$100,000,000 WAR SUPPLIES BILL APPROVED

Calls for Stock Purchase Covering Several Years

SEEK TO RETAIN VARIOUS GOODS

President Signs Resolution Making Reorganization Plans Become Effective July 1st.

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed a bill today providing for the purchase of $100,000,000 worth of stocks of strategic and essential war materials in the next few years.

The measure is intended to build up the stocks of such materials as tin and rubber which are not readily available from domestic sources and are vital for defense purposes in war times.

It also provides for development so far as possible of American sources of such materials.

The President also signed a resolution which will permit his two plans for reorganization of the executive branch of the government to be effective July 1.

Under the reorganization act the plans would have gone into effect 60 days after their submission to Congress unless both Senate and House disapproved them. The Senate and House voted down resolutions of disapproval.

One plan will permit grouping of numerous government agencies into new units in charge of welfare, leading and security. The other provides for inter-departmental shifts of officials.

The Labor Department ordered the release of Sean Russell, self-styled "head man" of the outlawed Irish Republican army, who was taken into custody at Detroit while the British King and Queen were across the border in Canada.

Officials said the department's immigration service had telegraphed the release of Sean Russell, self-styled "head man" of the outlawed Irish Republican army, who was taken into custody at Detroit while the British King and Queen were across the border in Canada.

Making A Survey Of Farms In Pitt

Pitt County farms are now being measured under the Agricultural Conservation Program by supervisors to determine the acreage of crops grown in 1939.

Supervisors doing this work have been given field training and a two-day school followed by an examination as a partial test of their proficiency. Their work in turn is to be spot checked by the county compliance supervisor and by the district supervisor, the latter working out of the state office.

The County Committee wishes to urge farmers in Pitt county to lead their help and cooperation in measuring the acreage of tobacco, cotton, peanuts, potatoes, commercial truck, general crops and soil building practices," declared Bennett.

He said also that regardless of whether a farmer has complied with the acreage allotments or not, the tobacco acreage is supposed to be measured according to the Agricultural Adjustment Act. It is understood that the cotton marketing quota is effective for 1939 and marketing cards cannot be issued to a producer until the compliance has been checked; also that the act provides for a penalty for excess cotton.

"Another reason why the cash crops should be measured on farms which are overplanted," said Bennett, "is that a record should be available as proof of the total acreage of tobacco, cotton and other crops that are grown in the county in 1939. Such may prove of value in the future."

Pitt Agent's Office To Close Saturdays

In order that the County Agent's office may be in conformity with the established policy of other county offices, it will close at 12:30 each Saturday afternoon in the future.

In making the announcement, County Agent R. R. Bennett declared, "The County Committee feels that this policy should be followed since it had been called to our attention several times."

MEXICAN AIR ACE DIES IN CRASH INTO POTOMAC

The Mexican aviator, Francisco Sarabia, who recently made a record-breaking non-stop flight from Mexico City to New York, was killed in taking off from Bolling Field at Washington on his return flight when his plane dived into the Potomac river. A rescue squad is shown lifting the ship from the river by means of a derrick. The men on the dock are examining Sarabia's body which was found in the plane.

AIM TALKS AT NAZI GERMANY

Both Lord Halifax and Chamberlain Air Views

London, June 8.—(AP)—Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary, declared today that the time had passed when the independence of European nations could be destroyed by the actions of one state.

He said it was clear now that any further attempt of aggression would meet with "wide and resolute resistance."

The foreign secretary spoke in a foreign affairs debate in the House of Lords.

At the same time Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that the recent attitude of Germany on the colonial question was placing further obstacles in the way of a possible step toward adjustment of that problem.

Lord Halifax in his statement said, "I do not share the view that war is unavoidable."

"There are problems in Europe only too likely to lead to war, but I find it very difficult to believe with the certain prospect of resistance that those who might feel determined to resist arbitration of war would not think it wiser and more profitable to resolve their difficulties by negotiations."

The prime minister said in the lower house that he had observed "with great regret" that German officials continued to make the allegation that Britain was planning destruction of Germany's trade.

Tom Davis, local Negro sought by ABC officers since last Saturday morning on a charge of transporting illegal liquor, walked into the police station yesterday afternoon and announced "here I am."

Davis and LeRoy Cromwell are alleged to have been in an automobile containing two and a half gallons of liquor which officers trailed from the Belvoir road to First street early Saturday. When the officers drove up to the car two Negroes jumped out and ran, but the ABC men said they recognized the pair and Cromwell was "picked up" Sunday morning.

Davis was said to be the owner of the car. The two will be given a hearing in Municipal court tomorrow morning. Davis is out on bail, but Cromwell is in city jail in default of bond.

