NAZIS RETURN FROM SERVICE IN CIVIL WAR

Given Stirring Welcome Upon Reaching Germany

GOERING GREETES FRANCO LEGIONS

Still No Official Announcement of German Strength Aiding Spanish Insurgent Forces

Hamburg, Germany, May 31.—(AP)—Several thousand German soldiers who fought for General Franco in Spain, came home today to a stirring Nazi welcome at this German "gateway to the world."

As five "strength through joy" ships bore them slowly up the Elbe, after several hours of delay by fog, the soldiers of the Condor Legion were saluted by Field Marshal Hermann Goering on behalf of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Goering stood on the bridge of the yacht Hamburg, beaming expansively and obviously proud of the men of his air force who were being hailed by the press as Franco's right arm "in the defense of Europe against Bolshevism."

Six torpedo boats led the sea parade into the Hamburg harbor. The home-coming troops were lined up in precise military formation on the decks.

Most of the men were of the air force which the German public was just learning had been used to ferry at least 15,000 Moors into Spain from Africa in the first days of the civil war which ended two months ago. Others were technicians and "instructors."

There still was no official announcement of the strength of the German forces, which started going to Spain in July, 1936, the month the war started, but Hitler's newspaper said the legion was kept at a strength of 5,000.

Milan, Italy, May 31.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Count Ciano said in an article in the political magazine Gerarchia, published here, that Italy intervened in the Spanish civil war on July 25, 1936, a week after the outbreak.

Ciano declared, however, that Italy did not intervene until after another foreign power—he did not identify it—sent planes to assist Spanish Republican forces earlier on the same day.

Rose Is Endorsed At District Meet

J. H. Rose continues to gain support in his campaign for state commander of the American Legion and last night was assured of the unanimous support of the Second district.

Mr. Rose was endorsed at the district meeting held in Washington. The district embraces the Washington, Plymouth, Swan Quarter and Columbia posts.

James T. McKeel, district commander, presided over the meeting, at which State Commander Burgin Pennell of Asheville spoke. Mr. Rose also spoke. The candidate was accompanied by T. J. Swain and George P. Spearman of the local post.

High Honor Won By Howard Hodges, Jr.

At the commencement exercises of Georgia Military Academy, College Park, Ga., held Monday of this week, Howard Hodges, Jr., of Greenville was awarded the Master Credit medal and loving cup.

This award was given by the American Legion post of Atlanta, Ga., and was presented by Colonel A. G. Conoly. It is given annually to the outstanding student in scholarship, athletics, character, conduct and personality, the recipient being named on a unanimous vote of the college faculty. It is regarded the highest cadet honor bestowed at the college.

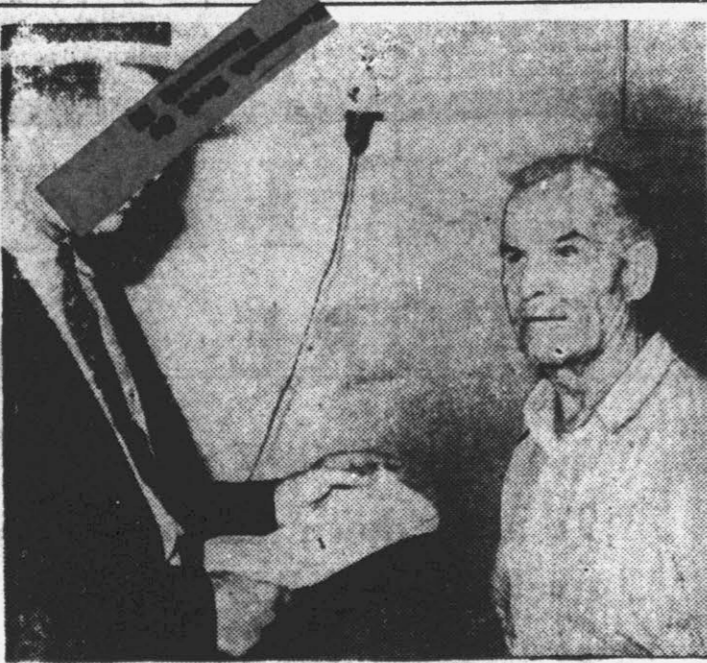

High School Sermon At 8 P. M. Sunday

The program of the commencement sermon of the Greenville High school, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium, was released today.

The Rev. Clarence Patrick, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, will deliver the sermon. The program will open with a hymn following the processional. The invocation will be by the Rev. T. M. Grant, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, who also will deliver the benediction. The mixed chorus and the girls' glee club will render selections during the evening.

The Rev. Mr. Patrick's subject will be "Under the Sentence of Life."

Aged Man Held For Killing Two

Oliver Bishop (right at top), 74 years old, was jailed at Tampa, Fla., after Assistant Detective Chief M. C. Beasley (left) said he confessed he killed his son, George Bishop (lower left), 36, and his granddaughter, Louise Mount (lower right), 22. Their bodies were found buried in the sand on a beach near Tampa. Two months ago the aged man had the couple arrested on a morals charge, but they were released.

Congressional Leaders Talk Of Adjournment

SEEK BUILD UP AIR PRESSURE

Making Preparations to Raise Sunken Submarine

Ports-mouth, N. H., May 31.—(AP)—Navy divers, toiling on the task of raising the sunken submarine Squalus and the 26 dead, descended 240 feet below the surface today to attach connections with which to build up air pressure in the submarine water-free forward compartments.

The operation was one of the preliminaries to the salvage plan which calls for attaching heavy chains and pontoons to the sunken craft, forward and aft and, raising her a little at a time, gradually moving her to shallower water. Once in water 100 to 120 feet deep, salvage officials said, the problem of bringing the submarine to the surface will be greatly simplified.

Building up of air pressure in the forward compartment, which was not flooded when the Squalus sank May 23, was necessary, they explained, to support not only the hull, but a special bulkhead now resisting water pressure of 109 pounds per square inch. The salvage workers are counting on maintaining the buoyancy of the forward section in the task of raising the Squalus to the surface.

Would Allocate Fund On 'Farm Population' Basis

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AYERLL. Raleigh, May 31.—Dr. Clarence Foster, eminent Tar Heel agriculturist and publisher, knows a good thing when he sees it and is quite a good hand at figuring; his recent call for amendment to the Bailey farm marketing bill proves.

The bill, as introduced by Josiah William would appropriate from the Federal treasury $5,000,000 annually to be "apportioned by the Secretary of Agriculture among the several states on the basis of population."

