MANY VICTIMS OF TERRORISM IN HOLY LAND

Soldiers, Police Ordered Assume State of Alert

WEEK-END TOLL NOW LISTED AT 49

New Outbreaks Coincide With Deadlock in Negotiations Under Way at London Parley.

Haifa, Palestine, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Soldiers and police were ordered into a state of alert throughout Palestine today as a new wave of Arab-Jew terrorism, coincided with a deadlock in the London conference on the Holy Land, brought death to 26 and injuries to 49 persons over the week-end.

Three bomb explosions at Haifa, on the market and railroad station left 20 known killed and 37 wounded in Jerusalem. Three Arabs were killed by bombs and one Arab and one Jew were slain by snipers.

At Jaffa bursting landmines killed one Arab and wounded four. These disorders brought the casualty toll since London peace conference opened February 7 to about 130.

Both here and in Jerusalem police searched damaged buildings and shattered vegetable trucks for bomb fragments likely to give a clue to those responsible for the explosions.

In London, United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy told the British government that drastic restriction of Jewish immigration into Palestine and the abolition of the British mandate over the Holy Land have a "disastrous effect on public opinion in the United States."

The Ambassador saw Foreign Minister Halifax as Jewish delegates threatened to end a conference on the long-standing Arab-Jewish controversy unless Great Britain changed a plan to make the Holy Land an Arab state allied with Britain, with Jews there relegated to minority status.

It was understood that Kennedy discussed the situation in the light of a convention between the United States and Great Britain signed December 3, 1924, which stated that no change could be made in the terms of the league of nations mandate "unless such modification shall have been assented by the United States."

Four cases were called in Municipal court this morning and the session was concluded in short order.

E. Lee Williams, Negro, was brought into court on a charge of seduction, but had married the prosecuting witness since the warrant was sworn out and the case was dismissed upon payment of $8 to be applied on the costs of court.

Lena McCory, alias Carrie Hemby Negro woman, was acquitted of a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

S. V. Vick was convicted of drunk enness and was given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of the costs of court.

Douglas King, was charged with operating an automobile without a driver's license and his father, J. L. King, with allowing a person who he knew did not have a license drive his car. The defendants were ordered to pay $10 on the costs of court.

No Forest Fines in Pitt C. A. Bowling, Pitt county fire warden, reported today that not a single forest fire had been reported since the one February 3, and urged farmers to continue exercising care in starting brush fires and be certain to keep the blaze under control when one is started. A person is required to get a permit before starting such a blaze, he pointed out.

4,000 CARS

Corporal L. L. Jackson of the State Highway patrol, who yesterday went to the scene of last Tuesday night's tornado at Bertie county reported a count showed 4,000 cars passed the scene from 10 a. m. until about 4 p. m.

The officer declared that practically all of the cars were filled. Cars leading into Windsor from all directions were crowded and from Windsor to the area where the tornado struck automobiles formed continuous lines.

Formal Recognition Of Franco Rule Announced By Britain And France

French Cabinet Expected Take Similar Action

NEGRIN ACCEPTS FRANCO'S TERMS

Loyalist Minister Reported to Have Acceded to Insurgent Demands for Armistice.

London, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today the British government's decision to recognize the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco as the legal Spanish government.

He said the formal action for recognition was taken today. "It seemed to the British government impossible to regard the Spanish Republican government, scattered as it was and no longer exercising settled authority as the sovereign government in Spain," he said.

Cries of "shame" arose from the opposition as Government supporters cheered the announcement that the French government was expected to announce similar recognition following a cabinet meeting in Paris this afternoon.

Chamberlain in his statement added: "The British government have noted with satisfaction the public statement of General Franco concerning his determination to secure the traditional independence of Spain."

In Paris, French Premier Daladier called his cabinet for the formal step toward establishment of diplomatic relations with Burgos.

Even with the promise of the joint British and French action, let alone its fulfillment, appeared to have pulled the last prop from under the tottering Republican regime of Premier Juan Negrin.

Paris circles close to the Madrid government said Negrin had accepted an armistice which was little more than an unconditional surrender of the last one-fourth of Spain still in Republican control.

