GERMAN PRESS MAKES ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT

Newspapers Also Underscore Demands On Danzig RESIGNATION OF FDR SUGGESTED

Commentators, However, Differ On Breadth of Chancellor's Answer To The President

Berlin, April 29.—(AP)—Germany, through her closely-controlled press, strongly assailed President Roosevelt today, underscoring demands for Danzig and colonies and differed on how far Chancellor Hitler had closed the door to peaceful negotiations.

One newspaper, the influential Boerszeitung of Berlin, suggested that Mr. Roosevelt resign because of the "great number of historical untruths, political mistakes and plain absurdities" that Hitler "proved" yesterday existed in the President's peace proposals, to which the fuhrer replied before the Reichstag.

In his speech rejecting Roosevelt's request for a German-Italian non-aggression pact, Hitler scrapped his 1935 naval agreement with Great Britain and his 1934 10-year non-aggression pact with Poland.

Even well-instructed Nazi commentators differed on the breadth of the chancellor's answer to Mr. Roosevelt's appeal of April 15, but all agreed at least it was sharp rebuff and some called it a "political execution" for Roosevelt.

The reaction in the Free City of Danzig was immediate to Hitler's reference to that former German Baltic city as an open question which sooner or later "naturally had to be solved," and his statement that "it should be beyond all doubt that Danzig will never become Polish."

Nazis in Danzig, which since the World war has been connected with Polish customs and administration, began to speculate on the day of their "return to the Reich."

Rose Endorsed By Warrenton Legion

J. H. Rose candidate for state commander of the American Legion, has the unanimous support of Limer Post No. 25 of Warrenton, that organization having gone on record at a meeting this week as endorsing the local man for the next department commander.

Mr. Rose received the support of the Warrenton chapter, it was said, not only because he once lived there, but also on account of his ability as a leader, his work with younger people, and the many fine traits he possesses.

Candidate Rose is the son of the late W. W. Rose, Methodist minister, who served in Warrenton for four years about 30 years ago.

Says That Poland And France Agree

Paris, April 29.—(AP)—The French foreign minister announced today after a final conference between the foreign ministers of France and Rumania on formation of a European alliance that the two countries were "in perfect accord."

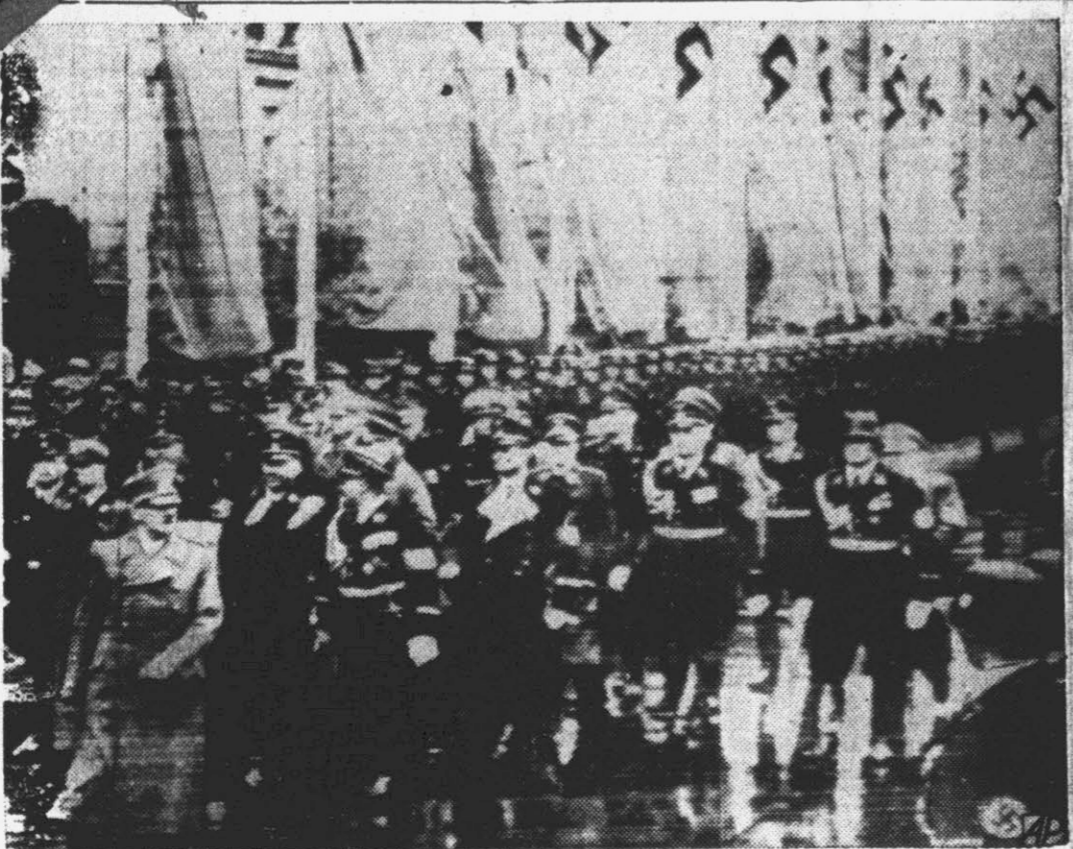

The announcement gave no indication, however, of whether Bonnet, France's negotiator, had persuaded, or even urged, Gafencu of Rumania to accept the British-French plan to enlist Russian aid for Rumania in the event of war.