Definite Prediction to Be Given President Monday

Washington, May 31.—(AP)—Congressional leaders told President Roosevelt today they would give him a definite prediction next Monday on the day Congress might be expected to adjourn. Tentatively, they spoke of July 15.

The President had been withholding a decision on whether to start a trans-continental trip June 15 until adjournment prospects had been determined.

This morning Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead and the Senate and House majority leaders, Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) and Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex.).

The President told a press conference yesterday he would go straight to San Francisco after viewing the Great Smoky Mountain National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee.

Meanwhile the United States asked ten cotton exporting nations to participate in an international conference at Washington September 5 to consider the possibility of a world marketing agreement.

Countries to which invitations have been issued by the State Department in behalf of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace include: Egypt, France, for the French exporting colonies; Great Britain, for its exporting colonies; India, Mexico, Peru, Sudan, Soviet Russia, Argentina and Brazil.

The House began actual debate meanwhile, on the Townsend old age pension bill today, assured that its own elderly members had a right get under Senate Bill 2212 as introduced by Bailey, after viewing the

There isn't any indication yet of what basis of apportionment will finally be used. Commissioner of Agriculture Kerr Scott is in Washington now—or was up through Tuesday, at any rate—trying to work out the scheme most likely to secure enough backing to put the bill over.

Quite naturally he would prefer the Poe plan, but would take anything he can get to pass the bill in substantially any form which would let the state share at least in proportion to its population.

Other methods of division being studied include a "gross production" of farm products ratio, under which North Carolina would get $183,000; and a "Cash sales" of products plan, under which the state would receive $161,500.

ANGLO-FRENCH PLAN REFUSED BY MOLOTOFF

Latest Proposal to Russia Held to Be Inadequate

Premier and Foreign Comissar Willing to Continue Negotiations on Moscow's Position

Moscow, May 31.—(AP)—Premier and Foreign Minister Molotoff tonight rejected as inadequate the latest British-French mutual aid pact proposal, but left the door slightly ajar in case London and Paris are willing to meet Moscow's position.

Skeptically and cautiously he described British and French efforts to build a bloc of nations as insufficient and ineffective and said "it is possible to think now whether they want to end aggression."

At the same time he made clear that Russia is not rejecting in advance any efforts by Berlin for more normal Soviet-German relations. Trade negotiations with Berlin, he said, "may be resumed."

He outlined Russia's position in a long awaited speech on foreign affairs to the Supreme Soviet, or Parliament.

Molotoff declared that Russia must be vigilant and remember Joseph Stalin's warning "about pulling chestnuts out of the fire." (For Britain and France).

He announced the Soviet Union would defend the frontiers of Outer Mongolia "as firmly as our own."

Among those listening to his address were the entire diplomatic corps and—sealed among the deputies of the Supreme Soviet—Former Foreign Comissar Maxim Litvinoff.

Scouts To Depart For World's Fair

Leaders for the first full Service Troop of Boy Scouts to leave tomorrow from Wilson for the New York World's Fair, were announced today by Scout Executive John J. Sigwald and Assistant Scout Executive George W. Thomason.

Guy Cox, an Eagle scout of Troop 10 of Wilson, is to be the senior patrol leader of the troop. Milton Beland will serve as patrol leader, with Ed Rawl as his assistant.

The leaders picked for the New York experience are Patrol Leaders Francis Fancher of Washington, with Roy Manning, Jr., as his assistant. Nicholas Long of Roanoke Rapids, with Jimmie Leggett of Williamston, as Long's assistant; M. E. Beland, Jr. of Greenville, with another Greenville scout, Ed Rawl, as assistant; and Neverson Lewis of Rocky Mount, with Edwin George of Kinston, as assistant patrol leader.

Thursday these nine scouts of the 35 scouts, along with Scoutmaster George W. Thomason, Horace Ray of Williamston, and W. H. Mincher of Roanoke Rapids, will have on their shoulders the responsibility of leading when Thursday night at 8:48 from Wilson the full trip leaves for service duty at the World's Fair.

The contingent is the second group to leave for New York from North Carolina. The first group left Sunday under Scoutmaster Sutton of Kinston. The first group will return on June 6, with the second unit returning on Sunday, the 11th.

Other boys from Greenville are G. A. Taylor, Bill Lee and John Spearman.

Payment Made On Pitt County Debt

Checks totaling $17,850 were mailed to New York banks today by County Treasurer J. Vance Perkins for June 1 payments of principal and interest on county bonds.

Of the grand total, $7,850 represented interest and $10,000 payments on principal.

A payment of $10,000 on the principal and $5,775 in interest on a 5 1/2 per cent county funding bond was sent to the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company. Payment of $1,000 interest on a Farmville township 5 per cent road bond and one for $1,075 interest on a 5 per cent Falkland township road bond was sent to the National City Bank

Death Takes A Hand In Indianapolis Race

Flayed Roberts, daring race driver from Van Nuys, Calif., was fatally injured and two other drivers, Chet Miller of Detroit, and Bob Swanson of Los Angeles, were hurt seriously in a three-car crash during the annual 500-mile automobile race on the Indianapolis Speedway Memorial Day. The car driven by Swanson, a relief pilot, and owned by Ralph Heppburn, is shown burning furiously just after the tragedy. It smashed up first on the back stretch and cars driven by Roberts and Miller plowed into the wreckage.

DURHAM NEGRO LOSES APPEAL

List of 22 Court Opinions Includes One From Pitt

Raleigh, May 31.—(AP)—The State Supreme court upheld today a death sentence imposed in Durham county on Ed Alston, Negro, convicted of the murder of Janie Wilkerson, 103-year-old Negroess.

The court decided 22 cases and announced it would meet again June 16 to hand down opinions again. It has 34 undecided spring term cases.

Chief Justice W. P. Stacy wrote the opinion finding no error in the trial of Alston before Superior Court Judge S. J. Ervin, Jr. The opinion said the defendant failed to contend at the proper time "on the preliminary inquiry" as to competency that an alleged confession was involuntary.

The court also found no error in the judge's charge in respect to a possible manslaughter verdict. Alston robbed the aged Negroess after hitting her on the head.

The decision set Alston's death date for June 16, under state law, unless he gets gubernatorial clemency.

The list of opinions included: Turnage vs. New Bern consistency et als. Craven, no error; Hof vs. Coastwise Shipping and Lightering Company. Craven, affirmed; Heath vs. Corey, Pitt, affirmed; Morgan vs. Morgan, Moore, affirmed; Long et als. vs. Townsend, Hoke, error and remanded; Collins et als. vs. Henry Lamb, Robeson, no error; Ittely vs. Hill, Cumberland, no error; State vs. Alston, Durham, no error.