President Manuel Azana, chief of what state there was left after 31 months of struggle between two theories as to how Spain should be ruled left his headquarters in the Paris Spanish embassy last night.

He was headed for exile at a little French village on the Swiss frontier.

Behind him, in the embassy vacated for occupancy by a Nationalist Ambassador to Spain, was a note of resignation.

Little Progress Made By Finance Group Last Week

Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel. By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Feb. 27.—About the only progress made in the joint finance committee search for revenue last week was in the direction of increasing friction and frayed tempers within the committee. Almost no new money was located, and when the committee adjourned for the week it left the big hall in the revenue building clouded with both cigar and subphubous smoke.

The final minutes of the joint meeting had been occupied by a vigorous and sometimes profane tirade by Chairman Bill Fenner of the House branch, who was presiding.

The boys had listened for an hour to chain store spokesmen, and the spokesmen made evident impression against the sub-committee amendments greatly increasing their taxes, by going outside the state of North Carolina to count units as a basis of taxation. Then the chain gas station item was called, and attorneys asked for a chance to read the proposed amendment, which admittedly was revolutionary in its basic principle. Over protest of Chairman Fenner and sub-committee leader Victor Bryant, the full committee voted to give the gas folks a hearing Monday.

Then came Senator Lee Lumpkins income tax proposal. The Franklin man, inveterate foe of the general sales tax through three or four prolonged legislatures, fielded a proposal for Dr. Ralph McDonald in 1936, suggested a one per cent boost in the tax on incomes in the three high individual brackets. He wouldn't bother corporatists, nor the two low individual brackets. That wasn't in line with sub-committee recommendations. Therefore Mr. Bryant didn't like it, but was nice about it. Fenner didn't like it, and

SOLONS CONFER ON TOBACCO SEED BILL

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Rep. Burch (D-Va.) reported today he and Rep. Kerr (D-N. C.) had held a satisfactory conference with State Department officials in the interest of Kerr's bill to prohibit export of tobacco seed.

The bill has been opposed by the State Department on the ground it might complicate the trade agreement program.

Burch said the Department agreed to re-examine the proposal in the light of all the facts and that he hoped a "common meeting ground" could be reached at further conferences.

Proponents of the measure contend it would be of value in reducing competition in domestic markets from foreign tobaccos.

HINES SEEKING ESCAPE PRISON

Conviction Threatens Also to Unseat Magistrate

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP) Legal maneuvers were in the making today to stave off a possible long-term prison sentence for Tammany district leader James J. Hines, whose conviction of selling political protection to a number of racketeers also threatened to unseat a Tammany magistrate.

Apparently ignoring Mayor LaGuardia's ultimatum that he resign or face impeachment, Magistrate Hulton Capshaw declared that he would welcome an investigation by the Appellate division of Supreme Court, to which his case would go.

An appointee of two Tammany Magistrates, Capshaw was accused by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of having dismissed police cases against benchmen of the slain Dutch Schultz at the bequest of Hines, convicted of partnership with the erstwhile public enemy number one.

Although he admitted under cross examination that he made an error in an earlier version of a police trial, Capshaw denied at Hines' trial that he had been improperly influenced by the Tammany chieftain, as charged by Dewey in a bill of particulars last summer.

Lloyd Paul Strayker, defense counsel, planned to confer with Hines, stunned any weary after the verdict of the jury which convicted him on all 13 counts of a lottery indictment, carrying a maximum penalty of 27 years in prison.

Sit-Down Strike Method Condemned In Decision Of U. S. Supreme Court

Employer Given Right to Discharge Employees

OTHER RULINGS INVOLVE LABOR

Three Major Decisions Against National Relations Board Delivered by Tribunal.

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today condemned the action of employees who seized their employers' plants in a sit-down strike.

The decision, by Chief Justice Hughes, upheld the right of the Fansteel Metallurgical Corporation to discharge employees who seized two buildings of the plant in a 1937-sit-down strike.

This was the third major decision delivered today by the high tribunal against orders by the National Labor Relations Board.

