FDR PROPOSES TO REORGANIZE FEDERAL UNITS

Draft Would Completely Overhaul Relief Agencies

FOUR PROPOSALS WILL BE SOUGHT

Various Units Would Be Consolidated Under New Agencies To Eliminate Duplication

Washington, April 24.—(AP)—A complete overhaul of federal relief machinery was projected today in government reorganization plans drafted by President Roosevelt for submission to Congress tomorrow.

It was reported that four reorganization proposals would go to the capitol.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, was authority for the statement that revision of relief agencies was contemplated.

Other congressional leaders, asking that their names not be used, said Mr. Roosevelt had advised them he would send to Congress tomorrow these reorganization proposals.

1—A plan to consolidate under a new "public works agency" the WPA, the PWA, the United States Housing Authority, the Treasury's Public Buildings division and the Bureau of Public Roads.

2—A plan to consolidate government lending agencies.

3—A proposal to set up a new "welfare agency" or "security agency" to take over activities of the Social Security board and the National Youth Administration, the Bureau of Education and the Public Health Service.

4—A plan calling for elimination of duplicating functions in existing government departments.

The latter proposal, it was said, may call for unification of the government's scattered law-enforcement agencies.

Slight Damage In Blaze At College

Fire broke out in the kitchen ventilator at East Carolina Teachers College Sunday afternoon around 2 o'clock, but was brought under control before it had damaged the building greatly.

Described as caused by a dust explosion, the blaze started in the ventilator leading from the kitchen and was drawn through the ventilation channel to a gable on the roof. A fan in the gable was said by firemen to have drawn the blaze through the ventilating compartment.

The ventilator will have to be replaced and the gable repaired. Although some damage was done by smoke and water in both kitchen and dining room, kitchen service at the college was able to go on without interruption.

Firemen were delayed in reaching the fire because of blocked entrances to the college grounds. The entrances were blocked both by chains and cars parked in the driveways.

Two of the four brought to the police headquarters Sunday were Negroes charged with assault, one was for drunkenness and the fourth defendant is charged with driving drunk.

Of the eight booked Saturday two were on whiskey charges. One a transient who merely used the city lockup for a place to sleep.

Garner Refuses To Lead Anti-Roosevelt Forces

JOHNSON AIRS VIEWS ON WAR

Recalls Economic Strength Was Not Enough in 1917

Washington, April 24.—(AP)—General Hugh S. Johnson told the Senate Foreign Relations committee today that "if, as a neutral nation, we attempt for any reason to discipline a belligerent nation by economic structures we have committed an act of war against her."

The former NRA administrator, now a newspaper columnist, added that "if we want to invoke the instruments of war in European affairs, let's do it with everything we have. War is a struggle to the death."

He advised the committee that the only safe course for this nation now was to rely upon its own strength and pursue an independent course.

"This is a dangerous time," Johnson said, "but we are still very strong. Our safety lies in reliance upon ourselves."

"The threat of our tremendous economic strength in 1917 did not stop Germany. We had to get into military war."

Meanwhile two witnesses recommended to the House Foreign Affairs Committee the repeal of existing neutrality legislation.

Quincy Howe, New York writer, urged freedom of action on foreign policy, and James Martin Miller of Washington, a former newspaperman and former member of the diplomatic service, urged repeal of the neutrality act on grounds it is an "absurd and dangerous thing to play with."

Furthermore, he said, the present law has been abused.

Declines Leadership of Senate Administration Foes

Washington, April 24.—(AP)—Vice-President Garner was reported by friends today to have declined to assume leadership over anti-Roosevelt Democrats in the Senate.

These informants said that Garner, maintaining friendly relations with the White House since the session started, has decided to keep a hands-off attitude in any arguments between the President and his critics in Congress.

Early in the session there were indications that Garner might act as a behind-the-scenes strategist against the various administration spending proposals. Since then, however, he has been discussed widely as a possible presidential candidate in 1940. Senate sources said that this had placed him in a position where it would appear that he was striving for personal advantage if he actively opposed presidential policies.

In former years Garner has spoken his mind freely at cabinet meetings. On more than one occasion he has been credited with organizing capitol opposition to New Deal proposals.

In recent months, it was reported reliably, he has maintained a non-committal attitude in cabinet sessions.