Edward Harris Helps To Write Radio Play

Edward Harris of New York and Greenville son of Mrs. Belle Harris of this city, and Dena Reed have written a play entitled "Little Genius," which will be presented on the radio, Columbia system, at 9 p. m., June 2.

Mr. Harris explained that last-minute changes sometimes necessitate shifting a play for a week or so, but added he had been assured that the play "Little Genius" probably will be presented as scheduled.

Roosevelt Urged Back Bailey Bill

Raleigh, May 31.—(AP)—Governor Hoey today telegraphed President Roosevelt asking him to support a bill introduced by Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) to appropriate $5,000,000 for agricultural marketing.

"Our farmers are vitally interested," Hoey wired the President. "Hope you may find it possible to support this appropriation, as I believe it will result in great benefit to agricultural interests generally."

The governor also telegraphed Agriculture Secretary Wallace asking him to support the bill and expressing the opinion "this appropriation will be of a greater benefit to agriculture than any similar amount that could be expended for any purpose."

Lightning Hits Home Of Prof. E. C. Hollar

E. C. Hollar, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, has reason to believe that "close calls" are certainly on his trail.

Mr. Hollar was one of the seven Greenville men who had such a narrowing experience when their boat sunk in Pamlico sound Sunday night, and during the electrical storm last night lightning struck the chimney of his house.

Although no one was injured and no serious damage was caused, several rooms were filled with soot and will have to be painted.

FLIER SIGHTS PART OF BOAT

Reports Seeing Three Men Aboard Deckhouse in Sound

Manteo, May 31.—(AP)—A United States Coast Guard flier from Norfolk, Va., aiding a search for three crewmen of the Belhaven sloop Carrie Mears, missing since Sunday, reported today sighting a green deckhouse afloat two and a half miles south of the Chicamacomico station.

The station, 20 miles south of here, quoted the flier as saying he saw men on the deckhouse. The crossbeams of the craft also were visible above the surface, he said.

Boats from the Oregon inlet and Ocracoke stations have been patrolling Pamlico sound since yesterday when apprehension was expressed for the safety of the three men, Capt. Eddie Keech, Leslie Edwards and Cecil Roberts, all of Belhaven.

The 60-foot sloop, owned by a Belhaven hardware firm, was last reported seen Sunday afternoon, trying unsuccessfully to reach port at Hatteras, across the sound, in heavy seas.

A power boat was dispatched from the station to the spot where the deckhouse was seen.

Belhaven, May 31.—(AP)—Coast Guardsmen hunted today three crewmen of the 60-foot Belhaven sloop "Carrie Mears," missing since Sunday.

The men, Capt. Eddie Keech, Leslie Edwards and Cecil Roberts, all of Belhaven, last were seen when the craft was riding a heavy sea near Cape Hatteras.

Future Of Dr. McDonald May Be Decided Monday

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AYERLL. Raleigh, May 31.—For numerous reasons thousands of eyes will be turned toward Greensboro and next Monday's meeting of the University of North Carolina trustees for their regular annual session; and among those reasons is the belief in many quarters that out of the meeting will come the answer to the future of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, the fellow who all but threw the state machine completely out of gear in 1936.

It will, at least, give an answer to the question whether the doctor is to be appointed to the head of a department (probably a new one) at the State University. Reports that he would be so appointed were in circulation as far back as the middle of the General Assembly session.

MORE ARRESTS DURING MONTH

Clerk Drum Issues City Recorder's Court Report

The monthly report of Desk Sergeant H. B. Drum of Municipal Recorder's court shows an increase in the number of indictments, fines imposed and costs collected for May over the previous month.

During May, 70 indictments were returned, against 50 for the previous month. Fines imposed during May amounted to $165, compared with $27.25 during April. Of the $165 in fines collected this month, three of $50 each were imposed on defendants convicted of driving drunk.

Court costs collected during May totaled $344.25, while April costs amounted to $140.75.

All fines are turned over to the school fund. The costs go into the city general fund. In addition, one dollar each is added to the court costs to be applied on the police pension fund and the state justice department. Each fund received $39 during May.

The report showed that 49 defendants were convicted, 18 were acquitted, probable cause found in two, two appeals to superior court, one nol pros, one nol pros with leave and in one case prayer for judgment was continued.

Although the report was prepared before the end of the last lay in the month, the last May court was held Monday.

Funeral Held For James E. Pollard

TESTIFIES ON ALLEGED PLOT AGAINST U. S.

Witness Says He Repeatedly Warned Chief of Army

SECURED ADVICE IN MUSIC SCORES

Retired Major General Clashes Angrily With Committee On Method of Presenting Testimony

Washington, May 31.—(AP)—Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, testified today he had repeatedly "warned" General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, about a plot to overthrow the government.

Moseley told the House committee on un-American activities that he received information of the plot in so-called "music scores" sent to him by James E. Campbell of Owensboro, Ky., a reserve army officer.

The committee had been told previously the "music scores" contained information picked up by a waiter at the exclusive Harmonie Club in New York and transmitted to Dudley P. Gilbert, New York society figure.

Moseley clashed angrily with the committee over the method of presenting his testimony.

Protesting Rep. Healey's insistence that he confine his testimony to answering questions by the committee's counsel, Moseley shouted, "I'll bring this before the American people from coast to coast."

The retired army officer, contending he had been "advertised coast to coast" by the committee in statement it released last week, thrust the table repeatedly to emphasize his demands for permission to read his statement already prepared.

"The American people want to hear this," he said. "I have a lot of good evidence. Aren't you interested in un-American activities?"

When Healey explained the committee felt the best way to handle the inquiry was by questioning, Moseley finally acceded.

Tar Heels Enlist At Wilson Office

Wilson, May 31.—Sixteen young North Carolinians have been enlisted in the United States Army at the Wilson Recruiting Station during the month of May. It was announced by Clifford C. Floyd, the recruiting sergeant. The young men were enlisted for the field artillery and will be stationed at Fort Bragg. Following are the names of those who enlisted:

Thurman K. Woodlief, Raleigh; Lawrence W. Tingen, Raleigh; James N. Marsh, Jr., Pinetops; Eddie M. Mercer, Route 1, Wilson; Wade L. Jones, Route 1, Pinetops; Woodrow W. Tripp, 908 W. Weaver, Rocky Mount; Needham B. Murray, Route 3, Kenly; Boaz G. Jackson, Rocky Mount; Paul Armstrong, Jr., Route 3, Tarboro; and Roy C. Armstrong, Route 3, Tarboro.

