IDEAL HEALTH PLAN OFFERED BY REYNOLDS

Health Officer Addresses Doctors On Cruise-Meet

DR. W.M.B. BROWN ALSO ON PROGR'M

Members Of North Carolina Medical Society Are on Way Home From Cruise to Bermuda

Aboard S. S. Queen of Bermuda, En Route To Norfolk, Va., May 13.—(AP)—Dr. Carl Reynolds, state health officer, presented to the North Carolina Medical Society today what he termed the "ideal plan for handling health and allied problems."

"We have our people needing medical care in one group," he told the doctors returning from a vacation cruise to Bermuda. "We have the medical profession to administer that medical care in another group."

"We must have the best available minds to direct this most important and vital element in moral, mental, physical, social and economic welfare."

"To whom shall we turn for this service? The unanimous decision would be that the medical mind is better qualified. This being admitted may I present to you a board of directors?"

This board, he said, should be made up of the state Medical and Dental societies, representatives from these two groups, representatives from the government, the state health officers, county health officers, city health officers, representatives from public welfare departments, the Department of Agriculture, home economics, public instruction, parent-teacher groups, hospital boards, institutions for blind, mental and child hygiene workers, civic clubs and philanthropic citizens.

Causes of agranulocytic anemia still are unknown. Dr. W. M. B. Brown of Greenville told the section on ophthalmology and otolaryngology of the North Carolina Medical Society today.

In a paper read before the section, Dr. Brown discussed findings recorded by doctors who have made a special study of the disease and gave an account of a case he had known.

The doctor said his patient was a single woman of 43 who he discovered had the ailment after he was called into consultation by a dentist. Dr. Brown said the disease occurred principally in middle-aged women and it was virtually unknown in Negroes.

A large percentage of the Bethel club's membership attended the meeting in a bus chartered to make the trip. The Bethel club has shown much success under the leadership of President S. C. Lives and Secretary Larry Powell.

Kidnappers Attempt Force Putnam To Reveal Author Of 'Man Who Killed Hitler'

Publisher and Husband of Late Amelia Earhart Is Found Bound and Gagged in An Incompleted House Near Bakersfield, Calif.; Told It Would Be 'Healthier' to Cease Printing Book

Heroic Sheriff W. W. Schulz here points to the spot in the bedroom of an isolated farm house near Sidney, Neb., where James W. Sulzer, 42-year-old salesman, crouched defiantly with his 14-month-old son, Jimmy Sulzer, as a hostage. The sheriff fired two volleys of tear gas into the room, rushed in and grabbed the child, and bolted with Sulzer firing at him "about nine times." Sulzer, who had sought to take the child from his estranged wife, then killed himself, the sheriff said.

Poland Protests Ban On Services Honoring Hero

Order Decreed By Nazi-Controlled Danzig Senate

Free City of Danzig, May 13.—(AP)—Poland protested to the Nazi-controlled Danzig Senate today against the Senate's order forbidding a memorial here last night for the Polish hero Joseph Pilsudski.

The Senate had stopped Poles in Danzig from assembling to honor the late marshal on the grounds the meeting might cause trouble.

Poland's protest was delivered this morning by the Polish commissioner, Chodacki, to the President of the Senate, Arthur Greiser, and was based on the assertion that the Danzig government could not "guarantee the peace."

The text was not made public, but it was said to have been "very energetic."

The Danzig Senate replied to the business and having a three-minute debate for a memorial service and that it seemed unwise to hold an open air meeting in view of the strained situation. It asserted that meetings in rooms or halls were not forbidden.

Polish newspapers, drawing their own conclusions from Warsaw's step, said that if the Senate feels it cannot be responsible for order, then the Polish army ought to be sent to insure order there.

All Poland yesterday solemnly observed the fourth anniversary of Pilsudski's death by conducting memorial services, closing places of public policy requires that they keep those mines closed," when union contracts which included the union shop clause had not been signed.

Publisher and Husband of Late Amelia Earhart Is Found Bound and Gagged in An Incompleted House Near Bakersfield, Calif.; Told It Would Be 'Healthier' to Cease Printing Book

Bakersfield, Calif., May 13.—(AP)—Bound and gagged, George Palmer Putnam, 52, Hollywood publisher and widower of the late Amelia Earhart, was found in an uncompleted house here today a few hours after he was kidnapped from his North Hollywood home.

Putnam, unhurt, said the kidnapers demanded the name of the author of the anonymous book, "The Man Who Killed Hitler," and suggested it would be "healthier" if he ceased printing it.

A statewide search for the pair and for Putnam's car, in which they brought him here, was ordered by sheriff's deputies.

