WPA COMES IN FOR CRITICISM ON BOTH SIDES

Relief Agency Discredited Both in Senate and House

SENATORS ARGUE APPROPRIATION

Pennsylvania Republican Prepares Offer House Bill To Do Away Entirely With Agency.

Washington, April 6. (AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Pa.) asked the Senate today to increase the $100,000,000 relief appropriation to $150,000,000.

The latter sum was asked by President Roosevelt, but the House approved $100,000,000.

Pepper complained that a unanimous Senate Appropriation Committee report recommending $100,000,000 was based on an agreement designed to "avoid controversy on the floor."

All sessions, WPA discussion have aroused controversy and Sen. Adams (D-Col.) was disclosed today as believing that WPA increased its relief rolls in recent months "almost deliberately to force congress to accede to an increased appropriation."

He was questioning Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, on WPA cooperation with the economy sentiment shown by Congress when it appropriated $725,000,000 in January as a deficiency appropriation for WPA.

In the House today there was also criticism of WPA methods.

Rep. Dittler (R-Pa.), a member of the Appropriations sub-committee assigned to investigate the WPA, prepared to offer legislation to abolish WPA and in its stead create a bi-partisan federal board to allocate relief funds to the states.

The Senate Civil Liberties committee reported that the National Metal Trades Association, which includes some of the largest manufacturers, was increasing its "war chest" for use in fighting strikes.

Southern Senators agreed to abandon attempts to get special cotton legislation and to cooperate in a move to get more money for all farm commodities under the present administration program.

Chairman Steagall (D-Ala.) of the House Banking and Currency committee has accepted an invitation by R. J. Clark (D-N.C.) to address a group of the North Carolina Bankers Association April 13 in Lenoir.

Marching men and roaring planes in Army Day parades through the United States attested to what President Roosevelt termed a "revival of the spirit of national defense."

The 22nd anniversary of American's entrance into the World War found the army in its first expansion since the post-armistice demobilization.

First Aid Training Saves Man's Life

Training employees of the Water and Light Commission had received in first aid treatment and their knowledge of what to do in cases of emergency was definitely credited today with having saved the life of Willie Hill, line foreman, who came in contact with 3,600 volts yesterday afternoon.

Hill, who was working at a sub-station, was knocked unconscious and fell eight feet on reinforcing iron. The fall was believed to have resulted in just as serious injuries as the shock from electricity. His hands and shoulders were burned and he suffered a neck injury from the fall. He was reported this morning to be improving satisfactorily.

Immediately after the shock and fall fellow-employees applied first aid treatment, including artificial respiration and this is believed to have saved his life. He later was taken to the hospital, where X-ray pictures were to be made of his neck injury.

Fire Loss For March Estimated At $2,055

Seven fires during the month of March caused damage totaling approximately $2,055. Chief George Gardner revealed today.

Damage to the building and furniture at the home of Woodrow Heath on Tenth street accounted for $1,000 of the loss during the month. Last month's loss brought to $5,427.72 fire damages for the year.

During March last year, five fires were reported for a property loss of $50. For the first three months of 1939, the city had a fire loss of $9,780.

BACK TO IOWA FOR HER

While visiting President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga., Harry L. Hopkins, secretary of commerce, announced he will re-establish his residence at Grinnell, Iowa, his boyhood home, in order to give his motherless daughter, Diane, 7, a permanent home. But the politically minded had other ideas as to his reason. Some linked his announcement to talk of him as a possible presidential candidate in 1940.

To Speed Development Work On State Parks

Two More Probably Be Opened For Use This Summer

Raleigh, April 6.—(AP)—Development in all state parks will be speeded this summer and two more of the areas probably will be opened for general use.

Bruce Etheridge, director of Conservation and Development, said today that Morrow Mountain park in Stanly county could be opened formally in July through use of park funds made available in a special 1939 law. The Hanging Rock State park in Stokes county also should be ready, he said, if additional land needed is obtained quickly.

Work can probably be started in July or August on proposed improvement in Pettigrew State park on the shores of Lake Phelps in Washington county.

Etheridge said improvements may be made at Cape Hatteras State park which is intended to become a part of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore. Some much-needed development work can be undertaken at Fort Macon State park near Morehead City.

Lee Folger, St. of Charlotte chairman of the board of the Carolina Motor Club, will serve as toastmaster for the occasion in the absence of Coleman W. Roberts, president of the Carolina Motor Club, who was also unable to attend the gala celebration.

Senator Arthur B. Conroy, along with J. H. Rose, city school superintendent, Ronald Hocutt, Director of the State Safety Division, Willard T. Kizer, secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, will deliver a brief talk at the banquet meeting in the dining hall of East Carolina Teachers College tomorrow night.

Mayor M. K. Blount will formally welcome the delegation to the city at the banquet to start at 6:30 o'clock. Hon. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will offer response to the welcome address. Col. E. G. Flanagan of Greenville, former Senator from Pitt County, will introduce the speaker.

Supreme Court Calendar Lists Varied Problems

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, April 6.—Next week's Supreme court calendar will present to the seven learned Justices almost as diversified a set of legal problems as the number of causes to be argued allows.

Among the questions to be finally determined (barring the unusual appeal to the U. S. Supreme court) are: (1) Can the State make an escaped convict pay for his recapture, and, if so, is he entitled to a $500 personal property exemption? A lower court held that the State is entitled to get back as much as it can of the $1,134.21 it spent in nabbing Eddie Cobb, one of the better-known Tar Heel desperadoes; but it added that he is entitled to the $500 exemption. When captured Eddie had a brand new automobile for which he had paid cash in Virginia. That's what all of the shooting's about.

(2) Can the state collect a $250 tax on those persons, firms or corporations who shall "display samples, goods, wares, or merchandise in any hotel room or in any house rented and occupied temporarily for the purpose of securing orders for the retail sale of such goods, etc.?" Best and Co., Inc., rented a room in a Winston-Salem hotel and proceeded to do just what the statute taxes. Alert Commissioner of A. J. Maxwell's agents swarmed down and assessed the levy which the company paid under protest. It brought suit and Judge J. Paul Frizzelle ruled the levy unconstitutional. Mr. Maxwell has a 100 per cent record on tax appeals, and this test is interesting for that reason as well as for its importance.

BARUCH WARNS OF DANGERS IN ECONOMIC WAR

Says Such Methods Might Lead To A Military War

BORAH AGAINST DISCRIMINATION

Declares Ban on Sale of Munitions to Aggressor Nations Would Inevitably Lead To War

Washington, April 6.—(AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations committee heard a warning today from Bernard Baruch, Wall Street financier and confidant of President Wilson, that an economic war against the aggressor nations might lead this country into a military war.

