NEW TRUSTEES OF UNIVERSITY ARE SELECTED

Elected After Heated Fights in Committee Rooms

COMMISSION FOR SCHOOLS NAMED

Would Make Study of Educational Needs in State and Recommend Long-Range Program

Raleigh, March 31.—(AP)—The General Assembly elected 29 persons to the board of trustees of the University of North Carolina today.

There was no evidence at the joint session that there had been a heated fight at the joint committee meeting, held behind locked doors, but committee members indicated there had been.

No details were given out officially, but members said the original list of recommendations given the joint group included the name of David Clark of Charlotte. A motion to substitute the name of George Stephens of Asheville, for that of Clark, resulted in two tie votes before Stephens won. Several other changes were made in the "slate" offered the joint committee by Senator Joyner of Iredell, members said.

It also was learned that the committee declined a suggestion from O. Max Gardner, former governor, that he be left off as his term expired this year.

The Senate voted 42 to one for the committee recommendations and the House concurred 96 to three.

Elected for terms expiring April 1, 1947, were: Congressman John H. Kerr, Sr., of Warren county; H. D. Bateman of Wilson; W. L. Lumpkin of Franklin; J. W. Umstead, Jr., of Orange; M. C. Lassiter of Greene; C. B. Park Jr., of Wake; W. E. Penner of Nash; H. B. Marrow of Johnston; Emmett Bellamy of New Hanover; Fred Sutton of Lenoir; Charles Wheebie of Perquimans; Mrs. Kate P. Arrington of Warren and others.

For terms expiring April 1, 1941, George R. Ward of Duplin, was selected in lieu of J. F. Spruill, dropped because of non-attendance at meetings.

John G. Dawson of Lenoir, was elected for a term expiring April 1, 1945, to succeed the late J. L. Beeton.

The Senate adopted the resolution to create a commission of nine members, to be advised by an advisory council of 25, to study the educational set-up in the state and recommend a long-range program.

Senator McIntyre of Robeson, offered the resolution under suspended rules. It was sent to the House Senator McIntyre said his father sponsored an act in 1899 under which the state made its first appropriation, $100,000, for public schools.

ACCORD SIGNED WITH RUMANIA

France Joins In Pact Designed to Check Germany

Paris, March 31.—(AP)—France today signed a commercial accord with Rumania and the French government arranged for final discussion tomorrow the armed support France could pledge to Poland against German aggression.

The French-Rumanian accord, designed as a check against Germany's economic penetration of southeastern Europe was signed at the foreign office at 12:25 p. m. by Foreign Minister Bonnet and Rumanian Ambassador Taleyescu.

Shortly before that President Lebrun had summoned the cabinet to meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow to reach a decision on the measure of military aid to France would promise Poland if the expanding Nazi state marched against Polish territory.

In the brief treaty-signing ceremony the Rumanian Ambassador said that Rumania had not and would never grant any kind of economic monopoly on her territory.

Last week Rumania concluded a far-reaching five year economic pact with Germany, giving the Reich important concessions in trade and developments of Rumanian oil resources.

Vote Is Provided For City Manager

If the Board of Aldermen so decides, a popular vote on the question of establishing a city manager form of government can be called any time within the two years beginning July 1st.

House bill 808 was passed by the Senate yesterday and ordered ratified into law providing for the referendum, at the will of the board, any time after the new administration takes office.

The bill, it is understood, provides only for a vote of the people on the city manager question and does not include other proposed changes in the city charter. Excluded from the bill were provisions for the establishment of a Planning Commission and a Park Commission.

The present Board of Aldermen unanimously passed a resolution at a recent meeting asking that a bill be enacted providing for a vote of the people on the city manager proposal.

Government Officially Announced Action Which Isolates British City of Hongkong and Provides Japan With a Complete Ring Around The Philippine Islands And Other Advantages

Tokyo, March 31.—(AP)—The Japanese government announced today it had assumed jurisdiction over the Spratly islands which France claimed in 1933 and which are of possible strategic value as a seaplane and submarine base.

The tiny group, 247 acres, lie in the South China Sea midway between British North Borneo and French Indo-China. Approximately 600 miles from the British naval base, Singapore, their occupation would give Japan a complete ring around the Philippines.

With the Chinese island of Hainan, previously occupied by the Japanese, the Spratly group isolates Hongkong, places Japan within easy reach of the Dutch East Indies and further blocks the southern approach to the Japanese empire.

The islands lie dead athwart sea lanes approaching Japan from the south.

The foreign office statement said the island previously was owned by the vice-minister of foreign affairs summoned the French ambassador and informed him the step was taken for "the protection and regulation of lives, property and enterprises of Japanese nationals there."

Negro Bound Over In Secret Attack

In city court today, probable cause was found in a case charging Thomas Roundtree Negro, with secret assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. The Negro was bound over to Superior Court and bond was set at $500.

The Negro allegedly hit J. Thomas Bland, Greenville youth, on the head with a rock. Bland was treated at the General Hospital for head wounds.

Archie Ruffin, Negro, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was given a six months road sentence, suspended upon payment of $10 and costs.

Joe Everett, Negro, adjudged guilty on a charge of illegal possession of liquor for purpose of sale, was given 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $5 and costs.

Jasper Oakley, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of costs.

Elebe Hines, Negro, drunk, costs 30 days; James Moore, Negro, convicted on a charge of driving while drunk, was ordered to pay $50 and costs, or serve a 90-day road sentence.

Carl Whitehurst and E. L. Tetterton were tried on charges of operating motor vehicles in a carelessly manner.

HOUSE REFUSES RESTORE FUND CUT FROM WPA

Declines to appropriate Additional $50,000,000

FAVORS CHANGES WAGE-HOUR ACT

Administrator Declares Amendments By Norton Would Promote Effectiveness of Measure

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—The House defeated overwhelmingly today an administration attempt to raise the relief appropriation bill from $100,000,000 to the extra $150,000,000 which President Roosevelt requested for WPA expenses through June 30.

By a 205 to 156 tally vote it bowed over an amendment of Rep. Fitzpatrick (D-N.Y.) to add $50,000,000 to the bill's total.

Just before this vote it had refused to cut the fund to $54,293,575. The vote was 161 to 111.

The two ballots were interpreted by some legislators as virtually assuring ultimate approval of the $100,000,000 which the Appropriations committee recommended. That was the amount for which the House economy bloc also was fighting.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Administrator Elmer Andrews told Congress today enactment of the proposed Norton amendments to the wage-hour law would "promote the effective and even-handed administration of the act."

