SEEK CHANGES IN SECTION OF 1938 FARM ACT

Would Allow Later Election on Tobacco Quotas

GROWERS OF N. C. FAVOR PROPOSAL

Chief Among Other Suggestions Is One That Quotas be Based on Acreage Allotment.

Washington, May 24. (AP)—Southern members of Congress working on amendments to tobacco provisions of the 1938 farm act, today received a suggestion that the Secretary of Agriculture be authorized to call a marketing quota election any time during the selling season.

The law now provides that the referendum can not be held until after November 15.

The change, proposed by representatives of North Carolina growers, received a tentative approval of J. B. Hutson, assistant AAA administrator, who said it would be of some benefit to flue-cured tobacco growers.

The marketing season for that crop begins July 1, whereas for burley and other types of tobacco it does not open until late fall.

Hutson said an election on flue-cured quotas, while the crop was being sold, could have a beneficial effect, especially if prices were extremely low.

The congressmen, meeting with tobacco representatives and AAA officials, also gave further consideration to other changes proposed in the tobacco provisions.

Chief of these was a proposal that quotas be based on acreage allotment instead of poundage.

Other developments: A. H. Hansen, Harvard University economist, proposed to the Monopoly committee that a special study be made to determine the feasibility of a double budget system for the federal government.

"The time is ripe for such an inquiry," he said. "We have already been tumbling piecemeal toward a double budget system, but without any organized plan."

The Senate Military committee was informed that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the draft dodger, would return to New York tomorrow to surrender to military authorities.

Exhibit Displayed At School Library

In order to demonstrate the work of the mechanical drawing classes of Greenville High, an exhibit will be displayed in the high school library beginning today and through June 2.

The unique exhibit will include house plans, blueprints, boat and airplane drawings, city plans, exterior house views and drawings taken from the text.

Each boy taking the course will be represented by at least one drawing while some will have as many as four or five.

There has been over two thousand drawings completed during the year and this number will be increased by approximately 500 by the end of the school year.

"The adding of mechanical drawing to the curriculum of Greenville High school is undoubtedly one of the biggest steps of progress undertaken in the school this year," stated Tom Fields, instructor. "I believe the exhibit will demonstrate its worth."

The public is cordially invited to attend this display at any time.

Hard Night Spent By Queen Mother

London, May 24.—(AP)—Queen Mary suffered injury to one eye when her auto overturned yesterday, and she spent a restless night, her doctors said today.

The physicians' bulletin said: "Her Majesty Queen Mary has had a restless night partly due to injury to one eye, which, although very painful, is not a source of anxiety."

"Her Majesty's general condition is satisfactory."

Queen Mary will be 72 years old on Friday.

Sir Richard Cruise, a famed specialist who is surgeon-oculist to the queen, called on her last night and again today with other physicians.

Doctors attending the queen mother remained at her residence, Marlboro House, for more than an hour before issuing the bulletin. No other bulletin was expected today.

TESTIFY BEFORE DIES COMMITTEE

Two of the witnesses who appeared before the house un-American investigating committee, of which Rep. Martin Dies of Texas is chairman, here are shown as they gave their testimony in Washington. Left, Felix M. McWhirter, Indianapolis banker and treasurer of the Indiana Republican state central committee, who testified he inquired whether Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state, had Jewish blood because he "wanted to know." Right, James E. Campbell of Owensboro, Ky., who made reports to the Dies committee and testified he had advocated a military dictatorship for the United States "if things go bad." Campbell appeared with one arm in a sling.

BRITISH FORCE IS WITHDRAWN

Bluejackets Recalled From Scene of Pootung Mill

Shanghai, May 24.—(AP)—Thirty British bluejackets, sent ashore yesterday in Pootung to protect a Japanese-owned cotton mill, withdrew today after the landing of a Japanese marine detachment and a Japanese protest to the British consulate.

Pootung, on the east shore of a river opposite Shanghai is Japanese-occupied territory. The Japanese naval command protested that the British had no right to land troops in such territory and demanded withdrawal.

The controversy developed from a strike of Chinese workers at the Pootung mill. British authorities requested the Japanese to detail police to protect the property. The Japanese replied that the police were under local Chinese government control. The Pootung government was established under Japanese auspices.

Man Hurt Here In Unusual Accident

W. C. Stoneham, Greenville plumber, is in Pitt General Hospital suffering injuries received this morning around 9:30 o'clock when an automobile ran across a ditch in which he was working.

Police reported that the automobile was driven by Chester Tetterton of near Greenville, and the motor vehicle was said to have been owned by P. H. Highsmith of this city. No charges have been preferred against the driver pending investigation.

Stoneham, who was making a sewer connection behind White's Stores, was said to have received a fractured back. Although unable to describe the extent of Stoneham's injuries, a hospital attaché said his condition was "fair."

Taylor Deplores Flood Of Slot Machines In N. C.

Raleigh, May 24.—State Senator H. P. Taylor today expressed surprise at the flooding of North Carolina with slot machines; deplored action of slot companies in attempting to introduce gambling devices under cover of the new 1939 law; and predicted swift and decisive action at the 1941 General Assembly session if local authorities do not move against gambling machines.

Senator Taylor was chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which recommended legalization of machines not "gambling devices, per se," and then refused to adopt the amendments specifically stating that the revenue act section should not be construed as repealing any provision of the all-inclusive 1937 Planagan Anti-Slot act.

"I still do not believe that the state is going to be flooded with gambling machines," said the Anson law maker, who was in Raleigh on business. "But if the slot machine companies go too far, I am certain that an aroused public sentiment will lead to swift, decisive action in the 1941 General Assembly and the companies will find they have indeed killed the goose that laid the golden egg."

Senator Joe Blythe of Mecklenburg, who was also in Raleigh on business, reiterated the Taylor as

AGREEMENT ON PACT APPEARS TO BE NEARER

Britain Making New Proposals to Soviet Union

REPORT IS MADE BY CHAMBERLAIN

Foreign Secretary Halifax Urges Acceptance of Terms Laid Down by Russia.

London, May 24.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today that the British government was making new proposals to Soviet Russia for her adherence to the British-French front and that he had every reason to hope it would be possible to "reach full agreement at an early date."

He said that as a result of conversations at Geneva between Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Soviet Ambassador to London Maisky, "All relevant points of view has now been made clear."

Speaking in the House of Commons, the prime minister reported on the latest stage in the long-drawn negotiations between Britain and Russia for their projected mutual aid accord.

Earlier a two-hour cabinet meeting had heard a detailed report of Lord Halifax's talks at Geneva with Maisky and French Foreign Minister Bonnet.

Informed quarters said that the foreign secretary urged immediate acceptance of Russia's terms for a three-power mutual assistance pact among Britain, France and Russia.

Chamberlain told the House he hoped to be able to announce completion of an agreement with the Soviet union by the time Parliament reconvenes June 5, after a recess.

Chamberlain's statement was brief.

Mrs. Kerr Reviews Functions of WPA

Winston-Salem, May 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence S. Kerr, assistant administrator of the WPA, gave a thorough review today of the functions of that spending agency and said that "The pump that we are priming is the system of private industry."

"Why did they get a new pump in all those European countries? Because the old pump was working badly and because they didn't have anything to prime it with," Mrs. Kerr said in an address prepared for delivery before the regional conference of Democratic women of the South and Central Atlantic states.

"In America, during the depression, our own pump worked badly, too, but fortunately we had something to prime it with," she said. "Our own depression was part of the world-wide chaos that followed the economic exhaustion of the World War. If you remember, we were lending Europe money with which to buy American goods, and that was the basis of the splendid American prosperity that ended so suddenly in 1929."

The contract price of $3,929 does not include the heating, wiring and plumbing. A new and modern heating plant will be installed to heat the old building as well as the new extension.

The addition will be 35 by 45 feet, the exact size of the old building. The lower floor will be used by the farm agent, which also will utilize part of the second story. The health department and home demonstration agent will extend their second-floor offices to take in more space when the addition is completed.

Unusual Rose. A small rose bush growing out of the heart of a rose bud was found by Mrs. F. J. Deiner in her yard this morning. The bud appeared normal in every respect, except for the small vine that had grown from it.

Auto Fire Record Bad In East N. C.

Raleigh, May 24.—Statistics compiled by a leading auto insurance company indicated here yesterday that Eastern North Carolina with its predominantly rural population, has a ratio of automobile fires more than twice as high as that of the more urban Piedmont and western section.