Endorsing the principle of placing arms and munitions on a "cash and carry" basis with other products when other countries are at war and this country is neutral, Baruch said he believed this could be done without affecting this country's neutrality status.

"I understand that some of the pressure for this legislation is the reverse of a wish to treat all nations alike," Baruch told the committee in a formal statement. "It has been suggested that the aggressor nations if not halted will start a European war—that if there is a European war we can't keep out of it and that therefore the only way to keep out of war is now to engage in economic war against them to prevent their starting a European war."

"On that theory, if our economic war fails we will be in military war and I think that if we make economic war that conclusion is inevitable. I am not sure that even with the utmost economic pressure we could prevent European war if it were determined upon by the aggressors."

Sen. Borah (R-Idaho) replying to Henry L. Stimson's appeal to ban munitions sale to aggressor nations, declared that such discrimination "would inevitably lead us into war." Borah talked with reporters before the committee called Baruch.

Stimson, former Secretary of State, thinks that nations as well as individuals should have some hope for forgiveness if they reform.

Three Italian Vessels Reach Albanian Seaport

Caused A Stir

A sensational public declaration by Earl Stanhope (above), first lord of the British Admiralty, that naval anti-aircraft guns had been manned "to be ready for anything" created an uproar in England.

ITALIAN DUCE VIEWS PLANES

Flies To Point Overlooking Sea Toward Albania

Rome, April 6.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini flew early this morning to the military airport of Jesi near a seaport, where he reviewed planes and new recruits.

The premier piloted a tri-motored bomber to the airport, near a point that overlooks the sea toward Albania, as rumors of a pending Italian military occupation of the little Balkan country ran through Europe.

Yugoslav officials who said they were officially informed of Italy's intentions, declared the impending military occupation was meant as a warning to both Yugoslavia and Greece, not to mix in the Anglo-French project of a "stop Hitler" bloc.

The Fascist press proclaimed that Italy was "ready for anything at any moment," though the newspapers were silent concerning Albania.

The newspapers, however, displayed prominently a communique saying Italian-German military talks were proceeding in Germany.

Dr. Duce appeared on a balcony at Jesi after inspecting the airport and saluted the crowd, but did not make a speech.

Negroes Are Held In Robbery Cases

Three local Negroes are being held in City jail here in connection with recent robberies.

Coon Johnson is charged with having broken into a Norfolk-Southern box car on Wednesday night of last week and taking a case of cigarettes. Officers have found all of the fifty cartons of cigarettes except seven. Part of the loot was found hidden under a tobacco factory and 25 cartons were found in a ditch alongside the Norfolk-Southern tracks near the slaughter pen.

William Henry Jones is alleged to have "sneaked" two dozen packages of headache powder from the Greenville Candy company on Tuesday and he and John Wesley Wilks were said by officers to have been trying to sell them yesterday. The two, along with Johnson, are being held in jail pending a trial.

Potatoes too "sleepy" to sprout are given a whiff of ethylene chlorhydrin and they begin to show signs of "awakening" almost immediately, farm experts say.

D.H. Conley Is Retained For 2 Years

D. H. Conley, who has been identified with school work in Pitt county for the past 15 years, the last seven of which as superintendent of the county school system, has been re-elected for another two-year term.

Mr. Conley was appointed for the term at a meeting of the Board of Trustees this week. He was first named to the superintendent's post in January, 1923, to succeed W. G. Fitzgerald, who resigned to follow private employment. Prior to this time the present superintendent had served as principal of the Winterville school for eight years. A native of Caldwell county, he came to Pitt county upon being graduated from Duke university. He has taken an active part in the local chapter of the Duke Alumni Association and has been interested in other activities in the county and city. He is immediate president of the Greenville Kiwanis club.

Always attempting to avoid publicity for himself, the school leader declines to take any personal credit for the efficient operation of the schools and always asks that "the other man be given credit."

In spite of this, however, he is widely known for his ability and is considered one of the best "school men" in the state.

Other than re-appointing Mr. Conley, the trustees in their regular session attended to other matters of business, including effecting organization of schools for another year.

R. L. Little, who was reappointed at the conclusion of a two-year term, was sworn in for a four-year term. Chairman W. H. Wooldard and John T. Thorne were named two years ago for six-year terms each, and W. J. Smith and R. H. McLawhorn were appointed two years ago for four-year terms each.

Al Dittmer To Speak At Kiwanis Meeting. Al Dittmer, of the Music Department, East Carolina Teachers College, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis Club to be held at the Woman's Club building on Friday evening 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Dittmer will discuss "The Growth of the State of Utah and Mormonism."

A special committee, composed of Tom Wilson, Charles Wilkerson, and Dr. Robert S. Boyd, will be in charge of the program.

GETS PROMISE FROM ALBANIA

Poland Signs Mutual Assistance Pact After Three Days Of Conversations; Britain to Deport German Agents; Assured by Albania No Treaty Signed Weakening National Integrity

London, April 6.—(AP)—The British government announced today a mutual defense agreement with Poland, a drive to rid Britain of German agents and assurances from Albania that her integrity was unimpaired despite reports of impending Italian military occupation.

POLISH—4 col 48—The Polish-British agreement, still to be signed and sealed, represented the keystone of British efforts to raise defensive barricades against aggression in Europe.

The "purge" of German agents and the Albanian problem were important side issues.

Britain's part of the Polish-British alliance was a week old, but Poland's promise to aid Britain against any aggression was new—the product of three days of conversations here between British statesmen and Polish Minister Joseph Beck.

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that "pending completion of a permanent agreement Colonel Beck has an assurance that the Polish government would consider themselves under an obligation to render assistance to his majesty's government."

Chamberlain took note of the arrival of Italian warships at Durazzo, Albania, but said all was quiet there and that Albania had denied that she had accepted any conditions incompatible with her sovereignty and national integrity.

Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare told Commons that the government was taking steps to deport members of the German Secret police and other Nazi organizations from Britain. He disclosed that "steps" had been taken against three Nazis in recent weeks.

Germany Contends Britain Has Failed in Attempts to Aid Poland. Berlin, April 6.—(AP)—Nazi officials expressed the conviction today that British Prime Minister Chamberlain's attempt to build a bloc of nations "encircling" Germany had failed as far as Poland was concerned.

They declared the British-Polish mutual assistance pact, reached in London, was far from what Chamberlain had desired.

Nazi confidence was increased by the fact that Colonel General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command and Chancellor Hitler's closest military advisor, and General Alberto Pariano, Italy's undersecretary of war, had conferred at Innsbruck for the past two days.

German diplomatic comments centered on the implication that their conferences were intended "to teach Chamberlain a lesson."