Kiwanians Will Hear Professor A. C. Hall

Professor A. C. Hall of the Greensboro Kiwanis Club, and a member of the faculty of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis Club Friday evening at 8:45 o'clock.

Prof. Hall recently appeared on Hobby Lobby, broadcasting from Radio City. For a number of years he has pursued an unusual hobby, that of collecting curious and humorous epitaphs, and he is planning to spend a month this summer visiting the old graveyards in Eastern Carolina. "Quaint Sayings On Old Tombstones" will be the subject of his talk here. It is a purely humorous, entertaining talk.

Oxford Post To Back Rose for Commander

Another North Carolina American Legion post has added its endorsement of J. H. Rose for state commander to the long list of organizations which have instructed their delegates to vote annual convention in Raleigh the latter part of this month.

The latest post to endorse Mr. Rose is the one at Oxford. The vote of endorsement was unanimous and the letter advising the candidate of the action said members were doing all they could in his behalf.

Chief George Clark Entertains at Camp

George Clark yesterday afternoon demonstrated that he can be a genial host as well as a competent police chief.

Chief Clark had a number of public officials, city and county officers and a few others as his guests at a barbecue dinner at his summer camp, Point Breeze, on Blount's Creek.

Approximately half a hundred gathered at the point under the shade trees and in the cool breeze to enjoy an afternoon. Several members of the party went in swimming, others took to the sport of fishing, while even others just spent the time sitting around talking and enjoying doing nothing.

PRESSES PLEA TO FREE BEAL

Three Reasons Advanced in Hearing Before Gill

Raleigh, June 8.—(AP)—Lawyers for Fred Erwin Beal, former Communist serving 17 to 20 years in prison for conspiracy to murder Gastonia's police chief, who died 10 years ago today, argued to Paroles Commissioner Edwin Gill today that Beal should be pardoned for three years.

Louis Waldman of New York, who told Gill he was not a "meal-mouth-piece" and was not being paid to appear for Beal, outlined the three reasons briefly as:

- 1. "Beal did not commit the crime for which he was charged."
2. "Beal is not the same Beal now as in 1929."
3. "The chief executive of this state is the very man who headed the prosecution and no one besides the governor knows the records of the case as well as the governor."

Waldman said he had a clemency petition signed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and by representative churchmen, labor leaders, citizens and public officials.

Beal entered prison here last year to serve the term imposed in 1929. In the interim he went to Russia.

Waldman told Gill that Beal "never left the United States to become a fugitive from justice. For the first time I can prove that, and I will."

"If we thought that the record indicated beyond a reasonable doubt that Beal conspired to kill Chief Aderholt," said Waldman, "we would ask for other relief."

The lawyer said the questions relating to communism, patriotism and religion in the Beal trial tended to prejudice the jurors.

In support of his contentions Waldman offered five affidavits which he said were signed by five nationally known psychologists.

To Seek Tobacco Control Through Indirect Method

Reflectors Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, June 8.—Tobacco farmers in the Warren county section, at least, are highly indignant at efforts of the Federal Triple A to enforce tobacco acreage control by indirect methods, now that direct control is impossible through defeat in last year's referendum.

Representative John Kerr, Jr. said today during a visit to Raleigh. "Theoretically the tobacco farmer can plant just as much as he wants to," said he, "but let him try to plant more than his allotment used to be and see how long it is conserved check."

The way the thing works out, Mr. Kerr said, is for the federal officials who reward farmers for planting certain soil conserving crops on their acreage, to reduce the checks and the letter advising the candidate of the action said members were doing all they could in his behalf.

BRITAIN - JAPS STILL AT ODDS

Relations Reported Almost At The Breaking Point

Tokyo, June 8.—(AP)—Relations with Great Britain have been aggravated "almost to the breaking point" by the increasing number of incidents in China, a government informant asserted today.

A spokesman for the admiralty declared at the same time "a calm attitude must be preserved if serious international repercussions are to be avoided."

Newspapers charged that, as Asahi put it, Britain "is seemingly endeavoring to intimidate Japan."

Warsaw, June 8.—(AP)—A new German order expelling Polish Jews was reported today to have prompted the Polish government to repeat a warning of retaliatory measure against Germans in this country.

Last October the Polish government was said to have arrested 1,000 Germans, threatening to send them into Germany if the transfer of Jews to the Polish frontier did not cease.

The latest German efforts, according to a Krakow newspaper, involved 2,000 Jews, including some from Vienna, who, it was said, were brought recently to the German frontier station of Hindenburg in Silesia.

Two Pitt Negroes Flee From Camp

Sheriff J. Knott Proctor was advised today of this escape from an unnamed prison camp of two Negroes sentenced in Pitt Superior court, one in January, 1939, and another in January, 1938.

