WELSH GUARDS WILL BE SENT TO GIBRALTAR

Great Britain A... Strengthen Defense of Key Center

CONCERNED OVER ITALIAN TROOPS

Announcement Coincides with Diplomatic Consultations Over Military Moves

London, April 15.—(AP)—The War Office announced today that the first battalion of the Welsh Guards regiment would be sent to Gibraltar "on or after April 22," to strengthen the defenses of that key center of British armed might in the Mediterranean.

President Roosevelt's Washington peace appeal was communicated today to the King, Prime Minister and other leaders of Great Britain.

(Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, spending the week-end at Windsor Castle as the guest of the British sovereign, was understood to have told King George VI. of the appeal.)

The War office announcement coincided with Anglo-French diplomatic consultations said to have arisen from anxiety over reported concentrations of Italian troops in Spanish Morocco and of Spanish troops and war material in the Spanish mainland near Gibraltar.

British diplomats sought further extension of a grand alliance against totalitarian expansion sponsored by Britain and France by efforts to enlist Soviet Russia's huge air force.

At Gibraltar defense booms to both entrances to Admiralty harbor were swung into position.

Putting teeth into defense plans of the stronghold guarding the western inlet to the Mediterranean, British troops also erected additional barricades to guard the "rock from any possible invasion by land.

The measures were taken as the concentration of troops and war materials was reported continuing in neighboring ports of Spain.

A large part of the German fleet is to maneuver on a month's cruise in the neighborhood of Gibraltar beginning Tuesday.

Superior Session Begins On Monday

Approximately eighty cases are on the Superior court docket as a two weeks' session of that tribunal prepares to open here Monday morning with Judge Clawson L. Williams of Sanford, presiding.

The calendar, released earlier this week by Solicitor D. M. Clark listed 77 cases for trial and, in addition, showed 11 cases awaiting action by the grand jury and subject to be called any time during the session.

A few have been sent up to the higher court since the calendar was made up.

County court will be in recess during the two weeks the Superior term is being conducted.

Work Progressing On Hatteras Park

Raleigh, April 15.—(AP)—Work on the Hatteras National Seashore park will begin within six months, the State Department of Conservation and Development said today.

An appropriation of $20,000, will speed the work of a commission created by the 1939 General Assembly to acquire land for the recreation area.

Available for development within six months. About 7,000 acres has been acquired and the park service has indicated it will begin extensive work upon the receipt of an additional 10,000 acres. A maximum of about 62,000 acres of shore line will be sought.

Preliminary surveys and beach erosion work already has been done.

Elizabeth City Man Pronounced Suicide

Elizabeth City, April 15.—(AP)—Coroner J. B. Ferbee pronounced "suicide" this morning the death of George Leigh White, 63-year-old Okisko farmer, who was found dangling by a cotton rope around his neck.

He was found at 8:30 by his 12-year-old daughter, Eva White. Dr. W. A. Hogard said White choked to death.

No reason could be ascertained for the suicide as White was in comparatively good health and had no debts.

Surviving besides his widow and daughter are five sons, one brother and two grandchildren. Funeral plans are incomplete.

AXIS MEMBERS ARRANGE TALK

Hitler and Mussolini To Confer On FDR Proposal

Berlin, April 15.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler was reported today to have rushed from his mountain home to Munich on receipt of President Roosevelt's peace appeal and to have summoned his Foreign Secretary, Von Ribbentrop to meet him there.

Telephone calls to the mountain home also disclosed that Hitler's chief collaborators, including Otto Dietrich, the Reich's press chief, had gone to Munich with him.

Before Germany will make known its reactions to the Roosevelt appeal, a spokesman said, "we must first confer with our axis partner"—Italy.

In informed circles it was assumed that Hitler and Premier Mussolini had been or soon would be in telephone communication with each other concerning the appeal, with Hitler's chief lieutenant, Field Marshal Goering, probably sitting at Mussolini's side. "He is in Rome for conference with Il Duce."

It was learned recently that telephone arrangements had been set up so that Hitler and Mussolini could reach each other at any time within three minutes.

State Probation Cases Reach Peak Last Month

Raleigh, April 15.—New cases reached a peak in North Carolina during March, when Tar Heels judges placed a total of 179 probationers under supervision of the Probation Commission.

As a result Director Harry Sample's division had on its list a total of 1703 active cases at the close of the seventeenth month of its operation since established by action of the 1937 legislature.

In all a total of 1931 persons have been placed on probation in the 17 months, but 228 of them have been separated from the list for various reasons.

Increase of new cases to a new high in March was only a continuation of the trend which has been steadily manifest. Director Sample said, "Almost every month has seen an increase over the preceding period as judges throughout the state have become more and more acquainted with the benefits and workings of the system.

