ABDUCTED BOY BACK AT HOME, TWO ARRESTED

Philadelphia Baby Found In Hands of Young Couple

WAS KIDNAPPED ON BUSY STREET

Woman Arrested While Peering In Drug Store Window, Presumably Looking For Baby Food

Philadelphia, June 2. (AP)—A baby, Detective George Myers identified as five-months-old Gerald McCrohan, snatched yesterday from his carriage on a busy street, was found in the possession of a young couple today about two miles from the kidnapping scene.

Movers and Detective Harold Simmons found the child as they canvassed drug stores to inquire about persons purchasing ingredients for baby feeding formula.

They saw a blonde young woman peering in a drug store window and shortly afterward found the baby. A man and the woman were arrested.

The girl answered the description of a woman Gerald's four-year-old sister, Marjorie, said snatched the boy from his carriage, the detective said.

A short time previously the child's mother, Mrs. Marjorie McCrohan, 30, had promised the kidnappers there would be no prosecution if the baby were returned.

The appeal was made shortly after Mrs. McCrohan and her husband, 32, a paint company employe, attended mass where special prayers were said for the safety of the child.

Gerald was taken on a busy street corner yesterday while his mother stopped across the street from a police station.

The mother had left Marjorie to watch the baby.

Judge Questioned Regarding Income

New York, June 2. (AP)—United States Attorney John Cahill, delving further into the involved financial affairs of former United States Circuit Court Judge Martin T. Manton, demanded today that Manton explain his change in 11 months from a debtor with a minus balance of $500,000 to a creditor with a net worth of $750,000.

The resigned jurist is on trial on a charge of conspiracy and dispensing justice for a price.

Manton explained that his fortune, had in early 1934, improved when he arranged for the sale of the Hotel Alhambra, owned by the Forest Hills Terrace Corporation, one of his holding companies.

Cahill produced checks showing that on July 23, 1934, a law firm paid Carl J. Austrian, liquidator for the defunct bank of the United States, $23,500 in settlement of an indebtedness of about $125,000 due from Manton's corporate organizations.

Manton said he got the money through the hotel sale.

Cahill turned next to his indebtedness to a Herminan Bank and Trust Company for $118,000, which was settled by payment of $103,000 on August 29, 1934.

Manton explained that after the hotel sale the money went to the Aldean Holding Company, another of his companies, from which he obtained the money.

ONE DEFENDANT TRIED IN FRIDAY CITY COURT

Only one case was tried in Municipal recorder's court this morning. One was continued and a capias was issued for the defendant in the only other case pending.

Edna May, Negro girl, was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon upon another Negro girl, and was given a 90-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $5 and costs of court.

Treasured Relic

The flag of the ill-fated Dixie, removed from the mast by J. H. Waldrop, the last person to abandon the vessel when it rescued Monday after the boat had gone down in Pamlico sound, and brought here will be a treasured relic not only to Mr. Waldrop, but to the six other Greenville men who clung to the top of the deckhouse for 30 hours.

Mr. Waldrop removed the flag from the mast and tucked it in his life belt before leaving the Dixie for the rescue boat. He declared that the flag, which was blown upside down as a distress signal under maritime custom, proved of much value in helping the rescuers locate the survivors.

Paderewski Bids U. S. Goodbye

Lame and weary from the weight of his 78 years, Ignace Jan Paderewski lifted his hat in a gesture of farewell to America when he boarded the Normandie in New York to sail for his home-in-exile in Switzerland. The Polish wizard of the piano cancelled his current American tour because of illness.

HAS HOPES FOR STABLE PEACE

Pope Pius Sees Lessening of Tension in Past Month

Vatican City, June 2. (AP)—Pope Pius XI, told his cardinals today that the Vatican's recent diplomatic activities designed to save Europe from the menace of war had brought his "assurances of good will and of resolve to maintain peace" from the principal European statesmen.

A month ago, the Pope said, he had grave fear of imminent war in Europe, but that the lessening of tension since then had given him greater hope of reaching "a stable peace."

Among the conversations carried on by papal nuncios in the Holy Father's campaign was one between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Monsignor Gersengo, papal nuncio in Germany. Other papal representatives talked with statesmen of Italy, France, Britain and Poland.

The Pope added that he would continue pressing for peaceful solutions of Europe's problems.

Answers from his peace appeals, he said, "has left the way open to further manifestations of our earnest solicitudes."

The occasion for the speech was the Pope's 63rd Saint's Day, which is generally observed in Latin countries in place of birthdays.

The Holy Father disclosed that his intervention took place "toward the beginning of last month" when "international discussions" appeared aggravated to the point of degenerating into bloody conflict.

Opening Hours Fixed For Barbers of City

Greenville barber shops will operate under standard hours effective June 10, under an ordinance passed by the Greenville Board of Aldermen last night.

The shops will remain open from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. on week days and from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Saturday nights under the new law. It will be illegal for any barber shop to do business on Sunday.

The resolution was passed after Charles Whedbee, attorney, appeared in behalf of the barbers and presented a petition signed by a majority of the barbers here.

BUSINESS MEN SEEK CHANGES IN LABOR ACT

Ask Chief Executive Seek to Amend Wagner Law

MEET ROOSEVELT AT WHITE HOUSE

Foreign Trade, Particularly with South America, and Taxation also Discussed at Parley

Washington, June 2. (AP)—Secretary Hopkins said today a group of business men urged President Roosevelt last night to seek amendment of the Wagner Labor Relations act during a discussion of business conditions.

Hopkins told reporters that the eight business men who dined at the White House presented no specific labor plan, but he indicated that possible changes in the wording and administration of the Wagner act was one of the most important topics of their discussions with Mr. Roosevelt.

Foreign trade, particularly with South America, and taxation also were discussed, Hopkins said.

