STATE VOTE ON LIQUOR LOSS IN COMMERCE

Finance Group Unanimously Against Referendum

SENATE PASSES DIPHTHERIA BILL

Joint Sub-Committee On Finance Attempting to Raise $1,500,000 in Revenue

Raleigh, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The House Finance committee this afternoon unanimously gave an unfavorable report, which usually means death, to the Withrow bill to provide a state-wide referendum on prohibition.

The House group met early before a joint Finance session and acted quickly.

The bill would have held a state-wide vote May 6 and if voters expressed favor for prohibition sales of beer, wine and whiskey would have been banned after July 1.

Meanwhile the senate passed and sent to the house the long bill to require immunization against diphtheria of all children except those of religious objections.

The measure passed on a voice vote. Two years ago a similar proposal got senate approval and was killed in the House. There has been no indication what its reception will be in the lower division this session.

Senators adjourned to meet early tomorrow morning, at 8:30 then take buses to Wilmington for a week-end trip as guests of the city. The House will hold a "final bill" session tomorrow. Both divisions will resume regular business Monday night.

The joint sub-committee on finance worked hard trying to get revenue proposals in line which the senate passed last week. It is expected to raise about $10,500,000 for the biennium. The tax will fall that much below appropriation approved by a joint group.

Senators ordered enacted into law a bill designed to facilitate lease of the state-owned Atlantic and North Carolina railroad. It permits a corporation organized to lease an existing railroad to operate with a minimum $5,000 capital stock.

Only Two Face Trial Before City Recorder

Only two charges, one of drunkenness and one of larceny, were tried before Recorder L. C. Skinner in Municipal court this morning. Both defendants were Negroes.

Arthur Lanier was convicted of drunkenness and given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of court costs.

Herbert Neal was convicted of larceny of some coal, a pistol and a radio from the Joyner coal yard and was given a 12 months road sentence. The defendant appealed and bond was set at $100.

OWNERS OF THESE NEED YOUR HELP

What was left following a terrific tornado Tuesday night near Windsor is shown in the above pictures. The ruins in the top picture are those of the comfortable farm home in which Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Mizelle, Mr. and Mrs. Starkey Mizelle and Robert Lawrence were gathered around the fire for an after-supper talk just before the storm struck. Mr. Lawrence was killed. The wrecked homes below are of the numerous dwellings practically destroyed by the strong, whirling wind. STATE'S LABOR BILL OPPOSED

Committee Hears Eastern Carolina Business Men

Raleigh, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Business men of eastern North Carolina told a joint legislative committee today that proposed wage and hour legislation would ruin their businesses.

Appearing under sponsorship of the Eastern North Carolina Chamber of Commerce, merchants, filling station operators and operators of sawmill operations, a butcher and a garage operator assailed pending bills.

N. G. Bartlett, secretary of the commerce body, summed up the arguments with the statement: "Enactment of these wage and hour proposals would add to the unemployment situation in eastern North Carolina tremendously."

The North Carolina Association of Building Contractors and operators and the state association of laundries also appeared in opposition to the pending measures to put a floor under wage and a ceiling on hour in inter-state business similar to the federal regulations in inter-state commerce.

Bartlett presented the following: Alex Watkins, lumberman of Henderson, who said the bill would "cripple" the lumber industry; J. L. Price, Littleton merchant, who said he would be forced to reduce his personnel from 12 to six persons; M. C. McPherson, Littleton bottler, who said he would be forced out of business; W. D. Oliver, Jr., Pine Level merchant; L. E. Mitchell, Littleton sawmill operator; G. S. May, filling station operator at Littleton; W. H. Herring, Roseboro lumberman; J. W. Davenport, Whitakers lumberman; and W. C. Ormand, Ayden theatre operator. Davenport said the federal wage hours act had forced him to close one mill and stop any dealings in inter-state commerce.

Tax On Bootleg Whiskey Would Involve Problems

By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, Feb. 24.—Senator John Umstead has shown a remarkably co-operative spirit toward the Finance committees in suggesting ways through which they might raise more revenue out of taxes or profits on liquor. His latest offering is a bill providing for a tax of two dollars a gallon on all liquor manufactured, sold, kept for purpose of sale or transported in North Carolina in violation of any of the laws of the state.

His bill states that no part of it is to be construed as modifying or repealing any of the criminal laws now on the statute books, but is an added penalty for getting caught. The two dollars would be collected by the Department of Revenue and would go into the general fund. Senator Umstead offers no estimate of the amount of revenue to be produced, but thinks that it would be considerable.

The serious difficulty, of course, will, come in collection of the tax. Peace officers admit that they can't do a great deal more than they are doing about bootleg liquor. Convictions in court are not in very large ratio to the number of arrests, and without conviction the Umstead tax could not be collected. Usually when conviction is obtained it is upon evidence of sale or possession of a small quantity of liquor, so the tax would not be very much if collected in every case.