Five School Teachers Injured in Accident

The women were all in the same car. The man was the lone occupant of the other machine.

CITY ELECTION HERE MONDAY

Sixteen Candidates Out for Eight Official Posts

With the largest registration in the history of the city, Greenville citizens will go to the polls Monday to elect a mayor, five aldermen, a recorder and solicitor of Municipal court.

A total of 16 candidates are out for the eight posts and contests are being waged for every office except the two court positions.

The polls will open at 7 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Campaigns have been waged by candidates in each of the six contests and many contend it has been the "hottest" campaign in years.

All three candidates for mayor have had experience on the Board and one is an immediate past mayor pro tem and another is a member of the present Board of Aldermen. The three are Jack Boyd, Jack Spain and H. H. Duncan.

In the first ward G. C. Honeycutt and L. B. Fleming are contesting for the seat on the board. Fleming is the present member.

Three candidates are out for the second ward seat to be vacated by Candidate for Mayor Jack Spain. They are J. A. Collins, J. Hicks Corey and C. A. Robertson.

The third ward presents a two-way race between J. D. Simpson, the incumbent, and R. E. Sellers.

In the fourth E. H. Wilson and David Evans are contesting. The latter is the present member, serving under appointment.

George Clapp and Troy Burnette, the incumbents, are out for the post in the fifth.

Recorder L. C. Skinner and Solicitor Harry Brown of Municipal court are without opposition.

Three members of the present Board of Aldermen have another year to serve, having been elected last May, without opposition, for two-year terms each. They are J. A. Watson of the Second, J. M. Taft of the Third and Dr. M. B. Massey of the Fourth. The First and Fifth wards have only one member on the board.

Bill Provides Funds For N. C. Marketing Program

Raleigh, April 29.—North Carolina's marketing program could and would be adequate and up to date in every respect if the marketing bill introduced in Congress by Senator Josiah W. Bailey should become law, in the considered opinion of Randal B. Etheridge, chief of the Markets Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Etheridge said that this state would receive something like $100,000 to $125,000 under the Bailey bill's provisions. That he compared with the approximately $35,000 which it is contemplated will be available in the Department's next year budget to use in furtherance of a marketing program.

The Etheridge estimates were based on the Bailey bill's appropriation of $5,000,000 annually "which shall be apportioned by the Secretary of Agriculture among the several states on the basis of population."

Offices To Close

City and Water and Light commission offices will be closed Monday and the session of Municipal court scheduled for that day will be postponed until Tuesday on account of the local primary election.

Voters living in Wards Four and Five cast their ballot at the City Hall and the congestion interferes with regular work to such an extent it was decided to close the offices.

DEMAND MADE ON CONTRACTS

Lewis Asks Show-down with Coal-Mine Operators

New York, April 29.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, CIO chief, and president of the United Mine Workers of America, today called for a show-down in the contract negotiations between Appalachian bituminous coal operators and the union.

Shortly after the committee of four operators and four miners convened for their daily session, the operators withdrew until 3 p. m. to discuss the contract question privately.

Lewis a few minutes later, told reporters that it was his intention "that this farce would be ended and by next week the operators should have decided whether they would make up their minds and sign a contract."

The miners' leader previously had recalled the full policy committee of 150 district U. M. W. leaders for a meeting here Tuesday, prior to the time the contracts in outlying soft coal areas expire and on the eve of the extension of the anti-rackete contract.

While the operators were discussing the problem among themselves, the miners conferred with Dr. John Steelman, chief of the Conciliation Service of the U. S. Department of Labor, sent here by Secretary Perkins.

Union leaders said the policy committee would decide whether the order to shut down mines outside the Appalachian area, when their contracts expire, would be rescinded, if at all, by the policy committee.

FAIL TO AGREE OVER BISHOPS

Conference Reverses Self on "Democratic" System

Kansas City, April 29.—(AP)—The Methodist Uniting Conference reversed itself today on the so-called "democratic" system of assigning bishops.

Yesterday the 900 delegates of the three hitherto divided Methodisms voted to set up a committee of 70 selected by ministerial and lay church members to assign the bishops.

They turned down a proposal to rest the assignments and a committee named indirectly by the bishops themselves.

Today a group of 12 Northern church leaders, led by Dr. Fred Stone of Chicago, voted to add 20 members to the committee from the two jurisdictions of the new church in which the Southern branch will predominate. They argued the plan adopted yesterday gave the North an unfair control.

After long debate the committee addition was voted, 467 to 360.

Immediately, however, the whole question of committee assignments was brought to the floor again and the plan turned down, 463 to 361.

The conference then referred the assignment issue to a standing committee on the ministry and Episcopacy. This committee was named in advance of the conference by an inter-denominational commission headed by a Northern and Southern bishop and the president of the Methodist Protestant church.

Meanwhile, 10,000 Methodist young persons from surrounding states opened a youth day program stressing the difference between Christian and totalitarian doctrines.