Two Department of Justice agents from Los Angeles sped here to question the publisher, but declined to discuss the case.

"They were very decent to me," Putnam declared. "They didn't rough me at all."

The publisher said he refused their demands and recalled ruefully that he had "thought the other warnings were phoney." Receipt of a bullet-ridden copy of the book, two letters and a telephone call threatening his life were reported to Los Angeles police within the last month and on one occasion he fired two shots at a man who was climbing a tree near his bedroom window.

"I'm a little upset, but I'm not hurt," Putnam said, as he sat in the sheriff's office here.

Then he described the events of last night.

Mrs. Jeamcy Dail, 85, widow of Calvin Dail, died at 6:20 p. m. yesterday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Heath of Ayden, route one, with whom she had made her home for the past 19 years.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of Rev. W. B. Nobles, pastor of Rose Hill Free Will Baptist Church, of which Mrs. Dail had been a member for many years. Burial will follow in the Byrd family cemetery.

Mrs. Dail spent her entire life in Pitt county, in the Winterville community.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Heath and Mrs. Sam Gordon of Kingston; two sons, J. Amos Dail of Rocky Mount, and J. H. Tripp of Fountain; 18 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Leonard Now Mentioned For Gubernatorial Race

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, May 13.—Latest political gossip about the governorship race to reach this correspondent's desk comes by way of a medium even less credible and creditable than the grapevine line; but inasmuch as everybody else of even moderate importance has been mentioned as a potential candidate for the executive mansion, it's got to be a matter of the more, the merrier, so why shouldn't J. Paul Leonard, executive secretary of the Fair Tax Association be mentioned, too?

J. Paul is put into the picture by an anonymous writer—and as a usual rule, the writer of an anonymous letter is about as low as any creature that creeps and crawls. This one appears to be no exception, as his violent prejudice and dislike of the very man he names as a possible candidate is strikingly ob-

SCOTT BOOSTS 'COTTON WEEK'

Commissioner Puts in Plug for No. Two Cash Crop

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 13.—Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott today put in a plug for observance of "Cotton Week" in North Carolina.

The "Number Two Cash Crop" remains the king of the state's great textile industry and the united efforts of merchants, industrialists and consumers to promote the use of cotton products will return handsome dividends, he said. Of "Cotton Week," which will be observed May 22 to 27, Scott said: "This promotional period must be extended if North Carolina is to remain in the cotton business, and there is reason enough why a state well-equipped with textile plants should continue the demand for cotton—a product which furnishes employment for thousands and contributes enormously to the wealth of the state."

He pointed out that cotton brought more than $17,400,000 to North Carolina farmers last year though the staple was selling at conspicuously low prices. There are in the state thousands of farmers who are still growing it at a profit, he added.

"President Roosevelt has said that a third of the nation is ill-dressed, and so long as cotton can be produced economically in North Carolina our farmers have natural advantages for producing raw materials needed to correct one of our great economic ills," the commissioner said.

He praised merchants for showing keen interest in promoting the use of cotton products, but emphasized that it is fundamental that all citizens and cotton interests unite to help the farmer increase his own income and promote the prosperity of the state by the use of cotton and cotton products that can be purchased to the economic advantage of the individual as well as the industry.

Six Operators Of Mines Walk Out On Meeting

Object to Union Shop Clause in New Contracts

New York, May 13.—(AP)—Six members of the Southern group of bituminous operators withdrew today from the Appalachian conference rather than sign the new two-year contract with the United Mine Workers of America (U. M. W.) which includes the union shop clause.

L. C. Gunter, spokesman for the Southern operators, said the group first voted "no" to the proposal for the union shop clause and then withdrew. The six are the Big Sandy, Kentucky; The Hazard, Kentucky; The Kanawha, West Virginia; The Harlan, Kentucky; The Southern Appalachian of Tennessee and Southwestern Virginia and the Virginia Coal Operators Association.

All are in the so-called high volatile group. Gunter said there are 45,000 men employed by the dissenting groups and that the mines produce about 45,000,000 tons a year. The other members of the conference signed the contract and the mines will be reopened Monday.

WHO IS THE "FORGOTTEN MAN" OF 1939?

Babson Says It's Time We Gave The Investor A Break

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass., May 13.—Who is the "Forgotten Man" of 1939? We heard a lot about the "Forgotten Man" a few years back. In the political campaign of 1932, he was the average little fellow. But who is he today? The wage worker is getting better hourly pay now than in 1929. The executive is still getting a high salary. The labor leader is sitting prettier than ever. The politician is having a hey-day. Even the farmer is getting his benefit payments. Who, then, is the "Forgotten Man"? He is the stockholder, who is the real employer.