The bill has one more objection, an objection being increasingly emphasized by "dries." And that is the fundamental objection to bringing liquor into the taxing system of the state as a basic source of revenue. Many so-called wets, along with the equally mis-named dries, believe that if the state or any of its subdivisions sell liquor the entire profits from such sale should be used for enforcement of liquor laws. Control rather than revenue is their aim.

The American Red Cross immediately took over the work of rehabilitation and relief there but funds in addition to those sent from national headquarters are needed to carry on this work and a call has been issued for contributions by J. N. C. AIR BASE FAILS TO GET SECOND PLANE

Request for Additional Long-Range Craft Denied

BASE LOCAT'D AT ELIZABETH CITY

Dr. Reynolds Asks For More Federal Money to Fight Venereal Diseases

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The House Appropriations committee today rejected a Treasury department's request for $177,000 to provide for an additional long-range plane for the Coast Guard air base now under construction at Elizabeth City, N. C.

The committee, in reporting the annual Treasury appropriation bill to the House, carrying money for the Coast Guards, said the one long-range plane already authorized for the station would be adequate.

It pointed out funds were available to assure a total of two small planes, two of intermediate type and one of the long-range character at Elizabeth City.

Rear Admiral R. R. Woesche, Coast Guard commander, asked the additional long-range plane as a safety measure.

Meanwhile Dr. Carl Reynolds, North Carolina State Health officer, asked Congress to appropriate additional funds to stamp out "this dreaded monster, syphilis."

In a letter published in hearings on the treasury department's appropriation bill, Dr. Reynolds estimated there were 300,000 syphilitic and 750,000 gonorrhoea cases in North Carolina.

New cases were said to be reported at the rate of 4,000 a month. He declared available funds would be "wasted" if additional money was not provided.

Also, the "same boys" who made moonshine during prohibition are at it again.

This was the explanation Congress received today for the large number of illicit stills seized in the Carolinas and other southern states during the 1938 fiscal year.

Published testimony on the 1940 Treasury appropriation bill, which includes the money request for the alcohol tax unit, disclosed North Carolina ranked third and South Carolina fourth among the states in the number of seizures.

Only Alabama and Georgia top the two states. North Carolina seized 911 stills, while the South Carolina number was 675.

The hearings disclosed Representative Taber, (R-N.Y.) asked if a different class of people were operating the stills now than in prohibition days.

"It is the same boys" replied Stewart Berkshire, deputy commissioner of the alcohol traffic unit.

Paris, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Chamber of Deputies today gave Premier Daladier a vote of confidence, supporting his decision to ask the cabinet Monday to grant full recognition to the Nationalist government of Spain. The vote was 323 to 251.

The vote on which Daladier made a question of confidence was on the government's demand that interpellations by the French Chamber in regard to recognizing Gen. Franco's regime be put off indefinitely.

It followed Daladier's statement to the Chamber that "I intend to propose to the cabinet on Monday to recognize legally the government of General Franco."

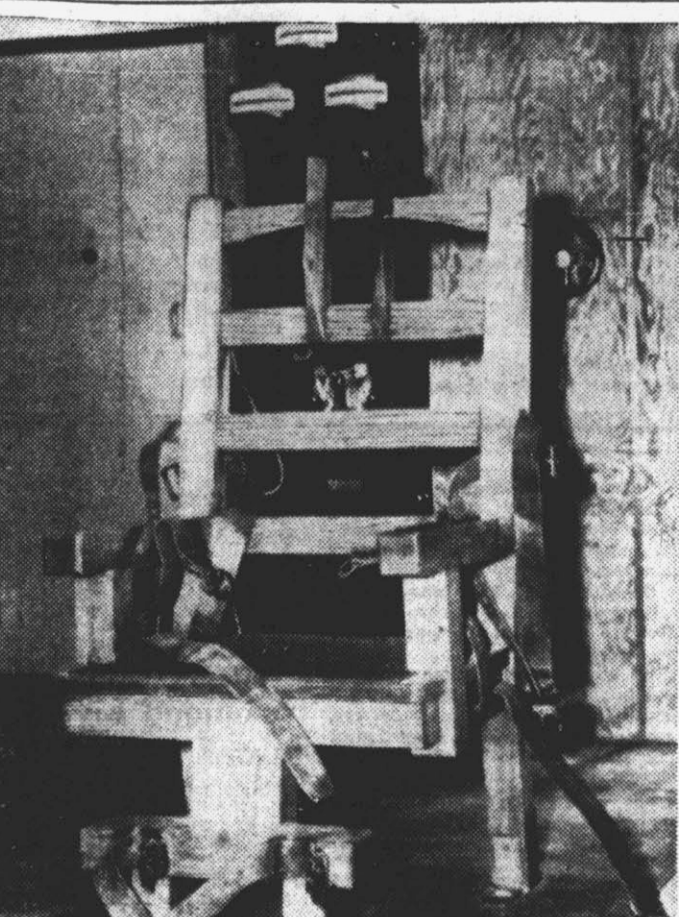

The way this was cleared formally for recognition by the French cabinet Monday, with announcement of the action to be made jointly with Britain, whose cabinet was understood already to have decided on recognition.