Classified as to race the 179 March probationers were divided: White, 113 males, 7 females; Negroes, 31 males, 6 females; Indian, 1 male; not specified, 19 male, 2 female.

Indicative of the constant upward trend in new cases is the record of new cases during the past six months: October 98, November 117, December 128, January 120, February 149, March 179. Only one month, January, showed a decrease and that was a trifling one.

Mr. Sample pointed out that the average probation sentence is for two and one-half years and added that the number of active cases on the division's list is certain to increase until a point is reached where expiration of probationary sentences will approximately balance the number of new probationers. This "saturation" point will be reached about the first of next year, well in the division's third year of existence, he estimates.

The probation director is especially proud of the record of revocations made during the life of his

ORDERS FLEET TO RETURN TO HOME WATERS

U.S. Sea Force Called Back to Pacific Waters

NO EXPLANATION OF SUDDEN MOVE

Presumably Means Cancellation of Formal Review at Norfolk and at N.Y. Fair

Washington, April 15.—(AP)—The navy unexpectedly ordered the fleet back to the Pacific today.

On the heels of President Roosevelt's appeal to Hitler and Mussolini announced that "when fueled" the fleet, with the exception of a small force, would return to "normal operating areas in the Pacific."

There was no official explanation. Naval circles were quick to comment, however, the move tended to restore the world balance of naval power upset when the armada moved into the Atlantic in January for a five-months stay, leaving only a small force on the west coast.

The sudden order presumably meant cancellation of a formal review off the Virginia Capes April 27 and also the scheduled visit to the New York World's Fair.

Meanwhile Senators disputed as to whether Mr. Roosevelt's latest public utterance indicated he would run for a third term in case general war breaks out, or some other crisis develops, before the presidential nominating convention next year.

Standing on the porch of George Washington's home at Mount Vernon yesterday afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt spoke of the first President as a man who sacrificed his own desires by accepting the presidency "in a time of real crisis and deep emergency."

Besides his father, the young boy is survived by one sister, Miss Christine Virginia Speight of Oak City.

Complaints Heard On Chicken Coops

J. T. Welch, Greenville city sanitary inspector, today said that while last week's clean-up campaign was a success in many respects, he finds that many of the householders overlooked the chicken coop matter.

He says complaints are coming in from citizens who say they can not sit in their own back yards on account of the foul odor which comes from the neighbor's filthy chicken coop. He invites others to phone in their complaints to him at the Health department, phone 130.

Mr. Welch states that such unclean chicken coops are a distinct nuisance and that such a nuisance is a violation of both the city ordinance and the state law.

Attention is called to the fact that aside from the matter of sanitation it would be to the interest of the housewife to clean out the chicken coops and use the manure as fertilizer for her flowers.

Mr. Welch further states that he expects to continue inspection of back yards until all chicken coops are cleaned out and he hopes that the citizens will cooperate in such a way that no one will have to be brought into court.

South Solving Her Problems Babson Optimistic On Southern Industries

Savannah, Ga., April 15.—After a winter spent in the South it is hard to be pessimistic on this section even though cotton is selling for only eight cents a pound! Far from being Economic Problem No. One, I think the South is Possibility No. One of the United States. Eliminate freight rate differentials, speed up diversification of the farms, utilize the water-power developments, and Dixie can lift the United States into a period of business prosperity!

The South is making huge progress each year. The fastest growing states in the Union are nearly all in the South. Texas, Florida, Louisiana, the Carolinas are boosting their populations about three times as fast as the North. Literally hundreds of communities that were unheard of ten years ago are thriving towns today. Every one of the chief cities in the United States whose populations have doubled since 1920 is below the Mason-Dixon Line!

Has One-Quarter of Industry The story of the South's industrial growth is even more sensational. More than half the new factory development of the entire country in recent years has been down here! Today, Dixie has over 25 per cent of the manufacturing establishments of the United States! And they keep mushrooming up everywhere. Northern concerns continue to flow toward the Gulf, while entirely new industries are springing up all across the South. Reasonable labor costs, savings in fuel, nearness to raw materials, cheap power, low taxes, and water transportation are among the big sales points in

He was quoted as saying that 7 of the 12 directors have expressed themselves as opposed to the lease but, eight of the dozen being Hoy appointees, there is a disinclination to vote against the plan.

In this connection, records show that the whole 12 directors voted unanimously in favor of leasing the road several months ago. Recent discussion has not been on the principle of leasing, but on the identity of the lessees.

General official view in Raleigh is that the charges are so much poppycock. Failure to unload the unprofitable Mullet venture would, in their view, be absolutely unprofitable. They cannot conceive that change in operators could conceivably be scared off any steamship service in

Roosevelt Offers To Act As Mediator And Calls On Dictators To Insure Peace

NAVAL MIGHT WILL NOT PARADE IN THE ATLANTIC

Uncle Sam will not parade his naval might in a great review off the Virginia capes and at the New York World's fair as had been scheduled. CITES UNITY OF ITALY-ALBANIA

Count Ciano Declares Latest Coup Is Cemented

Rome, April 15.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Count Ciano declared today that no one could attempt to sever the new union of Italy and Albania without provoking terrific reactions from both peoples.