Wall Street Superstitious

Babson Says Market Thinnest in History

By ROGER W. BABSON New York, April 29.—Arriving in New York I find Wall Street ridden by superstitions—market charts, resistance points, "double bottoms," etc., these investment fads remind me of what happened in Florida just before I came North. Many of the country's newspapers carried the story of a dear old lady from Mississippi who came to Florida and "made it rain." As the place where Miss Stoute performed is in the next town to Babson Park, Fla., naturally I observed the situation with much interest.

The rain-maker impressed me as an honest and God-fearing woman. Apparently she earnestly believes in her theory. She "sat" with her umbrella by the lakeside until it did rain! As a result, a great number of people are sincerely convinced that she brought the rain. Now, in my humble opinion, the Wall Street chartists with their "rain-making" theories about the stock market are operating as did Miss Lillie Stoute. Such stunts may seem to work at times, but when they do, they are coincidences. Here is the joker about chart-reading: By the time the signals have definitely shown that the move is a bull or bear market, the swing is often practically completed.

What is "Thin Market"? Yet New York City has been in a furor recently about these chart theories. Surely, this is old stuff, but here is the explanation for all the excitement. Through the S.E.C. regulations and other developments, the market has been made thin. Hence, when any market pressure group, such as the chart readers and their followers, get a "bear" tip from their dope, their selling stampede upsets the Big Board. For instance, from March 25 to April 10 stock values shrank 14 per cent, or $6,000,000,000, with an actual exchange of ownership of only one per cent of listed shares!

What is a thin market? A thin market means that there are very few people who are willing either to buy or sell stocks. Ten years ago, it sometimes took a five-thousand-share lot to move the price of a well-known stock one-eighth of a point. In the recent decline some of these stocks broke two or more points on a few-hundred-share sale.

The "spread" between the price at which investors are willing to buy a stock and the price at which other investors are willing to sell a stock may now run as much as five points. It sometimes takes seven (Continued on page four)

IL DUCE PLANS EXPANSION OF ITALIAN ARMY

To Be Strengthened Both in Size and Equipment

AIMS REVEALED BEFORE CABINET

Stated at Last Reservists Call It Would Be Last Unless in "Exceptional" Cases

Rome, April 29.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini informed his cabinet today the Italian army would be strengthened "in size and equipment."

Il Duce gave his senators a detailed report on the conference he had two days ago with the minister of finance, Paolo di Revel, Jr., and the chief of the general staff of the army and undersecretary of war, General A. Pizzani, at Mussolini's country retreat.

Plans were drawn at this conference for increasing the nation's military power.

A communique issued at the close of today's cabinet meeting did not specify what measures were contemplated.

"The new appropriations allocated to the army," it said, "are designed to increase still further its efficiency, both from the point of view of effectiveness and from the point of view of equipment and territorial defensive organization."

Italy now has an estimated 1,250,000 men under arms.

At the time the last contingents of reservists were called for service, it was announced officially that the government had no intention of calling up additional classes except in "exceptional circumstances."

Boss Pendergrast Is Indicted Again

Kansas City, April 29.—(AP)—Boss Tom Pendergrast was indicted for the second time by a federal grand jury today on income tax violation charges.

Meanwhile, R. E. O'Malley, who is under indictment with Pendergrast in connection with a $9,500,000 state insurance settlement, was given a leave of absence as head of the city water department.

Mayor B. B. Smith said O'Malley would remain out of office until such time as his name had been cleared of charges pending against him. O'Malley asked for the leave.

He is the latest Pendergrast-backed official involved in a city hall shake-up recently. City Manager H. F. McElroy resigned under fire, leaving behind a year's deficit of $1,750,000, and Police Director O. P. Higgins quit after his department had been accused by Gov. Lloyd Stark of protecting a $20,000,000 a year gambling racket.

O'Malley and Pendergrast were indicted by a federal grand jury April 27 on charges they received more than $370,000 in connection with the insurance settlement, but failed to report the money on their income tax files. O'Malley was state insurance superintendent at the time of the settlement.

The annual value of garden vegetable grown for home use in North Carolina is estimated at $9,631,011, said to be the largest of any state.

Aid Rushed To Injured Soviet Flier In Canada

Forced Down on Projected Moscow-New York Flight

Miscou Island, New Brunswick, April 29.—(Canadian Press)—A Royal Canadian mounted policeman and a doctor battled ice floes of Bay Chaleur in a row boat today to reach General Kokkinaki, Russian pilot, who suffered several broken ribs when his airplane made a forced landing here last night on a projected Moscow to New York flight.

Constable Tehtari and Dr. Bourgeois set out from Shippegan on the mainland 25 miles away for this isolated St. Lawrence gulf island where the flier, Major Gordienko, his radio operator-navigator, came down at 7:55 p. m. last night in a marsh five miles from the nearest house.

The constable planned to return this afternoon and take the pilot to a hospital at Bathurst or Campbellton, N. B., if treatment were necessary. The Russian plane was wrecked.

A Miscou merchant said this morning that he had returned from a trip to the wreckage and that the navigator escaped injury. The flier spent the night near the twin-motored craft because the fuel tanks had burst and they feared someone might smoke near the gasoline.

Moncton, N. C., reported observers in a Canadian Airways plane said they had been unable to land on Miscou island where the Russian Moscow-to-New York plane was forced down last night.

