LABOR UNIONS SUPPORT BILL AS HEALTH

Wagner Proposal, However, Opposed By Medicos

GERMANY CITED BY OPPOSITION

Sec. Morgenthau Reiterates Congress To Be Asked for Action to Aid Business

Washington, May 11.—(AP)—A. F. of L. and C. I. O. officials testified today in support of a proposal by Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.) for an expanded federal health program...

The witnesses testified at a Senate Labor committee hearing on legislation to provide federal grants to states for various health activities.

"In Germany in 1850 they started these things, and what is it now? a dictatorship," Dr. C. L. Palmer of Harrisburg, chairman of the Pennsylvania society's committee on public health legislation, asserted.

Lee Pressman, counsel for the C. I. O., attributed the opposition to "a reactionary group of officials of the American Medical Association."

Matthew Woll, representing the A. F. of L., urged enactment of the measure.

Other developments: Secretary Morgenthau reiterated that the Treasury intends to ask Congress to remove business deterrents from the tax laws.

A White House secretary said President Roosevelt was considering further steps in the soft coal shut-down controversy, but would take no action as long as the operators and miners representatives continued negotiations.

The WPA committee investigating WPA heard testimony that members of the Workers Alliance plotted unsuccessfully to prevent by use of force a congressman from attending the Reading, Pa., post office cornerstone laying ceremonies because he voted against increased relief funds.

Low-income farm families in North Carolina who obtained rehabilitation loans from the Farm Security Administration apparently are paying them back faster than farmers in some other states.

Administrator W. W. Alexander informed Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) that more than half the money the F. S. A. lent to North Carolina farmers up to January 1 had been repaid by that date.

This compared with less than a third repaid in all states combined. Alexander wrote Bailey that 11,870 loans totaling $5,287,000 had been made to North Carolina farmers since inception of the program in 1935 and as of January 1, $2,693,700 had been repaid.

Mrs. Crawford was the widow of Marion Crawford and the daughter of the late Matthew and Elizabeth Worthington Bowen of Greene county.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Cox of Whiteville and Mrs. Venia Edmondson of Greenville; one brother, C. L. Bowen of Greenville; two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Grimsley of Ayden and Mrs. John Jolly of Greene county; eight grandchildren, Berocne and Thurman Vincent, Thad Cox, Emily and Evelyn Cox, Mrs. Leslie Hart, F. A. and Elizabeth Edmondson; and two great-grandchildren, Maxine and Hector Vincent.

Members Of 40 & 8 Feast At Shad Supper

Approximately 30 members of the Wilson Vulture, Forty and Eight, enjoyed a plank shad supper, prepared and served by one of its members, T. J. Swain, at Third Street school yesterday afternoon.

Members from several of the towns represented in the vulture were here for the informal gathering.

It was announced at the gathering that officers would be elected at the June meeting, to be held at the Dixie Inn in Wilson.

COMB CRISIS: LEADERS ARGUE - MINER SIT, WHITTLE

With 460,000 soft coal miners idle in 26 states because of the deadlock in negotiations for wage contracts, union leaders and representatives of the operators called on President Roosevelt at the White House and heard his firm request that the mines be re-opened quickly. They are shown (top) at the White House. Left to right, front row: John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers union; Charles P. O'Neil, operator; Van A. Blittner, union; Phillip Murray, union; Walter Robison, operator; John Owens, union. Back row, left to right: David McDonald, union; L. T. Putnam, operator; Lee Gunther, operator; and John D. A. Morrow, operator. Meanwhile miners whittled away their idleness as best they could. Below, a group of them sits on the steps of a company store near Pittsburgh, whittling, rolling their cigarettes and chatting—but most of all, hoping to hear the whistles blow for their return to work.

MINES TO OPEN IN SOME AREAS

Instructions Sent By Lewis; Coal Shortage in N. C.

New York, May 11.—(AP)—John L. Lewis dispatched telegrams of instructions today to union leaders in outlying districts in the soft coal mining regions to sign new contracts with operators and when that is accomplished to "arrange for forthwith operations of the mines."

About 126,000 miners employed in the so-called outlying districts stopped work May 4 and 5 to back up the 320,000 idle miners of the Appalachian area, whose representatives are deadlocked with the operators' committee in contract negotiations at the Hotel Biltmore.

Lewis' telegram emphasized that two sentences must be added to the wording of the old contracts when the new agreements are drawn. These sentences make the U. M. W. exclusive bargaining agency for the employees and establish union shops.

Reopening of the mines in the 14 districts outside the Appalachian area would stave off a threatened crisis resulting from a fuel shortage.

At Raleigh, N. C., meanwhile, nine state institutions polled by the Division of Purchase and Contracts have enough coal to last an average of 30 days.

Prices at the mines have jumped from $1.25 to $2.75 as a result of the strike of the miners, James Potter, assistant director of state purchases there, said.

The Eastern Carolina Training School in Rocky Mount is completely out of coal, Potter said, and probably will buy fuel from local dealers within the next few days. The Stonewall Jackson Training School in Concord also needs coal for cooking purposes, he added.

There will be a meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Red Men Hall for the purpose of completing the organization. Mr. Shearin is anxious for all members now residing in this vicinity to be present at the meeting.

N. C. Employment Service Shows Improved Business

Raleigh, May 11.—April report of the North Carolina State Employment Service contains a mass of figures on this, that and the other thing—figures which it's more than a little hard to understand unless initiated into the mysteries of the service's methods of getting out reports; but even to the comparatively uninitiated there emerges from the maze of numbers a definite conclusion that business is better in North Carolina.

Best way to support this conclusion is by way of a few comparisons, such, for example as:

The final quarter of the present fiscal year begins with the smallest number of applicants actively seeking work since January, 1938. The file is less by 34,250 than it was on May 1 a year ago.