Stockholder Squeezed. In the hundreds of new laws that have been passed since 1932, in the thousands of speeches that have crowded the air-waves, in the millions of editorials that have been written, and in the billions of dollars of taxpayers' money that has been spent, the stockholder has been forgotten. (The S. E. C. was put in primarily to protect new investors rather than existing stock-

KING DELAYED BY HEAVY FOG

Empress of Australia To Reach Quebec One Day Late

Aboard Empress of Australia, May 13.—(Canadian Press)—Fog again halted the Empress of Australia today and it appeared the liner carrying King George and Queen Elizabeth on their visit to Canada and the United States would be a day late in reaching Quebec.

The Empress was fog-bound in the ice-berg zone 250 miles east of Cape Race, Newfoundland, and 1,080 miles from Quebec, where she was due to arrive at 9:30 a. m. Monday. It was not believed that she could dock before Tuesday.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced that the royal visit to the Canadian capital, scheduled from May 17 to 20, would be shortened by one day because of the liner's delay.

Surrounded by icebergs that could not be seen from her fog-shrouded decks, the vessel was almost helpless to make westward progress. Most of the time even the nearby escort cruisers were invisible from the liner.

She had one good run about 8 a. m., when the fog lifted partially in bright sunshine. She immediately speeded ahead, but within 20 minutes the fog came down again and she had to stop.

Ship's officers admitted that even if the fog lifted shortly it would be impossible to reach Quebec on schedule.

OBJECTIONS TO POPULAR VOTE ON WAR CITED

Norris Expresses Opposition to Referendum Bill

SOLON VOTED NO ON WORLD WAR

Expresses Opinion That "Country Was Worse Than Congress" Before U. S. Entered

Washington, May 13.—(AP)—Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.), who fathered a constitutional amendment abolishing "lame duck" sessions of Congress, expressed opposition today to another proposed change in the Constitution, the war referendum measure.

Norris said he doubted that the proposal calling for a vote of the people before American soldiers could be sent to fight in a foreign war would aid materially in keeping the country out of armed conflict. "I can't help but think that in the World War the country was worse than Congress," said the Nebraska, the only member remaining who cast a Senate vote against war in 1917.

Other developments: Exportation of tobacco seeds and plants except for experimental purposes, and then only by special permit from the Department of Agriculture, would be prohibited under a bill passed by the House and reported favorably by the Senate committee on agriculture and forestry.

Tobacco state representatives who backed the bill, said it was designed to protect the domestic tobacco industry from the rapidly growing foreign production.

Persons found guilty of shipping plants or seed in violation of the bill would face a maximum penalty of $5,000 and one year imprisonment.

Government experts reported to President Roosevelt there would be a shortage of aircraft mechanics in time of war and recommended that existing facilities for training skilled workers be "expanded to the limit of peacetime practicability."

A seven-man inter-departmental committee, headed by Oswald Ryan of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, reported 60,000 additional workers to supplement the 40,000 now employed in the aviation industry to execute the current army and navy air corps expansion.

House economy advocates promised to renew the campaign to slash the Agriculture Department bill, which carried a record-breaking sum of $1,218,666,572 as approved by the Senate yesterday.

Observe National Hospital Day.

In observance of National Hospital Day, which was originated in 1921 by Matthew A. Foley and the purpose of which is to promote a better understanding of the work of the hospital in the community, Pitt General Hospital held open house Friday afternoon from two until five o'clock. Visitors were greeted by the private duty nurses of Greenville, who showed them over the entire hospital, explaining the work of the various departments.

The guests were first shown the doctors' offices, X-ray rooms, laboratory and treatment rooms, the wards for both white and colored patients, and the dietary department including the main kitchen, dining rooms, and dietitian's office.

Of particular interest in the medical department was a chart showing the remarkably successful treatment of disease, especially pneumonia, with new serums and recently discovered drugs.

On the third floor, the use of an oxygen tent was demonstrated, then the guests were shown the operating department with its sterilizers, delivery room, anesthetic room, and main operating room which has recently been furnished with new and very modern equipment.

After visiting the children's ward and the private rooms, the guests were served refreshments in the sun room by Mrs. James L. Evans and Miss Eloise Bryant, assisted by other members of the nursing staff.

Dr. Boyd will gladly cooperate with you in this request.

TO MY MOTHER

As a tiny mite I must have been a burden. In your eyes I lie. The tender light of mother love With its strength of courage And prayer you carried on as intended above.

When a child you challenged me Toward the straight and narrow path; For that I'm grateful to you and thank Thee.