On Capitol Hill, the House Ways and Means committee was considering tax revision. A witness for the United States Chamber of Commerce suggested imposition of a flat-rate normal corporation tax of 15 per cent and outright repeal of the undistributed profits levy.

Talking with newsmen, Hopkins said the White House conference was "very frank and friendly" and that he hoped to arrange more conferences with these and other business men.

Speaker Bankhead, meanwhile, said a House would consider Monday a group of amendments which would "greatly liberalize" the wage-hour act.

They will be voted on under procedure requiring a two-thirds vote for passage, but prohibits debate on any changes other than those approved by the House Labor committee.

Other developments: Attorney General Frank Murphy told a Senate committee legislation to curb activities of private industrial police, armed with tear gas and other weapons, was "greatly needed."

The attorney general endorsed legislation which would outlaw labor espionage, strike-breaking activities and the use of industrial militias, as well as limit the activities of private police.

Toll Bridge Near Norfolk Wrecked

Norfolk, Va., June 2. (AP)—A tanker crashed into a toll bridge across the Elizabeth river here today, partially wrecking the bridge and endangering the lives of several persons.

Two bridge tenders, C. L. Cunningham and Lee Zimmerman, were injured in a 100-foot leap from the bridge tower to the water. Two unidentified women abandoned their automobile to run to the bridge approach a few moments before the car fell into the bridge wreckage.

Two of five spans of the bridge, connecting Norfolk and Portsmouth, dropped into the river, but fell clear of the tanker, the Rhode Island, owned by the Texas Oil Company.

Farmers Plant Dynamite Along With Tobacco Crop

Raleigh, June 2. — It doesn't require any expert agronomist or even the seventh son of a seventh son to arrive at the conclusion that North Carolina's farmers are planting dynamite along with their 1939 tobacco crop.

Of course the horny-handed sons of the soil aren't literally setting out sticks of T.N.T. among their neat rows of plants, but all indications are that there is plenty of explosive material being made ready for a big crop of political and economic repercussions.

As yet nobody can say just what is going to happen, but there isn't even a casual observer and reader who isn't aware of the fact that all over eastern North Carolina the farmers, free from all government control, are planting a tobacco crop which will exceed last year's by many hundreds of acres and many, many hundreds of tons.

What does remain to be seen is how much this big increase in poundage is going to effect the price of this season's North Caro-

Speed Efforts To Rescue Ninety Persons Still In Sunken British Submarine

Artificial Lung Method Apparently Cast Aside To Preserve Air Supply After Four of 94 Had Reached Safety; Prepare to Cut Hole In Part of Sub out of Water.

Birkenhead, England, June 2. (AP)—Admiralty officials expressed belief today that the Davis "lung" escape had been abandoned to preserve the air supply for 90 men still trapped aboard the partly submerged British submarine Thetis.

Four of the 94 persons aboard when the sleek net submarine dived into mud and sand below 130 feet

London, June 2. (AP)—The British admiralty announced today a strong tide had carried the Thetis completely under the water and forced temporary suspension of attempts to cut a hole in the stern, which had been exposed, to rescue 90 men.

At the same time the admiralty said it was not clear why use of the Davis escape method had been abandoned with 90 men left in the submarine and after only four had reached safety.

of water in the Irish sea had come to the surface strapped in the oxygen rescue masks.

But when no more men emerged in mid-afternoon, several hours after the last of the four to escape by the Davis "lung" method had been picked up, admiralty officials surmised that system had been suspended.

Rescue efforts were speeded up on the outside.

Naval experts hurried preparations to cut holes in the fin-like tail of the Thetis, glinting above the surface while her nose lay in the mud.

They hoped to cut the holes above water at low tide early this evening, to release foul air and to permit fresh air to come in.

It was hoped that eventually one hole could be widened so that the trapped men could be released through it.

Workmen already had scrambled up the submarine's exposed slopes, investigating the possibility of cutting off its tail with torches.

The number still imprisoned was placed at 90 when the admiralty announced this afternoon that four naval officers not previously listed were aboard, making a total of 94 persons in the submarine at the time of the accident.

In addition to the four officers and the 58 officers and men of the Thetis' crew, it said, there were 26 men from Cammel Laird, Ltd., the builders; three employes of Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., engine manufacturers; one pilot and two civilian caterers.

The admiralty disclosed that the forward part of the submarine, including the forward escape hatch, was flooded. All but 18 feet of the tail was submerged.

The destroyer Brazen first sighted the Thetis' stern at 8:20 a. m. (2:20 p. m. E. S. T.), far out in Liverpool bay, and soon rowboats let down from a ring of warships bobbed around the big gray tail.

Endorse Proposal To Establish Planning Commission

Definite action toward the establishment of a commission or commissions for adequate and long-range planning for Greenville was taken by the Greenville Board of Aldermen last night when that body passed a resolution to name such a group or groups at its year-end meeting on June 29.

The commissions will act only in an advisory capacity, making recommendations to the board which may be put into force or rejected.

The resolution was passed after the matter was presented by Rev. W. A. Ryan, appearing for representatives of various clubs and organizations which met at the Women's club building Thursday night and went on record to request such action by the Board of Aldermen.

Alderman and Mayor-elect Jack Spain voted against the motion, put forward by Alderman J. A. Watson, which provides for the board to name the commission from a list of names submitted by various civic organizations, Mr. Spain added he was voting against the proposal because he did not think it was up to an outgoing administration to name a five-year commission and one that would begin operation with and under an incoming administration.

Several other matters were taken up at the meeting, including a Negro library and a Negro cemetery.

The board voted to offer the Brown heirs $2,000 for 19.9 acres of land in Cooperfield to establish a Negro cemetery. A price of $3,000 had been set by the owners.