The three were the first important defeats administered to the board since enactment of the Wagner labor laws in 1935.

"The employees," Chief Justice Hughes asserted, "had the right to strike, but they had no license to commit acts of violence or to seize their employers' plants."

To justify such conduct because of the existence of a labor dispute or of an unfair labor practice," Hughes continued, "would be to put a premium on resort to force instead of legal remedies and to subvert the principles of law and order which lie at the foundation of society."

The two other labor opinions were delivered by Justices Stone and Roberts.

In the decision by Justice Stone the court set aside an order by the National Labor Relations Board directing reinstatement of striking employees of the Columbia Enameling and Stamping Company, Inc., of Terre Haute, Ind.

The Roberts decision set aside a board order directing the Sands Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, Ohio, to reinstate 48 employees.

The court set aside the conviction of Hugh Pierre of Lucy, La., a Negro, under sentence to hang for murder.

Pierre contended that his conviction was unconstitutional because Negroes were excluded from the grand jury which indicted him. The Supreme Court action permits a new trial.

Civil Suits Filed As Result Wreck

Suits seeking a total of $2,300 have been filed in Superior court here as the result of a collision on December 29 between a truck driven and owned by Ames and Webb construction company, and an automobile operated by Mrs. Louise Diaz.

One suit was brought by Mrs. Diaz seeking $1,500 for personal injuries and $300 for damage to her automobile. The other was brought by her nephew, two-year-old Kitchin McLawhorn, Jr., through his next best friend, his father, Kitchin McLawhorn, Sr.

The complaints, which have not been answered as yet, claim both plaintiffs received serious injuries in the accident and contend that Cox was operating the truck in a reckless manner, speeding on wet streets.

The Ames and Webb company was engaged in a paving project here when the collision occurred.

WHAT IT MEANS: HOPKINS SPEECH

For several weeks business men have been hearing that Harry Hopkins will spend the spring and summer offering convincing proof of New Deal good will toward private business. Hopkins recently chose February 24 and Des Moines, Ia., as the date and scene of his first message to the men who use their money to make the wheels of industry go round.

The AP Feature Service went behind the scenes to ferret out the reasons for what looks at first glance like a sharp New Deal turn to the right. This article is an authoritative account of what it means from the New Deal point of view.

Whether that view is right or wrong is another question, not treated here.

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY AP Feature Staff Writer Washington—The heat is on to produce an 80-billion-dollar national income.

The New Deal is openly courting private business in the hope that this policy will encourage capital to go to work and yield that income. The national annual income at the moment is estimated by President Roosevelt to be hovering around $60,000,000,000. In 1929 it was 81, in 1932 it was down to 40, and in 1937 up to 70.

An 80-billion-dollar income would solve many problems for the New Deal and the nation. It would yield enough taxes at the present rates to balance the budget. It would automatically employ much of the nation's idle private money, producing new jobs and cutting the unemployed to a minimum. It would also demonstrate to the world that democracy works in the world's most powerful nation without the much touted "efficiency" methods (Continued on Page Three)

INDICTMENT OF EX-OFFICIALS RECOMMENDED

Former Pennsylvania Cabinet Members Face Trial

FRAUD CHARGES ARE PRESENTED

Special Grand Jury Finds Evidence of Payroll Padding in State Highway Department.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Indictment of four members of former Governor George H. Earle's cabinet and others affiliated with his Democratic administration was recommended today by a special grand jury which investigated charges of conspiracy to defraud the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Cabinet members named in the presentment on charges of fraud and payroll padding in the Highway department, "blackmail of state employees for political contributions and misuse of surety bonds on state construction contracts."

David Lawrence, Democratic state chairman and former secretary of the commonwealth, previously indicted on charges of conspiracy to defraud the commonwealth and violation of the election laws.

Ralph Bashore, secretary of the Democratic State committee and former secretary of labor and industry.

Roy Brownmiller, former secretary of highways.

The late Warren VanDyke, secretary of highways before Brownmiller.

