ROOSEVELT REASSURES PAN-AMERICAN COUNTRIES

TRIBUTE PAID TO WASHINGTON BY ROOSEVELT

Voices Gratitude Of Tens of Millions Americans

WPA RELIEF BILL SIGNED BY F. D. R.

Committee Approves Measure To Complete $200,000,000 Florida Ship Canal

Mount Vernon, Va., April 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt stood on the porch of historic Mount Vernon today and voiced the gratitude of "tens of millions of Americans" that 150 years ago George Washington bowed to the demands that he become the first President.

It was April 14, 1789, that Charles Thomson, secretary of the Continental Congress, rode into Mount Vernon with an official notification of Washington's election by the Congress.

Washington "rightly" must have felt, Mr. Roosevelt declared, that he was entitled to rest, that he had "rounded out his contribution to the public weal."

The soldier-patriot would have refused the call to the presidency, Mr. Roosevelt said he had always believed, had it not come "in a time of real crisis" for the republic.

Washington developments included: President Roosevelt signed the measure making available an additional $100,000,000 for relief.

The amount recently approved by Congress was $50,000,000 less than the amount the President originally had asked.

The House Rivers and Harbors committee approved a bill by Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex.) to authorize completion of the $200,000,000 Florida ship canal.

Rep. Green (D-Fla.) said the vote was 10 to 6. The action was taken in a closed meeting.

The Mansfield bill would authorize appropriations from time to time to complete the controversial waterway project.

The National Labor Relations Board, storm center of a congressional drive to modify the Wagner act, renewed its stand against amending the law and termed most proposed changes "definitely objectionable."

Denying that it favored the CIO and criticizing some of the amendments proposed by the A. F. of L., the board said in a report to the Senate Labor committee.

"The board is not persuaded by its experience or by any arguments which have come to its attention that the act requires amendment at the present time."

President Roosevelt called on federal department heads to submit by April 25 plans for reorganizing government bureaus.

The action was his first step toward exercising the reorganization powers recently granted him by Congress after two years of bitter controversy.

Mrs. Ola Manning Succumbs at Home

Mrs. Ola Mills Manning, 19, died last night at 10:30 at her home on the Pactolus highway from a short illness. Funeral services were conducted at the graveside in the Cannon family cemetery near Black Jack at 3:30 this afternoon by Rev. L. C. Lassiter, Pentecostal Holiness minister.

Surviving are her husband, Herman Lee Manning; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Mills; six sisters, Mrs. Grover Harris, Mrs. Cecil Haddock, Miss Sophia, Cornia, Mamie Ruth, Rudell Mills, and one brother, Harvey Mills, all of Pitt county.

Active pallbearers were Grover Harris, Cecil Haddock, Cabert Woodward, Ellis Adams, Charles Jones and Heber Jones.

WOMEN'S CLUB GETS CHARTER

Presentation Made by President of State Organization

Receiving a charter featured a meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club held last night at 7 o'clock in the Parish house of the Episcopal church, with Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, president, presiding.

In presenting the charter, Mrs. Dess Gurganus, president of the State Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, declared that the goal of the club was "a better business woman for a better business world; that the club offers friendship, higher ideals, higher standards of business and loyalty to each other. Our club is a unit in a nation-wide Federation. It develops contacts and offers improvement."

Introduced by Mrs. Carey Warren, Mrs. J. B. Spilman of Raleigh made a brief talk congratulating the club.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR BLOUNT

Students of Two Colleges Have Official Greeting

Students of Wake Forest college and Duke University, as well as players and officials of both baseball teams and alumni of the institutions will have the official welcome of the city when they come here tomorrow for a game dedicating the new Guy Smith park.

Mayor M. K. Blount today issued an informal statement in which he welcomed the visitors on behalf of himself as mayor, the city and the citizens of Greenville in general.

The mayor also called upon the cafes, hotels and all other business places to greet the visitors with a welcome hand and the best of service.

"We are highly honored in having these two teams, members of the Big Five Conference, play in our city," said the Mayor, recalling that it was the first time two members of the Conference had played a regular scheduled game in Eastern Carolina.

Mr. Blount said that the stadium and grounds would be in first class condition for the game. Arrangements have been made for the systematic handling of traffic and the grounds will be sprinkled to keep down dust.

MOVE STARTED TO PUT TEETH IN NEW PACTS

Britain Urging Action by Other Countries To Help Out

SEEK EXPEDITE ARRANGEMENTS

Move Provides For General Attempt To Translate Guarantees Into Action

London, April 14.—(AP)—Britain was reported reliably today to be urging military staff talks among Polish, Rumanian, Greek, French and British experts to put sharper teeth in new "anti-aggression" safeguards.

This was said to be the first move in the general attempt to translate British-French guarantees of military aid to Poland, Rumania and Greece into terms of potential planes, soldiers and strategy.

Envoys of the guaranteed states have been told of Britain's desire to expedite detail military arrangements, one well informed source said.

Meanwhile U. S. Ambassador Joseph Kennedy called on Prime Minister Chamberlain congratulating him on the declaration in the House of Commons yesterday in which he extended the pledges to Greece and Rumania. The commitment to Poland was two weeks old.

Following the conference with Kennedy, Chamberlain and his wife left for the week-end at his country estate. The Prime Minister's relaxation was broken a week ago by the Italian invasion of Albania.

London, April 14.—(AP)—British efforts to bring Soviet Russia into a grand alliance against Nazi-fascist expansion were reliably reported today to have made good progress today after a long conference between Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and Soviet Ambassador Maisky.

Aged Pitt Woman Claimed By Death

Mrs. Pattie Joyner, 80, died at 5 o'clock this morning at the home of her son J. E. Joyner who lives two miles from Greenville on the Farmville highway.

Mrs. Joyner had been in declining health for the past three years. She was reared in the Farmville community, daughter of the late Howell and Susan Phillips Joyner. She was a member of the Arthur Methodist church.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home of her son Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. D. A. Clark, Methodist minister of Farmville. Burial will be in the Farmville cemetery.

She is survived by one son, J. E. Joyner; one half-sister, Miss Mary Joyner; and seven grand-children.

Active pallbearers will be A. B. Mose, H. P. Tyson, Frank Patrick, P. R. Tyson, John Congleton, and Frank Manning.

One out of every 37 persons in the United States is a criminal, according to the law enforcement committee of the American Bar Association.

TORNADO RIPS THROUGH ALABAMA, GEORGIA AREA

Two persons were killed, eight were injured and much property damage was done by a tornado that roared through sections of north-eastern Alabama and north-western Georgia. Typical of the wreckage left by the storm is the debris of this farm house near Bremen, Ga. Numerous other buildings were blown to splinters just as this one was.

DEATH CLAIMS CHAS. W. SHUFF

Funeral Services To Be Conducted at 11 A. M. Tomorrow

Charles W. Shuff, prominent tobaccoist, and for the past 17 years, manager of the Greenville branch of the Imperial Tobacco Company, died in Pitt General Hospital at two o'clock this morning. He had been in declining health for the past 15 months following a severe stroke in December, 1937.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home on East Fifth Street Saturday morning at 11 o'clock followed by interment in the family plot at Greenwood cemetery. The services will be in charge of Dr. J. D. Simons, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, of which Mr. Shuff was a member.