Total placements (which is to say jobs found for registered applicants)

Late Filers

Raleigh, May 11.—(AP)—Late filers among lobbyists continued to report today regarding 1939 legislative activities to Secretary of State Thad Carr. They included:

Augustus T. Stroud of New York City, reported paying $1,000 for professional legal counsel to Norman Sheppard of Smithfield.

North Carolina Produce Dealers Association paid $500 for legislative counsel to S. M. Blount, former Beaufort county legislator.

New Junior Order Council Organized

F. G. Shearin, field secretary of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, reported today that a new council of the order is now being organized in Greenville. A temporary organization was formed at a meeting last night in Red Men Hall. Mr. Shearin stated that the outlook is very promising and the charter list would soon reach a large number.

The public in general and especially the members now residing in the city are actively interested in the new council. The order is well known in this section as there are at present six councils in Pitt county. For many years the order has had the distinction of being the largest fraternal order in North Carolina. The great part that it has played in promoting Americanism, education and restricted immigration among the citizens throughout the nation. The order maintains the largest and most modern orphanage in America, a branch of which is located at Lexington.

There will be a meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Red Men Hall for the purpose of completing the organization. Mr. Shearin is anxious for all members now residing in this vicinity to be present at the meeting.

TRADE TREATY IS CONCLUDED

Britain to Get Wheat; Rumania To Get Armaments

London, May 11.—(AP)—Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons today that Great Britain and Rumania had signed a trade agreement under which Britain would advance a credit of 5,000,000 pounds (about $23,400,000).

Britain will take 200,000 tons of Rumanian wheat and the credits she will advance to Rumania will be used for the purchase of United Kingdom goods.

Stanley said the protocol of the agreement was signed in Bucharest today following the recent "successful" visit of a British trade mission.

It was expected Rumania mainly would purchase armaments with her credit.

Britain pushed the agreement as part of her campaign to offset Reichsfuehrer Hitler's economic penetration of Central and South-eastern Europe. (The British trade mission was sent to Bucharest after Rumania and Germany signed a trade agreement.)

Stanley said an organization would be formed to promote British-Rumanian trade "in a number of channels."

Britain will purchase 200,000 tons of wheat from the next harvest, "if available" at world prices.

8-YEAR-OLD SHEPHERDESS SAVES FOR COLLEGE

Canoga Park, Calif.—(AP)—The future of Dolores Yrgoven, 8 years old, is tied up with the flock of sheep she tends.

Two years ago, cash from Dolores' own savings bank bought a lamb. The flock has been added to until now there are 116 sheep. Proceeds from wool and mutton go into a special savings account, intended to send Dolores through school and college.

Annual Mothers' Day Theatre Party

The annual Mother's Day party at the Pitt Theatre will be given here Monday afternoon and all mothers 55 years of age or over, will be special guests of the Pitt Theatre, with The Daily Reflector, Greenville Floral Company and Carolina Dairy participating.

Coupons which will admit mothers of Pitt county and vicinity to the theatre will be printed in The Reflector tomorrow and Saturday. All a mother who has reached the age of 55 years has to do is fill out and take it to the theatre. Upon reaching the theatre she will be presented with a bouquet by the Greenville Floral Company.

Following the picture she will be served refreshments by the Carolina Dairy.

Thomas Y. Walker, manager of the Pitt Theatre, has secured an unusually good picture for the party, "The Life of Alexander Graham Bell." Don Ameche, Loretta Young and Henry Fonda, the stars, will be supported by a well-known and capable cast.

Doors of the theatre will open at 12:45 o'clock and the show will start at 1 o'clock. Mothers, however, will be admitted on Reflector coupons until 1:30. Last year approximately 200 mothers attended the party and an equal number are expected this year.

DALADIER SAYS FRENCH PACTS AIM AT PEACE

Declares Alliances Formed to Prevent Catastrophe

INSISTS PEACE IS DESIRED BY ALL

Asserts True Problem Is Whether Violence Necessary to Settle Difficulties

Paris, May 11.—(AP)—Premier Daladier told the Chamber of Deputies today that "France, in accord with all other states which wish to live honorably," had concluded specific military alliances to prevent "violence and threats from leading Europe into catastrophe."

"The true problem," he said, "is to know if the different interests which can divide peoples can be regulated by methods of peaceful collaboration or by violence and force."

He asked if it were necessary to recall "violated promises, torn up accords, nations which have disappeared or been subjugated despite the most solemn promises made at the same hour when contrary decisions were being taken."

Daladier declared the "love of peace is so profound for all peoples of the world that no one wants to call on it to cover all forceful undertakings."

He asked if peace consisted of invading other countries and presenting "continual new demands which can lead to conflict, condemning peoples to misery."

"France," he said, "knows no hate. She feels sincere sympathy for all peoples, she knows, besides, by long experience that war would not solve any of the problems, that it would make their solution more difficult and more ruinous."

Tar Heel Citizens Paid $30,600,000

Every day in 1938, life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries in North Carolina were paid $83,835 or a total of $30,600,000 for the year, according to a special compilation by The National Underwriter, weekly insurance newspaper.

Life insurance payments in North Carolina in 1938 equalled 36 per cent of the $84,303,000 total bank savings deposits in the state last year. Life insurance payments last year equalled 40 per cent of the $75,214,904 total assets of building and loan associations in North Carolina. The state's unemployment insurance fund of $8,439,923 at the end of the fiscal year in 1938 was only 27 per cent of the life insurance payments.

North Carolina ranked twentieth in life insurance payments among all states, while it is twelfth in size of population. The per capita payment in 1938 was $8.85.

