Fifteen Persons Plunged Into Mississippi Waters Embankment Washed Away

NINE PERSONS THOUGHT DEAD

Four Killed and Five Others Missing After Five Automobiles and Heavy Motor Truck Plunge Over Ragged Embankment Left After Highway Bridge Washed Away

Vicksburg, Miss., March 30.—(AP)—Fifteen persons were plunged into the swirling waters of a bayou when five automobiles and a heavy motor truck ran off a ragged embankment left after a highway bridge was washed away in torrential rains last night.

Four persons were killed, eight were injured and five were listed as missing early today. Presumably they were swept away in the broiling flood waters.

The bridge, which spans a big black river on the Vicksburg-Jackson highway 12 miles east of here, collapsed after the flood waters undermined 100 feet of the bridge approach. The bayou into which the cars tumbled paralleled the river. One driver swam a half a mile before he could pull out of the swift water. He ran back to help wave down other cars approaching the danger spot.

Ambulances, wrecking crews and divers went to the scene. Rescue efforts were hampered by the heavy truck, which piled atop some of the automobiles. Wreckers had to pull it aside before the divers could go down and crash open the windows to search for the occupants of the cars.

Searchers crawled through the section throughout the night, hunting possible lost survivors. Rescuers had described anguished cries of victims clinging to driftwood. The one body recovered was tentatively identified as that of a construction worker of Jackson, Miss.

Two automobiles were still in the raging torrents early today as rescue efforts were being made. One was believed to have been occupied by a man and the other by two men and two women.

Banquet Arranged By School Drivers

Plans have been completed for the annual banquet for the Pitt County Principals and Bus Drivers to be held in the gymnasium of the Winterville High School on Friday night, March 31st, at 8:00.

Among the invited guests are members of the Pitt County Board of Education and the County Commissioners, members of Division "A" of the State Highway Patrol, members of the Safety Division from Raleigh, members of the Transportation Unit of the State School Commission and the Pitt County members of the General Assembly.

Principal speakers for this occasion will be Major Ronald Hocutt, head of the Division of Safety of the State Highway Patrol, and Lloyd E. Griffin, Executive Secretary of the State School Commission.

Kinston Man Held In Fatal Accident

In a joint hearing before Magistrate Thomas Smith and Coroner Mack Henderson, Thurman Jones, Kinston man, was ordered held for Superior Court under a $1,000 bond as a result of an automobile accident which took the lives of a Pitt County woman and a Craven county woman.

Miss Denez Worthington of Winterville and Miss Helen Stubbs of Askins were killed last August on the Vanceboro highway. Jones is said to have been driving the automobile that collided with another driven by Monroe Ipkow of near New Bern.

Miss Worthington was said to have been riding with Jones and that Miss Stubbs, along with her sister, Miss Beryl Stubbs, were riding with Ipkow. Miss Beryl Stubbs was injured seriously. Probable cause was not found against Ipkow and he was not held for grand jury action by the coroner's jury.

RAIN DAMPENS RAIN-MAKER

After months of dry weather, rain fell so heavily at Frostproof, Fla., that Miss Lillie Steate of Oxford, Miss., self-styled rain-maker, had to hurry into an automobile for shelter. She is shown watching the shower through the car window. It was the second downpour since she began sitting beside Lake Reedy near Frostproof at the behest of citrus growers whose trees were parched by the 47-day drought.

President Has Praises For Tuskegee Graduates

HEALTH BOARD WILL BE HEARD

No Promise, However, That It Will Be Heeded

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, March 30.—Although pressing toward Saturday night adjournment the House of Representatives several times yesterday reversed itself, reconsidered votes and recalled bills from the unfavorable calendar. The Senator Long bills designed to promote control of syphilis, one requiring pre-natal examination and one pre-marital examination, were sent to the committee on public welfare so that the Department of Health could be heard on them. One of the bills was on the unfavorable calendar and the other was in state of "extreme inactivity" in the committee. Motion to re-refer the bills was made by Mr. Bryant. It was opposed by Mr. Mallard, chairman of the calendar committee, who admits that he doesn't like the bills, but is more interested in making action once taken by the House stick.

Comments "Human Service" and Urges Cooperation

Tuskegee, Ala., Mar. 30.—President Roosevelt today told the students and faculty of the famous Negro school Tuskegee Institute, he was proud of what its graduates were doing for "human service" and stressed a need for cooperation between state and peoples in this work.

Speaking from his car in front of Carnegie Music hall, the President said that because of changing conditions "we have got to work together."

"Alabama of Georgia can not go it alone. More and more we have got to plan for the future and plan to work with the other fellow. That is one of the things you've got here, cooperation."

The President began his motor trip to Tuskegee, Auburn and Opelika at 10:20 a. m., central time, from the little town of Chelaw, Ala., where his special train arrived from Washington at 10 o'clock after a ride through a heavy rainstorm.

En route to the Tuskegee campus, the President stopped at the veterans hospital on the outskirts of Tuskegee and shook hands with the staff and several wheel chair patients.

Score Of N. C. Officials Receive From $5,000 Up

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, March 30.—At least 27 state officials are paid $5,000 or more annually, a checkup made in connection with recent bills aimed at increasing some of these salaries shows.

The Governor tops the list, with an annual pay of $11,100 the others running down the list until the Commissioner of Agriculture and the assistant Attorney General are found at the even $5,000 mark.

The Senate has passed however, a bill designed to raise the Agriculture Commissioner's pay to $6,000 annually, to put the pay of that office on a parity with other positions of similar ranks and importance in the scheme of State Government. It may or may not secure House approval and become law.

The restriction of the list to 27 involves disregarding all judicial salaries and the pay of those official who are connected with the colleges, such as President Frank Graham of the Greater University, who drew $8,250 and Dean I. O. Schaub at State College who is a three-job-man (director of Research, Dean of Agriculture and Director of Extension Service) and gets $6,540 annually.

There may be other officials who have escaped the attention of your correspondent, who has compiled the list from examination of official Budget figures and in doing so may have overlooked some who should be on the list. The salary list gives plenty of indications that, like Topsy "it just grew" without any systematic attention to the importance of the offices. Increases have usually been granted to those officials who could secure the heaviest legislative backing through political obligations or personal popularity.

GENERAL LEVY MAY BE USED FOR PENSIONS

Statement Made By Chairman of Social Security

INCREASE IN TAX IS ALTERNATIVE

Warns That If Boost In Security Levy Is Postponed General Funds Will Have To Be Used.