Active pallbearers will be T. A. Fulghum and J. R. Hatson, Jr., of Richmond, Va.; and W. T. Lipscomb, W. D. Pruitt, T. H. Boykin, C. W. Howard, Guy V. Smith, L. H. Reed, J. K. Platt, R. M. Garrett, R. C. Stokes, Jr., Dr. D. B. Armistead. The honorary list of pallbearers will include the Deacons of the Memorial Baptist Church, membership to Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, Ellen Memorial Bible Class of Memorial Baptist Church, the Staff of Employees of the Greenville Branch Imperial Tobacco Co., and numerous friends throughout the tobacco industry.

Charles W. Shuff, a native of Virginia, was born at Goodwill, Va., September 8, 1891, the son of the late Charles Wesley Shuff and Mrs. Florence (Wood) Shuff. He spent his early life in Danville, where he first became interested in the tobacco industry in which he continued until his death. He had been with the Imperial Tobacco company for more than 30 years, having served at Danville, Winston-Salem, Fairmont and other southern markets before taking over the management of the Greenville branch of the company in 1922.

During the 17 years he lived in this city he had made pumbers of close friends here and throughout

Vance Teaherage Destroyed By Fire

Henderson, April 14.—(AP)—Fire caused damage estimated at $10,000 to the city teaherage today. No one was injured.

Nineteen teachers, some of whom escaped scantily clad and lost most of their personal belongings, were in the building when the fire was discovered about 7:30 a. m.

The fire was believed to have originated in a defective flue. Classes at the high school were suspended today because the teachers who had lived in the teaherage were unable to attend

HEAR ADDRESS OF PAUL GREEN

Large Crowd Attends Lecture Here Last Night

"Let down your nets where you are" was the theme of an address by North Carolina's outstanding poet, novelist, essayist, and dramatist, Paul Green, last night, as he spoke to the members of the literary clubs of Greenville and their many guests who crowded the Eastern Carolina Teachers College auditorium for the occasion.

The address was part of the program of the Fine Arts week being sponsored by the Greenville Women's Club and cooperated in by a number of other organizations.

Mr. Green's speech concerned itself primarily with the great literary and artistic possibilities of the South and his hope of the development of a culture that will be indigenous to this section, having its roots firmly fixed in native earth and its standards of excellence and ideals of beauty fashioned through its own upward strivings, and not machine-made by Hollywood or Broadway.

The speaker was aptly introduced by President Meadows of the College, who after referring to the natural human pride people take in their own and in being close to

STRIKE FAILS HALT SERVICE

Eastern Airline Employees Walk Out On Posts

Newark, N. J., April 14.—(AP)—Eastern Airlines officials said today company operations and flight schedules had not been affected by a strike of an undetermined number of line service employees of the mechanical department who walked out at four "key" bases in Newark, Washington, Atlanta, Ga., and Miami, Fla.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, president and general manager of the Airline Mechanics Association International, an independent union, had been replaced by mechanics from company overhaul shops at Miami.

Meanwhile at Chicago, Robert H. Stoy, editor of Airline Mechanic, monthly publication of the association, said a canvass of Eastern Airline airports disclosed a 100 percent walkout at Newark, 90 percent at Miami, 100 percent at Atlanta and an indicated 100 percent at Washington and Chicago.

David Bechncke, president of the Airlines Pilot association, said at Chicago the members of his organization were "watching very closely" the developments in the strike, but added that it was too early to predict what action the Pilots' association, an A. F. of L. affiliate, might take.

FOUR CONVICTS ARE CAPTURED

Prisoner Who Stole Wrecked State Car Taken

Raleigh, April 14.—(AP)—Oscar Pitts, superintendent of prisons, said this morning that four prisoners who escaped earlier this week including Sam Lineberry, who wrecked Pitt's state-owned car, had been caught.

Officers from Leaksville-Spray, Pitts and warden H. H. Wilson of Central prison here caught Lineberry near Leaksville-Spray early this morning and brought him here. There was no trouble taking the escapee, Pitts said.

Lineberry was serving 20 to 25 years for murder. He was sentenced in Columbia county. Lineberry disappeared after wrecking Pitt's car which he had been chauffering as a trusty. The wreck cost the state $1,050 to buy a new car for Dr. and Mrs. N. J. Whaley, of Detroit, Mich., whose practically new car was ruined in the wreck.

A. B. Davis of near Raleigh charged with aiding Lineberry's flight faces a hearing April 21 in magistrates court here.

Pitts said that three men who got away from a Jackson penal camp road gang Tuesday had been caught not far from where they escaped. Two others who got away at the same time, including D. J. Traylor sentenced in Pitt, have not been caught.

Pledges Aid If Inroads To Business Threatened

Support From United States Pledged To Any Pan-American Country Against Economic Pressure from Abroad; Aggression Branded as "Ridiculous" And "Criminal"

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt pledged the nation's economic support today to any Pan-American country whose freedom is threatened by "economic pressure" from abroad.

Condemning aggression as "ridiculous" and "criminal" Mr. Roosevelt extended this government's promise of protection for the Western Hemisphere, already given for military attack, to inroads thru business and commerce.

On annual Pan-American day the President gave the Old World a "living message" from the New World of a "will to peace" which "will have a voice in determining the order of world affairs."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke to the governing boards of the Pan-American union in the Pan-American building without making the aggressive nations of their dictators, but referring to statements recently made by Hitler and Mussolini the chief executive stressed the ties binding Europe and the Americas.

His words, as if a reply to advocates of American isolation were "The American family of nations may also rightfully claim now to speak to the rest of the world. We have an interest, wider than that of the mere defense of our searinged continent. We know now that the developments of the new generation will so narrow the ocean separating us from the old world that our customs and our actions are necessarily involved with her's."

"Beyond question within a scant few years the air fleets will cross the ocean as easily as today they cross the closing European seas. Economic functioning of the world becomes a unit, no interruption of it anywhere can fall in the future to disrupt economic life everywhere."

Berlin, April 14.—German government circles said President Roosevelt's address today "clearly reveals" him as the "master wire-puller behind the anti-German encirclement policy."

They said official Nazi reaction to the President's Pan-American speech in Washington indicated that sharp rejoinders probably would be made.

"To assert that the encirclement of a peaceful nation was impossible," they said, "was a negation of history."

"Before 1914 Germany was encircled through the Franco-Russian alliance behind her back while she was pursuing peaceful aims."

Wants Tobaccoists To Gather At 10:15

R. M. Garrett, president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, today requested all members of that organization to meet at the Person-Garrett Tobacco company tomorrow morning at 10:15 o'clock and attend in a body the funeral services for Charles W. Shuff.

Members of the board have been designated as honorary pallbearers.

