NEW ELECTION LAWS SENT TO SENATE FLOOR

Committee Releases House - Passed Measures

BILLS SET FOR ACTION TUESDAY

Gardner May Offer Separate Measure to Allow Limited Absentee Voting in Primaries

Raleigh, March 17—(AP)—The Senate Elections committee today sent to the floor the House-passed bill to abolish absentee voting in primaries and tighten restrictions for elections.

Committee activity dominated the legislative field, though the House, in a speedy session, passed 31 bills. Senators, in the absence of Long of Halifax, the author, postponed final consideration of the bill to require physical examination before persons may secure marriage licenses.

The Senate agreed to resume regular business Monday night. Senator Gardner of Cleveland, who favored retaining absentee voting in primaries, told newsmen during the Senate session that he could have forced his proposal into the absentee bill in the committee, by a one-vote margin.

The election measure was set for special order in the Senate Tuesday, the same date further consideration of the biennial appropriations bill is scheduled.

Among important new bills introduced were: To make the base period for benefits under the Unemployment Compensation act start February 15, 1939, instead of January 1, which speedily passed both houses to become law.

To clarify unemployment compensation statutes so as to make testimony at hearings privileged, clarify transfer of funds to comply with (Continued on page six)

Checks For Needy Are Sent In Pitt

K. T. Futrell, superintendent of Public Welfare in Pitt county, today revealed that checks for old-age assistance, blind, and aid for dependent children had arrived, and are being received by needy in the county.

Checks for old-age assistance amounted to a combined total of $4,314.50. There were 498 of these checks, each of which average $8.90. It was pointed out that this is the nearest approach ever made to the 500 mark.

Twenty-six checks for aid for the blind amounting to $330 were received today and were being placed in the mails. A combined total of $2,058.50 representing 146 families in which there are 361 needy children have been received and mailed out from Futrell's office this week.

Week Of Evangelism Planned By Baptists

The Memorial Baptist church is now in the midst of preparation for Evangelistic week on March 27 April 2. Next week has been set aside for cottage prayer meetings. These meetings will be held in the homes of the members; they will begin each evening at 7:30.

Dr. Forrest Preezer will be the guest preacher for these services. Dr. Preezer is a popular and forceful preacher, with few equals in North Carolina and the South. A citizen of Greenville who heard his sermon by radio last Sunday remarked "It was a great sermon, one of the best that I have heard in a long time. He is a forceful preacher. The people of Greenville will have the privilege of hearing him twice each day for seven days at the Memorial Baptist church."

No Little TVA

Raleigh, March 17.—(AP)—The House Public Utilities committee reported unfavorably today the McByrde bill to create a "little TVA" for the upper Cape Fear valley. Only McByrde of Cumberland voted against the rejection. The committee has refused, six to four, to postpone action after a hearing at which opposition was expressed by Andrew Monroe, representing the Carolina Power and Light Company.

First Military Parade Germans In Moravia Viewed By Adolf Hitler

Fled in Disguise

Disguised in a peasant's cart, Premier Augustin Volosin (above) of Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthania) fled into Rumania for refuge as Hungary's advancing troops took possession of that portion of the fallen Czecho-Slovakian republic.

Fuehrer Follows His Troops from Prague To Brunn

PLANS CONTINUE TO VIENNA TODAY

Sofia Students Demonstrate Against Nazi Dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia

Brunn, Moravia, March 17—(AP)—The first Nazi military parade in Adolf Hitler's new Bohemian-Moravian protectorate were held at noon today in Prague and Brunn, with the Fuehrer himself reviewing his troops in this Moravian city.

Hitler following his armies eastward from Prague, into Moravia, arrived at Brunn at 11:30 a. m. and half an hour later watched the second tank division of his army of occupation rattle past.

Nazi spokesmen said the new protector of Bohemia-Moravia would continue to Vienna late today or tomorrow. From Vienna, capital of the Austria he added to his realm a year ago this week, Nazis said he might continue to Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, which yesterday threw itself under his protection.

The Germanic 30 per cent of Brunn's population, plus Nazi sympathizers among the Czechs turned the main square into a sea of swastikas.

Hitler reviewed German troops lined up on the square and was received at city hall by the German mayor and members of the city's German administration.

The Fuehrer's movements from town to town were shielded in secrecy and by a corps of blackshirt elite guards. Armored cars conveyed him when he used his big touring car.

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 17.—(AP)—Several thousand Sofia University students were chased by mounted police.

Meeting Is Held By Warehousemen

The second of the series of monthly meetings planned by Greenville's warehousemen was held Wednesday night of this week with 100 per cent representation of the local warehouse firms. During the business session of the meeting, matters advantageous to the market as a whole were discussed; and several ideas for the betterment of marketing conditions from the growers' standpoint, discussed at the February meeting, were endorsed.

Those present discussed the plant situation and, while it is yet too early to make a definite forecast regarding the plant supply, the majority felt that with favorable conditions from now on, there would be plants enough for the intended acreage. However, they agreed that there might be individual cases where the grower would have to depend upon his neighbor.

The following attended the meeting: R. V. Keel and Wavland Sermons of Keel's warehouse; Biggs T. Cannon of the Dixie warehouse; C. H. McGowan of McGowan's warehouse; Floyd McGowan of the New Carolina warehouse; Harvey Ward of the Center Brick warehouse; B. B. Sugg of Smith and Sugg warehouses; Jack Moye and M. R. Long of Gorman's warehouse; W. Z. Morton and G. E. Forbes of Forbes and Morton warehouse; R. E. Rogers, Jr. of Harris and Rogers warehouse; and R. C. Rankin, supervisor of sales.

Anti-Diversionists Due For Another Sock On Jaw

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, March 17.—Anti-diversionists have taken more punishment than a Joe Louis opponent already this Assembly session, but from all signs and portents they are due to get another resounding sock on the jaw before this session ends.

It's going to be in the form of a measure which will authorize transfer from Highway to General Funds of $2,000,000 or near the close of the current fiscal year.