Clifton Williams, given eight to 10 years each on three counts for breaking, entering and larceny in January of this year, was one of the pair. One of the counts against Williams was the larceny of an automobile from the Poler A to enforce tobacco acreage control.

Herbert Hemby, sentenced in January, 1938, to three years for breaking, entering and burglary, was the other escapee.

HALT RESCUE EFFORT

(AP)—Efforts to raise the submarine Thetis from the bottom of Liverpool bay were halted today after strong northwest winds and heavy seas in the night snapped pontoon cables.

Admitting that there may be argument for and against control as a principle, Representative Kerr scored attempts to enforce it by indirect methods as "absolutely indefensible."

Warren county farmers are not planting much more tobacco than last year, he estimated, assigning the AAA policy as one of the reasons for such a state of affairs, which seems to be different from that existing in other counties of the tobacco belt, where increased planting is reported on all sides.

The State Representative commented briefly on the presidential veto of the ban on tobacco seed exportation, sponsored by his father, Judge John Kerr, Sr., in the Federal House.

Government In Poland Prompted To Repeat Warning of Retaliatory Measure Against Germans

Berlin, June 8.—(AP)—Polish Jews, who number more than 10,000 in Germany, were reported being rounded up today by the Gestapo, secret police, either for deportation or concentration camps in a new Nazi effort to get rid of foreign Jews.

Jews said groups were being escorted to the Polish frontier daily after being given notice as short as 24 hours that they must leave. So far only men have been involved in the drive.

In Munich 400 Jews were reported under arrest. Undetermined numbers were in custody in Berlin and Breslau. Several hundred Jews in Dresden were given until noon tomorrow to get out of Germany.

Those who lost their Polish passports under a new Polish citizenship law last November are being taken to concentration camps, while those whose passports are in order are being put across the Polish frontier.

The sending of new thousands to concentration camps was interpreted as a means of putting pressure on wives and other relatives to speed efforts toward finding new homes outside Germany.

Jews said two general reasons were given by the secret police for the campaign. That Germany would not tolerate foreigners without passports and that it was a measure to counter recent Polish deportations of German citizens.

Warsaw, June 8.—(AP)—A new German order expelling Polish Jews was reported today to have prompted the Polish government to repeat a warning of retaliatory measure against Germans in this country.

Last October the Polish government was said to have arrested 1,000 Germans, threatening to send them into Germany if the transfer of Jews to the Polish frontier did not cease.

The latest German efforts, according to a Krakow newspaper, involved 2,000 Jews, including some from Vienna, who, it was said, were brought recently to the German frontier station of Hindenburg in Silesia.

Only 80 reached the frontier, the newspaper said.

Chinese In America Backing Generalissimo With Cash

San Francisco, June 8.—(AP)—The American Chinese, never bashful about betting, are laying more than a million dollars a month on General Chiang Kai-Shek's chances in the war with Japan.

About half of the money comes from San Francisco's China Town, largest Chinese settlement outside of China. The rest comes from Chinese in New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Seattle, Boise and smaller cities.

Because of the unofficial nature of the money-hauling, there is a little uncertainty about the exact "take," but this is the way the game is played:

Chinese families and business groups assess themselves to amass assets which periodically are remitted to China mostly as credits.

Some of these remittances, possibly a fifth, are direct gifts to the Chinese nationalist government, but the major portion go to personal or business connections in Hong Kong, Shanghai and other cities which relay the money to Chiang Kai-Shek's treasury when opportunity permits.

Mrs. Brown was known among a wide circle of friends in Pitt county.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Episcopal church at Snow Hill.

CAPITAL DRESSED FOR ROYALTY

The national capital took on an atmosphere of royal pomp as workmen hurried to complete the job of decorating the streets with the Union Jack and Royal shields for the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth. The shields bear the initials of the royal couple. They were placed on lamp posts to mark the route of the royal parade.

MET AT TRAIN BY PRESIDENT

First Reigning Monarch Ever to Set Foot On American Soil Arrives at Nation's Capital at 11 A. M., and Immediately Begins Day of Festivities

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—King George, VI, and Queen Elizabeth arrived in Washington at 11 a. m., today on the first visit ever made by a reigning British sovereign to the United States.

Their royal silver and blue train was pulled slowly backward into Union station and came to a quiet stop while hundreds of people in the station concourse and on nearby tracks silently awaited the appearance of the royal couple.

Within the station President and Mrs. Roosevelt, members of their family and ranking government officials were present to extend the nation's cordial greeting.

Thousands were jammed without and along historic Pennsylvania to join in the reception of the British rulers.

The king was the first to get off the train. His support came from the car nearest the station and a second later the queen, dressed in steel gray appeared.