TO BE DEDICATED HERE TOMORROW

Greenville's new WPA-built baseball park will be dedicated Saturday with extensive ceremonies, culminating with a game between Duke and Wake Forest, at 3:30 o'clock. The photograph shows the first use of the park when Philadelphia's Athletics won over the Williamsport Grays Wednesday. That was a sort of warming up exercise for Saturday's program which starts with a luncheon for WPA, collegiate and local officials at 12:30. Led by Miss Ann McCormick an elaborate parade will start at 1:30 from the WPA-constructed Army to the ball park where at 2:30 Charles C. Mc Ginnis, Acting State Administrator, will present the park. After Mayor Marvin Blount accepts the project for Greenville, Colonel Ed G. Flanagan will introduce Guy Smith for whom the facility is named.

Entertains At Birthday Party. Little Judith Lea Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Allen, entertained a number of her friends yesterday at a party at the home of Mrs. Irma Dunn, in celebration of her third birthday.

After an Easter egg hunt the children enjoyed cutting the birthday cake and were served ice cream and given favors.

The little hostess received many attractive birthday gifts.

Garden Pilgrimages End. The first series of garden pilgrimages held in Greenville in connection with Fine Arts Week and as a feature of the state-wide Garden Fortnight, which is being observed throughout the state, under the direction of the Garden Club of North Carolina, with Mrs. C. A. Gibson, of Raleigh, as general chairman, came to an end on Thursday. The local tours were under the auspices of the local Garden Club department of the Woman's Club and was arranged and directed by a committee headed by Mrs. Travis Hooker.

Seven local, private gardens were open to the public during the two-day tour, ending yesterday, and groups of hostesses greeted guests in each of the gardens. Gardens visited included those of Mrs. K. W. Cobb, Mrs. H. S. Besaw, Mrs. M. L. Garrett, Mrs. James Little, Mrs. M. L. Wright, Mrs. W. E. Hooker and Mrs. J. B. James and tea was served yesterday afternoon at four o'clock to garden club members and visitors in the gardens of the latter three hostesses.

The Garden Club tour attracted a large number of out-of-town visitors.

Bird Etchings Exhibition. Benson, Bishop and Roland are all artists outstanding in their field. Frank Benson is an etcher whose work has long been nationally recognized. His etchings are prized items of many important collections.

Richard Bishop is also an etcher and is well known for the collection of his plates presented in the book "Bishop's Birds." He has used motion pictures of pelicans fishing and ducks and geese in flight as studies for his remarkable drawings.

Conrad Roland sketches the birds from life and uses dead or captive specimens to fill in the details of color and structure. He is a member of the faculty of Clearwater Museum School of Art.

A group of the works of these three artists is being exhibited at the Woman's Clubhouse in Greenville during the Fine Arts Festival.

At Home. Greenville, N. C., RFD 2

College Y.M.C.A. Officers. Election of other officers and selection of faculty advisers has completed the administrative set-up of the newly organized Young Men's Christian Association at East Carolina Teachers College.

Howard Draper of Conway was elected vice-president in a run-off election with John David Bridgers of Greenville. In earlier voting, Emmett, Sawyer of Belcross, had been elected president; Vance Chadwick of Straits, secretary, and Brantley De Loatche of Conway, treasurer.

Dr. R. J. Slay was selected as faculty adviser for a one-year term, and Dr. Herbert ReBarker for a two-year term. The major officers of the organization, along with the advisory committee, will compose the executive committee.

Besides the vice-president who will serve as chairman of the program committee, and the treasurer, who will serve as chairman of the finance committee, other chairmen are: Gilbert Britt of Conway, student welfare; Alton Payne of Gull Rock, social service; Joe Biggs of Washington, N. C., Christian education; Walter Tucker of Greenville, membership; John David Bridgers of Greenville, publicity.

Scoville-Cook. Austin, Texas, April 14.—Miss Helen Cook, daughter of Mrs. Horatio Lafayette Cook of Palestine, Texas, was married on Easter morning at seven o'clock to Mr. Warren Candler Scoville of Greenville, N. C. Dr. W. R. Minter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Austin, officiated, using the double-ring ceremony.

Prior to the ceremony, the organist, Mr. James E. McCarty of Schuylerville, N. Y., played the "Prelude" to Act 1 of Wagner's "Lohengrin," and "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah." The bride entered to the strains of Wagner's "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin," and Schubert's "Ave Maria" was played softly during the ceremony. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," was played as the recessional.

The bride wore a suit of Capri-blue trimmed in platinum-fox. Her accessories were of dusty-rose and irides.

Windsor-blue. She wore a corsage of orchids.

The bride's sole attendant, Mrs. David Boice of Houston, Texas, was attired in a dusty-rose suit with dubonnet accessories. Her corsage was of carnation rosettes and purple irides.

The bridegroom was attended by William Jordan Joseph Smith, III, of Dallas, Texas, as best man.

Only the members of the bride's family were present at the wedding. After the ceremony a breakfast was given by the bride's mother at the Driskill Hotel.

Mr. Scoville is the son of Mrs. Virgil Powers Scoville of Greenville, N. C. He received his A.B. degree from Duke University in June, 1934; studied economics for two years at the graduate school of the University of Chicago, and spent fifteen months in France collecting data on French industrial development during the reign of Louis XIV. For the past two years he has been a member of the economics department at the University of Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Scoville are making their home at 310 1/2 West Avenue, Austin, Texas.

Attend Meeting in Raleigh. A group of college students left this morning for Raleigh to attend a Presbyterian student conference sponsored by the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina.

The meeting will begin at four o'clock in the West Raleigh Presbyterian Church. It will end Saturday morning following an address by the Rev. Dr. W. T. Thompson of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.

His Sirear, secretary of the Christian Union of India, will speak at the opening session, and the Rev. John Newton Thomas of Richmond, will talk on "The Church and the World Situation" at a banquet tomorrow night at the Edenton Street Methodist Church.

All sessions will be presided over by Monroe Wicker, a student at Union Theological Seminary.

Those attending from E. C. T. C. are: Miss Alice Harrison of Henderson, Miss Betty McArthur of Fayetteville, Miss Ada Rose Yow of Henderson, Miss Helen McCann of Lancaster, S. C., Miss Lucille Johnson of Ayden, Miss Elizabeth Mashburn of Battleboro, Miss Susan Evans of St. Pauls, Miss Mary Council Home of Greenville, and Miss Miriam Wilson, Presbyterian student secretary.

District Club Women Meet. Nearly fifty out-of-town visitors, representing the club women of the Fifteenth District of the N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, which is composed of Bertie, Beaufort, Hyde, Martin, Pitt, Tyrrell and Washington counties, attended the special program given for them in Greenville at the Woman's Club Wednesday morning, April 12. In addition to these visitors, there were delegations present from New Bern and Elizabeth City, both lying outside the 15th district, and from Chapel Hill and Richmond, Va. This program was a feature of Fine Arts Week, sponsored by the Greenville Woman's Club and was in charge of the American Home Department of the Federation. Mrs. B. G. Campbell of Plymouth, district chairman of the American Home Department, presided.