Desire Special Term To Hear Murder Case

Goldsboro, May 31.—(AP)—Judge G. V. Cowper, presiding in Wayne county Superior court, said today he would ask Governor Hoey to set a special term of court to try Raymond Worley, charged with murder in connection with the death of his wife in April.

A hearing to determine whether Worley is entitled to bond has been set for Friday before Judge Cowper.

Mr. and Mrs. Elks Entertain

The Past Worthy Patrons and Past Worthy Matrons of the Eastern Star held a very enjoyable meeting with Brother and Sister Elks at Ballard's Cross Roads last evening. Upon arrival the guests were given a warm hand of welcome by the host and hostess, and invited to the beautiful lawn, all lighted, and a star, the color of our order, shining to welcome us.

The weather would not permit us to say outside, so with chairs in hand we moved inside, where the merriment began.

Cool, refreshing drinks were passed and contests enjoyed. Mrs. Arch House, Mrs. Wiley Brown and Mr. J. P. Harrington won the prizes.

A delicious ice course with candies and nuts was served. Additional guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elks were: Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Wilkerson, Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Moore, Mrs. Bentley Harris, Mrs. Luther Whitener, Mrs. Preston Elks, Mrs. Elizabeth Crawford, Mrs. G. H. Crawford and Mr. Claude Gaskins.—Reported.

Kills Fine Layer

Willie Wooten, Negro, of 105 Pitt street, Greenville, found out too late yesterday that he apparently had killed his best laying hen. While dressing the chicken Wooten found eight fully developed eggs in the hen, all with shells, although some were not as hard as the others.

Brooks-Greene.
Miss Sally Eleanor Brooks was married to Ernest Leland Greene of Washington, N. C., Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Memorial Baptist Church. The Rev. Clarence Patrick, classmate of the bride's brother and intimate friend of the family, officiated.
The church was decorated beautifully for the occasion with palms and ferns interspersed with carnations and Madonna lilies. Cathedral music added to the mellow beauty of the old church.
Prior to the entrance of the bride, Mrs. J. L. Fleming rendered several organ selections. Miss Maude Melvin of Salemburg, N. C., accompanied by Mrs. Fleming, sang "At Dawning" and "Because." During the ceremony "Liebestraum" was softly played. The wedding march from Lohengrin was used as the processional, and that by Mendelssohn for the recessional.
The ushers were R. E. L. Greene of Raleigh, Grady Bell and Robert Carr of Greenville, and Paul Waters of Washington, N. C.
The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Thomas Merrell of Washington, D. C. Her dress was of embroidered marquisette. Her hair was of the same material, showered with tapers. Her bouquet was of garden flowers.
The bride was given in marriage by her father, N. C. Brooks. The bride was beautiful in her wedding gown of white net, which featured a sweetheart neck, long sleeves, and a very full skirt, which extended into a train. Her veil was caught on either side with orange blossoms. As her only ornament she wore a brooch, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses showered with valley lilies.
The bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Dr. P. Y. Greene of Burlington.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Brooks, Senior. She was educated at East Carolina Teachers College and has been teaching since her graduation.
The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Greene of Raleigh. He was graduated from N. C. State College, receiving both the Bachelor's and Master's degrees from this institution. He is secretary of the Production Credit Association of Washington, N. C.
Out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Greene, parents of the groom; Miss Jane Greene, Prof. and Mrs. R. E. L. Greene, Grady Bell, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Greene, W. Y. Greene, Misses Beryl Greene, Ethel Paugh, Annie Lee Greene of Raleigh; Dr. and Mrs. P. Y. Greene of Burlington; Mr. Herman Greene and Miss Elizabeth Young of Elizabethtown; Rev. J. R. Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Waters, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Patrick of Washington; Mrs. I. E. Brooks of Philadelphia; Miss Ernestine Hubbard of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sawyer, Miss Lucille Sawyer, Mrs. H. A. Lewis, Mrs. Bethel Thomas of New Bern; Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Merrell of Washington, D. C.; Miss Christine Williams of Kingston; Mrs. Jack Lewis and Miss Nancy Lewis of Fayetteville.

Good Roads Movement

The people of Asheville and Buncombe county are moving in the interest of good roads. An enthusiastic meeting was held in Asheville Saturday in the interest of good roads. The State Geologist was present and made an interesting talk. Among other things, he said: "The good roads movement is on the way in every state in the union and in Europe. The people see the absolute necessity of them. The people are not too poor to build good roads; they are too poor not to build them. The present way of building roads is a sheer waste of money. Any road work is mostly wasted unless the road is a good one. If good road work is once started, it will not stop until every road in the county is good. More schools, more churches, more stores are needed, but most of all, good roads are wanted."

Mrs. George Hadley introduced the guests to the receiving line, composed of Mrs. Moye, Miss Holderness, Mrs. Dail Holderness and Miss Madeline Jenkins of Tarboro, Miss Margaret Henry, a bride-elect of June, and Mrs. William H. Woolard, Jr., who was recently married. Receiving in the hall were Mrs. J. Howard Moye and Mrs. Helene Kirkpatrick. Mrs. A. E. Shackell of Tarboro, invited the guests into the dining room, where tea was poured by Mrs. Novella Moye Williams and Mrs. S. M. Crisp.

Mrs. W. F. Young, Mrs. Curtis Perkins, Mrs. Reid Perkins and Miss Anna Long served sandwiches, cakes, nuts and mints. Mrs. Phillip Goodson and Mrs. H. H. Duncan invited the guests to have tea in the living room, which Mrs. Holderness and Mrs. W. H. Woolard served, assisted by Miss Henrie Long and Mrs. Jesse Moye, II. Bidding the guests good-bye were Miss Janie Lyerly and Miss Lella Higgs.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—The coming visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth has given this country an excuse for a period of "watchful waiting" while the air clears in Europe.

Domestic affairs, the royal visit, and third term talk have crowded the European business aside for a time, but the inner tension is no less, perhaps even greater. One informed source says the British program of encirclement may have been a serious diplomatic blunder that may be remedied only by a backing down on the Polish guarantee, even if that will work.