The king was attired in an admiral's uniform of blue and gold. The breast was covered with medals and decorated with blue sash. As he walked down the platform the king saluted three times to the cheering crowd and Queen Elizabeth smiled and waved.

The marine drum and bugle corps played flourishes and ruffles and to the colors the moment his majesty appeared and as he stepped between the double line of marines which led to the President's reception room.

As the king approached the marines snapped to present arms. But even before the sun arose for a typically hot June day the fore-runners of a vast unofficial reception committee of plain Americans were taking places behind tautly drawn steel cables extended from Union Station to the White House.

Today's itinerary called for a diplomatic reception and luncheon at the White House, a sightseeing trip to noteworthy capitol shrines, a second informal "parade" to the British embassy for the garden party and a formal dinner for 83 or 84 officials at the White House.

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—A smile and a friendly handshake from President Roosevelt and the bombing salute of military honors welcomed King George of Britain today to the capital of a republic grown great from 13 one-time English colonies.

Their faces crinkled into cordial smiles as their hands met, as if to symbolize those of friendship between two English-speaking peoples who parted ways in 1776.

Secretary of State Hull who accompanied King George and his Queen from Canada, introduced them in the presidential reception room of Union station shortly after the royal party arrived from Canada.

"Mr. Roosevelt, I have the honor to present their Britannic majesties," Hull said.

"How are you, I'm glad to see you," Mr. Roosevelt said. "The King and Queen then greeted Mrs. Roosevelt and Brigadier General (Continued on Page Four)

Dr. Harl R. Douglass To Deliver Commencement Talk

Greenville high school tonight will award diplomas to 47 seniors, the first students to be graduated under the 12-year system, in exercises scheduled to get under way at 8 o'clock in the Robert H. Wright building at East Carolina Teachers College.

Dr. Harl R. Douglas, chairman of the Division of Teacher Training, University of North Carolina, will deliver the address to the graduates, who will be seated in the front of the auditorium attired in the traditional academic cap and gown.

Highlights of the city's 36-year-old school history show that the first high school students in Greenville were graduated from the ninth grade, with the graduating class of 1913, composed of 16 students, being the first group to be graduated under the 10-year plan. Last year's senior class was the last class to graduate under the 11-year plan.

The Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, will offer the invocation, which will be followed by a prelude, "Cycle of Life," to be rendered by the mixed chorus, and a number by the Greenville high school band entitled "Creation Hymn."

After awards are made to outstanding graduates by J. H. Rose, superintendent of the city school system, James L. Little, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and V. M. Mulholland, principal of the high school, will present diplomas.

Those being graduated in the 1938-39 class are: Mabel Ames, Leslie Babcock, Erasmus Briley, William Miller Burks, Pauline Butler, Mildred Cahoon, Lillian Cannon, Robert Carlson, Norman Coward, Otho Cozart, Clara Crumpler, Ruth Crumpler, Bert Darden, A. Summer Gardening
In a most helpful and generous manner, Mrs. J. Arthur Jones gave the members of the Garden Club valuable suggestions as to summer gardening. It is only within recent years that we have found we may successfully raise flowers in our gardens throughout the year. And it has been particularly true that it seems most difficult to keep flowers blooming during the hot summer months.

Mrs. Jones stressed the possibility of variety in our summer gardens and the many interesting blooms we may have during this season. Many of our brightest flowers can be grown outside only in summer.

A full summer garden of blooming flowers may be acquired very readily by sowing seeds of tender or half-hardy annuals in May and June. In classifying plants, we will recall that annuals are plants which live only one year. The hardy annuals will re-seed and come up year after year. Among the plants known as the hardy annuals are larkspur, centaurea, coreopsis, Drummond phlox and California poppies. Then there are the annuals which we will plant each year and are asters, salvia, nasturtiums and sinlissas.

Among the more difficult annual plants, we have the aster. A will-resistant seed has now been perfected and the amateur gardener will find these much more successful. If the will resistant seed or plants are not available, prepare the bed with coal dust or sifted ashes before planting.

Perennials will not bloom the first year and quite frequently must necessarily be transplanted twice before they make blooming size plants. Transplanting gives a plant a better root system and most perennials need dividing every third or fourth year.

Many plants are confusing to the amateur gardener because they are both annual and perennial varieties at a same plant. For instance, we have the annual and perennial phlox. The annual variety is a dwarf plant while the perennial comes both as a dwarf and tall plant. The annual gypsophelia is also dwarf and not as good for cutting as the perennial species. The annual candytuft plant comes in several colors, but the perennial species is only the white bloom.