Who prepared me to resist temptation, As it takes much understanding To appreciate our mothers most in meditation.

In my shelter in the storms Throughout life you have been And many a success has shown In the patterns woven by a mother.

Throughout little one's life, That mothers are great artists unknown. —Virginia Moore.

'YOUNGEST MALE IMPERSONATOR' is title claimed for Sandra Henville, shown with her mother, Mrs. Roy Henville, a native of San Diego. Sandra, at 15 months, played the part of the boy-baby complicating a recent Bing Crosby film. She earns $150 a week when she's working; $50 a week when she's not. Her contract runs seven years. She's "Sandy" for male roles.

BRITISH 'TOY SOLDIERS' march—but only on the drill grounds of a Dover military school, preparing a "toy soldier" act for the Olympia tournament. England's most recent answer to the dictators' threat of arms was a conscription program to give 310,000 men in their 21st year six months of training.

Washington Daybook. By Preston Grover. Washington—The Twentieth Infantry has a jolly little marching song called "The World Turned Upside Down" which it has carried since the Revolutionary War. In a sense, that is what has happened to our relations with the Caribbean countries in recent years. They have turned upside down. The Caribbean nations, those little Central American and offshore countries generally referred to as the Banana Belt, occupy a special status with relation to the United States as was shown so well by the visit here of President Somoza of Nicaragua. When he here into town, who should be on hand to greet him but President Roosevelt, Vice-President Garner and the whole upper bracket of the government. Troops lined two miles of Pennsylvania avenue from the Union Station plaza to the White House. That takes a lot of troops, even when you spread them out at arms' length, as they were this time. If you line Pennsylvania with soldiers, there aren't many left for national defense.

No More Rough Stuff. Because of the Panama Canal, the United States must keep the Caribbean belt contented, or at least quiet. Time was when it was done by sending troops down among them. But not any more. For a score of years or more, the United States has been winning the Latin Americans over to a sort of hemispherical co-operative. It is a big departure from old times. Why, there was a time right in Nicaragua when the United States didn't like the president. His name was Zelaya. He was pro-British and threw all the trade concessions to British business interests. We wanted some of them. And how did we get them? When the inevitable revolution of those days started, we threw our influence behind it—and out went Zelaya. That happened under President Taft, but it wasn't exclusively a Republican trick. President Wilson did it with Huerta in Mexico, and for the same reasons basically. One reason was that he was throwing all the oil concessions to the British. Diplomacy and business went along together. Disturbances in the Banana Belt always invited foreign interference. And because of the need of keeping the Panama Canal free from the reach of alien hands, the United States had to preserve a stable government. Peace also was necessary for American business interests. Diplomatic pressure and even troops were used in Nicaragua, Haiti and San Domingo to keep the peace and protect business. In return, United States banks co-operated by making loans which helped to buy out foreign investors and make diplomatic easier. It was called "dollar diplomacy."

A Different Pressure. Look at the arrangement now. Diplomatic pressure is on a much more elevated plane. Within reason investors who put their money in the Caribbean must take their own risks. Mexico is giving trouble now, but there is no thought of sending troops down there even though the government has seized valuable American investments. And is our government dependent on United States banks for sweetening the necessary arrangements for governmental stability down there? Not any more. The United States government, through the Export-Import Bank, makes loans direct. One has been made to Brazil already and President Somoza expects—and probably will get—one for his own country. As for the others, the line forms on the left.

The population of Canada is 10,000,000 people, and that of Europe, which has about the same area, is 450,000,000. The United States consumed 2,873,165 bales of cotton in 1930; 4,568,679 bales in 1937, and 5,747,978 bales in 1938.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, May 13.—The advertising division of the Department of Conservation and Development is receiving daily from the North Carolina exhibit at the New York World's Fair, hundreds of registration cards, filled out at the Tar Heel booth in the big city. On these cards are listed the things in North Carolina in which the registrants are interested. By far the largest single group is that which wants to know about the state as a place in which to spend a vacation; and a surprisingly large number of these ask specifically for information about our state parks. In view of this interest among outsiders, it is safe to assume that there is also more than a little interest in state parks among citizens of North Carolina; and it is also fairly safe to assume that many of them do not know what state parks we have and where they are. For that reason, this column will today be devoted to giving a brief bit of information about each of the seven state parks, all of which have been established to preserve areas of outstanding natural beauty or scientific or historical interest; and to provide for recreational needs.