That view is based on such conditions as these:

1. During all his expansion program, Herr Hitler has kept in mind that he must avoid war with England. He explained that position in Mein Kampf. Diplomats who have watched his course minutely have accepted that statement in the Hitler book as gilt-edged—until lately.
2. It was generally accepted that Hitler would limit himself to claims in which there was at least a shadow of equity. That was considered the case in the Saar Basin, geographically a part of Germany, as with the Rhineland withheld by the Allies after the war. That was the case with Austria, since they were racially one people. The same covers the Sudetenland. As for Germany's claims on Poland, it is pointed out that most people in Danzig are German, and a German road across the Polish corridor would connect two segments of the Reich.

Then Trouble Started

But before the claims against Poland could be foreclosed by Germany, England made some cautious "steps to stop Hitler" moves in southeast Europe. Almost at once Hitler moved into Moravia and the rest of Czechoslovakia where it was agreed he had not a tassel of equity right, racially or otherwise. (And then England started work in earnest to tie up allies on all sides against further expansion.)

It was the first solid evidence that Hitler may have changed his tactics. Was he convinced that England would stand in the way of his realization even of those claims in which he had a show of right? If so, he may abandon his program of seeking to avoid conflict with England. He may decide there is only one way for Germany to obtain a reasonably important place in the world and that is by destroying Britain.

That is why so much importance attaches to the Polish business just now. England has made a tentative agreement to protect Poland, but she left herself a face-saving opening. She promised aid only if Germany moves against Danzig and the Corridor threatened Polish independence.

More Concessions?

It is possible that concessions may be worked out which will satisfy Hitler without too seriously affronting Poland. He may conclude there is a way, other than by war with England, to additional claims in which there is a show of historical or economic equity, such as colonies. But if England's encirclement was too hasty, and has convinced Hitler that the only way out for Germany is to smash England, then he may not try the peaceful way with Poland.

That is why Poland is watched so closely just now, and why statesmen are glad of the royal diversion of public attention. They always feel better when there is less public agitation.

And regardless of what may be decided, one thing is certain: It is

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

The Characters
Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.
Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate, Seelyville.

Yesterday: Geoff is sulky when Jocelyn praises Tally for having landed a job in a lawyer's office. Later, Tally is fired.

Chapter 27

Broken Engagement

"I'M SORRY, Tally," Jocelyn said sincerely, meeting his bewildered eyes. "If I can find out anything for you, I will. I've known George Lawson since I was a child. His daughter, Edith, is one of my closest friends. I think I'll drive into town right now."

"Don't mix in anything on my account," he said stiffly. "I probably shouldn't like being cooped up in a cubbyhole all day, anyhow. I like being a farmer."

Jocelyn flashed a smile at Gramp. "While I'm gone, Gramp, will you please tell this grandson of yours the story of Bluebeard's wives? And how their woman's curiosity lost them their heads?"

In her own room she changed swiftly into a dark tailored suit, pinned back her hair and set a rakish black felt hat over it; picked up her bag and car keys and hurried out to the garage. Women not only were curious, she thought, they were also intuitive, and she did not need much intuition to guess the identity of the person responsible for Tally's disappointment.

"Mr. Lawson," she began, perching on a corner of his desk and holding his glance firmly. "I want the truth about this Talbot Mack affair. Just why did you hire him and then fire him?"

George Lawson, an elderly man, dignified and kindly, met her eyes with twinkling indulgence. "Business reasons, Jocelyn. Strictly business. Our bookkeeper's report discouraged us so."

"Please—" she implored. "Don't put me off with courtroom suavity. Mr. Lawson. Perhaps I should tell you. You handle all of Geoffrey Kensing's affairs, don't you? He is a very wealthy man and a very influential one. The fees he pays you amount to considerable money. You feel that you cannot afford to lose so valuable a client. I understand that. But, Geoffrey Kensing, for reasons of his own, does not wish you to employ young Mack. He issues an ultimatum. Either you dispense with Talbot's services or lose his business. I am right, am I not, Mr. Lawson?"

His eyes dropped to the brief before him. His fingers rustled the pages nervously. "A lawyer, Jocelyn, must keep his client's affairs strictly in confidence."

"But it is true," she declared.

"A woman's intuition has always been an enigma to me," he reflected. "Strangely enough, it is nearly always correct."

"Thank you," Jocelyn reached over and squeezed his hand. "Just you wait till I finish with Geoff! He'll wish he had remembered a piece of famous advice: 'Please, God, help me to keep my nose out of other people's business!'"

"Don't be rash, Jocelyn," urged Mr. Lawson alarmed at the vindictiveness in her voice. "Edith tells me you and Geoffrey are going to be married the first of the month."

"You can just tell Edith for me that I'm never going to marry Geoffrey! Never!"

By the time she reached the street, she was trembling with indignation. She backed her car out of its parking space, rasped the gears, and roared recklessly out of town toward the Dunes Country Club. Geoff, she remembered, was playing polo this afternoon. It was only one o'clock and the game would not have started yet.

Head Over Heels?

COMING to a halt about fifty feet from the entrance to the men's locker rooms, she leaned on the deep-throated horn of her car until Geoff, recognizing its peculiar tone, came running out, his polo helmet in one hand.

"I want to talk to you," Geoffrey, she said with ominous steadiness. "Get in and close the door."

"What is it, honey?" he asked uneasily.

"This," she pulled the engagement ring from her finger and tossed it into his up-turned helmet. "I will not marry you. Ever. You're mean and jealous and thoroughly contemptible! No, I don't say anything. I found out what you did to Tally and it's unforgivable. Geoff! He's had a hard, frustrated life. This was his first opportunity to use his ability; to make something of himself; and you, because of pettiness, spoiled it!"

Geoff, put on the defensive, admitted: "All right, I did it. But it's as much your fault as mine. You told me for months that you wanted to get the whole damned family away from Seelyville; away from California. You couldn't stand them. Farmers. Peasants. Squatters. You resented them. So did I... because of you. Then you fall head over heels in love with your farmer boy friend and I see what's happened. I know he can't make you happy, that it's merely propinquity, infatuation for his good looks that's deluded you. So I decided to put a stick in his wheel. Lyn, the only reason he ever tried to practice law was because of you. He knew he wasn't good enough for you and he figured his name lettered in gilt on an office door would bring him up to your level. Of course he wants you."

"Are you quite through, Geoff? If you are, you may trot along to your silly polo ponies!"

He opened the door and stepped out. "When you regain your senses, Jocelyn, please phone me."

"I will not," she promised herself shoving the gear in low and turning the car around. "I'm going straight home and tell Tally I love him. I'm going to tell him I've been a fool and a horrible little snob and I'm sorry for everything and to please forgive me and..."

