DECLARED FOR TO COOPERATE IN TEAM-WORK

Said To Have Agreed To Proposal For Cooperation

TO MAKE KNOWN ANY PROPOSALS

Leaders to Be Apprised of any Legislative Suggestions Before Any Action Taken

Washington, March 18.—(AP)—Democratic senators reported today that President Roosevelt had agreed to a "team-work" proposal by administration supporters in the Senate.

Under the chief executive is supposed, they said, to appraise senators of his party of legislative proposals he has in mind, and to give them an opportunity of making protests or suggestions before action is taken.

This democratic peace proposal was agreed to, it was said, when four first terminators visited the White House last week-end. The four, Schwarz (D-Wyo.), Eilenber (D-La) Lee (D-Okla.) and Mead (D-N.Y.) came out announcing they were supporting the President's request for an $150,000,000 of additional WPA fund, which Congress refused recently, but now is considering again.

Other developments: There will be 68,200 more acres planted in tobacco this year than last, if an estimate of the Federal Crop Reporting board is correct.

The board estimated 1,694,900 acres would be grown in 1939.

Under the board figures North Carolina's production would jump from 603,000 to 672,000. South Carolina would plant 112,000, an increase of 10,000 acres.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, apparently was unperturbed at being named defendant in a justice department anti-trust suit against the motion picture industry.

At Hollywood, where "Jimmy" is a board member of United Artists his only comment was: "I believe I have been named in the place of James Mulvey, whose place I took on the United Artists' board."

Administration supporters in the Senate backed up the State Department's condemnation of Germany's march into Czechoslovakia with proposals that the President be given greater freedom to deal with the dictator nations.

Fleming Candidate Again From First

L. B. Fleming, mayor pro tem for the past two years and a member of the Greenville Board of aldermen for the past five years, today announced his candidacy for the city's governing body from the first ward.

Mr. Fleming was appointed to the board during the administration of the late Mayor R. C. Flanagan who resigned. Since then he has been elected to three regular two-year terms.

The new candidate, in addition to having served as mayor pro tem during the administration drawing to a close, has served on several important committees, including chairmanship of the Finance committee.

A native of Greenville, he has lived here all his life and has been connected with the Flanagan Bug-bug company for the past 25 years.

Funeral Conducted For Pitt Resident

Samuel Phillips, 72, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bruce Phillips, of near Ayden, Friday afternoon around 6 o'clock following several years of declining health. He had been confined about 18 months.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the daughter's home by the Rev. Clifton Rice, Free Will Baptist minister. Burial was in Grifton cemetery.

Mr. Phillips was a retired farmer and a member of Little Creek Free Will Baptist Church near Ayden.

He is survived by the following children: Johnny, Guy and Lacy Phillips, all of Grifton; Albert Phillips, Kinston; Mrs. Pittman and Mrs. Ray Hardison, Stokes, and 3 brothers, Jesse and William Phillips of Ayden, and Joe Phillips, of Monroe.

Sharp Increase Seen In 1939 Flue-Cured Crop

Raleigh, March 18.—(AP)—Growers of flue-cured tobacco in North Carolina have indicated they intend to increase their acreage this year 11 per cent above 1938. The State Department of Agriculture reported today in its March State-Federal "intention to plant" survey.

"Ability of Tar Heel farmers to carry out their intentions will depend upon weather conditions during April and May and upon an adequate supply of plants. W. H. Rhodes, chief of the department's statistics division, said.

Tuesday night will mark the celebration of the Pitt County Post's twentieth anniversary. Auxiliary members of the American Legion will be the hostesses for the occasion.

The report said North Carolina farmers intended to plant 663,000 acres in flue-cured tobacco, six per cent above the state's past 10-year average. The department listed anticipated increases of 10 per cent in Virginia, 16 per cent in South Carolina, eight per cent in Georgia and 15 per cent in Florida.

The intended acreages were listed by North Carolina belts as follows: Eastern North Bright Belt, 328,000 acres, 14 per cent above last year.

Old Bright Belt, 267,000 acres, 9 per cent above last year.

Border, or South Carolina belt, 63,000 acres, 12 per cent above last year.

By ROGER W. BABSON Palm Beach, Fla., March 18.—Few people realize the terrific changes which have taken place in the commercial banking business since 1929. If some banker had Rip Van Winkled himself in 1929 and awakened today, he would scarcely recognize the industry.

Commercial banking has been revolutionized. The spectacular decline in interest rates symbolizes this transformation. In 1929, New York banks charged their regular customers 5.88 per cent; today the rate is only 2.24 per cent—the lowest on record. The same trend has taken place in banks throughout the east and north of the country where current rates are 3.33 per cent against 6.04 per cent in 1929; and 4.09 per cent in southern and western districts against 6.14 per cent in the "good old days."

"Squeeze" On Depositors.—As a result of the drop in rates which banks charge, the squeeze has been put on depositors. No interest is now paid on checking accounts, which formerly received two per cent. Savings deposits now get a paltry two and a half per cent against three and a half to four and a half in 1929. The loss of billions of dollars of commercial loans raised havoc with bank earnings. There are two reasons why this loan

Declines Price Set for Territorial Integrity

HITLER WANTS ALL OF EXPORTS

Not Made Clear Whether Demands By Germany Constitute Ultimatum On Bucharest

London, March 18.—(AP)—A spokesman of the Rumanian legation said today that his government had received and rejected sweeping demands by Germany for complete economic cooperation as the price of guarantees of Rumanian territorial security.

Diplomats here understood, although no confirmation could be obtained in Bucharest, that Dr. Wohlthat made demands while on a trade mission to the Rumanian capital.

These proposals were said to be that Germany would guarantee territorial integrity and independence to the Rumanian people if Rumania would export exclusively to Germany grain, oil, lumber, cattle and food stuffs.

Rumania would be expected to cease building up her industries and return instead to agriculture.

The Rumanian legation spokesman in London said presentation of these demands to Rumania by Germany had been confirmed by government sources in Bucharest.

The "proposals" were immediately rejected, the spokesman said. As to whether the demands constituted an ultimatum, the spokesman observed that usage of such a term implied the threat that if the demands were not accepted they would be followed by some form of punitive action.

In that sense, he said, that Germany's "proposals" were perhaps not an ultimatum.

BRIEF SESSION FOR ASSEMBLY

House Gets Two Bills and Passes 5; Senate Passes Eleven

Raleigh, March 18.—(AP)—In brief routine sessions today, the House received two new bills and passed five and the Senate approved 11 measures.

The Senate passed and ordered enacted into law a House bill to repeal a 1937 act which permitted Haywood county townships to establish liquor stores if approved by the voters of the townships, whether or not the rest of the county remained dry.

Senator Cogburn of Haywood said no liquor dispensaries had been established under the act.

Reported favorably by Senate Judiciary committee number one was a substitute for Senate bill 19 to clarify the bastardy laws.