MOUNT MITCHELL STATE PARK encompasses 1,124 acres including the highest peak in eastern America, towering 6,884 feet above sea level. No point in the park is less than a mile high. The park is situated in the Black Mountains of Yancey county, contains Black Balsam Cone, Big Tom and other peaks only a few feet lower than Mitchell itself. Several miles of trails thread the park area. Facilities for a limited amount of rough camping are available. Meals and sleeping accommodations are available from private camp operators at Camp Alice and Stepp's Gap, near the park.

MORROW MOUNTAIN STATE PARK is located in the Upland Piedmont, a few miles east of Albemarle in Stanly county. It covers 4,100 acres of steep and rugged terrain in sharp contrast to the rolling hills of the surrounding Piedmont countryside. It may be reached over paved roads from State Highway 740 between Albemarle and Badin. Five miles of paved roads and ten miles of trails wind through the park. A modern swimming pool and an up-to-date bathhouse furnish adequate swimming facilities.

HANGING ROCK STATE PARK in Stokes county is one of the most easterly mountainous areas in the state. It includes 3,900 acres with a wealth of plant life more than 300 species having been listed. It is four miles northwest of Danbury, 30 north of Winston-Salem and can be reached by a country road branching off from State Highway 89 two miles northwest of Danbury.

RENDEZVOUS MOUNTAIN STATE PARK is the smallest of the North Carolina parks. Located in Wilkes county, it contains 142 acres of rather rough mountain land. It includes the upper slopes and peak of Rendezvous mountain, and is covered with hickory, tulip, poplar, red maple and several other species of trees. No recreational facilities have yet been developed in this park, but two springs, one on each side of the area, accessible over easy trails, provide suitable place for picnics. It may be reached by driving three miles over a county road which branches off from U. S. Highway 421, 12 miles west of North Wilkesboro, or by a three-minute drive over a paved road which branches off from State Highway

by Frances Hanna. The Characters. Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress. Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Seaciff. Yesterday: Bob Russell, who is attracted by Gretchen Mack, helps Tally and Gramp build a roadside stand.

Chapter 12. Mad Or Same? AFTER the swim Bob joined the Mack family around the square, oilcloth covered table and ate a cold supper of baked beans and potato salad supplemented by quantities of fresh milk. The meal finished, he stated: "I want to pay for the best food I've ever eaten! Get into your hats and coats, all of you, and I'll take you to a movie in Santa Barbara." "Have got to read up the dishes," Mrs. Mack excused, "and Gramp is wore out. Besides, Betsy has to go to bed by seven. You take Gretchen and Tally along with you, Bob."

Tally darted a look at his sister, but she did not seem quite like the idea of her going out with Bob Russell, yet she certainly deserved some fun. "Sorry, Bob, don't see how I can go. Too much work to finish. Gretchen, you go on with Bob." Her right hand trembled a little. "Just—just a minute, Bob. I'll put on my silk dress and change my shoes and stockings." When Bob and Tally had gone outside to smoke, Gramp shook a crooked forefinger at Delia. "This is your doom! Sendin' them two young folks alone to a picture show. If Gretchen gets a heartbreak it's your fault! That gallivantin' rich fellow ain't goin' to marry no widow with a sassy kid." "And why wouldn't he?" Delia demanded. "Gretchen's a good girl and a good housekeeper. She ought to have a young man to beau her places."

Grumbling, Gramp extracted his plug of tobacco from his hip pocket, bit into it gingerly and began to chew. "Durned store teeth," he muttered. Jocelyn, having learned to expect the unexpected, was nevertheless very rudely shocked when Bob escorted her down to view the roadside stand the next morning. It was eleven o'clock and the Macks had already stocked the display shelves with crates of eggs, chickens, of oranges and lemons. A large artistically painted sign fastened up on top of the stand announced the wares they had for sale. Smaller signs were nailed at ten-foot intervals to trees on both sides of the drive.

Jocelyn, appalled, clutched at Bob's arm, holding him back; unwilling to step out from the protection of the orange trees into sight of the enemy. "You were here yesterday, Bob," she asked. "They like you. You might have been able to reason them out of this. How could you let them do such a thing?" "Let them? Bob grinned. "Why, I helped them! I painted the signs and made the shelves. It was my idea. Isn't it grand?" "It's not grand at all completely mad!" she demanded. "I've gone completely sane," he contradicted, unruffled. "Listen, Lyn, whether you sympathize or not, the fact remains that these people have to earn their food and clothes and this is the only way they have of doing it. It's decent and it's honest and I say more power to 'em!"