Events had been planned to make interesting and profitable a full day of enjoyable activity. Registration began at the Woman's Club at 9 o'clock and the rest of the morning was devoted to the very fine program which lasted from 10 until 12:30 o'clock.

From 10 to 10:30, Mrs. Adelaide Blotson, of the Home Economics department, E.C.T.C., discussed in an entertaining manner "Good Nutrition in the Home at Minimum Cost." This was a very practical discussion and two useful and valuable mimeographed sheets of paper listing menus—for breakfast, lunch and dinner, were distributed to each person present.

From 10:30 to 11, Mr. Dean Tabor, head of the Music department, E.C.T.C., talked on "Music in the Home." Mr. Tabor discussed chiefly the musical relation of mother to child and the importance of this artistic background in the home. "Our greatest need is music in the home," declared Mr. Tabor, the substance of whose talk was enriched and spiced throughout with his natural wit and humor. A suggested list of a layman's musical library of children's songs, games, and rhythmic studies, of records for children and for the family, prepared by Mr. Tabor, was distributed among the clubwomen at the close of his interesting talk.

From 11 to 11:30, Miss Lois Grigsby, English department, E.C.T.C., spoke on "Literature for the Home." It was amazing to note how much of the vast field of literature Miss Grigsby was able to cover in such a limited amount of time. In a concise and charming manner, Miss Grigsby handled her subject ably, and in establishing harmonious relationships within the family.

From 12 to 12:30, Mrs. W. A. Ryan of Greenville, spoke very humbly and beautifully on the subject of "Religion in the Home." Religion is really a fine art in the home, the fine art that tones up everything that is done in the home, and produces God-centered lives and good living in the home—a fine art that has honesty, purity, usefulness and good-will as its standards. Personal goodness is not enough in the home. We must possess a goodness that reaches out, that extends to others. There is no open sesame to the process. Hard work is required here as elsewhere. Man is body, mind and spirit, and spiritual man requires as much stimulus and exercise as physical and mental man. It requires a daily discipline and is, or should be, a very natural and necessary part of the individual growth.

The home is the logical place to each religion, and in order to produce a good life it is, of course, a natural thing to know something about the text-book of religion. Religion should be real, genuine, natural; it should be just as much a routine as anything else. It can't be taught by preaching. We can't give what we don't have ourselves. We are devoted parents, all of us, but oftentimes we are not good parents. A responsibility rests upon us to expose our children and ourselves to spiritual as well as to other exercises.

The only real thing in life is religion. A child needs to live in an atmosphere of honesty, uprightness and unselfishness; to be taught that his body is the temple of the living God, and that God dwells in it—that what is good comes from God, for He is the one and only source of good. Our children are influenced by what we choose for ourselves, and what we do speaks so loudly that they cannot hear what we say. Religion adds dignity to life and makes a difference in all we do. As parents we should so guide the lives of our children that godliness and goodness appears in all the aspects of life and the maximum all-round capacity of life emerges from the soul.

From 1 to 2, lunch for visitors was served at the clubhouse. During lunch hour, a five-minute talk on "Safety on the Highway" was given by Lieut. Lester E. Jones, and another five-minute talk on "Safety in the Home" was given by Miss Rosamond Ivy of the college.

Mrs. H. R. Totten of Chapel Hill, first vice-president of the State Garden Clubs, Mrs. J. A. Warren of Chapel Hill, chairman of Chapel Hill Garden Club tour, Mrs. O. L. Williams of Swan Quarter, district president of the 15th district of N.

himself; of furnishing, oftentimes, a sympathetic outsider with whom the child can talk things over confidentially; of providing the very valuable training and experience of working, and playing, and living together; of specific training in such branches of study as home economics, as exceedingly important in tying together the home and school, and in establishing harmonious relationships within the family.

We are devoted parents, all of us, but oftentimes we are not good parents. A responsibility rests upon us to expose our children and ourselves to spiritual as well as to other exercises.

The only real thing in life is religion. A child needs to live in an atmosphere of honesty, uprightness and unselfishness; to be taught that his body is the temple of the living God, and that God dwells in it—that what is good comes from God, for He is the one and only source of good. Our children are influenced by what we choose for ourselves, and what we do speaks so loudly that they cannot hear what we say. Religion adds dignity to life and makes a difference in all we do. As parents we should so guide the lives of our children that godliness and goodness appears in all the aspects of life and the maximum all-round capacity of life emerges from the soul.

From 1 to 2, lunch for visitors was served at the clubhouse. During lunch hour, a five-minute talk on "Safety on the Highway" was given by Lieut. Lester E. Jones, and another five-minute talk on "Safety in the Home" was given by Miss Rosamond Ivy of the college.

Mrs. H. R. Totten of Chapel Hill, first vice-president of the State Garden Clubs, Mrs. J. A. Warren of Chapel Hill, chairman of Chapel Hill Garden Club tour, Mrs. O. L. Williams of Swan Quarter, district president of the 15th district of N.

Miss Grigsby distributed lists which she had prepared of books for children which have won the Newbery medal; books of biography and autobiography for children and adults; magazines for the home and mentioned particular books that contribute to a feeling of international good will.

From 11:30 to 12, Dr. Simms of the University of Alabama and member of the Southern Work Shop staff who was presented by Mr. J. H. Rose, talked on "The Place of the School in Creating Satisfactory Family Relations."

Dr. Simms discussed the adequate and wholesome recreational facilities and educational supervision of the school which has the child in charge during the greater part of its waking hours, as important in establishing right and pleasant family relationships. He added to this the school's development in youngsters of a wide variety of hobbies, of avocational interests; of an understanding which the child gets of

From 11 to 11:30, Miss Lois Grigsby, English department, E.C.T.C., spoke on "Literature for the Home." It was amazing to note how much of the vast field of literature Miss Grigsby was able to cover in such a limited amount of time. In a concise and charming manner, Miss Grigsby handled her subject ably, and in establishing harmonious relationships within the family.

From 12 to 12:30, Mrs. W. A. Ryan of Greenville, spoke very humbly and beautifully on the subject of "Religion in the Home." Religion is really a fine art in the home, the fine art that tones up everything that is done in the home, and produces God-centered lives and good living in the home—a fine art that has honesty, purity, usefulness and good-will as its standards. Personal goodness is not enough in the home. We must possess a goodness that reaches out, that extends to others. There is no open sesame to the process. Hard work is required here as elsewhere. Man is body, mind and spirit, and spiritual man requires as much stimulus and exercise as physical and mental man. It requires a daily discipline and is, or should be, a very natural and necessary part of the individual growth.

The home is the logical place to each religion, and in order to produce a good life it is, of course, a natural thing to know something about the text-book of religion. Religion should be real, genuine, natural; it should be just as much a routine as anything else. It can't be taught by preaching. We can't give what we don't have ourselves. We are devoted parents, all of us, but oftentimes we are not good parents. A responsibility rests upon us to expose our children and ourselves to spiritual as well as to other exercises.

TB TREATMENT NEEDED EARLY

Eight Out of Every 10 Patients Wait Too Long

"Among each ten patients admitted to tuberculosis hospitals, eight on the average are found to be well past the early, more curable stages of the disease."

