525 Are Enrolled at ECTC Thursday

Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, registrar, today predicted that the enrollment for the summer session at East Carolina Teachers College would reach or exceed the 600 mark.

Sunday School Lesson
By Rev. D. A. WINDHAM

In the lesson of today Paul is dealing with church problems. Thru the missionary labors of Paul, churches had been established in many places, but we can only consider the problems at Corinth in the space allotted. The gospel had accomplished much at Corinth, but after Paul left for other fields errors crept into the churches and their prestige was being hampered.

There were contentions among the members, not so much over points of faith and practice as over personalities. Some preferred Paul to Peter, some Peter to Barnabas and such differences had sapped the zeal out of the whole church. It is shameful for Christians to be divided about ministers, as if all were not embarked on one common cause. The trouble at Corinth was due to false teachers coming into the church, some Jews and some Gentiles; the Jews taught things of Judaism while the Gentiles things akin to pagan worship and as a result the church was thrown into confusion.

First Corinthians 1:1 shows that Sosthenes was with Paul when he wrote 1st Corinthians, and some think he was co-author with Paul but the contents show that Paul was the sole author.

The first attempt Paul makes is to restore harmony among the people of God, for when harmony is gone cooperation goes with it. And in Paul's day, as well as today, cooperation is an urgent essential. Too often church people cooperate like the colored boys' cats. When asked by his mistress what happened to the cat who showed signs of rough handling, he said he tied two together and hung them on the clothes line, and he said they cooperated. When trials happen in the church we have too much tom cat cooperation; and it is all for the want of more of the grace of God in the hearts of people. More of God's grace would "help us to hide the fault we see; the kindness we to others show the same as shown to me." Paul pleads with them to open their hearts and lives to the love of God and that remedy would be a perfect panacea for our difficulties today.

Paul points the Corinthians to Christ who towers high above all personalities for there was "no other name given" whereby men can be saved. So many worldly things had been brought into the church that even the Gospel ordinances had been corrupted.

When I read his letter to the Corinthian church I wonder what would be the contents and tone of one he would write to the churches of this country?

I am persuaded to believe that his first and most stern rebuke would be to us ministers for sitting idly by and allowing the churches to become contaminated to the center with the things of the world until the members of the church can hardly be distinguished from the world.

Then what would he write to you church people who desecrate his holy day by crowding the shows, yelling at the ball game, parading the beaches with less wearing apparel on than would be required to flag a pump car, or off on some fishing party?

The Jews, his chosen people, could not desecrate his holy day and get off with it; and my friends, you can't either.

If Paul were to write to you and to me, what do you think his letter would contain? But after all, in a general way, all the epistles were directed to us as well as to any; so read them and see just what fits you.

I can not conclude this comment without saying a word about our modern church music. I am keenly conscious that I am touching a "touchstone" spot; but I have God's word on my side, so I will proceed. As the people in Paul's day brought into the church the things of the world, and during the day of Constantine the pagans brought pagan customs into the church, so unconsecrated people have brought the love of "jazz" rhythm in our church music until outstanding musicians say unless something is done to curb it, real music is sure to go. When a musical selection is rendered in rag movement and sung so inarticulate that not one word can be understood, we delight to call it "popular," but is it popular according to Webster?

That I may get my meaning across, I am inserting a short statement and leaving it untranslated: EN ARKE EN O LOGOS. Only a few people know that this short statement is one of the greatest ever written. Pages of theology have been written on it; yet to the masses it is meaningless. So is the gospel song when the singer can't be understood; it may be a great song but it is a cloud without rain and the audience can only watch and pray. A tremblee is the singer's purgatory. Could Chas. M. Alexander, Grant C. Fuller, P. P. Bliss and Ethel Eden have lifted the thousands to a more tender fellowship with God if they had sang as some people do today?

Yes, my friends, we have our church problems and the remedy is to be found in the Epistles of St. Paul.

The watchword of the church is not onward with the world but back to the old well-beaten paths, back to the cross of Calvary, back to our Father and home.

Thessalonica also had its problems, but time and space is up, so here we sign off and refer all to the two epistles to that church for careful and prayerful study.

Note: The many complimentary remarks of our friends is indeed gratifying, but were it not for the kindness of Bro. D. J. Whichard these lines would not reach you; so divide the bouquets and give him the best; for it costs him money to make it possible.—D. A. W.