The Chamber's vote was expected to whip the few dissenting members of Daladier's cabinet into line when he puts the question before them.

Daladier rallied his majority in the Chamber against the demand of the Leftist People's front, that the recognition issue be fully debated in Parliament before Monday's cabinet meeting.

The Leftist, led by Deputy Ferial of the Socialist Republican union, opened an attack on the government in a final effort to block (Continued on page six)

WHERE McCALL WAS EXECUTED

McCall Dies In Chair For Abduction-Murder

Executed At 11:08 Following Four Day Stay

Raiford, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Franklin P. McCall was put to death in the electric chair today for the fatal kidnaping of five-year-old James B. Cash, Jr., at Princeton, Fla., last May.

The switch was thrown at 11:08. McCall was electrocuted just four days short of nine months from the time he kidnaped the lad.

Admitted in open court that he alone stole "Skeegie" and collected $10,000 ransom from the father, McCall insisted he did not want to harm his victim and had smothered him accidentally.

The execution first was set for last Monday. Seventy minutes before the scheduled hour, L. F. Chapman, state prison farm superintendent, announced a delay until today.

The delay was given to permit McCall's attorneys to seek a stay through the United States Supreme court. They were turned down by two justices in Washington late yesterday and also lost another series of last-minute moves to halt the execution.

McCall's pretty young wife visited him this morning, departing dry-eyed after remaining at the cell about half an hour.

Pitt County Farmers Join In Hog Shipment

Nineteen Pitt county farmers shipped 200 hogs, weighing 43,580 pounds on Wednesday, the sale being made through competitive bidding and sponsored by the livestock cooperative association.

One hundred and sixty to 225-pound top hogs brought $7.50 fo. b. Greenville.

The Foreign Policy Association estimates that 60 nations spent $17,600,000,000 on naval and military preparations in 1938.

Diphtheria Immunization Bill Brings Forth Fight

Briefly the bill makes it compulsory for parents and guardians of children between the ages of six and twelve months to have them vaccinated against diphtheria. They would be denied admission to public schools without such immunization. Provision is made for the service to be performed without cost to the child, his parents or guardian.

The committee suggested an amendment making exceptions and exemptions from the law discretionary with the county board of health. Dr. Long's idea is that local boards would respect the religious convictions of local citizens. Senators Gold and Price offered an amendment very specifically exempting from the law "recognized members of any religious denomination the tenets of which disapprove of medical treatment and belief in faith healing."

The Senate adopted that amendment, though further consideration of the whole bill was deferred and the action may later be changed.

APPROVE FUND FOR PURCHASE OF RAW GOODS

Military Committee Votes $100,000,000 For Imports

NEED MATERIALS FOR ARMAMENTS

Sen. Thomas Declares World Conditions 'Make This Measure Very, Very Timely'

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Senate Military committee approved unanimously today a bill by Senator Thomas (D-Utah) authorizing expenditure of $100,000,000 during the next four years for the acquisition of strategic raw materials, many of which must be imported by this country.

Senator Thomas said a board, consisting of the Secretaries of War, Navy, Interior and State, would be authorized to designate the strategic materials and would be empowered to encourage the development of substitutes for them.

An authorization for a $500,000 expenditure during the year four years, $550,000 by the Bureau of Mines and $150,000 by the Geological Survey also was included to finance the development of raw materials in this country.

Although the measure was not included in the administration's rearmament program, Thomas said it was allied closely with it.

"World conditions make this bill very, very timely," Thomas said. Similar measures are pending in the House.

The House, meanwhile, commenced work on another big annual supply bill, a $1,700,471,254 measure, to run the Treasury and Post Office departments.

Although slashed about $28,000,000 below the budget estimates by the Appropriations committee, which has the session started, the measure was about $197,000,000 larger than last year's whacking at money bills since year's.

Other developments: Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) charged before the Senate Agriculture committee that short sellers of cotton were pressing for release of government loan cotton in an attempt to cash in on a price decline.

The outcome of a modified bill empowering President Roosevelt to plan a reorganization of the government was clouded by Republican opposition and uncertainty as to the attitude of economy advocates. Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.) said it would give the President too much power. Senator Byrd (D-Va.) who argues that the administration's original program did not emphasize economy sufficiently, withheld comment.

Christian Philosophy Subject Of Minister

In the second sermon of a ten-day preaching mission at the Christian Church Mr. Fred W. Heifer last night discussed the salient feature of "Christian Philosophy" and applied them to modern man.

"Christian philosophy sees man as a significant creature—a creature of greatness whose background is one of deity and infinite greatness," states Mr. Heifer as he developed the importance of this thought in developing the spirit of humility the Christian must also encourage the value and sacredness of his own personality.

Declaring that the ever-present fact of God is the first fact in the Christian creed, Rev. Heifer stressed the necessity of constantly reminding oneself of this in order to forget self and think in terms of merging our thoughts with God's. "The fact of God gives us infinite hopefulness because God is we can face life with a vigorous faith."