Deeply Grieved. HER lips trembled and tears made dark blue pools of her eyes. When she spoke again her voice was low and bitter. "You've always scoffed at the things 'thorn and I believe in, Bob, yet I thought it merely a pose. I never imagined you would turn against me—oh, Bob, how can you turn around you and not be hurt by the despoiling of Seaciff? That horrible fence—like a prison wall—marring the terrace; cows in the riding stable; chickens on the tennis courts; beds of flowers plowed under to make room for carrots and onions! And now this! Doesn't it mean a thing to you that Seaciff was built by a great man who became governor of this state? That one of the Presidents of the United States visited here? That this place has been the pride of Santa Barbara for years and years? Your own father would have been Mayor of Santa Barbara if he and Mother hadn't been in that terrible accident! I—I love Seaciff. Bob it—it's the only home I've ever known—I love its history—and now it is being cheapened and commercialized!" He saw she was deeply grieved, yet he could not offer sympathy. "I'm sorry you take it this way, Lyn. I don't even know what to say in defense—not that I consider it necessary to defend my thoughts and actions to you—but I do love you, Lyn. I was five when you were born. I was a lonely child. Thorn and I never got on well, even in childhood. I was crazy about you—" He paused, searching her face with tender eyes, then went on: "Lyn, Grandma Jocelyn knew when she made out her will that the Macks were about to lose their Texas farm. She knew they had not money. I can't believe that she did not foresee what would happen here with their coming. Grandma was hard-headed and practical to you—she—I feel sure she would want the Macks to be fed and lins by the United States government on June 4, 1924. It is located in Carteret across Bogue Sound from Morehead City, and is reached by paved highway from U. S. 70 at the western edge of Morehead City. The area has a long and interesting historical background. Present Fort Macon was begun in 1824 and completed in 1826 at a cost of about $463,000. The fort was in Confederate hands from April, 1861, until April 25, 1862, when it was captured by Union forces. Greenville Wins Both Afternoon And Night Contests

TITLE GAINED TO LOOP LEAD

Beat Goldsboro 8-5 in P. M., and 5-3 in Nightcap

Greenville took the measure of Goldsboro both in the afternoon game and in the night affair yesterday to gain a clear title to first place in the league standings as Williamston was going down in defeat before Wilson.

After pushing across five runs in the eighth yesterday afternoon for an 8-5 victory, the Greenvilles last night scored a 5-3 victory over the Goldbogs.

As the first night game ever played at Guy Smith park and an estimated crowd of 1,500 attended. For a while it looked as if the Greenvilles would lose the afternoon game. Goldsboro scored one in the second and four in the third and held a five run lead until the fifth when the locals scored three. The game rocked along with Goldsboro holding a 5-3 edge until the eighth, when the Greenvilles got busy and drove in five runs to end the scoring for the day.

Spence started on the mound for the Greenvilles but was relieved in the second with none out. He was replaced by Badger who lasted through the second and until one man was out in the third. At this point Skipper Rube Wilson left his first base position and went to the mound. He allowed only three hits in the six and two-thirds innings he pitched and was given credit for the game, the first time he has taken the mound this season.

Don King hurled the night victory for the Greenvilles. He was opposed by Lefty Flora. Goldsboro's ace hurler and it was a pitcher's duel between two portlanders.

Although Flora was stung with his hits, he was just as liberal with his walks. 10 men having reached first on passes to four on hits. The Gold Bugs, meanwhile, got seven hits and six men were placed on base by walks.

Goldsboro started off the scoring in the second frame when Manager Mule Shirley, who had doubled, came home on Mullinax's single. They added another in the third when Flora walked, advanced to second on a passed ball, and went to third on Watson's single and then tallied on Morris's infield out.

The Greenvilles knotted the score in their half of the third, when they made two run. Allen and Simpson walked and both scored when Wilson's infield hit was thrown wild at first base.

Goldsboro again took the lead in the fifth after both teams had been held scoreless in the fourth. Vaughn, who reached first on a fielder's choice—scored on Morris's hit.

The final scoring of the game came in the last half of the fifth when the Greenvilles pushed three across to take a 5-3 lead. Allen walked, Simpson doubled and Rimmer walked to load the bases. Heavener's single to left scored Allen and Simpson and Heavener came home when Wilson reached first on Vaughn's error.

SOFTBALL STARTS UNDER LIGHTS ON MONDAY

TWO CONTESTS TO BE PLAYED

Water & Light vs. Blount-Harvey; Car. Sales vs. Gulf

The Greenville softball league will open under lights at Third Street school Monday night at 7:45 o'clock, with two games scheduled for the evening. Double headers will be waged each night of play.

Water and Light will meet Blount-Harvey in the opening tilt, with the second contest to be between Carolina Sales and Gulf.