Washington, March 30.—(AP)—Chairman Arthur Altmeyer of the Social Security Board, advised Congress today that if scheduled increases in old age pensions taxes were postponed the levies would have to be raised sharply in later years or the general taxpayer would have to bear a substantial part of pension costs.

The Social Security official, who has approved Secretary Morgenthau's recent recommendation that increases in payroll taxes for pensions be deferred until 1943, testified before the House Ways and Means Committee. That group is considering proposed liberalization and other changes in the Social Security system.

Altmeyer told the committee he thought an eventual contribution to the old age pension system from general revenues was desirable. Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) drew a distinction between the general public's obligation to aid persons who were not destitute when they reached 65, and those who were. Altmeyer agreed with the distinction, but contended there was considerable justification for general tax contributions to the former group.

Other Developments. President Roosevelt nominated former Senator Fred Brown of New Hampshire to the long-vacated post of comptroller general of the United States.

The Senate Finance committee rejected proposals to increase the tax on imported vegetable oil and fats from three to five cents a pound, after the committee was advised that the President had threatened to veto such legislation.

Ignoring the Chief Executive's suggestion for a cotton export subsidy program, the Senate Agriculture committee approved a bill which would permit farmers to reclaim up to 3,000,000 acres of cotton stock now held as collateral for government loans.

Talk of Vice President Garner as a possible democratic nominee for President in 1940 broke out on the Senate floor today. Garner left the chamber to keep from hearing it.

MOVEMENT ON TO CLEAN CITY

Mayor Blount Calls On Citizens to Join in Campaign

Mayor Marvin K. Blount, in an official proclamation today called upon the citizens of Greenville to observe "clean-up, paint-up and fix-up" campaign to be held here beginning Tuesday April 4.

The Mayor declared that the national movement had resulted in numerous advantages to the various participating communities, and said the move should be supported so as to promote general rehabilitation and beautification.

The official proclamation follows: "That, Whereas the National Clean Up, Paint Up and Fix Up campaign has resulted in many advantages to community life throughout the United States, "In safeguarding Health and Safety.

"In promoting Employment and Relief.

"In furthering Fire Protection.

"In promoting Better Housing.

"In stimulating Civic Pride; and

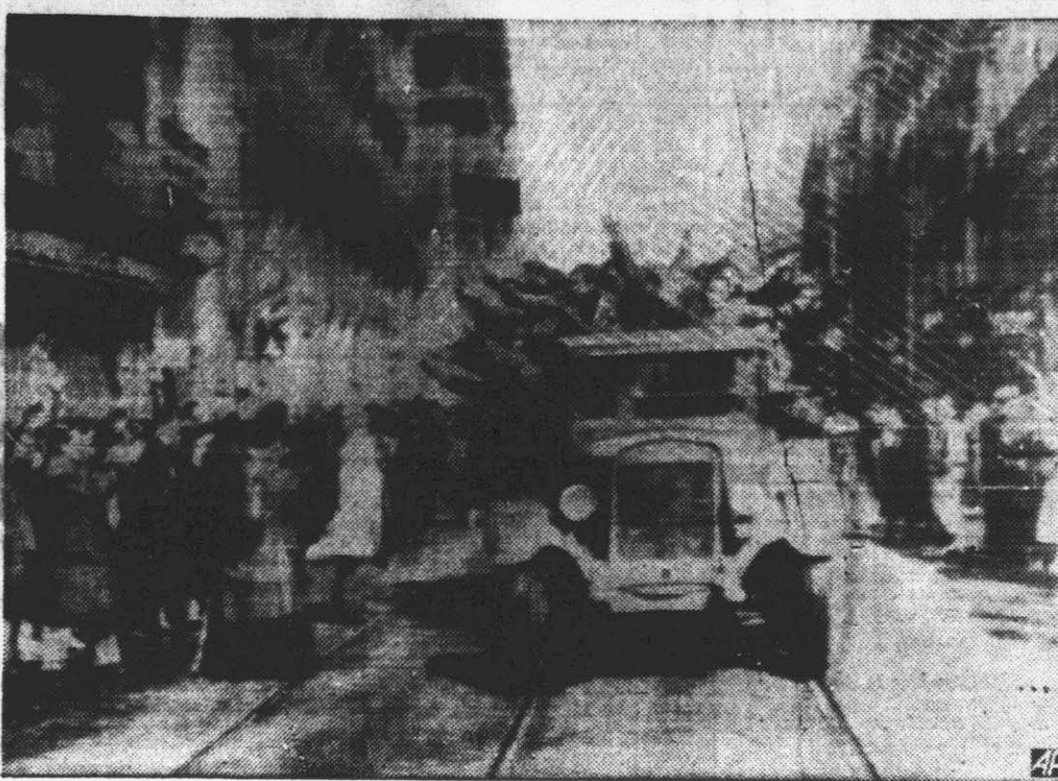

"In making the Home and city Beautiful."

"Now, therefore, be it known that plans have been perfected for a thorough clean up, paint up and fix up campaign beginning on Tuesday April 4th. In this worthy movement of cleaning, painting, repairing and beautification we urge each citizen to do his or her best to make our community Clean, Healthy, Thrifty, Safe and Beautiful.

BRITAIN PLANS ADD STRENGTH

Chamberlain Hints at Expansion of Forces At Home

London, March 30.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain intimated to the House of Commons today that Britain's navy and air force would be expected.

Only yesterday the Prime Minister announced a doubling of the territorial army, corresponding to the United States National Guard, to 340,000 men.

Asked if he had "finally" ruled out conscription Chamberlain answered amid laughter "nothing is final in this world."

Asked by G. L. Mander opposition Liberal if he would propose that the British Empire and friendly states "withdraw from Germany materials essential to rearmament" the Prime Minister merely replied "no."

Fletcher can arrest assured that every aspect of the present situation has been and is being kept under review by the committee of internal defense, he said.

Remember Lot's Wife Warns Rv. Mr. Feozor

A crowd that filled every available seat and chair that were placed in the aisles attended last night's service of the revival being conducted this week at the Memorial Baptist church by Dr. Forrest C. Feozor, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist church, Raleigh.

Dr. Feozor delivered a message on the text "Remember Lot's Wife" He declared that we should remember her because of the suddenness of her destruction, the privileges against which she sinned and enumerated other reasons why we should remember her. Dr. Feozor's strong appeal at the close of the sermon won one response.