Nobody will admit that this is going to be done, but if Administration spokesmen really mean what they have said all along about the budget for the next biennium there isn't anything else for them to do except propose such a measure. Here's why. Every single solitary $2,200,000 surplus in the General Fund with which to start the 1939 '41 biennium. Each and every one has also included the transfer of $2,000,000 into the General Fund in order to make up such a surplus. Just yesterday, for instance, Senator W. B. Rodman said categorically that this is the case.

Add to these facts the further fact that under present statutes such a transfer cannot be legally made and the sum total is bound to be an act specifically authorizing it.

Your correspondent's authority for the statement that such a transfer is now illegal is the considered opinion of the chairman of one of the big money committees, who would not permit himself to be quoted by name as expressing it. He said flatly, however, that there is not now any provision of law which will permit transfer of these funds. The present law, he said, allows a transfer only when there is no longer any money in the General Fund to meet general fund appropriations.

BOHEMIAN WOMEN 'HEIL' NAZIS

Bohemian women in the town of Saatz are shown in this radio-photo as they smiled and gave the Nazi salute to German soldiers marching through on their way to Prague to take control of the former Czecho-Slovakian capital. Meanwhile other inhabitants of the fallen republic were reported as weeping and booing the invaders who wiped their country off the map.

Britain Summons Nazi Envoy Home

London, March 17.—(AP)—Britain today instructed her Ambassador to Germany, Sir Neville Henderson, to return to London to report on the Reich's absorption of Bohemia, Moravia and Slovakia.

Persons close to the government described the call, which had been under consideration since yesterday, as a gesture of disapproval of the methods of Adolf Hitler's government in its eastward advance in central Europe.

They compared it to President Roosevelt's action last November in summoning Ambassador Wilson back to the United States to report on the German drive against Jews.

Ambassador Wilson is still in the United States. It had been disclosed earlier that Britain and France were consulting on a possible plan for the dissolution of the Czecho-Slovak republic.

British Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday expressed his bitter regret at German's imperialism in taking 10,000,000 Slavs under her protection. He had founded his hopes for peace on the belief that Hitler wanted to rule in Europe only over Germanic people.

Asked today if Britain had protested yet to Berlin, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the Exchequer, answered a questioner in parliament.

"This is one of the matters on which we are in communication with the French government," Chamberlain, speaking in Birmingham at 8 p. m. was expected to make an important declaration of foreign policy to meet opposition clamor for his resignation or a scrapping of his program.

Laborite Philip J. Noel-Baker, however, told Sir John that the support of the house and the country if they represent to Berlin that such acts of aggression render impossible.

CITES NEED OF MORE TRAINING Vocational Guidance Stressed by NCEA Speaker

Raleigh, March 17.—(AP)—Dr. Paul W. Chapman, dean of agriculture at the University of Georgia, told North Carolina teachers today that one of modern education's greatest needs is proper information—vocational guidance—for students on what they must do in order to get jobs.

In thousands of instances, said Dr. Chapman, a student quits school or refused to make the most of educational opportunities, and then finds out in later years that certain education standards are necessary before he can enter a chosen vocation, such as aeronautics, medicine, nursing and the like.

North Carolina, he said, is ready to submit its plan to the federal office of education for cooperation of a state vocational guidance system. The federal government would pay 50 per cent of the cost. Accompanying such a step, he added, should be encouragement of teacher-trainer institutions to provide courses in guidance.

The divisional and departmental meetings were held this morning at the several thousand teachers attending the 55th North Carolina Education Association convention discussed their problems. Another score of meetings, this afternoon preceded a number of dinner sessions.

Tonight Dr. William Few, president of Duke University, will speak. Tomorrow at the first general session Dr. J. Henry Highsmith of Raleigh, will be elevated from the vice-presidency to president of the association. Five candidates are seeking to succeed him as vice-president.

U. S. Accuses Nazis Of 'Wanton Lawlessness' For Taking Territory

Acting Secretary Of State Relates Views

STATEMENT HAS FDR'S APPROVAL

President Says European Developments Show Need for Revision of Neutrality Act

Washington, March 17.—(AP)—The United States government expressed today its "condemnation" of Germany's "wanton lawlessness" and "arbitrary force" in occupying Czecho-Slovakia.

With the approval of President Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of State Welles issued a formal statement in which he spoke of Germany's absorption of most of Czecho-Slovakia as a "temporary extinguishment of the liberties of a free and independent people with whom, from the day when the republic of Czecho-Slovakia attained its independence, the people of the United States have maintained especially close and friendly relations."

Welles declared: "It is manifest that acts of wanton lawlessness and arbitrary force are threatening world peace, and the very structure of modern civilization."

Welles made his statement after conferring with the President and said his statement had received the chief executive's approval.

Earlier the President told a press conference that European developments demonstrated the need for a revision of the American neutrality act, at this session of Congress.

Mr. Roosevelt would not go into details. Heretofore there has been reports that the administration would prefer greater freedom or flexibility in imposing arms embargoes in event of foreign wars.

Also, Czecho-Slovakia's defiant minister rejected orders from Prague to surrender the Czech legation and consulate to German representatives.

Maxwell Goes To Rescue Of Worried Legislators

Reflector Bureau By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, March 17.—In the popular paper backed weeklies of some thirty years ago Frank Merriwell became young America's hero thru his unparalleled ability to deliver a home run in the last of the ninth with the bases full, or to fan the opposition's lined slinger under the same circumstances as to time and condition of the sacks.

This by way of introducing the Frank Merriwell of the Administration team, Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell.

Yesterday Allen Jay stepped gallantly into the box and threw a high hard one right past the Senators who had been preparing to knock the Commissioner (and higher) Appropriations measure into the next county. His pitch took the form of a letter to Chairman Bill Rodman of the Senate Appropriations Commit-

BUNDY SPEAKS TO KIWANIS

Contrasts Work of Local and International Organizations

W. J. Bundy, Lieutenant Governor of the Seventh District, Carolina division, addressed the Greenville Kiwanis club today, using as his theme "Kiwanis International As Applies to the Local Club."