In a letter to Chairman Norton (D-N.J.) of the House Labor committee, author of the amendments, and who said each of the proposals had been "carefully studied and investigated."

"The adoption of these amendments will, in my judgment," the administrator wrote, "greatly improve the administration of the act, will provide needed flexibility, will assist in enforcement, and will remove a substantial number of annoyances and hardships which the administration is at present powerless to avoid."

The Social Security Board, meanwhile, asked Congress to consider an amendment to the Social Security act which eventually would provide annuities to all permanently and totally disabled persons.

Other developments: The Senate approved and sent to the House a bill authorizing the army and navy to acquire reserve stocks of strategic war materials.

The measure would authorize purchases totaling $10,000,000 a year for four years. Originally it authorized $25,000,000 yearly expenditures, but the figure was cut by a 33 to 31 vote yesterday.

Farm state members who had threatened to "cut the throats" of legislators in industrial areas who helped kill a $250,000,000 appropriation for farm parity payments earlier in the week, showed signs, however, of lessened hostility to the $10,000,000 additional WPA fund.

Friends said Paul McNutt would resign as high commissioner to the Philippines this summer and come home to take charge of his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Other country and war would be avoided if there were no such invasions.

TWELVE PLUNGE TO DEATH FROM WASHED OUT SPAN

Rescue workers here are shown seeking the bodies of motorists who drowned when their cars plunged off this washed out bridge over the Big Black River near Vicksburg, Miss. At least seven cars hurtled into the rain-swollen stream, drowning at least twelve persons whose bodies have been recovered. Two others are missing and eight who reached the bank were injured. This picture shows also a partially submerged truck and passenger car.

POLAND HAILS NEW PROMISES

Welcomes Pledge Of Assistance By Britain and France

Warsaw, March 31.—(AP)—Polish government sources today hailed Prime Minister Chamberlain's promise of military assistance to preserve Polish independence as likely to make Nazi Germany abandon any idea she may have had of obtaining Polish territory by threat of force.

The promise of military aid from both Britain and France came in the midst of intensive foreign office consultations preparing for Foreign Minister Beck's scheduled visit to London next week.

The foreign office mouthpiece had implied Poland would accept the military alliance with Britain and France if Adolf Hitler refused Poland's appeal for a pledge of respect for Polish rights and frontiers.

An inspired article in the newspaper Kurjer Czerwony made it clear Poland hoped to come to an understanding with Germany without entering a bloc against her, but that she was prepared to do so if German guarantees were not forthcoming.

Poland, whose traditional policy has been to strike a balance between her Soviet Russian and German neighbors, had been in informal negotiations with Germany, seeking a guarantee of her vital economic interests in the Free city of Danzig.

The government has expressed hope that an agreement be reached to save Poland from entering what Germany may consider a "provocative bloc."

Officer Shoots Negro As Arrest Is Resisted

Wilson, March 31.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Pete Green said Policeman T. T. Autry of Bailey shot and killed Lee Lucas, a Negro, early today.

Green said Autry told him he shot Lucas when the latter resisted arrest in connection with entrance into Bullock's teacherage earlier. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Toll Of 12

Vicksburg, Miss., March 31.—(AP)—The death toll of a highway bridge washout near here amounted to 12 today and two persons still missing as search continued in a rain-swollen river into which at least seven more cars plunged Wednesday night.

ADOPT SLOGAN FOR CAMPAIGN

Committee "Whoops It Up for Clean Up" Drive Here

With a slogan of "whoop it up for clean up," a mass meeting has been called for 9 o'clock Monday night at the Woman's Club building for the purpose of enlisting every citizen in the clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign to be conducted here the week of April 4.

Date for the affair was moved up because several meetings and other attractions will draw an unusually large number of visitors to the city the following week.

Decision to call the mass meeting was reached at a gathering yesterday of a special committee conducting the campaign. Representatives from the various organizations in the city are on the special committee.

Some appropriate program will be arranged for the mass meeting in an attempt to get the public interested in the clean-up campaign, which has been proclaimed officially by Mayor Marvin K. Blount and which has the whole-hearted approval and cooperation of the county health officer, Dr. N. Thomas Emmett, health officer.

Several other proposals suggested to arouse interest were discussed at the meeting yesterday, but no definite action has been taken on any as yet, although the committee members and others are at work on the idea of "whoop it up for clean up."

Meat Packing Plant For East N. C. In Prospect

Reflector Bureau. By LYNN NISBET. Raleigh, March 31.—Construction of a large meat packing plant in North Carolina which will serve the whole southeast is expected to be announced soon by one of the largest packing houses in the country.

Exact location of the plant has not been determined. For more than a year the industrial division of the Department of Conservation and Development has been in communication with packing company officials and has assisted in making surveys of several prospective locations.

North Carolina has become within recent years one of the important hog-growing states, and North Carolina farmers have shipped their hogs to plants in other sections. To facilitate purchase and shipment of hogs buying stations have already been established in a number of eastern towns.

Momentous Decision Made Known By Chamberlain

STRONGER TERMS THAN EXPECTED

Two Democracies Definitely Commit Themselves to Send Aid In Case of Aggression

London, March 31.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain in an historic attempt to block Germany's expansion on the continent, announced in the House of Commons today that Britain and France would back with arms the independence of Poland while pursuing means of stabilizing the European situation.

Without mentioning Germany, the Prime Minister stated Britain's position thus:

"In the event of any action which clearly threatens Polish independence and which the Polish accordingly considered it vital to resist.

Berlin, March 31.—(AP)—Government spokesmen intimated today that British Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons would determine the tone and character of the speech Reichsfuehrer Hitler is scheduled to make at 5:15 p. m. (11:15 a. m. EST) tomorrow at Wilhelmshaven.

At the same time they expressed opinions that London rumors of German pressure on Poland were intended to swerve Poland from her neutrality on the eve of the Polish foreign minister's visit to London and propel her into the British-French constellation.

The rumors have been denied here.

with their national forces, his Majesty's government would feel themselves bound at once to lend Polish government all support in their power.

"They have given the Polish government an assurance to this effect.

"I may add that the French government has authorized me to make it plain that they stand in the same position in this matter as does his Majesty's government."

The statement was beyond any reply. (Continued on page three)

Drainage Projects Proposal Is Lost

House bill 930 to authorize Pitt county drainage districts to levy a tax in the respective areas for the repair, maintenance, etc., of drainage canals, was killed in the State Senate yesterday when that body indefinitely postponed action on the measure.