The grand jury report said "although we are not prepared to make any specific findings regarding the conduct of George H. Earle, permitting the alleged conditions, we expressly direct attention thereto in the hope that care will be exercised by future chief executives and that every precaution will be taken to prevent misuse of state funds."

The charges were made during the spring primary campaign last year. Republicans won the November election and took over the state administration in January.

Dance At College.
The winter dance at East Carolina Teachers College was held Saturday night in the Wright building of the college, under the joint sponsorship of the Lanier Society and the social committee.

Dick Jones and his orchestra, a University of Tennessee group, which has appeared at many colleges and universities, has served for ship orchestra for the Cunard White Star Lines, and has broadcast its music from various dance floors, furnished the music for the occasion.

The decorations, suggested by February 22, were built around a star in the center of the stage, red and white streamers from it and white stars on a blue background around the edge of the platform represented the stars and stripes of the flag. Miss Mary Helen Guldge, Jackson, was in charge of the decorations.

A grand march just before the intermission was led by Miss Emily Brendle of Booneville, Lanier Society president, with Mac Griffin of Reidsville; and Miss Joyce Harrell, of Hertford, chairman of the social committee, with Tommy Swain of Greenville.

Chaperones included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Browne, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hollar, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reynolds, Miss Dorothy Snyder, Miss Mary Coughney, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert ReBarker, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Toll, all of the college faculty.

Attend Conference In Durham.
A group of nine students from East Carolina Teachers College, delegates from the college Y.W.C.A., attended one of the most significant conferences in the history of the Y.M.C.A.-Y.W.C.A. in North Carolina, in Durham, Sunday, Feb. 26, at the North Carolina College for Negroes.

Its significance lies in the fact that the Negro Y.M.-Y.W. of the state merged with the Y.M.-Y.W. organization thus making it one inter-racial religious activity. North Carolina is one of the states leading in this program.

Brooks Patten, president of the state Y.M.-Y.W. presided over the meeting, with the "Y's" of the North Carolina College for Negroes acting as hosts to the delegates who came from 15 colleges over the state.

Mr. Kirby Page, lecturer, author, and recognized authority on the economic and political condition of the world today, gave two challenging addresses, one in the morning on "Why Is Contemporary Civilization So Sick?" in which he set forth the ailments of the sick civilization, and suggested remedies, which he thought would bring about a better spiritual and physical world; and one in the afternoon, on "Religious Resources for Personal Living and Social Action."

At the regular college vesper service, which was held in the Duke Auditorium at 3 o'clock, Dean Berry May of Harvard University, nationally known Y.M.O.A. leader, addressed the conference, setting forth the contrast between the lives of Christian Science Church.

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, Feb. 26.

The golden text was from Col. 3:16-17: "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; and whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went out, and his disciples, into the towns of Caesarea Philippi; and by the way he asked his disciples, saying unto them, Whom do men say that I am? And they answered, John the Baptist; but some said Elias; and others, One of the prophets. And he saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Peter answereth and saith unto him, Thou art the Christ." (Mark 8:27-29).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Learning to be understood the Master repeated, 'But whom say ye that I am?' With his usual impetuosity, Simon replied for his brethren, and his reply set forth a great fact: 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.' That is: The Messiah is what thou hast declared—Christ, the spirit of God, of Truth, Life and Love, which heals mentally. This assertion elicited from Jesus the benediction, 'Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona; for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven; that is, Love hath shown thee the way of Life!'"

College Vesper Service.
The Reverend W. A. Ryan, pastor of the local Christian Church, spoke to the Y.W.C.A. vesper group at the college, last evening, using as his topic "Fractions and Whole Numbers."

"Life can really be thought of in terms of fractions and whole numbers," he began. "It is possible to divide people into these two classes because there are so many things in life that we are content in having just a few scraps of."

Man is content with having only a fragment of the enjoyable things of life. He illustrated this with an incident of a man who knew just a little about many books but none of them in detail. Just so with knowledge—one is content to go through life with just fragments of it, while things in which there is some value, people are content to do nothing about.