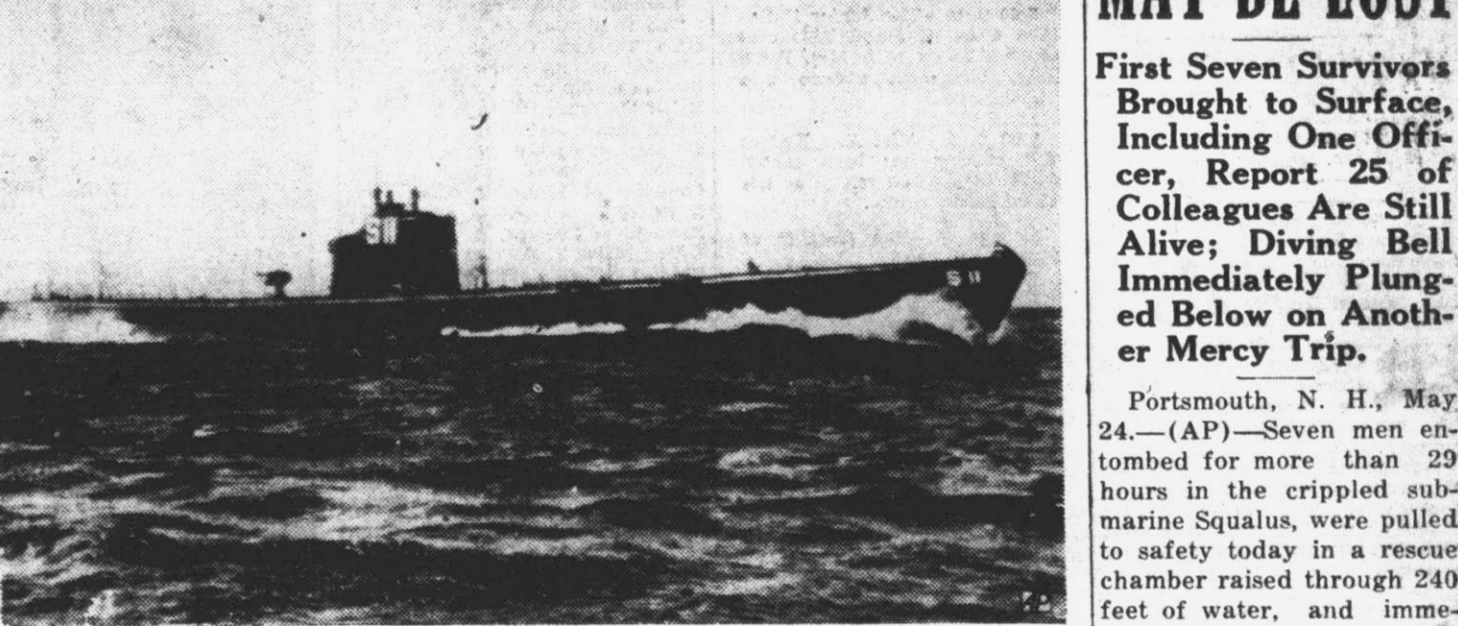

Noted in connection with the arrest of three Onslow county men last week for deliberately setting fire to an insured car, the figures, based on the company's experience in insuring cars bought on time, showed that fire destroyed 195 out of every 10,000 cars insured by the Raleigh branch of the company, in comparison with 99 for the Charlotte branch during 1938.

An exception to the higher eastern rate was noted in urban centers of population. Raleigh, Durham and Rocky Mount, considered as a

Seven Of 59 Men Rescued From Crippled Submarine

SISTER OF TRAPPED SUBMARINE

Here is a picture of a sister craft to the U. S. Submarine Squalus which went down in 240 feet of water off the New Hampshire coast with 62 men aboard. As navy divers flew to the scene of the accident, high authorities at the Portsmouth navy yard expressed opinion that a majority of the men were safe, and that with luck all might be saved.

WILL OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY

Legion to Decorate Graves of Deceased Veterans

Arrangements are being made to decorate the grave of every deceased Pitt county veteran of the World War, but the records are incomplete and E. S. Williams, grave registration officer, urged that anyone knowing the burial place of any deceased ex-service man whose name is not in the number listed below to advise him.

The following list includes all the deceased veterans on the records of the Legion, and relatives and friends are requested to notify Mr. Williams at Williams Funeral Home, Pitt county, of any veteran's grave not listed in order to make possible a complete record. Names of deceased ex-soldiers living in the Farmville community will be turned over to Legion officials of the post there.

The graves will be decorated on Memorial Day, May 30.

Following is the list of known deceased ex-service men in Pitt county, listed by cemeteries:

Cherry Hill Cemetery—Wiley J. Brown, H. G. Johnson, David Johnson, Otis Evans, Carl Jones, Joe Little, S. L. Ragsdale, Dr. Charles Laughinghouse, Walter B. Wilson, J. Francis Skinner.

Court Hears Appeals Of Death Sentences

Raleigh, May 24.—(AP)—The Supreme court took under advisement today appeals from death sentences imposed on Julius Buchanan and James Querton in Forsyth county.

The court was to hand down opinions late in the afternoon. On the docket for argument late in the day or tomorrow was a suit by Paul Ecard, challenging the constitutionality of the state sales tax which turns in about $12,000,000 annually to the state.

Buchanan was convicted of killing his wife.

Querton was convicted in the death of Melvin Nesbit.

RAIN HAMPERS ROYAL PARADE

King Delivers Empire Day Address in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, May 24.—(AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived in Winnipeg for their royal tour today and had before them a rainy public drive under 25 miles of sodden flags and bunting.

The King came to the center of his great Canadian dominion to speak to the people of his realm on Empire Day, a British world-wide holiday.

The royal train reached Winnipeg at 11:30 a. m., completing a long overnight trip from the twin cities of Fort Williams and Port Arthur at the head of the Great Lakes.

Before the royal party arrived most the parade route had been deserted by the thousands of spectators which crowded into Winnipeg.

Merchants in the main shopping areas leaned out their windows and sold standing space.

Every other window was jammed. Doorways were crowded, and some sidewalks held a few spectators.

The King's Empire Day broadcast the first message ever spoken on a world hook-up by a British King away from London, was awaited as the high point in the royal visit to Winnipeg.

No major cases were taken up by the tribunal today.

A jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict awarding R. A. Gardner $500 compensatory and $150 punitive damages in a slander suit brought against J. W. Reddick. Both men are of the Fountain community.

Present Portrait Of Late Attorney

A portrait of the late S. J. Everett, Greenville attorney, was presented to the Pitt county bar at ceremonies immediately preceding the afternoon session of Pitt Superior court this afternoon.

The portrait was presented by Dr. L. R. Meadows in behalf of Mr. Everett's family and was accepted by J. B. James for the bar association.

APPEAL GIVEN FINE RESPONSE

Business Interests Rally Behind Tobacco Market

The response on the part of Greenville's business men to an appeal to support the "Talk Greenville Tobacco Market" banquet to be held at the college tomorrow night has been gratifying, according to Edward Batchelor, chairman of the Community Tobacco Market committee, which organization is sponsoring the affair.

Mr. Batchelor issued a statement yesterday that the response up to then had not been so encouraging, but this morning, following reports from persons contacting the various business houses, he said the tickets were going fast and added that he expected the original estimate of 300 persons would attend.

The purpose of the meeting is to encourage a closer relationship between the tobacco industry and the business interests of the city. Mr. Batchelor has pointed out that one is dependent upon the other and that the growth of each is dependent upon mutual co-operation.

The dinner will be the opening gun in the "Talk Greenville Tobacco Market" campaign, to be waged this summer and fall in an effort to help Greenville retain the leadership and continue its steady progress.

TWENTY-SEVEN MAY BE LOST

First Seven Survivors Brought to Surface, Including One Officer, Report 25 of Colleagues Are Still Alive; Diving Bell Immediately Plunged Below on Another Mercy Trip.

Portsmouth, N. H., May 24.—(AP)—Seven men entombed for more than 29 hours in the crippled submarine Squalus, were pulled to safety today in a rescue chamber raised through 240 feet of water, and immediate preparations were made for another descent in an effort to save as many as possible of the other 25 men still trapped below.

The first survivors reported 25 of their colleagues, including three officers, were still alive inside the submarine and that still others might have held on to life without their knowledge. This figure placed the likely death toll at 27, inasmuch as 59 had been aboard.

Even as this first definite report came from the rescued men the diving bell plunged below on a second mercy trip.

One of the first men saved was an officer, Lieut. J. C. Nichols of Chicago, and the other six were enlisted men. All appeared in fair condition after their harrowing experience.

The other six saved did not include a North Carolina or South Carolina man.

Portsmouth, N. H., May 24.—(AP) A rescue tank capable of carrying eight men to freedom was lowered at 11:40 a. m. (E. D. T.) today to the sunken submarine Squalus, in which 59 men had been trapped since yesterday under 240 feet of water.