This fact established by national surveys is the challenge presented in the "Help Find Early Tuberculosis" appeal of the Early Diagnosis Campaign conducted intensively during April and extended throughout the year by National, State and Local Tuberculosis and Health Associations, said Dr. R. L. Carlton, managing director of the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association.

The campaign objective is to speed up the earlier discovery of the disease by appealing to community leaders—physicians, educators, welfare workers, clergy, together with leaders of business, industry, agriculture and labor—to aid public health officials and voluntary health associations in reaching the people in the mass and in groups with information and services needed to eradicate tuberculosis.

Unfortunately, real early tuberculosis shows few or none of the symptoms commonly associated with "consumption." The disease sneaks up on people without warning and by the time signs and symptoms appear, the case usually is no longer an early one. That is why so many patients reach the sanatorium as moderately advanced or far advanced cases.

How is early, symptomless tuberculosis discovered? By applying the modern diagnostic methods—the x-ray, fluoroscope and tuberculin test—in ferreting out tuberculosis among groups of apparently healthy persons who are most susceptible to the disease.

"Contact cases," those people closely and repeatedly exposed to known cases of tuberculosis in the home, or elsewhere, constitute the group in which the largest number of cases will generally be found. Other groups include workers in dangerous dusty trades; Negroes between 15 and 35; hospital internes, medical and nursing students; expectant mothers and young mothers; unskilled laborers and their families; university, college and normal school students; senior high school students, and boy and girl applicants for working papers.

Beginning April 1 may of the tuberculosis and health organizations in North Carolina began endeavoring to put the above facts before both community leaders and the general public, using the various available channels and media for imparting information. Cooperation is provided by the press, radio, speakers, and other community organizations. The importance of early case-finding is being emphasized through educational channels. Pamphlets and posters about tuberculosis have been spread all over our State. Everyone will have some opportunity to do his bit toward eradicating the disease.

Navy Fireman Killed When Auto Overtakes

Mantoe, April 14—(AP) George Weston Cothran, about 21 fireman second class, aboard the U. S. S. was killed and C. L. Scarborough a shipmate injured when their automobile overturned near Wachese at 9:30 a. m., today.

Naval authorities made arrangements to take Cothran body to Norfolk, Va.

National Biscuit Co. Starts New Campaign

National Biscuit Company has just released another advertising campaign to newspapers throughout the United States. This is additional evidence of the attitude of this company on the value of local newspaper advertising.

In announcing their use of large space in a wide list of newspapers earlier in the year, National Biscuit Company pointed out that they felt this medium offered an effective means to help their retailers sell quality products. Company officials believe there is a definite trend to quality in consumer buying and are consequently placing heavy emphasis on quality in these advertisements.

The current campaign starting in local papers during the second week in April and extending thru the second week in May, features Premium Crackers.

EVERY APPEAL ON CIVIL CASE

Not a Single Criminal Case from 14th District

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, April 14—Next week's Supreme court calendar for oral argument is featured by the fact that among the dozen cases from the Fourteenth District there is not even one criminal case listed.

Veteran court attaches say that for any district not to have a state case up on appeal is out of the ordinary and that for the Fourteenth to show nothing but civil cases is virtually unprecedented.

Among prominent cases is that of Mozelle Steele vs. Keith Beatty and Charlie Haworth, an action featured in the lower court by charges of attempt blackmail and extortion against Charlotte's Detective Chief Frank Littlejohn and United States Marshal for the Western District Charles R. Price.

Testifying in the cause, a very sordid and unsavory mess involving alleged seduction and an attempted abortion. Beatty said that Littlejohn and Price told him they would settle the case if he would give them $5,000. Thereafter, the Court, of its own motion, summoned both officers and heard their testimony in denial.

In the lower court plaintiff secured a judgment for $1,730 and defendants have appealed.

In another case the perennial of governmental operation of power lines is involved. C. O. Kennerly, administrator for Aaron A. Willis sued the Town of Dallas for Willis' death from walking against an electric line allegedly owned by the town and operated outside its corporate limits.

Paradoxically, it is the town which asserts its impotence to operate the utility outside its limits. Defendant demurred on the grounds that it doesn't have authority to operate the line. The demurrer was overruled in the court below.

Miss Vivian Lucas of Speed, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McArthur Sunday.

Mr. Lee Wilkerson is resting comfortably in Pitt General Hospital and hopes to come home in a few days.

Easter services at the Methodist Church were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Soaper of Duke. His mother, father, and sister of Maryland, were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence White Sunday.

Miss Hazel Wilkerson has returned to her school after being at home a week, due to her mother's illness.

Mr. C. Manly Morton, missionary to Porto Rico, gave a most interesting lecture at the Christian Church Thursday night. He also showed moving pictures in natural colors, which he had made himself, of Porto Rico. These were beautiful and educational, as well as instructing the audience how Christianity had a very progressive place on the island. Mrs. Morton and Mr. Morton's sister accompanied him.

Mrs. A. D. McArthur and daughters spent Friday with Mrs. W. H. Hyde.

CLEVER HOUSEWIVES ASK THESE QUESTIONS WHEN THEY GO CRACKER BUYING

ARE THEY FRESH? No one wants a stale cracker! It can fairly spoil the soup—make the salad a disappointment. On the other hand, a fresh crunchy Premium Cracker gives your whole meal a sparkle! You can depend on Premiums being fresh because (1) they're baked nearby (2) they're triple-wrapped and sealed to keep freshness in (3) they're rushed to your dealer in NBC's own fast trucks.

ARE THEY FLAKY? If they are Premium Crackers—YES! Just look at the inside of a Premium. It's open... tender... well-baked. Extra shortening, extra care in baking do that!

HAVE THEY THE FINEST FLAVOR? We honestly believe that Premiums are the most delicious crackers of their kind. We've done everything possible to make them perfect. Used a special kind of topping salt for zest—baked them to a delectable golden brown.

ORDER PREMIUMS TODAY! Serve them over the week-end. See why so many who appreciate the nice things of life insist on Premium Crackers. Your dealer has a package waiting for you—oven fresh!

Western Carolina To Go After Trout

Raleigh, April 14—Tar Heel trout fishermen can get out their tackle and go after the spotted and speckled beauties in Western cold water streams Saturday as the season on all species of trout opens to last until August 31.

Season for other fish will not open until May 10. It is pointed out at the Department of Conservation and Development.

North Carolina regulations permit a daily bag of only a dozen trout, of no matter what species, whether rainbow, brown or brook. Length on rainbow and brown trout is set at not less than eight inches and on brook or speckled trout at six inches.

So far no definite schedule has been worked out for opening the six fish and game refuges of western Carolina to trout fishing. Ordinarily these preserves are opened two days in each month during the open season.

Reflector Bureau
 Raleigh, April 14—Your correspondent was wasting a lot of sympathy on himself a day or so ago, complaining to a State official that it is impossible to tell who are going to run for Governor next year, much less predict the winners.