This will mark the first time in this section that night softball has been played regularly. Games are not scheduled for each night, eight games, two each night, being scheduled weekly. Games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

J. D. Simpson is president of the league this year and extensive arrangements have been made for night games. The lights were installed by the Water and Light commission.

Season tickets are being sold by the Business and Professional Women's Club. Receipts from the sale of tickets will be used in helping pay for the lights and for the current used. No effort is being made to realize any profit on the games.

GHS TRACKERS IN 56-49 WIN

Keep Slate Clean With Victory Over Rocky Mount

Greenville High kept a clean slate in the win column yesterday as Herman Fulkerson's Flying Phantoms turned back a fighting Rocky Mount track team by a 56-48 score.

This was the third contest for the local outfit, and the second to be held on this city's new cinder path. Seven first places were taken by Greenville in 12 events, while the visitors knocked down five.

Luper, of the Blackbirds, proved to be top man of the afternoon as he cashed in on three first places and hung up 21 points. He placed his trade mark on first places in the javelin throw, 100-yard dash and the broad jump.

George Tyndall of Greenville placed first in the mile gallop and in the 880 yards. Tyndall took a close second in the broad jump and finished the day's work with a fine race in the relay, which was won by the locals.

Russell Rogerson entered the discus and shot throws and emerged as winner of first place in both. He tallied 10 points.

On Friday, these teams tangle in Rocky Mount in the final meet of the season for the Greenville aggregation. Coach Fulkerson is looking forward to another win and a perfect season. However, Bob Enson of the Blackbirds promises a fighting team.

Below are listed the winners of the first three places in each event: 100 yards: Luper (R. M.); Parrish (G.); Johnson (G.); 220 yards: Parrish (G.); Luper (R. M.); Johnson (G.); 440 yards: Holscher (R. M.); Cade (R. M.); Spearman (G.); 880 yards: Tyndall (G.); Holscher (R. M.); Parker (R. M.); Mile run: Tyndall (G.); Parker (R. BILL HOLLAND PITCHES WIN FOR CHARLOTTE HORNETS

Durham, May 13.—Bill Holland former East Carolina Teachers college athlete, pitched eight-hit ball and struck out seven as Charlotte defeated Durham 6-4, here last night.

Smut Adoholt, former Wake Forest athlete, led the Hornet attack with a double and three singles in five tries. Blackburn led the Bulls, with two for three.

More mule colts were foaled in the United States in 1938 than any other year since 1928, the bureau of agricultural economics reported.

TEACHERS GET 10-9 VICTORY

Defeat Norfolk Naval Base In Extra-Inning Affair

East Carolina Teachers College edged a 10-9 win over the United States Naval Base of Norfolk here yesterday afternoon in a 10-inning affair.

Floyd Hinton, Pirate catcher, homered over the left field fence in the eighth inning with two on base to deadlock the score at 9 all. Joe Hatem, Greenville boy, broke the deadlock in the tenth when he sacrificed to score Norman Maye, who got on base via single.

Bill Shelton, E. C. T. C. shortstop, hit a three-run homer in the fourth inning for the other long blow of the game. Hinton with five for six and Shelton with three for five led the Teachers' hitting attack.

Wilman, with a double and single, was the only Middle to get more than one safety.

A game here this afternoon with the Naval Base will conclude the Pirates' baseball activities for the 1938 season, which has been rather successful.

doubtedly justified. It takes brains, courage and training to run a big enterprise. But what I object to is that many executives do not take the licking with their stockholders.
The whole brunt of the blow falls on the investors when the dividend is passed out of 1,237 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, only about a third are paying any dividends, while 35 per cent of the country's railroad mileage is not even meeting the interest on its mortgages! Banks are paying 2 per cent on savings compared with 4 per cent in 1929, but how do the bank officials' salaries compare with 10 years ago?

Even workers' and clerks' pay is high compared with the investors' return these days. Too much time is wasted gossiping and pondering.
Many untrained young people going into an office today want as much to start with each week as a strong, able-bodied farm-hand can earn in a month. It just does not make sense from a strict economic standpoint. Executives interested in "selling business" to the public may feel that workers and clerks are justified in receiving such pay, but isn't the publicly minded stockholder, who is the real employer, justified in receiving some return?

"Public Servants" Doing Well
Then, of course, there is our vast and ever-growing army of "public servants." In 1929 federal expenses were $3,000,000,000 and dividend returns were nearly $6,000,000,000.
Federal expenses are $9,000,000,000
this year, while dividend payments will do well if they hit $3,000,000,000.
Burdensome taxes necessary to maintain this public spending orgy are stamping out private investment. There is a direct connection between the record-breaking logjam of dollars in our private banks, and the huge log-jam of jobless workers on our public relief rolls.