The 1939 agricultural adjustment administration program was a continuation of the 1938 program.

Exhibit To Feature Art Week. An exhibit of the work of Miss Marta Johnston Grambling of Marietta, Georgia, has been scheduled for the Fine Arts Festival being held in Greenville from Sunday, April 9 to Sunday, April 16.

Widely known for her floral prints which have received much publicity in various exhibits, Miss Grambling chose to send 40 such pieces of her work to the Greenville exhibit.

It is said that the subjects of these flower prints are so realistic that one may expect them to droop in the heat of the day or respond to the touch of the hand.

Miss Grambling's work has been exhibited in Minneapolis, Memphis, Little Rock and Atlanta.

The Art Department of the Woman's Club believes that Mrs. J. H. B. Moore's successful efforts to secure this outstanding exhibit for Greenville's Fine Arts Festival is unusually gratifying.

No Night Service. Services which have been held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church this week at night have been called off for tonight and tomorrow night.

Stag Dinner. Ollie VanNortwick and Paul Fitzgerald, Jr., entertained at a stag dinner on Tuesday evening at the Proctor Hotel, in honor of Jack Nobles, whose marriage to Miss Rena Pearl Hamilton of Morehead will take place on Saturday of the week.

Mrs. R. C. Deal presided at the beautifully appointed tea table. She was assisted in serving by members of the council. With the tea was served a variety of cakes and cookies.

About sixty faculty members and students called during the hour to meet Dr. and Mrs. Boyd.

Women In The News

NEW CITIZEN Mrs. Harry B. Lear, Seattle bank president's wife who used to be a civil judge in Havana, has become an American citizen. She is the former Lilia Mora y Ramirez.

NEW ROLE Vyvyan Donner, who's a director of color movies, was one of the judges who recently picked Col. Roscoe Turner as America's handsomest aviator.

The name of "Chinese Cultural Theatre," came to the United States last August to raise money for medical supplies for their war-ravaged country.

From the sounding of the gong at the beginning of the program to the closing gong at the end, everything was strikingly different from an American entertainment.

According to the tradition of the country, the theatre god Ja Kwan, in an elaborate costume, welcomed the audience with a dance of greeting and the display of a banner inscribed "Welcome, Honored Guests."

Other striking solo numbers were a scarf dance by Averil Tong, in which the dancer gracefully manipulated four yards of material, keeping it much of the time weaving through the air in intricate figures.

beating her tiny crimson-inlaid drum and trying to keep a gay face as she begged for small coins to keep herself alive; a delicate and haunting flute solo, by Yue-tui Sung; and a pi pa solo by Chung-loh Wei.

which gave this master of that ancient instrument full opportunity to display his virtuosity. It is difficult to choose among the various numbers for comment as all were unusual in some way.

The two scenes from plays, one humorous and one tragic, gave an excellent idea of how different the theories on which Chinese acting are based are from those of Western acting with the great prominence of the gesture, the traditionally high pitched voice of the women, suggestion of the setting by pantomime rather than the use of scenery, standing out.

The whole orchestra, pi pa, hstao, erh-lu, yang-ching, ku, and lo, gave two interesting numbers. Through the stage was too small to permit the use of their beautiful and costly draperies, they still gave colors to the program by their gorgeous costumes.

Not least interesting was the narrator, Ames Zee-Min Lee, who gave the audience some explanation of each number. Mr. Lee was for four years a secretary of the Chinese General Chiang Kai-Shek and served as technical adviser for the motion picture "The Good Earth."

At the close of the program pledge cards were made available to nay who wished make a direct contribution to medical care for China.

Eastern Star Club Meets. The Past Worthy Matrons Club of the Eastern Star met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. House on Tenth street, March 29. Special guests of the evening were Sisters Gracie Allen and Josie Penner.

Plans for the Fine Arts Festival which is to be held here from April 9-16, are rapidly being whipped into shape.

Mrs. Travis Hooker, president of the Garden Club, will be in charge of the garden tours, and Dr. Dorothy Schnyder of East Carolina Teachers' College, has been chosen head of the many art exhibits.

The annual Fine Arts Festival has created state-wide recognition, and won high praise for its fine contribution to the cultural life of the community, and to the state at large.

Exhibits will be open every day during the week from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m., except Friday, which has been reserved for the Negro citizens.

The program schedule is as follows: The event will open Sunday afternoon at 3:30, at which time the Greenville Symphony Chorus will present an Easter cantata at the Methodist Church. Immediately following the cantata, the club house will be opened and the public invited to see the exhibits from 4:30 until 6:30.

Tuesday evening the Little Theatre group will present a play at the high school auditorium. Wednesday morning, from 10 until 1 o'clock, there will be a program given at the club house under the auspices of the American Home Department, to the club women of the Fifteenth District. The subject will be "Arts in the American Home."

Garden Photos In Color To Be Made

Raleigh, April 5.—The Advertising Division of the State Department of Conservation and Development is planning to use color photographs of April garden's beautiful azaleas in calling North Carolina to the attention of the country at large.

Through cooperation of State Senator Emmett H. Bellamy of New Hanover county, the division plans to send a staff photographer to Wilmington on Friday or Saturday of this week to take color photographs of the gardens which are now at their very loveliest.

The gardens, which were open to the public last week end for the holy time during the year, are regarded as among the most beautiful to be found anywhere.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—In the wake of German conquests arise questions as to how long that country can continue its enormous expansion without collapse. Nobody knows the answer. Nor can anybody compute.

The capture of $80,000,000 of Czech gold is a boon to Germany just now. Short term notes issued to pay the costs of mobilization and building of the Siegfried Line last Autumn are falling due at the rate of 500,000,000 marks a month. Every little bit, especially of gold, helps.

It is an axiom of nations that a country never becomes insolvent. Often, it cannot pay its foreign debts, cannot feed its people well, cannot longer finance armaments. But it can exist, nevertheless.

To finance a staggering arms program, Germany has resorted to extraordinary expedients both in her internal affairs and in her external financing. Hjalmar Schacht, former economic minister, once was asked what he would do when the effect of his latest financial sleight-of-hand wore off. Reputedly he replied: "We will do something else that is expedient."

Troubles Pile Up

From every direction financial and trade troubles of the Reich appear to increase, yet U. S. officials returning from there say no economic collapse is in prospect.

There is no way of determining just how large is the annual German expenditure and debt. Germany has kept its budget secret since 1935. From Department of Commerce reports, the studies of British and American writers in Germany, and other available sources it is possible to estimate that the annual expenditures of the government are 30 billion marks. An estimated one-half is for the military. Marks are valued at about 40 cents.