As she ran into the city hall and talked to the county assessor, Talbot paid the taxes with a check signed by Nola Cranston!

"I... I don't believe it!"

Thorn shrugged. Why should he? And why should Nola? He had never told Tally! I thought I was mistaken about them... that it was only friendship... but Mrs. Mack told me a little while ago that Nola wrote them she is coming to Santa Barbara in a few days and is anxious to see Tally."

Jocelyn experienced a humbling let-down. "There was a hollow ache in her throat. No wonder Tally had kept away from her; been aloof. He loved Nola. He had been patiently waiting for her return from Hawaii. It was for Nola, not for her, that he had wanted to make something of himself, wanted to practice law."

A mocking laugh twisted her lips. How naive she had been. How unforgivably and egotistically stupid. Because he had kissed her she had thought he loved her. A... a kiss meant nothing to him. She should have known that.

Emotional Hangover

THORN took hold of her hands; felt their stiff coldness. "Lyn, are you ill? You look so strange. It's nothing I can't get over," she assured him dully.

Old Mack was lurching with Jocelyn in the sunny upstairs sitting room on the Russell's side of the house. His crutches lay beside the deep cushioned chair she had arranged for him and his stiff old legs in their shiny black trousers were propped up on a gold-tapestried ottoman. When Humphreys had finished serving them and departed, Mack regarded Jocelyn with snapping black eyes.

"So you had a fight with Kensing," he commented. "It was him that jinxed up Tally's lawing job, wasn't it? He must've figured if Tally got to be something, he might put up a scrap for you, eh?"

Jocelyn nodded, toying with her salad, having no appetite for even the most delectable food. Her entire manner had changed since yesterday; since she had learned of Nola's coming. She was quiet; subdued; helpless. "I can't blame him too much, Josie," Gramp said between mouthfuls of cheese souffle. "He was actin' accordin' to his lights. You're a mighty purty gal, honey, with plenty o' high spirits. Course he never figured you'd find out. Tally's pretty broke up about it, but there ain't no need o' tellin' him what we know."

"I know he is," she agreed, an undertone of harshness in her voice. "Gramp, you know a lot of things about people, but did you know that Tally wanted to practice law and make something of himself because of Nola Cranston? He loves her, Gramp—and I guess she loves him. She's coming back."

"Tosh and nonsense!" he grunted. "She don't mean nothin' to him."

"Yes, she does. You just wait and see."

"Betcha it ain't so. Say, Josie, you ain't feelin' bad 'cause you broke off with Kensing, are you?"

"No," she denied vehemently. "I'm glad I found out how petty and contemptible he is before I married him. But now... I don't know what to do. I feel so lost. I—I guess I'm having an emotional hangover. As you say, Gramp, I've got to have time to get my bearings. I'll be all— She broke off as the door burst open and Thorn swayed into the room. His face was ashen; his eyes were distended with shock."

When he saw old Mack his expression changed to one of scowling rage. "You're responsible!" he accused, shaking a forefinger at the old man. "You got me into this and ruined me! You did it on purpose!"

day gave collectors of taxes from the Revenue Department advise which soaped very much like the time-honored version of hanging clothes on a hickory limb but staying high and dry on the banks in swimming time; or maybe it was like advertisements of "painless" dentistry.

Anyhow, His Excellency told the collectors to get the taxes without making anyone from whom they are to be extracted angry.

Louis H. Wilson, publicity chief for the Department of Agriculture, is telling all and sundry he's glad he used to be an active newspaperman, working amid noises and interruptions of all sorts.

Reason is that just outside the Wilson window there goes on construction work on the state office building heating plant.

A strip of adhesive tape may prove to be the difference between a legal and an illegal slot machine.

When the attorney general ruled that machines which display the number of free games which reward certain scores of combinations of symbols are illegal under the Revenue act and cannot be licensed by the Department of Revenue, all the slot people did was to cover the aperture in which the "free games" promise was shown with adhesive tape. The machines continue to operate with the "house" paying off in nickels when attention is called by the player to the winning symbols.

Your correspondent related this to one of his acquaintances who broke in:

"No, my dear sir, you're all wrong. The difference between a legal and an illegal slot machine exists only in the mind—or rather, imagination—of certain judges."

Most easily surprised people in the world are those legislators who profess astonishment at the result of their slot machine legislation.

Every person above the moron grade in intelligence could have predicted the minute the finance committee beat Cressy Chervy's amendment designed to preserve the Flanagan act intact, exactly what has happened.

And there isn't much argument that every slot of every shape, kind and description has been operating in direct defiance of North Carolina law up to this present moment. Under no construction of the statute was there even an excuse for operation prior to June 1.

Henchmen of Joe Calcutt, the Fayetteville distributor of slots (he's the largest in the country, according to a Satevepost story), began working almost the minute the 1937 legislature out for just the sort of legislation that the 1939 Assembly finally passed.

THIS FREIGHT TRAIN WOULD CIRCLE EARTH NINE TIMES

New York (AP)—Imagine a freight train more than 230,000 miles long, nine times the circumference of the earth, and covering nearly every mile of track that has been laid in the United States!

This gargantuan train-load would be the result of coupling all the 30,000,000 car loads of freight during 1938 and would require thousands of locomotives (adding countless miles to the imaginary train) to pull it.

Without Subsidized.

New York (AP)—For the first time in history, the Federal government subsidized the export of a major farm product in 1938 wheat. This was done through the medium of the Federal Surplus Commodities Corp.

pinch-hit for Raymond Massey, who missed his plane after lunching with the king and queen in Toronto. . . . The ward Lincoln is a familiar one in the Gaines' household. . . . It turns out that his grandfather was General Edward Pendleton Gaines, and not only was there a Captain Abe Lincoln in his command—there was also a Lieutenant Jefferson Davis.

FUTURE OF DR. McDONALD MAY BE DECIDED MONDAY

was confirmed or denied by the former Winston-Salem legislator.

There is no doubt that his appointment to the University of North Carolina post would be quite logical and would square with all the known factors in the equation.

At Monday's meeting the faculty list will be submitted to the trustees. This list contains the additions and changes in the university's teaching staff. Dr. McDonald's name was not on a list submitted to the executive trustees recently (Gov. Clyde Hoey said this list contained no "important changes or additions"), but that list was not final—the governor said so; and it is not at all unlikely that the McDonald appointment will be submitted to the full board on Monday.