"Another theme in the Christian philosophy is the emphasis on happiness," declared Mr. Heifer. "Serenity comes from engaging in the conflict of life. It may result from becoming master of one's habits; it may result from a spirit of thoroughness or it may come from the spirit of sharing. Happiness ever comes from active expressions of one's character."

Distinctions, which emanate from mere culture, Mr. Heifer impressed his audience with the fact that love and appreciation of man is the distinguishing characteristic of Christian culture. "Without this love and appreciation there is neither Christianity nor culture."

A third point of emphasis in "Christian Philosophy" is the great ness of purpose to which one may cling as he faces the realities of life. Among the high purposes stressed, Mr. Heifer placed first among man's privileges that of loving God and one's neighbor.

Little Theatre To Present Plays.

The three-one act plays which are being given by the Greenville Little Theatre will be presented this evening at 8:15 in the high school auditorium.

The first play on the program will be "Charleston Detour," written by Mrs. E. T. Robeson. This is a story of a North Carolina family which is composed of two sons, both married and Martha, their sister. Here, the boys' mother, has just died, and the play is centered around the will she has left. Telfaire, played by Bancroft Moseley, is the youngest son and is a definite playboy. His wife, Peggy, is a northern girl who is decidedly modern and up to date in every way. Louis, the other brother, enacted by Charles Woodward, is more of a business type person. Susan, his domineering wife, is played by Elizabeth Kasey. Martha, enacted by Mozelle Jones, is the spinster sister who has been left to the care of these two couples who do not want her until they find that she has inherited the family property. She solves the problem by calmly announcing that she is to be married to Dr. Parks, thus leaving the poor brothers in a turmoil.

"The Lampshade," the next play, is a dramatic murder story of two lifelong friends, both being lawyers. Sir John, played by Richard Walker, is a criminal lawyer of great fame and Wey, his friend, played by Paul Fitzgerald, is a member of Parliament. Muir, played by Mrs. W. L. Hall, is the housekeeper of Sir John. This is a tense play and holds the audience until the end which turns out most unexpectedly.

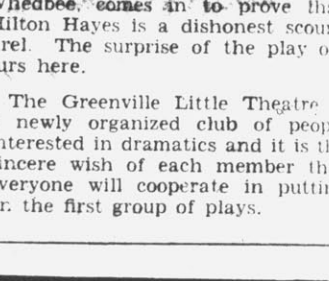

"He Ain't Done Right By Nell," the last play, is an old fashioned melodrama. Little Nell, played by Annie Laurie Askew, lives in the hills with her Granny Perkins, enacted by Mrs. Vance Perkins. This play is centered around the invention that "Paw Perkins" left when he died. Hilton Hayes, played by Dr. James Hayes, is the villain who has come to work in the Carleton mills located in Nell's home town. Upon learning of the invention he woos Nell even though he is engaged to Vera Carleton, the daughter of the owner of the mills, played by Mrs. Nina James Guy. Jack Fagan, our hero, is played by Marshall Starkey. He and Nell are to be hitched, but Hilton claims that Nell has no right to the name of Perkins. The village gossip, Lolly Williams, played by Mabel Beaman, adds much spice to the story. In the end, Burkett Carleton, played by Charles Whedbee, comes in to prove that Hilton Hayes is a dishonest scoundrel. The surprise of the play occurs here.

The Greenville Little Theatre is a newly organized club of people interested in dramatics and it is the sincere wish of each member that everyone will cooperate in putting on the first group of plays.

"Jeeter Lester"

John Barton went to England to play six weeks in the music halls and remained twenty five years. The noted actor who will be seen as Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road" when the famous stage play is presented at the Wright Auditorium February 27 and 28 heads the only company on tour.

Few players have had as interesting a career as the portrayal of the philosophic and shiftless old squire-cropper of Jack Kirkland's history-making play John Barton had his early training in his father's theatres in Baltimore, Richmond Va., and Norfolk, and his initial stage role was the tradition ally humorous one of Marke, the lawyer, in "Uncle Tom's Cabin". Then he hastened across the continent to act for David Belasco in San Francisco and after that toured with Joseph Murphy in "Kerry Gow" and in the favorite comedy melodrama of its day, "On the B. Very."

With this sound dramatic training for background he then returned to vaudeville where he remained for thirty years. During his quarter of a century in Great Britain he made two world tours, visiting South Africa, India and Australia. Among the comedy sketches in which he has appeared are "Canal Boat Sal", "Adam the Second", "Money Talks", "Back to Earth", "Some Doctor", "The Walking Delegate" and "It Won't Be Long Now."

Returning to this country Barton toured the Keith and Orpheum circuits with his wife, Ann Ashley. His popular, James, the present Broadway portrayal of Jeeter in "Tobacco Road" acted with him in a musical comedy "When Summer Comes" and in two talking pictures "Ole Man Murphy" and "The Show Is On". In the early days John Barton starred in a comedy film, "Lost in the Swim" which Harry Pollard directed.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

by GRACE ELLIOTT TAYLOR

The Characters Peter Mallone Adventurous Journalist. Felonella His sister. James Randall Their childhood friend.