Today's legislative calendar included: Passed by Senate and ordered enacted into law: House bill 579, relating to fees of the Hertford county sheriff.

House bill 601, to repeal a law providing the establishment of liquor stores in Haywood county.

House bill 601, to incorporate the Pasquotank county salary and fee fund in the general fund.

House bill 754, relating to the drawing or juries in Wayne county.

Britain Contends Nazis Violated Pact Of Munich

Directs Ambassador To Deliver Formal Note

MESSAGE ALSO SENT BY FRANCE

Democracies Charge Invasion of Czechoslovakia Complete Repudiation of Munich Pact

London, March 18.—(AP)—The British government, acting in concert with France, directed its ambassador in Berlin to deliver a formal note to the German government saying the invasion of Czechoslovakia represented "a complete repudiation of the Munich agreement."

The British foreign office announced also that the note which Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson was instructed to present would state that "his majesty's government regard as without legal basis the changes effected by Germany's military action in Czechoslovakia."

The French government announced to Paris that a similar note would be presented by the French Ambassador in Berlin.

The British announcement, outlining the nature of the note to be presented, said that "recent events in central Europe represent a complete repudiation of the Munich agreement and the undertakings of peaceful co-operations exchanged at that time by the parties to it."

The announcement added that "the British government further regards as without legal basis the changes effected by German military action in Czechoslovakia."

Meanwhile Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax consulted the American, French and Soviet Russian ambassadors.

German Ambassador Von Dirksen also called, giving rise to speculation that he might have been ordered to return to Berlin in retaliation for Britain's calling home of Ambassador Henderson "to report."

Indicating the urgency with which Britain considered the situation, Prime Minister Chamberlain also summoned the cabinet to an unusual Saturday night meeting.

County's CCC Quota Revealed By Futrell

T. J. Grier, supervisor of CCC selections, of the North Carolina Department of Labor, today advised K. T. Futrell, superintendent of Public Welfare in Pitt county, that twenty white and eight colored juveniles of this county will be allowed to report at Washington, N. C., Wednesday morning, April 5, for enrollment.

It was revealed by Supervisor Grier that a combined total of 2,455 juveniles will be enrolled in North Carolina Civilian Conservation Corps camps next month.

Futrell requested that boys coming under the age limitation of CCC regulations, are not to place an application for enrollment if they already have work. He said that many boys leave the plow on the farm to get in a CCC camp. In such instances, the applicant is rejected.

McBryde Trains Guns On Insurance Companies

Reflector Bureau. By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, March 18.—When fire insurance companies collect approximately three times as much in premiums as they pay out on loss claims, Representative Lacey McBryde thinks something ought to be done about it. He offered a bill in the house yesterday providing for a three-man commission to be named by the governor to study the insurance situation and to make recommendations before the next legislative session.

This bill was introduced just about thirty minutes after the house public utilities committee had given an overwhelming unfavorable vote on McBryde's Cape Fear Valley Authority bill. Last week the same committee made short work of killing a McBryde resolution calling for a rural telephone survey.

The Cumberland representative takes all his likings with a smile—and comes back with new threats of investigation into public utility activity.

The preamble to the measure setting up the insurance investigation committee recites that during the past year old line stock fire insurance companies in North Carolina collected over $39,000,000 in premium and paid out about $15,000,000 in losses. That figures just 39.9 per cent of premium collections. Mutual companies didn't even do that well. The mutuals collected $5,800,000 and paid out $1,900,000, or just about 32 per cent.

Mr. McBryde admits that insurance companies ought to make some money. He doesn't think they ought to have to pay out all that they receive in premiums. But he does not think that there is any excuse for collecting three times as much as the fire loss.

NAZIS REJECT PROTEST NOTES

Contend Absorption of Czechoslovakia Legal

Berlin, March 18.—(AP)—The German foreign office spokesmen today declared Germany would meet with "sharpest repudiation" British and French notes denouncing the absorption of Czechoslovakia as illegal.

With Adolf Hitler on his way home from Vienna and the pace of his "march to the east" quickening at the threshold of Rumanian oil and wheat fields, Berlin officialdom stood its ground and declared that erasure of the Czechoslovak republic was "done legally."

Meanwhile, Hitler put Germany's authority over her new Bohemian-Moravian protectorate in the skilled diplomatic hands of Baron von Neurath, while officials indicated that they attached primary importance to United States and British official condemnation of the seizure of Czechoslovakia.

Von Neurath, president of the Nazi secret cabinet council and former foreign minister, was named Reichs-Protector of the 7,000,000 inhabitants of Bohemia-Moravia before Hitler left Vienna after a three day tour of his new realm.

Nazi spokesmen in Berlin branded as "arrant nonsense" foreign reports that Hitler had put Hungary and Rumania next on his list for subjugation on his march to the east.

They said, however, that Dr. Wohlthat was still in Bucharest as head of a German economic commission.

Speaking of the condemnations of Germany's course by United States Acting Secretary of State Welles and British Prime Minister Chamberlain, an official spokesman in Berlin said that "every syllable must be weighed" before any official German reply is made.

FRENCH ENVOY RECALLED FOR CONSULTATION

France Holds Czechoslovakia Occupation Illegal

DALADIER GIVEN DECREE POWERS

Premier's Vote Of Confidence 334 To 258; Proposed Ballot When Policies Attacked

Paris, March 18.—(AP)—France today summoned her ambassador to Berlin back to Paris for consultation and dispatched a note to the Nazi government saying she did not recognize the German occupation of Czechoslovakia as legitimate.

Both moves paralleled actions by Great Britain. The British government yesterday ordered its ambassador from Berlin and today sent a note similar to France's.

These moves came as Premier Daladier won a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies during debate on his demand for secret and almost dictatorial powers.

The Ambassador to Berlin, Robert Clouandre, was instructed to present the French note to Germany at once.

In answer to the summons to return to Paris, it was expected the envoy would arrive here Monday for consultation and a report on the situation.

Daladier's vote of confidence was 334 to 252. The balloting was on a motion that the lower house refuse to discuss the decree demands.

The Premier posed the question of confidence after a violent attack on his policies by a Rightist deputy. The deputy charged that the French government knew about German troop concentrations for entry into Czechoslovakia well in advance of the actual entry.

Foreign Minister Bonnet admitted he had heard of them as early as last Saturday but insisted that he took up the matter with Britain at once.

Wreck Case Heard Before J. I. Smith

C. L. Laughinghouse, Pitt county man today was bound over to the next term of Pitt Superior court, beginning April 17, by Magistrate John Ivey Smith when probable cause was found in a case charging him with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, using an automobile as a weapon. Bond was set at $500.

Thomas Bristley, Laughinghouse's son-in-law, testified that Laughinghouse deliberately ran over him with his automobile. The accident occurred near Stokes this week. Highway Patrolman C. R. Williams said the trouble grew out of an alleged family dispute. Bristley was treated at Pitt General Hospital for slight injuries received in the accident.

