Col. About 100 volunteer hunters, armed with shotguns, were stationed nearby and slaughtered approximately 1,000 of the birds.

CLUB HEARS OF CIVIC AFFAIRS

Endorses Changes After Hearing Talk By Col. Flanagan

After hearing a talk by Col. E. G. Flanagan on the proposed adoption of the city manager form of government for Greenville, the Kiwanis club last night endorsed the movement.

Col. Flanagan devoted much of his talk to the question of bringing the various city departments into closer relationship by making the city manager a member ex-officio of the Water and Light Commission and of the School Board, with the power of voting, which action was embodied in the resolution passed by the board.

The question of allowing all electors in the city vote on each action was brought up, but no action was taken by the club, which decided to continue the discussion of public affairs at another meeting this week. Members of the Board of Aldermen would continue to be named by wards, under the plan outlined last night, but every registered person in the city would be eligible to vote on a candidate from each ward, with only one man being named from a ward. This plan (Continued on page six)

Stroke Is Suffered By C. F. Carroll, Sr.

C. F. Carroll, Sr., member of The Daily Reflector mechanical department, was removed to the Pitt General hospital from his home on West Tenth street following a stroke suffered this morning.

Mr. Carroll reported for duty as usual yesterday morning, but became ill and went to bed yesterday about noon.

STORMS CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE

Floods, High Winds, Cold and Snow Visit Southland

(By The Associated Press) Floods, high winds, cold and snow left destruction and suffering in several southern sections today.

Rising rivers, fed by torrential rains, inundated thousands of acres in Tennessee and Arkansas and forced scores of families from their homes.

An unidentified white man died of exposure at Paragould, Ark., where a six-inch snow, heaviest in 15 years, coated the city.

Scattered wind storms in Georgia, South Carolina and Mississippi yesterday and last night killed two persons and injured several others.

Nine persons were hurt and five homes demolished when a wind of near tornado force struck Pisgah and Arlington, Miss.

In South Carolina a windstorm tossed a garage into an outbuilding or Taylors and killed 11-year-old Julian L. Harter. A Negro child was killed when several houses were blown down near Zebulon, Ga.

At Columbia, S. C., a twister demolished a score of Negro houses, leaving an estimated 60 homeless.

Water stood three feet deep yesterday in low-lying sections of Chattanooga, and at Dyersburg, Tenn., high water rolled over some sections of the city which lay blanketed under a three-inch snowfall.

Harriman, Tenn., where a 1927 flood took 20 lives, reported property damage from high water.

Business Holding Steady Babson Says Activity Twenty Per Cent Above Last Year

By ROGER W. BABSON. Babson Park, Fla., Feb. 4.—Despite the latest war scare, business is running along at the same level as a month ago. Because the sharp gains of the Fall have not continued, however, many people are disappointed. They have asked me if I am as optimistic as I was on New Year's Day. My answer is "Yes." The domestic picture is the same as it was a month ago. Recent foreign developments are unsettling, but the basic European situation has not changed.

SLAYERS LOSE COURT APPEAL

Killers of S. C. Prison Guard Captain Must Die

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 4.—(AP)—The six men convicted of murdering Prison Captain Olin Sanders in an abortive attempt to escape from the State penitentiary more than a year ago, lost their Supreme court appeal today. A new execution date probably will be fixed for some time in March.

"With the exception of George Wingard, all of the appellants are mature men, experienced in crime and at the time of the homicide several of them serving long terms," the Supreme court opinion said.

"When this crime was committed Wingard was 18 years of age and was serving a term for petty thievery. It may be reasonably inferred from the testimony that he enlisted in a bold and desperate enterprise upon the invitation of older men, the true significance and import of which he failed to fully realize because of his youth, inexperience and immature judgment.

"Ameliorating considerations of this nature, fell within the exclusive province of the trial jury. This court, sitting as an appellate court, is confined to the correction of errors of law."

Convicted with Wingard were William B. Woods, Roy Suttles, J. W. Bair, Herbert Moorman and Clayton Crans. They are being held in solitary confinement at State's prison.

Sanders, 61-year-old former sheriff of Anderson county, who had been guard captain most of the time since 1927, was fatally stabbed on December 12, 1937, as he sat in the inner court yard of the penitentiary—hoping to free him as a hostage on a flight to freedom which was blocked.

The convicts, all except one of whom was serving long terms, disregarded pleas of former Governor Johnston, Adjutant General James Dossier and other officials who tried to dislodge the prisoners peacefully from their stronghold.