"If you would take an inventory of the things you do each week, it would surprise you how much you chuzzle in fragments," continued Mr. Ryan.

He stated that ministers talk a great deal about the purpose of Christianity and say that people are not willing to take Jesus at his word "am come that they might have life and have it to the full." According to Dr. Banker's version, Mr. Ryan said, he meant material things—food, clothing and happiness.

Wesper spiritual lives, some love, some truth, some beauty—through all these things, he said, is not the influence of that figure of Jesus.

Outdoors in Prague they found the air contains an average of 300 positive particles and 290 negative in each cubic centimeter. These particles are molecules of air, broken up by the earth's natural radium rays.

Then they set their particle counting apparatus in the duct of an air conditioning plant. Just beyond the point where the air had been washed by a water spray they counted 10,600 negative particles in a cubic centimeter. There were in addition 530 positive ones.

The huge increase in negative particles was ascribed to breakup of water drops. When the air reached the offices there were 895 negative and 775 positive particles in each thimbleful of atmosphere.

The results obtained from the lessons taught, discussions and demonstrations so far have apparently been quite satisfactory and deepening interest is manifested more and more at each meeting. Enrollment to date is 49. This course is sponsored by the Works Progress Administration.

WHAT IT MEANS

of dictatorship. Harry Hopkins finds himself in the role of peacemaker and peace-settler because his department of commerce is the government's official meeting ground with business and because he is generally accepted as closest of all New Dealers to President Roosevelt.

Two Schools To Consider

Hopkins recognizes two schools of thought on the subject of national income. The "confidence school" believes the Government should put itself on record as promising NOT to harass business with more taxes and onerous regulation. Men in this school argue that confidence will coax money out of hiding, and eventually produce an $80-billion income.

The "hardboiled school" on the other hand, tells you investment money won't come out of hiding until the national income reaches the $80-billion mark, no matter how much confidence business receives from Government. They insist that the income must be jacked up to the maximum by hook or crook before confidence can be restored. Without disclosing his mind on the two schools, Hopkins has given his first attention to the confidence school.

or that reason, you may expect him to:

1. Co-operate with Congress on incentive taxation—the kind of taxes that leave business with the incentive to make profits, instead of feeling that Government takes all the profits.

2. Promote labor peace between AFL's Ben Green and CIO's John Lewis and to explore the theory of annual wages for workers as a means of bringing them steadier and higher over-all income, and at the same time afford business a cheaper per unit cost of operation.

3. Favor writing a definite federal electric power policy, telling the great electric power industry that it can plan for the future with NO fear of further Government invasion.
4. Extend a friendly hand to big business as such, so long as there is NO attempt to crush a weaker independent, or interfere with past New Deal reforms.

5. Take great interest in Congress's so-called monopoly investigation, NOT with a view to cracking down on business as such, but rather as the possible birthplace of a future national business policy. Such a policy might afford what it can or cannot do. Today, business doesn't know about violating the anti-trust laws until somebody complains.

Others Interested

Other departments than Hopkins' are interested in the peace drive. The whole push takes its usual address to Congress, where he keynotes from the President's suggested the New Deal's social reforms were completed, and the time had come for invigorating recovery.

But the one common denominator on the business front is Hopkins, because his department is naturally interested in all the elements of a business upswing—labor, industry, transportation, electric power, and so on.

The main difficulty of his position at the moment is the danger that other cabinet members and shining lights might become suspicious that Harry Hopkins is tending to everybody's business, or, worse, that left wingers will suspect that he has deserted their cause, and gone over to the conservative camp.

The next hurdle might be the suspicions of business men, themselves.

Time will tell the story.

LITTLE PROGRESS MADE BY FINANCE GROUP LAST WEEK

The chairman really got mad. He raised his voice and he used words that he didn't learn in Sunday school. He even went so far as to say that the people didn't know what they were voting for in 1936 when they authorized an income tax levy as high as ten per cent of net income. (Lumpkin's amendment would have levied a maximum of eight per cent on the biggest incomes.) Senator Lumpkin kept his temper and suavely commented that "maybe the folks didn't know what they were voting for, but the same thing applied when they elected you and me to the senate."