The brief message flashed from the submarine rescue ship Falcon, anchored 15 miles off port, gave indications that an hour or possibly two would be required to lower the rescue bell, attach it to the crippled Squalus and then raise it to the free air once more.

Nearly an hour and a half elapsed between the time a diver first reached the deck of the sunken submarine at 10:22 this morning and the actual lowering of the huge bell from the deck of the Falcon.

No one knew for sure the tale the first men to be saved would tell, but one high authority on the surface already has expressed fear that 26 of the 59 men aboard the sunken craft already were dead.

Hopes for the imprisoned men soared as a diver reported at 11:14 a. m. (E. D. T.) that he had sunk a line on the crippled submarine on which the rescue chamber could be lowered.

The message, flashed from the Falcon, added the sea was calming. At the same time a new message came from the men trapped on the ocean floor and the Falcon flashed, "Squalus report in condition comfortable and satisfactory."

Through code signals from the trapped men it was learned that those in the forward compartment had been able to account for only 35 of the men on board.

Weak messages were received throughout the morning from the entombed men.

Washington, D. C., May 24.—(AP) The navy gave out today a list of men aboard the submarine Squalus. (Continue on page six)

SET UP AREAS FOR SPAWNING

Tar Heel Waters Designated for Warm-Water Fish

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel Raleigh, May 24.—The game and inland fish division of the Department of Conservation and Development has set aside 25 natural spawning areas for warm-water fish.

Under authority of the game laws these areas will remain closed to fishing throughout the summer and fall, and probably until May 10, 1940, according to John D. Chalk, fisheries commissioner.

"Although we have doubled the protection on these areas by increasing the number of game protectors and by patrolling them day and night, we have had very few violations and have had to make a minimum number of arrests in past few years," Mr. Chalk said.

The areas which will remain closed this year are:

Beaufort county: Chocowinity Creek from the mouth of its headwaters, including its tributaries. Approximately 10 miles.

Columbus county: Waccamaw Lake and river. Area in lake in front of mouth of river from Turkey Point to below Scoggins Pond including river mouth and down Waccamaw river one mile to railwaters, including all tributaries. Apataries.

Columbus and Brunswick counties: Waccamaw river from Gores Lake to New Britton bridge—approximately 12 miles.

Craven County: Little Swift Creek from mouth to U. S. Highway 17, including all tributaries. Approximately nine miles. Also Bachelor Creek from mouth to headwaters, including all tributaries and adjacent waters, approximately eight miles.

Cumberland and Sampson counties: South river from Broadwater bridge to U. S. Highway 17, including all tributaries. Approximately 11 miles.

Duplin County: Northeast Cape Fear river from Hallsville bridge to Weaver creek bridge, seven miles; Limestone creek, from mouth to point one mile up creek; Panther creek from mouth to Highway 111 bridge, about 2 1/2 miles; and all tributaries and adjacent waters of these rivers and creeks.

Henderson county: Upper end of Lake Summit from iron bridge at the old dam to the headwaters of the lake and 100 yards up all tributaries.

Jones County: Trent river from Quaker bridge to highway bridge at Trenton, including all tributaries and adjacent waters. About nine miles.

Onslow county: Southwest creek from mouth to U. S. Highway 17 bridge, including all tributaries. About 10 miles.

Pender county: Shelter creek from its mouth to Blakes bridge—approximately eight miles.

Rutherford county: That part of Lake Lure known as Tyrone bay, down the south side of the lake to a point marked by signs and a wire across the lake, including all tributaries within this area.

Poik county: From Hamilton

bridge where the highway crosses Lake Adger to the headwaters, including all tributaries.

Robeson county: Lumber river from railroad bridge at Old Boardman to Piney island landing and all tributaries, about three miles. Also Big Swamp from the railroad bridge at Old Boardman of Long Point canal and up this canal to its end, including all tributaries approximately three miles. Also Stephens canal from its mouth to Highway 74, including all tributaries. About 2 1-2 miles.

Robeson county: Lumber river from Highway 31 bridge at Lumberman to McNeill bridge at Highway 74, about six miles. Saddle Tree swamp creek from mouth to Carthage bridge, about half a mile. Raft swamp from mouth to Caldwell bridge, about three miles. Holly Swamp from mouth to first bridge. Also all tributaries and adjacent waters.

Samson county: Big Coharie creek from Lisbon bridge to Eddy bridge, together with all tributaries and adjacent waters, about 10 miles.

Miss May Joyner, Mrs. Will Whedbee and Mrs. Tom Rivers were invited to become members of the club.

The meeting included a book shower for the Greenville Negro library.

The speaker for the day was Miss Elizabeth Smith, who gave a very interesting review of her recent trip through California. Miss Smith's vivid portrayal of the Redwood Empire, Hollywood, Chinatown, Treasure Island and other places of interest, gave her audience the feeling of an actual rather than a vicarious experience.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses before the club adjourned for the summer months.—Reported.

Third Street P. T. A. Meets. The Parent Teachers Association of the Third street school held the last meeting of the year on Tuesday, May 23rd, with Mrs. C. C. Hilton, the president, presiding. Following the business session the program committee presented Miss Joyner's fifth grade pupils in the play "Hansel and Greter," which was enjoyed by all. At this time Mrs. R. B. Lee introduced Miss Greene of the college, with her verse speaking choir. They gave several poems which were interesting, enjoyable and very worth while.

Mrs. Hilton, the retiring president, announced the incoming officers as follows: President, Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick; vice-president, Mrs. Jasper Jones; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Smith. Mrs. Kirkpatrick then assumed office and the association gave Mrs. Hilton a rising vote of thanks for the splendid work she has rendered during the past year.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick appointed Mesdames G. V. Smith and R. B. Lee as the program committee for the coming year. The meeting then adjourned until the fall.—Reported.

Miss Bostic Entertained. Mrs. V. C. Fleming and Miss Helen Fleming entertained last evening at one of the loveliest of the pre-nuptial parties given in honor of Miss Margaret Bostic.

The spacious living rooms and solarium were beautifully decorated in colorful arrangements of sweet-peas, baby's breath, roses and larkspur.

Guests were greeted on arrival by the hostesses, Mrs. Berry Bostic and the honor guest, and found their places marked with bridal tallees.

After several interesting games Mrs. Harry Hagerty was given a piece of crystal as high score award. The honor prize, attractive linen handkerchiefs, fell to Mrs. Bill Barbe.

The hostesses remembered Miss Bostic with a gift of crystal. Miss Laura Fleming presented her after-dinner coffee spoons in her chosen pattern.

Mrs. Dave Mosier, Mrs. Tom Rivers, Mrs. Jack Nobles, recent brides, and Miss Margaret Henry, bride-elect, were also given gifts of crystal.

A dainty ice course in bridal shapes, with decorated individual cakes, was served.

Excursion

The Methodist and Disciple Sunday schools of Grifton had an excursion to Weldon today. They had three extra coaches to the regular train and there were nearly two hundred of the excursionists.

No Swinging Signs. Raleigh is catching on to the Greenville idea. The aldermen there are talking about adopting an ordinance against swinging signs over the sidewalks. Here in Greenville not only the swinging ones, but also the stationary signs on posts have had to come down. There is not a sign that extends over any portion of a sidewalk or street, but the signs are placed on the store fronts over the doors.

Dramatic Club Presents Plays. The Dramatic Club of East Carolina Teachers College last night rounded out its year's work under the leadership of a local girl, Miss Helen McGinnis, when it presented in the Austin auditorium three one-act plays directed by three members of the club, Misses Margaret Guy Overman of Elizabeth City, Iris Davis of Stantonburg, and Bruce Harrison of Chicago.

Miss Marie Tripp and Miss Mary Elizabeth Eagles gave very natural interpretations of two country neighbors interested in their families and their crops, in the play "Wedding Clothes." This shows the needless sacrifice of parents in a homely setting. Bruce Harrison was the farmer father.

In "Sham" William Ward James of Winterville, presented a convincing thief, who despised his convincing host and hostess, Miss Nancy Page, of Trenton, and Victor Workman of Mebane, because of their false show.

The third play, "The Elopers," a laughable farce on eloping, gave Miss Lucy Ann Barrow of LaGrange, and Miss Thadys Johnson of Pendleton, opportunity for some amusing fooling and brought two new actors before the E. C. T. C. footlights—Merwin Frasselle, Richlands, and Alton says of Oak Ridge.

Though this has been the first year for the club it has been an active one. It closes the year with fifty-four enrolled in its ranks for 1939-40. Miss Ethel Gaston of Greenville, has been chosen president for next year.

Concert At College. At a combined Y.W.C.A.-Y.M.C.A. service at the college Friday night at 7:45, the Sycamore Hill Baptist Church choir, colored, will present a concert, chiefly of devotional music and spirituals, to which people in both college and town are cordially invited.