In making his address, Bundy contrasted the work of the local club with the objectives of the international organization, which are: service to underprivileged children; vocational guidance; boys' and girls' work; closer relationship between farmer, business men and professional men; and intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship.

The speaker called attention to citizenship activities, which are practically extensively by the Kiwanis Club. These activities include civic and educational work.

Lieut. Governor Bundy brought to the attention of the Club the international convention to be held in Boston in June. He explained that he planned to visit the World's Fair in New York en route and expressed the hope that Greenville Kiwanians would do the same.

A large number of local Kiwanians are expected to attend and Inter-Club meeting to be held at Jacksonville, N. C., Monday night, March 20. Seven Kiwanians volunteered their automobiles to transport those desiring to attend the Monday night session.

Allen Brace, Greenville High school student, spoke to the Kiwanians about safety patrol work being conducted at the high school and asked for their co-operation in the safety patrol rally and parade to be held here next month. The Kiwanis Club agreed to enter in the parade.

Vice-President Clarence Patrick awarded to Clarence Russ, an attendance prize. Former past President, B. B. Sugg, introduced the (Continued on page six)

DALADIER ASKS FREE HAND FOR EIGHT MONTHS

French Premier wants Power to Rule by Degree

C'NFIDENCE VOTE IS ANTICIPATED

Power to Bolster Defense in View of Collapse of Czecho-Slovakia Deemed Important

Paris, March 17.—(AP)—Premier Daladier called on Parliament today for a free hand to govern France by decree until November 30 to bolster the nation's defense in view of the collapse of Czecho-Slovakia.

The bill to strengthen France against any menace from expanding Germany contained only the one article authorizing decree powers for the period of more than eight months.

It was approved by the cabinet and sent to the Chamber of Deputies.

The Chamber began debate on the situation arising from Germany's bloodless conquest of Czecho-Slovakia, once part of France's collective security structure.

A vote of confidence conferring the full powers asked by the Daladier government was expected to conclude the debate.

Communist Deputy Pert started the foreign policy debate with an attack on the government for yielding to Germany's expansion in Central Europe.

Despite the hostility of a strong Communist and Socialist bloc, however, the government counted on its normally small, but steady, conservative majority to push the bill through the lower house tomorrow.

The Senate was called for a session Sunday to rush the measure to adoption.

The cabinet also approved a government statement on the Central European situation to be delivered in the Chamber of Deputies in debates.

The cabinet communique said merely that "the bill would confer on the government the powers necessary to consolidate and increase the strength of France."

E.H. (Gene) Wilson Enters Race Here

E. H. (Gene) Wilson today announced his candidacy for alderman in the fourth ward, an office now held by David Evans, who was appointed to the Board of Aldermen recently by the unexpected term of A. C. Tadlock, who resigned upon moving into another ward.

Mr. Wilson has been a representative of Armour & Company in the Greenville territory for the past 19 years. He moved to Greenville in 1923 and has made his home here since that time.

Other residents who have already entered the aldermanic race to be held in May, are George Clapp, fifth ward; J. D. Simpson, third ward; G. C. Honeycutt, first ward; and G. A. Robertson, second ward.

Seven Votes Lost On Roll Call Balloting

Raleigh, March 17.—The vote of 94 to 9 by which the biennial revenue bill passed third reading in the House of Representatives yesterday was a majority of which none of the sponsors need be ashamed. At the time it was a considerably less majority than the bill received on its second reading Wednesday. The second reading vote was 99 to 2.

Only member to explain a vote was the indomitable Clegg of Moore who shouted that he would never vote for the three per cent sales tax.

tee, informing that worthy that income tax revenues for the current year are running so far ahead of expectations that there probably will be ample money on hand to close the eight hundred and many odd thousand dollar gap existing between the Revenue bill, as passed by both houses, and the Appropriations measure as passed by the House after adding some $600,000 through the Governor's compromise and subsequent hike in vocational education.

That, of course, put an entirely different complexion on the budget battle. If accepted at face value and if confirmed on later investigation, the Maxwell letter solves all the difficulties of the budgeteers. It is as simple as that. It didn't even require mirrors in the doing.

Before the Maxwell letter everything was dark and dreary, the budget as eight hundred and odd (Continued on page five)

Bundy, Grand Steward of the Grand Lodge, introduced the speaker, Rev. C. K. Proctor, superintendent of the Masonic Orphanage at Oxford, and Mr. Proctor delivered one of his usual excellent speeches, mingling wit and humor with the serious as only few speakers can do. The theme of Mr. Proctor's talk was the work being done by Masons in support of the Oxford Orphanage.

The happy occasion was brought to a close by the group singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

SIGNIFICANCE IN TWO EVENTS

Cape Fear Bill Offered, Tidewater Cuts Power Rates

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AYERLLI.
Raleigh, March 16.—Nobody would admit that the one was cause and the other effect, but a certain significance of one kind or another is seen in the following close sequence of events:

Item 1: Representative Lacy McBryde of Cumberland introduced a bill in the House setting up a Cape Fear Valley authority with full and plenary powers to engage in the manufacture, distribution and sale of power of all sorts. Its sponsors said frankly and freely that his aim and object is cheaper power rates, especially in his section.

Item 2: Within less than no time, comparatively speaking, after introduction of this bill, there was announcement, with clashing of cymbals and beating of tom toms that the Tidewater Power company had agreed to a reduction in its power rates. The Tidewater, be it said for the benefit of any who are not aware of it, serves the same section which would most benefit from a Cape Fear Valley Authority.

As already indicated, nobody has said on oath that there is any relationship whatever between these two items—much less than No. 1 was cause and No. 2 was effect; but there remains the obvious fact that the second followed the first with a propinquity which may be entirely coincidental, but which gives color to hints and rumors that the TWP rates came down primarily to assist in opposing the embryo CFVA.

Such things, it is said, have happened on previous occasions when there were threats of public competition with private power interests.