Coming so soon after Representative Odus Mull had told Mr. Bryant that maybe the legislature of two years ago had more sense than this one, but that the current revenue bill is the responsibility of the present committee, the Fener-Lumpkin incident just shows how taut the nervous tension has become.

The appropriations committee did make some progress and the pending bill is ready for reporting to the house. It was adopted by the committee on Tuesday afternoon and carries the record-breaking total of one hundred-four million, three hundred sixty-one thousand and two hundred ninety-two dollars for the next two years. Although early attempts to apply the gag rule to the committee failed, it is believed that practically every member of the joint appropriations group will support their bill on the floor of the house as long as it has a chance of passage. Outsiders, however, are almost sure to offer amendments in committee of the whole designed to increase educational appropriations, both for public schools and higher institutions. And further effort will be made to earmark a larger portion of highway revenue for road purposes. Chairman John Caffey is ill with flu, and it has not been definitely determined just when the bill will get to the floor. There is some sentiment for holding it back until the finance group get their work done.

The finance committee during the week voted down two liquor proposals—one by Senator Umstead for a warehouse system in dry counties, and one by Representative Withrow calling for a statewide referendum. It recommended a compromise on the ABC store tax, which is now 7 per cent and which the budget commission would have boosted to 10 per cent. The subcommittee suggested 8 1/2 per cent.

Most important progress of any major committee during the past week was made by George Phillips' elections laws group. Consideration of election reform has reached the stage where the prediction is reasonably safe that absentee ballots will be banned in all party primaries, and their use greatly restricted in general elections. That solution isn't satisfactory to the board of elections, which wanted absentees eliminated entirely, nor to the senate elections committee, which is frankly very well pleased with the situation "as is." But the senators know that the house won't stand for the present mess, so the house committee bill is virtually sure of passage.

The sub-committee studying agricultural duplication has made some advancement but hasn't reported to the full committee. The influence of the Farm Bureau is strongly felt on this committee and in many quarters, particularly in the middle and western part of the state, that influence is not regarded as salutary. Activities of both the department of agriculture and the college are statewide; the Farm Bureau is localized in three or four counties in the middle-eastern section. The senate is expected to offer some restraining influence on proposals for too radical change in the present college-department cooperative working agreement. Action may be expected on the question by the last of this week.

Most colorful committee hearing in immediate prospect is expected to be that on the so-called "Fair Sales Act" before house judiciary No. 2, of measure has dynamite in it, that may explode.