A report was made that no suitable location had been secured for a Negro library.

An Alderman L. B. Fleming, chairman of the Finance committee, in accordance with a request at the first meeting to determine if finances were available to put a sidewalk in front of the Davis hosiery mill, recommended that the walk be put down. He also requested that a walk be provided on Washington from First to Second Street.

Mayor M. K. Bount recommended that a sidewalk be laid on Greene street from the Negro church to the river bridge. The State Highway and Public Works is providing a walk beyond the bridge.

Upon recommendation of Alderman Watson the board ordered a traffic flasher be placed at the intersection of Green and Second streets and if this fails to produce results to install a stop light.

Dr. N. Thomas Emmett, Dr. Paul Fitzgerald and Dr. W. I. Wooten appeared before the board to ask an appropriation to match state and county funds with which to carry on a general clinic.

The Board raised the salary of the city recorder and solicitor to $100 and $50 monthly, respectively.

HONORS VISITOR AT STAE DINNER

Troops and Artillery Paraded Before His Guest As Fleet of German Planes Soar Overhead

Berlin, June 2. (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today followed up a pledge of respect for Yugoslavia's border with Germany for "all time" with an impressive demonstration of military might for Regent Prince Paul.

The regent, here on a five-day state visit, stood with the fuehrer and high German officers near Berlin's monument to war dead to see the parade of soldiers and war machine.

For more than three hours troops marched, and artillery tanks and motorized equipment rolled through Berlin streets while airplanes roared overhead.

The regent, who arrived here yesterday, opened today's ceremony by placing a wreath at the war memorial.

Then, riding with the fuehrer in the latter's automobile, he went to the technical high school where a parade was witnessed from a platform.

At an elaborate state dinner last night at Hitler's new chancellery, the fuehrer spoke of warm friendship between the two countries and said their new common border had been "established for all time."

One Man Arrested On Liquor Charge

One white man is being held in city jail and officers are looking for another in connection with three 10-gallon kegs of illegal whiskey found off the New Bern highway just beyond the under pass early this morning.

The officers stopped and searched a car they said was driven by John Dunbar. Although they found no liquor, they declared the odor of whiskey was strong.

The officers then went out on the New Bern highway and found 30 gallons of whiskey with Milford (Dick) Twiford standing guard.

The officers said Twiford ran, but was recognized and later arrested and placed in the city jail.

Two of the officers remained all the scene where the liquor was hid and reported that Dunbar rode by several times. Officers said they gave chase in an automobile, but Dunbar "ditched" the car and fled afoot. They said they later saw him on foot, but were unable to catch him.

The policemen said they were working on the theory that Dunbar delivered the whiskey to the spot on the New Bern highway, left Twiford at the scene and came on in the city to send local bootleggers after it, saying he was known to officers and was afraid to bring it into the city.

Those taking part in the arrest and chase were L. D. Page, Robert Mobbey, J. R. Mobbey, R. D. House and E. G. McMullan. clared him without fault, his wife declared him a just man and the Roman officer who superintended the crucifixion declared him to be the Son of God. Likewise Paul was tried before three judges and ultimately without a verdict.

In the study today the helps are definite in regards to Paul, but let us look beyond Paul and see the whole subject. Not only is Paul on trial but christianity is on trial and Paul is only the figurehead.

Three is God's number for completeness, hence the threefold trial of Christ the founder of christianity and Paul, its promoter.

The only way the power of darkness can assail the faith of the church is through human instrumentalities, therefore the powers of unbelief attacked Paul in order to attack his religion. His first trial is before the Jews, and they failed to find any charge of note. This is a symbol of the attack of those who have a form of doctrine of godliness but deny the power thereof such as many who fill pulpits today and deny the virgin birth of Christ and reject all that has the appearance of the miraculous. Yet in any case christianity has stood uncon-demned. Then before Felix, like our Lord after his own rejected him, he was turned over to the Gentile, for in both cases the sceptre had departed from Judah and the Romans were the only power who could pass final judgment. At the bar of Roman justice christianity stands represented by Paul and Felix was profoundly impressed; but procrastinated for "a more convenient season" and that we have no record of what he did.

Then before Festus and the orator of the world was called into service again, and for the third time God's number for completeness, christianity stands uncon-demned. Yes, friends, the religion of Jesus Christ has been assailed from every angle and never in the history of the world has it had a verdict rendered against it, for one greater than all its foes has said "the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

It has stood at the bar of atheism and infidelity and with the master brains at their command, not one of them has been able to point to a weak spot. Voltaire, Payne, Ingersoll and all the others have not pointed out where christianity makes a man an undesirable citizen.

Its favor. A good christian character is an asset and never a liability. A christian character never stands between a person and a good position.

In some cases it is not a thing to be required. I was in the presence of a business executive a short while ago and he said within sixty days he had interviewed around 200 applicants and he inquired of each one if they were actively engaged in church activities. The business world has no verdict against the fundamentals of christianity.

Science also, like Pilate, says there is no fault to be found. There is a notion that there is a conflict between science and religion, but if the Bible is rightly classified the conflict disappears. God's work, of which science teaches, and his word do not clash. I do not mean by science the idiotic nightmare of some little two-by-four college professor courting publicity, but scientific facts proven to be true. Scientists of this school lift up their hands to the Bible and bid it be speeded.

Felix, Festus and Agrippa stood amazed in Paul's presence, for they were in the presence of one greater than Paul; one whose shoes John the Baptist felt, and was unworthy to unloose. Ungodly men may sneer at this fellows but they cannot render a reasonable criticism to the teaching of his word.