Long Beach, Calif.—(AP)—Most Californians give up ocean bathing during the winter months, but not Mrs. Ella McCulloch—despite her 91 years. She is a familiar figure in the surf here at all times of the year.

"The water only gets down to 56 degrees," she says. "The way young folks act, you'd think it had ice in it."

OHIO LOWLAND FACED BY NEW FLOOD THREAT

Mighty Waters Of Ohio River Nearing Flood Stage

COLD MAY CHECK HEAVY RUN-OFF

Low Temperatures, However, Add To Hardships of Families Forced to Flee

Cincinnati, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The mighty Ohio river today rose slowly toward flood stage from Pittsburgh to Carrollton, Ky.—half way between Cincinnati and Louisville—but the danger of a serious inundation apparently was lessened by freezing weather which stemmed tributary run-offs.

The temperature, however, added to the hardships of hundreds of families forced to evacuate lowland homes as high waters poured into some Ohio river cities. Red Cross and other relief agencies immediately went to work to care for the refugees.

Two were dead in West Virginia and four others were reported to have been drowned by swift rising mountain streams. The high waters resulted from heavy rains and snows of the past three days over the mountainous Ohio valley watershed region in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky and over hilly Southern Ohio.

U. S. meteorologist W. C. Devereaux at Cincinnati revised upward today his predicted crest for the swollen Ohio. He said a crest of 56 feet could be expected from Huntington, West Virginia to Carrollton, Cincinnati, where the stage was 49 before noon, has a 52-foot flood stage and Huntington is 54.

The predicted crest would be far below the record 1937 flood levels, which rose to 79.99 at Cincinnati and caused more than 200 deaths and several millions of dollars property in the worse inundation of the valley's history.

Although freezing temperatures slowed the run-offs into bankful tributaries temporarily, warmer weather was forecast for tonight and Sunday for much of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Sea Scouts Would Mark Tar Channel

Greenville Sea Scouts, through their leader, Charles Whedbee, has written Rep. Lindsey C. Warren asking him to use his influence to secure the necessary buoys, beacons and other equipment for marking the existing channel from Hardee's creek to the Tar river bridge in Greenville.

Skipper Whedbee said he had written Congressman Warren that if the necessary equipment could be secured, along with one man to give instructions, the local Sea Scouts would complete the work.

The channel would be of use to the Sea Scouts' skip William Pitt, as well as to other pleasure craft and any other boats not requiring more than a five-foot channel.

Meat Stolen From Pitt County Man

Members of the sheriff's department today were investigating the robbery of a quantity of meat last night from Ed Corey, who lives off the Washington highway, near John Rivers service station.

Deputy R. W. King expressed the belief one man made two trips in stealing the 10 or 12 hams, about the same number of shoulders, several heads and some side meat. He said he was able to track the thief from the smokehouse to Greene street, saying the man traveled across fields and down dirt streets.

Mrs. Hearne, who is a student of the celebrated American artist Kroll, was the honored guest at the exhibit and at a tea at the club. One portrait of unusual character and of local interest was that of Mrs. I. L. Freund, the wife of Rabbi Freund of Goldsboro. The picture is entitled "The Rabbi's Wife." (The News and Observer).

MODES of the MOMENT by Adelaide Kerr

She goes cycling in slacks of crisp white rayon alpaca cinched with a wide, washing girdle of bright royal blue jersey. Into the top she tucks a soft rose jersey shirt. More details in her stay-in-place costume are cork-soled sandals strapped firmly to her bare feet and a bracelet chain to hold her key.

Mrs. Snipes To Speak Here. Persons interested in the work being done in the Belgian Congo by religious forces will be interested in hearing the message of Mrs. P. D. Snipes at the eleven o'clock service of the Christian Church tomorrow morning. Mrs. Snipes is home on furlough from her work at Bolenge, Africa, and brings to her hearers not only first-hand information and personal experience, but a pleasing personality and marked speaking ability. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attend this service.

Miss Dennis Speaks at College. Miss Catherine Dennis, state supervisor of home economics, spoke to the Home Economics Club of the college Thursday night on "Your Community as a Hobby," suggesting that each club member take an active part in the community she will go into as a teacher and see how much she can find in that community to make life happy.