A most colorful summer bloom is the Godetia which has pink and red flowers. This plant grows best in light soil and plenty of sun. Toronia in shades of blue with yellow centers will give a border effect of pansies. These plants can stand the hot sun and the seed should be sown by now. For hot, sunny places the Drummond phlox and Portulacca seed planted now will give a brilliant display of color in a few weeks.

And while we are endeavoring to keep our garden in bloom during the summer, we must start plans for our fall and winter gardening. Many magazine and book authorities advise the planting of perennial seeds in June for fall transplanting. However, it has been found that September planted seed is safer and these plants will be ready to transplant in November.

All plants should be kept in a vigorous state of growth and this will help to prevent black spot and mildew. Fertilizer is a necessary food to all plants. However, some plants are better feeders and will require more frequent fertilizing. If an animal fertilizer was used in the spring, then a lighter food, as cottonseed meal, bone meal or a commercial fertilizer may be used throughout the remainder of the year.

Along with fertilizer, a deep mulch is most valuable for plants such as roses, for the hotter months. This will serve to protect all surface growing roots and to retain ground moisture. Pine straw is a splendid mulch as are dried leaves and tobacco stems.

Among the plants to be transplanted now or cared for for spring blooming, are lilacs of the valley, tuberose, German iris bulbs, Siberian and Japanese iris. Keep your garden scheduled, work ahead, and it will be a continual picture of color and pleasure.

May your summer garden be a success, your vacation a pleasure, and your fall flowers ready for your home-coming.

DIRECTORS OF DRAMA ARRIVE

Harry Davis and Wife At Manteo to Present Pageant

Manteo, June 8. — Harry Davis, who recently was named associate director of the 1939 production of Paul Green's historical drama "The Lost Colony" which opens its third summer season at Fort Raleigh Roanoke Island, July 1, arrived

Davis, who designed the costumes used in this annual summer drama. Davis will assist Samuel Seiden, director of the production, who is expected to arrive this week to make preliminary rehearsal plans. Davis is technical director of the Carolina Playmakers, which he joined in 1931 as business manager and assistant director. For the past eight years he has been assistant professor in the Department of Dramatic Art at the University of North Carolina.

Mrs. Davis' experience and background is closely linked with that of her husband. She has taught courses in costume design and execution at the University in connection with the work of the Carolina Playmakers. She has also taught classes in body training and the dance. During the past eight years, she has designed practically all the costumes used in the major productions of the Playmakers.

During the first summer of "The Lost Colony," Mrs. Davis designed and supervised the execution of the entire costume layout of more than 500 with the aid of the WPA sewing rooms in Durham and Manteo. Until the present season, the Davises have both spent a few weeks at the time on Roanoke Island to supervise various aspects of the production.

Summer Registration Is Held At College

Registration for the summer session at East Carolina Teachers College began today with an anticipated enrollment of 600.

Forty-two instructors will serve on the faculty during the summer months, when the largest summer school session in the school's history is expected.

A library science course is being set up as part of the school curriculum for the summer months, which is being done to equip "teachers of tomorrow" to handle library work in small schools. This is also a State requirement.

"Efendi" is a Turkish title of respect equivalent to the English "sir."

World production of oil in 1938 is estimated at 1,995,096,000 barrels.

The United States consumed 567,500,000 barrels of gasoline in 1938.

STATE EXHIBIT WINS PRAISES

Noted Artist Hails N. C. Display At The World's Fair

New York, N. Y., June 8. — "Strongest most modern and most graphic" of any of the exhibits at New York World's Fair is the praise heaped upon North Carolina's exhibit by Boris Margo, noted artist, who visited the state building this week.

Margo dropped in at the North Carolina space and immediately called it "wonderful," and expressed his appreciation that such a "modest and simple" exhibit could convey so much information and so many impressions of a state.

The artist designed the Time and Space building at the fair ground which houses the Logies-Wittmauer Wash exhibit. For five years he has been instructor in modern art at the Rorech Museum. Many of his pieces are on display in the Art Gallery at 36 West Eighth Avenue.

The Tar Heel staff was so gratified by the enthusiasm of their visitor that they insisted he make another inspection of the exhibit, this time with the services of an attendant who explained each piece and answered all the guests' questions. They were especially pleased that the artist insisted on judging the exhibits by the skill and impressiveness of idea-presentation, rather than luxury of material or size of space.

Sanitary Inspector Explains Privy Law

J. H. Moore, Pitt County sanitary inspector, in speaking of the importance of the sanitary privy laws said "they not only apply to all towns, but also to all residences located within one mile of the corporate limits of a town."

A program is being sponsored by the W. P. A. to construct and set privies free of cost, but material must be furnished by the person whom the privy is made.

COUNTY HELPS STATE IN SYPHILIS WAR!

Establishing a venereal disease clinic in Ayden is another indication of Pitt County's effort to aid North Carolina in its unprecedented war on syphilis, one of the most widespread diseases in the United States.