Week's Wash Stolen From Family In Pitt

Sheriff J. Knott Proctor and his deputies today were investigating an unusual theft which occurred last night.

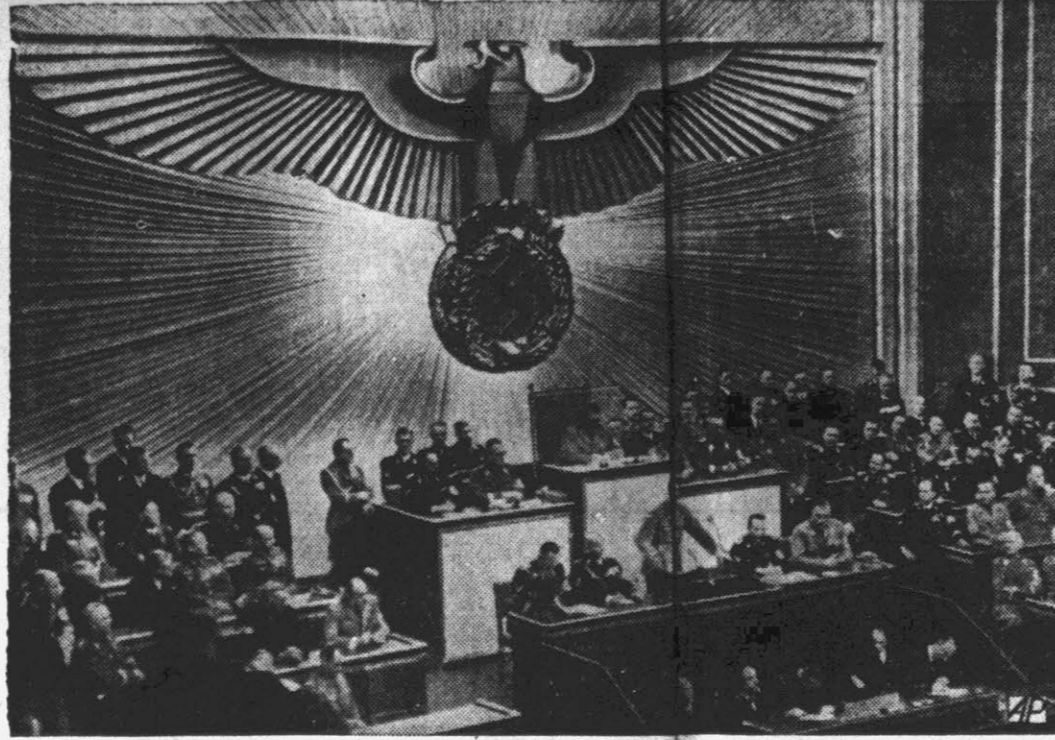

J. E. Jones and family, residing near Greenville north of the Tar River, went to bed last night with the week's wash hanging on the line. When they got up this morning, all of the clothes were gone.

The officers found the clothing in a wood about 100 yards from the Jones home today. Bristley was confronted with the perplexing problem of rounding up the person or persons who took them.

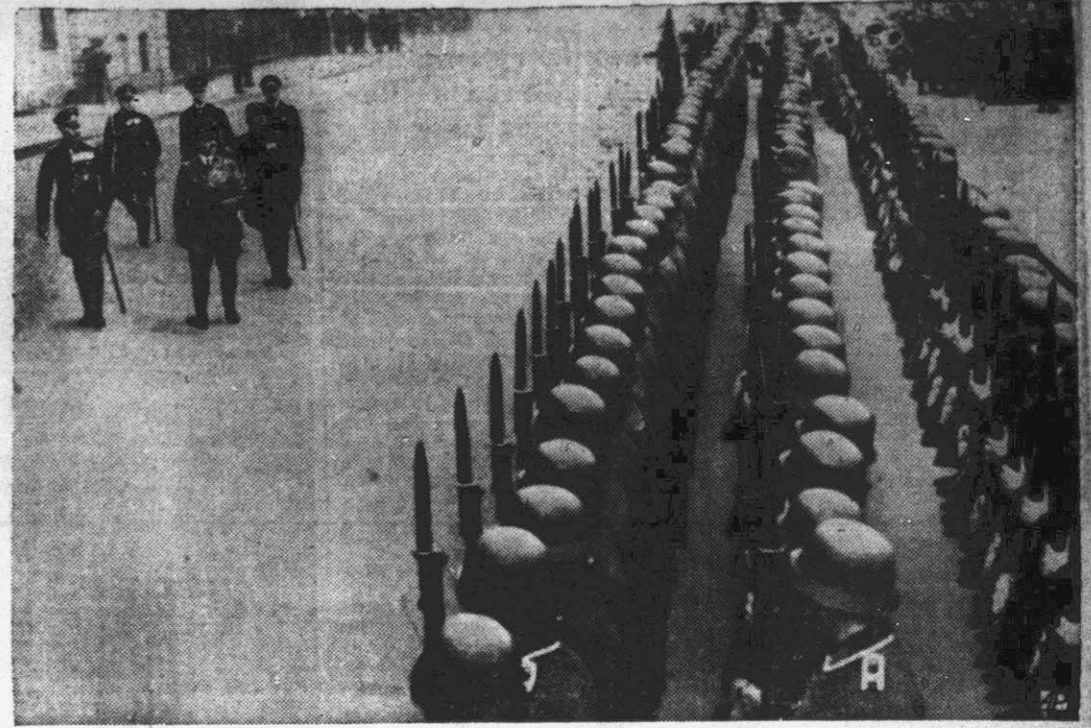

Hitler's Climb To Mastery In Europe

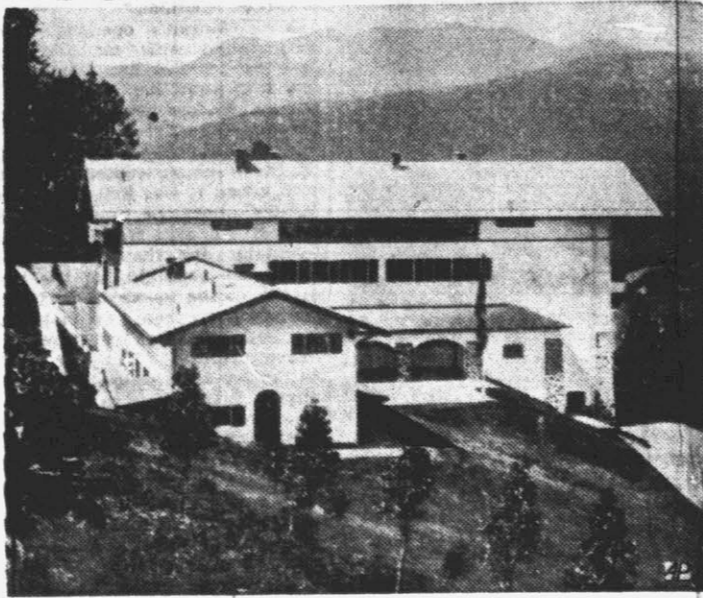

MASTER MAP-MAKER is celibate Adolf Hitler, the one-time Austrian paperhanger who became German chancellor. After his "blood purge" of the Nazis June 30, 1934, he remade Europe, turning Germany's war defeat into victories for himself and national socialism. The democracies' alarm spread to U. S.