Claims in Pitt county during the year totaled $180,000.

Fear Eight Succumbed In Grain Elevator Fire

Blaze Spreads To Another Large Chicago Elevator

Chicago, May 11.—(AP)—An explosion and fire tore a rambling grain elevator asunder with such suddenness today that firemen feared at least eight workmen were killed.

Because of the size of the structure and intensity of the flames, firemen said it was impossible immediately to determine the casualties.

Four men, two reported near death, were in the South Chicago hospital.

The elevator covered a square block and was 150 feet high, located at 102nd street and the Calumet river on the far south side. It was owned by the Rosenbaum Brothers Grain Company, a spokesman for which estimated the 800,000 bushels of grain stored there was valued at $200,000. He estimated the elevator itself was worth $200,000.

Three other elevators are in the immediate vicinity. Dockmen said no vessels in the Calumet river were threatened. A 5-11 alarm and four special alarms brought all apparatus in the area.

Robert Thomas, a witness, said a "sudden explosion" hurled flames "about 300 feet in the air." Smoke was visible on the south edge of the loop several miles away.

At 11 a. m., the flames were reported to have spread to another larger elevator and a third was threatened.

OFFICERS GET CAMP ESCAPEE

Life-Termer Sent Up From Forsyth Taken Near Weldon

Raleigh, May 11.—(AP)—Will Barham, a life-terminer convicted in Forsyth county in 1936 of kidnapping W. W. Pollock of Winston-Salem, was captured early today near Weldon, the penal division said.

Barham escaped several days ago from the Caledonia prison farm. Oscar Pitts, penal superintendent, said he was caught about 2 o'clock as he attempted to catch a train. He surrendered without a struggle.

Other captures included: Archie Taylor, about 27, serving three to five years for house-breaking, imposed in Rutherford county in May, 1930, and who escaped from the Cary prison camp January, 1932. He is held in Los Angeles, Calif. Extradition papers are being prepared.

Declares Editor Daniels Anxious For Party Post

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, May 11.—Through the circuitous routes of capital gossip comes a story unprovable in a court of law and extremely apt to be denied in all quarters—but at the same time it's a very interesting story about the campaign for governor which will end in 1940 but which has been under way to all practical intents and purposes for a long time.

The story hinges on the desire of Jonathan Daniels, editor of The Raleigh News and Observer, to be Democratic national committeeman; and the point of it is that there seems quite a possibility that he will attain his heart's desire by way of a bit of "hoss trading" with the state administration.

To make the story stand up at all it is necessary to go back as far as the Democratic state convention back in 1936. Mr. Daniels earnestly desired then, just as now, to be the committeeman. The then Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus cherished the same lofty ambition; but at that particular moment the Ehringhaus star wasn't particularly bright—certainly not in the ascendant.

On the morning of the convention it looked extremely like Daniels.

This didn't suit Senator Josiah W. Baffey and his friends—particularly some of his friends. And so between eleven and one o'clock on that fine convention day telephone wires, automobiles and retired corners were all kept very and exceedingly busy.

When the showdown came, A. D. (Lon) Folger, now congressman from the Fifth district, the Bailey candidate, was named national committeeman.

R'GARD DANZIG AS 'HOT SPOT'

Chamberlain Says Any Attempt To Change Situation By Force Would Start War in Which Britain Would Be Involved; Former Premier Blum of France Insists That Two Democracies Are Not Bluffing

London, May 11.—(AP) Prime Minister Chamberlain said in an Albert Hall address today that any attempt "to change the (Danzig) situation by force" so as to "threaten Polish independence would inevitably" start a general war in which Britain would be involved.

Chamberlain said: "In many minds the danger spot in Europe today is Danzig where our assurances to Poland are clear and precise. Although we would be glad to see the differences between Poland and Germany amicably settled by discussion, although we think that they could and should be so settled, if an attempt were made to change the situation by force in such a way as to threaten Polish independence, why then, that would inevitably start a general conflagration in which this country would be involved."

The prime minister spoke to a meeting of women members of the Conservative party shortly after Viscount Halifax had received Soviet Ambassador Malsky in a new effort to smooth out Russian-British negotiations for an alliance.

This meeting coincided with indications by Iveskila, the Russian government's organ, that Moscow would reject Britain's latest proposals for co-operation in Eastern Europe guarantees.

Chamberlain said that ex-Premier Blum of France, who visited London yesterday, asserted that there was one main danger of war, that the rest of Europe might become convinced that Britain and France were insincere and could not be relied upon to carry out their pledges of military aid.

"No more deadly mistake could be made," the prime minister asserted, than to attribute such insincerity to the British-French front. He added, "It would be a frightful thing if Europe would be plunged into war on account of a misunderstanding."

Malsky's call was the third in three days.

Pitt Negro Charged With Chicken Theft

Sheriff J. Knott Proctor today reported the arrest of "Big Boy" Johnson, Pitt county Negro, on a charge of stealing chickens from a Negro woman residing about five miles from Greenville north of Tar river.

Sheriff Proctor said the Negro allegedly stole about a dozen chickens and then sold them to a local poultry dealer. The Negro was released under a $100 furnished bond and will be given trial at the next session of county court Tuesday of next week.

Postpone Council Meet. Geneva, May 11.—(AP)—At the request of Soviet Russia, the League of Nations today postponed its council session originally set for next Monday until a week later.

SEES INCREASE IN LEAF CROP

Estimates Planting to Show Gain of 15 Per Cent

Raleigh, May 11.—Lloyd Weeks, assistant tobacco specialist of the State College Extension Service, estimated today that North Carolina growers will increase their plantings of flue-cured tobacco 15 per cent this year.