Pitt County's first clinic in the syphilis fight was started in Greenville, with others later being established in Bethel and Farmville. With the Ayden clinic, Pitt County will be able to offer treatment, to those unable to provide the services of a private physician, in four different communities.

During 1938 there were 12,299 reported cases of syphilis in North Carolina, and Pitt County is no exception for its share of syphilis, which is shown in the fact that more than 2,000 persons received treatment in the three syphilis clinics in the county during the month of May.

Just how successful the war against syphilis will be remains to be seen. However, if we expect to make this social malady extinct in the future, we must remember the old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

ANOTHER YEAR IN EDUCATION!

Greenville High School tonight will formally close another year in educational progressiveness, and its graduates, like those of hundreds of other schools throughout the United States will ask themselves, "Shall I continue my education, or shall I begin the problem of earning a living?"

Statistics show that approximately 75 per cent of the students being graduated from high schools today never go to college. Therefore, instead of adhering to the tradition of equipping its students solely for college, schools of today, particularly those in North Carolina, are making an effort to prepare students, whose formal education is terminated upon graduating from high school, for their life work.

While the new stride in education is proving exceedingly beneficial, we must not forget the value of higher learning. Education tends to produce better thinkers; better thinkers make more in-

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Ruff

YESTERDAY, Tacks Adams, product of Andover and Yale, proposes a stunt to his three bored bridge companions, Messrs. Van Harkness, Bill Steele and Jumbo Cutler. He suggests they date girls from the phone book, named North, South, East and West, and bring them to a dinner on Long Island a month hence or forfeit $1,000.

Chapter Two Take A Number

"JUST a minute!" put in Steele. "Suppose we do pull this off. What'll your Uncle Dick say when we roll into his place with these points of the compass?"

"Ah!" Tacks wagged a finger. "Wait'll you hear how smart I am. My paternal uncle is in Europe for the summer. Therefore, he has no part in this affair except to provide champagne and other liquors which I will procure from his vast cellars. As for the dinner, that's on Uncle Dick too. I'm in cahoots with his housekeeper. Her name is Mrs. Dipsang and she's just like a mother to me."

Steele extended his hand. "Tacks, you're a genius. I'm all for this thing. It's got adventure in it. And adventure's what I crave about now. That and a drink. Hey, Gus!"

"I'm all for it," Van said. Tacks looked enthusiastically around the table. "Well, that makes three of us in the boat. How about it, Jumbo? You're the only hold-out."

The moon-faced one looked doubtful. "Gee," he said, "Imagine me walking in on some gal named West and suggesting she let me get to know her. Why, I'd never have the crust."

Tacks thumped the telephone book. "Come on! Where's the old Cutler fight? Anyhow, the majority rules here. You're in whether you want to be or not. Or else you forfeit a thousand. Right, gang?"

"Right," echoed Van and Bill. "Wrong," said Jumbo. "The eyes have it," Tacks said, thumping the book again. "Okay, Bill! We'll begin with you. You take this directory, look up the Easts and choose your gal."

Grimacing, Bill Steele opened to the E's and ran his finger down the page. "I can't find any East girls," he said presently. "There's nothing but East Broadways and East China Companies and East Side this and that."

"Read on," Tacks ordered sternly. "Tell you what," Bill said. "I'll bring along the East Side Bean & Beet Company, Inc. How's that?"

"That's out. Hurry up and get yourself a girl."

"But there isn't a girl."

"A Woman's Different"

TACKS grabbed the book from him and ran his finger down the column of Easts. "By gosh, he's right though. There're only three private Easts listed here. All the rest are names of companies. There're the East Bros., S. T. on Seventh Avenue. . . He looked up curiously. "What would S. T. mean?"

"Search me," Van said. "Well," said Tacks, "it doesn't matter. Bill will have to go after one of the East Bro. hers S. T."

"But, gosh," objected Van, "that makes a pipe for him. Easy enough to walk in on a man and state your business. But a woman's different. You've got to be clever with women. I thought this thing was a test of ingenuity. With a man, it'll be a cinch."

"Not necessarily," said Bill, who was greatly relieved.

of the East Brothers or nothing. Well, do you agree or do we wrangle some more?"

"Let it go, Van said. "Okay with you Jumbo?"

"Okay."

Tacks sighed with relief. "That's that, then. All right, Van. Choose your partner."

Harkness scanned the directory. "Here's my baby," he announced in a minute. "Miss Dorothy South. Lives in a swell neighborhood too."

"You're next, Jumbo," Tacks passed him the book. "Snag yourself a tall, stream-lined blonde out of the Wests."

"Thank Mae's in here?" Jumbo asked hopefully.