Joyous June
Here is the way the Durham Sun warms up on the subject of the first summer month:

"And this is jolly, joyous June—when the June bugs buzz and whirl throughout the ambient air that is threaded with golden sunshine; when the blithe and gay humming bird goes from flower to flower, a-hunting with the bee; when fire-flies, with their magic flash light lanterns, sweep the welkin and send their wireless flashes towards the twinkling stars, and the nearest garment to you sticketh closer than a sister at a church festival. Yes, this is June, when the sun comes down to greet us most cordially and warmly. And what is so rare as a day in June. Then, if ever, come perfect days; then Heaven tries earth if it be in tune, and over it softly her warm ear lays. Are you in tune with this merry month of June, with its commencements, summer girls, bill collectors, hay fever and thunder storms?"

Note: The many complimentary remarks of our friends is indeed gratifying, but were it not for the kindness of Bro. D. J. Whichard these lines would not reach you; so divide the bouquets and give him the best; for it costs him money to make it possible.—D. A. W.

The watchword of the church is not onward with the world but back to the old well-beaten paths, back to the cross of Calvary, back to our Father and home.

Thessalonica also had its problems, but time and space is up, so here we sign off and refer all to the two epistles to that church for careful and prayerful study.

Note: The many complimentary remarks of our friends is indeed gratifying, but were it not for the kindness of Bro. D. J. Whichard these lines would not reach you; so divide the bouquets and give him the best; for it costs him money to make it possible.—D. A. W.

State Gas Chamber Not Taking Summer Vacation

Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel

Raleigh, June 8.—Death will take no summer vacation in the lethal gas chamber at State Prison this year unless Governor Clyde Hoey or the Supreme Court will it; but even so a dozen of the prisoners on Death Row will live at least until cooler weather, a survey of the four have had their doom sealed as far as the courts are concerned and must rely wholly on clemency from the Governor; five are waiting for the last word of Chief Justice Walter Stacy and his associates, their cases argued and the last word of counsel said; nine are perfecting appeals which cannot now be argued orally before the Fall term; and three have won new trials in courts below.

By the time this appears in print the Governor may have acted on the clemency pleas of Dave Burney, Jones county, and Alfred Capner of Robeson, both Negroes convicted of murder. If mercy is denied and no reprieve granted, they will go out tomorrow. Burney, alleged master of a five-wife harem, was convicted of killing the daughter of one of the women; Capner is alleged to have called an erstwhile friend to the porch and to have shot him from ambush.

Arthur Morris, the "Gray Mouse" control figure of half a hundred burglaries, is living out a respite until August while the Governor decides whether his crimes (during which he never hurt anybody physically) deserve the full punishment of the law.

Ed Alston, Durham Negro who killed a 103-year-old woman of his race, is slated to die next week in the absence of executive interference. He once won a new trial from the Supreme court, but on his second appeal the court sustained automobile after escaping from a Davidson county jail through connivance of the jailer's daughter, Briccy Hammond, Robeson Indian, and James Henderson, New Hanover Negro, both convicted of murder a second death verdict.

The Supreme court justices are pondering the appeals of Julius Buchanan and James Cureton, both Forsyth Negroes convicted of different murders; James Godwin, the young white man who was sentenced for murder of a High Point textile worker in an effort to steal an

The nine whose appeals have not been heard by the Supreme court are:

Nathaniel Bryant, Negro from Hoke, convicted of murder and burglary; Charles Faith, Cherokee Negro convicted of rape on a nurse in a Murphy hospital and burglary of a patient there; Ralph Hanford, Wade Hanford and Roy Kelly, white men convicted in Alamance of the filling station robbery-murder of the Alamance sheriff and a Burlington officer; Russel Nelson, white, convicted of murder in Stokes; Willie Richardson, Nash county Negro, to die for burglary; Clarence Rogers, Durham Negro murderer; and William Young, Hoke Negro, convicted of murder and burglary.

Glenn Maxwell, Alleghany; Cleveland Jones, Hoke; and Robert Williams alias Robert McNair, Cumberland, have won new trials and will be returned to their respective counties in time to face court. Maxwell was convicted of murder, Jones of arson, and Williams of Rape.

Jones is practically certain to escape the death penalty as the Supreme court held that the evidence at his trial did not support a verdict and that a judgement as of non-suit should have been entered by the trial judge at the conclusion of the State's evidence.

Presence of as 21 men in the Death Row is not exceptional for North Carolina but it must have been overlooked by the writer of a recent news story from Oklahoma City in which a decided decrease in the Death Row population of the nation was asserted.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, June 9.—Governor Clyde Hoey yesterday performed an act very unusual for him. He issued a proclamation, calling all to observe the period June 8 to 14 as Flag Week.