Since compulsory control was removed from the tobacco crop last winter, farmers have been free to plant an unrestricted acreage this year.

For the flue-cured leaf belt as a whole, growers have indicated they will plant 11 per cent more tobacco this season than last, when they marketed 786,000,000 pounds. However, yields per acre on the 1938 crop were considerably above average. With normal yields this year, the 11 per cent increase would still place the total production below the 1938 figure. Acre yields up to the high level of last year would produce a 1939 crop of 872,000,000 pounds.

Weeks said in the spring outlook report on tobacco, the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported prospects for stable or moderately improved general business conditions throughout the remainder of 1939. On this basis, it appears probable that cigarette consumption will be maintained at its present high level.

Although blue mold struck heavily in most of the Border and New Bright Belt counties, no general shortage of plants is expected to occur, Weeks said. Comparatively few cases have been reported where farmers will have to depend on their neighbors for seedlings.

In some communities, the recent hail storm did considerable damage to plant beds, while in other sections the damage was negligible, the tobacco specialist pointed out.

Mrs. Castelleo was presented a large doll as the prize.

The feeling generated had become so intense that Joseph Daniels, home from his job as ambassador to Mexico, asked that his name be presented as a candidate for delegate at large to the national convention. This was done in spite of the fact that a sub rosa campaign for him had been under way for a week or more. Then we jump three years. There is evidence, discernible to the piercing eye of the politically initiated, but unprovable by documentary evidence of pertinent legal testimony, that since early in the 1939 legislature the makers of governors and senators and national committee-men have been doing some of the already-mentioned "hoss trading."

These initiatives profess to see that the recent request of Governor Clyde R. Hoey that prospective candidates withhold formal announcement until later in the year was prompted by a desire on the part of administration forces to perfect a pending trade.

Now, they insist, the trade has just about been consummated. And here is the trade as they see it: In return for News and Observer support of the administration's fair-haired boy for the governorship, Jonathan Daniels will be permitted to attain his long-time ambition and will be handed the job on a silver platter.

It's a good political story—circumstantial and logical in most of its aspects, and it has behind it the very substantial and solid basis that it is a matter of record fact that during the 1939 General Assembly session the News and Observer, for the first time within the memory of veteran observers, stood shoulder to shoulder with a state administration on practically every question—notably on the hardest battle of its session over the question of diverting highway funds.

Your correspondent would hint out, however, that it is no more than a logical story—not a matter of mathematical certainty. If it is so—wouldn't it be ironic if the administration's mantle should fall on the shoulders of Lieut.-Gov. Wilkins Perryman Horton, whose resignation as a state senator the News and Observer loudly demanded in 1931 because he would not vote for a luxury tax? Or would it?

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Francis Hanna

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate.

Yesterday: Antagonized by Thorn, Tally built a fence dividing his side from the Russell's.

Chapter 10

Embarrassing Position

RETURNING from the club before dinner, the two Russells held the latest check strictly. Jocelyn, trembling with anger, ran over to the line of eight-foot planks stretching down the center of smooth landscaped terrace. She choked. She sputtered. She clenched her small fists and shook them at the fence.

Thorn was more stoical. "I'm not at all surprised," he muttered. "The young man seemed quite angry when I left him earlier. I fear I wasn't very tactful."

"Are you ever tactful?" Jocelyn demanded. "I should have known better than to let you talk to him. You rub everybody the wrong way!"

Thorn's large blue eyes held an injured look. "That isn't fair, Lyn. I get on well enough with everybody except Bob."

She showed her hands into the pockets of her camel-hair topcoat. "I'm sorry, Thorn. I—I guess my nerves are jumpy. What can we do? We just can't allow him to put up this horrible spite fence!"

"Come on in the house and we'll talk it over. I've got an idea."

Before going into the drawing-room Jocelyn paused against the stone balustrade, untied the silk scarf from her hair and looked out over the ocean where the lights of a passing ship were visible. The surf, just below the terrace, pounded with even rhythm, soothing her jangled nerves. A stiff salt breeze touched her face and ruffled her hair. Moonlight stretched a path over the water and filtered through the fronds of the bordering palm trees, creating a night landscape of picturesque beauty.

Jocelyn sighed, followed Thorn-tyke inside. Seacraft had been both heaven and hell to her all of her life. She had always known a here pride of possession; a warm satisfaction of living in the place where her parents and her grand-parents had lived . . . and died. But now it was being destroyed by vandals.

Thorn turned on the large console radio, selected a program of symphony, and after a few minutes pulled a low divan. Jocelyn walked over and turned off the radio.

"Lyn, what the devil's wrong with you?"

"We're here to talk ways and means, Thorn. I don't see how Brahms will help. Just what is your idea, Thorn?"

"For you to make friends with the brute," he said, as if it were the most simple thing in the world. "We have arrived exactly no place by antagonizing him. Now, Lyn, you can be captivating when you wish to be. And you are beautiful. It's up to you to try some feminine persuasion."

With an impatient gesture she took off her coat and flung it over the arm of a chair. "Oh, that's grotesque, Thorn. The time for that is past. Anyhow, I wish nothing to do with a common farmer."

Thorn twisted the ends of his mustache with soft, fluid hands. "Either you stoop to conquer or you'll be conquered. How about it?"

"Pretend an interest in cows and chickens if you have to. Go out and watch him milk the cows in the morning. Smile at him even if it tracks your face!"

"It will! And I hardly think it will work," she said, doubtful. "Suit yourself, then. Now do you mind if I listen to Brahms? It just happens they are playing my favorite concerto."

"Listen and be darned!" she snapped, starting for the stairway. "Geoff is picking me up in an hour."