SEEKS CHANGE IN LOCAL BILL

Would Exempt JP Courts From Aiding Police Fund

Raleigh, March 30.—Senator Arthur B. Corey this morning announced a committee substitute for Worthington's bill affecting Pitt County's Officers' Protective Association. The substitute bill provides that Justices of the Peace shall not collect the dollar on bills of cost for the benefit fund. The substitute will restore the association to its status before the law was amended in 1935 to include one dollar on each bill of cost from Justice of the Peace cases as well as those from the other criminal courts of the county.

House Bill 949 introduced by Worthington and passed in the Senate on Tuesday during Corey's absence from the Senate Chamber, would have repealed the law creating the protective association in its entirety and have placed the money now in the fund at the disposal of the board of commissioners of Pitt County.

Since passage of the Worthington repealer bill, Corey has been besieged with telegrams and telephone calls and visited by county delegations seeking to have the bill reconsidered in the Senate.

Enactment of the committee substitute announced by Corey today will have the protective association intact but will eliminate justice of the peace courts as one of the sources of its income.

Forces Deadlocked Over Markers Bill For State

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, March 30.—Refusal of the House to concur in the "Markers Bill" as amended and passed by the Senate has thrown into a deadlock some of the most powerful forces which have been matched against each other at this session of the legislature.

The bill itself is in conference, the result of which will determine which group is the more powerful. Any prediction of the ultimate outcome would be rash, although the edge probably goes to the House by reason of the greater strength there for the unamended version as compared with the slim one-vote margin by which the Senate inserted the Folger amendment, crisis and climax of the contest.

It would appear more likely that the House will recede than that the Senate will take any such action, although there always exists the possibility that neither will

WRECK VICTIMS BILL DEFEATED

House Kills Bill and Acts Prevent Reconsideration

Raleigh, March 30.—(AP)—The House today killed a bill to provide hospitalization for persons injured in automobile accidents, with the funds to be obtained by adding 30 cents to the cost of automobile licenses.

The vote 54 to 48 against the bill on its third reading, Mull of Cleveland changed his vote from aye to no to be in position to reconsider Fenner of Nash to forestall the anticipated action of Mull, immediately had the legislative clincher applied, by a 56 to 41 vote.

The Senate calendar committee rejected the Eagles-Umstead-Sutton-Palmer bill which would have permitted any municipality with more than 2,500 population to have liquor stores if voters favored them.

Senators suspended their rules and approved the resolution approved in the House last night recommending to the Democratic National convention that Governor Hoey be nominated for the Presidency.

The joint conference committee working on the bill to abolish professional markers in primaries and elections voted four to one that the Senate recede from its amendment permitting election officials to act as markers. Only Senator Folger of Surry, author of the amendment, favored its retention.

The House adopted the conference report then recessed for a late afternoon session.

The marker bill is regarded as an important part of the election reform program which already has resulted in a measure to abolish absentee votes in primary elections, poll books and relist voters.

A joint session of the Assembly was called for tomorrow afternoon to elect trustees of the University of North Carolina.

The legislature worked along disposing of many local and state bills, but Speaker Ward told the House it would be impossible for the Assembly to adjourn sine die before Tuesday.

The purpose of this contest is to choose the schools which will represent the District in each event in Greensboro at the State Music Contest. The counties which compose the Greenville District are Washington, Tyrrell, Dare, Martin, Bertie, Hyde, and Pitt. Representatives from various schools in these counties will come to Greenville Saturday to compete in instrumental and vocal numbers, in groups and in solo.

Supt. J. H. Rose, of Greenville, is chairman of this District and will preside over the contest on Saturday. Able judges have been chosen, and a "very fine enrollment" has been reported. Greenville is anticipated a good program for Saturday.

DISPLEASED AT DAL'DIER TALK

Mussolini Insists Italy Will Not Remain "A Prisoner of The Mediterranean"; Daladier's Address, However, Appears To Have Won Unanimous Acclaim Of France

Rome, March 30.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today affirmed Italy's intention not to remain "a prisoner in the Mediterranean" while Fascists studied with disfavor last night's address of Premier Daladier of France.

Virginia Gayda, leading Fascist editor, summed up Italian reaction to Daladier's speech with the assertion that the French Premier wanted to "shut tight the half closed door" to French-Italian negotiations.

Il Duce spoke only briefly during an inspection tour of Calabria, the province in the toe of Italy.

At Cosanza, here Il Duce halted briefly, he told the assembled town people that "Italy does not intend to remain a prisoner in the Mediterranean." In the speech he recalled the words of one of his early aids: "When one has given all to the fatherland he has not yet given enough."

The Premier concluded with "I congratulate be ready in every instance of your lives as Fascists and Italians worthy of and faithful to his (the aide's) memory."

Paris, March 30.—(AP)—Premier Daladier's strong declaration that France would cede "not a foot of our land nor one of our rights" to Italy seemed today to have won both popular and political acclaim.

Even the Premier's bitter political enemies endorsed his stand that France would yield no territory, that she would negotiate colonial and other differences with Italy if Italy took the initial step, and that France was strong enough to defend herself.

The Paris press was unanimous with praise. The Socialist Leon Blum, who frequently has opposed the more conservative radical Socialist Daladier, declared that "we approve of this language." Blum spoke for his party.

End Of Century Club
The End of the Century Club held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Batchelor on East Fifth Street.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, the vice-president presided. The meeting was called to order and the regular routine of business was transacted.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming was appointed by the chair to meet with representatives from all the other clubs in town to plan a special program for the Fine Arts Festival, which is to be held at the Woman's Club the week following Easter.

After the distribution of books a very delightful program was very ably given by Miss Dora Coates of East Carolina Teachers College. She spoke on "Modern Trends in Education." She mentioned many prominent schools and many, many changes coming about of the increased knowledge of children and society, emphasizing the great importance of an increased knowledge that the first school years are most important. While it is hard to stress this there is a great growth in that direction, stated the speaker. In referring to the fundamental needs of children she quoted the master as asking his pupils "What would you learn of me?" The reply was in the form of many questions concerning care of our bodies, rearing of our children, working together, living together, living with our fellowmen, playing and living.

In quoting from Gibran's "The Prophet"—"A woman who held her babe close to her bosom said, Speak to us of children." And he said "Your children are not your children. They are the sons and daughters of Life's longing for itself. They come through you but not from you. You may give them your love, but not your thoughts; for they have their own thoughts. You may house their bodies but not their souls, for their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams. You may be like them, but seek not to make them like you. For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday. You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth. The archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite and He bends you with His might that his arrows may go swift and far."

The delightful program was concluded with an instrumental solo by the daughter of our hostess.

Following the program the hostess, assisted by her daughter, served an elegant salad course.