Also, Virginio Gayda, Fascism's chief newspaper spokesman, warned of an "acute, perhaps even explosive stage" in world events as the rest of the Italian press renewed attacks on France.

Gayda wrote in a newspaper that current conferences between Premier Mussolini and German Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's right-hand man, would make a new contribution to the system and activity of the Rome-Berlin axis.

He spoke of this in relation to "the present situation which is so burdened with events and imponderables."

Italy and Germany, he asserted were able to confront "the system of encirclement" with forces "powerful and, for the most part, equal and similar" to the "hybrid association" opposing them.

Mussolini told an Albanian delegation to Rome that their kingdom was now part of the Italian empire.

Your presence here marks the beginning of a new era for you people who are entering as equals the imperial community of Rome," Il Duce told them.

"The flag of Skanderbeg (Albania's national hero) which will fly tomorrow in all Italy beside the (Italian) tri-color will show you the sentiments which the Italians feel toward Albania."

TALK IS MADE BY MISS HALL

Lecture Part of Fine Arts Festival Program

"American Architecture, Roanoke to the Smokies" was the subject of an illustrated lecture by Miss Louise Hall of the Duke School of Art, last night as she spoke to the members of the Woman's Club and their many guests who thronged the club house for the occasion.

The lecture was part of the program of the Fine Arts Week being sponsored by the Greenville Woman's Club and cooperated in by practically all organizations of the city.

Miss Hall possesses a beautiful voice, perfect enunciation and a most charming personality. Though not a native North Carolinian, she is enthusiastic about the state and terms herself a "North Carolina zealot." "We have everything here in North Carolina," she said, "even gold and precious stones." Miss Hall's lecture concerned itself primarily with the telling of the story of architecture in North Carolina, the story of architecture in America with local variations, to suit the place and the people.

The speaker was aptly introduced by Mrs. S. M. Crisp, first vice-president of the Woman's Club, who after referring to "the spires of Oxford" and applying that phrase to the future spires of Duke, presented Miss Louise Hall of the Duke School of Art.

After the assembling of the audience, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, president of the Woman's Club, made a few interesting remarks concerning the annual Fine Arts Festival in Greenville and announcements in regard to the continuation of this week's

Hoey Silent On Charges Concerning Mullet Road

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, April 15.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey today had no comment to make on charges that plans to lease the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad (Mullet) Line have scared away two ship lines that had made plans for regular service to Morehead City.

The charges were made by an undisclosed "former member of the Morehead port commission."

"Of course I haven't any comment to make on it," said the Governor when shown newspaper clippings of the charges. "This is the first I've heard of anything like that."

Beyond that the Governor would go no further in specific, quotable comment, but he indicated quite clearly that he would be very glad to have the charges made publicly and aired before the Board of Directors of the Road, which will meet here with the Governor on April 20.

The anonymous "former director" had charged, in an article carried in the Goldsboro News-Argus that

PLEA IS SENT TO DICTATORS

Messages Transmitted to Hitler and Mussolini by President Offering To Serve As Intermediary for Communications Between Dictators and Other Countries

Washington, April 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has urged Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini to insure peace for a period of at least 10 years.

The chief executive disclosed at an unusual Saturday press conference today that he had transmitted messages to Hitler and Mussolini offering to act as "an intermediary" in communicating any offers for peace by Germany and Italy to other nations.

The President asked specifically whether Hitler and Mussolini were willing to give assurances that their armed forces would not attack a score of now independent nations.

"Such an assurance must apply not only to the present day," Mr. Roosevelt's message said, "but also to a future sufficiently long to give every opportunity to work by peaceful methods for a more permanent peace."

"I therefore suggest that you construe the word 'future' to apply to a minimum period of assured non-aggression—10 years at the least—a quarter of a century, if we dare look that far ahead."

"If such assurances are given by your government I will immediately transmit to the government of the nations I have named and I will simultaneously inquire whether, as I am reasonably sure, each of the nations enumerated above will in turn give like assurance for transmission to you."

The President specifically asked Hitler and Mussolini whether they would give assurances that their armed forces would not "attack or invade the territory or possessions of the following independent nations:

"Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium, Great Britain, Ireland, France, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Poland, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Russia, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey, Iraq, the Arabias, Syria, Palestine, Egypt and Iran."

The President said he would act as a "friendly intermediary" to transmit peace assurances from Hitler and Mussolini to other nations.

He added that if the reciprocal assurances for peace are given, then the nations of the world can begin discussions looking toward disarmament and the opening up of trade channels.