Vesper Services. "When Someone Has Mistreated You" was the topic used by Doris Blalock at vesper services at the college Friday evening. She read as her scripture lesson verses from the twelfth chapter of the Epistle to the Romans and the 18th chapter of Matthew. Miss Blalock began her talk by asking a series of questions on the reactions of her audience when they feel someone has mistreated them. She warned the group to exercise their self-control when someone says unkind or untrue things about them, telling them of a Negro singer who was once told by his music teacher "If your heart is right and your spirit divinely disciplined, nobody in all the world can hurt you." Jesus, in answer to the Jews when they were forced to carry the luggage of the Roman soldiers on the march, told them to go not only a mile with it, but two. In doing this, on their own mile, they would free themselves from the littleness they felt from having to go the first.

Notice Pitt County Duke Alumni. There will be a special and important meeting of the Pitt County Duke Alumni in the private dining room of the Hotel Proctor on Monday night, Feb. 6th, at 6 o'clock. All Alumni and friends of the University are invited and urged to be present. Several important representatives from the University will be here to discuss the part our chapter is to play in helping to make the Duke University Centennial celebration a success. After the "Dutch supper" a picture of the Duke-S.C. football game will be shown at the high school at 7:30. A member of the Duke coaching staff will be present to give comments on pictures of the game. This will be a real treat. Any alumni who have not received an invitation by mail and wishes to attend the meeting please notify J. H. Rose, phone 49, or J. M. Hadley, phone 336-J. J. M. Hadley, Pres., Pitt County Chapter.

Y.W.C.A. Holds Meeting. "Loyalty" was the theme of a program presented by a deputation team composed of members from the cabinet of the Young Women's Christian Association of the college, on a visit to the Y.M.C.A. at State College, Thursday evening. Two talks, "Loyalty to your community" and "Loyalty to yourself and God," were given by Misses Sarah Ann Maxwell and Susan Evans. Miss Maxwell told of the need of loyalty in every person's life; the need of loyalty to those things which have made his life more livable and more meaningful; his home, his school, his church and his country. She illustrated her talk with instances of people who found they could not live happily without loyalty and concluded with a quotation from Elbert Hubbard, warning young men not only to have book instruction, but to be loyal as a trust.

Seeing Through My Windshield. Red Oak H. D. Meeting. Thirty-five home demonstration women met with Mrs. James Allen Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Amos Evans conducted the meeting. The following gave brief reports: Foods, Mrs. W. S. May; Food Conservation, Mrs. H. H. May; House Furnishings, Mrs. James Allen, assisted by Mrs. Bernice Allen; Home Beautification, Mrs. Travis Crawford; Home Gardens, Mrs. N. O. Hodges; Health, Mrs. Carl Crawford; Recreation, Mrs. B. L. Tyson; Loan Fund, Mrs. Thurman Page; Markets and 4-H, Miss Neet Allen. The subject for the meeting was "Judging and Scoring Flower Arrangements." There was a plant exchange following the meeting.

Speaks at Assembly. Mr. Edmund Harding of Washington, speaking in assembly at the college yesterday, concluded his speech with a program of music, leading the audience in some old familiar songs and accompanying them on his own accordion. "The Song in Your Heart" was the topic on which Mr. Harding based his remarks. Presenting the belief that everyone has a song in his heart, he gave as examples of this "Trees," as the song of the nature lover, "I Love You Truly" as that of the human lover, and "Just As I Am" as the song of the penitent. In trying to impress upon the college students the necessity of giving their best to the world, Mr. Harding told his audience not to get discouraged thinking everything has been done, because there are still plenty of things to do, plenty of songs to be sung. Mr. Harding believes that it is better to smile and laugh than to sigh and frown. In accordance with this belief, he remarked "It is better to be a smiling ass than a gruff ass." Since no two people are alike in personality and philosophy of life, it is to be expected, said Mr. Harding, that the songs in our hearts will be different. He advised each individual to pick his own song from his own heart. After making the encouraging statement, "Everybody can sing, even though some folks can't carry a tune," Mr. Harding invited the whole audience to join him in singing "Has Anybody Seen My Cat," "You Can Smile When You Can't Say a Word," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and "When I Grow Too Old To Dream."

Pressure Cookers. The following announcement is being made in home demonstration clubs this month: J. J. Make Others. On oyster shell crossing has been made at one place on Evans street so that people can get over without running the risk of being lost in the mud. It might be well to make more such crossings.

Back Home. His many friends will be glad to know that Jarvis Sugg reached home Friday night from the hospital at the University of Pennsylvania where he has been for six weeks. He comes home almost well of his troubles and while he is weak and thin in flesh, we hope he is on the way to good health.