The 1936 budget, the last published, showed ordinary receipts of 7,805,000,000 marks and ordinary expenditures totalling 8,221,000,000 leaving a prospective deficit of 400,000,000. Of the ordinary expenditures, war charges were listed at 482,000,000 marks. An unexplained item of 2,931,000,000 marks may have hidden other military or semi-military expenditures.

The 1938 or 1939 "ordinary budget" in Germany undoubtedly has climbed higher than the 8,221,000,000 marks of 1935. Economists concede it may have doubled. That still leaves approximately 15 billion marks ($5,000,000,000) for arms and war expenditures. As an example of where the money went in 1938, more than a million men were shipped before "Munich" last fall, and 500,000 were employed on the Siegfried line, calling for an enormous expenditure.

As to revenue, the same sources indicate that during 1938 German tax income totalled 17,000,000,000 marks. Loans raised an additional 7,932,000,000 marks. Unemployment insurance premiums raised 1,800,000,000 marks and only 200,000,000 marks paid out. (Germany has few idle). The "night tax" of 25 per cent of an emigrant's fortune and payment of quarterly portions of the 1,000,000,000 mark penalty imposed on Jews for the Von Rath assassination meant additional revenue. That still falls four or five billion marks short of a balanced budget.

Security Issue Sluggish
It is certain that Germany is having her trouble raising revenue. Expenses are getting higher. Her export trade is sagging, her imports increasing. The latest 1,500,000,000 mark security issue offered last November did not move as readily as its predecessors.

It is a fair surmise that a new one may be whopped along now during the peak of enthusiasm over the latest conquest. The money can be used.

For lack of ready cash, the government is compelling business men to accept trade vouchers in payment of goods needed by the government departments. They are simply I.O.U.'s. This system amounts to a sort of forced credit, because in Germany no business man can reuse to sell to the government, cash or no cash.

Pressure is increasing on all fronts, from within and from without. The 25 per cent penalty tariff imposed by the U. S. on German goods shocked Berlin.

And yet officials here insist that outside economic pressure is a slow tool, and not like to be one to divert the course of Germany.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL and LYNN NISBET

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, April 6—For going thru the entire year of 1938 without a single traffic fatality, 157 cities with populations between 5,000 and 100,000 were placed on the Honor Roll of the National Traffic Safety Contest. Of these two were in North Carolina—Lexington and Tarboro. The National Safety Council did not list the number of North Carolina cities entered, but there were 1,163 from the state.

One of the most interesting arguments of the new happily defunct legislative sessions was a height contest between the University of North Carolina's militant President Frank Graham and New Hanover's "Little Giant" Representative Jack LeGrand.
They backed up to each other, stretched to the very limited extent of their ability and heard Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne rule that the Chapel Hill executive is a scant fraction of an inch taller than the Wilmington lawyer. Then did Dr. Graham strut.

Those North Carolinians who want to be registered nurses are advised by Bessie Chapman, secretary of the North Carolina Board of Nurse Examinations, that the next test will be held at the State Capital May 24, 25 and 26 and that all applications must be in the office of the Secretary not later than May 10.

Quality is more important than quantity, in new laws as in many other things. Representative Gideon Bosworth of Currituck left Raleigh in a spirit of sadness, although he got through 21 of the 24 local bills he introduced. Two of the three which failed of passage he thinks outweighs all the 21 that did get by. These were the bill setting up an independent wild game empire in Currituck entirely separate from the department of conservation and development, and repeal of the "stock law" or "fence law" as it affects Currituck Beach.

The principal clerks and journal clerks didn't quit when the membership of the legislature went home and when they committee clerks, stenographers etc all left. A detailed work remained to be done, and the clerical staff may be busy until the middle of next week. Already some of the usual last minute errors have been discovered—such as local bills with favorable reports mixed up among unfavorable calendar bills, etc.

For several sessions of the legislature the Buncombe county delegation could be depended upon to clog the calendar with local bills. This time, however, the mountain county fell behind the other big counties, being exceeded in local bills by Wake, Mecklenburg, Guilford and Forsyth.
First straw hat of the season seen about Raleigh adorned the head of Thad Pure Tuesday. But when the chilly breezes rose on Wednesday the genial secretary of state parked the lid in his office and strolled across to the drug store—bareheaded.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters

Asay Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth. Kay Thayer, cute girl reporter.

Chapter 28 On And Off

OUR dog, Brinley walked up to them, "our dog, we—that is, we usually wash our dog here. It's so much easier, we find, than the set tub, or the hose. He hates the set tub, it's so cramped for him, and he's afraid of the hose."

"That so?" Asay sat down beside Kay on a log. "I never had a dog myself, but—what's that, Kay?"

"Man's best friend," Kay said. "A true pal. Isn't that so, Mr. Brinley? By the way, where is the dog? I don't see any dog around."

J. Arthur looked a little bewildered. "Amos—oh, Amos is home. You see, the last time I brought Amos—he's a black dog, you see—the last time I brought him here, the license tag off his collar got lost on the house."

"How's your wife?" Asay asked. "Oh, she's quite well, if you mean after all that last night. She went to the banquet, and then she was going to the clambake. The women are running that, you know."

"No men allowed?"

"Oh, no—men can go. Oh, you mean, why aren't I there? I can't touch clams. They do something to me. Oh, no. I never touch a clam. And Madame—Moo, she wanted to swim, and the fresh water appealed to her, so I thought I might bring her here and look around for Amos's tag while she went swimming. Killing two birds with one stone," he added brightly.

"Combinin' business, as you might say, with pleasure," Asay said.

He and Kay smoked in silence, and Brinley stood first on one foot and then on the other.

"I—uh—oh, there are some flowers," he said, pointing vaguely towards the woods that framed the pond. "I told my wife I'd get her some—I think I'll get some now. I always say it's almost summer when flowers come, don't you? Er—I'll go get."

He almost fled to the woods. Madame Meaux came out of the water, put on her wrap and walked over to them.

"How do the canaries taste?" she inquired. "You two cats, licking your chops? Did Arthur dissolve or did he melt away?"

"He's going after flowers, believe it or not," Kay told her.

Madame Meaux grinned. "So Arthur's picking flowers, is he, the old president of Associated Buttons and Clasp Makers?"

"Oh, once when I was broke, I was official soprano for that outfit's convention. Ask me anything about buttons and clasps."

"Did he suggest coming here?" Asay asked. "Or was it your idea?"

"Do you honestly think," Madame Meaux inquired icily, "that I crave seclusion with J. Arthur?"

"You wrong me. Did he ever tell you that he had anything to hunt up here?"

"He lies!"

"HE murmured something about a dog," Madame Meaux took one of Kay's cigarettes, "but he may have been speaking in general terms."