HITLER'S NAZI TROOPS MOVE INTO PRAGUE

Moving with surprising suddenness, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's German Nazi troops are shown in this radio photo as they moved into Prague to take charge of the fallen Czechoslovakian capital and the former Czech provinces of Bohemia and Moravia. Hitler followed his soldiers into Prague.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—I go down to No. 80 Grove street now and then because I like Benito Collado, and Spanish food, and Flamenco music and entertainment. I like it because it is away from Broadway and the noisy, raucous midtown sector, and because a man is at ease and can be himself down there. He can sit for hours and talk or he can sit for hours and say nothing, which is sometimes best and always a rest.

It is very Spanish, all right. This is El Chico, and its slogan is "As Spanish as Spain." And yet it seems to me that its greatest charm is its absence of "feeling," its surcease from arguments, from constant mention of "insurgents" or "loyalists."

I can read of Franco and bombs and Russian intervention until I am black in the face and walk into 80 Grove street and forget Spain ever had a civil war. No one ever tried to convert me to a "cause" at El Chico. I have had past masters at the persuasive art suggest in purring accents the tempting qualities of Andalusian dishes. I have had belles from Barcelona and maids from Madrid sit at my table and talk (when they were able to speak any English whatever) of the orange groves and the sun-lit vineyards back home but none of them ever mentioned Rome or Moscow. That's what I like about it, that and the grade-A entertainment and the complete absence of the hubbub that follows 8-column headlines.

You go down there and you sit in an archway, if you want to, or under a balcony, or off to one side, or even right at the edge of the dance floor. The music ranges from the early Flamencos which were brought into Spain by Charles V to modern Spanish ballads, tangos and rumbas. Through it is the twang of lazy strings and the muted purr of castanets. Black eyes are there, but they flash angrily only when the mood of the dance calls for it.

Seeing those dancers whip those castanets made me wonder how far back they went. It may surprise you to know that they were used thousands of years ago. They primitively were probably shells clattering together. Then they became wood and were held by a ring to the middle finger. Later they came to be worn on the thumb, and now all dancers play them that way.

Benito tells me he has a pair 125 years old. All castanets are made; one is called the "papa" and the other the "mama." He says he tried four months to learn to manipulate them; then gave up in disgust. "It is interesting to remember that to play castanets you also must learn how to move your arms gracefully, how to lend your body a rhythmic flow, how to tap the heels, how to use the face and eyes for expression." And Spaniard, he says, can see a girl dance just once and easily tell whether she is from North, South, East or West of Spain. Most Spanish dances are regional.

Interesting too is the legend that the Gypsies of Spain originated the music of the Jewish synagogues. Many of Spain's famous composers say this is true.

At least that will give you something to look up if you've ever trapped in a library on a rainy day.

AIDS FARMERS TO GROW HOGS

Motion Picture Shown in Various Pitt Communities

The motion picture entitled "Controlling Worms in Hogs and How to Grow Hogs" has been shown to farmers at Bethel, Pactolus, Ayden, Falkland, Fountain, Stokes, Winterville, Farmville and will be shown tonight at Grimesland.

The main thought projected in the picture is that hogs may be grown most economically by following the "Swine Sanitation System." Briefly, the swine sanitation system in this area is as follows:

1st—This small portable hog house or A type hog house is placed on a clean pasture.

Second—The sows are taken up 3 days before farrowing and washed thoroughly to remove worm eggs and filth from the udder.

Third—The sow is allowed to farrow on a clean pasture where no hogs have been allowed to run since a crop has been grown on the land.

Fourth—The pigs are kept on the clean pasture until they reach 100 pound weight or until they are ready for market. The sow is taken away from the pigs at weaning time.

Producers express themselves as being very much interested in the picture.

A good fattening ration for hogs is shelled corn, fish meal and cottonseed meal mixed in equal parts and a mineral mixture all fed in a self-feeder. One part soybean meal may be mixed with one part cottonseed meal and one part fish meal.

Some care should be exercised to prevent hogs eating too much when soybean meal is added because the ration is made more palatable by the addition of soybean meal.

The most recent suggested mineral mixture is composed of 10 pounds of lime, 5 pounds of steamed bone meal and two pounds of salt. We have used other proportions of this mixture with good results but now suggest the above proportion as a matter of economy.

Asid phosphate has been used in place of the bone meal in a different proportion but doctors have reported some harmful results from plenty upsets the Senate Finance acid phosphate therefore, bone meal committee.

Back in Power

Ten years in "disgrace" without rank in the Czech army, Rudolf Gaida (above), who built up his own army of followers in that time, is high in the councils of German Nazis now exercising a protectorate over the Czech people. He issued a proclamation in Prague, calling for "quiet and order." He is shown wearing some of the medals given him by allied nations for World War service.

is considered more safe. The mineral mixture should not be mixed with the other feeds and should be kept dry.

Senate Kills All Local 'Dry' Bills

Raleigh, March 16.—There is going to be no legislation exempting special localities from operating of the state's law permitting the sale of wine and beer, unless there is a tremendous upheaval which reported some harmful results from plenty upsets the Senate Finance acid phosphate therefore, bone meal committee.

$894 and up

delivered at Flint, Mich. *Subject to change without notice. Transportation, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra.

FIRST time we saw the blueprints for this Buick thirtyniner we knew we had something pretty special for folks who like action in their travels.

It had eight eager cylinders in a mighty Dynaflex engine—and they could make a scared jack rabbit eat dust whenever the word was given!

It had a view, a gorgeous view, from windows and windshields as much as 412 square inches bigger—and it had style that has already altered the pattern on many another carstylist's drawing board.

So we looked it all over—and went a step further. We decided a car so plainly meant for action needed to have a price that would get action for it!

Now it isn't easy to build such a traveler—rich in reliable Buick quality clear down to the metals it's made of—and still give it a price that rubs elbows with the sixes.

But just look around, match up the price tags, and you'll find that this great straight-eight lists for less than some cars with two fewer cylinders!