Sponsors of the bill contended that the various districts had no means of maintaining the drainage projects and that the district commissioners should be allowed to petition the county commissioners to levy a tax for such a purpose, the levy to apply only to the affected areas.

A meeting was held in the court house, however, last Saturday, at which members of the Pitt delegation in the General Assembly asked for views of the people. Much opposition developed to the proposal and legislators too this reaction as the ir cue to defeat the measure.

EUROPEAN SITUATION HOLDS U. S. INTEREST

Warm Springs, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—Sources close to the White House asserted today there was a general fear in the world that Germany might extend her "domination" of other races to other continents and that current British and French actions appeared to seek an end of that danger.

While President Roosevelt refused to discuss the foreign crisis at a roadside press conference intimates declared Prime Minister Chamberlain's pledge to the House of Commons today that Britain would fight if Poland's independence were threatened and his statement that France would take similar action seemed to put squarely upon Germany the responsibility for any possible general war.

These sources said Britain and France were, in effect, saying to Germany that war would come only by invasion by Germany of some Greensboro College Alumnae.

The Pitt county chapter of the Greensboro College Alumnae met yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock with Mrs. J. W. Brown at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Aman on Maple street.

The inviting living room was made more pleasing still with its attractive arrangements of colorful spring flowers.

Mrs. J. R. Gullidge, president, called the meeting to order and welcomed Mrs. J. W. Higgs as visitor at this time. Mrs. F. P. Brooks, secretary, called the roll and read the minutes of the February meeting.

Mrs. Brooks also read several short articles and personal items from the college magazine "The Collegian," which were interesting to alumnae members. Mrs. W. C. Harris, treasurer, gave her report.

At the close of the brief business session, Mrs. Gullidge presented Miss Katherine Holtzclaw, of the college faculty, who charmed her listeners with an illustrated talk on "Costumes—Styles of the Last Hundred Years."

The talk was in the form of a brief panorama of the costumes that the girls have worn on the campus for the past century, or since Greensboro College has been established.

The first period reviewed was that which Miss Holtzclaw described as the romantic period which lasted from 1830-1860. It was the period in which luxury was expressed in costumes; a time when young girls were really young ladies, when they wore many ruffles and flounces and hoop skirts. It was the period in which the south expressed itself in all its glory before the Civil War.

Next, there followed the bustle period (1870-90), in which costumes showed the Victorian influence. They were usually, more or less, ornate and very modest, dresses designed for the corseted figure with high necks, long sleeves and reaching the floor. The period 1890-1910 saw the separation of costumes. It was the period of the very tight bodice, of the shirtwaist-and-skirt, and of the coat-suit—the brief period (1910-14) saw the hobble and the Merry Widow hat.

But with the World War there came a very decided change in costume. The military influence was noted whenever and wherever there was any possible excuse for it. On the whole, however, the shorter skirt and the fuller dress grew out of the short period just mentioned above, when skirts were very narrow at the bottom, with a tightness between the knees and fullness at the hips.

After 1918 there was greater freedom of activity in dress. It was the period of the frock cut with low neck and short sleeves, the period of the large waist, of the middie blouse and the pleated skirt. From 1921-1928 we saw the very ugliest costumes of all time. It was the period when waists were dropped down almost to the hips, when an equal division of the figure, of waist and skirt, created a most unpleasant, and almost vulgar, effect. In 1927 the loose, free, uncorseted movement reached the peak of its ugliness. There came in November, 1928, a sudden, an inexplicable, an unseason reaction in styles, and since then costumes have undergone no decided material change. "If fashion goes back every hundred years, as it is said to do," Miss Holtzclaw smilingly concluded, "then the hoop skirt may be expected as our next change."

This most delightful talk, based on the history of costume, was illustrated by dressed dolls and pictures from old copies of "Harper's Bazaar," "The Illustrated London Home Journal," "From last Sunday's issue of the 'New York Times,'" Miss Holtzclaw passed pictures showing that in costume there is nothing new under the sun. The present styles indicate a nostalgia in fashion, in costume and bonnet. Some of the inspiration for our modern styles has come from the middle ages, from the Napoleonic era, from the eighties and from the gay nineties.

Following this most fascinating program, a social hour was enjoyed, during which the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Aman and Mrs. Jesse W. Brown, Jr., served a tempting ice course.—Reported.

Legion Auxiliary Meets.

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held on Monday, March 27th, at the home of Mrs. Studie Corey. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Arthur Corey who was ill, Mrs. L. B. Gowan presided.

Mrs. W. R. Jones, chairman of the Child Welfare committee, gave an interesting report of assistance given to the families to two World War veterans. Shoes, clothing, food and garden seeds have been provided them.

Mrs. D. M. Clark, chairman of the Rehabilitation committee reported that arrangements will be made to send Easter lilies to the five boys in Ward A-3 at Oteen.

Attention was called to the First Area conference to be held in Williamston on April 13th and all who could possibly do so were urged to attend.

Tentative plans for Poppy Day to be observed in May were discussed. At the close of the business session the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, served refreshing orange drinks, toasted pecans and wafers. Reported.

Entertains Bridge Club.

Mrs. Luther Bowling entertained her bridge club and several additional guests yesterday afternoon at her home on Summit street. Yellow jonquils, white spirea and other spring flowers were arranged in the rooms of the home.

Mrs. E. E. Rawl won a cake as the high score prize. Mrs. Bowling served a delightful salad course with coffee.

Convalescing.

Mrs. Sam G. Hodges, who underwent an operation on Wednesday in Pitt General Hospital, is convalescing favorably.

Returns To Hospital.

Friends of Mrs. J. Lester Simmons will regret to learn she has returned to the hospital. Mrs. Simmons entered St. Luke's Hospital in Richmond, today. She will appreciate hearing from all her friends while there.

Winterville Little Theatre.

"Stars" and "leads" are current words in drama reporters' vocabularies. But there is one character in "Run, Hero, Run" the gay comedy that is soon to be presented at Winterville, that falls into an entirely different classification. We refer to Finch, the faithful governess for the twins of the cough-drop king, Cornelius Kendall. Constantly thwarted in her attempt to speak—Mrs. Kendall never allows her to get started—she is afforded a superb opportunity to do one of the finest pieces of pantomimic work offered in a modern play. This will be presented soon in the school auditorium.