Last, but not least, it stands today at the bar of human love and affection. The blood of a million martyrs attest to the realities of the christian religion. Mrs. Astor, when the Titanic was sinking, was tendered rescue in a lifeboat, but said she had lived for many years with her husband and in death they would not part; so the resignation of the disciples of our Lord, John the beloved and accepted, and a million more regarded him as "the lily of the valley," "the rose of Sharon," an object altogether beautiful, the fairest of ten thousand, they lived and served him in life and in death they would not part.

Christianity today, of which Paul was the representative, stands un-condemned. Who can say aught against that which makes life and great calm. An American was teaching in the schools of Japan and before he could be employed he had to sign an agreement not to mention Christ to his students. He finished his work without breaking that agreement and when the school was finished his entire student body came to him and inquired of him the source of the great calm in his life. He told them in the words of Paul, "I know in whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed to him against that day."

Christianity has been tried again and again, and today it stands before the world written in letters of gold "NOT GUILTY!"

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 2.—The perpetrator of this column spied Lieut. Governor Wilkins Horton on the street yesterday.

"When are you going to announce for Governor?" your correspondent asked him bluntly.

"Don't you know that times have changed and that hostilities are always begun nowadays without any declaration of war?" he came back with a laugh.

He declined to admit, however, that he is fighting an undeclared war.

As a "buster-upper" of schools the lieutenant governor is running his chief and Clyde Erwin a close third. He also has been talking to numerous and various club meetings and at gatherings of all sorts.

And if that ain't runnin' I don't know," to paraphrase an old cornfield melody.

From all accounts the politically minded boys in the hinterlands are getting quite fitfully over the coming governor's race.

One legislator, whose name will not be used because the story comes second hand and may be a bit garbled, on being asked what he was doing in Raleigh, blurted out: "I came up to find out who to vote for next year."

Then there's Jack Morphey, Graham's state senator, who declares himself in a really happy position: "I've paid all the political debts I owed anybody and this time I can vote and work either for the man I want to be governor or for the man I think will win."

In paroling Ernest Stamey, Governor Clyde R. Hoey made quite a point of saying that the action was taken on his own and not because of the long and tireless campaign waged by Marvin L. Ritch of Mecklenburg for freedom of "North Carolina's Dreyfuss."

Just about as many people will believe it now as would have believed it all on that phase.

While Congressman Bob Doughton describes the Townsend plan as all sorts of things that it ought not to be North Carolina continues to pay its old folks over 65 something less than ten dollars a month, on the average.

New type service rendered by the North Carolina State Employment Service.

A call for help came to the Greensboro office last week—bees were swarming in the caller's attic. Would the service make a suggestion? An experienced apiarist was called on the job. Within an hour the bee keeper had all the offending insects carefully housed in one of his hives.

Probably if the caller had said it was bats, not bees, in the beehive, the service would have called a psychiatrist.

Mrs. Lillian Gambrell, junior counselor of the Raleigh employment office, will have the honor of singing before their majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England. She will be one of a group to perform before the royal visitors at the White House June 8.

Political seers are saying that if anybody else makes a formal announcement for governor within the next month, Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell will do a bit of guessing within two weeks thereafter.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

by Frances Hanna

Chapter 22

Why Don't You Stay with the Macks?

Jocelyn asked Nola bluntly. Nola carefully removed her suede gloves before answering. Her eyes were sparkling delightfully when she finally said:

"I only wish to help you out, Lynn. For the sake of long friendship. You must have guests in order to pay expenses. How is it so far as you know is just as good as anyone else's. How many rooms have you rented so far?"

"None," Lynn rudely admitted. "But I will! It takes time and the ads have only been running three days."

"I know Thorn doesn't want me here," Nola shrugged. "But aren't you being rather narrow to resent me because of my personal differences with your brother? We always liked each other. Lynn. Why can't we go on being friends?"

Jocelyn took it in hers. A slow smile removed some of the aloofness from her face. "If you're sure you want me for a friend, Nola?"

"I do. And now may I have that perfectly divine sitting room on the front corner? I want to rent it for over fifteen dollars a day." She laughed merrily, caught hold of Lynn's arm, and urged her toward the stairway. "I have a million things to tell you, darling."

Jocelyn listened and commented with outward composure, yet inside she seethed with unreasoning envy and jealousy. She knew if it would help her in this way, but her vivid imagination tortured her with pictures of Tally holding Nola in his arms; murmuring words of love to her; kissing her.

"Nola," she interrupted the other girl's flow of small talk with almost rude abruptness. "I have work to do. Please excuse me." Starting toward the door she hoped her control would not slip until she got away from Nola's far too keen eyes.

"Why did you break off with Geoffery?" Nola demanded. "I thought you'd be married by now." Ask Gram, Lynn flung over her shoulder and receded precipitately.

Nola, dining with Lynn and Thorn that night, appeared vastly amused at Thorn's frenzied desire to interest and please her while Jocelyn writhed to see him being meek and anxious and subservient.

After dinner Nola chanced into a simple knitted suit of soft wool. She brushed out her silver-gold hair until it made a silky halo about her face, then proceeded around the fence to the Mack's abode.

Jocelyn, watching her go, felt a sick emptiness inside of her. She thought of the lovely Nola, exulting in Tally's love and to be blamed for admiring her.

"Thorn," she said, "don't make a complete idiot of yourself. Can't you manage a little dignity? It won't do you any good to prostrate yourself at her feet. She wants Tally, you—you sap!"

"I Love Him!" "All right. I am an idiot, a sap. But I love her, Lynn. I never wanted anyone but her. I'd still want her if she didn't have a penny to her name."

"But she doesn't want you," Jocelyn pointed out. "Maybe I can win her back," he declared doggedly. "She loved me once. Look here, Lynn, let's be practical! This place isn't going to pay and you must realize it by now. Nobody has even asked for a price or a room. It's too out of the way for tourists. If you don't marry Talbot so we can sell this place, we'll starve."