It comes complete with equipment that's extra in many another instance—yet the figures still read lower than on Buick of a year ago. So when you see this Buick you not only see the car, but the one big value of the year. That's why we're anxious to have you try Buick—it's a car with a winning way about it, and a winning price tag in the bargain!

Better buy Buick!

Washington—Intramural squabble No. 1 at present goes on between Secretary Hil-Em-Harold Ickes and stately Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. It is over boat and picnic concessions on Boulder Dam reservoir on the Colorado.

The only thing these two important public officials have in common is a hatred of Hitlerism, which they express often and forcefully. Next to Hitler it would seem they dislike each other most.

The affair over Lake Mead (which is Boulder Dam reservoir) is their second battle of the Marne. The first was over the confirmation of Ebert K. Burke as Under-Secretary of Interior. Ickes wanted him. He had long experience in the department. Pittman denounced him as unsuitable for such a post. They fought that out in Public Lands committee and in the Senate. Ickes won.

The second battle began when Pittman proposed to annex part of the public domain about Lake Mead as a recreation ground for Nevada. Boulder Dam backs up water in precipitous Colorado Canyon for 100 miles. A few miles back of the dam one arm of this lake reaches out into Nevada along the Vegas Wash, within 19 miles of desert-bound Las Vegas (10,000 population), in southernmost Nevada. There are 2,610 square miles of federally owned public domain around the reservoir.

Pittman introduced a bill setting aside 12 miles of it as a state park. His 12 miles included the outstanding arm of the lake in Vegas Wash.

Gamblers Interested?
The idea was for the state to set up a resort on the lake shore, attract patrons from far and near, as well as make an outing spot where Las Vegas could sail boats, fish and picnic.

Las Vegas endorsed the plan. So did the state legislature. Bitterly opposed was diminutive Boulder City, created by the six companies which built the dam and now supported in part by the boat concessions at the dam.

Ickes, out west on tour, inspected the park site. Into his ear were poured tales which Pittman says were conjured up by Boulder City concessionaires to block the state park.

The surprised Senate Public Lands committee heard Ickes' reports and ordered hearings, putting Pittman at the head of them.

"It would appear," Ickes wrote, "that as a result of the recent clean-up of anti-social conditions in the city of Los Angeles, a number of gamblers who formerly flourished there have betaken themselves to Las Vegas. It is rumored that they have set about to monopolize the gambling concerns of that city. It is further rumored that they are heartily in support of this state park because they want to extend their enterprises so as to be able to reach out for the tourists who visit Boulder Dam and Lake Mead."

"It would not be the first time that persons with ulterior motives imposed upon a representative or senator (this burned Pittman up) by persuading him to offer a bill that would create an objectionable privilege without obligating to him their ulterior motives."

Suspects Ickes Slap-Back
He pointed out that 160 acres of privately owned land in the park area were reported under option to the Los Angeles exiles. Under Nevada's liberal gambling and saloon license laws, Ickes intimated, there could be "unrestricted drinking and gambling" in the area.

Pittman, suggesting that this was Ickes' way of getting even for his earlier rough handling of Burke, denied there was any gambler motive. He said state laws would prohibit gambling in the entire park area.

He even proposed to gerrymander the 160 acres right out of the park, thus shutting it away from access to the lake.

But Ickes remembered that Nevada's legislature had kept that state the hell-roaringest spot in the U. S.

Pittman termed such an attitude a "reflection on the good name of the state of Nevada," and predicted

SOLOH OFFERS ROAD MEASURE

McClamroch Introduces Roadside Beauty Bill

Raleigh, March 16.—Roland McClamroch, Orange county Representative, has introduced a roadside beautification and safety measure designed to meet the objections made to a previous measure as taking in entirely too much territory and conferring entirely too much authority.

The new bill would authorize the State Highway and Public Works Commission to designate areas within 1,000 feet of the center of any state highway (1) embracing scenes of unusual interest or natural beauty or (2) potential traffic hazards by reason of road intersection and to give notice of such designation to the owner.

After the notice has been given, it would be unlawful to make any material alteration without giving 60 days' notice to the commission. On receipt of such notice the Commission would be authorized to acquire title in fee by purchase, gift or condemnation. If it failed to exercise this right within the specified period any restrictions on use of the area would automatically lapse.

The Commission would likewise be authorized to dispose of any property acquired under the act at any time the need for it ceased.

Proponents of the measure point out that it confers none of the arbitrary powers which made a former bill obnoxious. It protects every right of the property owner and does not permit the Commission to order him to make expensive or radical changes in the layout of his property.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, March 17.—Currituck's game bill, against which there has been a veritable flood of protests and the Port Fisher park bill will get hearings before the Senate Conservation and Development Commission next Tuesday morning, Chairman Emmett Bellamy has announced.

The Currituck bill is opposed by the Department of Conservation and Development and by many who fear that hunting licenses would be raised out of all reason.

The Port Fisher bill has drawn fire from Brunswick county people and from Frank Sherrill, cafeteria tycoon who recently acquired Bald Island. They are afraid New Hanover will absorb them, or something.

Speaking of Sherrill, recalls that the girls in his S. and W. cafeteria here dress up in costume for every holiday. Today, for instance, they are all wearing kippys green hat effects, white harps and clay pipes (made of paper) adorn the walls.

"You know, some Ground Hog day, I expect to come in here and see the girls popping up out of holes to bark at me" said a regular patron.

The ultimate in regulatory legislation has been reached. Yesterday a bill was introduced in the Senate to regulate and control the sale of canned dog food.

You are given just one guess to tell how many members of the General Assembly have read or will read, the 50-page City of Charlotte charter bill introduced a day or so ago by the Mecklenburg delegation.

"I've been getting so many letters with conflicting requests about the personnel of county boards of education, that it is impossible to answer all of them," said Representative Burgin, chairman of the education sub-committee making up the omnibus school board bill. "There seems to be more interest than usual in these appointments. I hope that means increasing interest in school work over the state."