SIX YEARS OF POWER were commemorated by Hitler in addressing the January, 1939, Reichstag (above) when for the first time 73 Austrian and 41 Sudeten deputies from land acquired in 1938 sat with German deputies. Hitler spoke of Germany's "peaceful frontiers along the west, south and north." He didn't mention the east where lies the Soviet Ukraine so rich in oil, grains.

SCRAPPING THE VERSAILLES TREATY. Adolf Hitler remilitarized the Rhineland, restored army conscription, built up the air force, revived the fleet. He let Field Marshal Goering, director of the four-year plan, worry about Germany's economic self-sufficiency and the urgent need of raw materials for national expansion. The Nazi anti-Jew drive went on with relentless finality.

AMID LOFTY ALPS sits Berchtesgaden, the Fuehrer's Bavarian retreat, where foreign statesmen could survey a peaceful scene and hear Hitler threaten use of Nazi might to further his pan-Germanic dream—union of all Germans under a swastika.

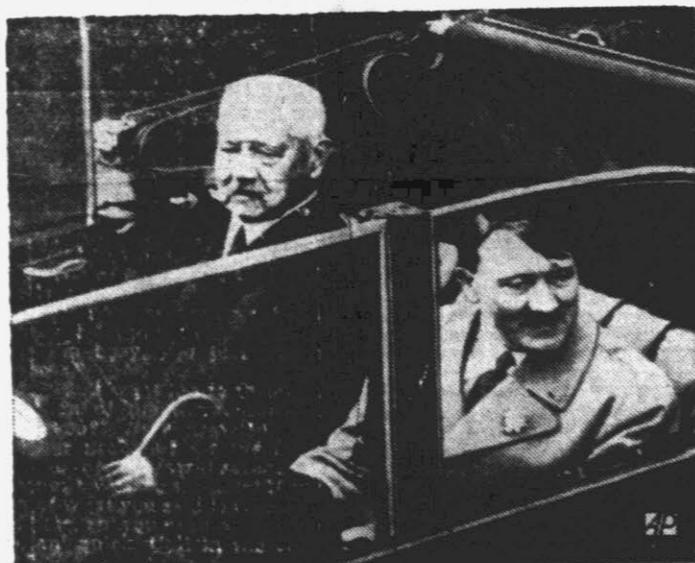

DEBT TO MUSSOLINI (left), his partner in the Rome-Berlin axis linking two powerful dictator nations, has been acknowledged by Hitler. He wrote: "At that period (about 1923) I conceived a fervent admiration for the great man south of the Alps." Hitler's Reichstag speech Jan. 30, 1939, promised that in case of a war against Italy, Germany would be "at her friend's side."

'COMMON MAN' touch is found in this non-uniformed Hitler free from "helling" followers. This was summer, 1935.

I BELIEVE IT WAS THE WILL OF GOD to send this little boy to Germany to make him Fuehrer . . . and to bring Austria back to Germany." With this humble tribute to the Delft, Hitler justified his whirlwind annexation of Austria whereby the Reich gained 32,369 square miles, 6,760,233 people. Above, Hitler reaches Vienna; he formally claimed Austria March 13, 1938.

A DEATH HASTENED Hitler's rise for on Aug. 2, 1934, Pres. Paul von Hindenburg (left) died leaving the man he'd named chancellor Jan. 30, 1933, in full power. The offices of chancellor and president were united in one ambitious man: Hitler.

NOW A NAZI SHRINE, this house in Braunau, Upper Austria, was Hitler's birthplace Apr. 20, 1889. Braunau was on what was then the Austro-German border, a fitting native city for Hitler; even as a youth his "heart was never in love with an Austrian monarchy but ever beat for a German Reich."

3 1/2 MILLION German residents and the formidable Czech defense lines and pillbox gun nests (as above) were Hitler's prize after the Sept. 29, 1938, Munich meeting agreed to let him have Sudetenland.

AFTER MUNICH, where England's umbrella-toting Neville Chamberlain (left) got a phrase, "peace in our time," and Hitler (right) got the Sudetenland, anxious nations studied Germany's superior air strength, speeded up their plane production.

REBORN NAVY gave Hitler additional evidence of Nazi power, along with planes and tanks, to show distinguished guests such as Hungary's regent, Admiral Horthy (front). Horthy's visit in September, 1938, followed a typical pattern.

RARELY SEEN sister of Hitler shared political news items with him at party headquarters in Munich in 1932.

FOR THE DREAMER Adolf two such hustlers as smooth-tongued Joseph Goebbels (center) and plump Hermann Goering (right) were needed—to translate Hitler vision into fact.

AS HE WAS—THEN! A corporal (left) whose war valor won him an Iron Cross; a prisoner in Cell 7 of Landsberg fortress where in 1924 he served eight months of a 5-year term for the abortive Munich "beer cellar-putsch"; a prophet (right) who in 1930 said he'd establish the Third Reich.

AS HE BECAME! A moody, impassioned orator whose simplest word could soothe or stimulate Nazi millions. In April, 1938, he shouted: "Now I am in power and I shall not give it up."

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, 12—Even though the galleries and lobbies were more or less crowded with school teachers, the Senate set a new all-time low in the matter of utter indifference to what was going on at its Friday session.

Caswell's Senator Joe Warren moved that the rules be suspended in order that a bill of his be put upon its immediate passage, but didn't even exert himself to vote when the motion was put.

Senator Jack Mowph showed he was glad to get the controversial absentee bill out of his committee.

"Mr. President, I take great pleasure in sending up a committee report out of order," he announced smiling broadly.

Floor courtesies were extended to former Senator Ed Flanagan at Friday's Senate session. Also the full-grown adult son of Wayland Spruill was made an honorary page.

Another honorary page was conferred upon Pat Taylor, Jr., small son of the Senator from Anson.

Major Gillette was telling the Public Utilities Committee about the army engineers' survey of the Cape Fear Valley.

Representative McBryde, and all the good folks in and around Fayetteville were properly thanked for the hospitality extended to the House of Representatives at the fish fry Wednesday.

Just before the House adjourned Friday Bladen's Page, who is chairman of the committee on Justices of the Peace, got up to announce that "if any of the boys have any Justices of the Peace they want put in, send the names to me at once."