Herbert Cox Starts Service Of Sentence

Herbert Cox, convicted December 1, 1937, on a charge of selling whiskey and given a six-months' sentence and an additional eight-months' suspended sentence, was taken to Kinston this morning to start service of the sentence at the prison camp there.

Following his trial Cox "walked off" and was not taken until this week, when he was found in Washington. He was brought here and, after remaining in the county jail for two days, was taken to the camp.

Recent Court Ruling May Re-Open Tuckerton Case

By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, April 29.—As the question Yackin, Yackin, who's got the Yackin continues to agitate municipal, state and federal officials as well as the Duke Power Company and other private enterprises, Attorney General Harry McMillan is studying carefully two opinions handed down by the United States Supreme court on April 17.

He won't say so—won't even say he is considering the matter at all—but those familiar with law and also with the views of Governor Clyde R. Hoey and other state officials, see in the decisions a distinct possibility that the famed Tuckerton case may be again tossed into the Federal courts.

Reason is simple: They reverse, in large part, the doctrine of "negative" orders upon which was based Circuit Court denial of a review in the Tuckerton case. Under the law as laid down in the new cases, it would seem that on its merits there would now be a different result in the case.

For the benefit of those who may have forgotten the basic facts of the Tuckerton case here's a very brief resume of it:

The N. C. Aluminum corporation wanted to erect a plant on the Yadkin river. It sought a ruling from the Federal Power Commission with regard to the necessity of a license from that body (such a license is necessary on navigable streams, unnecessary on non-navigable ones). The Commission made a "finding" that a license must be sought. The company, not wishing to proceed under a federal license which would make mandatory surrender of its property after 50 years, appealed to the Circuit Court. The State, unwilling to surrender control of the Yadkin, which it considers non-navigable, joined in asking the court to set aside the Commission's findings or "order."

MAY REPLY TO NAZI CHIEF IN FIRESIDE CHAT

Some Believe Talk Tomorrow May Embody Answer

TALK, HOWEVER BEEN PREPARED

White House Aides Announce That President's Address Written Before Hitler's Speech

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt may reply to Adolf Hitler in a "fireside chat" over the radio, it was said in usually well-informed congressional circles today.

Responding yesterday to Mr. Roosevelt's plea that Germany and Italy promise not to invade or attack 31 independent nations for at least 10 years, the German chancellor offered peace pledges to these states, provided they ask for them and accompany their requests with proposals he considered suitable.

To the President's suggestion that disarmament and settlement of political and economic difficulties be undertaken in international conferences, Hitler replied that the United States had shown distrust of the conference method and that Germany would never enter an international parity without armed might to back up her claims.

There was little expectation of an immediate presidential statement. White House aides said the speech Mr. Roosevelt would deliver Sunday afternoon (1:30 p. m.) opening the New York World's Fair was written before Hitler began his address.

Other developments: President Roosevelt's failure to appropriate in his relief message a $500,000,000 PWA allotment.

Senator Mead (D-N. Y.) said he would seek to attach such an appropriation to the relief bill.

Congressional leaders forecast clear sailing for legislation to postpone a scheduled increase in Social Security taxes for old-age pensions.

The House Ways and Means committee voted unanimously yesterday to defer the measure, which would go into effect next January 1 under present law.

Rumania May Pay World War Debts

Bucharest, Rumania, April 29.—(AP)—Rumania is about to propose a new plan for regulation of interest payments on Rumania's indebtedness to the United States, including war loans, a communique announced today.

It was understood that the government hoped to revive these payments which have lapsed for several years, to the extent of existing transfer possibilities.

The extent of the payments, it was pointed out, will be in proportion to the trade turnover between Rumania and the United States under the new reciprocal trade agreement.

(The World war debt owed to the United States by Rumania as of June 30, 1938, amounted to $63,982,114.)

Kinston Bus Terminal Will Be Erected Soon

Raleigh, April 29.—(AP)—Construction of a bus terminal at Kinston will get under way immediately. Utilities Commission officials said today.

Broadus Glover, inspector for the commission, who returned this morning from Kinston, reported that Fred Sutton of Kinston, would build the station and lease it to the bus companies. The cost would be several thousand dollars, he said.

Miss Cox was in China in 1917 and was located for ten years at the American Church Mission in Hankow. In 1927 she was moved to Wuchang, which is just across the Yangtze river from Hankow.

Last fall, 1938, when the bombing of Hankow and Wuchang became so terrible, the school was moved to Chuanhsian. As the Japanese approached this city, the classes were taken to the fields each morning, feeling it was safer there.

Miss Cox was reluctant to leave China at this time, but the Bishop ordered her back to the States for a six months' rest.

Miss Cox arrived in San Francisco on March 30th, with friends, and made the trip by automobile across the continent, arriving in Greenville last Monday, April 24th.

Art Exhibit. Can you name all the pictures painted by Sir Joshua Reynolds? To be able to recognize a number of good pictures at sight, to describe them, to be familiar with the artists' names, pictures, subjects and style is the aim of Art Appreciation as studied in our schools today.

Joy, studied in line, form and color, was instinctive even in primitive man, and this fundamental love of the beautiful can be made a great uplift to the personal character of everyone.

The desire to know good pictures may be realized by visiting the exhibit of Fine Art Prints which will be on display at the Training school Monday through Friday.