Aside from the possible appointment of Mr. McDonald, the most interesting bit of business on the trustees' agenda will be selection of a comptroller to succeed the late Charles Woolson.

For this post a wide variety of names have been mentioned and there is the absolute certainty of the nomination of at least one individual—Leroy Abernathy of Asheville.

Mckenlough Marvin Ritch has served notice on all hands that he is for Mr. Abernathy and that he fully intends to nominate him for the post, no matter what the regular nominating committee does and no matter what recommendations Dr. Frank Graham, university president, may have to make.

Leroy Martin, Raleigh banker and one-time School Commission secretary, has been mentioned frequently, but he laughed the matter off with the remark, "What chance do you think a Wake Forest man has to get that job?"

Assistant Director of the Budget Bob Deyton has been touted for the place; but he is a Duke graduate—a fact which may work against him.

Other names have been bandied around in "dope" sessions, among them Dewey Dorett, one-time industrial commissioner; Herma A. Baily, sanitary engineer professor at Chapel Hill; J. Benton Stacy, director of purchase and contract; and several others.

There has been no real "inside tips" on the appointment, so far as this correspondent is aware; and any prediction of the new comptroller's identity would be absolutely nothing but a guess, pure and simple.

WANT ADS PAY

Family Portrait: The brother of Jeanne De Koven, the Greenwich Village dancer who was slain by that modern Bluebeard in Paris, is a program-seller at one of the exhibits at the fair. His first name is Henry, but he has chosen another surname in an effort to avoid publicity.

Half-minute interview—Johann Bojor, noted Norwegian author, aged 67; "To remain young one should eat, smoke, drink a little and dance much with beautiful women. . . . But they should be discarded, no matter how beautiful they are. If they fail to follow you step for step, they are no longer young; they have no music in their souls. . . . The United States has a very large percentage of beautiful women, but I am sorry so few of them have written books. . . . I suppose, to be an ugly woman is a stimulus for dreams."

Nursery rhyme: For the funeral scene in "The Life and Death of an American" the mourners chant over and over again: "Poor old guy, he hadda die—poor old guy, he hadda die. . . . Those witnessing it recognize the familiar lilting rhythm of "Ding-dong-dell, Puss's in the well. . . . The American Way," starring Fredric March, also has a funeral scene in which the coffin is clearly seen. . . . There is no coffin used in "The Life and Death of an American."

What's in a name: Manhattan literally means "place of drunkenness," and there were times during the dry years when it richly merited this appellation. . . . But there is little public drunkenness in New York today. The six years since prohibition repeal have taken the brass knuckers out of drinking and taught imbiber how to say no when a certain point is reached.

During the bootleg era it was rare that a round of the town failed to reveal a half-dozen brawls in public places. . . . Customers were in the habit of punching one another until the waiters quietly heaved them into the alley. . . . But during the last two years I have witnessed only one comic fight—and that between two street fellows who exhausted themselves on a street-corner swinging at each other without any success whatever. . . . Eventually they got tired and wandered off.

Quandary: That's what Pennsylvania railroad officials are in. . . . The Pennsylvania runs a special train out to the Fair. . . . You get on and pay after you reach the Fair. . . . But so many of the boys around midtown are using the lunch hour to ride gratis to the Fair and back that there aren't enough seats for the cash customers. . . . See, if you don't get off at the Fair no one charges you anything. . . . And the boys, discovering this, have been riding out and back on the cuff.

Of course the great difficulty is going to be the division of the $5,000,000, as no doubt every state will be willing to get its part. There isn't any chance, however, that New York's congressmen can be induced to back a farm population division, under which their state would receive $115,000 against a straight population split which would net the Empire state no less than $612,500.

Scott is hopeful that enough support can be drummed up for some plan, just the same. It's quite possible, of course, that votes enough to offset defection of New York could be garnered from states in the same position of North Carolina with relation to a "farm population" apportionment.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—Follow a maze of winding, narrow canyon roads up, up and you'll arrive in good time—if you've a better bump of direction than I have—at the stratospheric level when Miriam Hopkins and Annette Litzvak live.

The house—say, that's the house that Jack built! Jack Gilbert. The house with the view from here to there.

But it isn't the house that Jack built. Not exactly. Inside, it's the house that Miriam rebuilt. She bought it from the estate, you know, and she began doing things. Jack, whose life was pretty turbulent, might even find some peace there now.

That living room, for instance. It used to have heavy Gothic windows, and dark oaken beams, and nooks and niches and crannies. A few stained-glass windows, and ma-doms here and madmen there. Walls of gold, if I remember correctly, and pretty depressing any way you looked at it.

Miriam has done what she could. It's a bright, pleasant, peaceful room now. The Gothic windows the heavy beams, the nooks and niches and crannies are gone. There is cheery maple (I think it is) woodwork, and a flat ceiling, and pale blue walls as background for the lady's rare paintings—a Degas, a Renoir, a Matisse and others she knows but I don't.

There wasn't much she could do about the baths. The one I saw still had its sunken, green tile tub with steps leading down. The dark green walls have been cheerily repared, however—and as for the tub: "I'm a convert to the old Roman, early-Hollywood bath," says Miriam. "For a long time I was afraid to use it, and just took showers, but one evening I came in tired and—it's marvelous! You can relax, even read a book, in that tub. I'm for it!"

Miriam has a cold, but she's still the liveliest and the only golden-thin in this fire-warmed living. She's wearing a quilted hostess wrap for warmth, nice but as well-worn and comfortable as you or my old flannel robe.

It is possible that concessions may be worked out which will satisfy Hitler without too seriously affronting Poland. He may conclude there is a way, other than by war with England, to additional claims in which there is a show of historical or economic equity, such as colonies. But if England's encirclement was too hasty, and has convinced Hitler that the only way out for Germany is to smash England, then he may not try the peaceful way with Poland.

That is why Poland is watched so closely just now, and why statesmen are glad of the royal diversion of public attention. They always feel better when there is less public agitation.

And regardless of what may be decided, one thing is certain: It is

Murray is going to be stark, stony broke next week if he's at all like the ordinary mortal.

To the average parent, graduation of just one child is a tremendous strain on the pocketbook as well as the nerves, at times. But Mr. Murray isn't average by a long shot. He has no fewer than four children graduating this week from four different institutions.

The Murray progeny passing from one life stage to another are:

William, 13, who finishes the Murphy graded school, Raleigh.

Edward, Jr., 17, who graduates from Hugh Morson High school, Raleigh.

Mildred, 19, who gets her diploma at Louisburg, a junior college.