When Representative Quinn of Duplin starts out to ask the courtesies of the galleries and lobbies for some of his friends from back home, he goes right on through until he gets them recognized, no matter what happens. He had a rather lengthy list Wednesday, and as he began to read the names for whom he wanted courtesies given, Speaker Ward interjected: "The lady mentioned has just left the lobby. Quinn read on, and Ward repeated the statement about several others. Finally he said: "The chair would have been very glad to extend the courtesies of the galleries to friends of the gentleman from Duplin, if they hadn't walked out on him." "Well," said Quinn, "I had this list and I was going to read it."

There is still rivalry, albeit more friendly than at some times in the past, between Morehead City, Wilmington and Southport. Last week Senator Bellamy introduced a bill authorizing a shipbuilding at Wilmington. This week Representative Thomas of Southport put in a bill doing the same thing for S-outhport and Morehead City. Then yesterday Representatives LeGrand and Morris sent up a bill providing for establishment at Wilmington by a port commission set-up almost identical with that at Morehead City.

The Senate would pass the bill, and slap Ickes back among his Indian paintings and tiled bathrooms.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters
Assey Mayo, Cape Cod sturgeon.
Brinley, a Billingsgate selectman.

Yesterday: There's no trace of a shell around Mary's house at Hill Hollow.

Chapter 11 Slurs At Slade

IT WAS on his way back to town that Assey met with the soprano who had been practicing with the chorus the day before at the Town Hall. She was pushing a bicycle with a flat tire, and Assey gallantly stopped and offered aid.

"Like to put it in the rumble and drive back?"

"Thanks. The woman was rather massive, and Assey suspected that she was more or less unaccustomed either to bicycling or walking. "I didn't expect this. And I tell you now, as far as bicycling goes, my figure can stay where it is!"

She was so emphatic about it that Assey grinned.

"You're the soprano, ain't you?" he asked as he lifted the wheel into the rumble. "Madame—"

"M-e-a-u-x," she spelled it out. "Not Moo. The next one who moon at me is going to get his teeth pushed in. You," she surveyed with admiration the sixteen-cylindered Porter, "are not a native, are you?"

"Not of this town, so go as far as you like," Assey said. "Tell me, what do you really think of Billingsgate Beautiful?"

Madame Meaux looked at him. "Don't Mrs. Brinley brought me here—she heard me at a Women's Club convention—and I'm grateful, and all that, but I didn't know about Billingsgate Beautiful. Until I got the contract signed, she wrote the words, and the music. And the music, mind you. Let's just pass over Sister Brinley. I want to have kind thoughts about her till Sunday night. I get paid Sunday night. She pays me. Words, mind you, and music, both. Why the words alone should carry twenty years to life with 'em! Say, after you leave this bicycle some place, could you take me down the road a bit? I want to see a man named Slade."

"Mike Slade?"

"Yes. I didn't know he lived here, but I bumped into him last night at the carnival. I was with Sister Brinley—say, she got stuck on the ferris wheel, and I nearly died laughing! Anyway, Mike gave me the high sign—I guess he and Mrs. B. don't click—and later when he got a chance, he said to drop in on him. Great lad, Mike."

"Known him long?"

"Well, I was working on a theater project a couple of years ago, and he was on an art project, and we were in the same office. He got kicked out. Too words. Gee, he was some last night about something. He looked just the way he did when Blackstein—he was our director—fired him."

"That must have been after the fire near his studio," Assey said. "He was only a little sore when I saw him—but say, he ain't home. I just been there. He's probably been found and put to work by now. He's a big shot here, you know."

"He's all right, really," Madame Meaux said, "except he likes to talk, and he gets so easy—well, if he's not around leave me here at the garage, and I'll get home on that thing somehow. I ought to rest, anyway. I got to sing with the rhythm cats tonight, and I need a rest."

"With the what?"

"The yoked swingsters. Upjohn's Merry-men, or whatever they call themselves. Thanks. Be seeing you."

Assey waved and set off for the Town Hall. He had a higher opinion of sopranos, somehow. And it would take considerable force, he felt, to compel this one to warble the ditty about tying apples to a lilac tree.

Pompous Little Man
J. ARTHUR BRINLEY stopped him as he entered the Town Hall by the rear door. Assey knew it was J. Arthur, because his badge said so. There was even a hint of proclamation in the inch and a half high letters.

communist, to become a town officer like anyone else, well, as I said to my wife, that is stretching the democratic form of government a little too far!"

"Well, yes," Assey said, "seems that way, don't it?"

His bland expression never wavered as Brinley looked at him sharply.

"Brinley!" Vincent Tripp beckoned to J. Arthur from the door. "Brinley, quick—er—quickly!"

J. Arthur bustled off, and Assey followed leisurely to the large assembly hall, which was overflowing with people. Seaters, he assumed, since most of them looked both old and settled.

Up on the stage Sara looked off and poised and unperturbed. Jeff sitting directly beneath the American flag, was picturesque and impressive. A McGuffey's statesman than ever. He caught sight of Weston in the background, issuing orders like a major-general.

'Home And Mother'
"THE welcome," J. Arthur was saying, "the welcome of the town to you former residents who have returned to do honor to Billingsgate, the welcome is the welcome your mother would give, and so Mother Billingsgate extends it in this changing world of ours. In this changing world of ours, airplanes and fast cars and tall buildings and — er — streamlined trains, still two things remain sacred. Home," he paused, "home and mother. A mother's love is the most beautiful and sacred thing in life. The older we grow, the more we cherish the associations of childhood, and our old school friends and our old school days. And so, those of us who have stayed here in Billingsgate, so we sent the clarion call out to you who responded by traveling from all parts of our country, and some of you from foreign lands, to come back home. Home to Billingsgate Home for this week of celebration. All of us here have banded together in one great thought to make this home-coming a real welcome to you, a welcome that Assey's eyes met Aunt Sara's. Hurriedly, he edged his way back to the roaster."