"Hell" snapped the official that are you worrying about? You just want to know who's going to be the next Governor, while I've got to know or else look for another job."

In line with this reasoning there is under way a distinct movement in many official quarters (particularly appointive ones) to smoke the Governor out on the question of his successor.

There is almost unanimous belief that the successful 1940 candidate will be the one who is the beneficiary of Hoey support.

What these folks fear is that the present executive will maintain a more or less benevolent unwilling neutrality between all aspiring Tar Heels, with the result that there will be no real band wagon to climb aboard.

Joe Cheshire, Raleigh attorney who is one of the leading backers of the "Out" against the "Ins" in next Monday's municipal primary here rather haughtily proclaimed he does not intend to answer a blast of city attorney Class Holding.

"I wouldn't stoop to such tactics" he is said to have intoned.

"Listen, Joe, if you expect to stay a gentleman and adorn rough stuff and shady tactics, you have not a damn bit of business in a Raleigh city election," a frank-speaking friend informed him.

An attorney was pleading his clients cause before the Supreme court this week with great eloquence and more than ordinary persistence.

"I'd like to go into every angle of this matter at even greater length," he said.

"That would be fine," interrupted Chief Justice Stacy, "but if you'll look at the clock you'll see that the statute of limitation has already run against you."

Cy Senter, Hotel Sir Walter news stand proprietor tells this one.

A customer strolled up to the counter Wednesday and saw a weekly magazine which featured on its cover in big red letters an article in which "Our Bob" Reynolds is called "Another Hoey Long."

"Bah," snorted the customer, "they had some brains."

Raleigh's American Legion post has undertaken something in the nature of an innovation here—a big "barn and square" dance in the municipal auditorium every Saturday night. Attendance at the first of the series last week was very satisfactory, and the enthusiasm shown by all hands indicates that the thing is going over in a really big way.

Ripley Will Present Interesting Program

Robert "Believe It or Not" Ripley and Royal Crown Cola will present one of the most amazing stories ever told on his program which will be heard tonight over CBS at 10:30 EST.

April 14th being one day short of the 27th anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic Ripley will tell the story of a baby that was thrown overboard by a hysterical passenger and one of the strangest reunions ever to come out of the chaos of disaster.

Mrs. Leah Aks and her now grown son, Frank Aks, both of Norfolk, Va., will appear in person and tell of their outstanding experience.

The dramatic highlight of the program is the story of a romantic shopkeeper who received $25,000 for one single kiss.

Musical interludes will be supplied by B. A. Rolfe and his 25-piece orchestra.

The Characters
 Ascy Maye, Cape Cod sleuth.
 Win Billings, the last Billings of Billingsgate.

Yesterday Brinley explains he was hunting the missing Win Billings. Lane finds Win who was shot in the shoulder by Ascy.

Chapter 35
Ragged Individualist

ASEY puffed at his pipe. Without any doubt, Billingsgate had vastly underestimated the spirit of the last Billings.

"Damn government," Win said. "That's the trouble Reds. Can't do this, can't do that, can't shoot 'bout a license, can't fish 'bout a license, can't dig yourself a quonag 'bout a paper sayin' so. Can't get a drink—'f my father could see things, he'd shoot himself. F greggrampa could see it, he'd rue the day the British was licked. Always said it was a mistake greggrampa did, hekin' the British, an' startin' off a new government—"

"Win," Ascy said, "how old are you?"

"Eighty-nine, ninety—must be ninety-two! Danno. Round there. But I know one thing. Win! go back to show off no more, see?"

"Y'know," Ascy said, "I don't much see why you should, Win. Look what happened after you was hit."

Win turned two watery blue eyes on Ascy and stared at him for a moment.

"Won't go back. Made up my mind." He grinned.

"Okay," Ascy said with a chuckle. "I'll see to it."

"Promise?"

"I promise on my word of honor. Win. Now what's the story?"

"M'shoulder hurt," Win said. "I kep' out of their way, an' got down to the ice house. Awful thirsty. I was stopped for water. He made a face. Know what greggrampa said? He said water was God's way to grow gardens, but it wasn't nothin' to rust the human body with. Greggrampa was right!"

Ascy went to the door and called for Cummings.

"Got anything to drink, doc? Whiskey? Gimme some."

"Ten minutes with that old tank," the doctor said, "and you yowl for spirits. It's disgraceful if the Ladies Aid ever found out."

Ascy took the bottle back to Win. "Not," he said firmly, "at one gulp. All right. You got some water, an' then what?"

"Why, thanks, Ascy, you're a good feller. No nonsense about you. Y'come to the point. Well, y'see, I was kind of tired, like, so I sat there by the pond an' then when I rested up, I was goin' to the ice house. An' then they come up 'hind me, an' hit me a crack over the head, an' when I come to, here I was with these pills, an' the doctor—all talkin' to once, an' vellin' an' sayin' they was goin' to send me 'tial. How can I 'ev? Ain't no law, my dressin' up an' bein' made a show of. Can't put me in jail for that. Know my rights. Greggrampa allus said, know your rights, an' stick to 'em, an'—"

"Why wouldn't you talk to em, Win?"

"Why sh'd I? Besides, they talked about you. I knew you'd come. Waitin' for you. Shot me some more, 'f you want. Put me in jail. I won't go back, no more."

"Where was you? Ascy asked, "the night before last? Monday night?"

Sweet revenge

"I AST night," Win said, "I met a nice feller, up to that circus. Nice, sensible feller. No nonsense. I says, gimme a drink, an' he did, an'—"

"The night before that," Ascy said.

"Night b'fore," Win rubbed his chin. "Night b'fore. Didn't have no drink, night b'fore. Went to the circus—seen you there. You was shootin'—you busted every clay sparrer in the place."

"That's right. How long'd you stay there, Win?"

Win chuckled. "Oh, I r'member now. Sure thing. The big wheel got 't me. Fuddy woman—she was on it. Know what?"

"What?" Ascy asked obediently.

"Feller—some feller—looked like a Swett to me. Dark, like. Come up to me—not Swett Higgins. It was when they first took me off. Works to the store, he does."

"Zeb Chase?" Ascy made a valiant stab. "His mother was a Higgins."

"That's the one. He gimme some money, when they first took me. Here, pop, he says, an' gimme the money. Twenty dollars in ones, an' two tens, too."

"Good for Zeb," Ascy said. "So you had forty bucks?"

"Nice feller. Here, pop, he says, they got you cooped up, see? You can have some fun with this. Said I'd served it. Forty dollars, all in them little sized bills they got now. Even money's small! But 'twas forty dollars, for me 'tend."

Ascy began to understand how

Win might very possibly have mistaken the engineer for General Grant that morning.

"So I give the feller ten," Win said, and chuckled until the pain from his shoulder forced him to stop.

"What feller?" Ascy asked. He wouldn't have admitted it to Cummings, but he was beginning to wonder if the whiskey hadn't been a mistake.

"The wheel one. He caught on." Win winked. "Pool woman, tries to make a show out of me. Guess I made a show out of her!"