"Very well; we'll starve. Do you think I'd go to him with a proposition like that? He's making a living, isn't he? We didn't worry about him starving, did we? No. We shovled him around with less consideration than we give our servants. I am in no position to ask a favor of him, and I won't."

"Then I'll have to try and marry Nola. I've always wanted to marry her, anyhow."

"So you just said," Jocelyn wrinkled her nose in disgust. "It's too bad you didn't think about how much you wanted her before you kicked up a row. You only succeeded in pushing her into Tally's house and into his arms! You—you not only hurt yourself, Thorn, you—you messed up my life, too. I ought to hate you!"

Thorn gasped. "Lynn, you don't mean you actually fell in love with that—that?"

"Farmer!" she choked. "Yes I did! I love him, do you understand?"

With a sob she turned and fled from the room. "I won't go near him," Jocelyn decided the next morning as she dressed. "I won't talk to him or see him or anything. Let him have Nola—I don't care. There's lots of other men in the world and I'll get over this! I'll have to."

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—The toast of Hollywood today (for a lovely performance in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips") is Greer Garson of London, a red-haired, green-eyed young woman who has the town on its ear.

She is a discovery of the whereabouts she been type—meaning that what producers always say when a picture reveals a star they didn't know about before. The answer as you've doubtless heard, is that Miss Garson was here for a year under contract to Metro, before Director Sam Wood happily thought to look at one of her old tests with the "Chips" role in view.

Miss Garson is a serious actress and a gay, clever person. She lives with her mother in a Beverly Hills bungalow—their third since Greer's arrival from three years of triumph on the London stage—and the two of them are a smart and merry pair.

Born in Ireland, Greer had no shamrocks-and-wild-roses life. Her father died when she was one year old. When Greer grew up and won a scholarship (London University) she took her degree and forgot about acting because business offered immediate money. Mother was a great sport about it when Greer, who had always wanted to act, chucked the job and talked her way into repertory. Soon she was knocking at London's formidable gates, and savings were running low.

So deciding, she chose a dark blue frock with pleated skirt and white pique collar. Thinking she really should look businesslike to be the proprietress of a hotel, she brushed her thick Auburn hair into demure smoothness and turned the curling ends into a roll on her neck. It was five days now since she had inserted that ad in the papers. Surely someone would arrive today. She just had to make the place pay; just had to show Tally and Nola and the others that she could earn a living.

However, all decisions to the contrary, she strolled toward the stables after breakfast, having learned from the maid that Nola was still sleeping.

"Oh, Jocelyn," he said, with casual friendliness, "I wondered if I could do some business with you? I could sell you milk, eggs, fresh vegetables, and your credit is good."

"I don't need credit," she informed him, still clinging to the pleased yet astonished look. "Yet, if it will help you, I shall be glad to give you my business."

"Dear Nola," SHE looked up and saw his eyes crinkling with laughter. "What's so funny?" she demanded, piqued.

"Oh, the idea of your trying to rent a hotel, I guess. You're such a little bit of a thing... so young and inexperienced, and so darned determined. Honestly, Jocelyn, I take back what I said about you being helpless. I think you're swell... losing all of your money and coming through like this with your chin up. Let me help you, will you?"

"Thank you," she stammered. "Although I don't see what you can do."

"Figure ways to cut down your operating expense," he offered. "You could let your maids and your cook go—the groom too. Mother, with Gretchen's help, could do the cooking for you, and Gretchen could help you with the cleaning. You wouldn't have to pay them so much and they would be pleased to earn some money for clothes. Then I could supply you with practically everything but meat. Isn't it a good idea, Jocelyn? Nola really planned it last night."

"Now, isn't that nice?" she mocked. "Dear Nola goes to much thought and trouble just to help me! Well, I don't need her help, or yours either! If you must hire your family out as servants, no doubt you'd do much better in the city. They could earn more money!"

He jerked backward as if she had slapped him. His face darkened with indignation. "I was wrong about you I see. You haven't changed. It's too bad you can't learn a few things about decency and courtesy from Nola!"

Showing his hands deep into his trousers pockets, he tipped and stamped out of the stable.

"Tally," Jocelyn whispered, "I didn't mean it..."

Mephisto whinnied softly and nuzzled her shoulder. "What makes me say such things, Phisto?" she mused. "He was really being kind and I—I thought it was swell until he said it was Nola's idea. Am I really a horrid spoiled brat?"

He moved closer to her, unhappy at her trembling trying dumbly to comfort her and tell her he loved her.

Jocelyn, walking toward the front of the house, hating herself and wondering if apologizing would do any good, saw a yellow taxicab pull up in the driveway.

A little man wearing brand-new clothes peered at her from under the visor of a checked cap pulled well down on his head. He took a newspaper from his overcoat pocket and tapped it with a nicotine-stained finger.

"This the place where you got rooms to rent, Miss?"

"Yes," she acknowledged. "Do you wish room and board?"

His weasel-like eyes darted appraisingly over the landscape. "Yeah, I guess so. Sure this place is swelled?"

"Certainly," she assured him. "We are three miles from Santa Barbara and more than a mile from the nearest house. No one will bother you here."