TWO NATIONS ORDER ENVOYS BACK TO POSTS

Sir Neville Henderson Return to German Office

BERLIN TO SEND ENVOY TO LOND'N

Ambassadors of Two Countries were Called Home Recently by Governments

Berlin, April 24.—(AP)—The return to Berlin of British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson was followed today by official disclosure that the German ambassador to London, Herbert Von Dirksen, would go back to his post "very soon."

Von Dirksen was recalled to Berlin soon after Sir Neville was summoned to London to report on the German occupation of Bohemia in the breaking-up Czecho-Slovakia last month.

In London Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that there "was no special significance" in the return of the British ambassador to Berlin.

Chamberlain explained that Sir Neville had been called home from Berlin officially to report on continental developments and that after he had a short period of leave he had been instructed to return.

There was little doubt in the minds of men who follow the political game that Sir Neville would urge moderation in Chancellor Hitler's reply to President Roosevelt next Friday.

It was further taken for granted that he would explain to Berlin authorities that Britain has no desire to "encircle" Germany.

B.-L. Associations Aid New Builders

The building, savings and loan associations of North Carolina made over $2,000,000 of home loans during the month of March, it was announced today by John B. Craven of Lexington, president of the North Carolina Building and Loan League.

This amount represented over 1,300 loans of which 400 to the amount of $810,000 were for construction of new homes; 320 individuals, according to Mr. Craven, were helped in purchasing their homes valued at $500,000 through their local home financing agencies, the building and loan associations. More than 180 loans to the amount of $100,000 were made for repairing and reconditioning of homes. The balance of 400 loans were for miscellaneous purposes, such as refinancing, amounting to $600,000.

Advance reports indicate that April will be even better than March because of the large amount of construction and interest in home ownership, it was stated by Mr. Craven.

Hopes Take Over A. & N. C. by June

Raleigh, April 24.—(AP)—H. P. Edwards of Sanford said today he hoped that everything would be worked out so that he could assume operation of the state-controlled Atlantic and North Carolina railroad about June 1.

Edwards was here for conferences with Attorney General Harry McMullan in regard to a final draft of the lease, under which he will take over the railroad.

"I am hopeful that everything can be pushed through in 30 days or so," said Edwards. "I think the lease may be in final shape in a week or so and then we must get approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington."

No Superior Judges Up For Election Next Year

Reflects Bureau. Raleigh, April 24.—North Carolina's twenty-one Superior court judges can sit back and watch the 1940 primaries and general election without the slightest quiver of interest or excitement caused by their seats on the nice-cushioned bench.

Not even one of the twenty-one will be called upon to get popular endorsement of his judicial service. This is quite in contrast to 1928 when more than half of them were up for election, re-election or rejection.

Of course there is always the possibility of death or retirement prior to May, 1940, but in either event the incumbent would have no worry about the resulting election.

Come 1942 and it will be another story, with nine of the judges' terms expiring in that year.