Poultry School. Your attention is called to a district poultry school in the New Bern court house from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m., Wednesday, Feb. 15. C. F. Parrish, R. S. Dearstyne, C. G. Hostian and T. T. Brown will attend. There will be help with chick rearing, improving the farm stock through breeding, feeding, egg grading, candling, poultry diseases, exhibits and round table discussions. Pitt county men and women are urged to attend this meeting.

Score Cards. Score Cards have been prepared for each home demonstration member. Be sure to get your report started now—including all you have done since your 1938 report was turned in. Remember there is a prize for the best club report.

Flower Show. In preparing for the March flower shows we are judging and scoring arrangements in February. Please do not forget to bring an arrangement to the February meeting. You may be called upon to judge in March—and can help your club score fifty points.

Reading Lists. Reading lists are also being prepared for each member. Get your list and keep a record of what you read from this list. Several of the novels are running in current magazines. All who read and give three book reviews will receive reading certificates from the State Library Commission. There are always groups who would like to hear a good book review.

Lutheran Services To Be Conducted. Members of the Lutheran denomination will gather for worship at the Rotary club building tomorrow. The sermon at 11 o'clock, will be preceded by Sunday School at 9:45 o'clock. Arrangements have been made with the Rotary Club to conduct services in the building each Sunday morning. Decision to establish a Lutheran church here was reached after a careful survey was made of the entire community by Rev. R. L. Landeck, who will serve as pastor of the church. In connection with the establishment of services here, Rev. Mr. Landeck reviewed the history of the Lutheran church, as follows: Four hundred years ago the Christian Church experienced a great revival by which the whole face of Europe was changed. The act of God by which this spiritual awakening was brought about is known in history as the Reformation. The instrument thru which it was effected was the Word of God; the chief human agency was Martin Luther. The teachings of the Reformation were not new, but were the eternal truths of God as revealed in the Bible. These new teachings have been preserved and are being presented to the world today in their entirety by the Lutheran church. The Lutheran church is frankly conservative in theology. Its motto, "A Changeless Christ For a Changing World" is based on Scripture, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and forever." Lutheranism accepts the Bible as God's inspired word and stresses as the dominant note in its message the Gospel truth that pardon for sin is the free gift of God's mercy, offered to men in Christ and received by faith in the divine promises. It believes this Gospel to be "the power of God unto salvation" and relies upon its simple presentation to convert the hearts of men. The preaching of the Lutheran church is neither sensational nor shallow, but aims to give spiritual refreshment and instruction in the difficult art of applying the ethics of Christ to every-day living. The Lutheran church has confessions, or creeds, stating its position on all religious matters. The only authority for these creeds is the Bible, the Word of God. As a result of this you will not find Lutheran pulpits giving utterance to contradictory religious views, compelling people to ask, "Wonder BOOK LEARNIN' for congressmen has its own special arrangement in Washington, D. C., where a tunnel such as this in which H. S. Lincoln of the congressional library stands, speeds books and papers to the offices of waiting legislators. A carrier takes the books along a trolley rail in this tunnel, which is one-fourth of a mile long and 40 feet underground.

HE RINGS THE BELL—does Beau Bell in this glimpse of the St. Louis Browns outfielder and mules near San Antonio, Tex. Beau says he's getting in condition for baseball.

What this man's views are? True Lutheran pastors everywhere are proclaiming one and the same thing—the Bible. The Lutheran church is not a proselyting body. It has no intention of winning away from their churches those whose denominational loyalties are fixed. But Lutherans are convinced that their church has a message particularly to the tremendous number of unchurched in this country. For six years the Lutheran Laymen's League has financed a weekly coast-to-coast broadcast of Lutheran teachers. It is a simple matter to join the Lutheran church. The church expects that its members be acquainted with the principal teachings of the Bible and know why they call themselves Christians. It holds that people should not be admitted simply on a handshake and the promise to lead an exemplary life, without a knowledge of at least the fundamentals of Christianity. More Lutheran pastors arrange lecture courses at regular intervals on the fundamentals of the Christian religion in general and the position and practice of the Lutheran church in particular. Attendance at these discussions puts no one under any obligation to join the church. This method of preparing people for membership in the church is practical, thorough, honest, and fair, since it removes all possibility of joining a church blindly. It is our wish that the people of Greenville and vicinity who have no church home as yet avail themselves of this opportunity to know Christ, the divine Redeemer of mankind. Lutheran worship services will be conducted every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Rotary Club Building, located one block east of the hospital. Come, and bring your family and friends.