There was quite an assortment of West ladies, Jumbo discovered. He selected a Miss Luella.

"All right, Tacks!" Steele said. "Let's see you draw a number now. You've done all the talking so far and no acting. Come on!"

Tacks looked into the jungle of Norths.

"H'm!" he said. "Not what you'd call a wide range, but here she is! Miss Patricia North. . . East 66th Street. Bet she's a ferocious red-head with a viper's tongue. Just my luck!"

"Well, now we've got this settled," Bill said, "what's the next move?"

Tacks glanced at his watch. "It's getting late. I'd say have dinner here. Then, after it, we'll try this thing out with one of us as the dog. My idea is to roll the bones to see which of us goes out and tries his luck tonight. How about that?"

The others nodded agreement.

Low Man

STARS, presumably tired of Alabama, fell upon New York City. Under the glow of its electric lights with the neat bar and its bottles and shining glasses and Gus in his immaculate white coat the terrace of the Penguin Club looked as gay and festive as a roof-garden. From below came the restless sounds of the city, minimized by the lofty, snooty position of the Penguin Club.

Tacks Adams brandished his closed fist above his head. It made a clicking sound.

"All set?" he inquired. "Low man has to go to work tonight."

"Right!" the other three agreed. Tacks spoke to the dice. "Just treat me right, babies. Big Dick or box cars. I'm not particular." He rolled the dice out on the table.

A six and a five showed up. Tacks sat back, grinning.

"That's sure to let me out," he said. "Your dice, Bill."

Steele rolled a nine and was reasonably safe. Then Van Harkness achieved naught but a five.

"Looks like I'm the white-haired boy," he said gaily. "But do I care? I fear no woman living."

Jumbo Cutler was rubbing the dice between his palms.

"Come on, bones!" he crooned. "Just a li'l sixtys will do. All right honeys, do your stuff!" Then he spun them out and like lightning the pleased expression vanished from his face. His eyes bulged, almost with fright. "Uuuuh! Aw, gee! Aw, gee! Honest fellows, I can't go first. I simply can't."

The dice, lying placidly on the table, registered four. Tacks laughed delightedly.

"Do my eyes deceive me," he said, "or is that Little Joe? Little Joe, it is! Well, Jumbo my boy, your honor. Just put on that nice rakish Panama hat of yours, straighten that gosh-awful tie and fare forth into the night."

"Gosh, this—is this terrible," wailed Jumbo piteously. "What'll I say? What'll I do?"

He arose and stood over them, acute distress written large on his ample face.

intelligent voters; and intelligent voters usher more capable leaders into office.

In the words of Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction: "No great civilization has ever been, or can be built, upon ignorance. Ignorance builds no factories, constructs neither highways nor railroads, blazes no airplane trail, founds and fosters neither worthy homes nor schools, and establishes and maintains no satisfactory form of government. Ignorance is the foe of the church, the enemy of the home, the obstacle of the school, the destroyer of the state, and at this moment, the menace of civilization. What the commonwealth of North Carolina needs is not less education, but more and better."

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 8.—Warren county's Representative John Kerr, Jr., said while in Raleigh that there isn't even a ripple of general interest in the gubernatorial primary which is upsetting so many politicians all over the state.

Without committing himself or making any ironclad predictions he indicated that the more practical politicians in his section are more or less interested in the candidacy of be afraid to look a green pea in the face.

This correspondence wrote a day or so ago that plans for settling the University comptroller wrangle were all smashed up by discovery of a statute which prohibits any member of the board of trustees from being named to the place.

The law likewise extends to anyone who has been a member of the board within six months of the appointment; so it might be a good idea for those anxious to get advance information on the subject to watch for any immediate resignation from the trustees. The Comptroller will not now be named until the January meeting, which would allow just the needed six months eligibility period.

The statute—Section 7519 of the Consolidated Statutes—says: "It shall be unlawful for any board of trustees. . . to appoint or elect any person who may be or has been at any time within six months to any position in the institution."

Walker Lyerly, mayor-elect of Hickory, will be following in the footsteps of two brothers when he takes office, according to the Hickory Record, which points out that Eubert Lyerly and Major George L. Lyerly have previously held the post.

Somebody ought to send Joe Calton, Fayetteville slot machine tycoon, a copy of the "Hold Everything" cartoon of recent date; although Joe probably has already heard of the idea and may even have adopted it.

The cartoon shows a pin table protruding out from the slot, enthusiastic designer is fairly bubbling over with enthusiasm as he tells his boss:

"My master piece, boss! The machine not only takes the customer's dough, but this gadget jumps out and steals his watch."

Inasmuch as we have practically all other kinds, this new slot may be expected to appear in North Carolina almost any day.