DAWN OF NEW DAY FOR HYDRAULIC MINING may bring a gold boom to land around Auburn, Cal., where this concrete barrier 155 feet high crosses the American river, as the first of a series of debris dams being built under the direction of army engineers. Before hydraulic mining was legislated out of existence in 1893 after years of strife between miners and farmers, it produced the bulk of the gold mined in California. The lake is intended as a settling basin for diggings unworked for years.

War and Navy Department have fought spoken for it but some of the khaki clad warriors further down the line in the War Department have fought ratification of the treaty from the beginning.

Their spokesman in the foreign relations committee is Senator Johnson of California. He is so suspicious that the present administration is trading away our essential safety for a mess of good neighbor politics that he leaves no stone unturned if he thinks there is a pernick under it which ought to be investigated.

Acquisition By Condemnation

Under the treaty of 1903 ratified 15 days after President Theodore Roosevelt took Panama as he himself put it, this country not only obtained rights to a 10-mile strip across the isthmus but kept also the right to use more Panama territory where needed. To get it, all that was necessary was to condemn it for public use, just as the Federal Government might do in the United States. That condition of "infringement" on Panama's sovereignty made the little republic simply a protectorate, especially when coupled with our independent right to take whatever steps were necessary for protection and enlargement of the canal.

That treaty remains in effect. It gives the United States, among other things, the right to use extra land outside the present zone where necessary for "auxiliary canals."

The new treaty waives some of these rights, although for practical purposes the "lost and found" over a sizeable area of territory is real.
For instance, under the old treaty the U. S. reserved the right to take whatever steps were necessary for the protection of the canal even if it impinged on Panama's sovereignty.
Under the proposed new treaty Panama would act jointly with the United States. If the U. S. proposed to take some action all by itself which might "affect the territory" under Panama's jurisdiction, it first would be required under the treaty to consult the Panama government.

Act First, Ask Later

Army officers, questioned about the thing, have said that if the safety of the canal required any prompt action they would not first ask and consult afterward as the safety of the canal is too vital to the security of Panama and the U. S. to take any chances.

The treaty was put forward three years ago as part of the program of rebuilding the good neighbor policy. It did not look so good for the country to hold on to its protectorate over the republic even though everybody knows that there would not have been any republic of Panama if it had not been for the impudence of the U. S. back in 1903 to get a right of way without too much dilly-dallying with Colombia.

Now that we have the canal, say some army folk it is foolish to let even good neighbor treaties get in the way of its protection. And since anything that remotely smells of danger to the canal or danger to the right to build a sister canal—amounts into huge proportion these days, the treaty is being shunted aside for other matters.

Last session it was reported out by the committee but the Senate never acted on it. When the session ended it went back to committee—and there it lies and lies.

Key Convalesces
"AND WIN," Weston continued, "was going to get paid ten dollars for broadcasting on the radio. What do you think of that, Win? Ten dollars?"

"Got more'n that'n pocket right now," Win returned airily. "Got m'poll tax, an' enough to live six months on. Keep y'ten dollars."

His tone indicated that ten dollars was so much pig feed.

Jeff laughed. "I admire his spunk. Let him off, Weston. Asey's right. Enough is enough. Don't you agree, Brinley?"

"No," Brinley said. "No! He's had more care and attention lately than he's had in years, and what thanks do we get for it?"

"You can put me up in front of that tin pan on a broomstick," Win referred to the microphone, "but I guess you're right, you can't leave a boss to water, but even he won't drink the stuff."

Asey and Jeff chuckled.

"Consistent," Jeff said. "That angle Suppose Win decides to give some unexpurgated anecdotes over the air. That is very definitely something to think about."

"I'll tell 'em," Win promised. "I'll tell 'em," he wagged a long forefinger at Brinley, "you an' that girl I seen you, while y'wife was stuck up in the wheel. I seen the two of ye, out b'hind that tent! I seen what y' was up to 'N I'll tell."

There was fortunately a chair behind Brinley, and he collapsed into it.

"It's a lie!" He tried to speak out manfully, but his voice turned out to be a hoarse whisper. "It's a lie!"

"Lie nothin'," Win returned. "I seen you, makin' up to her. Seen it all. Girl the feller throws knives at, Farrner. Eye-talian, or some thin'."

"So that," Asey said, "was where you was, durin' the ferris wheel fun? Just frolickin' huh? J' Arthur; it's lucky for ye he told We couldn't seem to get you placed an' believe me when I say you was goin' sooner or later, to be run through the mill until we did find out where you was."

"I'll resign," Brinley said. "I'll resign. Only—don't let Bessie! Don't let Bessie know! Bessie wouldn't forgive me, ever! And it was just—just a—only—I mean—"

"Just what?"