But it was not Brinley's oratory that pucker-ed his forehead. It was the absent Slade. Brinley was substituting for Slade. Why should a wordy fellow like Slade pass a chance to talk his head off without interruption in front of so many people? Something was wrong. After all, why fish in silence when an audience that size was waiting?

"Mr. Mayo!"

He hardly needed the badge to identify Mrs. J. Arthur Brinley. Like her husband, she was short and fat and pompous, and her face was red and perspiring. He knew it would be. She reminded him somehow of an old table someone had given his father, a table made of sixty million different little chips of wood. Perhaps it was her three strings of beads, or her rings, or the buttons on her big-figured chiffon dress—anyway, she had a built-up look.

"I do hope," she said, "that my husband has seen you? He has? And he told you about that Slade? You will restrain him, won't you? Rushing around with that shotgun! He was disgraceful. A town officer, brandishing a shotgun, with all our guests! People were shocked! I said to my husband, Arthur, I said—"

"Look," Assey interrupted, "let's get to the bottom of this. You an' Mr. Brinley tell me what after the brush fire last night, Mike Slade was up town, brandishing a shotgun. Am I right up to that point?"

"Well, he wasn't exactly brandishing it, but he had a shotgun with him openly, and it upset a number of people, including many Old Settlers. It upset them very much. Naturally it is upsetting when—"

"Yes. But what did he have a gun along with him for? Decoration, or use, or what?"

"Didn't Arthur tell you? Arthur tried to restrain him, and Slade was very rude, and told him to get away and lay an—oh, he was just as rude as you'd expect someone like him to be. He said—why, the things he said!"

"Yes, I know. Outspoken sort. An Old Settler. But what explanation did he give your husband?"

"Why, it really wasn't an explanation, at all, really. The man was either drunk, or crazy. He said he had a shotgun with him, and he intended to carry it with him as long as he lived like it, and certainly until he got the chance to shoot back at whoever had been shooting at him!"

Danced for Doctors

Pretty Geraldine Wilkie (above) 19, of Rutherfordton, N. C., is shown after she danced before a meeting of the American College of Surgeons in Baltimore to show how a bone operation corrected her lameness. One leg was three inches shorter than the other and a section of bone was removed from the normal leg to make it conform with the other.

thousand dollars out of balance, and there was no telling what might happen.

But, of a sudden, the Commissioner of Revenue reached the convenient conclusion that receipts from taxes levied in the Revenue bill are going to be many, many thousands higher than anyone had ever thought they would. Not only that, but receipts during the current fiscal year are some, to be so much higher than anyone thought that there will be a much bigger surplus with which to begin the next biennium.

It was all very thrilling, and timely, and to say the least, of a kind.

Of course, there are skeptical souls such as Senator A. B. Carey who look with jaundiced eye on the Maxwell re-estimates. The Pitt county lawmaker even went so far as to profess open, unabated disbelief that any such great and startling light had just broken thru the clouded heavens.

Then, too, there are others such as Senators Lyn Ballentine who can very truthfully say "I told you so." The Wake Senator, for example, has been consoling many of his serious-minded colleagues for some time with advice something like this:

"Don't take things so seriously. When the proper time comes Mr. Maxwell and Mr. Devton will suddenly discover that they've been all wrong in their estimates, and will come up with the glad tidings that there's going to be plenty to meet all appropriations."

And so it has come to pass—at least Mr. Maxwell has done his stuff as per program.

First concrete result of the Maxwell letter was postponement until Tuesday of Senate consideration of the Appropriations bill.

In communication the Commissioner said he would be in better position to give full details and figures on expected tax increases by next week.

Senator Rodman said, both on and off the floor, that in deference to the Maxwell letter there was nothing but to put off the bill, but he served stern warning that he, at least, is not going to be cajoled into supporting appropriation increases unless and until he is satisfied beyond the proverbial reasonable doubt that there will be funds available from the Revenue bill with which to meet them. He described the Appropriations Committee's stand thus:

"We have not wished to reduce appropriations but our Pole Star has been to leave here with a balanced budget."

To other Senators and to news men after yesterday's session he made it amply clear that he is not to be stampeded into support of higher appropriations merely by Maxwell's tentative estimate that there will be more money available.

"There isn't much else we can do now, but examine the matter thoroughly," he said in effect. "If we are convinced that there will be more money than we have up to now thought, then we can make corresponding increases. If we are not so convinced, we can and will stand firm against increases unless there is provided in a supplemental Revenue bill enough money to meet them."

All in all, the new developments seem to portend adoption of the higher appropriations of the House version; but it will not be done hurriedly and without serious thought and examination.

DIAMOND DOPE

A meeting of the directors of the Coastal Plain League will be held in Greenville Thursday, March 23, at 7:30 P. M., according to an announcement sent out today by J. B. Eure of Ayden, president of the league.

Finals plans for the opening of the league and the clarifying of various rules for the classification of players, are expected to be the chief topics of debate at this meeting.

The meeting will be held in the form of a supper meeting, at which time the Greenville Club will be host. The place of the meeting has not been definitely decided upon, but will likely be held at the private dining room of the Practor Hotel.

Vincent Smith, ace catcher of the Greens last season, wrote from his home town, Richmond, Va., today that he would be in the Greens line-up again this coming season and would be here when spring training gets under way on March 29th. No word has as yet been heard from Alex Daniels, relief catcher and utility man of the Greens last season.

Rube Wilson, manager of the local club of the Coastal Plain loop, has opened up a private office up town in order that he can attend his duties as manager in a more efficient way. The office is located in the Munford building on Five Points and is office number one, telephone number 829.

Interested in seeing young men enter baseball as a profession, Rube Wilson, manager of the Greens, has declared he will be glad to help any youngsters who wish to practice with the Greens when they start spring training.

Any youngster interested in the training camp offer is asked to get in touch with the manager. The youths will supply their own uniforms, shoes and gloves. In addition they will pay their own expenses while in camp.

By all means let us not forget that the baseball club will need your wholehearted support to give Greenville a winning ball club. A winning team deserves your support and certainly the Greens are out to win and not lose this season. It is true that they cannot win every game that they play, but with your support they can win the majority of games.