Times do change, and you may lay to that.

Yesterday as bids on North Carolina bonds were being read, it was openly remarked that offers of interest rates as low as two per cent were "not so good."

Two years ago a bid as low as three per cent would have been regarded as excellent; while six years ago New York bankers were threatening not to renew notes carrying interest rates as high as six per cent.

If you think you've a hard job today, shed a tear for the State School Commission which is wrestling with the problem of spreading the slim salary fund increase so as to come as near as possible to satisfying some 25,000 teachers.

BOTH OFFICIALS AND FLAIN AMERICAN PEOPLE JOIN IN WELCOMING KING-QUEEN

eral E. M. Watson, the President's military aide.

The royal couple and the first family of the United States chatted briefly for a moment and then the formalities got under way.

The British monarch's suite was introduced to President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

After the chief executive had met the members of the royal suite, high ranking officials of the American government were introduced to the King and Queen.

Overhead huge army bombers droned and swift pursuit planes flew in aerial salute to the monarch. Thousands shouted and waved flags as the procession formed and headed toward the White House through unbroken ranks of soldiers, sailors and marines standing stiffly at salute.

Ahead rumbled a police guard and light army tanks.

As the royal party eased through the cheering crowds, from time to time the British ruler and Mr. Roosevelt engaged in animated talk.

Plenty of Space For Pullets Aids Growth

Give growing pullets plenty of eating and drinking space all during the summer months, recommends Drum's Electric Hatchery. "Summer is the important time in a pullet's life—the time when she develops her body to be in shape for the fall egg harvest."

The feeding of growing mash in checker form on top of the regular mash is another big help toward getting enough feed into the pullets," this feed merchant says.

To further increase summer feed consumption, plenty of shade on clean, well-drained ground should be provided for the pullets and their feed hoppers; and the drinking water should be kept before them, right where they spend most of their time during the day.

be supplied to help the birds make proper use of the mash they eat.

Greenville Tumbles From Top Place As Snakes Win

TARBORO WINS IN 7TH INNING

Ed Black, Tarboro Product, Features In Attack

Greenville took a tumble and fell from top to second place in the Coastal Plain League last night as Tarboro edged a 3-2 win. Snow Hill replaces Greenville in the upper perch.

Ed Malone, hurling for the Serpents, gave up a half-dozen safeties during the entire game, but Rube's boys managed to make their hits effective only in the fourth inning, when a pair of tallies crossed the plate.

Greenville's hitting powerhouse last night was Ed Black, an outfielder whom the locals purchased from the Tarboro club yesterday. Black started the locals' two-run party in the second by blasting a double and dashing to third on an error which was made via a throw-in. A timely single by Manager Wilson scored Black.

The other score of the game for Greenville came when Brannon walked in the fourth and beat out the throw to second when Whitey Heavener sacrificed. Heavener was forced by Jenkins and with a double steal under fire. Shatzer, Serpent catcher and manager, threw high to Myers, second-sacker, enabling Brannon to tally, but Jenkins got caught in a run-down.

Although Morris Wilson, veteran Greenville chucker, gave up 8 hits, he managed to hold the Serpents scoreless for six consecutive innings but the Serpents cut loose in the seventh with a trio of tallies to take the lead and win the ball game.

Shatzer and Coyle scored on a single just outside the infield zone that came off the end of Schultz's bat. Lehman, Tarboro third-sacker, hit a line drive to second in Rex Christopher's territory, but it was "too hot to handle," so Schultz scored to break the deadlock and chalk up a victory for the Tarboro team.

In making his debut for the Greenvilles, Black turned in the best fielding performance of the night when Shatzer blasted a powerful blow to left field in the fifth inning. It looked like a safety, but Black made a one-handed catch of the play to rob his former skipper of a safety.

SNOW HILL IS ON TOP AGAIN

Wins as Wilson Celebrates Opening of $76,000 Stadium

Snow Hill celebrated the opening of Wilson's $76,000 municipal stadium yesterday by defeating the Tobaccoists 9-3 to take an undisputed lead in the Coastal Plain League.

Unable to familiarize themselves with the hurling technique of Red Swain, the New Bern Bears received a 2-1 beating behind the four-hit tossing of the Martin hurler.

Taking the leadership of a competent skipper, Bill Herring, acting manager of the Kinston club, went on the mound yesterday and hurled his proteges to a 6-1 triumph over Goldsboro.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, June 8.—(AP)—Only a gentle push was necessary to tilt leading stocks downward in today's market.

After some opening hesitancy prices backed away fractions to around a point. Feeble support came in at the last and extreme losses were reduced in many instances. A handful of issues managed to emerge with modest advances.

The ticker tape was drowsy throughout and transfers approximated 400,000 shares.