Ascy let out a roar of laughter that brought Cummings and Lane rushing to the door.

"Go off," he said. "Go way Win—you mean that you gave the feller wheel feller ten bucks to keep the wheel stuck? So Bessie Brinley would—"

"That's her. Fool Pokey. Nosey. Did I ever ask her for anything? No. Why sh'd I make a show for her? An' Win smiled broadly. "she don't know 'twas me. I had done it, neither! I showed her up!"

Ascy laughed until the tears ran down his cheeks.

At last he went to the door an' called Hamilton.

"Ham," he said, "drive Win over to my cousin Syl Mayo, will you. Take him right over, an' tell Syl to take him over to my gunnin' shack, an' provide him with enough to drink so as he won't have to rust his innards with water."

"As Sane As Anyone"

"WHAT'S that?" Lane said. "You—but he's the one! The Thayer girl said so! He had her cap, an'—"

"Win is over ninety," Ascy said. "Bear that in mind."

"But he's sore at the town an' everyone for making him dress up, an' why? Brinley was just telling me Brinley says that he—"

"Win," Ascy said, "deeply 'sented bein' deprived of his rights, an' he don't feel that hein' dressed up an' stared at is what his great-grandfather won the battle of Breed's Hill for. Lane, Win is over ninety. The feller that I chased an' lost, he outran me. He outgassed me. He outsmarted me. He outstayed me. Win just happened to get in the way of one of my wild shots, that's all. Someone knocked him an' planted the betel beetle on him. Besides, Win's got a cast iron alibi for Monday night—"

"What sort of alibi?" Brinley demanded. "They say he's skipped out of Mrs. Holt's every single night he's been locked up there. Nobody knows how. The old fool's crazy. He's a maniac. Stark raving crazy."

"On the contrary," Ascy said. "Win is as sane as anyone I know, an' he's one feller that'll stand just so much hepeckin' an' no more. Lane, did Kay tell you for certain that he was the one?"

"Did she see him plain? Can she tell?"

"Well, no. She didn't say it was him exactly, but she agreed with us that it must have been, after we talked it over with her."

"Uh-huh. I see. Is she back at Sara's?"

"Went back with—who's that, Konrad?"

Konrad ushered in Jeff Leach and Weston, both worried and distraught and very much the worse for wear. Jeff's white fannel suit was solidly caked with mud, and Weston was wet and bedraggled.

"We thought—oh, you've got him! Well, thank heaven," Weston said wearily. "Come on, Win, an'—"

"Did I ask you for anything? Not," Win said. "Why sh'd I show myself off—"

"Sit down," Ascy said as Win got up from the couch. "You, too, Weston. What happened to you?"

"Oh, we chased someone we thought was Win," Jeff said, "in the meadows over by the Mill Road. Wes landed in the creek, and I hit a mud hole. It seems we were chasing a perfectly good tourist. We don't think he recognized us. And what Sara'll say to my clothes. I hate to think."

"Look here, Ascy," Weston said, "what's all this? What's the matter with Win?"

"Win's been honorably wounded in the service of the town," Ascy said, "an' he's herewith bein' excused from any more paradin' whatsoever."

"That's right," Win said complacently. "Won't go back."

"But he's got to!" Weston said. "Don't you see, tomorrow he's on the radio program! It's his town day, and he's going to read a piece about the town when he was a boy. He's the oldest inhabitant, you know. An'—"

"Won't," Win said.

"Lost his temper," Weston said. "We have this settled, and you—"

"No," Ascy said. "Nope, Weston Win is through."

"Well then," Weston said, producing a trumpet. "If he doesn't go on the radio, you'll have to!"

Ascy drew a deep breath. "Oh—oh, well. All right. But I'll speak my own piece."

Continued tomorrow.

Wake Forest And Duke Meet Tomorrow Afternoon

WILL DEDICATE STADIUM HERE

Event Sponsored By Junior Chamber Of Commerce

In case you don't know it tomorrow will be a big day in Greenville. The town will be decorated, bands will play and everyone in general will take on a holiday atmosphere. The big event we are referring to is the baseball game between the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest and the Blue Devils of Duke University. These teams will square off at 3:30 in Guy Smith Stadium and giving an eye for an eye and tooth for a tooth will fight their way through nine hectic innings until one has gained a victory. The one that gains that victory will more than likely be crowned "Southern Conference Champs".

Festivities will get under way at 12:30 with a luncheon at the Proctor Hotel in honor of the coaching staff of both schools, visiting sports writers, and high officials of the WPA.

Duke officials attending the luncheon will be: Jack Coombs, baseball coach, Hershel Caldwell, freshman coach "Dumpy" Haster, head line coach of football, Jerry Gerard, director of intramural athletics and Davton Dean, business manager of athletics at Duke and brother to "Chubby" Dean of the Philadelphia Athletics who needs no introduction. Wake Forest coaches and officials expected to attend are Coach John Caddell, head baseball coach, "Pea-head" Walker, head football coach, Jim Weaver, athletic director, and Al Downton, business manager of athletics. Among the visiting sports writers will be Dick Herbert of the Rocky Mount Evening Telegram, and Anthony J. McKelvin, No. 1 sports editor of the Raleigh News and Observer. Heading the WPA officials will be Mr. C. C. McGinnis, who only recently succeeded George Coan as head of WPA activities in North Carolina.

Following the luncheon there will be a parade which will be a honey. We are not going to tell you about it, you will have to come out and see it for yourself. It starts promptly at 1:30 beginning at the courthouse and going through the center of the town out Dickinson Avenue to the stadium.

Of special interest to Greenville fans will be the fact that the Duke right fielder is none other than Carl Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Preston Pierce of this city. Carl, a local boy, is a Greenville high school alumnus, having started there in three sports before entering college. His last year he won the Dixon trophy given annually to the best athlete in school. Carl is a sophomore at Duke and in his first year of varsity baseball has clinched a berth on Coach Jack Coombs' present Blue Devil nine. In seven games he has compiled a batting average of .420—three of his hits being home runs.

Yesterday against Davidson Carl's home run practically sewed up the ball game. Duke won 16 to 8. All of his friends and supporters will be pulling for him Saturday when he goes up against the slants of Rae Scarborough, by far the toughest pitcher he will face all year. Incidentally Carl is the only boy that

BITTER BATTLE IN VIEW HERE

Wake and Duke Coaches Regarded Best in Land

The game tomorrow will enable the fans of this section to see a bitterly contested battle. There will be no love lost when umpire Lou Kearney tosses out the first ball and Rae Scarborough takes his wind-up to pitch to Tom Gaddy, Duke lead-off man and centerfielder.

This will start the game which will more than likely decide the supremacy of the State and Southern Conference, and if you don't think the Deacons and Blue Devils will fight each other like Dempsey and Tunney fought in their meeting—then you just haven't been keeping up with your college baseball. Especially should the fans take note of the different style play of both coaches.