"Oh, I'll resign! Bessie said when I first went into politics, that a slip would mar—I know it means the end of my career. And I did want," Brinley said plaintively, "to go to the state legislature!"

Asey looked at Jeff, who nodded.

"Come, come, Arthur," Jeff said soothingly, "be one knows but us here, and look—come along home. Wee, you come too. You've got to settle about the tags for tomorrow, Brinley, and your accounts. Come on. Forget this. Asey, you take care of Win, will you? We'll explain it officially as a bad cold, and perhaps native pride'll keep the town folks from telling what they'll know has happened."

"And don't forget," Weston said to Asey, "about the radio!"

Dr. Cummings watched the selectmen leave and then wandered back into the living room.

"Sometimes," he said, "I wonder how governments exist. If a mid-way girl that gets thrown knives at can cause a flurry like this in town—well, well! What about Win?"

"Chicken Bones"

"SYL can take care of him over at my gunnin' shack," Asey said, "until his shoulder's all right. What're your plans for winter, Win?"

"I been spendin' winters lately," Win said, "up to Philbrick's big barn. Got me a stove off the dump, the kind you stick into the electricity, an' I tell you, it's mighty fine up there. Keep good'n warm."

"So that," Cummings said, "is why the General is suing the light company for winter bills! Asey, we'll have to solve some problems for Win."

Asey nodded. "We will, Now, Win, this feller Hamilton's takin' you away, an' you're going to stay at my shack with Syl. Know Syl? Nate's grandson. Hang around there till I come, will you? An' don't you wander away, either, 'cause someone might bring you back here. Will you stay there?"

"Wonder, Win said, "can be play in-low Jack! Nate could."

"He is probably," Asey said, "the finest player in the country. Now, Win, will you b'have, sort of?"

Win smiled as he got up from the couch. "Gramma allus said, do unto others as you're done by. Gonna m't'becca."

EXPECT STATE TO INTERVENE

Probably Take Hand in High Point Power Row

Raleigh, April 14.—Intervention by the State of South Carolina in the High Point municipal power plant controversy seems so likely as to be almost certain, though no official announcement has been made and no official views can be quoted directly as assuring it.

Nevertheless, when the Governor has gone as far as to say without the slightest sign of equivocation that he is "definitely and absolutely opposed to yielding control of the Yadkin river to the Federal government" and when one of the issues of the double-edged court controversy is the right of the Federal Power Commission to issue a license giving High Point the power to condemn lands in Yadkin county; it takes no son of a seventh son, nor yet a crystal gazer to come up with the logical answer to the question "Will the State intervene?"

Governor Clyde R. Hoey is discussing the matter stressed the idea that he does not want to get into the basic merits of the controversy, which involves the age-old problem of government against private operation of utilities; and emphasized that the only grounds for intervention would be protection of the State's claims to control of the Yadkin, (as a non-navigational stream) as opposed to the theory of the Federal Power Company that the river is navigable and hence under Federal jurisdiction.

Nevertheless the practical effect of State intervention would be to align all the powers of North Carolina on the side of the Duke Power Company which has fought the High Point hydro-electric project which involves the State's claims to control of the Yadkin, (as a non-navigational stream) as opposed to the theory of the Federal Power Company that the river is navigable and hence under Federal jurisdiction.

There are now pending two court actions—one brought in Yadkin county on the theory that High Point has no power to condemn land for the project, the other in Guilford, brought by High Point citizens and tax payers who contend that their interests would be disregarded.

Preston Glover Explains Debate Over Neutrality

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—It will help in understanding the present neutrality debate in Washington to narrow the field down to the main points of conflict.

Congress is agreed, and probably the whole country, that the main purpose of any such legislation is to keep the country out of war. Members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, now conducting a hearing, as well as their two major witnesses so far, Bernard Baruch and Former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, all agreed to that.

They all agree also that no one plan so far advanced has all the right answers. Complete repeal of the legislation, as tentatively favored by Senator Johnson, throws the country back where we were in 1917. Johnson concedes that. As a practical matter as well, it is almost impossible to repeal the whole neutrality legislation. Too much support for some variety of such legislation has been built up in recent years.

The Principal Issues.

Then come the major points at issue:

1. Shall the United States, immediately upon the outbreak of the war, prohibit American ships to carry supplies to belligerent nations? The net effect of such legislation would be to permit warring nations to come to the United States with their own ships, buy supplies, and get them home if they could. U. S. ships would be kept out of the war zone. That is the point of Senator Pittman's bill and he concedes its present purpose is to permit such nations as England and France to get supplies, while Germany and Italy, blocked up by superior naval powers, could get nothing.

2. Should the President, subject to congressional approval, be permitted to name the aggressor nation in event of war and shut off supplies to such aggressor? The Thomas bill says yes.