Sermon Delivered On "Do Not Fail"

Speaking on the text "Thou Shalt Not Fail" Dr. Forrest Peozor who is conducting a revival at the Memorial Baptist Church, last night told a large audience "Jesus did not fail in character. He did not and does not fail in His promises. He did not fail in his purpose of redemption," and then the speaker asked "Is He falling in your life?"

At the conclusion of the sermon four persons presented themselves for membership. A duet was rendered by Rev. and Mrs. Lucian Pinnix.

At this morning services Dr. Peozor spoke on the words of Joseph to his brethren: "See that you fall not out by the way." The minister said that Joseph gave his brethren this admonition because they had

Applying these points, Dr. Peozor declared "we Christians are brethren, we have a glorious message entrusted to us, we are stewards of what God has entrusted to us, and we, too, are making an impression upon those outside the church."

Rev. Mr. Pinnix played on his saw the hymn "Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

'It's A Conspiracy'

"NOW you know," Dr. Cummings sat down on an overturned lobster pot, "the trouble with Slade, Asey, he never made enough to live as an artist, and on the rare occasions when he did make anything, he never bought proper food. Now he has this town job, his disposition's improved some. He doesn't rant quite so much. You know, Asey, I've always thought communism is a sort of religion, and the people who get any religion really violently, they always have some quirk somewhere, and usually it's the digestive system. A well fed person doesn't care two cents for causes. They accept things. But you take a digestion—"

"Ain't you," Asey said, "sort of harpin' on the digestive system tonight?"
"Well," Cummings said defensively, "I read a book about it last night. Tonight—anyway, before I got into bed a while ago. The fellow goes too far, of course, they all do, but—oh, go on!"

Asey didn't remind him that he hadn't been given any chance to begin let alone to continue.
"Slade," he said, "I'm tired. Let's get this over with. How'd you know about the murder? Man alive, I didn't like this nonsense any more than you do! But if you smash up furniture and act in general like a fool kid, what can we do? Now, come on. Who told you about the murder? How'd you know?"

"Jane wrote me a note. I got it this evening. She's frightened to death, and why shouldn't she be, with all of you bullying her—"

"No one's bullied her, Slade. Don't be foolish. Why did you want all the money Emily Slade could give you?"

"Oh, to get away, you fool! To get Jane away—that's why I came here to night. To take her away from all of you, and all of this before it's too late!"

"And I would have taken her, too, if Eloise hadn't gummed it up!"

"What's he talking about?" Cummings asked curiously. "He doesn't smell drunk! But I know what I'm talking about! Slade yelled, 'It's a conspiracy! It's all a conspiracy! The dirty Chase money they've piled up out of their filthy baked beans—'"

"He went on at some length about the dirty Chase money."

"I'm wrong about the digestive system," Cummings said while Slade paused for breath. "I don't think it's the digestive system at all, Asey. It's glandular. On the other hand—say, Mike, do you have many headaches? Does it ever seem to you that your hands, or arms, or head—or any part of you—just floated in space? Because—"

Slade got his breath and began again.
Asey listened to the tirade, trying to pick together some sort of story from it.

Set Ideas
SLADE had made up his mind that Asey and the rest, with the consent of the police and the town officers, had decided to shield the real murderers of Mary Randall. He was very set on that point, and he illustrated his ideas with any number of cases from Czarist Russia, Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany. But because eventually the murder would have to come to light and be made public, Slade felt that Jane Warren had been picked as the official scapegoat.

"And while you're bullying her, and getting your fake case made as water tight as you can, you withhold all the story from the public. From the people. From everyone who has any right to know. All to save your town, and its moneymaking schemes! It's a conspiracy."

"It's indignation, that's what it is," Cummings said. "What did you have for supper?"

"Baked beans," Slade was caught off guard by the doctor's professional tones.

"No wonder," Asey said, "why, in your situation, I think Chase's Baked Beans would upset me. Let's get this idea of yours about Jane and Zeb again. You wandered off and mixed me up when you footnoted on Spain."

It was simple Slade said. Jane could be arrested for the murder. If she promised to marry Zeb, then the dirty Chase money would get her off. Obviously, to get off, it would take the dirty Chase money, and she couldn't get the dirty Chase money without taking dirty Chase's Zeb along with it.

Asey laughed when he finished. "I can't help it," he said. "You've gone all around Robin Hood's barn—honest, you couldn't be more wrong. Did Jane write you in this note that anything like that had been suggested?"

"No, but she said Eloise had suggested and hinted at it. But I know. You can't pull the wool over my eyes."

"Slade, listen. Jane bought a shotgun. Where is it?"

"She bought the gun for me, for a present! She knew I wanted a new one—"

"Fine. Is that the gun you was brandishin' the other night up to the midway?"

"No, that was my old one. But shotguns don't make any difference—"

"They do, Asey said. 'Where's your new gun now?'"

"Oh, it's been stolen! It was stolen from my studio the night of the fire. Don't you see," Slade demanded hotly, "it's a conspiracy? Someone steals the gun that Jane gave me, that night, and kills Mary Randall with it. Then you find it, and then—"

'No Kulak'
"NOW," Asey said, "we're gettin' some place. Jane bought a gun, give it to you, someone steals it from you on Monday night. Was that what made you run off an' hide, after shootin' your mouth off all over town, an' gettin' Brinley's goat, an' workin' up the Old Settlers?"

"No, you fool!" Slade said. "Of course it wasn't! And you're supposed to be a detective! Can't you get anything straight at all?"

"With a mite of cooperation," Asey said, "I might pick out the gist of this, but right now you put in mind of Mrs. J. Arthur Brinley. Well, we'll go to it again. Maybe we'll get it by degrees. I saw you Monday night at a brush fire near your studio. You was burned, an' worried about your paintings. Next thing, I hear you're rampin' around town with a shotgun. Why, exactly?"

"Because the fire was set, don't you see? Someone intended to burn down my studio! I found places later where kerosene had been poured around! And someone had stolen my gun, too. And I was mad. So I took my old gun and went up to town to show people that they couldn't intimidate me! I'm no—"

"You're no kulak," Asey said. "We know. Doc, your wife was caught on the ferris wheel when it stuck, wasn't she?"

"And," Cummings said feelingly, "and how! She and Bessie Brinley both. What they told the man who runs it isn't fit to print. She'll never get over that. It was better than the time she got stuck in an elevator in Boston for eight hours, and they threw ham sandwiches in at her from the fourth floor. She seems to have a bad effect on elevating machinery, somehow."