Besides the numbers furnished by this group, Miss Lois V. Gorrell of the college music department, will play two violin solos—"Song" by McDowell, and "Contemplation" by Peery.

Presiding officers will be the presidents of the two campus "Y" organizations, Miss Sarah Ann Maxwell and Emmett Sawyer.

The program will offer a variety of selections—some featuring solos, some duets, and some the full choir, with one or two dramatic readings included.

This is practically the program of this choir's "mid-spring musical" presented recently at their own church, which is being repeated at the college by request.

Senior Play. "The Swan," a romantic comedy in three acts, by Terence Mohr, and translated from Hungarian by M. P. Baker, will be presented in the high school auditorium on Friday night, May 26 at 8 o'clock. The senior class of G. H. S. is offering this presentation as the annual play given by each graduating group.

This play met with huge success on the New York and Detroit stages with Basil Rathbone, current movie star, as the leading male character of the original cast.

The action takes place in a castle of a mythical kingdom and includes all the splendor of a royal family. All characters will be garbed in typical costumes in keeping with the story, which is filled with great dramatic scenes. The beautiful Princess Alexandra, portrayed by Katherine Kyzer, falls in love with Agi, the royal tutor, Edgar Gibson, which brings about complicating incidents in the visiting Prince Albert enters the scene as a suitor for the princess' hand. Despite her wishes, however, Alexandra heeds her mother's desire, and marries the prince, putting them back in the royal family of Dominica.

Clara Crumpler, as Alexandra's mother, Beatrice, and Kenneth Woolard, in the role of the broad-minded and sincere monk, are the co-stars with Kyzer and Gibson. John Lautares, as Caesar, Grace Parker, as the prince's mother, and Dorothy Weaver, as Beatrice's sister, Symphorosa, also take important parts in the production.

Gene Skinner and Mitchell White are the two young princes being tutored by Agi. The part of Count Wunderlick will be taken by Dallas Pender.

"The Swan," which is being directed by R. G. Walker, is probably the greatest dramatic production ever given by a student group in G. H. S., and will give the public a rare treat in the way of high school dramas.

Five good dairy cows are estimated to be sufficient to supply the home needs of an average farm family and provide three pounds of butter for sale each day.

Something a bit different in play suits that the bride can also wear as a house-settling frock, is made in crash of two colors. The top and shorts are beige, the full peasant skirt rose, banded and buttoned in a deeper shade. Here you see Jane Wyman of the films, wearing it.

Speaking Choir Gives Program.

The Verse Speaking Choir of the college gave a program yesterday before the Parent-Teacher Association of the Third street school.

The program was made of seven selections—"Spring," "The Tide Rises, the Tide Falls," "Lullaby for Titania," "The Lady and the Swine," "Cool Tombs," "Silver," and "Psalm 24."

The college students who took part in the program were Misses Pauline Abeyonnis, Mary Elizabeth Eagles, Sarah Ann Maxwell, Lillian Price, Christine Harris, Cassie Hudson, Mary Elizabeth Darden, Annie Hart Boone, Ruth Creekmore, Lucy Ann Barrow, Mary Agnes Alston, Helen Gray Gilliam, and Julius Abernathy.

Miss Mary Greene of the college English department, directs the choir.

Miss Holiday Honored.

Nashville, N. C., May 24.—On Saturday evening Mrs. Pattie Joyner and Miss Lize Joyner delightfully entertained at a bingo party, honoring Miss Anna Mae Holliday of Greenville, bride-elect of June.

Seven tables were arranged in a colorful setting of roses and larkspur. At the conclusion of the games, Mrs. B. S. Whitley won the grand prize.

The hostesses, assisted by Miss Audrey Cooper and Mrs. Van Watson, served a delicious salad course. The surprise of the evening came when the honoree received a lovely wagon filled with many useful gifts, brought in by little Misses Barbara Ann Cooper and Janie Watson.

"Duke... the school that is marching for the South's sake and for the nation's, up a new and better tobacco road," is symbol of the forward facing spirit that is quietly transforming the southern scene.

These phrases are quoted from Duke: Symbol of a Coming South by J. H. Marion, Jr. The whole article appears in the Christian Century for April. This magazine is on the reading table at Sheppard Memorial Library.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Chill cheese and it will grate more easily.

To make carrot strips crisp, soak them in iced water with a few onion slices for half an hour or so.

Egg whites for angel food or meringue mixtures should be beaten stiff and shiny, not until they are very dry, or flaky.

Have you ever used muffin pans for molding meat, fish or chicken loaves? They are very convenient for individual serving.

Before measuring whole wheat or Graham flours, stir them with a fork to distribute the bran flakes. Never sift bran or whole wheat flours.

When time is short and biscuits are needed, just pat out the dough till it's half an inch thick and cut squares with a knife. That's lots quicker than using a biscuit cutter.

Stuffed dates are good to take along for youngsters to much on long motor trips. Keep the dates well wrapped in a tin box. You can use any sort of filling, but peanut butter is one that has a special appeal to youngsters.

For something real special for a luncheon dessert, serve hot waffles topped with pineapple hard sauce. Add a third of a cup of crushed pineapple to a cup of hard sauce. A little lemon juice and some grated lemon rind go well, too. Serve the waffles piping hot and the sauce chilled.

New Room Robes. Paris.—(AP)—Among new room robes and negligees are models in white grosgrain silk, in printed ribbed silk and in pale rose crepe. The sheer crepe model is incrustated with apricot satin in a sunray design on the bodice, falling into a wide panel down the front of the skirt. Wine-colored moire ribbon shirrs in the waist and neck of the printed coat, and finishes in long front bows. The white grosgrain robe is patterned with white satin polka dots and fastened at the side with gold filigree buttons. The balloon sleeves are elbow length and seamed top and bottom instead of being gathered.

Alabama has only 140 milk cows for every 1,000 persons, while the national average is 192.

For Water Lovers Or Sand Loafers —A New JANTZEN

Loveliest swim suit fabrics of the year are by Jantzen. They're new—startlingly new. Aptly they've been termed Glamour Fabrics. Lovely new textures make them a delight to wear—a delight to behold. They are soft, rich, lustrous. "Velvalure" and "Satin-Knit" are triumphs of the knitters' art. "Knit-In Prints" are very gay, very colorful. All contain Lastex yarn for perfect girdle fit.

Jantzen has created gorgeous new knitted swim suit fabrics. They are arch-flatterers in and out of the water. Lovely new textures have been developed. There is "Velvalure," soft and velvety. There is "Satin-Knit," rich and lustrous. "Knit-In Prints" for vibrant color gaiety. The miracle of Lastex yarn has been added for two-way stretch that molds and holds the body in trim slim lines. To see these lovely new Jantzen Glamour Fabrics is to covet them.

EXPLAINS BILL ON MARKETING

Sen. Bailey Sponsors Measure to Aid Farmers

Washington, D. C., May 24.—Recognizing the need for improved marketing facilities for all farm commodities, Senator Bailey, on April 24, introduced legislation in the Senate providing for an annual appropriation of $5,000,000 to develop and improve the marketing services for such commodities.

Senator Bailey's bill, S. 2212, states that it is "for the purpose of organizing, fostering, promoting and developing marketing and marketing services for farm commodities in such state, with a particular view to providing a marketing system which will furnish a steady flow of standardized basic farm commodities to centers of distribution and will provide for farmers adequate and readily available marketing facilities for commodities produced by them."

This bill has the approval of many of the state commissioners of agriculture, and at the meeting of the commissioners of agriculture held in Washington on May 5 and 6, unanimous approval in principle was given to the legislation.

Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, has commented on the legislation as follows: "I believe the $5,000,000 a year your bill proposes to set aside for marketing farm products will accomplish ten times as much good for farmers and public at large as average congressional appropriation of the same amount."

The bill at the present time is in the Senate Committee on Agriculture, and it is hoped that it will be reported on the floor of the Senate in the near future and that favorable action thereon can be secured.

Washington Daybook

Washington—Two views of the situation Herr Hitler now faces persist in Washington, both having some points in common even if differing in detail.

One is that Hitler faces such a confusion of internal difficulties that he can no longer pose as the all-knowing one so successfully unless he is able to deliver the country from the trouble by aggressive expansion. He cannot expand further without real danger of war, and war would be his immediate undoing.

The other is that such views are prompted, at least in part, by wishful thinking, although it is conceded that Hitler's internal troubles are great and that war might readily bring his downfall.

Basic facts supporting both views are largely the same. One usually well-informed source had information from Germany that the business and economic leaders of the country—they used to be the leaders, that is—would be glad to display more courage in combatting Hitler if they had some assurance of economic improvement if he were checked.

HANDS TIED
A departmental executive with a wealth of resources for information about Germany agreed that business and economic figures there disapproved of Hitler's course, but were powerless to act.