Airport Nearly Lost Because of Jealousy

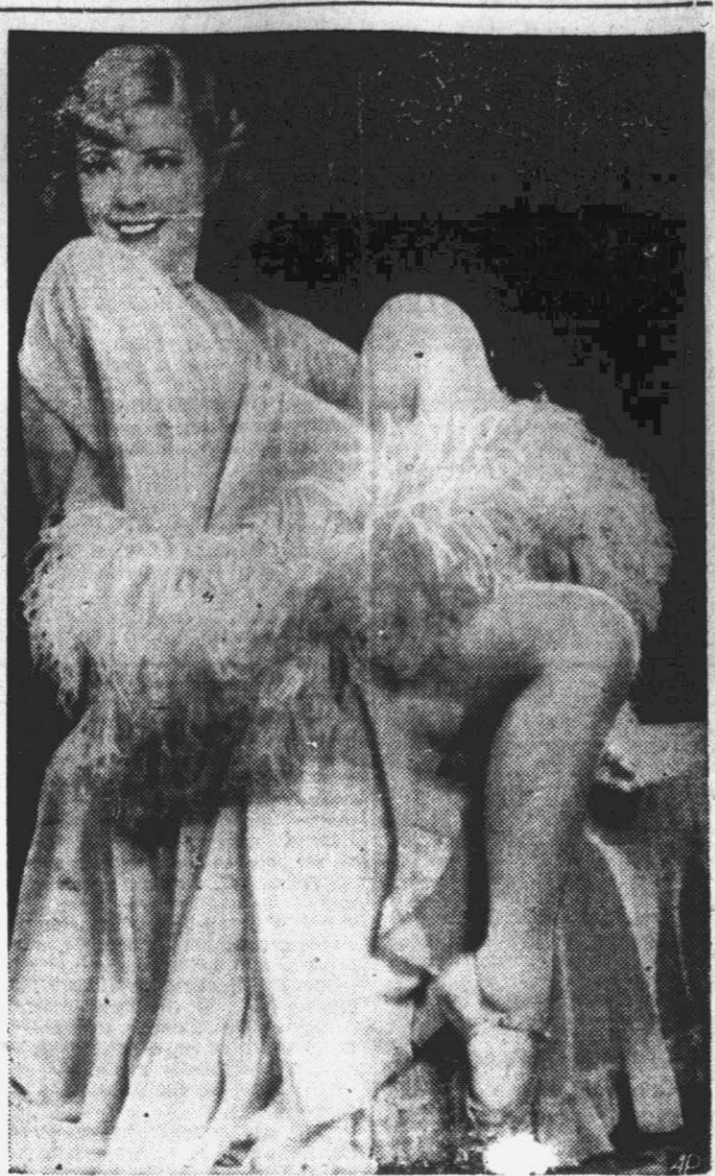

Raleigh, Feb. 27.—Plans for establishment of an airport adequate to take care of any kind of plane likely to come this way, to serve both Raleigh and Durham, came near busting up because of petty jealousy and disagreements over its exact location and whether Raleigh or Durham should appear first in the joint name.

The legislators of the two counties are trying to do something about it and a bill has been introduced authorizing a "Raleigh-Durham" airport.

Washington Daybook

Washington—Whatever you may think of the present Congress, it is a dream of harmony, of efficient organization and of diligence to duty compared with the Congress of 150 years.

By act of the well known Congress of the Confederation, the new Congress compounded by the Constitution was called to meet in New York on the first Wednesday in March.

Yet when March 4 came around there were not enough Senators and House members who cared seriously about their jobs to be present for the opening session.

Only eight Senators showed up, not enough for a quorum. The House also lacked a quorum.

Not So Highly Paid
They were paid $6 a day while Congress was in session (which pay wasn't to be sneezed at in those days).

Congress adjourned from day to day and by March 11 the eight Senators got tired of it and sent out a circular asking the 18 absent members to come in.

The House finally got a quorum on April 6. Senate quorum showed up April 6.

The first job was to count the electoral college ballots and learn who were elected President and Vice-President. They already knew, of course, just as they know now.

The President Arrives
Washington came along later from Mount Vernon and peopled the streets of cities through which he passed.

Meanwhile Congress got around to doing some business. On April 7, one day after a quorum showed up, the Senate appointed a committee to draft a bill organizing the judiciary.

By April 8 the House was ready for speeches and the first of any importance was delivered by the young James Madison, delegate from Virginia, who had had a hand in framing the Constitution.

"The Union," said he, "by the establishment of a more effective government having recovered from the state of imbecility (gad, what a word) that heretofore prevented a performance of its duty ought in its first act to revive those principles of honor and honesty that have too long lain dormant."

After a time he got down to the meat of the matter, as House members do, even to this day, and proposed a tax. "But the system must be such a one," he said, "that while it secures the object of revenue, it shall not be oppressive to our constituents." So now you know where that idea started also.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, Feb. 27—The House of Representatives was scrapping over the Madison county board of health bill which Republican Bailey wanted powerfully to pass.

In the same debate Murphy said he always supported every day's local bills, and expected to keep on doing it.

One of the nearest "high brow" expressions heard lately was made by C. W. Tillett of Charlotte, speaking for A and before the finance committee.

Speaking of high-brow expression, one man gave a good definition of the distinction between high and low-brow. It went like this: The highbrow says "please possess your soul in patience."

Commissioner Kerr Scott vouches for the truth of this story. When the argument with the college began to warm up a few weeks ago, one of the commissioners' good friends from up-state came by the office.

Sometimes innocent looking titles cover subject matter in bills that amaze even the introducer.