So what? Can we ever work our out of the dilemma? Democracy is facing a crisis in the United States.
Whether it successfully passes the test depends on our people—and on our people alone. Take Massachusetts, for instance. For eight years it has been run by a bunch of grafters and wasters. Its debts are bigger than ever; its treasury is empty. The same situation holds in many other states and cities.
We sit back complacently and let a group of hoodlums and nitwits endanger the best system of government the world has ever seen.
The reason: We are soft. We don't care. We are not willing to fight.

Will God or Fascism Win?
None of us like the German, Italian and Japanese systems, but at least they get things done. The lazy people are put to work. The racketeers are busted. The delinquents are sterilized. The race is made strong physically. The opposite situation in England, France and the United States can not go on forever. If the axis countries, with their disregard for God and freedom, prove superior, then our forefathers' ideal of democracy and righteousness was wrong. We should know the answer soon, but let us first be sure that we, ourselves, are now a God-fearing nation. We still have "In God we trust" on our coins, but is it true?

We must return to free markets for labor, commodities and enterprise. We must purge the reliefers from the voting lists. The lazy, the inefficient, the criminal must not be allowed to prosper. It is time for the descendants of the red-blooded people who made America to wake up. Let them stop boozing, gambling and playing. Let them develop a little of the guts, patience and self-sacrifice their forefathers had. Let them show that they believe America is worth fighting for!
Let them back up the employers and investors who are supplying jobs to those who are still working!

Advices Teachers Enjoy Their Work

Superintendent Ray Armstrong, of the Goldsboro city schools, in an address at the college assembly yesterday, gave the prospective teachers before him suggestions drawn from his range of experience which he said would help them make a success in their chosen field.
"If you cease to enjoy teaching,
get out of it," began Mr. Armstrong.
"Life is too short to waste time in doing work you do not enjoy."
The speaker then raised the question: "What is education?"
Many people have a feeling that education must be hard and uninteresting but education should be interesting.
He pointed out three things necessary in getting educated and illustrated them with interesting cases.

An old Negro who had reared a large family, all of whom were a credit to her, gave as her standard in teaching her children, "Say your prayers; mind your manners; work hard." "That," said Mr. Armstrong, "is a complete curriculum. I put it above reading, writing and arithmetic."
Mr. Armstrong offered as other good curricula of a public school,
"Ride hard, shoot straight and tell the truth," and "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."
The basis of all learning, said the speaker, is in experience. Learning should be pleasant, thrilling and fascinating. School teachers should make their classrooms places where students want to be.
Concluding, Mr. Armstrong said,
"To bring about changes—desirable changes—is the fundamental cause for the existence of public school systems today."

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker
New York—One of the goofier stories now making the rounds concerns the fellow who approached a manufacturer and asked that a special pool table be made for him.
"You make them, don't you?" he asked.
"Oh, yes," replied the manufacturer, whose name was Black.
"I want one very special," stated the fellow. "Can you build it to order?"
"I think so," answered Mr. Black,
"provided your credentials are in order. Pool tables run into money, you know."
"Oh, that's all right. My name is Brown and here is my check. Just call my bank and have them okay
this."
Reassured by this token of sincerity, Mr. Black led the way into his office, reached for pad and pencil, and said: "Just what sort of table did you have in mind, Mr.
Brown?"
"Why," countered Brown, "just a regular pool table, only with variations here and there. Most tables are square, aren't they?"
"Technically, no; they're oblong," explained Mr. Black. "But you can call it square."
"Well," said Mr. Brown, "I want mine round."
"Round, Mr. Brown?"
"That's right—like a dollar."
"Okay, Mr. Brown."
"And another thing. Most pool tables have four legs, don't they?"
"They have six legs," corrected
Mr. Black.
"Well," explained Brown, "don't put any legs on mine at all."
"Let's see now," said Mr. Black, trying to keep from seizing the telephone and calling the giggle house, "one pool table, round, with no legs."
"That's it. Now just one thing more. I don't like that green felt you fellows use on your pool tables.
Make mine leopard skin."
Mr. Black swallowed and wrote down "leopard skin."
"And that's about all," Mr.
Brown replied happily. "Can we have it in about six weeks? I leave for South America this afternoon on business... flying down... and I won't be back for about six weeks."
"That will give us plenty of time,"
Mr. Black assured him.
Wherefore Mr. Brown bid Mr.
Black a cordial adieu and flew away to South America. It was a fascinating journey, ever broad plains and deep blue sea water and tangled jungle stretches and high, rolling mountain tops. In the jungle tops they caught glimpses of Simians and on mountain crags they saw