"Ninety-nine per cent of these people disagree with 80 per cent of what he is doing," he said. But he insisted there was no opportunity for action.

Those who hold that Hitler has real danger to fear from a war, recalled that at one time there was a real division in the Reich between Hitler and the old line army leaders then headed by Werner von Blomberg as field marshal and minister of war. It was a truly serious division because Blomberg had the undoubted loyalty of the 100,000 men in the regular army.

The division reputedly still persists although Blomberg shook the morale of his followers by marrying a woman out of his station in life. Then he retired, and Hitler shuffled army leadership enough to bring the army more nearly under his own wings.

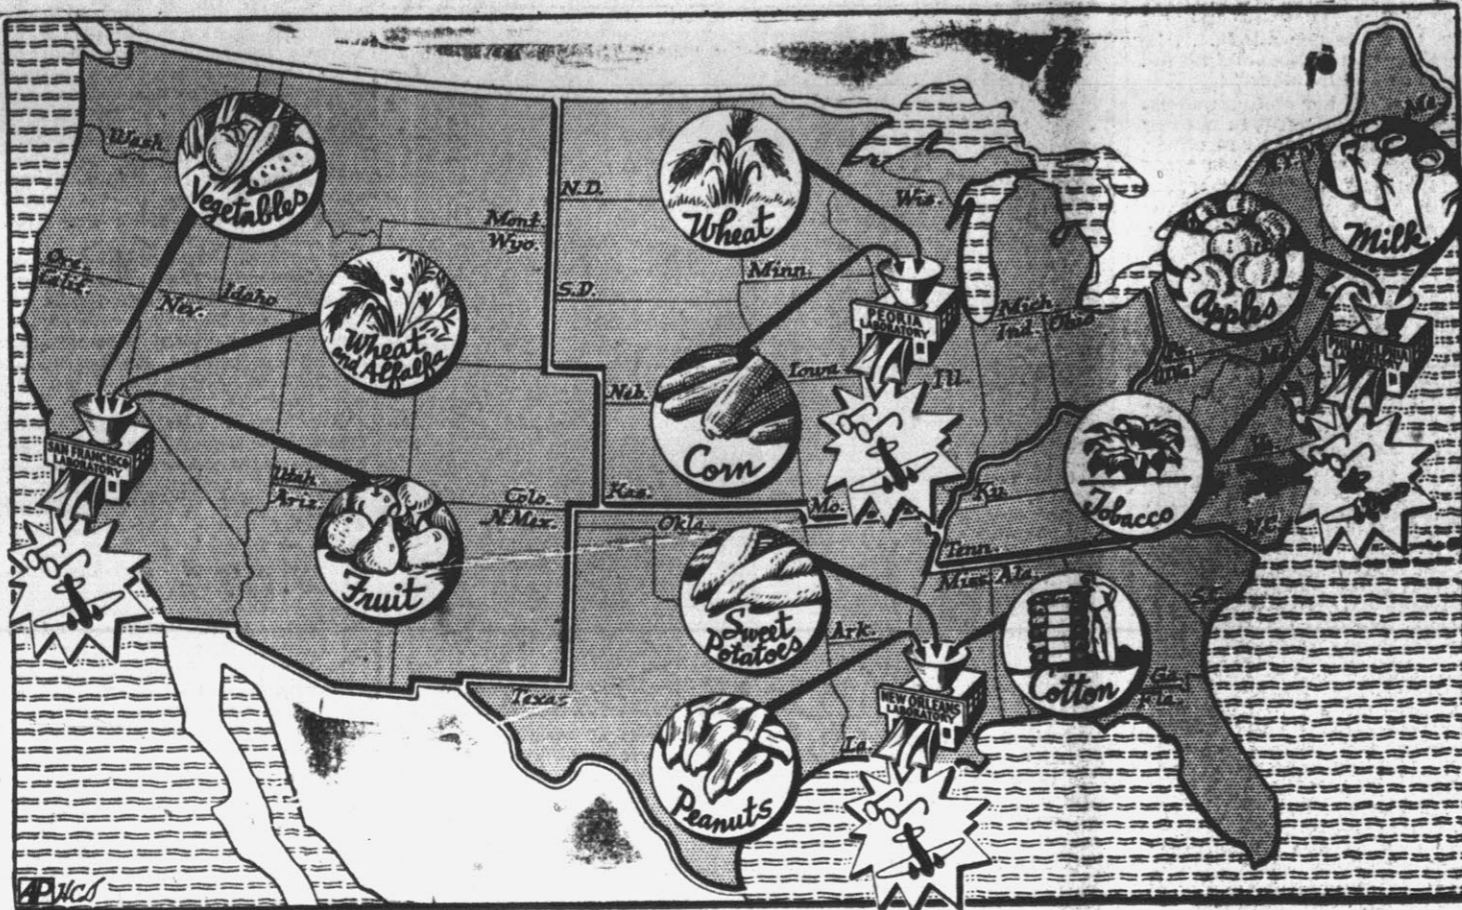

The understanding is that Hitler's real dependence for internal support as well as for troops in war lies in his various shock troops and divisions built up within the past six years. Within that structure is seen a real weakness—six years is not long enough to train a corps of officers capable of conducting a war against first rank opposition.

REHEARSALS DON'T COUNT
Marching two million men about the countryside in dress parade mobilization is one thing. It is another to feed them, command them in war and keep them efficiently fighting. That is a job for officers trained for longer than six years.

The officers with lengthy training lie within the staff of the regular army. In event of war, these army leaders would have to take command to avert disaster and that would give them the whip hand.

Thus Hitler would appear to have two solid sources of pressure from within driving him toward a more amiable course abroad. The British-French "encirclement" increases his danger of war, and in war his power might slip into the hands of the old line army officers. The other is the prospect that the business and industrial elements of the Reich may see hope for them in the "economic" assistance promised in President Roosevelt's message to the dictators as a prize for seeking peaceful solutions of European troubles.

Million-Dollar Laboratories To Seek New Use For Food

Map shows location of four laboratories U. S. is building and the principal crops each will study. Chemurgists say: "We'll turn farm products into everything from eyeglasses to airplanes."

By JACK THOMPSON
(AP Feature Service Writer)
Washington, May 24.—Chemurgy! Can it pull the farmer out of the red—and help cut the federal subsidy of agriculture which has cost at least three billion dollars since Hoover Farm Board days?

The chemurgists say yes—and emphatically: "We'll turn farm products into almost anything from eyeglasses to airplanes and put the farmer into the business of supplying raw materials for the factory."

"Maybe," says Uncle Sam, sufficiently interested to spend millions to find out just how much chemurgy can help.

Right now he is building four million-dollar laboratories spotted in the major farm areas of the United States, north, south, east, west.

Eight hundred scientists—test tube chemists with an eye on both the farm and factory—are going to hunt new and wider industrial uses for farm products.

Greeks Had Two Words For It

That is exactly what the chemurgists had in mind a few years ago when they coined their catchword from the Greek "chemia," for chemistry, and "ergon," which means work.

In the 1860's the iron horse welded together a continent and put commerce on steel wheels.

In the teeming twenties a big-time boom. And Edison's wild dream of perpetual daylight came true to help things along.

Its supporters see chemurgy as a means of creating another new age—this one for the American farmer.

Round-faced, merry-eyed William J. Hale, inventor of the word "chemurgy," caught the ear of Henry Ford during the depression years. Three hundred representatives of agriculture, industry and science trooped to Dearborn, Michigan, in the spring of 1935. Other conferences followed and the National Farm Chemurgic Council began to enroll members and spread the word. Then they found that for 30 years Department of Agriculture scientists had been searching for new ways to put farm products into industrial markets.

With limited funds these government scientists already had learned, for instance, how to make building board and high-grade paper from cornstarch, straw and other wastes; starch from sweet potato pulp, and paint and plastics from soybeans.

That was a prelude to the new program which experts say will be the biggest scientific hunt along that line in history. The new battery of scientists will have something like a million dollars a year to spend in each of the four new ultra-modern laboratories.

In the South they'll try first to find new industrial futures for cotton, sweet potatoes and peanuts, crops in which the major surpluses have occurred or are likely to occur, says Secretary Wallace. The three-story laboratory, to be built in New Orleans, will serve nine southern states covering the area from Oklahoma and Texas east to the Atlantic.

The laboratory at Peoria, Illinois, will concentrate on the most troublesome mid-western surpluses—corn and wheat.

In the east scientists at the laboratory near Philadelphia will work on apples, milk products, potatoes, vegetables and tobacco. Its territory runs as far south as North Carolina and Tennessee.

The western laboratory near San Francisco, at Albany, California, will experiment with fruits, vegetables, potatoes, wheat and alfalfa.