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington.—The executive order making San Juan in Puerto Rico the center of a new Caribbean defense department promises to make the old Spanish town a new pleasure spot for the army.

The limited number of army officers who have had a trick there in years past say it equals or surpasses even Honolulu in many respects as a place to live. Among other things, costs are low so an army officer can save a lump of change to offset the price of living in some of the costlier spots, such as Washington and Boston.

As an army post, San Juan never has ranked alongside Honolulu, a big pleasure spot. But the centralization of the Caribbean defense seems likely to multiply the number of officers on duty there. At present there are 52 officers and 850 men.

Gold In A Moat
In their off hours, army officers play golf around the old Morro Castle, which still is surrounded by remnants of the moat which once guarded it. Two holes, the first and second, are played in the moat and the second is a stickler. From down in the moat the players loft a shot across a bastion to land down in the moat on the other side—if they are lucky.

"Abajo," shouts the caddy if the ball lights down in the moat where it is supposed to.

"Arriba," he shouts if it fails to hit the moat and lands on top. Then the player has to climb out of the moat, play the ball out of the overhanging thickets, and scramble down again.

Swimming is grand, but sharks make life interesting. Outlying reefs protect some of the beaches, while others are protected by steel nets.
Fishing is good and sharks are part of the fun.

Living in the sub-tropic pleasure belt may be tough on some, but army records indicate the reverse. A 10 years' study of army hospital admissions at Honolulu discloses a number about 25 to 30 per cent below other hospitals in the army.
Honolulu was right smart happy about that report and San Juan says it is just as healthy a spot as Honolulu.

So That's Propaganda
And since we are always on the lookout to bring you word of the nicer things of life, we will quote you what Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota said Propaganda
Ibsen of Norway said of propaganda.

"Propaganda," says Ibsen to Ship-stead to you, "is an operation on the mental vision so as to make the most vile thing beautiful."

Bainbridge Colby, who was testifying before the Foreign Relations committee at this moment, would not let the subject drop. He was a member of the emergency fleet corporation during the war and knew first hand of propaganda. He also quoted somebody else, but we didn't catch the name. Said he:
"Propaganda is to mislead your enemies without quite misleading your friends."

We might stop at this point, but Mr. Colby didn't. He said it was a mistake for this country to have barged into the World War and he hoped our present leaders would not blunder about it and put us in another one. To emphasize his point, he quoted Preacher Henry Ward Becher, one of whose women partisans had come penitently to him to plead:

"But, please sir, don't we all make mistakes?"
"Yes," responded benign Becher,
"but I try to make new ones."

U. S. Must Import 17 Materials Vital In War

Richest country in the world in resources, the United States still is not self-sufficient. Not only for industrial peacetime needs but also for wartime military requirements we must go abroad for certain essential materials. So the Government, as part of its preparedness program, wants to lay in a supply of these materials—called strategic by the army and navy munitions board because they are essential to the national defense and must be shipped in from abroad. As one means of acquiring a store of such goods, the House Military Affairs Committee has recommended that $100,000,000 be spent in direct purchase. Final action has not been taken, but a proposal to let debtor nations pay off with war materials has been knocked out. Battering is another means being considered. England recently announced Uncle Sam had initiated negotiations to exchange "certain raw materials," probably his wheat and cotton, for John Bull's rubber and tin. These and 15 other products are on the strategic materials list. Their principal sources and uses are shown on this map.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau

He's the only one of the 900 and odd with a straw hat.

(Note Mr. Hood says that when the picture was taken it was some 85 degrees, and very, very sunny in K. C., while on the same day it was raining, hailing, sleeting and snowing in North Carolina.)

Incidentally, Commissioner Hood served on the same committee of the church upon which former Governor and G. O. P. presidential candidate Alf M. Landon was active.

And speaking of pictures, the Manufacturers Record, business publication for May, has a full page layout entitled "Life in North Carolina Mill Villages," obviously designed to show that all textile operatives are not victims of a grinding sweat shot system.

Workers are depicted playing golf, watching football games, exchanging beauty hints and the like.

Neal's Creek in Mt. Mitchell game refuge, has been set aside for wamblers anglers only. The creek is one of the best-stocked trout streams in North Carolina.

No fisherman, your correspondent always thought it took quiet and no talk to catch the finny things.

Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission, doesn't think there's much chance Hitler will attack the United States.

Last night he told the Major Reading Blount chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at Washington, N. C.:

"There is about as much chance that Hitler will attack the United States as that a German submarine will torpedo the city call of Akron, Ohio. What we have to fear is not that the Germans will attack us, but rather that we will be swept away by the flood of propaganda to which we are now being subjected."

Wonder how many Confederate veterans would have turned over in their graves if they could have seen the streets of Raleigh decorated yesterday with United States flags in commemoration of Confederate Memorial Day?

Former State Senator L. A. Martin of Davidson county, was in Raleigh for the Supreme court session of Wednesday.

The determined lawmakers who led the losing fight for a state-wide liquor referendum in 1937 was, too talkative on his political intentions, but he did go so far as to say that he has not altogether discarded any idea of running for the lieutenant governorship next year.

State Senator and President Pro Tem W. Erskine Smith was also here for the same Supreme court arguments. He did not have every-thing to add to or subtract from reports that he has been surveying the lieutenant governorship field with a view to his possible entry.

WHAT IT MEANS:

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer
Washington—Call time out on the European headlines for a few minutes, and you'll discover that the Congress and the President of the United States are working up a new design for democracy right under your nose.

The pattern of their effort goes by the name of "government reorganization." But don't let that fool you. What goes on is a lot closer to home plate than a mere moving day for government agencies.

The basic idea seems to be to make democracy work in the face of the stinging argument of the totalitarians that democracy stands for "do-nothing."