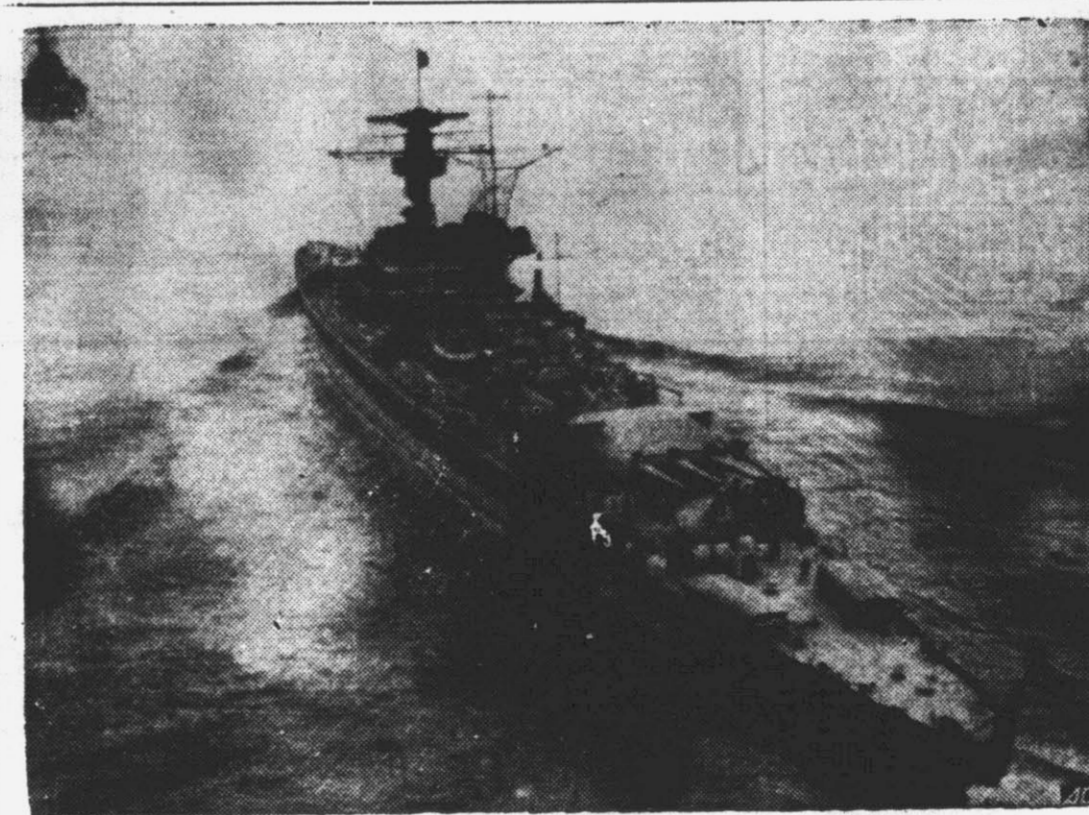

Here's a recapitulation of the judiciary, with relation to time of election and next chance the people will get to approve or disapprove of its members—also a brief summary of the judges who preceded the incumbents in the respective districts:

First—Judge C. Everett Thompson, elected in 1938 for eight years after being appointed on retirement of Judge Walter Small who was elected in 1930 to succeed Judge Bond, elected in 1922.

Second—Judge W. J. Bone, elected in 1938 to serve until 1946, after appointment in 1937 to succeed Judge M. V. Barnhill, elected to Superior court who, in turn was appointed in 1924 to succeed G. W. Connor, also made a Supreme court justice.

Third—R. Hunt Parker, will be up for re-election in 1940. Appointed in 1932 to succeed Judge Garland Midyette, deceased, and (Continued on Page Four)

COTTON TRADE IS SUGGESTED

Would Be Exchanged For British Rubber and Tin

London, April 24.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Joseph Kennedy was reported authoritatively today to be arranging a deal whereby the United States would barter about 10,000,000 bales of cotton and more than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat to Britain for a supply of rubber and tin.

The deal, it was reported, would be made under the barter exchange proposal made two weeks ago by United States Senator James Byrnes.

The British Board of Trade refused to discuss details, but admitted there were negotiations under way in connection with the Byrnes proposal, which has received the endorsement of President Roosevelt.

Rubber and tin both come from British possessions, so that would involve dealings with some of the British colonies and dominions.

There was no indication when the transaction would be completed, but an official source indicated negotiations were progressing.

The Byrnes proposal, which was made in Washington April 14, would have the double effect of building up the war strength of England, the Netherlands and Belgium, and at the same time getting rid of some of the troublesome farm surpluses of the United States.

Fishing Party Lands Nine 30-Pound Drums

G. J. Woodard, L. S. Spence and A. A. Ellwanger of Greenville and Arthur Oates of New York went Drum fishing at Nags Head Saturday and Sunday, and caught nine drum averaging about 30 pounds each. They also landed 15 chub averaging about one and one-half pounds.

The local party reported that a big crowd enjoyed the sport over the week-end and most of them had good catches. The Greenville men spent Saturday night with L. S. Parkinson, former Greenville resident who now operates a hotel at Kitty Hawk.

Simpson Resident Claimed By Death

Mrs. Richard J. Sutton, 50, died about midnight last night in Washington Hospital, following three weeks' illness.

She was a member of the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church. Surviving are her husband and three sons, Herman, Mitchell and Jan Franklin; five daughters, Mrs. Thomas Elks, Misses Lucy, Magdalene, Mamie Ruth and Bettie Grace Sutton, all of Pitt county; also a sister, Mrs. Amos Heath of Morganston, N. C.

Archbishop

Vatican City, April 24.—(AP)—A Vatican news service announced today that the Rev. Francis Spellman, auxiliary bishop of Boston, had been named Archbishop of New York.