The tentative program for cotton covers the whole cotton plant. Already the fine white hairs from the lowly cotton seed have helped build the biggest success in the synthetic fibre field. Rayon, made from cotton linters, and from wood, has skyrocketed from a two-by-four industry of pre-war days to a giant among the textiles.

Its half-brother, a transparent cellulose wrapping material, is just one more of a long list of test-tube

Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood.—They're going to bring Nurse Edith Cavell to life—and death—on the screen again. Edith Cavell. Those were two fighting words in the last world war. The name alone constituted powerful anti-German propaganda. If your memory stretches that far back, you'll recall it as a burning symbol of all the victims of "enemy brutality."

And today, with the world a round around the fire of war—what of today?

"No," says Herbert Wilcox, the producer. "Our job is entertainment, not propaganda. The film will be anti-militarist, not anti-German. It will have more sympathetic German characters than others."

"No," says Anna Neagle, the star. "What would be the good? What is the good of any war? We will show Edith Cavell as one of war's victims, as the great woman she was."

The celebrated English producer-star team is here for its first made-in-Hollywood movie. They come on the strength of gratifying American grosses for their "Victoria the Great," hoping a Hollywood-made "Nurse Edith Cavell" will gross even more gratifyingly, and pave the way for their "Queen of Destiny," (or "Sixty Glorious Years," as it was known in England).

Wilcox filmed the present story in 1929 as "Dawn," revived it, he says, at the suggestion of New York critics who saw in it a vehicle for Miss Neagle. The new version will have the benefit of additional research, much of which Miss Neagle has been doing personally—and that's no publicity gag, either. She has her books and documents along in her studio dressing room.

Miss Neagle (please to call it "Neegle," though she thinks the commoner "Nagel" pronunciation is prettier) is a delightful, interesting person. Blonde, white-skinned, attractive but not beautiful, she talks with enthusiasm about a number of things, but most particularly at the moment of Nurse Cavell.

She'll tell you Cavell was the first woman to introduce professional nursing into Belgium, in 1907; that she had a staff of 60 trained nurses by war's outbreak; that she was convicted in secret military trial not as a spy but on the charge that she triumphed credited to scientific research.

On the millions of dollars worth of crop-consuming industries scientists have created in the past, the chemists and engineers base their hopes for the future.

aided Allied soldiers to escape, to which she pleaded guilty; that the film will be based on Cavell's own words: "Patriotism is not enough; I must have no hatred or bitterness toward anyone."

Historians and you may have known before that Von der Lancken, German politico in Brussels, charged the German military governor responsible for Cavell's execution with having "ignobly profaned the German name and caused lasting injury to it."

But I had to find out from Neagle, who has been digging around in London's Imperial War Museum.

A dozen years ago, England's leading biographical screen heroine was a chorus girl in Cochran's and Charlie's reyes. In 1930, while in New York with a show, she tried crashing the movies, couldn't risk sticking it out. She got only extra work in English movies until after she played an ingenue lead in a Jack Buchanan musical on the stage.

About this time, Wilcox, needing a movie leading lady for Buchanan, "took a chance on me," she says. He established her in musical films, then veered her toward dramatic roles—and a film "Victoria the Great," which outgrossed all others in England except "Snow White."

Fifty-six per cent of all traffic victims in the daytime are pedestrians.

In 1938 there were 137 cities of between 5,000 and 10,000 population which had no traffic fatalities.

Advance reports indicated the 1939 spring wheat plantings in the United States were 17 per cent under 1938.

IS IT HAPPENING HERE?

America is picking up the tools of dictators!

That is the conclusion
reached by Dorothy Thompson in a recent article.

While our principal officials are conducting an energetic offensive against the foreign dictators, says Miss Thompson, "this country follows a domestic program

which tends toward dictatorship and adopts many of the measures which are most susceptible of criticism under the dictatorships, such as a rapidly pyramiding increase in the proportion of the national income controlled by the state, programmatic deficit financing, the strangulation of private enterprise and initiative by taxation policy and the setting up by the WPA of a separate work economy demoralizing working standards of the rest of the economy."

Regimentation, whatever name it may be known by, is an insidious thing. It grows in the dark. It constantly lusts for more power. And,
if its way goes long unchecked, it spells the absolute doom of those basic freedoms, liberties, rights
and prerogatives of the people, which constitute the very fibre of a true democracy.

More and more does business come under the control of government. In certain instances government has actually taken over industry, and operated it under a policy which can honestly be called nothing save state socialism. The power to tax
has been used as the power to destroy. And business at large exists in constant fear
of some paralyzing political
move or policy that may further blight the outlook.

If this doesn't tend toward dictatorship, the lessons of history are all wrong. In the name of democracy, we are rapidly pushing forward collectivist doctrines. Those who watch with amazement,
events beyond the seas,
would do well to take a thoughtful look about in this country—and then wonder if it isn't happening here.—
(Industrial News Review).

Minted Pears with Roasts.
Minted pears with roast veal
or lamb—that's something! Simmer canned pears in their juice, to which you have added a few drops of green coloring and a third of a cup of granulated sugar for each two cups of juice. Add an eighth of a teaspoon of cinnamon and a quarter of a teaspoon of oil of peppermint. After cooking four minutes, carefully remove the pears and let them cool on a platter.

Cleaning Patent Leather.
To clean those fashionable patent leather accessories, wipe spots first with a soft clean cloth and then polish with a cloth on which has been sprinkled a few drops of solvener. This restores the leather's luster too.

Seascapes On Dresses.
Paris (AP)—The seascapes

have been ordered by many of the socially prominent in the French capital. One afternoon model shows ground. Another day dress features various sea creatures in navy blue

on white. Waves and foam are cleverly represented in a pattern for an evening dress, the design worked out in greens, blues and white. This is a wide-skirted frock dress, and the decollete is bordered with grades shades of blue and green
organdie.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, May 24.—The Governor, State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson, Attorney General Harry Mc-Mullan and Secretary of State Thad Eure were on the point of departing for Winston-Salem Tuesday—
to attend the Democratic women's meeting.

The Governor is going to introduce Senator Barkley. "That told
a pair of news men who saw him
in a Capitol corridor.
"And what are you and the others
going to do?" queried one of the item gatherers.

"Why, we're going to entertain Liz and May and the other good looking lady Democrats," Thad began, but just at that juncture Mrs.
Eure came into sight and "The People's Man" broke off quite suddenly.

"The way," he said as the Madame came up, "have you met
the Secretary of War?"
Senator A. B. Corey from the "State of Pitt," thinks things are going fine down this way except that farmers are planting too much tobacco.

"They're putting our 30 or 40 per cent too much," he told your correspondent while in Raleigh on business, "and it's going to hurt
prices."
Interest in the 1940 Governor's race is simply non-existent in the great rank and file of his section,
Senator Corey said, but the political-minded gentry are talking things up quite a bit.

"There's two factions—one's talking Horton to the other Broughton,"
he said. He indicated that those who are now boosting the Lieutenant Governor were, in general, for Hoyt in 1936, while Broughton support is coming from Grahamites
and McDonald supporters, in the main.

Mecklenburg's Senator Joe Blythe
was in Raleigh Tuesday for letting of highway contracts. He hasn't long been appointed chairman of a committee to select the site for an Eastern North Carolina tuberculosis hospital, authorized by the recent General Assembly.

He seemed none too overjoyed at the prospect of getting into a spot
around which local jealousies and aspirations will boil and bubble, as various counties and towns contend for the hospital.

Another Mecklenburg Representative Marvin Ritcher was forced to go back home Tuesday without having been able to get everything
he wanted to off his chest.
Ritcher has planned to see Nathan Yelton, director of the Old Age assistance division of the Welfare Department, about the Mecklenburg situation. He contends that the county has the easiest-going welfare board in the state, pays the highest average assistance and,
therefore, is simply over-run with applicants.

"I can't even practice any law
on account of them coming to see me," he exploded. "Old people from all over the state moved into Mecklenburg to take advantage of day, didn't get to his office that

day. He was detained "somewhere in the west."

These pin board games, so called,
aren't gambling devices, it is contended, because they haven't any pay-off slots from which the nickels
or checks come tumbling when the proper alignment of animals, bells,
fruits or what nots is attained.

But your correspondent saw a chap get "two monkeys and a tiger"
in a row; then an over and get 20 cents from the proprietor of the place where the machine is located.
That couldn't be gambling though,
because the legislators all said they didn't have even a slight idea of legalizing anything remotely resembling that.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

The Characters
Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer
whose family has inherited half
the Russell estate, Seaside.

Yesterday, Thorn disinherits
Bob despite Jocelyn's protests.
Bob and Gretchen go to live with the Macks.