Whatever else may be charged against Senator Ralph Gardner connection with his fight for retention of the absentee ballot in all general and primary elections, he cannot be accused of inconsistency.

Senator Fred Folger told me yesterday that he could not be here today, but that he wanted to vote for my amendment.

BILL ENACTED ON DIPHTHERIA

Compulsory Immunization Measure Becomes Law

Raleigh, March 15—If the senate concurs in a minor amendment to the act requiring the immunization against diphtheria of all children between six and twelve months of age will become the law of North Carolina.

Brief debate preceding the vote by which the Long senate bill passed the house was humorous, and every speaker was cognizant of the far reaching import of the measure.

"The gentlemen qualifies under the intelligence test," commented the speaker.

Such opposition as developed to final passage of the bill was led by Representative Cherry of Gaston and LeGrand of Wilmington.

Underlying the humor, however, was the strain of very serious thought. Preventive measures have practically wiped out yellow fever, typhoid fever and smallpox.

Referring to the large number of North Carolina citizens in Washington elsewhere in Washington, he said that the elimination of absentee voting disfranchises them.

These absentee votes may be needed more than some senators of their number. The national situation, according to the youngest senator, is extremely uncertain.

Gardner might have gotten a favorable vote on his amendment but for the appeal of Willie Lee Lumpkin, rated as a champion election-law reform advocate.

Major Gillette said but near everything Gardner said but he warned that time is getting short and that it will be disastrous to the Democratic party not to do something about that legislation comes by compromise, and he doesn't believe any stronger bill be acceptable to the house of representatives.

Coons Climbs Aboard 'Stagecoach' And Finds It Is Always In Motion

Riding toward a climax in "Stagecoach" As Hollywood correspondent of the AP Feature Service and The Reflector Robbin Coons harnessed in the Monument Valley of the Month—with reasons.

By ROBBIN COONS AP Feature Service Writer HOLLYWOOD — Along the movie trails encountered a number of excellent vehicles.

Riding with it, however, I'd make point of detouring by "The Little Princess" to catch Shirley Temple in her best production.

"Stagecoach," like last month's "Gunga Din," is a motion picture and it has a depth and a compression that the magnificent panorama of last month's foremost movie can't quite equal.

be the birth of their child; Mr. Peacock (Donald Meek) who sells whiskey and preaches tinted little sermons; and an absconding banker (Berton Churchill).

Always Upward. With Buck (Andy Devine) at the reins, the stagecoach sets off on its hazardous journey — and the audience begins an adventure of suspense which never falters.

"Stagecoach" is the story of 48 hours in the lives of a weirdly assorted group of passengers, thrown together for travel through the perils of Apache warfare.

There is Dallas, the dance hall girl (Claire Trevor) expelled by the virtuous ladies of Tonto; there is the Ringo Kid (John Wayne) innocent escaped convict who must surrender in order to reach Lordsburg, where he has an old score to settle; and Hatsfield, a mysterious gambler (John Carradine); Doc Boone (Thomas Mitchell), a frontier physician too fond of drink; Curly Wilcox, the U. S. marshal (George Bancroft); Lucy Mallory (Louise Platt), an army officer's wife hurrying to reach her husband

With less skilful direction, writing and editing, "Stagecoach" could have been just another western movie. As it is, each of its characters becomes a human being, and even with Indians—for sheer physical excitement there have been few sequences to equal these—and it flows beyond that climax to another yet more gripping.

The star of the film is John Ford, the director. Under his hand, a skilled cast performs, each in his niche, as though born to the roles.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters
Asey Mays, Cape Cod sleuth.

Yesterday, J. Arthur Brinley and his wife have nothing nice to say about Slade, the artist.

Chapter 12
Disappearance

"YOU don't mean it," Aunt Sara said. "You can't mean it, Asey."

"I do," Asey assured her firmly. "You think I'm joking? D'you think I'd try to be funny, under the circumstances?"

"But I simply can't believe it," Sara shook her head as she poured out another cup of tea.

"I've never understood baseball, but it gives me such an appetite, and it'll spoil my dinner entirely to gorge myself now."

"Same kind of paper, too," Asey said. "Same kind of ink, I'll give 'em to Lane, to make sure."

"What do you make of this?" Weston demanded. "What's he found out?"

"Nothing I know of," Asey said. "This is all Slade's own brain wave. What do you think?"

"A Bunch of Thistles"
I DON'T think he possibly could have had anything to do with Mary Randall," Weston said slowly.

"He's a fighter, but he wouldn't fight that way. He'd rather shoot you full of words. And he wouldn't have left any notes for me. What think is that he's been scared off. He's led a funny life, and his past is shady, and what I think is he recognized someone, some visitor, who'd known him before, and someone he didn't want to meet again."

"The facts in the case, to coin a phrase," Sara said.

"Asey didn't let her sarcasm bother him. They are. An' his shotgun ain't around, an' he has two empty cartons in his book case, an' the labels on 'em say deer ball an' buckshot. You can figure it out any way you please. You can figure that he killed Mary Randall an' exited in haste, or you can figure that the person who got Mary also got him. There you are."

"I never thought of that," Sara said. "The possibility that he might be harmed. That must be it. I'd never believe he had anything to do with Mary. Asey, what are we going to do? Don't you think we'd just better let Billingsgate go, and let the thing be made public? After all, suppose someone else is killed? We've no right not to let people know of danger, if there is any."

"The humanitarian aspect," Asey said, "is sort of muddled. It'd be too bad if anything happened to anyone else, but after all, the fellow can't keep up any masses on a large scale. An' if we let Billingsgate down, pop goes your whole town. Workin' on the greatest good for the greatest number theory, Billingsgate an' his finances are the most important."

"But if people knew, wouldn't you be able to ask more questions, and find out more things? I mean, here's the problem of Slade. He's gone. If you weren't handicapped by keeping this quiet, you could ask around and find out things."

A Born Fighter
I have, Lane an' I have both asked around an' found out nothing."

"But you keep assuming that he's alive! Suppose he's dead? Shouldn't you organize a posse, or something?"

"And drag ponds, to find him alive an' fishin'? None. I don't think."

"Why are you so sure he is alive?"

"Because," Asey said, "if I had some idea of killin' Slade, an' then I seen him cavortin' around with a shotgun, as he was last night, promisin' death an' destruction to the person who had any such ideas, I think I'd hesitate. That man's a born fighter. I think he'd scare me off."

Sara got up from her chair and walked over to the garden.

"I always thought I was rather bright," she said plaintively. "But I don't understand any of this. Why, if someone actually did threaten him, why didn't he come to us last night? He knew about things, everything but Mary Randall."

Asey chase a bachelor button with care, and drew it through the lapel of his coat.