Considered the two finest in the land, nevertheless their offenses are different. Coombs believes in playing for a big inning and very seldom will you ever see his team bunt and play for one run. Caddell on the other hand, believes in getting the jump on his rival and if he can score the first run, together with his pitching and infield strength, he believes his chances of winning are 80 to 20 over its opponent. Don't be surprised at anything that these "old boys" might pull, for they are noted for pulling the unexpected at the right moment.

If the weather is pretty Saturday the local Jaycees believe that all time attendance records will be smashed, but one thing is that Guy Smith stadium will be able to comfortably accommodate the crowd, no matter how many there might be.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 14.—(AP)—Although selling was exceptionally light, leading stocks backed down on three points in today's market. Mild support occasionally halted the draggy decline and near the fourth hour prices were above the lows in many cases. Trading sentiment apparently was dimmed considerably by renewed weakness of securities at London, Paris and Amsterdam, where offerings were attributed to fresh apprehension over European war dangers.

Officers Destroy Five Liquor Stills

Pitt, Beaufort and Martin county ABC officers have been working together this week in an effort to check the supply of illegal liquor flowing in Eastern Carolina. Five stills have been destroyed during the week, four being in Martin county and one in Pitt. Officers expressed the belief a large percentage of the bootleg liquor sold in Pitt is manufactured outside the county. The one still destroyed in Pitt was in Belvoir township. It was a 25-gallon capacity outfit. In addition to the still, which was not in operation, the officers destroyed 50 gallons of mash. None of the five stills was in operation and no one was found at either.

One of the still found in Martin county was just across the Pitt line, near highway No. 11. In all, the officers destroyed 1,650 gallons of mash at the five stills. The attendance was usually large, there being 75 to 100 Doctors present. Upon invitation of the Carteret County Medical Society it was decided to have the next semi-annual meeting at Atlantic Beach, some time during the month of June.

City Court Hears Two Wreck Cases Today

Of the three cases tried in Municipal court this morning, two grew out of traffic collisions. Carl Langley was acquitted, but Lorenzo Hyman, Negro, was found guilty of violating a traffic ordinance and was taxed with the costs of court in one case. Hyman appealed, however, and bond was set at $50. Jim Buck, who also was involved in a wreck, was convicted of driving drunk and was fined $50, taxed with the court costs and ordered to pay damages of $27.66 to the driver of the other car involved in the accident. His driving license was ordered suspended for 12 months. The defendant appealed and Judge L. C. Skinner recommended that his license be suspended during the appeal. William Leggett, negro, was convicted of drunkenness and given a 30-day sentence, suspended upon payment of the court costs.

Salisbury Lawyer Killed In Accident

Wilmington, April 14.—(AP)—John Y. Randleman, Jr., an attorney of Salisbury was almost instantly killed near Maco early this morning when a car driven by a man of officers identified as G. L. Long 19, left the highway and overturned in a ditch. Long, formerly of Salisbury and now a resident of this city, was slightly hurt. His uncle R. E. Long third occupant of the car, also received cuts and bruises.

Mrs. C. A. White, sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Green, and Mrs. Lay, her mother; Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president of the Woman's Club; Mrs. Travis Hooker, president of the Garden Club, and Mrs. L. C. Arthur, club representative from End of the Century Club.

Vester M. Mulholland, Richard G. Walker and Miss Deanie Boone Haskett, English critic teachers of the high school, and Misses Lena Ellis and Madeline Byrum, and Clifton Britton, of the college, were also guests. Others of the hosts and hostesses were Miss Mary Greene, Miss Lois Grigsby, Mr. Denver E. Baughan, with Mrs. Baughan, and Dr. N. M. Posey with Mrs. Posey. After the address, a reception was held at the Woman's Club in honor of the visitors.

HEAR ADDRESS PAUL GREEN

(Continued from Page One) genius, presented Mr. Green as one calling forth pride for both reasons, as a genius that North Carolina feels is her own. After a number of selections by the E. C. T. C. orchestra, under the direction of A. Dittmer, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president of the Woman's Club, introduced the presiding officer of the evening elected by the literary clubs, Mrs. L. C. Arthur, of the End of the Century Club, who presented President Meadows. "Men have to live by their dreams and aspirations," said Mr. Green. A country must have its own poets, painter, musicians, dramatists; but this country has not yet produced them.

Then reading a selection from his own writings which showed in poetic way the struggle of man in America to conquer the wilderness and win the opportunity to live in freedom, he suggested that struggle probably explained the failure to produce great arts, but made clear also his opinion that "our opportunity is here and the time is now" for such development. "We in the South have an opportunity to lead the way," said the speaker. "Why should our poets and musicians have to go to another section to find recognition?" he asked, turning to read from the preface of his most recent book "Out of the South," to illustrate his point.

Mr. Green went on to sketch his dream of whole-hearted community participation in the arts, with "an outdoor theatre and your own dramatics here" and "a great outdoor theatre in the Carolina mountains" giving expression to the folk art of the people there, and leading through noble expression of great artists up to God. Do we not see that in ancient Greece? he inquired. There the people expressed their longings and aspirations, Homer put them into noble poetry, Aeschylus translated them into lofty drama, and Plato took all that and worked out a great philosophy of man's relation to God. Speaking of his unwillingness to let Hollywood or Broadway set the standards for the South, he gave a surprise twist to his topic "Hollywood and Broadway" by referring to our "first great democratic art medium," the moving picture camera, and expressing his regret at the way it has been debauched at its making cheap and shoddy and easy that which should be hard, glorious in life. "I hope," he said, "that will not happen to the radio." In concluding, Mr. Green reiterated his first statement—"We have all the material for our own great arts right here, if we will but encourage and support their development." Before the program Mr. and Mrs. Green were entertained at dinner by the English department of East Carolina Teachers College, with President Meadows as host and Misses Mamie E. Jenkins, Lucile Turner and Emma Hooper as committee representing the department. Other guests of honor were Mr. and

Virginia Physician In Address To Session

The meeting of the Second District Medical Society was held at the Greenville Country Club last night, Dr. N. T. Ennett, president, presiding.

The scientific program was of a high order and well received. Dr. B. R. Tucker of Richmond, Va., spoke of some advancements in the treatment of the mentally ill, and cited, as an example, the improvement in the case of a mental disorder known as dementia praecox. He stated that whereas under the old treatment there was about 25 per cent of cures under the new treatment about 65 per cent cured.

Dr. T. W. M. Long, State Senator declared that the law requiring a health certificate as a prerequisite of marriage and the law requiring diphtheria vaccination were the biggest steps preventative medicine had taken in this or any other State.

The attendance was usually large, there being 75 to 100 Doctors present.

Successor Chosen To Senator Lewis

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—(AP)—Governor Henry Horner today appointed Chairman James M. Slatery of the Illinois Commerce Commission to the United States Senate to succeed the late James Hamilton Lewis.

Slatery, 60-year-old Chicago attorney, had been a close personal and political friend of the governor for a quarter century. He managed the 1936 and 1938 campaigns of Governor Horner's democratic organization in Cook county. The senatorial appointment is effective immediately and is for the period until the general election in 1940. Lewis died suddenly last Sunday in Washington.