Asay laughed. "The point is, where he was just hunting, we just found a shotgun. At least, Kay did. We wondered about the dog and the license tag story he told."

"That dog makes me jealous," the soprano said. "Gets much nicer meat than we have—did Arthur say he was after a license tag? He lies. I was playing with the brute this morning, and his collar was full of tags. Inoculation, and license, and a batch of others. One with the official Billingsgate seal, with that man dressed like a Pilgrim about to throw a fish at someone. Perhaps Amos is the Old Home Week hound. Look, can't we get somewhere where it's dry? Sitting in this rain will never make me render 'Billingsgate Beautiful' any better."

"The door of the old ice house was slumping on its hinges, and Asay kicked it open."

"What a nasty smell!" Kay said. "Salt hay an' stuff. I wonder they don't tear this down, they ain't used it for years. Tell me, Madame—look, can I call you Mrs. Slade?" Asay asked. "It's easier."

"Call me Emily." Asay felt Kay's elbow dig into his ribs.

"Okay, Look, on Monday night you was up to the midway with the Brinleys. Were you there while Mrs. Brinley was caught up on the ferris wheel, maybe?"

"Oh, boy, was I!"

"Where was J. Arthur?"

"I don't know. I rather felt he was a prospective Button and Clasp Conventioneer, in a small way, so I hung around with the boys from the band. Arthur was around, I guess. He—oh, what lovely flowers, Mr. Brinley!"

J. Arthur turned down his coat collar and mopped at his dripping face with a handkerchief.

"Really, it's quite a rain," he said. "I do hope my wife is all right at the clambake. And the governors, at the ball game—but Weston had planned an alternative program in the field house in case of rain. That man, Asay knew instinctively that he referred to Mike Slade, "was to put on some sort of show. Tableaux or something. Weston has been very efficient about things like that."

"Where was you," Asay asked, "durin' the time your wife was stuck up on the ferris wheel the other night?"

J. Arthur turned such a deep red that the shade was apparent even in the dim interior of the house.

"Er—when? I mean, what?"

Asay repeated his question.

"Oh, then? Why, I was around talking to the man and trying to see if someone couldn't do something to repair the car engine—it worked by a car engine, somehow. My wife was tremendously upset. Really, this week has been very hard on her, with that wheel and then that man last night."

"Don't care much for him, do you?"

"I hate him!"

"SLADE? I hate him!" J. Arthur spoke with a bitter ferocity that startled Kay and rather amazed Asay. "I hate him! And I don't care who hears it! And my wife says, she doesn't think that Warren girl is a bit better than he is. Turn her nose at the town, and making fun of everyone, and talking about how much better they do everything in New York! What's New York?"

He paused for a moment as though he expected someone to tell him.

"That's what my wife says. 'Concrete, carbon monoxide, a lot of noise.' Kay couldn't resist the opportunity. 'Sirens, dirt—'"

Asay shook his head and she subsided.

"Brinley, I s'pose, if you had to, you could prove just where you was Monday night, from—say the time your wife got stuck on that wheel to the time the fireworks ended?"

"I don't see that it matters where I was!" Brinley said hotly. "If you want to find someone you think killed Mary Randall, find Mike Slade!"

"And how," Asay asked blandly, "did you know that Mary Randall had been killed?"

Brinley's breath sounded like the air escaping from a child's balloon. It was weak, but gasping.

"How?" Asay asked again. "This is news, J. Arthur. Where did you pick up that tidbit?"

He reached over and caught Brinley as the latter started to dash for the door.

"You don't really want to go out into the rain," Asay said, "an' listen to that thunder! Come, J. Arthur, stay. Stay an' talk!"

Brinley's explanation was dragged out, item by item. In brief, Mary Randall was not at the hollow. Eloise and Jane were with Aunt Sara, he knew Mary Randall had no relations in New York, let alone sick ones, and Mary was too shrewd a business woman to leave town during a period when she could make so much money. Slade had spoken of a murder. Asay was hanging around. Police were around.

"Therefore, therefore," Asay said, "I see. Think this out last night."

"No, today when Governor Skellings asked for Mary. He said, where was she, because he collects sandwich glass and pewter, and he had bought things from her before, and she said she had something for him, and he was planning to look at them while he was here. He asked Weston and by the funny way Weston acted, it came over me."

"Maybe that explains the Israel Trask pewter," Asay said, "but it don't explain you. Where were you, durin' the time I asked you about? An' why do you prod for dog license tags when Amos has more than the usual collection, right this minute?"

Plan Third Season For "Lost Colony"

Manteo, April 6.—The third summer season of Pulitzer Prize Winner Paul Green's "The Lost Colony" will begin a twelve-week season at the huge Waterside Theatre here July 1, according to an announcement made today by D. Bradford Pearing, president of the Roanoke Island Historical Association, which is sponsoring the historical drama. Produced originally as part of the 350th anniversary celebration of the founding of the first English colonies in the New World and the birth of Virginia Dare—the first English child born on American soil—"The Lost Colony" is being repeated by popular demand from both sides of the Atlantic. More than 175,000 persons saw it during its past two seasons.

ermen who have never seen a play in their lives. These people hope some day to even play the lead roles, making "The Lost Colony" a sort of patriotic Oberammergau at the cradle of American civilization. It is presented on the very site of the original Lost Colony. NOTICE OF CORRECTION An execution notice entitled Standard Fertilizer Company vs W. C. Cannon was erroneously printed in yesterday's edition. The case was settled and should not have appeared in the April 3rd edition, but advice of the settlement was received too late to prevent the notice from being printed Monday. Sheriff J. Knott Proctor on the following day had a correction printed, which stated that the notice should be accepted as null and void. The same notice of execution appeared in yesterday's edition through error on the part of The Reflector. Sheriff Proctor was in no way responsible for its appearance yesterday.

Running The Circus Is a Cinch— If You Can Find $12,000 a Day

By GLADWIN HILL
New York (AP)—The greatest act in the circus this year won't be visible. It's John Ringling North's demonstration extraordinary of trouble-juggling, obstacle-juggling, obstacle-jumping and precedent smashing—with some lightning feats of finance thrown in.

Being the boss of the circus, North is reluctant about featuring himself. That's why you can't see the act in any of the rings. But here's a private look.

One of North's stunts is investing $12,000 a day, seven months a year, good times and bad, and figuring out how to get the money back with interest.

Finds A Mortgage
That $12,000 is what it costs to operate the $2,000,000, 83-car Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth" one day.

A jovial boyish individual of 35, who looks 25, North got the job a little over a year ago after his uncle, John Ringling, died.