Two World Fairs Expose Vacationists To Lots Of Culture And Fun

Oomph Goes Over So San Francisco Adds More Of It

By SAM JACKSON (AP Feature Service Writer)
San Francisco — After watching the behavior of the first million customers, officials of the San Francisco World's Fair have decided what the fair-goer of 1939 wants is to whoop it up.

As a result there have been some administrative changes intended to make the exposition more of a carnival and less of a museum.

That ever recurrent issue of world's fairs—nudity—has an important place in the picture.

As soon as promoters on the sidelines read that Sally Rand's Nude Ranch had taken in $40,000 in the first eight days, they decided to get in on the money. As a result Greenwich Village, which is an entire street of girl shows, has entered the field, several such attractions are running independently and still others have taken space in television City, being built.

The Folies Bergere is cashing in on the same appeal in the dignified interior of the California auditorium.

How Nude?

There have been several clashes between concessionaires and the fair management as to whether minor wisps of clothing shall be on or off, but so far the concessionaires have had mighty near their own way.

The Gayway, as the amusement zone is called, has been turned over to Mel Smith, a circus and carnival man of 32 years' experience.

There are 40 shows and 15 rides in the zone now, and Smith hopes to increase this to 60 and 30 in short order. He has definite plans for two large night clubs a show-boat, and various smaller attractions. Brighter lights will be installed along the Gayway and efforts made to have something running in every inch of available space.

1939 FAIR VISITORS HEAVIEST SPENDERS

San Francisco (AP) — This year's World Fair visitors — at least the one sat San Francisco thus far — are willing to pay for their fun.

In the 1915 exposition here the average per capita expenditure was 67 cents. The patron at Chicago spent $1.17. Early returns from the current fair show and average of $2.40 a person.

Royalty already has called at this "Pageant of the Pacific." Crown Prince Frederik and his Crown Princess Ingrid of Denmark have viewed its gay splendor. New York Mayor LaGuardia came out to "spy" — paid his own way. Also a visitor was Mrs. Grover Whalen, wife of the impresario of the "World of Tomorrow."