Chapter 21 Problems Of Parenthood

AT THE end of the week Tally informed the family over midday dinner that Bob was a born farmer.

Bob's face glowed with pleasure.
"I'm really happy for the first time
in my life," he told them with simple sincerity. "I guess I'm a sort of throwback or something like that.
I like digging in the ground and watching things grow; I like milking cows and feeding chickens. I like going to bed early and getting up early. I like plain, solid food with no trimmings . . . and I love my new family! I feel now as if I never wanted to live differently.
I'm content if Gretchen is. Are you,
Gretchen?"

"I'm happy if you are," she said.
"But wouldn't you like to travel?
Have furs and jewels and things like that?" he persisted. "I'm not doing anything for you. I didn't even take you on a honeymoon."
A shadow darkened her face.
"I've traveled enough. This is what I want, Bob. Those other things—
well, I've never had them and you can't miss what you've never had."
"If you did want them, I'd get them for you, Gretchen."

Her fingers caressed his cheek.
"I know you would, darling, but trying to do it would make you so miserable that there would be no happiness for either of us. No, Bob,
this is best."
Gramp, endeavoring to eat corn-
on-the-cob with his "fore teeth," looked up long enough to say, "For a woman, Gretchen, you got a lot
o' sense!"

Betsy wriggled out of her high chair and scrambled up on Bob's
lap. "Mister Bob—I mean, Daddy
—member once you promised me
ice-cream if I didn't do something naughty?"
He poked a finger through one of her long black curls, his smile
indulgent. "What is the naughty
thing you want to do, Betsy?"
Her eyes snapped with impish promptings. "I won't tell."
"Blackmail, eh?"
"Huh-uh. Ice-cream. Strawberry
ice-cream, I think."

"You started to say something,
reconsidered, closed his mouth.
Bob had taken Betsy over as his job now. If he wasn't yet aware of what a little mix she was, he soon
would learn. Tally relaxed and lit
a cigarette.

Bob adjudged from the silence
that he was being wordlessly
handled the reins for this alert small colt he had acquired. Very solemnly he tilted her rosy face
and said: "You mustn't do naughty
things, Betsy, whether you get ice-cream or not."
"Why?"
"Because—well—" he found-
ered, his eyes beseeching Tally's.
"Because if you're a bad girl
you'll be punished," her uncle stated.

"What's punished mean?" she demanded. "Spanked?"
"Exactly."
Hot Water.
SHE SNUGGLED closer to Bob
and poked out her tongue at Tally. "You can't boss me any more at all!" she declared. "I've got a new daddy and he won't let you spank me. Will you, Daddy?"
Bob writhed with embarrassment. "The water is getting too hot for me, Tally."

"What water? I don't see any water," Betsy complained. "Tally can't spank me, can he? Can he?"
Gretchen stepped into the breach. "Of course he can, Betsy.
You have to mind everybody in our family and Bob is not going to spoil you."
The child's lower lip protruded.
"He promised me ice-cream to be good," she wailed.

"And you may have all the ice-cream you want if you're a good girl all the time," Bob promised rashly.
"Then I want some now, Daddy."
"Not now, Betsy. Your Uncle Tally and I have a lot of work to do and I can't take you into town
today."
"Then I'll be naughty," she declared, stiffening.

"Then you will be punished," Bob said firmly. "Now give me a kiss and let's forget the whole thing."
"No," she pouted. "I'm mad at
you and you'll be sorry."
Tally said, "Betsy, if you don't keep quiet I'll put you in bed and you'll have to stay there all afternoon. Come on, Bob, let's get going."

When the two men had left Gretchen said to her mother, "I never could make her mind. Mama, Neither could you. Gramp spoiled her rotten! It's all his fault she's so sassy. Bob just don't feel it's his fault."

place to make her mind . . . he wants her to love him, and it's not easy to be a step-father."
"I know it," her mother sym-pathized. "Well, don't you worry about it. Tally can take care of her.
Sometimes I wonder just what would become of us all if it wasn't for him?"
Gretchen said unhappily,
"Mama, he's giving up his life. He always has. He ought to have a wife and a family of his own. He's almost twenty-six years old."
"Who you talkin' about?" Gramp demanded, coming down the back stairway.

"Well, you never mind about him. I got a notion he's pretty set on that red-headed Russell girl.
She won't have none o' him but he gets a mighty peculiar look in his eyes every time her name is spoke!
And if he wants her he'll get her.
He's a chip off the old block, he is,
and you mind what I'm sayin'."
"Oh, Gramp, you're getting childish!" Gretchen laughed.

group, had only 51 fires per 10,000
cars.
This rate, however, compared with a ratio of 7 per 10,000 cars in the New York branch, 36 per 10,000
in the nation and 824 per 10,000 in Onslow county, scene of last week's investigation. Other eastern counties, selected at random, had rates

as follows: Craven, 594; Duplin, 698;
Sampson, 566; Wake, 151; Durham,
43; Washington, 512; Hyde, 342;
Beaufort, 374.

crop years and rise in bad years. No significant correlation was found between the number of auto fires
and the age and mechanical faults
of old cars sold to farmers. "Jap-

Bracelet And Doll

BETSY, supposedly taking a nap
in her upstairs bedroom, remained quiet until she heard her mother leave the house. Then, on small bare feet, she wandered along the hallway until she reached the door, bolted now for several months, which communicated with the parallel hallway on the right side of the house.
With practiced dexterity she shot back the bolt and stealthily opened the door. A beatific smile lighted her face. A number of times when nobody was at home she had gone into the other side of the house. Always at the same place.
Always to look at the same things.
She really wanted to be a good
girl so she would not be punished,
her small mind reasoned, but it was mean to tell her she could have ice-cream for being good and then
not give it to her when she wanted
it.

Cautiously, she opened the door
of Jocelyn's room; ran to the windows which looked out on the side
terrace and the garage; observed that all the cars were gone. She went over to the bed and picked up the beautiful French doll,
hugged it in her arms, and kissed its pretty painted face. While smoothing its taffeta skirts and patting its real auburn hair she talked to it, calling it "Molly."
She had named it Molly after a little girl who had once visited her in Texas. The little girl had been red-haired and pretty. The fact that they had fought constantly
over everything made no difference.

Carrying the doll under her arm,
Betsy went over to Jocelyn's dressing table and inspected the array of perfume bottles and colored jars. A green glass container with pictures painted on it attracted her glance. She lifted the lid and the jar played a tinkling tune.
Started at first, then enraptured,
she experimented and discovered
she could keep it playing by putting the cover on and off.
Tiring of this, she spied next a jewel box and opened it. A tray
full of costume jewelry, glittering with colored stones, fascinated her. One by one she tried on the rings and bracelets and earrings, finally abandoning the earrings
because she could not fasten them
on her tiny ear-lobes. However,
she found a headband made of shiny white stones, so she pulled off her hair ribbon and tried it on.
She wondered if Jocelyn would miss the wide gold bracelet with the big green stones in it. There were so many here.

The sudden sound of a car below
impelled her to run to the windows. Oh . . . it was Jocelyn!
Betsy swiftly determined a course of action. Mister Bob Daddy—had promised her a doll
like this one and then forgotten
all about it. She would just take these things with her to show him
what she wanted him to get her.

below $100, burned at about the same rate as new cars.
Auto insurance companies, deputies of the State Insurance Commission, peace officers and highway patrolmen, working together, have recently turned close attention to auto fires of a suspicious nature.
Publicity following last week's arrest scared one man in the vicinity of Onslow county into telephoning
his insurance company yesterday
and volunteering to refund insurance collected when his car "accidentally" burned last fall. The offer was accepted.
In certain coastal counties, where some companies have either refused altogether to insure cars sold on time or have made it a rule to insure only the unpaid balance, auto dealers are posting $50 bonds for information leading to arrest of auto arsonists.
Assuming that half of the state's 600,000 car owners are paying an average of $8 yearly for fire insurance, the annual premium of $2,400,000 could be cut to less than $1,000,000 if the same rates pre-valued as in some of North Carolina's sister states, one insurance man estimated.

NOTICE OF RE-SALE OF LAND UNDER DEED OF TRUST

By virtue of the power of sale and

*Have You Forgotten
What an Automobile is for?*
YOU SEE IT HAPPEN any Saturday or Sunday . . . on almost every road.
There's a gay toot-toot behind
you . . . a rush of wind . . . a flash
of waving hands.
And it's another new Nash!
Packed with people, picnic baskets,
and fishing rods . . . and there's a quiver of excitement in the air.
If yours is a wistful eye . . . if it makes you feel a little bit old to see it—don't blame yourself.
You've just forgotten what an automobile is for.
But a new Nash will tell you! It won't let you dawdle over the Sunday papers. Just looking at its rakish lines pulls you right out of the house.
You get in the front seat—and you're lost. For you want to try that new gearshift* again . . . you want to see if this time you can hear
the engine running.
And suddenly you hear the click
of the Fourth Speed Forward*, and you're spirited out of town . . .
alone on an open road, with the rest
of the pack far behind you.
So you turn a little dial and head
for rough country just for the fun
of feeling again how you sweep over bumps the other cars are bobbing
over . . . just to see how the pure.