North, a Yale graduate, was working in a Wall Street brokerage house when he found the "Big Show"—to which he and several other Ringlings were technical heirs—mortgaged for a million dollars—and the mortgages all set to foreclosure. It seemed more or less incumbent on him to rescue the show before the Ringlings were crowded out.

North persuaded some New York bankers that a circus was a sound investment. So, one jump ahead of the sheriff, the bankers took over the mortgage and nominated North to run the show until it was off.

Two Strikes And Out
To "needle" a dubious season, North gambled several hundred thousand dollars on Gargantua, the 600-pound, six-foot gorilla; Frank ("Bring 'Em Back Alive") Buck and brilliant new costumes and trappings by the Broadway-Hollywood designer, Charles LeMaire—all of them investments that the "experts" called insane.

There followed a lull—North had no troubles for several days.

Then he found that the laborers' wage contract he had inherited could not be continued. After surviving two strikes, the show closed at Scranton, Pa., in June.

That was the biggest obstacle yet, but North went over it in one big stride.

The subsidiary A. G. Barnes-Sells Photo circuit was in South Dakota. After a 1,500-mile trip from Scranton to winter quarters in Sarasota, Fla., North straightened out the battered Big Show, loaded the cream of it back on the train, made an unprecedented trek to Redfield, S. D., merged it with the Barnes show and completed the season's scheduled tour—with a profit.

New Wage Contract
During the day he was around the lot most of the time, usually dressed in such sartorial tussle as blue pants and a yellow shirt. The more conservative townspeople took one look and figured he was somebody with the sideshow.

This winter his troubles were less diffuse than last, but just as intense.

After several months of negotiations with the American Federation of Labor it was agreed that the Scranton strike had been regrettable all around. A friendly basis was restored and a new wage contract resulted.

But with general conditions just about as grim as last year, North again faced the problem of having to toss out $12,000 a day and figuring how to get it back.

To The Junk Heap
North sat down in the Florida sun and juggled his troubles some more. Then he set to work breaking an unprecedented number of precedents.

He decided to revolutionize the concept of the circus. He would change it from that of a show under canvas to that of a theater outdoors. He began on the circus tent—unchanged for half a century.

will save pensioners from much political blackmail. Mrs. Bost said that it will make it easier to comply with Federal requirements, also.

She said the Federal government is considering a policy of requiring that all records shall be confidential and refusing to grant aid to those states which do not conform to that policy.

no other alternative?
On decision of this depends the life of Arthur Morris, convicted in Wake county after the jury had been told that it could do only one of the two things mentioned.

(4) Is an insurance company a "federal agency" and therefore exempt from the unemployment compensation act because it is a member of one of the Federal corporations which lends money to home owners, etc.

This is presented in the appeal of the Jefferson Standard Life Insur-program was considerably liberalized and made more flexible by change in the residence requirements for eligibles.

Heretofore the law has provided that old age assistance applicants must have resided in North Carolina for five of the nine years next preceding their applications. The legislature changed this to make eligible those who have lived in the state two of the last five years prior to the application, one of which must have been immediately preceding the application date.

This, Mrs. Bost and Mr. Nathan agreed, will permit assistance to numerous worthy applicants who in the past have been unable to qualify for assistance.

Another legislative feature upon which they commented favorably was action in killing all legislation making mandatory publication of Old Age assistance recipients. Instead it is now provided that the records shall be open to public inspection "under reasonable regulations" and "in the discretion" of the welfare officials. This they believe

They base their belief on the fact that the $4,400,000 which they will have from all sources—Federal, State and county—for each year of the coming biennium will be approximately $700,000 greater than the rate at which old age assistance is now being paid.

That $4,400,000 will permit them to pay out to the old people an average of something more than $360,000 each month, against the present rate of approximately $310,000 (it was just short of that figure in March).

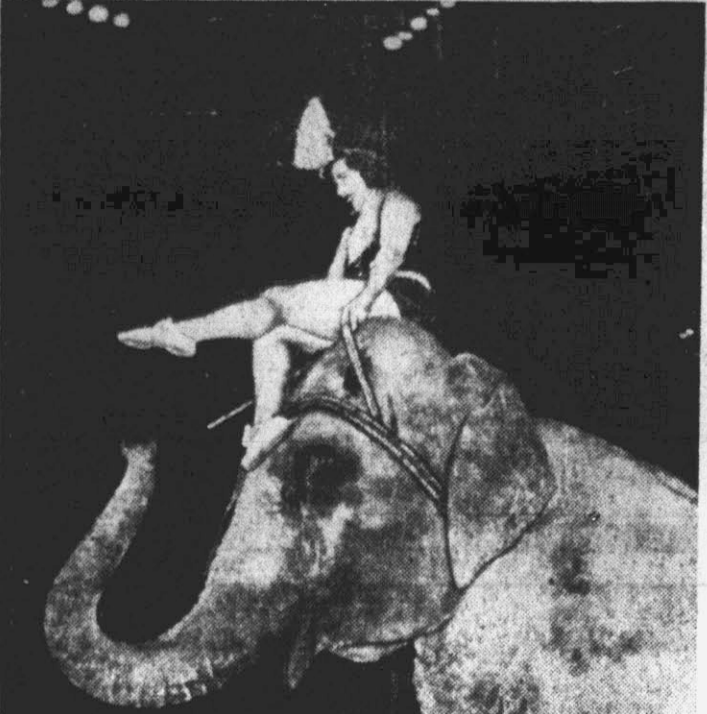

They do not plan to increase the present average payment to the beneficiaries, an average which reached $9.54 in March, but rather to use the extra money to place on the assistance rolls the aged who are eligible by all tests but who have been kept off by the lack of funds to take care of them.

Assuming that the average is kept at about $9.54, the $700,000 increase in availability would enable the placement of approximately 6,000 new pensioners on the lists.

That is what the officials now plan to do.

Both Mrs. Bost and Mr. Yelton view legislative action with relation to their department with more than mild approval. Both said they feel the Assembly made substantial—though not too extensive, contribution to a well ordered, safety based program of assistance to the aged and to dependent children.

For the children's aid there was no such marked increase in funds as in the case of the old people, the appropriation for that purpose making available from all sources about $625,000 for each year, an increase of about $25,000 over current bud-ance Company from a lower court decision holding it liable for payment of the unemployment compensation tax just as any private employer.

The case has been argued before in the high court, but is up again "advisory," as it is called in legal circles, meaning that additional briefs have been filed and additional argument will be held to advise the court.

(5) Is an employer who reports to the Unemployment Compensation commission that an employee was discharged for "Misconduct," liable in a suit for libel and slander, where there is denial that there was "misconduct"?