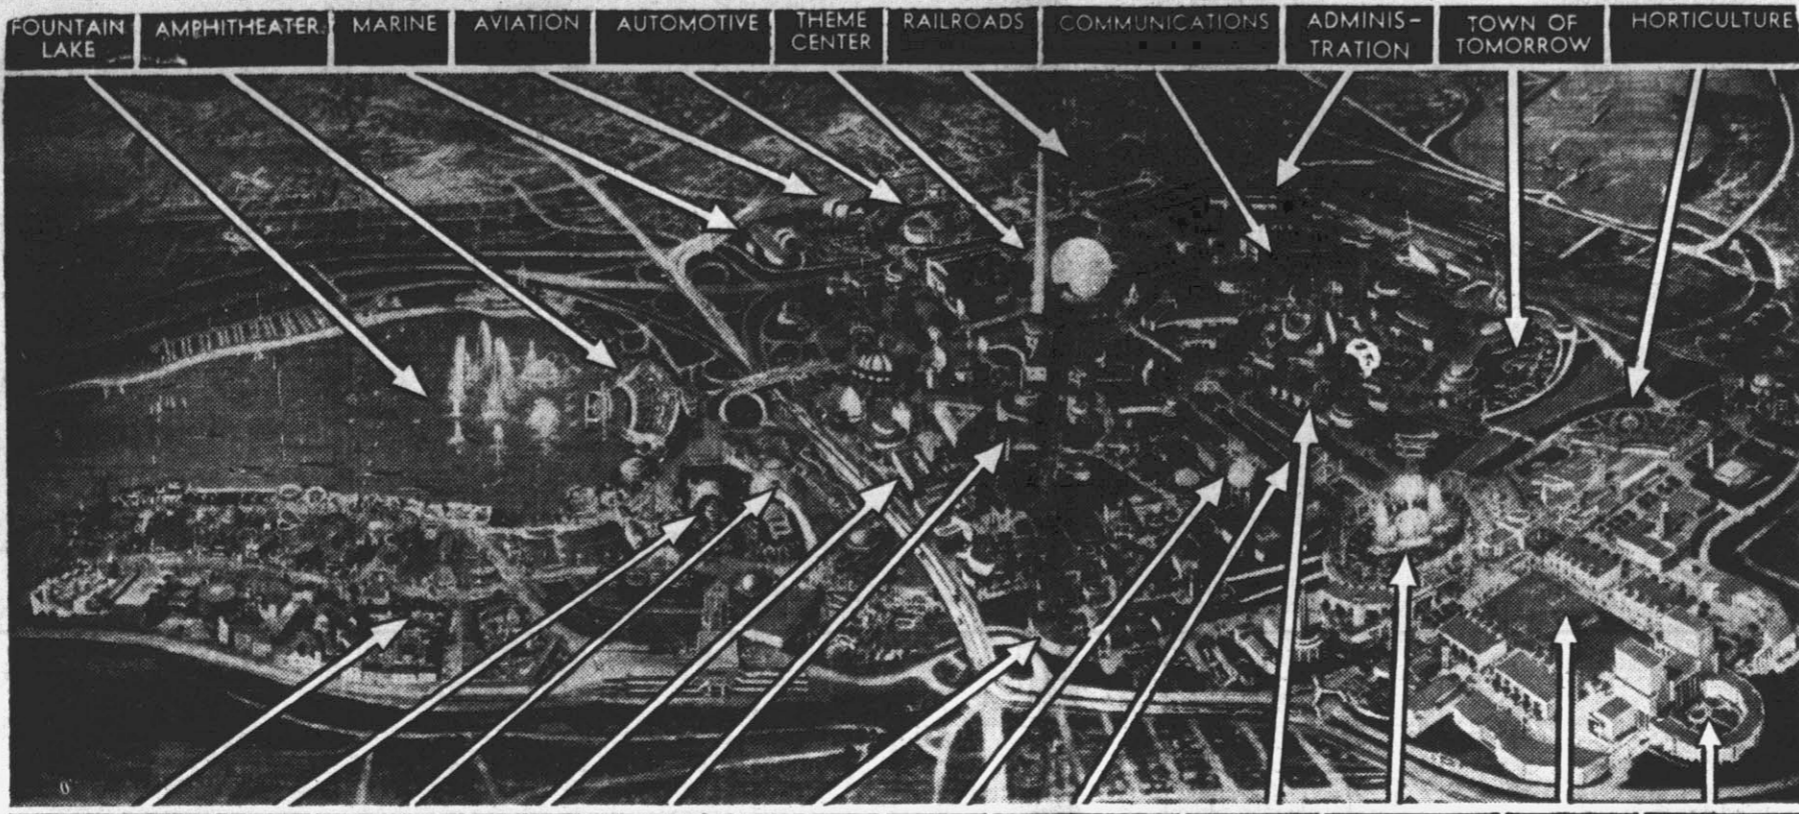

Officials are studying proposals to let down gambling restrictions enough for bingo and keno to run. Bars and cocktail lounges, which were scarce when the exposition opened, have been multiplying.

Spotlight on Free Show

A succession of stage shows has been booked to carry on the program started by Eddie Cantor and the Folies Bergere and a free aerial circus will be rejuvenated and moved to a central spot.

The fact that many major exhibits opened with parties—and champagne—may have contributed to giving the "island," as it is usually called, a festival rather than educational atmosphere. But the taste of the public has dictated the new acme to gaiety.

"A million people can't be wrong," says one exposition official. "They've shown they like the amusement side and that they like things just a little bit rough. All right, that's what it will be."

New York's Fair "Picturing Future, Leaves Out War"

By JACK STINNETT (AP Feature Service Writer)
New York — If the World of Tomorrow lives up to the New York World's Fair of today — whoops! what a place to live in.

In the first place all is peace, for there's not one hint anywhere that there's such a thing in the world as war.

Decentralized cities filled with air and light. Decentralized industry, with thousands of clean factory centers spread out like model villages. Express highways traveled at minimum speeds that make today's speed laws sound like reports on a tortoise race.

Huge liners in the skyways — Electrified farms. Dairies with merry-go-round milkers. And houses of tinted glass and concrete "wool" clothing made skimmed milk "silk" clothing made from coal tar, new plastics to serve a thousand uses.

The men who make the World's Fair exhibit wheels go around insist however, that none of this is idle dreaming — perhaps no more than a generation away. The date most often used in 1960. Almost everything exhibited is not only within the realm of possibility, but has been tested and proved practical.

Visitors who want to concentrate on the World of Tomorrow at the fair, which opens April 30, will start with the Perisphere in which a six-minute trip on a moving platform will give a bird's-eye view of Henry Dreyfus' "Democracy." It's a model city of 1,500,000 persons. The buildings are low, letting in enough light and air to exterminate the pale race of moles who now inhabit our metropolises. Industrial and manufacturing "suburbs" encircle the city but do not crush in upon it.

Three-Level Traffic.

Traffic moves on three levels—on elevated sidewalks for pedestrians, and express subways and highways to the suburban centers, the latter without intersections. There is much class, new methods of lighting, and no parking problems, each building and store having space for a maximum number of cars for tenants, shoppers.

The transportation sector of the Fair traces transportation from the first wheels to a Rocketport, where visitors can see small model rockets depart for other planets.

The General Motors diorama gives an "airplane" view of express highways running straight as strings across the continent, boring through mountains, spanning chasms in glass-encased suspension bridges. Controlled traffic will move at speeds from 75 to 125 miles an hour—and highway lighting, operated by photo-electric cells, will move with the cars.

One exhibit is a model electrified farm where the farmer must be an electrical engineer and his wife a domestic science expert.

Tomorrow's Model Town.

In the Town of Tomorrow, there are 15 model homes, ranging in price from $2,500 to $20,000, this last for one of glass and concrete, with "tarrara marble" walls in the kitchen and baths, much glass furniture and almost every model household gadget known.

The food sector proves that the world of today is undernourished and shows how the world of tomorrow, by optimum diets, can remedy the condition. The new frontiers of medicine and health are demonstrated.

Lighting of tomorrow will be done by fluorescent and capillary tubing — the whole Fair is a demonstration of that.

About the only thing that won't change much, if the New York World's Fair, 1939, is any indication — is entertainment. In that sector, the main attractions are just modern variations on an old, old theme. Egyptians called it sex.