"Doc, you was there at the midway, wasn't you at the time?"

"My, yes. I gave her moral support until Nellie sent someone to tell me that you wanted me. My wife—"

"How long, now," Asey said, "were you there before Nellie sent someone?"

"Half an hour or more. They were up there an hour and a half, all told. And, by George, all told, too!"

The doctor laughed heartily at his own joke.

"Uh-huh. Now, did you see Slade?"

"Man alive, everyone saw Slade. Couldn't miss him. He and the stuck ferris wheel were major attractions. Lots of people thought he was some sort of clown connected with the midway. He made quite a sensational appearance—"

"Doc," Asey said patiently, "I'm gettin' at something. Was Slade there when you came?"

"Oh, yes. He was practically the first person I saw and I was going to offer some helpful suggestions about bed and the necessity for relaxing—that's another trouble with you, Mike. You don't relax enough. You're getting along in your thirties now, and you've got to realize that you can't keep up your youthful pace forever—"

"Doc," Asey said, "listen to me, will you? Slade was there when you came, an' that was half an hour before you was called to the phone. Now, is that right?"

"Yes," Cummings said, "why?"

"He was there during the last part of Philbrick's fireworks display."

"I'm sure of it. He stood near me—why yes he was there. He made some crack about the last piece—"

"That's all I want to know," Asey said. "Mary Randall was killed just before the final piece of fireworks went off. If Slade was up at the midway, that accounts for him. Seems to me it took a lot of pryin' to get that out of you two. Now, Slade, let's get back to your yarn again. Your idea in flip-pin' that note was to get enough money from Madame Thingummy to take Jane an' beat it. That's what you was climbin' the maple for, huh, to get Jane? Did it ever occur to you that the fellow who runs away is most usually considered the guilty one?"

Slade opened his mouth and closed it again. "Why—uh—why, no. But we wouldn't be running away from—"

"No. But it wouldn't help you any to run, would it? In fact, if you was in my place, how'd you feel if the two of you beat it?"

thing most European observers anticipated.

The Prime Minister had been expected to qualify his guarantee by refusing to fight for Danzig or the Polish Corridor.

The commitment was also a direct reversal of Chamberlain's statement of a year ago, when he rejected laborite demands for a British guarantee of the frontiers of Czechoslovakia.

Scarcely an hour before the Prime Minister made the statement United States Ambassador Kennedy left the foreign office.

It was known that Kennedy had been in constant touch with the Prime Minister for the last 48 hours. Chamberlain's history-making declarations occupied less than five minutes and the house recessed after a session of only 17 minutes.

Chamberlain ended with the statement that the Demmonions are being kept fully informed.

He disclosed that Britain also was in close contact with Soviet Russia in reaching the momentous decision.

Chamberlain said that the British government was in touch with other European governments besides Soviet Russia in a wide attempt to curb aggression.

House Passing Bills At A Very Fast Rate

Raleigh, March 30.—With almost no regard for any rule or virtue except speed the House of Representatives Wednesday morning waded through the longest local calendar of the session, passing dozens of laws about which the voting members were on the floor at one time, members were speaking from their own or someone else's seat without discrimination and Acting Speaker Bill Fenner had to keep

TALK BELLAMY FOR CONGRESS

Record in Legislature Provides Good Platform

Reflector Bureau.
By LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, March 31.—It is an open secret about the capitol rotunda in and around Raleigh hotel lobbies, that Senator Emmett Hargrove Bellamy of New Hanover would like very much to go to congress.

There isn't anything in his legislative record that would embarrass him in a race for the national house of representatives; on the contrary, he could point to his record as powerful argument in favor of his election.

Named as chairman of the committee on conservation and development, Senator Bellamy has devoted a great deal of time and thought to matters directly in this line, but has lost none of his zeal for social legislation. It is recalled that as a youthful senator in 1921 he introduced the first law requiring physical examination for marriage in North Carolina. During the present session he has joined with Dr. Long in several bills to promote public welfare.

One of his main interests has been reforestation. Early in the session he introduced a bill providing for co-operative activity between the state and certain schools and quasi-public agencies and private interests for an extensive reforestation program throughout eastern North Carolina. This bill passed the senate, but was given an unfavorable report in the house. Just this week it was brought from the unfavorable calendar and had a good chance of passage. It will mark a long forward step in restoring North Carolina's once proud position in forestry, according to officials of the department of conservation.

Senator Bellamy has also been one of the staunchest advocates of the state advertising fund, and has introduced a bill providing for restoration of this fund is due to his efforts.

Whether the Wilmington senator has cast his whole legislative course with a view to a campaign for congress next year, only he can say. Certain it is that he has laid a right good foundation, and it is known that he is seriously thinking about running. It is also recognized both by Senator Bellamy and his friends, that Congressman Clark will not be an easy man to out.

Besides his 1939 senatorial record, Emmett Bellamy has to commend him to the people of the seventh district a distinguished family name with political complexion, his father having served in Congress. He has also a world war record as first lieutenant of artillery in the A. E. F.

Deliberate in his manner, precise in his speech, considerate and courteous to opponents in debate, Bellamy has several times been compared to the statesmen of older days when time was not so pressing and when thoroughness had more virtue than mere speed.

up almost a continuous pounding of the gavel, injecting into his routine passage of bills numerous pleas for some semblance of order. The boys were apparently having a good time, and none of the bills was of much consequence outside the affected counties. But for an hour or more the House of Representatives looked much more like a mad-house than like a law-making body.

Plans Being Made For Another Play

Try-outs for "The Night of January 16" a play to be presented in Greenville by the Little Theatre Guild, were held at a last meeting of the Guild but assistants in the production have not yet been announced.

Efforts are being made to obtain the use of the Pitt County court house for the play. Annie L. Askew turned in a favorable report as to the possibility of obtaining the use of the court house.

"The Night of January 16" produced in other larger cities, has been met with wide appraisal because of the interest it stimulates and holds while the play is being presented. The unique setting of the play has also drawn large crowds where it has been presented.

Dick Walser, who represented the Little Theatre Guild in the State Dramatics Festival at Chapel Hill recently, painted a word picture of the interesting features of the festival.

HOSPITAL BILL DEAD FOR GOOD

Final Chapter Written in Wreck Victim Measure

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, March 31.—Since it will take two-thirds vote to revive the issue again, a very remote contingency, it may be stated with some degree of assurance that the proposal to collect 30 cents additional on automobile license tags for hospital expenses of accident victims is dead.