The immediate objective of reorganization is efficiency and economy in our bureaucracy, but far more important it was found necessary to create a new device, a new design, perhaps a new balance of power in government to achieve that simple end.

The Roosevelt administration and the lawmakers who helped the administration put over the new reorganization law claim it's the most important step toward efficiency in democracy in 25 years, and they swear they haven't sacrificed the democratic principle to achieve their end.

The opposition camp tells a different story. They swear by—and in—the Congressional Record that the Constitution has been scrapped, and we are on the verge of government by decree.

At Least Evolutionary
As for who's right, we'll just have to wait and see; but in the new reorganization law we do have a new design that is certainly evolutionary, perhaps revolutionary.

By this device, the President proposes and the Congress disposes; the President initiates, the Congress vetoes. The normal democratic procedure is, therefore, reversed in two of the three branches of our government. The third, the Supreme court, still holds the final kibitzing power, doing business at the same old constitutional stand.

So, we now have the President proposing definite, rigid plans to streamline the executive branch of the government.

The Congress has no right under the new law to tamper with any to those who have access to our ears, and forget the multitudes who can never see our faces, or hear our voices."

The reorganization law went through the Senate, only after a recess was taken to unscramble a parliamentary traffic jam. But when it did go through, it contained a host of concessions to the people who want to safeguard democracy first and attend to efficiency and economy afterward. At one point in the formula required by the new law, a simple majority of the two houses can upset the reorganization apple cart, and scurry back to the slow, deliberative procedure that was good enough for father.

Furthermore—and finally—the Supreme court may yet have to decide whether the law itself is constitutional.

But, meanwhile, the President has started the ball rolling with Plan No. 1 affecting 90,000 federal employees. Watch Congress closely, and you'll have a first hand picture of democracy working out its destiny.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of kidney tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 2 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smearing and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LIVES BEYOND DATE ON HIS TOMBSTONE
Covington, Ind.—(AP)—A tombstone in Mt. Hope cemetery says Le Grady died in 1934. But Grady still lives here, in seeming good health.
In 1933, Grady, sick and out of work, and fearing he hadn't long to live, asked L. D. Hegg, the town's monument building mayor, to erect the marker and put on 1934 as the date of his death.
Soon after, Grady got work and his health improved. Now he won't allow the inscription to be changed. He believes it brought him luck.

Several Players Share Honors In 13-Inning Victory

DROP TARBORO BY 7-6 COUNT

Locals Get Revenge For Loss to Snakes Saturday

Greenville defeated Tarboro, 7-6, in the 13th inning yesterday afternoon at Guy Smith park to gain revenge for its 13-inning loss to the Serpents in Tarboro last Saturday night.

Catcher Vincent Smith scored the run, Ralph Simpson singled to tally him. Badger held the Serpents scoreless for seven innings. Simpson who had walked scored on singles by George Rimmer and Manager Rube Wilson to knot the count at seven in the last half of the ninth, all of this after the Serpents had scored five runs in the sixth to go one ahead of the locals, so give the honor to your favorite and any of the above named are due plenty of honors.

It was truly a ball game and despite the time required to play it, five minutes short of three hours, very few fans left before the final out.

Calliguri started on the mound for the Greenvilles and fared well until the final sixth. The locals tallied two in the second to take the lead after Tarboro had pushed one across in their half of the second.

Greenville added one in the fourth and two in the fifth, in which framed Skipper Rube lifted one over right field fence with Rimmer on base. Rimmer, incidentally, got three for four yesterday and his hitting, along with Wilson's four for six, kept the Greenvilles ahead until that sixth.

The Tarboro rally was started off with two walks, none out. Lehman's single and Shatzer's double brought in three runs and at this point Badger relieved Calliguri. He fanned Whitfield and Bunkin and it looked as if he would stop the Serpents short of tying the count, but Solly Myers slotted a double and Owens duplicated the feat. The inning ended with Tarboro leading, 6-4.

Four four innings then it was anybody's ball game, and Pilot Wilson evidently felt it belonged to Greenville for at the end of the 12th when the Serpents were considering calling the game but up a squawk which resulted in the umpire allowing one more inning, but announced that this is positively the last. But it was enough.

Sieminski, who started on the mound for the Serpents was removed after Wilson's homer and was relieved by Bunkin, who, in turn, gave way to Pat Malone. Tarboro ace hurler, in the ninth, Malone got credit for the loss, with credit for the game going to Badger.

LIGHTS TESTED AT SMITH PARK

Everything To Be In Readiness For After-Dark Contest

Baseball here tomorrow afternoon. Baseball here tomorrow night. The lights at Guy Smith park were tested last night, after which J. M. Taft, representing the Board of Aldermen, officially turned the lighted park over to President Guy Smith of the baseball club.

A large crowd went out to the park last night to see the lights and a number of persons who were riding in the vicinity went to investigate what all the brightness was about.

Expressions of "fine," "a good job," etc., were general.

In case you are interested, there are 156 units, or globes, each of 1,500 watt, erected on eight fixtures, or poles, making a total of 234,000 watts turned on the field. Too, if you want to know, the rate is three cents. This amounts up to, if we make no mistake in multiplying, exactly $7.02 an hour it will cost to play under the lights.

The lights, installed under the direction of W. A. Darden of the Water and Light Commission, were manufactured by the Cross-Hines Fixture Company, sold by Graybar. They were purchased through H. R. Goodall, local Graybar representative. The purchase and erection of the lights were handled by the Water and Light Commission.

Back to the opening game under the stars: Greenville will meet Tarboro here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and again at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. The afternoon game was moved up an hour so there would be plenty of time for the players to get a rest, eat and be back for the night game.