The following were visitors for the meeting, Mrs. H. E. Austin, Mrs. J. C. Wooten, Misses Denney and Johnston.—Reported.

Literature Department
The Literature Department of the Woman's Club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. G. Dennis. Mrs. K. T. Futrell, chairman, presided over the business meeting. She called the attention of the club to the Fine Arts Festival that is to be held at the club house during the week of April 12. Also, attention was called to the State Federation meeting that will be held in Raleigh on April 17, 18 and 19. All who could were urged to attend. The program committee for next year was appointed. These people were named on the committee: Miss Mamie Ruth Tunstall, chairman; Mrs. Paul Ricks and Miss Nell Mattheson.

Mrs. W. A. Ryan gave a most enjoyable report on Mary Lamberton Becker's Golden Tales from New England. The book contains many stories of these strange but lovable characters with their keen sense of humor. The New York Times calls this book an anthology that is readable and quite literary which brings in rather a true tale of these people.

Mrs. Ryan gave a brief sketch of Mary Lamberton Becker's life. She was always interested in literature and was for a long while the literary and musical critic for one of the newspapers. Quite by accident, so she claims, she discovered her present work. She has given many literary lectures and carried on a reader's guide, as a column in the newspaper, to help people who wanted suggestions about books. This column has become so popular that in 1924 the Saturday Review of Literature incorporated it into its magazine. Other papers and magazines have taken up the idea. Mrs. Becker began to delve into regional anthology, thus this delightful collection of stories from New England.

Mrs. Ryan read one of the stories from the book. Bliss Perry's story—by the Committee. This story brought out the religious nature of the people and their loyalty to each other though always looking out for self interests. This was a most interesting story.

After Mrs. Ryan's talk the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Sodie Corey and Mrs. Hicks Corey, served delicious refreshments.

The club was delighted to have as Many well-known women will contribute to the symposium program, including Mary E. Woolley, president emerita of Mount Holyoke College; Florence Ellinwood Allen, Judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and Hanya Holm, who will present a lecture and dance demonstration with her concert group.

Several other members of the local A.A.U.W. are planning to be present for the Saturday meetings, including Miss Emma Hooper, Miss Lois Grigsby, Miss Louise Williams, Dr. Lucille Turner, Miss Mamie E. Jenkins, Mrs. Luther Herling, Dr. Helen Spangler and Miss Alice Wooten.

GREENVILLE City of Sunshine

Now that the flower and vegetable gardens are well under way, we can find time for our lily pools which do not need the early attention required by the gardens and lawns. Of course, if there is to be a border or rock garden surrounding the pool, we must prepare this along with the other flowering plants.

As in the cultivation of most other plants, the experienced gardener will advise that the water lilies are easily grown. In natural conditions, water lilies root in rich soil in the shallow water of a marsh or pond where there is plenty of sunlight.

Small pools, including tubs, may best be partly filled with soil—six inches of soil, six inches of water is correct. In large pools the most satisfactory method is to use tubs or boxes for plants.

At least one cubic foot of soil should be allowed for each water lily, and more if possible. To obtain satisfactory growth in boxes, they must be large enough to provide plenty of nourishment. A single plant in a box 2 feet square and a foot deep, filled with proper soil, will develop remarkable blooms.

It is best (though not necessary) to have a separate container for each water lily as the leaf spread averages three feet in diameter. Shallow water plants should be planted in containers separate from the lilies.

The best soil for aquatic plants is a mixture of three parts of fibrous loam or good garden soil with one part of well rotted cow manure. An application of well rotted ma-

AT COLLEGE WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5

Ten young Chinese artists from Shanghai, members of prominent families in China, will appear in an unusual program at East Carolina Teachers College Wednesday night, April 5, a program of Chinese music singing, dancing and acting of twenty centuries ago, which these young Chinese are bringing to America to raise money for their war victims.

The Chinese Theatre group is under the leadership of Mrs. Ernest Tong, wife of the Counsellor of Kwangtung Provincial Government who seeing sometimes four or five hundred children die in a day for lack of proper medical care, decided to undertake the American tour to raise money for the sufferers. Though a woman of high social position in China, she is among the "young modern" that she has been taking part in such public activities as singing, dancing and acting.

Other dancers and actresses are Miss Virginia Chang, daughter of the former Chinese minister to Chile, called "the most beautiful girl in Shanghai"; Miss Ethel Chun, granddaughter of Sir Cheus Chow ture or lily fertilizer should be given the hardy water lilies each year and new soil every two or three years.

Water lilies should be set with the crown of the plant just even with the surface of the soil, which is then covered with an inch of sand or gravel to keep the water clean. Eight inches of water above the crown is best for the production of blossoms.

Any depth from six inches to two feet will do, but young plants should always be started in shallow water where the warmth of the sun reaches them. Full sunlight on the pool is very desirable for the growth and formation of blossoms. Plant water lilies three to five feet apart in the pool.

The lotus tubers look very much like large bananas. They should be planted in rich soil in a horizontal position about two inches below the surface of the soil. The weather given his little by King George of England for his work in Hong Kong.

Tse-Sing, one of the leading amateur actors in China, and one of her chief dramatic directors, directs the group and takes part in the acting.

Each musician is a real artist on his instrument, many of them playing instruments that were played in China in the days of Confucius 2000 years ago.

The program is a varied one, consisting of music, dances, and drama of ancient China, all very different from anything in America. The elaborate costumes were designed for them by China's leading actor, who also aided the troupe in the selection of their repertoire.

Wherever this group has gone, it has met with high praise. It appeared in New York for five days, toured a section of the country, and returned to New York, where tickets were selling from a dollar and ten cents to three dollars.

They will appear at East Carolina Teachers College next Wednesday night at 8:00.

should be quite warm before they are transplanted, for if the tubers are planted in cold water, they very often fail to grow. The water should be shallow, six to eight inches being sufficient in which to start them but the depth of the water can be increased as the plant develops.

Now that water weather seems settled upon us, we can care for our lily pools if transplanting or rearranging. An average temperature of 70 degrees is considered best for this work.

A pool may easily be kept clean and clear by using scavengers. To avoid the problem of the increase of mosquitoes, use plenty of fish in the pool. The small black aphids which sometimes infest the leaves and stems of lilies above water or other insect pests may be effectively controlled by the use of an aquatic spray.

The well planted lily pool should include aquatic and floating plants, as these are the natural companions to water lilies. Then too, the upright growing shallow water plants give a pleasing contrast and make the pool much more interesting. With them you can give your pool a touch of tropical luxuriance. An attractive arrangement is to have a center planting in your pool, whether it be round or square or irregular in shape.