The nomination led some prelates to believe that Bishop Spellman might be named a cardinal in the Consistory expected to be held early this summer.

WRECKS CLAIM SIX IN STATE

None of Highway Facilities in Eastern Carolina

Charlotte, April 24.—(AP)—Highway accidents caused at least six deaths in North Carolina over the week-end.

George Hoover, 56, of Mecklenburg county, was killed at Croft when his automobile and a southbound Southern Railway train collided at a crossing.

A big gasoline transport truck overturned near Rutherfordton and burst into flames. Edward Singleton, 33, of Laurinburg, and Edgar Carr, 33, of Wilmington, were fatally burned.

James McCullough of near Cooleme, lost control of a motorcycle on the Statesville highway near Mocksville and was thrown off and fatally injured.

R. D. Lineberger, Jr., 20, and Edgar Mauney, 20, both of Gaston county, were fatally injured last night when a car overturned on the Dallas-Cherryville highway.

Only Two Changes In Principalships

With the various county schools in the last week of the 1938-39 session, it was announced at the offices of the Pitt Board of Education today that there would be only two changes in the principalships.

It was revealed that J. P. McBryde had resigned the principalship at Grimesland in order to pursue post-graduate work at the University of North Carolina.

In revealing that Mr. McBryde was leaving the system, Superintendent D. H. Conley expressed regret at losing him and praised his work. Mr. Conley said that Mr. McBryde's work had been "very satisfactory" and added that the school had showed rapid growth under his direction.

G. P. Carr, who at present is principal at Stokes, will succeed Mr. McBryde at Grimesland. Although the post at Stokes has not been definitely filled, several candidates are under serious consideration.

Mr. Conley also revealed that the teacher turnover would be only about 10 per cent.

Principals in the county for the year just closing are: Arthur J. W. Webster; Ayden—W. M. Jenkins; Belvoir—H. H. Deaton, G. N. Nobles; Chicod—Newman Lewis; Falkland—J. T. Lewis; Farmville—J. H. Moore; Fountain—John A. Guy; Grifton—H. S. Oglesby; Grimesland—J. P. McBryde; Fictopolis—Hyatt Forrest; Stokes—G. P. Carr; Winterville—C. D. Ward.

FRENCH UNITY OBJECTIVE OF LATEST MOVES

Three Organizations Opposed to Nationalism Outlawed

ATTEMPTS MADE SMASH AUTON'Y

So-Called Fuehrer of Alsace-Lorraine Is Head of One Organization Condemned

Paris, April 24.—(AP)—The French government in one of two measures reported today for assuring French unity outlawed three organizations in Alsace-Lorraine for attempting to undermine French Nationalism.

Herman Bickler, Prussian-born autonomy leader, was the head of the organization.

The other measures reported to have been decreed by the cabinet established heavy penalties for efforts to provoke hate and discord among Frenchmen because of race or religion.

Sources close to the government said that the efforts to smash autonomy organizations in the area of the vital magnet line was but the forerunner of widespread measures to assure French unity during present international tension.

These quarters disclosed the government decreed dissolution of three propaganda units at last Friday's cabinet meeting but kept the move secret until today.

Bickler, so-called "fuehrer of Alsace-Lorraine" has been hailed by his followers as the man who might some day lead the province back to Germany.

Former Local Man Dies In Goldsboro

Burial rites for E. E. Griffin, 65, hardware dealer of Goldsboro, but a former resident of Greenville, who died of a heart attack while watching a baseball game there yesterday afternoon, will be conducted here tomorrow, following funeral services at the home in Goldsboro at 3 o'clock.

The cortege is expected to arrive here at 4:30 o'clock and the burial rites will be conducted at Cherry Hill cemetery, with Masons in charge.

Mr. Griffin had been living in Goldsboro for the past 25 years, but before moving there made his home in Greenville. He was married to Miss Julia Foley, sister of E. H. Foley, now of this city. Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Ezra E. Griffin, Jr., of Goldsboro, and Lieut. Thomas N. Griffin of the U. S. Army, now stationed at Fort Francis Warren in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Farmers Provided Better Fertilizer

Raleigh, April 24.—Fertilizer companies operating in North Carolina or at least 72 out of 84 whose products were tested, gave Tar Heels farmers an average of 52 cents per ton value in excess of plant food guaranteed, according to D. S. Coltrane, assistant Commissioner of Agriculture.