RECENT COURT RULING MAY RE-OPEN TUCKERTON VASE

The court refused, following a fairly well established doctrine that no appeal will lie for the order of a Commission which is "negative" in that it does not specifically order any affirmative action. The P. P. C. ruling had been that the aluminum company must seek a license before it could proceed with erection of its proposed plant, but it did not require the company to do any specific act.

The recent cases which might lead to a reversal of this decision are Rochester Telephone Corporation vs. Federal Communications Commission and Federal Power Commission vs. Pacific Power and Light Co.

Justice Felix Frankfurter, one of the recent appointees to the highest court, overruled the Commission's contention that the telephone case was not subject to review on the doctrine of "negative" orders. The Commission had previously held that the company is subject to its orders, just as the Power Commission held that the N. C. Aluminum is subject to its jurisdiction. Of the doctrine Justice Frankfurter said: "We conclude, therefore, that any distinction, as such, between 'negative' and 'affirmative' orders as a touchstone of jurisdiction to review the Commission's orders, serves no useful purpose, and insofar as earlier decisions have been controlled by this distinction, they can no longer be guides."

He handed down a very similar decision in the Pacific Power case.

In the telephone case, the Justice laid down as necessary for court review of administrative commission orders the necessity for (1) A controversy, (2) General equity in the matter on the part of the aggrieved party and (3) Any statute particular to the case at issue. There is a general impression that the State's appeal in the Tuckerton case met every specification and that, if a means for getting it before the court again can be found, that there might be a different result.

It's a long time after the event to tell about it, but liquidation of the company formed to take over radio station WPTF if it could be bought from the National Broadcasting company was one of the quickest on record.

Chapter 48 The Round-Up

INSIDE the Randall house, Asey greeted Kay absentmindedly. "You, huh? Bout time. Wait outside, Ham. Sit down, Kay. Listen an' don't interrupt. You got a job."

She was white-faced when she came out on the porch a short while afterwards. "Hamilton?"

"Hamilton?" Asey's voice had the quarterdeck ring to it. "Yes, sir!" Hamilton raced indoors.

"Go to the Town Hall," Asey said. "Just before the last dance, give these notes to Mr. an' Mrs. Leach, Weston, Brinley, his wife, Win Billings, Madame Meaux, an' Jane an' Slade. Give this one to Zeb an' see he starts right along. Corra! the others an' take 'em to Aunt Sara's, an' see they go, an' stay. Lane or someone'll tell you what to do from there. Get 'em all, an' keep 'em all, see? Beat it!"

Of all the group assembled finally in Aunt Sara's living room, no one was more bewildered than Hamilton himself.

Lane came at last. "All here? Come along, please."

He marshaled them into their cars, whispered orders to Hamilton, and acted as a rear guard to the procession up to the house.

"Now," he said, "if you'll come indoors—"

"Why?" Sara demanded with asperity. "What is this nonsense? Why—"

"Asey's orders, ma'am," Lane said with finality. Asey himself came out in a moment.

"Sorry to keep you waitin'," he said, "but on the whole, I thought it might be a good thing to have you all here together. Some things has got to be cleared up—"

Another figure appeared behind him. "My!" Brinley said in a choked voice. "Paterson!"

"The auditor!" Sara's voice was even more choked. "If you'll all come in," Asey said blandly, "maybe we can settle some things."

He was tremendously solicitous about finding seats for them all in the living room. Sara couldn't help thinking how her gray cat had the same manner while he waited at a mouse hole—bland, casual, and apparently not a bit eager.

"Now," Asey said, "do let's get this shortage fixed up first."

Sara and Jeff exchanged glances. "My fault," Jeff said promptly. "I know, I'm getting too old—I might as well face it, I suppose. Whatever the amount is, I'll make it good, Paterson. And then I'll resign and let someone else take my place. On my word of honor, Sara and I have swindled over those figures—that's that, Bessie!"

Mrs. Brinley was muttering reproachful things under her breath. "I wouldn't," Asey said, "look quite so smug, Mrs. Brinley. Paterson's found you an' J. Arthur out."

He seemed to shrink. "Asey," Weston said, "which of 'em is it? For my part, I've worked over the books, and worked over 'em, and—"

"All Brinley," Asey said. "He didn't dare play with your figures as much as with Jeff's. You wrote that note to Slade, didn't you, Brinley?"

Money And Hate "I—YES, I did! But what about Jeff and Sara? Where were they on Monday night?" Brinley said. "Where were they when Mary Randall was killed? What—"

"We're not gettin' ahead, here," interrupted Asey. "Let's consider this shortage, an' let's consider the problem of motive—Bessie Brinley shut up! First things seemed to be against the town, an' then against Mary Randall, an' then Jane—with so much planted on her, an' then Eloise. As a matter of fact, we got just two motives. One's money—the town's money. The other's pure hate. The money come first, an' the hate come in later. The money come in because someone got ambitious, an' the hate part's mostly on account of Jane Warren—what'n time's the matter, out there, Hamilton?"

"I didn't hear anything," Hamilton said truthfully. "Go see."

Hamilton went outdoors. When he returned his face was drained of color. "Asey—that figure! Asey, look—look out the window!"

The whole group rushed to the front door, and every head turned toward the four figures, more grotesque than ever under the moonlight.

"What figure?" Sara said. "They—it's moving!" "Nonsense," Jeff said. "But one of the figures was moving."