Likely as not, you'll end up in some lovely spot you haven't seen for years. Stay if you want, there's even a convertible bed in a Nash.
But it doesn't make much difference where you go. Even bringing home the kids from school can be a privilege the whole family will fight for!
Drive a Nash for 15 minutes, and we predict it will become so much
a part of you that you'll never want to give it up.
That makes it yours—for hundreds of dollars less than you imagine. Ten models are priced right

—a Nash never gives up!
A new Nash is waiting for you
now. The engine is running. Bring down the family and go for a glo-

Greenville Defeats Kinston, 3-2, In Real Pitchers' Duel

SPENCE HURLS FOR GREENIES

Total of 27 Men Fanned by Opposing Chunkers

In one of the best games of the season the Greenies defeated Kinston 3-2, last night before one of the smallest crowds to witness a contest at Guy Smith park this season.

It was a hurlers' duel throughout between "Lefty" Lightning Spence of Greenville and Opal Pace of Kinston, also a portlander. Although the Greenies came out victorious an unbiased opinion but could not help from giving Pace the margin.

Pace struck out 16, each member of the Greenville team whiffing at the space at least one time. Spence fanned 11. Greenville was credited with five hits and Kinston eight.

In the seventh, when Greenville scored all of its runs, Meloni drew a base on balls, Smith flied out. Spence fanned and Allen doubled. Meloni taking third, Daniels, who had struck out his three previous trips to the plate clouted one to right field. Although being forced to race almost to the sidelines of field the ball, Kennedy got his hands on it and then dropped it. Official scorer R. O. Moye ruled it an error. Meloni and Allen scored. Rimmer singled to score Daniels. The Greenies did not score an earned run of Pace as two men were out when Alex clouted for what was the turning point of the game.

Kinston had one run each in the fifth and seventh. In the fifth, with two out, Kearns hit a homer to the infield which Spence failed to get to and it went for a hit. Kapura walked. Maynard hit a single to score Kearns. Spence struck out Hahn, however, to end the inning. The Eagles' seventh frame run came on successive singles by Pace, Kearns and Kapura after one man was out. Maynard flied out and Hahn fanned, again leaving two men on base. Each team had a total of eight men left on base.

Meloni, who is replacing Red Christopher at second is doing a good job and Daniels, who is in the outer garden while Simpson is nursing an injury, came through with the winning blow last night to make the regulars realize that they will have to hustle upon their return. Catcher Vincent Smith is suffering with a hip injury and although having a hard time getting around is still in the game.

To Aid Squalus

Lieutenant Commander C. B. Mommens (above) and eight divers left Washington by air to go to the aid of the U. S. submarine Squalus, which was reported 'down' and 'in trouble' in 240 feet of water. Aboard the vessel are 62 men. The officer here wears the mouthpiece and oxygen bag of the submarine rescue device he developed.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

Royal Crown, 22; Gulf, 4.
Carolina Dairy, 14; Carolina Sales, 15.

A seventh-inning rally netted five runs for Carolina Dairy against Carolina Sales last night, but fell two tallies short of tying the count, and the Sales team added one more in its half of the last frame to win, 15-14.

Royal Crown piled up 22 runs against 4 for the Gulf team to win the other contest last night.

CITY TO HAVE AQUATIC TEAM

Candidates Asked to Report at Pool at 6 P. M. Today

Candidates for the Greenville municipal swimming team will report at the local pool for organization at 6 p. m. today. Several swimmers have been working out individually, and indications are that some of last year's Greenies will show even better form this season.

There will be four divisions of the swimming team this year, junior and senior boys and girls. All swimmers 14 years old or younger will compete as juniors, while those more than 14 years old will face the strong opposition of several senior teams in Eastern Carolina.

Free style swimming, breast stroke, relays and diving events will be featured in meets to be held in the local tank through the summer.

The Greenies, a strictly amateur aggregation swimming under A.A.U. regulations, are sponsored by the local pool committee and other civic groups.

BETTER PRICE FOR CABBAGES

Federal Agency Relieves Market Congestion

Raleigh, May 24.—Cabbage prices, near rock-bottom a week ago in the southeastern producing counties, have been strengthened considerably since the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation began its buying program. L. P. Watson, horticulturist of the State College Extension Service, said today.

This marks the second time the FSCC has stepped into the territory to relieve congestion on a glutted market. Last year, practically the same conditions were in evidence when the federal agency intervened and helped to stabilize prices.

Watson said the FSCC is paying $8 a ton for the cabbage in bulk, provided each head weighs a minimum of 1 1/2 pounds and grades U. S. No. 1. Loading points have been set up in seven towns in the affected counties, and each place will load its quota of 185 cars allotted the district.

Since the FSCC began its buying program last week, prices have shown substantial increases. Farmers are now receiving as much as $7 in the field for their cabbage, the State College horticulturist said. In many cases, much of the cabbage sold to truckers for this price fails to meet the requirements set for FSCC buying.

"This is a healthy indication," Watson said, "that the government buying program is really aiding in the stabilization of prices. Before the FSCC came in, growers were hardly able to give their cabbage away."

Purchases made by the FSCC will be turned into relief channels for distribution to needy families.

Future Teachers' Body Formed Here

The national organization of Future Teachers of America made its first appearance on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College recently in a special assembly program, after a local group organized with Miss Kathleen Strickland of recognizing it as a branch of this junior division of the National Education Association, the second such group to be organized in North Carolina.

Miss Mildred Taylor of South Mills, is secretary-treasurer of the branch, and Miss Emma Hooper, faculty adviser.

The purpose of the organization is to develop professional ideals in prospective members of the teaching profession.

At the assembly program of the college yesterday, the five "charter members" of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, who this spring round out their 30th year on the campus here, were honored by the Future Teachers club. They include President L. R. Meadows, Miss Sallie J. Davis of the History department; Miss Maria D. Graham of the Mathematics department; Miss Mamie E. Jenkins of the English department; and Miss Kate Lewis of the Public School Art department, all of whom have been members of the faculty since the first year of the college.

The president of the Future Teachers, Miss Strickland, introduced the program by pointing out that her group had organized in a timely year, since 1939 is being celebrated as the hundredth anniversary of the founding of the first state normal in the United States and is the thirtieth year on this particular campus for the five faculty members seated with her on the platform.

She then presented the five and each responded briefly.

Miss Sallie J. Davis "from whom hundreds of North Carolina citizens have learned North Carolina history" spoke of her pride in the pioneering of the college in making a real profession out of teaching, and expressed her hope that the students of this college may step out from its walls with a trained mind and a fresh point of view to meet the changes ahead.

Miss Maria Graham, who "has taught much more than mathematics," sketched the early history of the Y. W. C. A., with which she was closely connected.

Miss Mamie Jenkins, who "has touched the minds of countless students through extra-curricular activities as well as classes," described with a humorous touch the changes in dress, hair, and types of activities but stressed the unchanging quality she had seen in all generations of students—the love of doing things.

Miss Lewis "influential through her art and her Sunday school classes," told of campus beautification in the early days, which began the development of a bare field into a

President Meadows

President Meadows, "for 25 years a leading classroom teacher, closed the program with a simple but striking tribute to former President Robert H. Wright. "President Wright," he said, "prepared himself with care, and he literally gave his life for the cause of teacher education in North Carolina. You can not do better than to emulate him—prepare, and give yourself to make a better world."

Captain John Smith, who founded the colony of Virginia at Jamestown in 1637 is believed to have introduced coffee in the United States.

Introducing Simmons New BEAUTYREST

A Miracle of Sleep Comfort

Costs only 1¢ A NIGHT

- ★ DEEPER, MORE COMFORTABLE FLOATING ACTION
- ★ NEW PANEL DAMASK COVERS
- ★ SAG PROOF EDGES
- ★ GUARANTEED FOR 10 YEARS

If you want more refreshing sleep, this is your mattress. The New Beautyrest is DEEPER. Each coil is in a separate cloth pocket and can work independently of the other. The Beautyrest "gives" at the point where pressure is applied—it does not sag in surrounding areas. This construction means greater comfort and most healthful sleep.

The New Beautyrest has been rigidly tested for durability—it is guaranteed by Simmons for 10 years. The actual difference in cost per night between a Beautyrest and an ordinary mattress is only a trifle, but there is a tremendous difference in sleep comfort between the two.