The bill had been dead before, and with cat-like rejuvenation came to life again. This time the well known "clincher" was applied. The bill was tabled Tuesday; brought back on to the arena of action Wednesday, and then called up for final passage yesterday. Motion by Pat Kimzey to table it again lost 50-45.

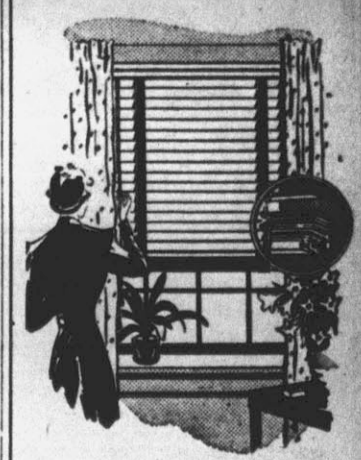

Messrs. Wallace of Lenoir and Mull renewed their pleas for passage as a "humanitarian" measure. Wilson of Davidson offered an amendment providing that hospitals could not look to the state fund until they had exhausted ordinary means of collection from insurance companies or solvent persons responsible for the accidents. That was voted down, as also was one by Clegg of Moore exempting several classes of motorists from payment of the proposed extra tax.

With consent of the sponsors an amendment by Payne to make the injury itself prima facie evidence that it was inflicted by a North Carolina car was adopted. Over protest of the sponsors, the Taylor of Caswell amendment to make the relief provided available to physicians in counties which have no hospitals also was adopted.

But even with these liberalizing amendments, the House still thought it a bad bill and final roll call vote was 54 to 48 against it. To that, Mr. Fenner offered the "clincher" which also was adopted and it takes two-third majority to get it back. Right at the last Mr. Mull changed his vote from "aye" to "no" so he would be in position to move for reconsideration, but Fenner beat him to it.

A total of 29,741 white farm families and 4,848 Negro families, and 6,535 white and 1,889 Negro 4-H club girls were assisted with their canning problems during the past year by county home agents and local leaders in nearly 1,500 communities.

The total number of containers of foodstuffs put up was 5,583,247 with a value of $829,389.90. The 29,741 white families canned 3,708,357 quarts of fruits, vegetables and meats, and 1,000,707 containers of jams, jellies and other products, and the 4-H Club girls put up 181,036 quarts of fruits, vegetables and meats and 39,145 containers of other home products. This food conservation by white families and girls had a total value of $731,811.45.

Washington—The changes proposed in the social security tax rates do not mean anyone is going to get something for nothing. The government doesn't work that way.

First off, keep in mind that the two per cent payroll tax—one per cent each from employer and employee—doesn't pay for the amount of social security benefits ultimately sought in the act.

The men designing the act in 1935 thought about it. They doubted that employers or employees ever would pay such a tax.

Another Way Found It was computed that in 60 years the normal annual payroll of the industries affected would be about $40,000,000,000.

Social security benefits equal to 12 per cent of that payroll would be $4,800,000,000 a year. So that not all this would have to come from a direct payroll tax, it was decided to start taxing in the beginning at a rate high enough to pile up a reserve before the full benefits would become payable.

But even with the top payroll tax of six per cent—three per cent each on employers and employees—and interest earned from the reserve, the thing didn't balance.

Greater Number Affected One of the experiences was unexpected. It was discovered that instead of only 50 per cent of the nation's payroll being affected it ran to nearly 80 per cent.

With 80 per cent of the nation's payroll included under social security brackets, there appeared a greater justification for dipping into the Treasury to share in general revenue to support the program.

He also conceded that there was perhaps justification for business complaints that any stepping up of the payroll tax just now—as provided in the present tax—would act as a further deterrent to business.

But nobody should be misled into believing that the present rates will support the ultimate program of old age retirement conceived in the act. It will raise perhaps a fifth or even less if benefits are broadened.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Raleigh, March 31—Whether or not Governor Hoye desires to have his name presented to the next Democratic national convention as a candidate for president has not been learned from the executive offices.

Five thousand copies of the school machinery act have been ordered printed and will be distributed through the offices of the department of public instruction.

The Wake delegation in the House maintained its record of harmony and union of voting even though it meant that Mr. Hatch almost went against his convictions to do so.

In explaining his vote against the bill to levy a 30 cents tax on every automobile license plate to be used to pay hospital bills for victims of motor accidents.

Representative John Kerr, chairman of the House committee on trustees of the university, has had several executive sessions of his committee and at noon yesterday had his report about to present to the House.

Purely local bills are seldom contested by other members of the legislature, unless the Republican issue is involved, but sometimes bills introduced as "purely local" are found to be something else again.

GOVERNOR HOYE SHOULD BE SATISFIED WITH ASSEMBLY (Continued From Page One) tax if you are going to continue the present governmental services, without any increases except normal and natural growth of the public schools and the other institutions and agencies serving the people.

Education Governor: "What should be the next step? Definitely a 12th grade should be provided. You ask what about teachers salaries. There is only one recommendation I have to make, and that is that we should provide for increments to be extended for a ten-year period instead of eight, which would mean the addition of two years."

Assembly: Made no provision whatever for a twelfth grade. Voted even though increase in teachers salary funds to take care of the two increments, but did not earmark these funds specifically for the purpose, thereby leaving wide discretion in the matter in the hands of the State School Commission. Higher Education Governor: "The State of North Carolina is confronted with the necessity of calling up students attending these institutions to make a larger contribution in the form of tuition charges as much as we may regret that course."

Government: "It is my view that the greatest need of agriculture today is better marketing facilities. The other special need is for more research work to find other and more profitable uses for what we grow in North Carolina."

Negro Education Governor: "We have no provision for the education of Negroes in special courses of law, pharmacy or medicine. Because it is our duty as a State to make such provision and in harmony with the Supreme court decision in the Missouri case, I recommend that such courses as are deemed necessary and essential be established at the college in Durham."

Reapportionment Governor: "I do not recommend a reapportionment of representatives by this General Assembly for the reason that the new census of 1940 would require a new reapportionment by the next Assembly."

Diversion of Highway Funds Governor: "In my Inaugural address I announced in clear and unmistakable language that I had opposed to diversion but that I believed it should continue to be possible to apply the three per cent sales tax to gasoline for the benefit of the general fund to the extent it should become necessary to meet appropriations. I am in favor of continuing this policy and I do not regard that as diversion."