Members of the Garden Club trust that each one of you have enjoyed the beauty of Greenville this spring made possible through the willing co-operation of the citizens in adapting and promoting the club slogan—"Greenville the City of Sunshine."

And now the members are busy with plans and preparations to make our Garden Fortnight as successful. This is the first year that Greenville has undertaken to co-operate in the State Garden Pilgrimage and we want to show Greenville at its best on April 12 and 13.

Please follow this column daily for the future announcements as to plans and entertainment to be sponsored. Save these two days for your city.

Washington Daybook

Washington—Not in many a year has quite such an extraordinary character as Bill Douglas been placed on the Supreme Court.

He has the bearing of a first sergeant, the vocabulary of a Boccaccio and an apt choice of words that likely will make his written opinions choice tidbits for legal epics.

He will regale a stag party with the raciest tales extant in Washington and within an hour be prepared to deliver as exacting a piece of legal argument as could be wished.

When a man has arrived at a goal it is mere trudge work to pick up evidence he dropped by the way to show where he was going. Such was the case with Douglas. Undoubtedly he has known for several months that the President has been looking him over as a possible court appointee. With the "finger of destiny" pointing at him he has become perhaps more philosophic in his speeches than earlier.

Thus he has merged humanistic philosophy with corporate doctrine in several recent talks. In January he spoke before the Fort Worth, Tex., Clearing House Association, declaring the inactivity of directors. As a class he said, they don't know much about the corporations they supposedly direct.

"We are a capitalistic economy," he said, entwining a new thread of thought into his talk, "and only so long as we remain a capitalistic economy will we remain a democracy. Capitalism and democracy are Siamese twins; they cannot live separated. The most serious body blows to capitalism do not, as some would have us think, come in the form of legislation. They come in scandalous mismanagement and reckless disregard of the ancient principles of trusteeship."

Doesn't Like Bigness
That he shares some of former Justice Brandeis' dislike of "bigness" in corporate structures may be deduced from a speech in February before the Fordham University Alumni Association.

"One aspect of modern life which has gone far to stifle men is the rapid growth of tremendous corporations. Enormous spiritual sacrifices are made in the transformation of shopkeepers into employees. The disappearance of free enterprise has led to a submergence of the individual in the impersonal corporation in much the same manner as he has been submerged in the state in other lands."

Knows Corporate Wrinkles
Doubtless Douglas' principal contribution to the court will be his thorough knowledge of corporate organization.

Al though once he was an attorney in a firm with a big corporate practice, he never has looked like anything bred of a corporation. He couldn't dress the part if he tried to. And he never has tried.

His reform zone has been in corporate and exchange practice. To a great extent that has kept his name from the most controversial headlines on page one and placed it back with the brokerage wrangles on the financial pages. The reading public there is limited, so he is perhaps the least known outside of Washington of any top-flight New Dealer.

But he is as tough-minded as any member of the crew.

It was probably the appeal of Major Cherry which got enough votes to recall the measures. "Let's give the Department of Health a hearing," he urged. "We've heard everybody else who asked for bootleggers, slot machine operators, and anybody else who even thought he had something to say. Let's hear one of our own great departments and then if the House still wants to kill the bill, that is its privilege."

Some startling figures were injected into the debate. There are more than 164,000 cases of syphilis being treated in North Carolina. He also pointed out that the disease is the most common venereal disease in the world.

A Woman Presides
The novel picture of a lady presiding over the deliberations of the lower branch of the Colorado legislature is something new. The speaker desiring to make a speech called to the chair Mrs. Lee surprised the members by her dignified manner of presiding and familiarity with parliamentary usages, as well as throwing them into embarrassment as to the proper manner to address her, whether as Madame President, Madame Speaker, Mrs. Speaker or Mrs. President. She held the chair and rigidly enforced her order for three hours.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, March 30.—Larry Benton Prince, Senator from way up yonder about Hendersonville, has presented the Western view on election law "reform" so often and so emphatically that he has begun to look like something with horns and a forked tail to some of the more rabid advocates of "purity and honesty" in elections.

Larry knows it, and so when Senator Willie Lee Lumpkin, most rampant fraud-eradicator of them all, asked him to explain some of the provisions of the act requiring clarification and re-vamping of all registration books in the state, he rose and prefaced a very clear, concise and lucid explanation of the matter thus:

"Out of an abundance of caution and in order that my support might not prejudice this bill in the minds of the pure in heart, I have hesitated to say anything about it."

Speaking of fooling some of the people some of the time, or maybe even all the time, there was an example of frankly trying to do just that in the Senate yesterday. Representative Rasberry of Greene introduced a House bill to put a certain woman on the pension lists "when she shall have qualified under the general pension laws."

In accordance with a fixed custom, the Senate Calendar committee gave the bill a routine unfavorable report because this committee always declines to approve special legislation when there is a general law on the subject.

Yesterday Senator Fred Sutton asked the Senate to put the bill on the calendar and gave as his reason the fact that it does absolutely nothing at all except what the woman could do without any special law, the "qualify under general act." In this belief Senator Bill Rodman, chairman of the Calendar group, concurred.

On, well, the "Sheriff" can go back to Greene and point out to the lady what wonderful things he did for her, in the face of though going.

The Governor's name has been used as the "open Sesame" to the hearts and votes of legislators more than a few times this legislative session, but ordinarily the magic of the Hoey blessing has not been invoked except in matters of considerable importance.

Yesterday, however, Lincoln Bill Graham, speaking earnestly in an effort to have the sum of $15 provided for a tax payer by the Revenue Department, said with a grin:

"Fellow Senators, I dislike to hide behind the name of our great Governor or to bring him into debate, but I may say that he is in favor of this measure."

The Senate bowed to the chief executive's implied will, taking a bill to refund the money off the unfavorable calendar and putting it on the calendar for motion.

Just less than half of half the whole Senate (figure that out, it really makes sense) passed a bill on its third reading yesterday which is about as important in its implications as most of the bill enacted by this General Assembly.

It required that all contracts to make a will or to devise or bequeath any property whatsoever must be in writing. On a division and after debate of some length the vote was 12 to 9. The dozen who carried the bill being less than half of 25, which is half the whole Senate.

Opposing the bill Senator Ward of Duplin said "It was conceived by a man who had just lost a case in court."

Anyway the law will have been changed, if and when the House concurs, by affirmative vote of less than one-fourth the Senate's total membership.