SHORT SHOTS
By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Feb. 3.—As the House adopted a resolution inviting King George and Queen Elizabeth to visit North Carolina, Representative Dan Tompkins rose to inquire: "Is there anything in it repealing the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence?"

Those who think abolishing absentee voting and markers would reduce the total vote in an election ought to talk just a minute to Cumberland's D. Lacy McBryde. "Why, in our county we repealed the absentee and all provisions for markers, we had a complete new registration, and then went out and cast about 10,000 votes in the next primary. The highest Cumberland ever had voted before was around 8,500."

Shortest and therefore among the best talks made at any committee came from Salisbury's C. A. Fink, State Federation of Labor president. Before the Election Law Group he said: "At Wilmington last summer our organization adopted a resolution for repeal of the absentee ballot law. Thank you, gentlemen, and sat down."

Representative McNair of Richmond woke up to realize that a bill amendment had been offered to the bill providing for donation of wireless liquor to hospitals, and he made a good speech against it. Only trouble was that the amendment had already been killed before "Doc" awoke.

The amendment would have permitted authorities to give the liquor to county homes "or other charitable purposes." Too many members feared the definition of charity.

Representative Bolwood of Currituck made one of the most effective speeches of the session Friday. He had just sent up a local bill dealing with his county school set-up. Speaker Ward asked him if he had anything to say. The general far-aster rose and said "I hope the bill passes." It did.

Paul Leonard, an ardent leader of the Fair Tax Association, reports that business people over the state are delighted with action of the appropriations committee this week in reducing so many suggested amounts for state expenditures. Much as Mr. Leonard and his outfit hates the state tax, he says that his members appreciate his appearance before the appropriations committee because for less expenditures, than his assaults on the sales tax. Supporting this belief, the head man of the Fair Taxers was sporting a new hat, the gift of a western Carolina merchant. Probably he made it clear that the hat was a gift and not a purchase upon the theory that petitioners for tax relief must make the poverty appeal. Mr. Leonard hardly expects to get any material change in the sales tax set-up at this session, but he says that a sentiment is deeper than some legislators think and that it may flare into an open political fight most any time.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

The Characters
Peter Malines: An adventurous young reporter.
Petronella: His loyal sister.
Tony Lance: British agent.

Yesterday: Peter goes to Germany for two weeks. At a cocktail party Peter meets Tony again and realizes there is no escape from loving him.

Chapter 16
Nazi Prison

"IT IS very good to see you again, Petrel. You're looking wonderfully well, and very, very attractive," he stood close to her, and spoke in a low voice.
"I'm glad to see you safely home again, Tony. After you left Rankoon," she admitted simply. "I used to read your accounts in the News. China must have been terrible."

"Yes, it still is. What are you doing in London?"
"Working," she told him. "This time she was able to tell him about Peter. He smiled when she told him why she had refused to introduce him in Rankoon.
"The News—my paper!" he mused. "I seem to have heard his name from Rowdon. He's not, by any chance, the fellow who—"

"Donkeys?"
"Was?"
"That was Peter!" They laughed.
"Well, Rowdon regards him as hopeful. He told me so himself.
"I'm terribly glad. He really said 'hopeful'?" Tony reassured her.
"Very hopeful! Did you carry on running that canteen, Petrel?"

"Till the trouble ended." They talked about Burma, about his new job. He was vague. "I think it is a stroke of luck Rowdon calls it, 'out of the frying pan'—But I think it should be extremely interesting." So it was also dangerous, thought Petronella. She asked him, because she had to know.
"Who is that attractive girl in gray, that you were talking to, by the fireplace, when I came in?" He turned, surprised.

"I don't know. Jane somebody or other. That's her husband with her, now, I believe. I'd only just met her. They've been in Shanghai."
Even in the rush of wonder and relief which she felt, Petronella realized that although her happiness was revived, this time, she had learned something invaluable. In the future, she would know what kind of clothes to buy!
"She looks charming." They were silent for a moment. She was so much afraid that he would leave first, that she put on her gloves.
"I must be going now. I have to catch a train from Victoria."

"I'll see you off. Have we time to walk through the park?"
"Yes, there are plenty of trees."
He could not leave her, thought Petrel, desperately, yet he would not say anything that mattered. They walked side by side, through the evening sunshine. The things they were saying had nothing to do with their thoughts. They walked apart.