3. Must the President, be required by legislation to refuse U. S. military supplies to all nations at war, regardless of whether, as in the case of Japan and China, this means disaster to a weaker nation and the possible strengthening of a potential enemy to the U. S.? Yes, says the Nye bill. This somewhat harshly simplifies the purport of each bill, but the essence is there.

Hughes Spry at 77

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes was 77 years old April 11 and on his anniversary he went for a sprightly walk with his cane swinging at his side. Recovered from an attack of grippe, he said he expected to continue his work as presiding officer of the Supreme court.

Stimson favored the Thomas bill—No. 2. He disliked the feature in it requiring the President to have consent of Congress before shutting off supplies to an aggressor nation. He believed the President should have authority to act independently in that direction if he considered it the best means of preserving the security of the United States. Senator Thomas himself was of that frame of mind, but injected the requirement for congressional approval as a means of abating opposition of those who disliked giving the President such blanket authority.

Baruch favored the Pittman bill—No. 1. He conceded that it gave advantage to powers with big navies because they could come to the U. S. for supplies without having to depend on U. S. ships to carry them. He agreed that it favored England and France in any war in Europe because they could bottle up the totalitarian states, yet have their own ships free to transport U. S. goods. Nevertheless, he said, it was his belief, based on his service as war industries chairman during the World War, that this method of letting nations know in advance what position the U. S. would take would be the best way to keep the U. S. from being accused of taking sides in a war. Moreover, it would keep U. S. ships out of the war zone.

He agreed with Senator Borah that it had the disadvantage of sacrificing U. S. rights to trade at sea. As to the Nye bill it is the "complete hands off" measure. Its supporters say the U. S. will be safest when war comes if it simply backs away from the war, let the outcome be what it may. It has solid support of the midwestern isolationists.

GREENIES WIN OVER COLLEGE

Pound Three Hurlers To Score 20-2 Verdict

By JAMES WHITFIELD
Rube Wilson's Greenies reached three East Carolina Teachers College hurlers for 23 safeties to score a 20-2 verdict over the Pirates in a seven-inning exhibition game in the Guy Smith park here yesterday afternoon.

Coach Gilbert's boys scored their runs in the first inning when Floyd Hinton singled, scoring Lester Ridenhour who singled, and Norman Mayo's fielder's choice, scoring Joe Hatem who walked.

Rube's boys scored in every inning except the sixth. Bill Weigand, first-sacker of Louisville, Ky., poled a homer over the right field wall with one on in the fifth verse. He also got a double and single for a perfect day. Hoodie Briggs, who hurled four innings for the Greenies, hit a round-tripper over the right field wall in the second. He allowed five hits. Bowers, the other hurler, gave up two safeties.

David Brece, Pirate first-sacker, got two hits for two trips to lead the Pirates' hitting. Charles Futrell, Pirate centerfielder, got two hits for three trips. Phillips, Wells and Roebuck hurled for the Pirates.

LOCAL HURLER RIPLEY TOPIC BIG FIVE GAME NEW FOR CITY

King Was Hero in One of Baseball's Wildest Games First Time Conference Contest Ever Played Here

It may not be generally known, but Don King, the veteran pitcher who had such a fine record with Greenville last summer, was the hero of one of the wildest games of ball in modern history. It was so unique that it was recorded in one of Bob Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" cartoons.

Folks up in Atlantic, Ia., the King homestead, still talk about that game which was a high school battle between Atlantic and Griswold. It may be something of a shock to state that the score was 109 to 6, in favor of Atlantic, but it may as well be told here as hereafter.

It was a no-hit game for the veteran Greenville chunker who was on the hill for Atlantic. But that fact was almost lost in the torrent of runs that swept across the pay station.

That bit of pitching should have been enough for a high school boy in one day, but it wasn't. King collected 15 hits in 17 times at bat, believe it or not. He scored 15 runs and stole 19 bases. That was a full season's work for some pitchers.

The game should be mentioned among the seven wonders of the world, even if it is hard to swallow. But don't try to argue down any of the Atlantic citizens, for they were all there and they saw the works. Some 5,000 of them will drag out a flock of records that will make you choke on your words if you doubt the authenticity of the game.

King entered Drake University after high school and was a star athlete. He broke into professional ball with Lincoln in 1932 and has been around pretty well since then, climbing as high as the Texas League. He may win hundreds of ball games before he quits, but that one Atlantic victory will always stand out on his slate. He's a brother of Outfielder Lynn King of the St. Louis Cardinals.

PHANTOMS WIN LATE IN GAME

Overcome 9-0 Lead and Defeat Goldsboro 14-11

By "SMUT" BURKS
After trailing 9-0 for four innings, Coach Bo Farley's hard-hitting baseball nine of G. H. S. turned on the heat and scored fourteen runs in the next four innings, to turn back Goldsboro's Eastern Conference diamond entry, at the Third Street Park yesterday.