A bill introduced by Representative Joyner sometime ago affecting moving picture shows on Sunday in Northampton county got on the unfavorable calendar. Mr. Joyner wanted to get it back and pass it, so he had the good judgment to go to Mr. Cherry for help. The Gaston veteran made the motion for him, and when someone objected that the bill wasn't necessary so the situation was already taken care of, Cherry snapped: "That doesn't matter. My old friend wants it done this way; and he is entitled to have it." The bill was revived and passed.

wards of the state are victims of this disease, and he thinks the whole state ought to co-operate as fully as possible with the current health department campaign.

HOT DEBATE ON PLAN TO HOLD GOP MEASURE 4-H CLUB MEET

Avery County Provides Another Serious-Comic Debate

Raleigh, March 30.—The heathen Chinese may be peculiar in ways that are devious, but he ain't no more peculiar than some far west-ern House Democrats when a neighboring Republican gets in their hair. All the rules of the game are abrogated, consistency is thrown out of the window, and every possible device to embarrass the Republican is not only justified but is actually sanctified by the pious disciples of Jackson and Jefferson.

Avery is one of the most thoroughly Republican counties in the state, and several times this year neighboring Democratic representatives have ridden roughly over the wishes of the Avery member. Madison and Wilkes haven't fared much better.

This time it was an effort by Representative Dan Tompkins to bring from the unfavorable calendar a bill abolishing the Republican primary in Avery that precipitated the war. Senator Bowers, also from Avery and also Republican, put the abolition bill through the Senate. Representative Pittman killed it in the House.

Tompkins fought valiantly for his motion, becoming so enthusiastic that Clarence Stone asked him when he became godfather to all the Republican counties in Western North Carolina?

Most of the old timers sided with Pittman. If it was just a Republican family row, they didn't care to get involved in it. Besides, it looked sort of like a backward step to be going from a primary to a convention for nominating candidates. If they had to choose to help their colleague rather than the man across the hall, so the bill stays on the unfavorable calendar. Avery retains the nominating primary, and the august General Assembly was permitted to proceed with the important business of regulating filling station hours in some other county.

The mail route from Rock Creek, Wyo., to Etcheth, Mont., established in 1878, was one of the longest star routes ever operated. Its length was 560 miles. I nearly days the mail was carried in the pockets of postmen on horseback.

SCORE OF S. C. OFFICIALS RECEIVE FROM $5,000 UP

A bill has been introduced in the House calling for a list of all these salaries from the Budget director, but whether it will be used for a scientific study is quite doubtful.

The $5,000 and up salary list includes:

These 27 officials draw a total of $155,450 annually from the state treasury for an average of $5,757 each. It is noticeable that the majority of these "plums" are appointive, with only ten of the 27 elective as against 17 named by some authority—in most cases the Governor.

FORCES DEADLOCKED OVER WORKERS BILL FOR STATE

their own and six additional ballots, and finally again inserted the Folger amendment, 22 to 21, with two pairs and three absentees.

The Tuesday balloting followed a half day of the most intensive lobbying staged at this session—not by paid representatives of any outside interests, but by Senatorial leaders themselves. On the one side, Senator Willie Lumpkin and those against the Folger amendment worked their hardest, while on the other side Lieutenant Governor Wilkins Horton for the first time during the session was to be seen actively campaigning for anything. He was quite obviously doing his best for the Folger amendment.

The reconsideration vote was influenced by a Lumpkin promise to fore. Gardner and Watkins were Watkins to introduce his "let 'em mark 7 ballots" amendment. But when the time came, Lumpkin couldn't get it through—in fact it was quite obvious he himself had no stomach for the job.

When that lost, it threw things back almost where they were before. Gardner and Watkins went back to the Folger side the fence. Fred Thomas of Anson went out the room, the rest stood pat and that made it 22-21 for the amendment when a vote was finally taken.

ing statements in debate. Stanley's Erskine Smith expressed the opinion that there hasn't been enough election fraud in any North Carolina rate to change the result of any election; and Chatham's Wade Barber said he sees nothing wrong with existing election laws. Both statements were startling for their novelty in this session, as theretofore nobody had contended there hasn't been fraud and nobody had defended the status quo.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters

Assey Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth.
Mike Slade, vociferous artist.

Yesterday, Slade climbs the Brinley's trellis to throw a note referring to the murder, to Madame Meaux (his sister-in-law). Bedlam ensues when Mrs. Brinley gets the note instead.

Chapter 22

An Unmarried Escutcheon

MADAME MEAUX herself was no more fully clothed than any of the other women, but somehow she seemed dressed for the occasion. She wore no curlers like Eloise, or cap like Sara, nor was her hair mussed like Jane's. A hairdresser might just have finished with her. Her satin negligee was a rather too vivid shade of orange, but it was unwrinkled and shining.

"One thing about my business," she said, "it teaches you to be smart about emergencies. Now if this had been a fire, Sister Brinley would clutch the pillows in her arms and take them carefully downstairs, and then toss the glassware out closed windows. I know. I've often wished that thirty-six weeks on the Chautauqua circuit was compulsory for all women—look, can't you want that note?"

She passed over a crumpled piece of paper.

"Mail me all the money you've got to the Weesit P.O. General Deliv. There's been a murder and I'm in a spot, Mike. P. S. Don't say anything. You'll get your money back." Assey frowned. "The fool—no wonder—look, how'd Bessie Brinley get hold of this? What happened?"

"As far as I can make out," Madame Meaux said, "the Brinleys moved out of their bedroom and turned it over to me, and then they moved to their guest room. Mike climbed up outside and flipped this in the top of the window. It hit toots there in the face. He didn't know about the room switching. She blew into my room and blew up. I got her into the car and over here to you. I thought it was a job for you to handle. Besides, at the rate she was going, all the town would have been up in a few more minutes, and I got the impression that whatever was going on, you wanted to keep it quiet."

"Thank heaven you did," Assey said. "What a mess, what a mess!"

"You may think so," the soprano said, "but you haven't been driven by Bessie in a sweat, and I have, and it has aged me horribly. She wouldn't let me touch the car, because Arthur never lets strangers drive it. The angels nearly had a wheel, the last mile. Look, let's stop this din, what do you say? I'll cope with Eloise. That isn't hysterics now. It's temperament. I know all about temperament."

"Go to it," Assey said. "I'll fix Slade. In fact, I just got the where-withal out in the kitchen—"

He pulled a piece of laundry soap from his pocket and stroled over to the still shouting Mike. "Gimme your handkerchief, Zeb. Got one?"