The writer of this column, who will be official scorer, will from time to time try to give to followers of baseball, the latest dope on what is happening in the Greenville camp. The reader may rest assured that the latest information available on players and their doings will be given daily after the spring training gets underway and especially when the season actually gets started.

Wake Devises Way to Avoid Difficulty

Reflector Bureau.
By LYNN NISBET
Raleigh, March 16.—A device for promoting harmony among legislative delegations was originated by the Wake county group this week, and is commended to others where it may be more needed.

There has been no friction among the three house members from Wake nor between them and the senator. On one or two occasions there have been charges of delaying procedure but the delay was not serious.

Then came along the bill authorizing an election on a city manager plan of government for Raleigh. The house boys didn't intend to get out on the well known limb and have the limb sawed off.

In the very best of humor they again this season. You remember that team which won its last twenty-seven out of thirty-two games and won their last twelve games in a row, four of which were at the expense of the Kinston Eagles.

prepared a formal phrased contract, set up in approved legal style, with lots of whereas and therefore, and with the word "Witnesseth" in capital letters, "by and between" the representatives and the senator, binding all signatories to support the city manager election bill from its introduction to its final passage.

So far as Wake county is concerned that agreement is a joke. But there are county delegations here among whom such a contract would materially further local legislation—if signatures could be obtained. Several instances have occurred of worthwhile measures being killed or ignored by one branch of the assembly after passing the other just because of jealousy or friction between the members.

For all such, the plan devised by the capital county group is commended.

Two Forest Fires In Pitt This Week

C. A. Bowling, Pitt county, fire warden, today declared that twenty-three forest fires had been experienced in the county since the beginning of the new fiscal period, July 15 1938.

Fire Warden Bowling said that two fires occurred this week in Chicod township. One of the blazes destroyed about 100 acres of timberland, while the other damaged only from eight to nine acres. He explained that from 15 to 18 of this year's fires had occurred in Chicod township.

He cautioned landowners to be careful while burning timberlands and called attention to the fact that a permit has to be secured before land can be burned off.

ONE ELECTION RULE CHANGED

Sole Reform Increases Democratic Vote

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, March 17.—As the Senate Elections Law committee proceeds at a pace which may, if stepped up a bit, keep the snails from whizzing past, it is the subject of considerable comment that the only election "reform" measure so far enacted at this session was confessedly and frankly designed to enable poll holders to count more Democratic votes.

Reference is made to the "Split Ticket" act which has been approved by both House and Senate. It was supported on the grounds that it will add some thousands—perhaps as many as 20,000, in some instances—to the Democratic vote.

Here's what it does. In the past a voter who marked in the party circle on his ticket and then put the little (x) opposite the name of any candidate of another party thereby invalidated his ballot as to all candidates on it except those opposite whose names he put the (x). Under the law as changed at this session election officials will count such ballots for all candidates in the party columns except those for whose opponents the voter has marked the (x).

There isn't any denial anywhere that this will add votes to Democratic candidates. So that's already a law while all other reforms demanded by an outraged populace are somewhere between introduction and the waste basket.

The Senate's sub-committee from the full Election law committee has two "mountainers" and Willie Lee Lumpkin in it and poor Willie Lee has been clamoring in vain for action which he can't get.

One member of the full committee who asked not to be named expressed it: "If the wrath of God is as slow as that sub-committee majority, then we're all safe for a long, long time."

U. S. ACCUSES NAZIS OF 'WANTON LAWLESSNESS' FOR TAKING TERRITORY (Continued from page one) The Minister, Colonel Hurban, said in a statement he had informed the Prague foreign affairs ministry he did not recognize President Hacha's capitulation as valid, "in as much as it is unconstitutional."

Other developments: The Senate postponed action on controversial revision of the government's reorganization bill after several members had indicated opposition.

On motion of Senator McNary (R-Ore.) the minority leader, the chamber delayed until Monday a vote on a provision exempting a score of independent agencies from the proposed presidential power to reorganize federal bureaus.

The House Ways and Means committee voted unanimously to exclude farm labor, domestic help and employees of religious, charitable and non-profit institutions from any revision of the Social Security act which may be made at this session.

Announce Ratings For Eating Places

Ratings for eating establishments in Greenville and Pitt county for the month of February were released today by the Pitt County Health Department.

Inspections in the county are conducted by J. H. Moore, while Inspector J. T. Welch does in the work in the city. This work is done under the supervision of Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer.

Dr. Ennett declared, "I am always exceedingly anxious that eating places in the county reveal good sanitation ratings, in that many visitors judge the work of the health department by the evidence of the sanitation they find in the eating places."

Grade A cafes having a rating of from 90 to 100; Grade B, 80 to 90, and Grade C, 70 to 80. All eating places receiving a rating below "C" must be closed, or the operators will be subject to indictment.

Plant Beds Injured By Rain And Cold Raleigh, March 17.—Rain and cold weather is severely damaging plant beds and other farming operations in Eastern North Carolina. It was reported today by John W. Goodman, assistant director of the State College Extension service.

Basing his statement on reports from county farm agents of the Extension Service, Goodman said that wet weather damage is apparently being mistaken for infestation of blue mold in tobacco plant beds in several sections.

L. G. Matthis, Craven County agent said: "Several reports that blue mold is prevalent in the county have reached this office. However, we believe that the damage is due to excessive rain rather than blue mold. At present it looks like practically all Irish potatoes will have to be replanted before a stand is obtained."

B. M. Swaggood, Lenoir County agent, reports that water has seriously damaged tobacco beds in his section. "Plants are beginning to turn yellow in some beds. Farmers in the Moss Hill section of Trent Township are using straw on 90 per cent of their beds this season and the plants in these straw beds have a little better color than others. However, grass and weeds seem to be worse in the straw beds" he said.

Plymouth Gets Industry. Richmond, Va., March 17.—(AP)—The Cherry River Paper Company announced today that within the next eight months it will move its plants to Plymouth, N. C.