"That's what makes me think he's all right. Praps he thought that by coming straight to us, he might give smethin' away. Phaps he figured if he could make it personal, he might get farther into understandin' things. As I get it, some one did smethin' to him after I left the fire last night. Probably some sort of warning, like the shotguns Saturday. He warned right back, as loud an' obvious as he could, that he was ready to meet all comers. N'en, I think, he decided to lay low. He may have some idea of his own that he's working out. From the little I saw of Slade, I know he wouldn't take any risks, like movin' past lighted windows. No, I gave him credit. An' at the same time, I don't entirely write him off the list as innocent, either."

"Car's coming," Sara said. "Let's talk about the governors, all three of 'em—no matter, it's your cousin Weston. Did you hear his speech today? It was good, in spite of the fact that he sounded a little like the late Mr. Coolidge—Hullo, Wes, are you exhausted?"

"I'm a little tired," Weston said, "but it's gone all right so far, hasn't it?"

"It's a triumph of organization," Sara said, "and I mean that sincerely. Weston. Everyone had a grand time today—what's that you've got?"

"It's the strangest thing ever. A note from Slade. I just found it in my mail box, in front of the house. I don't often look into that box. I get my mail at the post office, but the flag was up. It says, 'Dear Mayhew, I was called away suddenly. Back soon, Slade.' Now, what do you make of that?"

"It is genuine?" Sara asked. "Let me—why, it looks like his writing. Wait. I've a note from him in my desk, and I'll bring it out."

"As far as they could tell, the writing on the two sheets of paper was identical."

"Same kind of paper, too," Asey said. "Same kind of ink, I'll give 'em to Lane, to make sure."

"What do you make of this?" Weston demanded. "What's he found out?"

"Nothing I know of," Asey said. "This is all Slade's own brain wave. What do you think?"

"A Bunch of Thistles"

If You Were Dictator, How'd YOU Move 'Em?

Try Your Hand At The Game Of Changing Map Of Europe

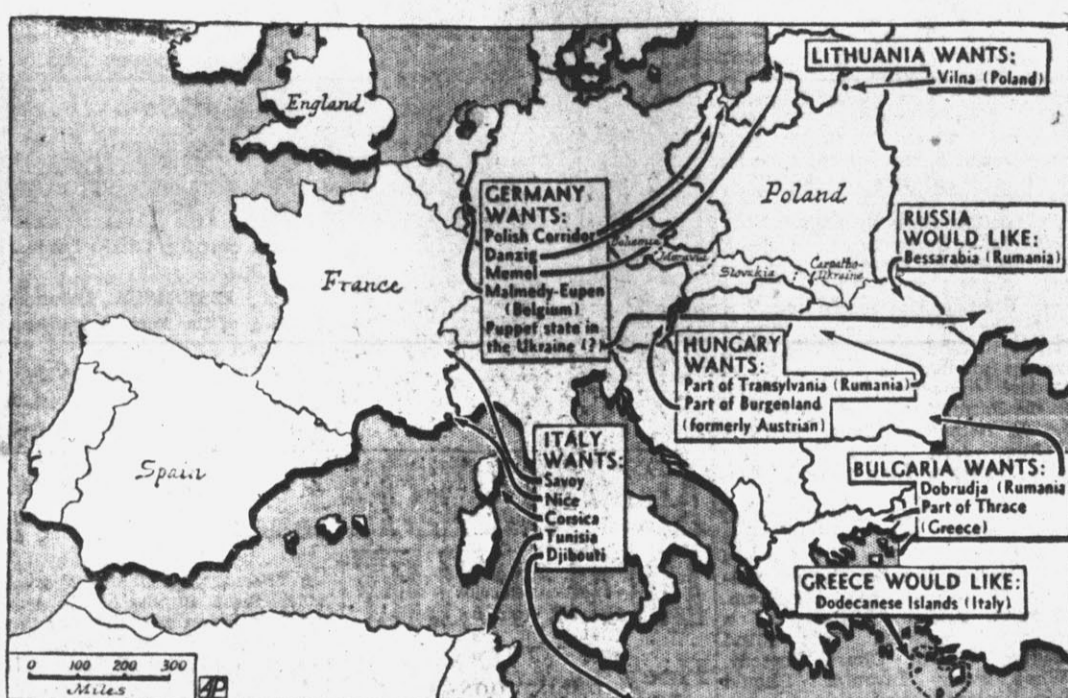

(By The AP Feature Service)
Suppose you were dictator of Europe, how would you fit it together?

Those jig-saw puzzle pieces at the top give you a chance to be a super-Hitler. And the map at the right shows you how Europe stood when Hitler helped Slovakia tear loose from the old Czecho-Slovak republic, leaving Bohemia and Moravia as a German protectorate at one end, and Carpatho-Ukraine (which Hungary and Poland have wanted a long time so that they could have a common frontier) at the other.

The key map also helps you by stating the territorial wants and dreams of various countries—based on historic, economic or political grounds. Few of these have been given official expression, but since the World War, the countries named often have cast longing eyes in the directions indicated.

The big question is: "What's next?" Will the breakup of Czecho-Slovakia give Hitler an excuse for rushing rumored plans for setting up a Ukrainian state (most of the Ukraine is in Russia)? Will he be at odds with Poland, Hungary, Rumania?