Chapter 33 James

THE bell on the bright red door of the shop rang for the hundredth time this afternoon. James entered, and stood on the threshold of the warm, bright, steamy interior, looking with satisfaction at the gay decorations, the hanging lines of calendars, the shelves of quaint gifts and toys.

time in London. Who have you been seeing, there? Colin? "Yes, he is engaged to Jean Grant. They're very happy. And I've been seeing father, Margold, Martin Rowdon, Molly and her husband; isn't he awful? Several people who are home on leave. All my old friends, in fact. I meant to visit Clare Horton. She was sent home, ill. She's in a nursing home. But I doubted whether she'd remember me, and I simply didn't find time."

"Then that doesn't answer the question. There is no one special?" "No, James."

"You could have invited them all to the cottage, in turn, and rung the News, at all hours, about Peter, without leaving Ballfield. Why didn't you stay, and try to get to know me again?"

"Because I saw you had been getting on very well without me, while I was away. I didn't want to spoil anything," she said briskly. "I felt what I suppose I am outsiders. He flushed. "You're absurd. There has never been a thing. Of course, I'm very fond of her. I've tried to instill some organization into this business. That is all."

James stepped up behind her. He could never resist teasing Tamara. Everything she did seemed to invite it. His face took on an expression of deep gravity.

"I'd no idea. I hadn't heard. So young?"

"That poor Petrel had joined the celestial choir!"

"Stupid! She is up in the stock room, bringing me more Christmas cards, because they are all selling out. Hardly any of my modern cards. In Ballfield they like like men, they prefer angels. I can't talk to you now. Go away! Help, Petrel!"

"With the angels? Certainly!" He pretended he had not understood her jealous little thrust. He went up the murky, narrow stairs, that led to the three-room flat where Tamara and her father lived. Petrel had been home all the week, helping them. She and Colonel Mallone were going to be at the Cottage for Christmas. Peter, so far as James knew, was still in Russia. Petrel was worried because he was still with Lance. He did not blame her. What she had seen of his work had not been reassuring. He could not help being glad of her new abhorrence. But he must make the most of his opportunity of seeing her. Petrel was, for some reason, unapproachable these days. She was self-assured, yet shy, friendly, yet evasive. She was tricky. With Tamara busy in the shop downstairs, she should not make any excuse, this time, to leave him with his questions unanswered.

He found her packing a tray to take down to Tamara.

"Tamara is having a boom!" her voice was impersonal. She looked away, refusing to meet his eyes, and picked up her tray. But he was not going to let her bolt, this time. James blocked the doorway, and took it from her. He felt awkward, but determined. Petrel could not have changed - not really.

"That is too heavy for you, and it's too heavy, because you're in too much of a hurry." He adjusted the boxes of colored notepaper. He set a round-eyed doll on the top of the pile.

"She reminds me of you, these days—that glassy stare."

"We Have Changed"

HE MADE a move towards her, but Petronella evaded his arm.

"It isn't Christmas yet."

"And that isn't a promise," he challenged. "Look here, Petrel, when I suddenly came home, and explained why I thought a lot of apparently foolish things, I'm going to confess to you, I thought, 'At last the girl has come to her senses. She appreciates me as I deserve. She has come home to me!'"

"It was my fault you felt that—at first," she admitted.

"It is the way fools jump to conclusions."

"No, I saw it like that, too; on the rebound. Now, I see it more clearly. We have both changed, James."

"You mean something happened to make you change your mind?"

"In a way."

"Petrel," he besought her, "soon after you came home, I went for a walk, and looked at that house they are building on the Ridge. I sold out my risky investments, and bought gilt-edged. I refused to join a party for winter sports. Was I really mad?"

"I don't know. That's why I've been trying to avoid having this answer. Because I don't know the answer. And I want to be honest."

"Instead of behaving to my schedule, you spent most of your

FIGHT CERTAIN ON TRADE BILL

Graham-Backed Bill Sure to Face Opposition

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, Feb. 24—This session of the legislature has been remarkable for the number of cases in which expected opposition to various measures has collapsed like a pricked balloon when the time for decisive action, but as of today it seems safe enough to predict that Sandy Graham isn't going to be able to lobby the so-called Fair for maybe it's unfair Trade measure through the House with the same ludicrous ease with which it was eased through the Senate.

There seems to be an unusually large number of House members who "don't know anything about it" but from others who have taken time out to look into the bill there now come distinct rumblings of a brewing storm.

Durham's Victor Bryant, who a few days ago took a great deal of umbrage at Speaker Ward for snatching the bill away from J-2 shifting it to J-1 says that the measure is going to get the closest kind of scrutiny before getting through the House, while Pat Kimzey, of Transylvania, and Rupert Pickens of Guilford were frank to say they think, at this stage, that it's a bad bill and ought not to pass. And so unless there is another one of the surprising collapses referred to in paragraph one of this piece, there ought to be a pretty floor fight on the measure. Speaker Ward's action appears to have assured the measure of a favorable report.