That's up in the case of Olivia Satterfield against McLellans Stores Co.

In all there are only 18 cases on the calendar, which will be taken up next Tuesday morning; but no two of them appear to involve even remotely similar points.

All the appeals, except one criminal and one civil case specially set, are from the Seventh Judicial district, with Wake having fifteen of these from the district proper, and the other county, Franklin, only one.

Only two of the cases are criminal, the Morris case already mentioned, and State vs. Frank Bright (appeal from a manslaughter conviction in Beaufort county.)

"POTASH PAYS ON ALL CROPS" Says R. C. BROWN

R. C. BROWN, R. D. 2, Rocky Mount (right), says: "Potash pays on all crops! For many years I have side-dressed my tobacco with NV SULPHATE OF POTASH at 100 pounds per acre. This produces bigger yields of better quality tobacco which shows no disease. I have also used extra potash on my cotton with excellent results. Extra potash prevents rust and makes larger bolls and better lint. My corn gets an extra 50 pounds of NV MURIATE OF POTASH per acre. This produces increased yields and heavier ears of better-quality corn. I have never used less than 10% POTASH in sweet potato fertilizer."

JOHN WHITWORTH, Waco, says: "Top-dressing wheat with 50 pounds of MURIATE OF POTASH along with nitrate of soda gives me increased yields, plump grain and extra weight per bushel."

D. H. JONES, Micro, says: "We top-dress our cotton with 150 pounds of NV MURIATE OF POTASH per acre. This prevents rust and produces more than a bale per acre. We have also side-dressed tobacco with extra potash and will use NV SULPHATE OF POTASH this year."

JOHN SIDNEY LOCKE, R. D. 1, Enfield, says: "For several years my cotton has gotten 200 pounds of 10-0-10 top-dresser per acre. This produces healthier plants and there is less shedding of leaves. Peanuts need plenty of potash. My peanut fertilizer contains 10% POTASH to increase yields."

W. H. STEPHENSON, Angier, says: "Potash pays! For several years I have side-dressed with 100 pounds of NV SULPHATE OF POTASH per acre to improve the quality of my tobacco. I have also tried extra potash on corn, using 200 pounds of NV KAINIT per acre. Kainit certainly grows big yields of quality corn." The photograph below shows Mr. Stephenson's beautiful home at Angier, N. C.

FRANK GALLOWAY, Stantonburg, says: "I won two first prizes and one second prize at the 1938 Tobacco Festival at Wilson. I have used extra potash for five years and top-dressed with NV SULPHATE OF POTASH again in 1938. My yield from six acres was 9,658 pounds, which brought $3,900.00 or an average of about 32c per pound. My yield was 1,610 pounds per acre—representing about $500.00 per acre."

W. C. GRADY, Kinston, says: "I am a firm believer in plenty of potash as a result of handling and using fertilizers for 33 years and testing extra potash on my farm for the last 10 years. This year my tobacco gets 1,000 pounds of 8% POTASH fertilizer per acre at planting and a side-dresser of 200 pounds of NV SULPHATE OF POTASH-MAGNESIA. On my corn last year I added 200 pounds of NV KAINIT per acre to my soda application and made 40 bushels per acre."

FULTON CARR, R. D. 1, Clinton, says: "I have been growing tobacco for 23 years. During the last eight years I have tested extra potash and side-dressed with 100 pounds of NV SULPHATE OF POTASH-MAGNESIA per acre in addition to using fertilizer containing 6% POTASH under my crop. This gives me better quality and increased weight."

for TOBACCO The Tobacco Research Committee recommends side-dressing tobacco with potash, equal to 100 to 200 pounds of SULPHATE OF POTASH per acre, within 20 days after transplanting. The Committee states: "Experiments indicate that the acre value of tobacco may be materially increased by additional potash."

for COTTON The North Carolina Experiment Station recommends side-dressing cotton with 50 to 100 pounds of MURIATE OF POTASH, or 125 to 250 pounds of KAINIT per acre, on fields which have shown heavy Rust damage in the past and where the complete fertilizer treatment contains only 3% POTASH.

Play Wesleyan In Double-Header On Saturday Here

Those East Carolina Teachers College Pirates are providing local baseball fans with a double dose of entertainment here Saturday afternoon when they meet Ohio Wesleyan University in a double-header.

Coach Gordon Gilbert, Pirate mentor, said the first contest would get under way promptly at 1:30 o'clock. The second game probably will be a seven-inning affair and will start shortly after the first is ended.

Floyd Hinton of Rocky Mount is being shifted from first base to the catching berth for Saturday's game. He will be replaced at first by either David Breece, an experienced first-sacker of Raleigh, or Charles Futrell, who was a top-ranking first baseman with Greenville high in last season's activities. Walter Moritz of Long Island, N. Y., will replace Futrell in right field.

Shifting for Saturday's game is being done to develop strength in the infield. The shifting came on the heels of eleven errors by the Pirates in their first two ball games of the season. Errors in both tilts spirited the locals' opposition in scoring spurts.

Coach Gilbert is eyeing Kelly Martin of Conway and Ed Wells of Greenville for hurling assignments in Saturday's games. Regardless of who starts on the mound, Martin and Wells will supply the trouble in hurling ways for the Ohio-Wesleyan contingent.

With position changes already certain, Coach Gilbert said that more changes will be made if necessary. Since the season has just started, it is believed that the shifts in the infield nor the outfield will not make any material difference in the playing ability of Coach Gilbert's hopefuls.

After resting Sunday, the locals will enter the ensuing week confronted with a two-game series with Coach Virgil Yow's High Point College Purple Panthers. A game is scheduled with the Panthers for Monday will start at 3:30, and Tuesday's game will start at 2 o'clock.

Recognize Him?

Chubby Dean, former player for the Greenies, who is slated to start on the pitcher's mound for the Athletics here when they meet the Williamsport Grays in an exhibition tilt next Wednesday afternoon.

To Play Here

Wayne Ambler, who played for the Greenies during the 1935-36 seasons, is the regular second sacker of the Philadelphia Athletics, who will meet the Williamsport Grays here on next Wednesday afternoon.

SCHEDULE SET FOR ATHLETICS

Connie Mack To Be in Eastern Carolina Four Days

Final arrangements for a four day trip through Eastern North Carolina of Connie Mack, "The grand old man of baseball" and his Philadelphia Athletics were near completion today. Mr. Mack arrives in Tarboro Monday April 10th direct from a game in Durham with Duke.

On Tuesday April 11, Tarboro, his base for the four days with his team will stage a "Connie Mack Day" which will start with a luncheon at the community house at noon, to which Mr. Mack, his Philadelphia Athletics; Governor Clyde R. Local officials and committees will also enjoy the luncheon.