As Slade opened his mouth for a good bit of oratory, Assey inserted the soap, and then tied the handkerchief so that the soap would stay in place.

"There, that's the old-fashioned treatment for small boys, Slade, an' you'd serve it. How—whee!"

Bristling With Undercurrents

MADAME MEAUX had crossed over to the couch; she watched Eloise dispassionately for a moment, and then turned over and slapped her face. It was a resounding slap, and it made Eloise blink.

"Another peep out of you, and you get another," Madame Meaux announced. "And then some. No wonder you lead a single life if you act like this very often."

She returned to her arm chair and lighted another cigarette. The silence was electric, bristling with undercurrents.

"Well, really," Mrs. Brinley said. "I never saw anything quite so brutal—"

"But how effective!" Assey said, "how effective! Kay, is that coffee? Sara, feed your guests, an'—ah, there's the doc."

They got Eloise upstairs.

"I'll look after her," Cummings said. "I don't know what's going on down there, but it looks as though you were needed, Assey. Why must some women be 'e' this? Her digestion'll be all shot for a week, and it's none too good anyway. I've told her a thousand times to lay off that medicated hay and straw. What she stuffs into her stomach in the guise of food would leave anyone itching for hysterics, just for sheer relief."

Assey went back to the living room. He had a task before him, and he didn't look forward to it. He went straight to the point.

"Mrs. Brinley," he tried to make his voice solemn, "you an' your husband have been the victims of a plot."

Mrs. Brinley squealed and looked around her anxiously, as though something on the order of an octopus was about to pounce on her from a corner.

"Slade," Assey pointed to the figure on the floor. "I was telling your husband about it when you came. Slade wanted to get you two all worked up, for the publicity. That's why Weston asked me to come over here. To forestall anything like this. Now," he turned to the trooper, "do you know anything about any murder? You don't, do you?"

"No, sir!"

"Zeb? No. Jeff, if there had been a murder, you'd know about it, wouldn't you?"

"Good gracious," Jeff said in his best McGuffey's statesman manner, "who brought the matter up?"

"It's preposterous! Murders, indeed! Was that what Slade has been saying? Why, the idea!"

Aunt Sara swallowed hard.

"Now, Miss Thayer, you're a reporter. Have you heard of any reports about a murder?"

"If I had a whole fat murder story staring me in the face," Kay said, "I'd utter truthfulness. I should not be here. I promise you that."

"Ruthless Publicity Seeker!"

"HERE," Assey said, "see? It's a horrible thing, Mrs. Brinley, but you see, you an' your husband, is influential, an' Slade knew if he could start a story through you people would believe it. It's—uh—exploit—The—uh—rich, I mean, the influential folks always get this sort of thing, in any community. You was bein' exploited by a ruthless publicity seeker, that's what."

"Ruthless?" Jeff Leach said "It's dastardly!"

"Just so. Now, for the best interests of everything, Mrs. Brinley, Zeb'll take you home. You an' your guest, I want you to leave the rest to me. I," he added meaningly, "will fix this. I will—"

"Nip it in the bud," Sara helped him out.

"I want justice!" Mrs. Brinley began to lapse into her Women's Club manner. "I want justice, an' justice will be done! Justice, or—"

"There's only one thing," Assey said, "an' Jeff'll agree with me. I there's any scandal now, with the Old Home Week going on—well, certainly would hate to think of the effect."

He talked on until he was tired and then Sara came to his rescue. She had never in the past been very cordial to Mrs. Brinley, but she made up for it.

"At last the Brinleys gave in. To save Billingsgate, to leave unmarred the escutcheon of Billingsgate and Old Home Week, they would forget their personal feelings. They would leave everything to Assey. They would never mention the affair. Never whisper about it."

Zeb drove them home in Assey's roadster. Madame Meaux, who had also allowed herself to be persuaded to save the town, winked at Assey as she left.

"What an M.C.," she said, "show business lost in you! I'll lay it on some more for you when they get back."

Finally Cummings got Eloise to sleep, and Assey got the rest of the household off to bed.

"What are you going to do with him?" the doctor pointed to Slade. "Him an' me is goin' to have a little seance out in the barn. Help us take him out, doc. There's been enough to do in this house for one night."

After Slade had been deposited on the barn floor, Assey turned to the trooper.

"Go on back an' see none of them folks decide to come help us after all," he said. "If they don't get to sleep right away, they'll probably decide to lumber out an' assist."

He removed the handkerchief and the piece of soap from Slade's mouth and stood back to await the torrent of abuse he fully expected would issue forth.

But Slade just lay there sullenly and never uttered a word.

Assey looked at him thoughtfully. He would see how someone like Jane would fall for a fellow like that. Slade was no moving picture idol; his nose was too long and his mouth too wide, but his dark hair had the sort of crinkly wave in it that women seemed to like, and his black eyes had probably made any number of conquests. About thirty-five, Assey decided. Younger than he had at first thought. And even bound hand and foot, there was a tremendous vigor about him.

"Huh," he said. "I can see where you would make Zeb Chase look like skim milk. An' I see why Sara give you a chance. Slade, what's the big idea?"

COLLEGE TEAM SET FOR GAME

Campbell College To Invade ECTC In First Contest

Campbell College will invade Greenville Saturday to furnish the opposition for Coach Gordon Gilbert's East Carolina Teachers College Pirates in their first baseball game for the present season.

Kelly Martin, regular hurler of last year, is slated to work on the mound for the locals in Saturday's tilt. If Kelly happens not to be in shape, then Ed Wells, former Greenville high star, and valuable member of the Pirate nine, will do the tossing.

Coach Gilbert said that Adrian Brown is being eyed for catching duties and may see action Saturday. Although inexperienced, Brown is a good receiver and probably will see much service behind the plate during the season. Mickey Northcutt is the first string catcher.

Daily workouts have been held for the Pirates, who appear to be making rather fine progress. Practice games have been held and several players seem to be rather handy with the stick. However, their hitting ability can be determined much better when they confront the hurlers from another school.

Bill Shelton looks good at short and is slated to start in this berth Saturday afternoon. Lester Ridenhour has been assigned to the "hot corner" and will be holding third in the Saturday affair. Earl Smith, another mainstay of last season, has assumed his former duties at the keystone sack.

Joe Hatem of Greenville, the Pirates' only veteran outfielder, is unopposed for the left field job. Charles Futrell, another Greenville product, is slated to see much action in right field. Futrell was a top-notch first-sacker with Greenville high school last year. Norman Mayo of Plymouth seems to have garnered the centerfield job.