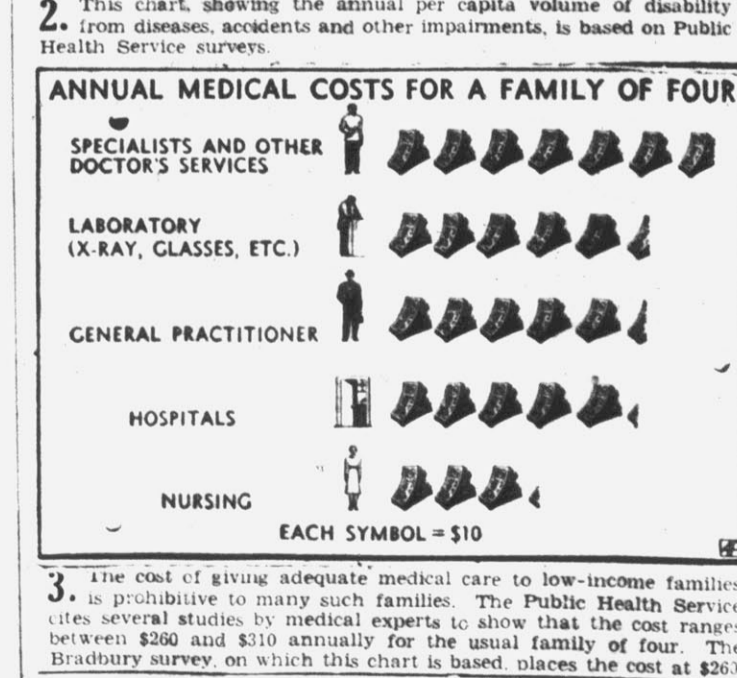

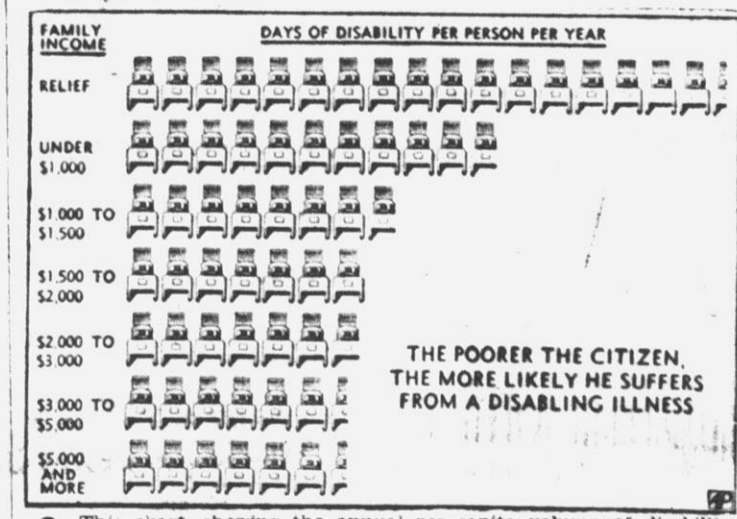

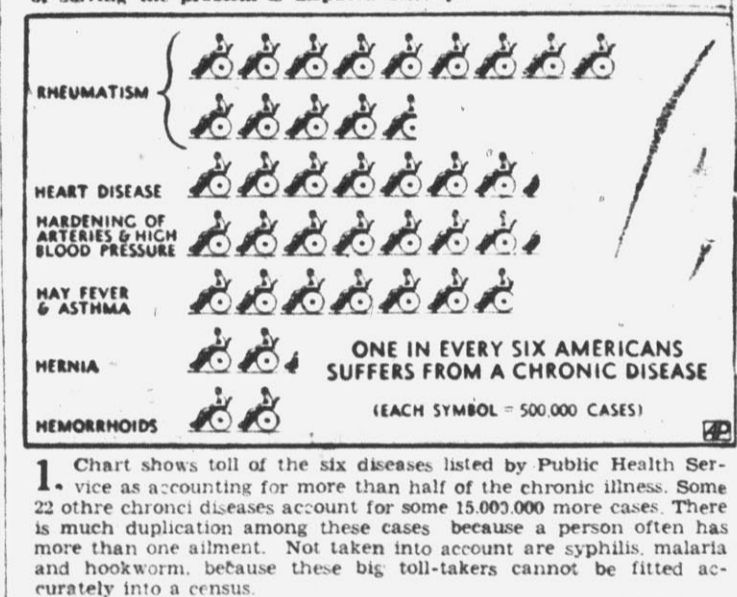

Your daily newspaper will help you answer such questions. But in this game it's YOUR move.

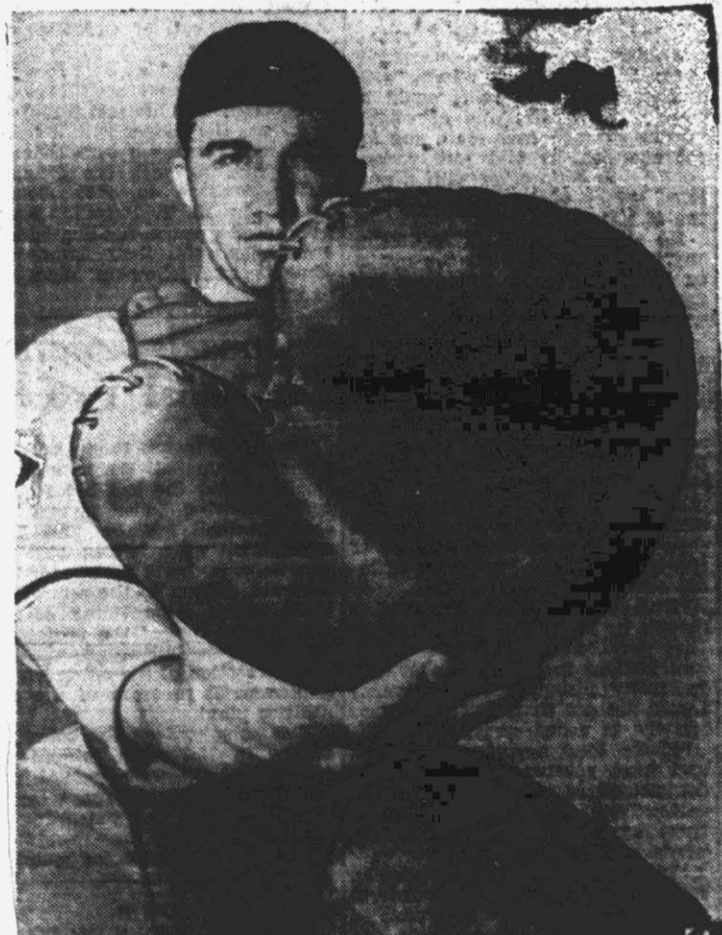

WHY A U.S. HEALTH PROGRAM?

By The AP Feature Service.
Federal aid for medical care, hospital and other health programs administered by the states has been proposed by Senator Wagner, father of the social security laws. His is the latest administration move looking toward a national health program.

He are the statistics often quoted by proponents of such a program. By and large, the figures are not contested, though the method of solving the problem is disputed bitterly.

The cost of giving adequate medical care to low-income families is prohibitive to many such families. The Public Health Service cites several studies by medical experts to show that the cost ranges between $260 and $310 annually for the usual family of four. The Bradbury survey, on which this chart is based, places the cost at $260.

CATCHING THE 'HOT ONES' ought to be easy if the catcher's glove were as hefty as this one seems, in a wide-angle camera shot of Harold Spindel. He's an ambitious rookie catcher at the St. Louis Browns' camp in San Antonio.

OPPOSITION TO 4-YEAR TERMS

Longer Terms For County Commissioners Asked
Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, March 1.—Considerable opposition is being found to the bill introduced by Representative Seelye of Carteret "by request" increasing terms of all county commissioners in the state to four years.

The bill would continue in office until 1942 all commissioners now in office, and in 1942 and quadrennially thereafter they would be elected for four year terms. There is some objection to the four-year terms but more objection to the Seelye bill is based upon the wholesale legislating into office the present commissioners and to proposed elections coming on the same year with the election of Governor and difficulty in getting out the full vote in "off years" and members President.

In some counties there is already from these counties fear that if nothing is left to vote for on these years except members of the legislature there will be much greater difficulty in arousing interests.

ADVANTAGES IN LOCAL RELIEF

Hoey Favors Idea Of Home Administration

Raleigh, March 17—Governor Clyde R. Hoey concurs in a "general opinion" that relief could be more economically and efficiently administered through state and local agencies, he told your correspondent in connection with a national survey of the Governors of the 48 states.