The Death Penalty Governor: "It seems to me that it would be helpful, if the power to impose a penalty of life imprisonment (for murder, rape, burglary and arson, only capital offenses in the state) instead of the death penalty was residuary in either court or jury, or both. Those who witness the executions are practically unanimous in the view that the electric chair produces death almost instantaneously and is more humane. I share that view."

Advertising The State Governor: "I believe that the program is responsible for all these developments: growth of tourist traffic etc. but it is necessary to deny that good results have been achieved. I recommend a contribution of the appropriation."

Highway Safety Governor: "I believe that an appropriation would be made to continue safety work. I am moved earnestly to recommend that the State Highway Patrol be increased by the addition of 50 more members."

Election Reform Governor: "I believe election law should be uniform all over the state and a good beginning would be a new registration in every county. Better provision for markers would aid in preventing frauds. The law can be so framed as to prevent racketeering in absentee ballots and the possibility of wholesale fraud in procuring them, and at the same time preserve the right of the citizen to his legitimate use. I am in favor of that kind of law and I urge its adoption."

Assembly: Set up machinery for revising and bringing up to date all registration books, with Republicans and Democrats listed on separate books for the Governor's recommendations, abolishing absentee completely in primary elections and throwing around general elections the safeguards "suggested" by the State Board of Elections. Provisions for markers in general elections were left untouched, and the matter of restricting them in primaries is one of the few important matters not yet determined by the 500-to-expire legislature. House and Senate are still all tied up in a deadlock over the matter.

Government: "It is my view that the greatest need of agriculture today is better marketing facilities. The other special need is for more research work to find other and more profitable uses for what we grow in North Carolina."

Assembly: Made no provision for marketing, specifically as such, but voted to increase the tax on fertilizer inspection by five cents, the ton (increase from 20 to 25 cents) an action which will yield the Department about $60,000 additional each year. It is possible that some of this increase will be used in a marketing program such as has been repeatedly advocated by Commissioner Kerr Scott. More than $100,000 will be voted for research work during the coming biennium.

Assembly: Enacted the Murphy bill carrying out exactly the recommendations of the Governor.

Government: "I do not recommend a reapportionment of representatives by this General Assembly for the reason that the new census of 1940 would require a new reapportionment by the next Assembly."

Government: "In my Inaugural address I announced in clear and unmistakable language that I had opposed to diversion but that I believed it should continue to be possible to apply the three per cent sales tax to gasoline for the benefit of the general fund to the extent it should become necessary to meet appropriations. and all diversion. Governor: "I am definitely opposed to a Constitutional amendment on the subject of diversion." Assembly: Followed the Governor's advice: down to the dotting of each "I" and the crossing of every "T" in the Revenue Bill's diversion sections. This despite repeated and almost continuous assaults by anti-diversionist forces throughout the three months of the session. The Governor's personal appearance before the Assembly for an address which was broadcast over a statewide hookup brought him complete, unalloyed victory. It was without doubt his most brilliant and significant triumph of the session as there is little doubt that he prevailed against an assembly majority of whose members came to Raleigh dead set on banning any lution to adjourn sine die. The reason that will stick is because there will be no place to make a motion to reconsider. Time after time measures have passed three readings in one house and failed to pass in the other, which is usual though slightly confusing to the lay reader. Almost as often measures have been reported as killed or tabled, which ought to have been the end of them, but next day somebody would make a motion to reconsider the vote, and all the work would be undone. The "30 cents hospital bill" was tabled in the house Tuesday by commanding majority, after it had passed the Senate. But next day on motion of Representative Seely supported by an appealing picture

Tiny chicks like these, snapped with Lucy Ann Niles, 4, at Buffalo, N. Y., are filling the mails nowadays. Just possibly, Easter has something to do with it. But the post office people, who handle millions of chicks every year, sometimes in carload lots, don't think so—they say the mild weather this time of year makes it a good shipping time.

Commercial hatcheries produce an estimated 650,000,000 chicks a year; about half of these are shipped out, the rest used locally. Relatively few are sold as Easter pets—but they certainly make cute Easter pictures. —(By the AP Feature Service).

of hospital charity work given by Fitzhugh Wallace, the bill was put back on the calendar. This is the bill, introduced by Dr. Long, which adds 50 cents to the price of every automobile license plate, the fund so raised going to pay hospitals for taking care of victims of motor vehicle accidents. Mr. Wallace says hospitals lost a lot of money last year by failing to collect bills for wreck victims.

Just before the bill was tabled Tuesday, Representative White sent up an amendment to collect another 60 cents and split it between lawyers and garages, and it is understood that the same or a similar amendment will be offered when the resubstituted bill comes up for passage again.

Another Player's Son Tries Out; Dick Sisler Is A Cardinal Rookie

DICK SISLER His Batting May Take Him From The Mound

By DILLON GRAHAM (AP Feature Service Sports Writer) St. Petersburg, Fla.—It's seldom that a ball player's son makes the grade in baseball. But whenever one does show up at these major-league spring training camps, everybody pulls for him to make a go of it. Maybe it's just sentiment.

Just a year ago Grapefruit League fans were hoping that Jim Bagby, Jr., would catch on with the Boston Red Sox. Jim, Jr., son of the Old Sergeant, Sgt. Jim, who was a crack pitcher with the Cleveland Indians shortly after the war days. Sgt. Jim who pitched Cleveland to its one and only American-league pennant back in 1920.

And now they're pulling for young Dick Sisler. This husky son of George Sisler is on trial with the St. Louis Cardinals. It's a coincidence that Dick should be making his professional debut only a few weeks after his father as elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame. George Sisler, who did most of his playing with the St. Louis Browns, was one of the greatest hitters and cleverest first-basemen that the game ever saw. For one batted on him when he was at his peak. Sisler took away the keenness of his hitting eye after he had had his best year with the Browns.

Bagby Was A Star The success of Jim Bagby, Jr. is already baseball history. No one thought he'd stick, because he'd never played in faster ball than that displayed at Hazleton in the New York-Pennsylvania loop. But he showed so much stuff Joe Cronin decided to keep him with the Boston Red Sox. Joe took a gamble and named him to pitch the first game of last season. And Jim became the first rookie in history to win an opening-day major league contest. He pitched in more innings than any other Boston pitcher and won 15 games. Now he's one of Boston's Big Four starting pitchers likely to write an even better record than his father's. But Jim is 22 with four years of professional ball behind him. Dick Sisler is only 19. And he's never played pro ball. He's fresh from Colgate university. He was a star in his only season with the Colgate team. His older brother is a senior and an ace pitcher at Colgate now.