Probable starters for Saturday in batting order, as released by Coach Gilbert, follow:

Shelton, ss; Ridenhour, 3b; Smith, 2b; Hinton, 1b; Hatem, lf; Mayo, cf; Futrell, rf; Norcott, c; and Martin, p.

Bill Dudash of Massena, N.Y., and Walter Moritz of Long Island, N.Y., probably will see outfield action in Saturday game.

Missing Girl Found

Two days after she disappeared mysteriously from her home at Memphis, Tenn., pretty Hope Brewster (above), 24-year-old violin teacher, was found safe at Helena, Ark., and none the worse for her 90-mile trip down the Mississippi river in a rowboat.

LOCAL TENNIS TEAM IN LOSS

Lenoir Rhyme Whips ECTC 7-2 in Season Opener Yesterday

Lenoir Rhyme defeated East Carolina Teachers College tennis team 7-2 here yesterday afternoon in the first matches of the season for both contingents.

Douglas Glover of Wilson, No. 4 singles entry for the locals, defeated Berge Beam of Lenoir Rhyme 6-3, 4-6, 8-6 in the first defeat in a year for Glover's opposition.

In the only other victory of the afternoon for the locals, Leo Burks and Glover coupled to defeat Mauney and Hahn 6-4, 6-2 in the No. 1 doubles offering.

Singles

No. 1—Mauney defeated Burks 6-1, 6-4.

No. 2—Hahn defeated Green 6-0, 6-0.

No. 3—Capt. Kennedy defeated Harris 6-3, 6-0.

No. 4—Glover defeated Beam 6-3, 4-6, 8-6.

No. 5—L. Conrad defeated Meadows 6-0, 6-1.

No. 6—D. Conrad defeated Wilkerson 6-3, 6-2.

Doubles

No. 1—Burks and Glover defeated Mauney and Hahn 6-4, 6-2.

No. 2—Kennedy and D. Conrad defeated Wilkerson and Green 6-1 and 6-3.

No. 3—L. Conrad and Beam defeated Meadows and Harris 6-1, 6-2.

PAM PACK NINE FACES OLD FOE

To Meet Washington High Team Here Tomorrow

By "SMUT" BURKS
Greenville high school's baseball team will play host to the Pam Pack nine of Washington high school tomorrow afternoon in an Eastern Conference contest. The game will be played at Third Street Stadium and will start at 3:30.

Coach Boley Farley's Greenies got started on the wrong foot last Tuesday when they suffered a 7-2 defeat at the hands of Kingston's team. However, Waylan Tucker, hurling mainstay, was forced to go the route against Kingston after working a whole game against the Winterville club the preceding Friday because of a sore arm suffered by Paul Flye, sophomore pitching prospect. Tucker was possibly not at top form because of overwork and the G-Men have a good chance of turning back the Washingtonians.

This year is the first time in six years that the Washington school has had a baseball representative in Eastern competition, but dope experts have it that they have several outstanding players on their team, and are expected to give the G-Men a tough fight.

Flye will probably get the starting call on the mound for the locals. His arm is showing up well in practice and Flye will be in good shape. Polly Williams will be at his old post behind the plate. The starting infield will consist of John Lautes, 1b; Snag Clark, 2b; Milton Stafford, 3b and Ford McGowan, ss. In the outer garden will probably be Bill Taylor, Edgar Gibson and John Register.

Tomorrow's game will be sparked by the keen rivalry existing between the age-old rivals. Washington and Greenville teams have always put on a good show with plenty of entertainment mixed up with the natural competition given by each team. So far this year, Greenville has clean sweep over Washington in athletic contests. The G-Men took a 12-0 decision on the gridiron and defeated the Washington cagers in both encounters.

Haynes Appointed ECTC Tennis Head

Coach O. A. "Hank" Hanker, head of the Physical Education Department of East Carolina Teachers College, today announced that Dr. H. C. Hayes, E. C. T. C. education and psychology professor, had been appointed coach for the boys' tennis team.

Coach Hanker said that Dr. Hayes was assigned the coaching duties because of his interest in athletics, particularly tennis, and present activities of other members of the Physical Education Department.

During his last two years at Mercer University, Dr. Hayes was No. 2 man on the tennis team. He competed with players in such schools as the University of Georgia, Emory University, Howard University and Georgia Tech. He also coached tennis in prep school. During the summer months of his school days, he played tennis with the Macon, Ga., city team.

MOVIE ACTRESS ATTACKED

A mysterious attacker slugged pretty Della Gogard (above), youthful moving picture actress, and left her lying partially conscious on a lawn in Hollywood. Police believe she was a victim of the same assailant who killed Anya Sosoyeva, Russian actress, on the Los Angeles City College campus last Feb. 25.

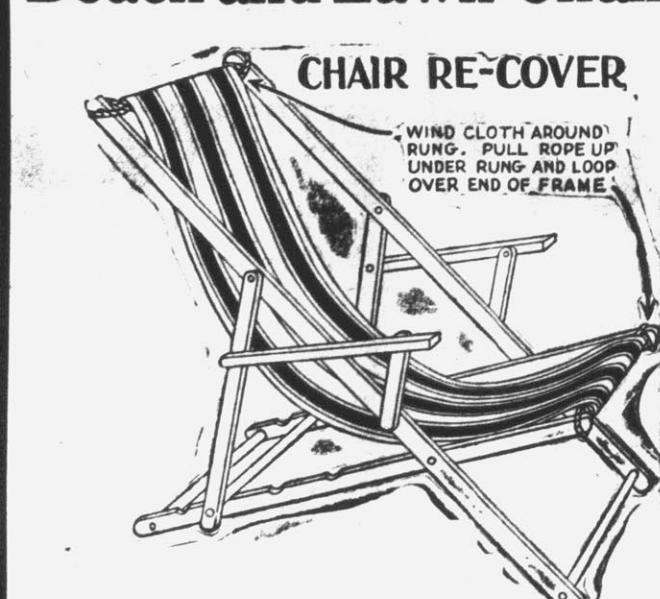

Ban Drunk Drivers On State Property

Reflecter Bureau. By LYNN NISBET Raleigh, March 30.—Consideration of Leon Butler's bill making it the same kind of misdemeanor to operate a car while in a drunken condition on the driveways of any state institution or hospital, as it now is to operate one on the public highways to the state, was postponed a day while Major Cherry could investigate what the effect of the law would be on attendance at football games.

Representative Butler introduced the bill as a state-wide measure, the house committee limited it to Burke county, and the senate re-extended it all over the state. Members thought it was most too elastic and they wanted to find a little more what was back of it before voting.