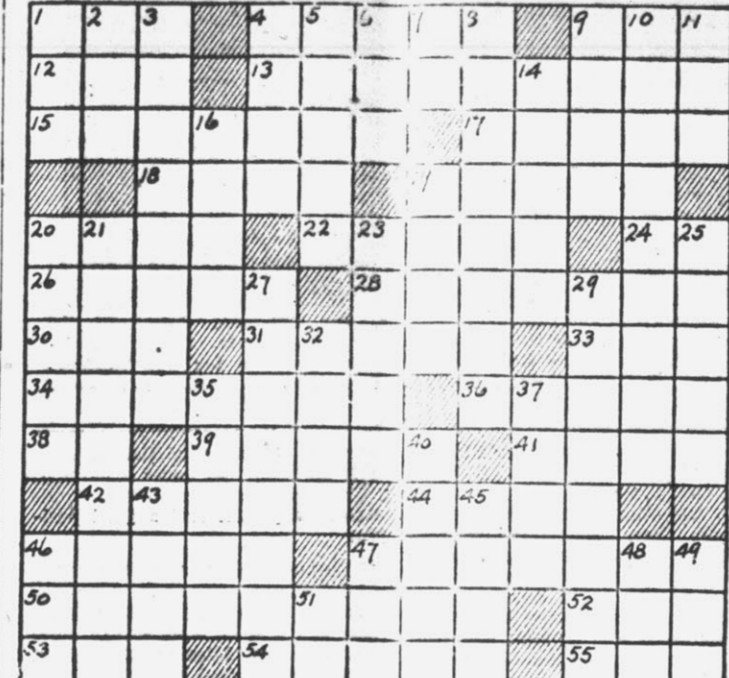

"Good." He took over a wallet thick with bills and paid the taxi driver. "Tell him where to put my baggage, Miss."

and take no chances. That's where mother was such a help; she never tried to swerve me from the stage, although we had always been a strictly untheatrical family."

The break came with an unsuccessful play, "The Golden Arrow," in which Greer began collecting the critical flowers that bloom in her scrapbook garden today.

Miss Garson (and mother, too) will learn some day what Hollywood already knows: that she couldn't have had a better introduction to film fans than "Chips" has given her. If she had played the first role considered for her, in support of Luise Rainer in "The Toy Wife," she might have found herself just another actress with "possibilities." If she had had the publicity build-up usually arranged, she'd have had to live up to it—a task that another Metro actress, Hedy Lamarr, is wrestling now.

As it is, Greer Carson slips in through the back door of fame, catching the fans by surprise, playing a role in itself radiant and heartfelt and ingratiating. It's a small role, true, but it is one of the several memorable things in the film. And that's the way stars are born for the screen—the way Hedy Lamarr burst into stardom with "Aigiers."

"Unlike Hedy, Greer has her certain path ahead. She is going into "Susan and God," her first starring picture, based on the Gertrude Lawrence stage success. Greer's comment: "It's a grand part. I feel rather ridiculous playing it because the opening night here I told Gertie she was the only one who could do it for pictures. And maybe she still is!"

Local arrangements for the reunions are being handled by Alumni Secretary J. Maryon Saunders.

Eleven members of the class of '89, celebrating their fiftieth anniversary, will be initiated as freshmen into the Old Students' Club, composed of those who graduated more than 50 years ago and headed Butte, Mont.—(AP)—"You've got to know just what to say," explained the pleased —with— himself truck driver to the astonished throng of traffic jammed citizens as he whispered in the mule's ear and led him away, pleasantly.

The long-eared one chose to balk crosswise of a main street, completely blocking the narrow thoroughfare.

Other drivers and the perplexed owner had coddled him; talked sweetly, then gruffly; had twisted his ear and did everything but build a fire under him before the mule-wise truck driver came along with his whispering stunt.

Double Duty Furnace. Sennett, N. Y.—(AP)—For several days Clayton A. Phelps heard strange noises coming from his furnace out of us after warmer weather arrived. When he spied a hen emerging from his cellar, he decided to investigate and found 20 eggs in the ash pan of the furnace. Phelps says the hen is still using the "nest" and is laying well.

GENTS WITHOUT WHISKERS TO TELL WORLD WHY. Helena, Mont.—(AP)—Unsocial gents who fail to take an active part in Butte's whisker growing contest are going to wear their punishment on their laps.

They'll be tagged, like traffic law violators, with labels of four varieties: 1. My wife won't let me. 2. My sweetheart won't let me. 3. I ain't able. 4. I'm plain ornerly.

The whiskers are a feature of Montana's Diamond jubilee celebration.

Greenies And Martins Play 11 Innings To Five-All Tie

ONLY GAME IN LOOP STARTED

Caligiuri and Cherry Settle Down to Real Hurlers' Duel

The Greenies and Martins played 11 innings at Williamston yesterday afternoon before the Flaming stepped in and halted the first of a scheduled double-header with the score knotted at five-all.

It was the only game played in the Coastal Plain League, rain having caused postponement of the other three contests.

The Greenville-Williamston affair was a hurlers' duel between Caligiuri and Cherry and neither team was able to score after the fifth inning.

Greenie got into the lead with a tally in the first, lost it in the second when the Martins made two, regained it with three tallies in the fourth, but the Martins came back in their half of the frame to score three also and go one up on the Greenies. The single run made by the Greenies in the fifth knotted the count and ended the scoring for the afternoon.

The first-inning tally for Greenville was the result of an error, walk and a single. The three-run rally in the third was climaxed by Gracie Allen's triple following two singles. One run was the result of an infield out. The Greenies' final run came on Wilson's triple and an out-field sacrifice fly.

The Martins scored two in the second on a double, two singles and a hit batsman. They made their three runs in the fourth frame on a single hit, but two sacrifices, a walk, an error and two infield outs aided in the scoring.

Caligiuri held the Martins to nine safeties, while the Greenies were getting 11 off Cherry.

TWO SOFTBALL GAMES HALTED

Rain Steps In; Two Contests Scheduled For Tonight

Two more softball games were added to the postponed list last night when rain stepped in to prevent the pair of scheduled contests from being played.

J. D. Simpson, president of the league, already has numerous games to be arranged for off-dates because of rain and ties.