It fell down, righted itself, and stood up again. The face was a glob of chalky white, apparently without any features at all. Suddenly it wheeled and ran with a peculiar swaying stride around to the back of the house. "The kitchen, Lane!" Asey yelled. "Cut it off, outside there! We'll go through the house—"

He avoided the skeptical eyes of Madame Meaux as he rushed out to the kitchen, with the rest following pell mell behind him. "Snap on the lights, Hamilton!" Asey ordered. "They—well, light that candle if they don't work, then—my gosh!"

There was no sight or trace of the beaver-hatted dummy, but at the head of the cellar stairs appeared an odd glaring light, and a smell that Mike Slade vaguely associated with fireworks. "What'n time," Asey began, "is—"

"Jane!" It was Eloise Randall's voice that sounded from the cellar. "I really think—that is, of course—"

Riggers Cleaned Out As a result of this "thin" market Wall Street is very sensitive to sentiment and feelings today. With radio commentators conjuring up war scares, it takes only a few frightened people to start the market downhill.

Ten years ago it was far too easy for a bunch of Wall Street operators to take the shirt off the back of a Main Street business man. The S.E.C. has cleaned out most of the graft and "fast stuff" of the type that was pulled in 1929.

Recession? Unwarranted Take the situation in 1937, for instance. I do not believe there was any basic need for a business recession at that time, or certainly not as serious a one as we had. The market drop, however, caused a reduction of $30,000,000,000 in stock values in nine weeks.

Greenies To Meet Snow Hill Here Sunday Afternoon

RAIN HOLDS UP FRIDAY GAMES

Greenies Scheduled Meet Billies There Today

With all but two games having been postponed because of rain, most baseball fans had to wait until the week-end to get a view of their favorite Coastal Plain League teams in action.

The Greenies, in Snow Hill today, will be at home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the first league game to be played in the new Guy Smith stadium.

A parade and opening day ceremonies had been scheduled here yesterday, when the locals would have met Wilson in the home opening.

J. B. Eure of Ayden, president of the Coastal Plain League, will be a guest of honor at the game here tomorrow and will throw out the first ball. Other pre-game festivities probably will be staged.

The game here and all others in the league were blocked by rains general throughout Eastern Carolina.

Local fans were hopeful of a rise in the temperature, the sudden drop last night, following yesterday's rains, having made it feel more like football than baseball weather.

In the only two games played in the league so far, Kinston scored a victory over the champion New Bern Bears and Snow Hill upset the Goldsboro nine.

No Game

A tennis meet between Coach H. C. Haynes' East Carolina Teachers College netters and the netters of William and Mary (Norfolk division) scheduled to be played here this afternoon was called off because of wet ground and threatening showers. The netters will meet Lousburg College in a return engagement on Monday.

TWO CONTESTS ARE ARRANGED

ECTC Baseball And Tennis Teams Play Here on Monday

Two athletic events are scheduled at East Carolina Teachers College Monday afternoon. Coach Gordon Gilbert's Pirates will engage the baseball team of Lousburg College in a game starting at 3 o'clock.

Coach H. C. Haynes' tennis team will meet the Lousburg netters at 2 o'clock in a return engagement. Although Friday's game was washed out, the Pirates today completed a two-day invasion of Norfolk with the United States Naval Base.

Uncle Sam's Middles and the Pirates will complete their schedule for the present season here next week after next.

The next big event for the tennis team is May 9, when it confronts the contingent of Wake Forest College in a return engagement. In a contest staged between these teams last Saturday, the Wake Forest boys carried home a 7-2 victory.

Unless additional matches are arranged, the Wake Forest match will complete the local netters' schedule for the present season. Only six more games will be left on the Pirates' schedule after next week. West Carolina Teachers College will play the Pirates in the "West" May 8 and 9. Then on the next two days, the High Point Panthers will furnish the opposition for the Pirates in a two-game series, both of which will be played at High Point.

Ending the season for the Pirates will be a two-game series with the United States Naval Base on May 12 and 13. Both of these games will be played in Greenville. The Pirates are playing four games less than were scheduled at the beginning of the season. Four games, two here and the others out of town, with Wilson State Teachers College of Washington, D. C. were canceled.

Colored Camporee Will Close Sunday

Despite bad weather there are 161 colored Boy Scouts camping by the colored school at Fifth street extension. Some 20 patrols from nearly a dozen different communities where colored scouting is organized have sent representation to the fifth annual patrol Camporee. It will be remembered that Greenville had the first white Camporee of the East Carolina Council four years ago when, in 1935, Camporees began with but 20 Scouts attending. Two weeks ago, 1,152 white Scouts gathered at Tarboro, proving that Camporees are in favor with our Scouts. The colored Camporees each year have grown. Only 107 colored Scouts attended the Camporee in Wilson last year.

Tonight, F. C. Harding, president of the East Carolina Council, will speak at the farewell campfire. Scout Executive Sigwald and his assistant, with several local white Scoutmasters, and A. J. Taylor, of the national office, have cooperated to help make this annual camping experience a success. The Jaycees have taken care of the physical arrangements of the Camporee. This afternoon the Scouts saw a movie. The Camporee will close Sunday morning when, after church service, the ribbons will be awarded.