PIRATES READY TO END SEASON

Play Norfolk Here Friday, Saturday; Lose to Panthers

Reaching the half-way mark of a six-game series, the E. C. T. C. Pirates yesterday afternoon sustained a 9-2 defeat at the hands of High Point College's Panthers.

High Point made its scoring debut in the opening frame—adding two runs in each of the next two innings after staging a three-run party in the initial stanza.

Kelly Martin one of the locals hurling mainstays, got busy after that and held the Panthers scoreless for the next two innings, enabling them to scratch two alphas off his glove in the sixth, and then held them scoreless for the last two verses.

Coach Gordon Gilbert's boys were held scoreless for six consecutive innings as a result of the "Teative" hurling of Hal Yow, brother to Coach Virgil Yaw of High Point College, who set the Pirates down with only a half-dozen well scattered safeties.

Bill Shelton, shortstop, Lester Ridenhour, second-sacker, and Norman Mayo, third-sacker, got two hits apiece to account for all of the Pirates' blows in yesterday's game.

Corlume and Secret familiarized themselves with Martin's hurling technique and garnered a trio of safeties apiece off the veteran hurler.

A game this afternoon with the Panthers will conclude the Pirates' out-of-town play for the season. Curtains will be brought down on the season here Friday and Saturday of this week when the Pirates engage the U. S. Naval Base of Norfolk in a two-game series.

McKINLEY FRONT PORCH MADE INTO GOP GAVELS

Canton, Ohio.—(AP)—The front porch from which William McKinley conducted his famous campaign of '98 is still in use. You'll find part of it at nearly every important Republican function—as a gavel.

The house itself was torn down five years ago, but wood from the porch was saved. Local Republicans converted some to gavels prior to the 1936 convention, presenting one to Nominee Alfred M. Landon.

The idea grew and gavels soon were being turned out by the dozen, many to fulfill requests from close friends of the former president.

From the largest pieces of wood, elephants have been fashioned.

Williamston Also Victorious to Keep Pace With Greenville

Williamston's Martins defeated New Bern's Bears, 6-5, yesterday to continue in a tie with the Greenvilles for first place in Coastal Plain standings.

Wilson nosed out Snow Hill, 5-4, for their third win of the season. Kinston's luckless Eagles continued their losing streak in a thrilling slugfest with the Gold Bugs. The Eagles scored five times in the 9th to take the lead, but the Bugs came back in their half of the ninth to tally twice and win the ball game.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 11.—(AP)—It was a case of "Where do we go from here?" in the stock market today, and with prices jumbled from the start of an indifferent session, the direction was highly indefinite.

Transfers approximated 400,000 shares.

Early losses running to a point or so were reduced at the close and plus marks were in evidence here and there, but numerous issues finished under water.

Spring's Here.
Dalhart, Tex.—(AP)—You can jot down April 29 as the day that spring came to the high plains country. On that day Uncle Billy Ketchum, 4, shaved off his winter's growth of whiskers. Old timers around Dalhart say a person can set his calendar by Ketchum's annual shaving ritual.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York.—Any representative selection of colorful characters in Manhattan must include these names: Sasha Siemel, Plomtos, J. M. Stewart and the much-tattooed Barney Quam.

Sasha is the sizer man and hero of that strange book, "Green Hell." His hobby is stalking 400-pound jaguars in the upper reaches of Bolivia with a spear and bow and arrow. On these jaunts he scorns firearms ("They're effete"), because they interfere with his technique, a spine-tingling bit of jungle by-play that only modern Tarzans would appreciate.

His custom is to enrage the beast until it charges. Sasha calmly stands in the cat's path until it springs. Then he quickly places the spear butt on the ground, holding the point at a 45-degree angle. By the force of the beast's own charge it is impaled on the spear. Nothing to it, he assures you, if your nerves are steady and you hold the spear just right.

Sasha is a cultured Russian and speaks seven languages fluently, but to observers, with his full sandy beard and calm penetrating gaze he looks like a refugee from Swiss Family Robinson.

Then there is Plomtos, who gave up his Greenwich Village studio not long ago and went to Paris. Probably no more bizarre character ever came out of the village than he, a consummate clown and mimic. It was at gatherings that his genius for mimic became evident. He never lost an opportunity to gently lampoon absent members of the group.

But his chief hobby is music and he has some notable concertos to his credit. His happiest moments are those when he supplements recordings of his compositions with personal renditions on the piano.

One day a young hoodlum tossed a brick through Plomtos' window. Instead of flaring up in anger and chasing Plomtos thoughtfully contemplated the shattered pane. Then he turned to his guests. "You see now, please? I revise my concerto." The crash of broken glass had set the wheels of composition spinning toward a new strain of melody.

Almost everybody knows that Bronx merchant, J. M. Stewart, who has led his skirling Kilties down Broadway on the last night of the year for the last 29 years. There couldn't be any real New Year's Eve in New York without the Kilties on parade. It is a clanish band of bagpipers, and its members never resign. When they die their sons and relatives take their place.

Each year the parade begins at the McAlpin hotel and continues down Broadway, and this in itself is a fitting thing. It was old General McAlpin who became the band's first pipe major.

Then there is Barney Quam, tattoo expert, who runs a little shop in the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge, on the Manhattan side. But he doesn't sell chest murals to wandering sailors. He sells straw mats and entwined snakes, dancing Patimas and voluptuous ladies, which he will transpose to chests, thighs and arms, for his friends only. If he likes you, you get tattooed. No cost.

COLORS FOR AUTOMOBILES ARE FAVORED IN WEST

Denver.—(AP)—People out West like their automobiles colored.

A study by Rocky Mountain Motorists, automobile club, disclosed that in the southwest only 16 per cent of all cars purchased are of conventional black. The gaudier colors are preferred.