Outside Victoria Station, he stopped, and bought her tickets of the valley from an old flower seller; they were pale leaved, beautiful.
He accompanied her on to the platform. He put her suitcase in the rack for her.
"Your luggage, I. I don't wait till the train goes. I ought to be dining with somebody fairly intimately at this very moment."
"Of course not. You must hurry," but she did not believe him.

Where There Is Trouble
"I'M LEAVING England tomorrow," he told her abruptly. "I may be abroad some time, again, so you see, Petrel—Petronella saw, perfectly. He and Peter, both abroad. She and James, left in England. She wondered if Tony even guessed at the existence of James. Anyway, it did not matter. She held out her hand. While he held it, she asked in a small, odd voice.
"Where, then, if ever, Tony?"
His reply was his explanation for this parting.
"In London, or anywhere there is trouble. So it must be London. As she sat in her train, traveling fast towards Ballfield, Petronella felt her anger against him rise, then die again. He wasn't fair to her. He had strengthened the bondage, then left her once more. Did he expect her to wait faithfully, for ever? Yet she did not blame him. He could not help himself. He had not said a single word to bind her. If she translated his thoughts for him, that was her fault. She was only nineteen. Though she felt so old, she was young. This love concerned the happiness of her whole lifetime. Wasn't it worth while waiting, and letting fate take its course, if necessary, for a few years longer? And James. Why couldn't you love conveniently, safely? She knew. Tony is the last man on earth I would love, if I could choose."

Petronella tried, once more, to look into the oneness of her future. Suppose Peter succeeded in Germany? Her interests, through him, would be similar to Tony's own. Was that more than a coincidence? She could only wait and see, she supposed. She must out her trust in that odd thing and are at the highest point in many years. As a result, the lumber "cut" is very heavy; cement and brick sales are good; and orders for structural steel are propping operations in the whole steel industry. Moreover, I expect building to hold these big gains this year, thus stimulating activity in the twenty-six allied industries.

January retail trade was, of course, off from the Christmas peak; but it held close to the relatively high volume of January, 1938. Much of my hope for a good year is pinned on retail sales. Naturally, we cannot have higher factory activity, more jobs, and bigger payrolls if goods do not move briskly after store counters. In this connection, I want to warn merchants and other business men:
You cannot expect to get your full share of the 1939 pick-up if you do not push your advertising. This time to spend money on air promotions is NOW rather than when business is booming!
Railroad Out Of 'Dod House'
The railroad situation is better. Expenses have been slashed drastically. There has been an encouraging pick-up in freight car loadings since last summer. The combination of these two factors has allowed many roads to pay all bills including interest on their bonds and still have a little money left over. Consequently, such carriers are beginning to buy new locomotives, freight cars, rails, and the like. A real burst of railroad buying might boost business into a prosperous period quicker than any other development.
The mining business looks a little uncertain to me. Last week I spoke about the failure of raw material prices to rise. This should help business, but temporarily it is tough on the mining regions. I cannot foresee any sharp gains in metal prices in the near future. They await more monetary inflation. Actually, the wind seems to be blowing toward a reduction in the 65-cent government price for domestically mined silver. I am not a mining expert, but this might benefit, rather than hurt, the copper and lead business.

No Change In Outlook
Summarizing: The recent developments on the domestic business front have been satisfactory. The first month of 1939 was the best January in nine years, excepting only 1937. Not one of the favorable factors which led me to predict a good year has changed. The European situation is no worse than a month ago; it simply is coming to a head. If business men keep their perspective and do not suddenly get a new "fear" complex, I see no reason why business should not continue to improve.

PHANTOMS WIN OVER OLD FOE

Score 39-14 Victory Over Washington's Pam Pack

By "SMUT" BURKS
In another one of those knock-down drag-out athletic affairs between Greenville and Washington, Coach Bo Fraley's Phantom cagers of Greenville high school, completely baffled the visiting Pam Pack five of Washington high school and registered a 39-14 win in the teams' second encounter played in the local gym last night.

In their first meeting, played in Washington, the G-Men won by a less impressive 20-10 count, but last night's result eliminated all doubt as to what team was superior on the basketball court.

Greenville completely dominated the play from the opening whistle. The visitors were unable to sink a field goal until two minutes before the first half whistle, and scored only five two-pointers during the entire game.