Two such contests are scheduled tonight when the May 24 games which were rained out are to be played. Water and Light is to meet Tadlock Insurance and Blount-Harvey is to play Double Cola.

Meanwhile, Blount-Harvey continues to lead the league with two victories against no defeats. Royal Crown, however, has racked up the most wins, three, but has lost one. Double Cola got its first win of the season Wednesday night, defeating Carolina Sales.

VALUES OF POUND AND FRANC SHAKEN BY THREATS OF WAR

New York. (AP)—The flight of capital to the United States during 1938 is vividly sketched by the rising trend of the dollar in terms of principal foreign currencies.

The French franc, for example, crashed from a January peak of 3.40 1-4 cents to 2.57 cents at the time of the Munich settlement in September, a slump of 25 per cent.

This stemmed partly from the "revaluation" carried out by Premier Daladier's decrees, and partly from the hurried departure of nervous capital.

The British pound suffered a smaller setback, in terms of the dollar, by slumping from a February top of $5.03 7-8 to $4.60 in September, down nine per cent.

Weakness in this instance resulted from the unbalanced trade position and an accompanying flight of skittish funds.

Bears Here Tonight

Greenville fans tonight will have the only opportunity of witnessing a home game before Monday, when the locals play New Bern at Guy Smith park.

The Greenies will play at New Bern Saturday and will go to Williamston on Sunday, the Martins coming here for the return game Monday night.

ARRANGES FOR FALL PRACTICE

Coach Hanker Calls Lettermen to Report Sept. 11

Coach O. A. Hanker has issued a call for all prospective candidates and lettermen to report for football practice at East Carolina Teachers College on Monday, September 11.

With several experienced players returning to the fold, the grid men of E. C. T. C. are confident of producing a flashy football contingent for 1939-40.

Coach Hanker has recently completed the following nine-game schedule for his hopefuls:

Sept. 30, Kutztown Teachers at Kutztown, Pa.; Oct. 14, Milligan College at Milligan, Tenn.; Oct. 21, West Carolina Teachers College at Greenville; Oct. 23, William and Mary (Norfolk Division) at Greenville; Nov. 4, open; Nov. 11, Guilford College at Guilford; Nov. 18, High Point College at Greenville; Nov. 25, Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone.

TWO GRADUATE IN NEW COURSE

First to Major in Physical Education Department

Lester Ridenhour of Coolee and Miss Ruth Parker of George, who have made outstanding records in athletics, are the first majors in physical education to be graduated from East Carolina Teachers College. A major in physical education was first offered at E. C. T. C. in the fall of 1937.

Ridenhour, who came to E. C. T. C. in 1934, has won four letters in the football, four in baseball, and five in basketball. This gives him the distinction of having won more letters than any other athlete being graduated from E. C. T. C. this year.

In addition to being voted the best athlete in this year's senior class, Ridenhour was captain of basketball three years; captain of football three years; and captain of baseball two years. He also served as president of the Varsity Club in 1938 and vice-president in 1937. While in Coolee high school, from which he was graduated in 1933, Ridenhour earned a dozen letters in athletics.

Miss Parker was recently awarded a statue of Winged Victory on a black base, the highest honor in women's sports attainable here. The first to receive this recognition, she was awarded the trophy for having earned 24 points in women's intramural and inter-collegiate athletics. The award was made in an assembly.

During her freshman year, Miss Parker was awarded a letter in basketball and has been a member of the girls' basketball team since. In her sophomore year, she was awarded a gold basketball medal and in her junior year received a basketball bracelet. She was presented with a medal for intramural activities during her sophomore year and was a member of the varsity tennis team in her junior year.

Bill Shelton Elected ECTC Club President

Bill Shelton of Danville, Va., was re-elected president of the Varsity Club of East Carolina Teachers College at a recent meeting, and five new members were initiated into the club.

Shelton, who has been outstanding in all phases of athletics at E. C. T. C., had a batting percentage of .426 when the baseball season ended. Shelton, shortstop, played fifteen full games.

Other officers of the Varsity Club are: Floyd Hinton of Rocky Mount, succeeding Earl Smith of Selma, as vice-president; Mickey Northcutt of Cary, succeeding Bill Merner of Durham, who served as secretary-treasurer during the past year; and Kelly Martin of Conway, who was elected to the office of treasurer.

New members of the club are Charles Brinn of Plymouth, Woodrow Lang of Tarboro, Herbert Wilkerson of Greenville, Harvey Bradley of Washington, and Willie Phillips of Macleesfield. All except Phillips were members of this year's boxing team. Phillips was a hurler on the baseball team.

 Local police have been asked to be on the watchout for a 15-year-old girl who left her home in Rocks, N. C., and was seen here yesterday afternoon. The girl, whose name was not divulged, was said to have been wearing white shoes and red anklets when last reported seen.

At British state occasions, the Archbishop of Canterbury takes precedence over everyone but the sovereign and his close kin.

Fifty-Seven Injured In Ohio School Blast

More than a half-hundred pupils were among the 57 persons injured when a gas explosion blasted out walls and buckled floors of a frame temporary school at Barber-ton, Ohio. Two children and a janitor were critically injured and a total of 37 are in hospitals. Top picture shows the force of the blast, bottom picture shows pupils salvaging books and other belongings from the shambles.

College Athletic Awards Presented

Election of officers and presentation of achievement medals and letters in athletics concluded the activities of the Woman's Athletic Association at East Carolina Teachers College for 1938-39.

Miss Eva McMillan of Godwin, one of the association members awarded a medal, was elected president for 1939-40 to succeed Margaret Trexler of Wadesboro. Myrtle Hopkins of Plymouth succeeds Doris Hollowell of Princeton as vice president; Estelle Edwards of Newport is the new secretary, succeeding Mildred Hollowell of Princeton; Frances France of Bonlee succeeds Myrtle Hopkins as treasurer. Nancy Albright of Wilmington was voted representative of the college newspaper.