California folks like light hues for their cars, while in Washington and Oregon the drivers prefer dark ones. Blue is the favorite color in the prairie states.

The study also disclosed that color tastes change from year to year. Significant was the discovery that in the "depression" years more somber colored cars were sold.

BOMB EXPLODES IN RELIEF OFFICE

An apparent attempt to bomb the state relief office at San Jose, Calif., resulted in the critical injury of Primo Trombello, 34, who recently was denied aid because he had a bank balance. Police said the crudely made bomb exploded as Trombello entered the office and shouted "look." His right arm was shattered. He is shown being carried from the office.

DON'T COUNT ON TASTE TO DETECT PTOMAINE

Knoxville, Tenn.—(AP)—Taste or smell is useless in detecting ptomaine poisoning in food, says Dr. R. M. Powell, University of Tennessee physician.

"Food infected with these poisonous organisms is not altered one iota in appearance, taste or odor," explains the physician. He suggests the best protection is to avoid salads or other dishes made of leftovers in warm weather months, since high temperatures are favorable to the growth of bacteria, causing the so-called ptomaine poisoning."

Gold On Wings.

Croydon, England (AP)—Gold bullion, which was formerly shipped by ocean under guard, is now being flown from Belgium to England.

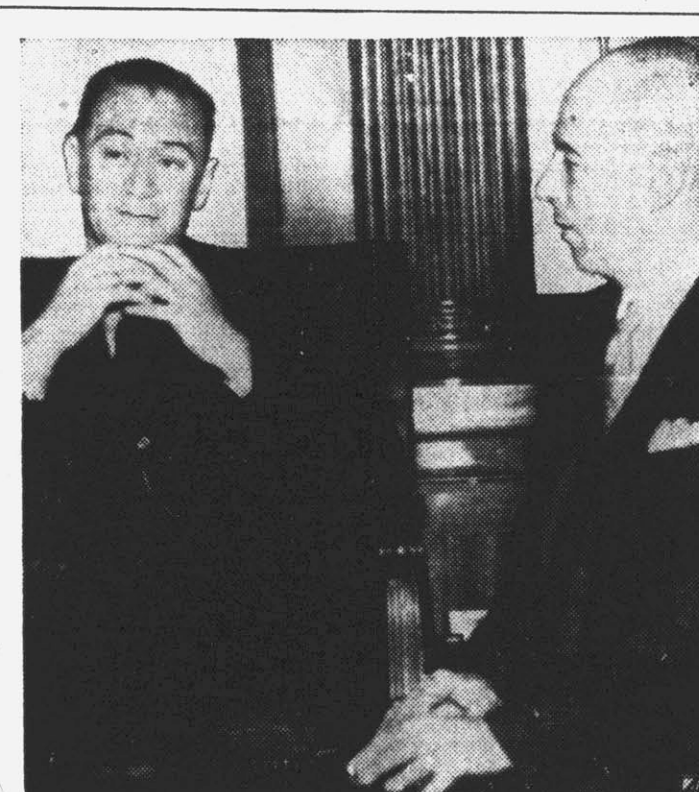

DOG IS CHLOROFORMED, BURIED WITH MASTER

Yadkinville, N. C.—(AP)—Mose Bryant loved his dog. So when the 47-year-old farmer died the animal was chloroformed and buried in the grave with him at the Fall Creek Baptist Church. Bryant saw how the dog grieved when Mrs. Bryant died a year earlier, and he asked his neighbors to put it to death so it would not have to grieve at his own death.

In 1938-39, foreign cotton production was 15,750,000 bales and United States production 11,850,000.

Under the federal farm program a farmer may earn $3 an acre by planting and turning under winter cover crops.

'MERCY SLAYER' TELLS HIS STORY

Louis Greenfield (left), on trial in New York for the "mercy slaying" of his 16-year-old imbecile son, Jerry, is shown on the witness stand as he was questioned by his attorney, Samuel Leibowitz. "It was the will of God," cried Greenfield in anguish. "I killed him because I loved him."

N. C. EMPLOYMENT SERVICE SHOWS IMPROVED BUSINESS

(Continued from page one) private employment was found for 2,390, while 4,304 placements were made in public employment—4,287 men and 15 women.

The service presented an analysis of applicants and placements made during the month of March, with 25,989 applications received and 5,576 placements made during the month.

Major occupational groups they were classified as follows:

Miscellaneous	1,203
Professional	538
Sales Persons	1,148
Clerical Workers	1,049
Service Workers	3,702
Craftsmen	5,969

Of the 25,989 applicants, 11,286 were filed for the first time while 14,703 renewed applications previously filed which had been cancelled because of failure to renew.

Of the applicants 16,614 were whites and 9,375 Negroes. Of the placements 4,406 were whites and 5,170 Negroes. Men represented 69 per cent of the applicants and 75 per cent of the placements.

Placements during the first quarter of the present fiscal year were 29,349; for the second 26,043; and for the third 26,043, making a total of 78,837. This figure represents an increase of 31 per cent over the same period last year.

Production workers accounted for 19 per cent of the number placed during the nine months; physical labor 36 per cent; craftsmen 12 per cent and service workers 26 per cent.

LA SALLE $1240
BROWN-WOOD

A LOT OF PEOPLE have been disappointed because they bought a car without first driving LaSalle. LaSalle, with its great Cadillac engine, is the finest-performing car ever offered at its price. It does everything better. You owe it to yourself to get the facts before you act. A half hour at the wheel is all it takes. Remember—almost half the people who try a LaSalle buy a LaSalle.

AND UP, delivered at Detroit, subject to change without notice. Transportation, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra.