The bill has been repeatedly described as "aimed at chain stores" yet one of the strangest phenomena is being recorded right now if that is, in truth and in fact, the case. To date not one peep or squawk has been heard from any chain in opposition. It may be, as some contend, that the bill should really be entitled "An act to increase the profits of chain stores and to sock the ultimate consumer right where he usually gets socked."

Windsor Rebels 14-13 in a hard-fought game to open last night's proceedings. Although the Martin county boys held a 5-4 lead at the half, their advantage was never relinquished.

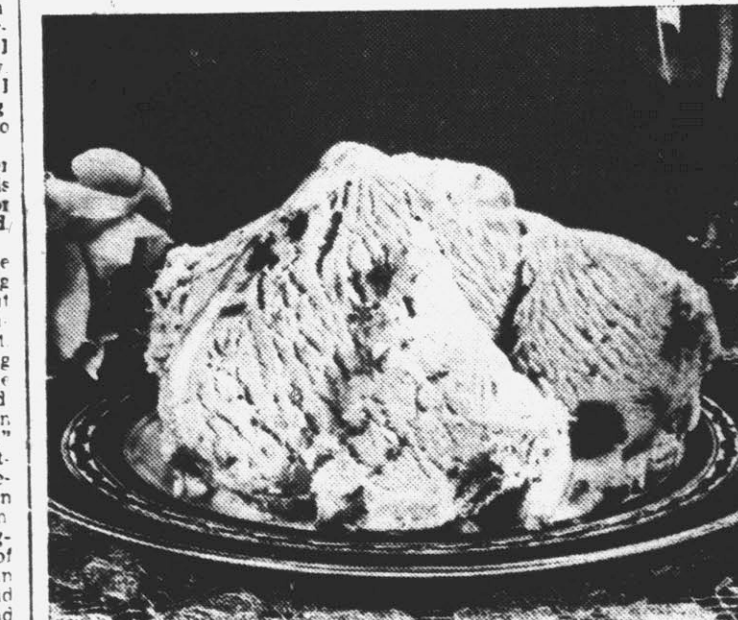

No particular player did any outstanding scoring—the score will vouch for that—but Love shot 8 points to feature the attack of the "weather beaten" lads, while Anderson bagged 6 points to set the pace for the winners.

Wilson's Bulldogs ploughed thru a severe E.C.T.C. Outlaw attack to the tune of 28-25 to garner a berth in tonight's finals. The boys from Wilson were in front 16-10 at intermission. Holloman scored eight points to take Wilson's scoring laurels. Reddick with 10 and Hatem with 9, were best for the Outlaws.

Trenton will clash with Wilson in tonight's major finals engagement, and the E.C.T.C. Outlaws will oppose the Williamston Martins in the consolation game, who were subdued 33-17 at the hands of Trenton in the last game, on the card last night.

The winners were ahead 16-12 at the half and permitted their opponents to score only one point the rest of the route. Donald Brock scored 16 points to feature the Trenton attack. Anderson with 5 was high scorer for the losers.

BELK-TYLER'S GREENVILLE'S BARGAIN CENTER

Royster Guarantees Three More Tobacco Plant Foods

Blazes Industry Trail With Definite Guarantee of Exact Amounts of Calcium, Sulphur and Magnesia As Well As Primary Plant Foods.

By S. F. THORNTON, Ph. D.
Much of the research work on the fertilizer needs of crops which has been conducted both on Governmental and private test farms and in laboratories, has in recent years centered on the necessity of supplying, in fertilizers, other plant foods than those heretofore considered necessary.

In the past, it has been assumed that phosphorus, nitrogen or ammonia and potash were the only necessary elements for a good fertilizer, but it is now known that these three elements alone do not give plants a well rounded diet any more than do cornbread and meat to human beings.

The story behind this research is as thrilling as a detective story.

It is now generally recognized that fourteen different plant food elements are necessary for proper plant growth and fruiting. These elements are carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, phosphorus, sulphur, calcium, magnesium, potash, iron, manganese, copper, zinc and boron.

Carbon, hydrogen and oxygen, which make up about 90 per cent of the plant weight, are present in air and water so that it is not necessary to supply them in fertilizers.

Of the 11 essential elements that plants obtain from the soil all are important. However, their availability and the quantities required permit their being grouped as follows:

1-Primary plant food elements: Nitrogen, Phosphorus, Potassium.
2-Secondary plant food elements: Calcium, Magnesium, Sulphur.
3-Minor plant food elements: Iron, Manganese, Copper, Zinc, and Boron.

Nitrogen, phosphorus and potash are needed by growing crops in large amounts and are the plant food most likely to be deficient in soils. For this reason, they have been looked on in the past as the only one necessary to be supplied artificially.