Annie, 21, who has already received her final papers (Monday) at Meredith College in Raleigh.

Last Night Game Rained Out; Here Tonight And Friday

BILLIES AHEAD AS GAME ENDS

Greenies Play Martins Tonight; Bears Friday Night

The Greenville-Snow Hill contest was rained out at Guy Smith park last night at the end of the first inning with the Billies leading 3-0.

The Greenies will engage the Martins here tonight in a game which will decide the league leader. Although a win for Greenville will leave the two teams virtually tied, the locals will be ahead by a few points.

Another crucial game is scheduled for here Friday night when the Greenies play the New Bern Bears. Red Christopher and Grace Allen made their appearance in the line-up last night after having been out of the game for several days. Two, it is likely that Smith will be back at his position behind the plate tonight after having been out with an injured hip.

Greenville fans owe an expression of thanks to M. O. Minges who has purchased and donated to the club a public address system.

TWO CONTESTS TUESDAY NIGHT

Williamston Beats Kinston; Goldsboro Licks Bears

Only two games were played in the Coastal Plain league last night, rain having halted the Wilson-Tarboro game and the Greenville-Snow Hill contest.

In the two games played Williamston defeated Kinston 7-5 and Goldsboro trounced New Bern 13-2.

Both games in the Greenville softball league were rained out last night and will be played at a later date, to be designated by President J. D. Simpson.

Carolina Sales' 10-7 win over Tadlock Ins Monday night gave them their second victory of the season. Double Cola and Gulf tied at seven-11 in their contest.

We'll See

With Williamston and Greenville nip and tuck for the top position in the Coastal Plain league standings, some good games are in store for the next 30 days.

Counting the game tonight, the two teams will meet a total of 11 times by the end of June.

Not Sunday Night

No Coastal Plain league games will be played in Greenville on Sunday nights. An error in an advertisement in yesterday's edition of The Reflector stated that New Bern would play here Sunday night. It should have read Friday night and the error was made in The Reflector office and not by any one connected with the baseball club.

Before the error was detected and a correction made, several of the carrier boys had already started delivering their papers and many subscribers received papers before the correction was made.

E.C.T.C AWARDS SPORT TROPHY

Miss Ruth Parker of Woodland Presented Prize

Miss Ruth E. Parker of Woodland yesterday was awarded in assembly the highest honor in women's sports attainable here, a statue of Winged Victory on a black base representing 2,000 points won in the women's intra-mural and inter-collegiate athletics. Miss Parker is the first to receive this recognition.

Under the present system begun four years ago, there are three other awards, a bronze medal for outstanding work in inter-murals, the college leader, and the college supporter. To receive the Winged Victory one must be a member of the W. A. A. and a senior, and must have won the other three honors.

On the figure given yesterday was inscribed "Ruth Parker, E.C.T.C., 1939, Athletic Achievement."

Miss Parker is the first woman to graduate from the Department of Physical Education at E. C. T. C.

THREE SECURE DIAMOND JOBS

UNC Players To Follow Sports After Graduation

By EARL ALEXANDER
Chapel Hill, N. C., May 31.—Three of the five seniors on the University of North Carolina's 1939 baseball squad are planning to continue their diamond careers following graduation next week.

Co-Captains George Nethercutt, Roanoke Rapids; Harold Bissett, Bailey, and Sam Davis, Clarksville, Va., will play baseball henceforth for a salary rather than for the glory of alma mater. Henry (Bud) Hudson, Asheville, and Frank Cox, Staley, the other two senior players, are also through so far as active competition is concerned. Regarded by many as the best catcher in the Southern Conference, Nethercutt will for the second straight season play for the semi-professional Roanoke Rapids Owls this summer. Later in the summer he is expected to make his debut in organized professional baseball—probably with one of the farm clubs of the Boston Red Sox.

In his three years of varsity ball-playing at Carolina, Nethercutt averaged approximately .415 in his hitting. As a sophomore he hit .330, as a junior, .440, and this spring soared almost to the .500 level (.488, to be exact).

Bissett will play this summer with the Mount Atry club of the Bi-State League. If he succeeds in this circuit, he will continue with the sport. Otherwise, he will accept a government position which awaits him. Bissett is generally regarded the greatest defensive first-baseman ever to play at Carolina. On the offensive side of the ledger, he was one of a half-dozen players to hit above the 300 mark this spring. Davis will return to his hometown, Clarksville, Va., to continue his baseball activity. Although he pitched well all season, using primarily an effective sharp-breaking curve, Davis received poor backing from his teammates and wound up the season with only two victories in six games. His batting average for the season was .273.

Although he has been the leading pitcher on the squad for the past two seasons, with a total of 15 victories compared to only four defeats, "Bud" Hudson has decided to forego the sport as an active player. He is interested, however, in a coaching career at some high school.

Gox, who was one of the most dependable hitters on the squad in a pinch, intends to go into the business world to earn a living. He always ranked high in number of runs driven in and in extra base hits.

On these days. This one is Miss Jessamine Boyce, who will reign as "Cotton Queen" at the annual festival to be held in Gastonia, N. C., largest cotton textile center in the world. At present she is content to sit on a complicated textile machine near a simple cotton dress and wait for the photographer. She is a blonde.

CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS TALK OF ADJOURNMENT

to vote on it. Rep. Kennedy (D.-N.Y.) asserted that he had found that 134 members were over 60 and asked whether, therefore, they were eligible under House rules to vote on the bill because they might possibly be affected by its provisions.

Speaker Bankhead, saying that he assumed Kennedy asked the point in good faith, ruled "it seems to be pretty well determined that where a bill comes up involving a general class it does not prescribe nor prohibit members of the House to vote on it."

President Roosevelt sent to the Senate the nomination of William P. Bowers of Columbia, S. C., to be collector of internal revenue for the district of South Carolina. There is a vacancy in the district now.

CALF'S BIRTH ANNOUNCED ON A PINK CARD

Tipler, Wis.—(AP)—The boys at the Klok brothers' farm decided the birth of a calf merited an announcement, so they sent out this notice on a pink-beribboned card in a pink-trimmed envelope:

"Announcement is made of the birth of a little baby girl, Orchid-Gardenia Creampuff of Langlade. Weight 49 lbs., 2 ounces—Large-barn hospital—Ranch Estate of Klok Mother and daughter are doing fine."

The names of the "proud parents" were signed to the announcement—Creampuff of Daisy Lulubelle Orchid and His Highness Governor of Tipler Bully Ferdinand.