Paul Flye started on the mound for the victors but was relieved in the fourth after yielding five hits and nine runs. Bill Taylor, Flye's successor, pitched nice ball the rest for the game, allowing only 3 runs to the opposition.

Goldsboro staged a four-run rally in the first and third and apparently put the game on ice. Pate and Triplett were the big guns in these spurts. The Quakes outthrew the Greenies 14 to 11 over the whole game.

However, the rampaging G-Men decided to take matters in their own hands, and as a result of timely base hits by Taylor, McGowan, Stocks and Williams chalked up 3 markers in the fifth frame and then sent eight more runs scurrying across the plate in the seventh inning.

After the visiting Earthquakes knotted things up at 11-11 by tallying a run in the eighth, the Farley-men set off the final spurt and collected the game-winning runs in their half of the eighth.

After the first four innings the game was a thriller and had all the spectators on edge. During Greenville's eight run rally the fans hollered themselves hoarse.

McGowan, with two singles; Taylor, with a triple and double; Williams, with two three baggers, and Stocks, with a triple and single, were the locals' chief clouters. Stocks' brilliant work in left field was also outstanding as was his hitting.

For the losers P. Pate was best at the plate, banging out a triple, double and single. Triplett ranked next with three one-baggers. Score R. H. E. Goldsboro... 404 100 110—11 14 7 Greenville... 000 03083x—14 11 5 Batteries: Grant, Rogers and King—Flye, Taylor and Williams.

The Greenies' roster is about complete now and Skipper Rube Wilson is getting his first string lineup in shape for the opening league game, April 27, less than two weeks off.

(Continued from Page One) division. Only 145 probation sentences have been revoked, which makes the percentage of revocations slightly less than seven and a half. Other reasons for dropping probationers from the active list have been: Inactive (left North Carolina and transferred to supervision of other states, etc.); died; 3; terminated; ended when it was found the probationer was in fact a juvenile and not subject to the system, and similar causes; 9; cancelled (sentence struck out as improperly ordered, etc.); 7; expired 42. Of the 1931 probationary sentences imposed since setting up the division November 1, 1937, 1,073, or approximately 55 per cent, were imposed by superior court judges; 858 by recorder and county court judges. For the first year of probation in North Carolina the average of new cases was 102, while for the same five months of its second year the average has jumped to 138 a month, and all indications are that the average will go still higher. Mr. Sample believes that so far probation has been a tremendous success in North Carolina. Probation officers throughout the state are getting better and better cooperation as time goes on, he points out. Community organizations are more willing to assist in supervision as they become better acquainted with the workings of probation. The director is especially proud of the fact that jobs have been found for approximately 500 of the probationers. The exact figures on this important angle were not immediately available.

SOUTH SOLVING HER PROBLEMS (Continued from page one) the South's spectacular growth. Latest news industry is newspaper. The first mill is under construction in Texas. It may be the forerunner of a southward trek of northern and Canadian newspaper mills. Slash pine is the raw material. It grows three times as fast as northern spruce. Other branches of the paper industry—particularly kraft—are going strong in Dixie. The southern chemical business is growing by leaps and bounds. Textile mills continue to multiply. Seventy per cent of our rayon output comes from the South. The center of the booming petroleum business is in the South.

Steel Industry To Grow The end of the so-called "basing-point" price system for steel should help all southern industry. Once it was just as cheap to buy a ton of Pittsburgh-made steel delivered at Birmingham as it was to buy a ton of Birmingham-made steel. Now, the ton of southern steel is cheaper. Hence, foundries, forges, stamping mills, and other metal fabricators that have concentrated around northern steel towns will find it advantageous to have branch factories near the southern steel industry. All winter, Birmingham steel mills were much busier than those in the North.

Present freight rates are unfair to the South. Smash up these rates and the products of southern factories and farms can be laid down at northern doors at a real saving to consumers. If we believe in the gradual lowering of world trade barriers, we ought to eliminate such barriers within our own borders. Present freight rate differentials amount to a tariff on southern products. The biggest boon to the South now would be the changing of these rates.

King Cotton Dethroned? The problem which has plagued Dixie for years—dependence on one crop—is on its way to solution. Diversification of farms is speeding up. Low feed costs are stimulating livestock raising and dairy farming. Meanwhile, chemists are finding industrial uses for new crops such as soy-beans, tung trees, and sweet potatoes, and for older crops such as cotton, tobacco, and peanuts. Hence, while King Cotton is a mighty sick man, the southern agricultural outlook is very bright.

Among the South's greatest assets are her water-power resources. The T.V.A. development is a great thing. If it is administered wisely and fairly, the huge power surplus should be completely utilized. Air-conditioning has played a big part in recent southern growth and stimulated by cheap power, will continue to do so. We hear much about low wages in Dixie. People overlook the fact, however, that living costs in the South are very cheap. A house costing $5,000 to build in New England can be put up in the South for about $3,500 and can be heated for about $50 per year less. Food—particularly farm produce—sells for a song. After lower living costs are considered, southern wages are not too far out of line.