The Coltrane statement was made on the basis of analysis of 5,176 samples of fertilizers from the 84 companies. The figures considered by him do not represent crop-producing value, but are estimates of commercial value of the products contained in the fertilizer.

Only a dozen companies showed a valuation per ton less than their guarantee, and only a comparatively small percentage of the samples tested were more than five per cent below the guarantee.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters

Assey Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth. Kay Thayer, girl reporter.

Yesterday: Assey and Kay wait for the criminal to come to the hideout. A car with blaring radio stops. A dummy disappears. Assey's tires are slashed.

Chapter 43

Rough Riding

ASEY jumped in behind the wheel of Kay's battered coupe, and grabbed at the key she stretched out to him. "Assey, he's out of sight!" she said. "I can't see any tail light—come to think of it, there never was any tail light. Here, I'll pull the choke—"

The little car bounced off as though someone had given it a kick from the rear.

"Assey," Kay said, "you couldn't catch a bicycle in this thing! It won't go over forty. The tires—don't mind that door, it just seems open. It's really closed. It's sprung of warped or—Assey, can you see him?"

"Yup," Assey said unexpectedly. "See there, way ahead by the school?"

"How'd you know it's the right car?"

"Headlights, no tail light, and the rate he's goin'. Yessiree, that's our man!"

"Maybe he is our man, but you'd better give up any idea of catching him, right this minute," Kay said. "You can't!"

"Give up nothin'!" Assey said. "At least we can trail him. He's clever, Kay. Keeps his radio going to mislead us—in fact, he might's well have brought a brass band, for all I caught on. An' slasher's my tires—yes, this's our man. Now hang on tight, I got to catch up enough to see which way he turns up at the fork."

He pressed his foot down on the accelerator and Kay began to understand that Assey meant exactly what he said when he told her to hang on. The little coupe was hurtling itself forward in a series of leaps and bounds, and it quivered tremulously, as though it were frightened to death.

"Right," Assey said. "So he thinks he can fool me, does he? Huh. Keep hangin' on. We're goin' to have fun—"

The speedometer jiggled past the last figure, kept on jiggling past the zero, and arrived triumphantly at ten on its second trip around. Serenely and rather proudly, it stuck there.

"Hey!" Kay had to howl to make herself heard above the noises of the car. "hey—Assey! This—this thing! This car! It was six years old when I inherited it at the office! Six years if a day. And the tires—"

Her knees hit against the dash, and she braced herself to meet the bumps.

Corn Field

THEY were on some side road or other. To her left was the center of Billingsgate; she could see the yellow star on top of the mast at the midway, and as she watched, it blinked once and went out. "We ain't ridin'," Assey said. "We're flyin'—whee! Look out for your head!"

"Red lanterns!" she howled accusingly at him. "Red lanterns! The sign said 'Road Closed!'"

"We ain't on the road."

They weren't. They were billowing nonchalantly, but at a slightly slower pace, along the edge of a corn field.

After several moments the car lurched back up on the road again. A bayberry twig slatted against the windshield.

"That was just a little bad strip there," Assey said soothingly. "I knew about it. Honest, I did."

"Sure," Kay said. "Of course. Mayo the omniscient. Assey, I hate to bring it up, it withers me, but are you just driving for fun, or do you know where our friend is? I haven't seen the slightest trace of any car ahead."

"He ain't ahead," Assey told her as he cut around a puddle. "He's to one side."

"Indeed!"

"Yup, he's takin' the high road, an' we got the low road, but we'll get there b'fore him—"

"We'll get to heaven before him," Kay said, "if that's what you mean!"

"Wonder how he missed your car."

"Probably just had yours in mind," Kay said. "Assey, you must understand about the tires—my heavens!"

They skidded in a puddle, and the coupe turned completely around twice.

"Now there," Assey said, continuing his unabashed way, "is where this thing beats even my roadster. The Porter's only of skidded half around, leavin' us facin' the wrong direction. Kay, your windshield wiper appears to of died. Help, will you?"

"How?" Kay demanded. "Want me to crawl out and sit on the hood with a hankerchief? What do you think I am, I'd—"

"Hold the wheel," Assey said, "an' I'll fix it."

Somehow with a sudden lurch he managed to clean enough of a space to see through.

A few hundred yards on, he slowed the car down and snapped off the headlights.