Next in rank according to crop needs are calcium, magnesium and sulphur. For a long time the necessity of these plant food elements has been known, but it has been assumed that they were adequately present in the soil or were supplied by ordinary fertilizer materials in sufficient quantities. Recent investigations, however, have shown that they are not present in many soils in sufficient quantities and that many of the newer fertilizer materials contain less of these foods than the materials which they replaced. This makes the supplying of these elements, in sufficient quantities, a problem that must be met, and agronomists agree that any fertilizer to be general satisfactory must contain these elements.

Iron, manganese, copper, zinc and boron are required by plants in only very small amounts and often are toxic in appreciably higher concentrations. These elements usually are present in the soil in amounts that are adequate for all crop requirements.

Through constant field testing and its own research facilities, the F. S. Royster Guano Company has kept well informed of these developments, and as the investigation progressed, has met with improved fertilizers all plant food needs indicated.

This year Royster announces its definite guarantee of the three secondary plant food elements (calcium, sulphur, and magnesium) in its fertilizers, thus leading the industry in a guarantee of all plant foods necessary to proper growth of crops that are not usually supplied in adequate amounts in the air, water or soil.

EAT WHAT YOU WANT, BUT GET ESSENTIALS FIRST

Chicago-(AP)—A person should eat what he wants—after he eats what he needs, said Prof. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University in a speech here.

Each member of the family should have a quart of milk daily, or its equivalent in cheese, butter or other dairy products, he said.

They should also be given two salads, two servings of cooked leafy vegetables, one serving of meat, fish or poultry, four eggs a week and some fresh fruit or fruit juice.

After that is done the person should eat the things he likes best.

HOSPITAL FACILITIES CROWDED

The doctor's office-hospital combined at Windsor was taxed to capacity by victims of the tornado which struck in Bertie county Tuesday night. Crowded in the building were all members of some families. Additional beds and supplies had to be provided to take care of those injured in the tornado, which claimed four lives.

HIGHS PREPARE CLOSE SEASON

Final Game Scheduled With Wilson There Tonight

By "SMUT" BURNS
Greenville high school's basketball five, winners of the Eastern conference title, will close its 1939 schedule tonight when they meet the Wilson Cyclones of Charles L. Coon high school in Wilson. In the preliminary the Greenville lasses will collide with the Wilson set.

Last Tuesday night the Wilson teams swept a double-header from the Greenies in the local high school gym. The visitors set too hot a pace for the locals and both Wilson representatives won handily.

Tuesday's defeat at the hands of Wilson's Class A entry was the Phantom's second set-back of the season. Goldsboro upset the G-Men earlier in the season by a 16-14 score.

Coach Boley Farley's proteges will enter tonight's game as the underdogs, due to Wilson's previous win over them. However, this may be in their favor, since underdog teams very often upset the favored outfit. The Greenies will not be cocky when they face the Wilsonites tonight, but will enter the fray knowing they have a tough fight on their hands. The G-Men are determined to even the two-game series between the two schools and to show everyone that they can whip a class A team as well as any other team.

Coach Leon Brogden will be depending on Cockrell, deceptive forward, to lead the Coon cagers to a second victory over the Eastern champs. Cockrell paced the visitors' attack with 8 points in Wilson's 33-20 win over Greenville in their first clash. J. B. Hinson and Whitley will be other starters on the Wilson quint who will give the locals plenty of trouble.

Coach Farley has announced that if a head guard may be secured to protect the head injury received in Tuesday night's contest, Joan Lautares, stellar guard on the Phantom quint, will start in tonight's game. Lautares' absence from Tuesday's game was noticeably missed and his reinstatement will probably make tonight game a different story altogether. George Sakas, Larry James, Tracey Jordan and Ford McGowan will help Lautares carry G. H. S. hopes into tonight's season finale.

Since lambs and sheep are easily dressed, it is possible to have this good fresh meat often on the farm.

HORSE THAT LIKES LIGHT HARRASSES ITS OWNER

The electric light bills of Rex A. Smith of Abilene are mounting because of his polo mare, Punkin.

Punkin suddenly took a liking to bright lights and turns them on by herself. The lights are the kind with a cord-pull switch and Punkin learned that by jerking the cord with her teeth she gets illumination. Frequently Smith has awakened in the night to discover the stable lights ablaze. He plans to install a different type of switch to remedy the situation.

WHAT SHOULD A GOOD FERTILIZER CONTAIN?

A Very Interesting Question And One That Most Every Farmer Has Asked One Time or Another

Dr. J. J. Skinner of the United States Department of Agriculture, a well-known and outstanding authority on agricultural matters, answered it very well in his article on "Improved Fertilizers for Southern Soils" published in "The Progressive Farmer." Dr. Skinner says in part: "To summarize, the specifications of an improved fertilizer may be stated as follows:

"(1) The fertilizer should contain adequate amounts of calcium, magnesium and sulphur, as well as the so-called commercial plant foods—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

"(2) All the plant food elements should be completely available to the crop and at the same time as far as possible, resistant to excessive loss by leaching.