Great Future For Young People Certainly, if I were a young man I would come down here in the South to "seek my fortune." We need more trained men here. Why stay in New York, Philadelphia or Boston and starve when you can come down here where you can live comfortably and where you are really needed? Today, for instance, 9 of the 18 states which are rated as excellent business territories on my sales map are in the South! Get in on the ground floor of this southern

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 15—(AP)—Paint peace hopes once more revived Wall street sentiment today and the stock market put on a rally of one to around four points. Early reports President Roosevelt had made a plea to Hitler and Mussolini to halt the string of war crises that has been disturbing international business and industry served to prop prices at the start. Bonds trailed stocks. The turnover was about 600,000 shares.

TALK IS MADE BY MISS HALL

(Continued on page five) program. Mrs. Moore then presented the presiding officer of the evening, Mrs. S. M. Crisp, who, in turn introduced Miss Hall. "During the years of striving for a foothold on the land, the colonial builders modified the types of architecture they had known at home in England and elsewhere, to suit the conditions of a new country. "With increasing prosperity, cultivated amateurs essayed strict imitation of English Georgian examples on a small scale by means of architectural books sent out from home, thus getting greater uniformity in buildings in various sections. "The consciousness of independent nationality after the Revolution turned the thoughts of individual architects to the styles of the ancient republics for architectural expression, and leisure for historical and literary interests added to the Roman and Greek revivals the revival of the Gothic. "The War between the States" and industrial expansion smothered all the styles with a Joseph's coat of superficial ornament, combining many fashions revived from the past and expressing the chaos of the period. Architects trained abroad brought some order into chaos by the end of the nineteenth century through close attention to planning

(Continued from Page One) catastrophe which overhangs Europe and which they are convinced is "His Majesty's government, learned with approval of the message which was communicated last night to the Chancellor of the German Reich and to the head of the Italian government by the President of the United States of America and which has not been issued to the press. "The reply from Germany and Italy must now be awaited. His Majesty's government for their part desire to express the firm hope that those replies will open the way to the further steps of which the President speaks." Lightning Kills Pelicans. State Probation Cases Reach Peak Last Month

Raleigh, April 14—Officials of the State of North Carolina are naturally divulging no official secrets, but from tales in the A. G. office here it is apparent that the Tar Heel National Guard, in order to get onto a war footing would have to be expanded to more than double its present strength. What the officials are quiet about is just how this would be done and whether or not they have recently received any orders from Washington to be prepared for the switch from peace to war footing. The allotted peace strength of the State Guard is 277 officers and 3,300 enlisted men. Adjutant General Metts says that it is within fifty to a hundred men of that strength at all times, varying only negligibly by reason of discharges and other causes. This strength would be stepped up to 480 officers and 8,770 enlisted men to get on war footing. General Metts said that the officer personnel to bring the guard to full strength is already prepared and ready. There are serving as enlisted men in the units many men who have passed the examination needed to get commissions. When orders to go on a war footing came these unlisted men would be immediately advanced to the commissioned rank for which they have qualified. The Adjutant General said that there is no enlisted reserve for the National Guard and that methods of increasing to war strength would be province of the Federal authorities. "Washington undoubtedly has plans worked out—at least I hope they have, he said. In previous emergencies voluntary enlistment has always been the accepted method of recruiting the Guard to full strength. Most of the North Carolina military strength is concentrated in troops of the 30th Division, commanded by Major General Henry D. Russell of Macon Georgia. The 30th Division is composed of National Guardsmen of North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia, each state furnishing one of the four infantry regiments which compose the backbone of its strength. Brigadier General Don E. Scott, of Graham, commands the 60th Infantry Brigade, of which North Carolina's 120th Infantry is a component part. That the National Guard holds a leading place in the nation's plans for preparedness is indicated by remarks of Major General Hugh A. Drum, only living officer who has served as a chief of staff of an American army in actual battle, who said "The National Guard is now the major element in the nation's initial protective plan."

and structure, as well as ornament in the historic styles. Most recently architects trained in America have begun to capitalize on scientific developments in new materials such as steel, concrete and glass, to the end that buildings of the future may be sound and comfortable and beautiful in a way which cannot yet be foretold. "Wherever one lives, buildings can be found whose characteristics make them fit into a similar pattern of chronological development, just as the characteristics of a novel or a poem enable one to recognize the work as a product of the nineteenth century romantic thought or of twentieth century realism. The game of cataloging the unknown by means of the known is an absorbing one, and a little exercise of the powers of observation and imagination can transform the most ordinary journey into a rewarding adventure."