John Lautares, Phantom guard, made good a free throw for Kelly, the night's scoring, Rodman star forward on the invading quint, then counted on a foul shot to make the score 1-1. This was the only time that Washington was even close to the Phantom's lead. The Phantom's play was so effective that the visitors were unable to score until the second half. At this point the tilt was progressing at a blistering pace with both teams fighting desperately and playing very fast, apparently trying to run each other to death.

Displaying fine ball-handling and teamwork the locals had amassed a 16-1 margin before James Kelly, sparkling guard of the Pam Pack, finally hit the basket with only two minutes remaining in the first half and the half ended with Greenville in a comfortable 20-3 lead.

Play in the second half was equally as swift and spirited as it was in the first half. Although fighting a losing battle, the Phantoms were putting up a game fight and never let up a minute in their stubborn resistance.

James Jordan and Lautares combined their scoring efforts to give the Phantoms a 23-11 margin as the third period ended. Kelly and Robinson were the main scorers for the visitors during the second half—scoring eight of Washington's 11 tallies.

Although there was never a dull moment in the final quarter, the Greenville boys were taking it easy and coasted on to victory. Sakas, Jordan and Lautares hit the basket consistently in running up the Phantoms' margin. Sakas tallied on a free toss one minute before the final whistle to climax the night's scoring.

Lautares, star of Greenville's seven conference wins, was the outstanding cager in last night's battle, scoring 13 points and playing bang-up in the defensive end of the tilt. Jordan ranked next by chalking up 10 points, all of which were shots from action. McGowan, Sakas and James, Greenville's other starters, all played well and contributed their parts to the Greenville victory.

Kelly was the leader of the visitors' attack. He was their defensive star and made six points to capture top scoring honors. Rodman, with three tallies ranked next to Kelly.

The G-Men are now riding at the top of the conference standings and seem very capable of protecting their supremacy. Their next test is Tuesday night, when they will give the contest to meet the Red Devils of Kinston high.

of the absentee ballot and all its workings.
Taylor: Introducer of the bill which follows "suggestions" of the State Board of Elections. Thinks the absentee ballot ought to be retained in both primaries and general elections and believes it can be so safeguarded as to make it almost fraud-proof.
Vogler: Rather mild in his expressed reform views. He was the first to put in an election law bill at this session. It is not nearly so far-reaching or drastic in its provisions as the Taylor-sponsored bill.

Mull: A former chairman of the Democratic state committee and veteran of North Carolina's political wars who can make an extremely plausible, if not altogether convincing, argument for abolition of the absentee ballot in primaries, but its retention for the General election.

Marshall: A fellow who hasn't said a word in the committee meetings so far, but who is generally regarded as a status quo chap, one who isn't overly fond of the idea of giving anybody, particularly Republicans, any more of a break than absolutely necessary.

Of course Chairman Phillips of the full committee regards himself as an ex-officio member of the sub-group. He is a plain-speaking country lawyer who obviously wants to work out a bill which will give North Carolina honest elections and still the clamor which has echoed and re-echoed since the primaries of 1938.

Obviously, it is not going to be any easy matter to get full agreement in a group like this; but Mr. Phillips and many observers believe it will be accomplished.

To begin with, it can be written down as absolutely certain that some sort of election law reform bill is going to be enacted. That is, the committee will concede, there become apparent three other

Lynchburg Will Collide With ECTC Here Tonight

Lynchburg College will oppose Coach Gordon Gilbert's Pirates in a basketball game tonight at eight o'clock in the E.C.T.C. gym.
Plymouth high school's fast stepping varsity will supply the entertainment with the local Outlaws in a preliminary affair starting at 7 o'clock.

Tonight's contest will be the second tangle of the season for the schools and should be as thrilling as the last contest in which these teams participated.

Lynchburg recently edged a 42-40 verdict over the Pirates, who trailed at the half by a 23-20 disadvantage. However, both teams fought hard and furious during both periods.

One of the fastest forwards the Pirates have confronted this season is Cipolat of the opposing contingent. In a previous engagement, Cipolat tallied a combined total of 26 points. He has not lost any of his scoring technique and will retain his playing tactics in tonight's details.

The Pirates have participated in only one game during the past week and should have sufficient reserve strength for tonight. Despite the holidays, Coach Gilbert has sent his charges through daily practice paces to keep them in shape.

Don Brock and Bill Shelton are the probable scoring shiners for tonight, in that they did well against the Lynchburg Teachers in a previous affair. Brock, towering center, garnered 16 points in the contest, while Shelton a forward, was credited with 10.