At 2:30 the Edenton high band will lead a parade from downtown Tarboro to the ball park, where at three o'clock the A's and the Grays will engage in a baseball game.

To this banquet all the Williamsport and Philadelphia baseball players, their officials, will attend as guests of Tarboro. Noted guests invited have accepted, and it is estimated that better than forty named personages will be on the guest dias.

Headlined in the entertainment will be the Girls from Reno, a George Hamid production of young ladies, who will sing, dance, bubble and fan dance.

A group of 4-H boys from West Edgecombe High will appear in a farce act "The Old Maid's Sewing Circle." Brokes Fryer and his orchestra will play throughout the evening.

Thursday

After the game, Mr. Hubert Landuer, president of the Kinston Club, has arranged for the Rotary Club to have Mr. Connie Mack, and his officials as well as the officials of the Williamsport Grays remain for one hour for supper at the Hotel. A few other out of town officials will be invited.

On Friday, April 14th Mr. Connie Mack will be host to the Boy Scouts about 900 strong. The Scouts will be attending the camporee, in Tarboro assemble at their camporee headquarters in front of the Tarboro Grammar School, and led by the Greenville band will march down and through the town, out to the ball park, where at 3 p. m. they will witness the last of the four game series between the A's and the Gray's.

Nine chosen scouts will sit down

Mr. Mack in his box as his special guests for that day. Mr. Mack will later visit the scouts headquarters, and talk at a camp fire

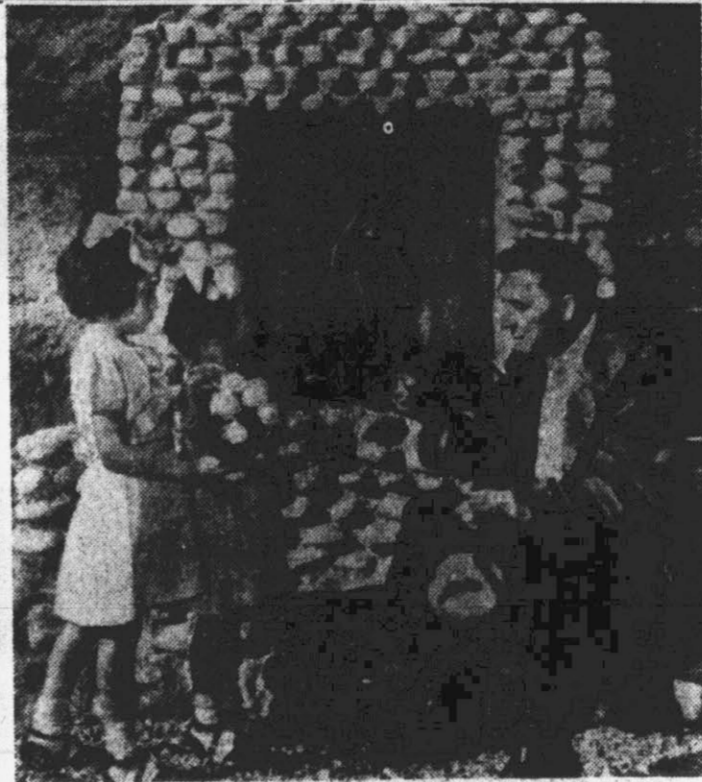

About 7 p. m., the Philadelphia Athletics will depart by train from Rocky Mount for Philadelphia, where the open the American League season on the 17th.

Merchants and officials of Tarboro are decorating their windows with bunting, and are displaying cards of "Welcome Mr. Mack" and "Welcome Boy Scouts," for the four days that the Athletics make Tarboro their base.

All games have the same charge for the Mack Series, of 50 cents tax included. The seats are available as taken, and only in some parks will there be special box or grandstand reservation for specially invited guests.

Concession Rights Go To J. C. Lanier

John G. Clark, vice president of the Greenville baseball club, announced today that J. Con Lanier, Greenville attorney, was the successful bidder for operation of the concession at the ball park this coming season. The amount involved in the transaction was not made public by Mr. Clark.

PRISON PLAYS LEAGUE TEAM

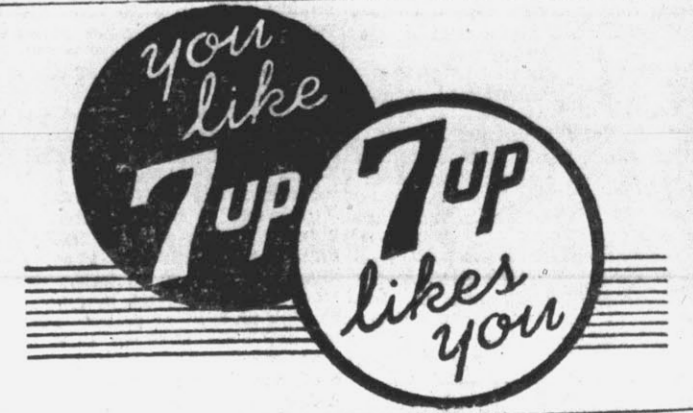

Contest to Be Waged In Prison Park On Saturday

Manager Rube Wilson of the Greenies announced today that his team would meet the boys of Supt. Jacob's prison camp on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. The game is to be played at the prison camp park. Supt. Jacobs has assured Skipper Wilson that all his men will be there when game time is called, and in addition he will have a 100 percent attendance to root for the "boys across the river."

Skipper Wilson said that the game would be a practice game rather than an exhibition tilt, prior to the game Sunday afternoon when the Greenies will meet the Lucky Strikers of Durham, one of the strongest semi-pro outfits in the State, in their first exhibition game of the season.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 6.—(AP)—Efforts to extend yesterday's mild rally in the stock market met with a chilly reception today and leaders tumbled one to four points before tardy support stemmed the selling current. There were a few losers of six and seven at the worst. Heavy offerings for a brief period at mid-morning put the ticker tape several minutes behind. Dealings then slowed at a listless jog and near the fourth hour modest recoveries were to be seen here and there.

Bonds including United States governments, were in the falling division.

Members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee are shown at the hearing in Washington they gave rapt attention to Henry L. Utilities Division Escapes Assembly

Raleigh, April 6. So far as the Utilities Commission is concerned the legislators might about as well have stayed home—subject, however, to the exception that the law makers did up the salary of the commissioner, Stanley Winborne by $600 per annum (if the Governor thinks he ought to have it), and the further exception that it provided funds upon which the department will run for the next biennium.

New York Cotton

New York, April 6.—(AP)—Cotton opened two to four lower as N. W. Orleans, Liverpool and Bombay interests sold. The trade, local professionals and Wall Street interests gave some support.