"Ahead," he informed Kay, "is the main road to Boston. An' just b'low us here to the left is the road where that feller's got to come out. It's two miles longer than the thing we come over, bein' a work relief road, an' it's kind of windin'—"

"And what are you going to do with this fellow, providing he turns up? Shoot him?"

"I got no d'sire to kill him, I want to find out who he is—aha—there—"

A sedan raced out of the new road and sped past them at a terrific clip.

"That's it," Assey swung the coupe over and followed. "License number's covered up—now, let's see what he does, an' where he thinks he'll go. Ah. There—there he turns off. That's nice. We'll string along."

"Where's he headed?" Kay asked as they left the main road. "Where are we headed?"

Forest

"TOWARD my home town," Assey said, "an' I'd like real well to play tag with him on some of them back roads there. I know them roads."

"You seem to know these."

"Today, while judgin'," Assey said, "I read through the whole blessed Old Home Week program, includin' a map of roads, past an' present. Looked like a close-up of a permanent wave, but I got a lot out of it. Feller's, slowin' down. I don't like that—"

"Why not?" Kay demanded. "Catch up—find out who he is—it's your chance to—oh, dear, there he goes again! What are you slowing down for now?"

"Want to see if I can peer through this windshield an' see no, I guess he didn't."

"Didn't what?" Kay asked as Assey's foot again went down hard on the accelerator.

"I though he might have tossed a bottle or somethin' for us to run over—the road narrows here, Kay. Hang on—"

The speedometer tape jiggled again, but this time the effort was too much. It jumped wildly around and then came to rest at the figure eight, and there it stayed.

"Assey," Kay shouted in his ear, "give this up! He's out of sight—I can't even see a trace of his headlights on—"

"Goin' to try one more thing," Assey said, "an' this time, brace yourself an' watch that woud of yours. We're goin' to bounce considerable."

He turned the car off the tarred road, apparently into the middle of the woods. Kay thought at first that the coupe was completely out of control.

"Old wagon road," Assey explained casually. "If I can get through, we got him."

Kay peered out the side window and automatically ducked. But the tree didn't break the glass, it ground hard against it, and then scratched noisily against the body as the car bounced along.

She looked at Assey in amazement. The branches were actually coming in the car on his side, where the window wouldn't close. Bushes and trees were scraping the coupe's underpinning and running boards.

She leaned forward and found a spot on the windshield through which she miraculously could look ahead.

"Road? Assey, it's a forest! Look at that tree! We can't—what—what happened to it? It was right there in the middle of the road—"

"We went over it. Couldn't do this in my car," Assey said. "Too low slung."

Twice he stopped to wipe the rain off the windshield, and once he got out to pull a fallen tree out of their way.

"This," Assey said, "used to be the main road to Boston, in the old days. The stage coaches used it. This part we're goin' through now, it used to be a big settlement. Tavern an' store an' church an' blacksmith shop. I s'pose the clothes on them figures often visited around here. Maybe b'longed here—"

"Assey, what about that figure? What's the idea in swiping that, if any?"

"Wait'll I get out of this mess," Assey said. "This Kay, in about two seconds, we'll be back on the main road once more. If God's good to us, we'll be ahead of that feller. An' anyways, we can't be very far b'hind him—"

But the last forty feet of the old road turned out to be the worst part of the entire ride.

AC OVERCOMES FOUR RUN LEAD

Ninth-Inning Homer Defeats Teachers College

By JAMES WHITFIELD Wilson's Mutt Gardner, shortstop, blasted a four-run homer over the left field fence in the ninth inning to give Atlantic Christian College a 10-9 verdict over East Carolina Teachers College Saturday afternoon.

With two men away and the locals holding an 8-4 lead, Willie Phillips, starting hurler, loaded the sacks in the ninth verse and walked in a run. Ed Wells of Greenville replaced Phillips and tossed Gardner—the first batter he faced, a home-run ball. Brack Newman scored the visitors' other run when Floyd Hinton made a wild throw to third.

Powerhouse hitters for the local Teachers were Bill Shelton with two triples and a single and Lester Ridenhour with a trio of singles. Ransom Lucas and Joe Windley got two hits apiece to feature the winners' hitting attack.

Coach Gordon Gilbert's boys collected a dozen hits off four visiting hurlers. Phillips allowed seven safeties and Wells two in the local offering.