"(3) The continued use of the fertilizer should not have a harmful effect on the soil such as making it too acid."

FOR SMOKING PLEASURE AT ITS BEST - LET UP... LIGHT UP A CAMEL

15 TELEPHONE CALLS PER MINUTE, 7200 in each day that she's on duty is the average number of calls Josephine Shelley puts through on a big, busy switchboard. Plenty of nerve strain in a job like that! No wonder she welcomes a restful pause with a mild, tasty Camel now and then. Miss Shelley says:

WHEN REST PERIODS COME ALONG, I ENJOY LETTING UP AND LIGHTING UP A CAMEL. CAMELS ARE SO MILD AND MELLOW. I LOVE THEIR RICH, RIPE TASTE. AND THEY NEVER GET ON MY NERVES!

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Feb. 24 - (AP) - The stock market shuffled into rallying territory today with leaders chalking off gains running to a point or so and a few registering new highs for more than a year.

After a fairly free opening, dealings slackened and a smattering of profit-taking reduced best prices near the fourth hour.

Bonds showed signs of improvement.

DIFFERENCE IN LABOR'S SHARE

Sharp Contrast Shown In Division Gross Receipts

Raleigh, Feb. 24 - The Finance committee yesterday heard two as sharply contrasting sets of figures regarding labor's share in gross receipts of two businesses as it is possible to imagine.

It heard, on the one hand, the statement of Charles W. Tillett that 64 per cent of all the receipts of the great Western Union telegraph company are spent for labor; while at the other end of the line it heard representative U. S. Page read from the income tax returns of a North Carolina headache remedy company figures indicating that this concern paid to its employees about 6.4 per cent of its gross receipts.

Mr. Page did not name the company, but in the hearing it was clearly indicated he referred to the B-G Remedy Company of Durham for which former Congressman Bill Umstead appeared in opposition to a proposal to levy a tax of one cent on every five cent package of its product sold in the state.

Mr. Tillett was arguing for a reduction in the proposed tax on the Western Union, which he said would be about $2,000 higher by reason of a proposal to include in the gross receipts of the company, upon which a six per cent franchise tax is levied, its receipts from messenger service.

It was apparent that one of the bitterer fights of the Finance committee will be waged around the headache remedy tax proposal. In its present form it is proposed to make a special levy on all remedies which contain acetanilide.

Mr. Page is one of its principal sponsors and any campaign in which he enlists immediately takes on added spice.

An effort to table the whole matter was made at yesterday's session, but was defeated, after which the proposal was referred to a subcommittee for study and report.

Page, in supporting the proposal to tax the remedies, read into the committee record copies extracted from the income tax returns of the company which he called "No. 1." The returns showed that gross receipts amounted to $1,130,174.30, with gross profits of more than $989,000 - a sum which was, of course, reduced by other expenses.

The returns showed, however, that for salaries of employees the total amount expended was $71,886.21, while no less than $421,000 was expended for "advertising." Other items revealed that the raw materials from which the remedy was compounded cost but slightly more than $21,000. The total cost of production figures were cited as $140,290.58.

Mr. Page estimated that the tax on this type remedy would yield "nearer a quarter million than a hundred thousand dollars a year."

Mr. Umstead did not go into details of the Page figures, but did comment on a $32,000 attorney fee item "I'm sorry they spent that big amount so soon" after pointing out that all of it was spent before "my firm was employed for this hearing."

RESIGNS POST AS ETC COACH

Alexander Leaving to Supervise Vast Farm Lands

By JAMES WHITFIELD
Coach J. D. Alexander today announced that he had resigned as head of the Physical Education Department of East Carolina Teachers College to accept a position as supervisor of real estate with the R. F. Swenson estate of Oklahoma and Texas.

Since President L. R. Meadows is cut of town, acceptance of the resignation could not be confirmed, but Coach Alexander said that it had been accepted and would become effective March 15. He said the new position would provide a considerable increase over his present salary. Farms covering 48 counties in Oklahoma and Texas will be under his supervision.

Coach Alexander, who declared, "I am giving up coaching entirely," came to East Carolina Teachers College September 1, 1937 to head the Physical Education department. During his stay in Greenville, he has done much to promote athletic development at the college.

In 1937-38, he coached football and basketball at the college and this year was football and boxing team mentor. He had planned to organize a tennis team for the college this season.

Coach Alexander became recognized some time ago as one of "America's Young Men" and gained a berth in "Who's Who in Education." He has written two books, "Conditioning Athletes," and "Six-Man Football," the latter having been written since he came to Greenville.

Before coming to this city, he had coached football, basketball, track and wrestling at Lincoln Memorial University. He also coached at East State Teachers College of Commerce, Texas, and at Blackfield Indian School, Jordan, Montana. He was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1922 and served as freshman coach at this institution for a year. He was the first athlete to win four major letters and one minor letter at the University of Iowa. In 1921 he was awarded the "Big Ten" wrestling championship. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic fraternity, and Pi Epsilon Kappa, honorary athletic fraternity.