Hoey steered clear of expressing any definite opinion on the merits or demerits of the Woodrum and Byrnes plans now pending in Congress under which relief would be placed under an entirely new set-up.

Discussing the whole subject in a general way, the Governor said: "The question of reorganizing the relief administration is essentially the responsibility of Congress. However, there is a general feeling that relief could be economically and effectively administered through state and local agencies because of the more intimate knowledge of local conditions and necessities.

"This is further complicated, though, by the manifest requirement that local agencies make larger contributions for general relief and in many instances local governments are not in position to share heavily in relief expenditures.

"If the local agencies should be able to contribute to relief funds, then a rather free hand should be given to these agencies in determining the needs end basis of expenditures.

"If the local agencies should be required to follow too strict federal regulations they would be unable to effect any great economies in administration."

'Personality Clinic' Scheduled For Pitt

A "Personality Clinic" sponsored by the Social Studies of the American Association of University Women, will be held in Greenville beginning April 11 and lasting thru April 13.

The clinic is being held in cooperation with the Division of Public Welfare and will be under the direction of Dr. Wallace Mygard of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare.

Any person who is aware of a personality trait that conflicts with their community life and would like to discuss the matter with Dr. Mygard, may arrange a conference by communicating with the office of Public Welfare in Pitt County, headed by K. T. Futrell. People who know a person needing conferences may refer their names and contacts and follow-up visits will be made.

HOEY OPENS TO TEACHERS

wealth and our per capita income increase, the state and local communities will be able to do more and more for the benefit of all the social agencies of the state, to the end that the common good of all may be served.

New officers were presented to the association. J. Henry Highsmith of Raleigh, was elevated to the presidency to succeed Ben L. Smith of Greensboro, and S. G. Hawfield, superintendent of Cabarrus county schools, was elected vice-president.

The association voted into its "Hall of Fame" Alexander Graham, the father of our graded school system, and Robert Herring Wright, founder and one-time president of East Carolina Teachers College at Greenville. Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, is a son of Alexander Graham.

The following officers were named by divisions of the North Carolina Education Association:
Association of Classroom Teachers, Mrs. E. J. Bullock, Goldsboro, vice-president; and George Willard (formerly of Greenville), treasurer.
Special Class Association, Miss Ada Valentine, Spring Hope, vice-president.
Mathematics Teachers, secretary, Miss Claudia Hunter, Henderson.
Primary Teachers, Miss Jane Hadley, Greenville.

THE BANKING REVOLUTION

ed the folly of commercial banks financing a building boom. Recently, the F.H.A., insured mortgage plan has created new interest in home financing by banks, but many bankers are still wary and are taking only the choicest risks. Personal loans, once scorned by bankers, are avidly sought. Yet, these can never replace the once profitable commercial business and only offer competition to installment credit loans.

Proposals Opened On Local Project

The Worthington Pump and Machinery Corp., of Washington, D. C., submitted the low bid for two turbine-driving boiler pumps for the Greenville Water and Light Commission at a letting yesterday afternoon and will be awarded the contract, subject to the approval of PWA which is providing 45 per cent of the cost of the project.

Six bidders submitted proposals for the section of the extension and improvement program of the local utilities plant.

Bids submitted on the boiler feed pumps in November, when other sections of the improvement project were contracted for, were not acceptable and the consulting engineer authorized to re-advertise for bids on the particular equipment.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 18—(AP)—Traders subject to "war nerves" dumped stocks in today's market and leading issues at the worst added one to five points to their relapse of the preceding session. Prices improved substantially before the close, however, as the optimism gained ground that the sell-off may have been over done.

Pressure of offerings was pronounced at the opening with blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 changing hands. Activity dwindled somewhat subsequently but the turnover of about one million shares was one of the largest for and Saturday since last November 12.

The number of Alabama children of school age decreased 6,396 between 1936 and 1938.

ONE-HORSE TOWN HAS MILLIONS OF CHECKS

Remsey, Ind.—(AP)—This southern Indiana village of 70 persons, dubbed by one farm magazine the "poultry capital of America," now is going into a four and a half month rush season in which owners of its five big hatcheries estimate they will ship 20,000,000 bank checks throughout the Western Hemisphere.

The poultry shipments have helped the postoffice climb from fourth to second class by virtue of receipts amounting to more than $120,000 for the last three years.

GROONER MAKES DEBUT AT THE AGE OF TWO

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—William Hesselgrave celebrated his second birthday by singing over a local radio broadcasting station.

He learned how to sing by humming lullabies after his mother. When he can't say the words, he fills in with "ta ta."

MALARIA'S THE ENEMY against which Jewish colonists at Mizraf are battling, above, as they cut away the breeding place of malaria-carrying mosquitoes. This was one of first steps in construction of a new Holy Land settlement.

banks have always owned some public and corporate securities. Never were they emphasized as they are now, however. The watchword of today's banking philosophy is liquidity. It is stressed first, last and always. While corporate bonds may not be the best word in liquidity nor yield a very good return, they certainly are easier to turn into cash than a pasteurizer, a factory wing, or a store addition. This is one solution to the mystery of why three per cent corporate bond issues have been going over with such a bang. Bankers, however, are not so familiar with bond investments as they might be.

Loaded With 'Governments'
Some bank examiners urge the purchase of U. S. Governments, declaring they are the safest bonds a bank can hold. Bankers like them, too, because they can be exchanged into dollar bills almost at a moment's notice. Illustrating this trend is the fact that over two-thirds of Member Bank investments are in "Governments" today, compared with about one-third in 1929. Meanwhile, deposits are steadily increasing—are about 100 per cent higher than in 1933 and are above the 1929 high. The bankers are just sitting tight, however, with the greatest reserve of idle cash in history in their vaults.

The R.F.C., the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Farm Credit Administration, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the F.H.A., and others have gobbled up some of the most profitable business the banks formerly had. We have gone a long way toward complete nationalization of credit! The private banks are fast becoming merely service organizations running the nation's huge checking business, caring for securities, operating a trust business, and buying permanent bonds. The gigantic credit agencies are now doing the loan job the banks once did.

New Angle For Uncle Sam
The immediate future does not look too hopeful either. The demand for intermediate and long-term business credit on an installment basis must be met. We must have such credit to stimulate recovery, to create new jobs, to make new products. Hence, the government may be in this branch of the credit business before too long with an Intermediate Credit Bank. The private banks will be financing this new set-up just as they are all the public credit agencies by their vast purchases of government bonds; but the actual okaying of the credit will be done by Uncle Samuel.

So, with the outlook for more government credit, I see no hope of people receiving better return on their deposits in the immediate future. Eventually, of course, general interest rates are bound to rise and at least savings deposits should yield a greater return. Despite this gloomy outlook for interest rates, depositors never had better protection for their dollars than they have right now. But if the government does not do a better job on the budget, no one will dare to forecast what the buying power of these dollars may be.