Can Play Anywhere. Manager Ray Blades hasn't decided just where Sisler will play. The youngster can pitch and he can play outfield and infield. His Dad was a pitcher, too, you remember, but he was such a fine hitter they stuck him at first base to take full advantage of his clouting. And it looks as though Sisler's hitting will take him away from the pitching hill. He takes a sweet cut at the ball.

The boy is broad shouldered, blond, weighing around 200 and standing nearly 6 feet tall. Chances are that the Cards won't keep him this year. They'll probably farm him out for more seasoning but, un-

FIRST TILT AT ETC SATURDAY

Teachers To Fry Lid Off Schedule At Home Diamond

Three o'clock is the starting time for the first baseball game of the season at East Carolina Teachers College, which will be played here tomorrow afternoon with Campbell College.

Barring unexpected interference, Kelly Martin will throw the first ball across the plate in the game that promises to be a thriller. Ed Wells of Greenville will see action if Kelly doesn't hurl. Both are valuable tossers for the Pirates and either can be effective in tomorrow's contest. Location of the college diamond has been changed from its former location. The only players the sun will bother are the batsmen. Infielders and outfielders this year will play with their backs to the sun. In previous seasons, they have faced the sun. Practice games on the new diamond have helped considerably in getting it in shape.

Coach Gordon Gilbert has announced that Stanley Scarborough of Grifton and Bill Merner of Durham, have been made managers for the team this season and will be on hand in Saturday's game to help with bothersome details.

During the practice periods that have been held most of the players have appeared to be showing renewed impetus. The acid test, however, will be in tomorrow's game.

Coach Gilbert said that Saturday afternoon games will start at three o'clock and that games played on other days of the week will begin at 3:30 for the benefit of students having afternoon classes.

Bill Holland, pitcher, and Jew Ayers, catcher, will be missed by the Pirates this season. Bill was lost through graduation and Ayers was injured some time ago in an automobile accident.

"Just putting them away dear!"

THIS WEEK-END SEE WHY MILLIONS SAY:

"RITZ IS THE WORLD'S MOST HELPFUL CRACKER"

RITZ PLEASES EVERYBODY—"Picky" eaters...snicky folks...hard-to-please guests—all answer with a smile when you pass Ritz. This tantalizing golden-brown cracker is America's favorite—it's the one cracker you know they'll like.

RITZ IS ALWAYS "GOOD TASTE"—in both senses of the word. Serve it with meals...with cheese...beverages...milk...spreads—every food on the list gathers glamour from Ritz. Serve it alone—it's a real treat in itself.

RITZ NEVER DISAPPOINTS YOU—Every single cracker is temptingly browned—fresh and crunchy. There are no "pale sisters" as there are in boxes of imperfectly baked crackers. A special baking secret keeps Ritz fresh and flavorful—down to the last one in the package.

Order a goodly supply of Ritz for the week-end. See how many "rough edges" it smooths out on menus!

SUGGESTION OF THE WEEK! Apples and Ritz! There's a flavor combination that's simply scrumptious! Try it as a bed-time treat tonight!

SURPRISE FOR THE FAMILY That favorite—FIG NEWTONS. Luscious tree-ripened figs and tender golden-brown cake. Delicious as dessert or for nibbling.

Easter Cantatas To Be Presented

The Eastern Carolina Symphonic Choral Association will present a series of Easter cantatas, one of which will be in Greenville.

The Snow Hill Symphonic Chorus opens the series at the Calvary Memorial Methodist Church April 2 at 3 o'clock. To same evening the Ayden Symphonic Chorus presents the cantata in the Christian Church at 8 o'clock. Easter Sunday April 9 the Greenville Symphonic Chorus will present the cantata at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church at 3:30 o'clock, opening the Fine Arts Festival in Greenville. At 8 o'clock Easter Sunday night, the Goldsboro Symphonic Chorus will give the cantata in the First Baptist Church, climaxing a week of revival services in the city.

Chosen for this Easter presentation is "The Resurrection" by Chas. Fonteyn Manney. Selected choruses from "The Redeemer" by Clarence Dickinson, will be included in the performance. The Easter program will be the second major presentation of the Eastern Carolina Symphonic Choral Association this year. At this time each chorus will be presented separately.

Lewis Sidney Bullock will conduct the performances. Mrs. C. W. Hearne will accompany the Greenville chorus.

Plans are under way for the third and final major production of the year, in which all of the groups will combine again for the fourth annual Spring Music Festival of Eastern Carolina Symphonic Choral Association.

European Situation Is Discussed at College

"Is it to be war or peace for Europe and America, and what can we do about it?" and "Can religion build a new world?" are the two thought-provoking questions with which Dr. Sherwood Eddy challenged his audiences yesterday and last night at the college in his speeches on the present world crisis.

Speaking to the student body and faculty at noon, Dr. Eddy, internationally known speaker brought to the E.C.T.C. campus by the Young Women's Christian Association, said that the question of what we should do about war is the hardest moral problem an American today has to face. Though he refused to tell his listeners what to answer on the question, he pointed out the two ways men have always faced moral problems—the way of the idealist, who takes the point of view that the evil in question must be fought with extreme means regardless of other things, and the way of the realist, who takes the point of view that the lesser of two evils must be chosen. The realist might ask, for example, not is it right to fight? but is it greater wrong to let China be enslaved, or to go to war to prevent it?

The speaker did urge that his listeners give serious thought to the question of what attitude to take if war comes and that they do it now. He also suggested several things Americans can do to help keep out of war, such as avoiding both "crushing advances" and selfish isolation, attempting to give justice to the "have-not" nations, and opening our gates to more war refugees, thereby enriching our national life as England did by admitting the Huguenots when they fled from France and to our full quota of immigrants of all nationalities. At night, Dr. Eddy spoke again to a full auditorium with many people from Greenville and surrounding towns in his audience, sketching in for them conditions as he has seen them at first hand in Germany, Russia, and the smaller countries in Europe and bringing up the question of the power of the Christian religion to build a new world.

Mr. Eddy brought out very clearly the imperative need for a new interpretation of Christianity in the United States and for the application in our national life of its cardinal principles of justice, liberty, abundant life for all, and universal fellowship. If the transition to the coming "new world" is to be made without baths of blood, Mr. Eddy returned to Raleigh last night to participate in the Institute of Human Relations this week-end.