The Pirates will engage the Norfolk Division of William and Mary College here Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Raleigh, April 24.—Benefits of $10,000,000 to unemployment and partially unemployed workers in North Carolina in the 15 months of benefit payments will be reached this week, Director E. W. Price, of the Unemployment Compensation Division, said today. Actual benefits paid through last Thursday reached $9,957,084.44, by which it was assured that the $10,000,000 mark would be reached within a few days.

As of April 20, the contribution payments of employers reached $22,072,332.08, to which has been added $411,124.88 in interest, practically all of which is on the Commission's balance in the U. S. Treasury. Less the benefit payments, the fund had a balance of $12,526,327.52 as of April 20.

Sophomore Paul Flye or Veteran Waylan Tucker will get the starting call on the mound. Both hurlers are rested up and in top shape. Flye has pitched in only one game this season while Tucker has worked in several contests.

The Phantoms have won two and lost three in conference affairs. Washington and Goldsboro have fallen victim to the locals' attack while Roanoke Rapids, with one win, and Kinston, with two victories, are Greenville's victors.

Probable starters in tomorrow's game will be: Leslie Babcock, 18; John Lautares, 2b; McGowan, ss; Carroll, 3b; Taylor, Stocks and Register or James in the outer gardens.

HIGHS TO PLAY GAME TUESDAY

Face Winterville For Second Time This Season

After a week's lay-off Coach Bo Farley's Greenville High School baseball nine swing back into action tomorrow when they travel to Winterville to face the Winterville team for the second time. In their first encounter the Greensies slammed out a 11-4 victory behind Waylan Tucker's steady hurling.

In tomorrow's non-conference tilt the G-Men will probably be without the services of Polly Williams, regular catcher, who suffered a bruised finger last week when hit by a thrown ball. Williams' hitting will be missed in the game as well as his backstop work. Milford Stafford, who has seen much action behind the plate in former years, will probably be shifted to the catcher's post from third base to fill the vacancy. Bickett Carroll will patrol the hot corner in Stafford's place.

'Big Man' Indicted

Charles Carollo, labeled by authorities as "the big man" of Kansas City's $20,000,000 a year gambling racket, is shown as he appeared to post bond on federal mail fraud charges. The grand jury, which returned the indictment, also is investigating Carollo's income tax returns.

TENNIS MATCH LOST BY ETC

Contest Is Cut Short With Wake Forest Ahead 6-1

A tennis meet between East Carolina Teachers College and Wake Forest College which got underway here Saturday afternoon at 3:30 because the visitors arrived late, was cut short on account of darkness, with Wake Forest holding a 6-1 advantage.

In the feature attraction of the afternoon, Leo Burks of Greenville, one of Coach H. C. Haynes' most valuable netters, turned in a 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Wake Forest's Bob Cahoon in the opening No. 1 singles match of the first meet of these season between the teams.

Cahoon and Davis of Wake Forest, and Leo Burks and Leon Meadows of E.C.T.C. won one of the doubles matches with a verdict of 1-6, 8-6 and postponed the play-off because the boys were hungry for supper and there were no lights on the court.

A doubles match scheduled between McMillan and Earnhardt of Wake Forest and Meadows and Charles Green, was not played because of darkness.

Coach Haynes and his boys will journey to Louisburg next Thursday where they will clash with the Trojans.

Other results: Earnhardt defeated Glover 3-6, 6-3, 6-3; Davis defeated Harris 7-5, 6-4; Alexander defeated Meadows 6-0, 6-2; McMillan defeated Green 6-1, 6-3; Barbee defeated Wilkerson 7-5, 6-3; Barbee and Alexander defeated Harris and Wilkerson 5-0, 6-1.

GREENIES GAIN 14-4 TRIUMPH

Red Christopher Features Hitting and Clowning Sunday

Rube Wilson's Greenies went on a scoring spree yesterday afternoon to win in a 14-4 verdict over Norfolk Monarchs, an independent club.

Norfolk took a 4-3 lead in its half of the sixth, but singles by Badges and Taylor, Simpson's double and an error on the visitors' first-sacker for five runs put the Greenies in front in its part of the sixth.