One of the best teams in many seasons backs Lynchburg College of Lynchburg, and the local fellows will have to be on the alert every second to overcome them. Incidentally getting revenge for that last defeat will be the major objective of the locals.

JUNIORS TAKE EASY VICTORY

Baby Phantoms Defeat Washington's Junior Quint

Coach Herman Fuikerson's Baby Phantoms of Greenville high school defeated the junior packers of the Washington high school for the second time last night by the score of 26-6 in the first game of a doublet at 8 o'clock at the local high school auditorium. The Baby Phantoms won by a 20-5 margin in their first contest played in Washington.

Both teams got off to a slow start last night with Bill Turner, Baby Phantoms star, finally sinking an under-the-basket shot after three minutes had passed. Sheppard and Girard of the visitors came back with shots from action to forge ahead of the locals, 4-2. However, the Greenville juniors retaliated with a field goal by Turner and a gratis throw by Allen to lead 5-4 as the first quarter ended.

The locals put on the steam in the second period and held a commanding 11-4 margin as the game ended. Both teams were showing poor passing and ball-handling, which held the score to a minimum throughout the game.

Showering its visitors with a barrage of field goals, Greenville spurted to a 22-6 lead as the final minutes ticked off. Turner whipped the cords with a minute left in the game to make the final score 26-6.

Turner took point-making honors for the evening by garnering 11 points. Allen captured runner-up honors with four markers. Wells and Johnson, junior guards, each played a swell defensive game in limiting Washington to six points.

For the losers, Sheppard was best with four points and Girard made a field goal for Washington's other points.

Last night's win gives the local juniors a 500 average. They have collected wins over Washington twice and Kinston once, and were beaten by New Bern and Rocky Mount twice. They meet the Kinston juniors in a return engagement Tuesday night in Kinston. The game will be a preliminary affair to a varsity contest between the Greenies and Kinston.

possibilities—complete repeal of all absentee voting laws, repeal in primaries and reform for general elections, and reform without repeal for both.

There isn't more than an outside chance, at most, for absolute repeal—not even Mr. McBryde will contend there is. That leaves only the last two possibilities and it is between them

All but the latter call for repeal both in primary and general election, the last named would put Alexander under the convention system for local nominations and repeal the absentee for general elections.

NORTON GIRLS IN 25-15 WIN

ECTC Sextet Makes 1939 Debut With Blackstone College

By JAMES WHITFIELD
Coach Lucille Norton's East Carolina Teachers College sextet, not Coach Gordon Gilbert's Pirates, highlighted last night's athletic activities, at the local educational institution by announcing Blackstone Junior College 25-15 in the first home affair of the season for the girls.

Blackstone received her second setback in four starts on Virginia soil last week at the hands of the Norton-coached girls, who recorded a 29-13 triumph in the tangle. Last night's contest was a return Charleston, S. C.'s college of Charleston will oppose the E.C.T.C. girls in a game scheduled to be played here Wednesday, February 15. The locals will complete their four-game schedule for the season when the collide with Appalachian at Boone February 25.

Let's take a glance at last night's doings. Mary Lee Barbs, Blackstone forward, sank a basket exactly one minute after the game rose under way. Prue Newby, one of the locals top-ranking performers, duplicated her opponent's feat a minute later. In the latter part of the first phase, Coach Norton substituted a new string of players, who had chalked up a 12-9 advantage at intermission.

Mabel Wingo substituted by the Blackstone mentor, was responsible for creating a 12-12 deadlock two minutes after the half. Five minutes later, the score stood at 14-14. It had not changed when the third quarter ended.

Only one minute was required for Myrtle Hopkins, an E.C.T.C. player, to break the ice. From then on, there was plenty of action. The locals held Blackstone scoreless all but five seconds of the last quarter. Mabel Wingo fouled by Captain Ruth Parker, made her charity toss count.

Missionary Meeting.

The missionary mass meeting was well attended in Farmville, January 28. In spite of the rain, the local president, Mrs. Frances Tatum, gathered together her co-workers, Mrs. Dupree, secretary of the young women; Mrs. Mary Smith, supply captain, and Miss Ella Smith, junior missionary, and like true missionaries answered the roll call on time. After getting in Farmville they joined other missionaries from all parts of the Washington district. The day was well spent. Everybody came with new determination to "go a little further this year." Also the spirit of the Saviour Jesus Christ was felt throughout the meeting. When we came to the close of a perfect day, everybody was happy—Reported.