Eileen Tomlinson of Black Creek and Mozelle Pernell of Castalia, members of the association who have earned 1000 honor points in athletics, were awarded letters. They are the only members to receive this distinction this year.

Seventeen girls, whose honor points reached or exceeded the 500 mark, were awarded medals: Annie Laurie Parker of Pollocksville; Mozelle Pernell; Eileen Tomlinson; Eunice Griggs, Wadesboro; Margaret Trexler, Doris Roberts, Shawboro; Eva McMillan; Josephine Jackson, Godwin; Doris Hollowell; Mildred Gupton, Arcolet; Jennie Hinson, Stanfield; Camille Gaskins, Windsor; Margaret Wood, Troy; Elsie Gupton, Lousburg; Mary Mullen, New Bern, and Marguerette Jamerson, Leaksville.

Miss Lucille Norton of the physical education department presented the awards and letters.

Roaches Around the Kitchen Sink?

Here's how to get rid of them. First, keep the floor under the sink always clean and dry—free of food particles and dampness. That's what attracts bugs. Second, get a can of Bee Brand Insect Powder. Sprinkle it behind the sink and around the openings where the pipes go through the floor. Blow it into cracks and crevices, back of and under the wall boards. When the roaches come out, give them another dose of powder. Third, sprinkle Bee Brand Powder in the path where the roaches travel. As young roaches crawl through it they will pick up enough killing particles to kill them. Repeat these directions at weekly intervals, and your kitchen will soon be free of roaches.

Bee Brand really kills roaches, ants and other crawling insects quickly—yet it's entirely safe to use around the home. Insect on the genuine Bee Brand Insect Powder—in the red and yellow tin. It's sold with a guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. Three sizes: 10c, 25c, 50c.

NOTE: Bee Brand also kills roaches and ants, as well as flies and mosquitoes, with Bee Brand Insect Spray. Read directions on can.

The 1938-39 crop sold in North Carolina amounted to 501,641,989 pounds at first-hand sales which brought an average price of $22.92 per hundred.

Should the increase turn out to be as great as 25 per cent then this year's crop will run better than 625,000,000 pounds and the big question awaiting solution is what price a crop that size will bring.

Ism Hunters Find U.S. Fertile Field

By ZACH TAYLOR
(AP Feature Service Writer)
New York, May 31—(AP)—Two sharply contrasted methods of "boring from within" America are being studied here by a little group of "ism hunters."

Long before Rep. Martin Dies and his investigators started the country with tales of the existence of "ism" plots, the Institute for Propaganda Analysis, Inc., was reading reams of propaganda material and making conclusions.

Its analyses are used only for bulletins designed "to help the intelligent citizen detect and analyze propaganda."

But it has counted some 800 "right groups" ranging from moderates to clubs self-proclaimed as "the official Fascist party." It counts the noses of Communists too, and keeps tabs on how the programs of dozens of left-wing orders compare with those of the Communist International—made in Russia.

Educators Direct Work
Educators of many leading colleges are directors of the institute, which has offices on the fringe of Columbia University's campus. Dr. Clyde R. Miller of Columbia Teachers College is secretary. Studio, square shouldered Harold Lavine is the young editor.

"We want only to bring into the open much that is obscure," explained Dr. Miller. "The institute does not itself disseminate propaganda."

Lavine sees "right and 'left'" in addition to political extremes, as two contrasting methods of boring into American political life from within.

"The rights," he explains, "are mostly one-man outfits. They have the man-on-a-white-horse idea—gold braid and uniforms."

"The lefts want a highly organized minority—a vanguard of the proletariat as the Communists say. They often work within the frame of large organizations."

"The rights want numbers. The lefts seek small, efficient groups of leaders who can work into positions of influence."

Some of the right groups ostentatiously battle for "Americanism and on any objective, serve their purpose and fade out," he explains. "Dozens were formed during the Ethiopian and Spanish wars. European crises brought more."

Shift In Policy?
"Back in 1935 the freshmen here in Columbia were asked to pledge not to fight unless the U. S. were invaded. As seniors they're told now it will be all right if they fight somebody like Hitler. That smells of the shift from the 'schools-not-battleships' to the 'collective security' policy—made in Russia."

All of which means a big turnover in Communist party rolls. Lavine says 21,000 members were taken in during 1936-38 in New York, while 10,000 dropped out. He estimates there are 75,000 Communists in the U. S., and says they're generally good dues payers. Dues are a percentage of salary.

There's a lot more to the story, says Lavine—pointing to the thick volumes of the Dies' investigation on his desk. It proves upsetting to some congressmen, but it's routine stuff to Propaganda Analysis, Inc.

King And Queen Leave Guards, Mingle With Crowds

Heck, Now We'll Never Know

FERDINAND ROMPS ALONE IN EARLY MORNING HOURS

Cleveland—(AP)—At four a. m. Cleveland's large public auditorium is a vast sea of darkness.

Then a dim light glimmers in a far-off corner and the strains of "Ferdinand the Bull" come rollicking through the air.

It's Fred Frey, the piano tuner, who works on the auditorium's nine pianos in the quiet early morning hours.

And when "Ferdinand" comes

RECORD AMOUNT OF GOLD FLOWS INTO UNITED STATES

New York—(AP)—Gold imports this year are expected in financial circles to reach a new record high of around $1,850,000,000. This would compare with $1,800,000,000 in 1937 and $1,740,000,000 during the previous peak period in 1934.

Back of the huge inflow of yellow metal, of course, lies this country's record-breaking export balance—which foreign countries must pay for—and the unsettled condition of markets abroad. Despite the recession, foreigners found investment here more attractive than at home.