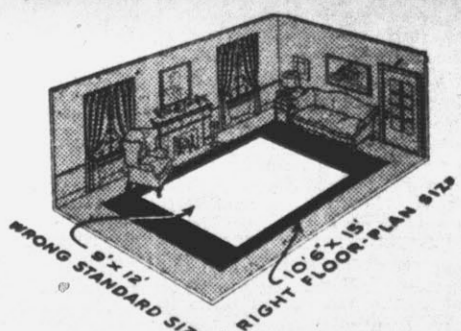

A play that produced laughter came about in the seventh when a foul bounced out of Manager Wilson's glove and Red Christopher, second baseman for Greenville, ran up behind Rube and grabbed the ball.

Three visiting hurlers gave up 13 hits. Lefty Spence gave up one hit in four innings and Badger threw in five for Greenville. Johnson got two hits for Norfolk, Red Christopher with four for five led the Greenville hitters.

Good Government

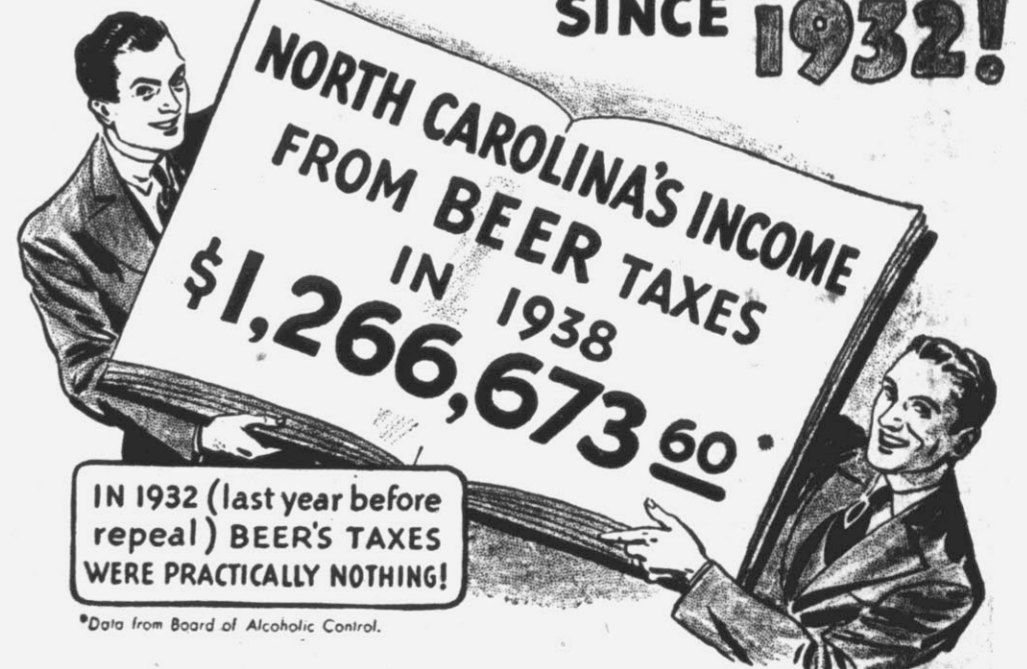

- Good Government is not a burden to taxpayers. Good Government pays no political debts contracted by politicians. Good Government is impartial, shows no favoritism. Good Government supports and helps to maintain the best schools. Good Government is not dominated by factions, groups or special interests. Good Government creates no easy jobs for political supporters. Good Government is progressive within its ability to pay, not beyond. Good Government is equally fair to all citizens, giving all the same consideration. Good Government spends its money wisely, insisting that the taxpayer's dollar buys its value.

I favor Good Government. May I depend on your help and support in the election next Monday.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You

ONE INCOME THAT'S INCREASED MIGHTILY SINCE 1932!

IN 1932 (last year before repeal) BEER'S TAXES WERE PRACTICALLY NOTHING!

*Data from Board of Alcoholic Control.

BEER helps even those who do not drink it! To the tune of a million dollars a day nation-wide, beer tax revenue reaches back into every community, to help pay for relief, for public works, for education... and to lift a burden that would otherwise rest directly on the taxpayers.

To this, add a million new jobs made by beer. And a 100 million dollar farm market. How can we keep these benefits... for you and for us? Brewers of America realize this depends on keeping beer retailing as wholesome as beer itself. They want to help public officials in every possible way. They cannot enforce laws. But they can—and will—cooperate!

May we send you a booklet telling of their unusual self-regulation program? Address: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

BEER... a beverage of moderation