The Governor is opposed, on principle, to issuing a whole flock of proclamations, but this time he couldn't help himself.
"I didn't think you ever issued proclamations," your correspondent remarked to his Excellency.
"I don't," he replied dryly, "but the legislature directed me to issue
this one, so there it is."

But Bob Thompson, the Governor's secretary, told on him. The legislature also directs that Mother's Day be proclaimed; but this year it just wasn't. Nobody recalled the statute at the time and so the Governor calmly ignored the proclamation part of the second Sunday in May.

Wagon county's tobacco crop is the best on record and is about twenty per cent larger in acreage
than last year's, said State Election Board Chairman Will Lucas Lucas while in Raleigh Thursday.
"A twenty per cent increase in the crop, with only a twenty per cent decrease in the price of tobacco wouldn't be bad," he remarked.

On the subject of politics, Mr.
Lucas says there just isn't any talk or interest in them in Wilson.
"You never hear anything at all about the Governor's race or any other kind of politics unless you talk to somebody who doesn't live in Wilson county."

Only one "busted" bank in North Carolina is still in process of liquidation, and that would have been wound up—much to the delight of the Banking commission—long ago
but for the fact that it's in litigation.

To say that only a court signature stands between the Department and clearing up the last of an awful mess is still to say that there's no telling when it will be done—as court signatures are harder to get than Button Gwinnett's.

Your correspondent fell to talking about Louis H. Wilson, Department of Agriculture publications
chief the other day, with a fellow craftsman of the news game.

"You know that Wilson hasn't got a bit more sense than to believe it's his job to publicize the Department and its activities," cracked the f. c. "He doesn't seem to realize that he has a state job
and ought to devote most of his time to politics."

Speaking of another Wilson—
this time the county, a distinguished citizen of that unit was urging Cutler Moore, chairman of the State ABC board to make it possible for him to get a certain brand of "pot distilled" Scotch from a New York concern, and lamenting the fact that the particular liquor isn't on the State board's new list.

The Wilsonian was loud in praise of this imported hooch. He told what a fine aroma it has—what a full-bodied, smoky taste—how little hangover it gives per gallon—and so on, and so on.

Finally, Bob Thompson, the Governor's secretary who was standing by, broke in: "Is it any better than Wilson county corn," he queried.

"Hell, NO!!", emphatically responded the ever-loyal Wilsonian.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Ruff

YESTERDAY: Finally agreeing to Tack's nefarious plan, the boys pick Misses North, South and West from the phone book. Bill Steele can't find a Miss East, so he is allowed to choose the East
Bro. S. T. Dice are thrown and Jumbo has to try his luck first.

Chapter Three Luella Packs A Punch

"WHAT'LL I do?" wailed Jumbo
piteously.
"Do anything to get a wedge
with this Luella West," said Tacks.
"Break your neck in the street and have yourself carried into her apartment! Anything. Use your imagination, Jumbo!"
Jumbo quailed. Then he threw himself upon Van's bosom. "Aw, listen! You go, Van!"
"Nothing doing," said Van.
"Cheer up!" Bill Steele comforted Jumbo. "She may not be home."
Mr. Cutler brightened. "That's a thought."
Between them they escorted the unhappy Jumbo to the elevator.
"A knight fares forth," Tacks said. "Chin up, Jumbo. All you've got to do is take this Luella West's hand and say: 'Little creature, all my life I've been waiting for just this moment. . . . You know, something original like that.'"

"Neither," said Jumbo, shamed
but honest. "She did."
"What?" cried Van. "Gosh, you would miff it. I'll bet you were getting along swell with her and then gummed everything up by insulting her or something."
"I didn't say a word," howled
Jumbo, outraged.
"You mean to say she just sucked you . . ."
Tacks called for order. "This thing has got to be done in a basiness-like way for the sake of the minutes. Now then, Cutler, answer up! You went out this evening to see a Miss Luella West."
"I did."
"He must have seen her whole family," grinned Steele.
"No wisecracks. Where did you see her, Cutler?"
"At her apartment."
"You have been in her apartment?"
"No. She wouldn't let me in. We stood and talked in the doorway."
"So! You talked in the girl's doorway for two hours?"
"Certainly not!" said Jumbo, in an annoyed voice. "Not more than ten minutes."
"Ten minutes? Ha! Then where have you been all this time?"
"Walking around the streets, if you've got to know."—"Jumbo

The elevator door opened. Mr. Jumbo Cutler lurched out.

"Take her hand?" said Jumbo miserably. "Why, I—I don't even know her."
"That's the way to get to know a girl. Slow method, though. The real McCoy is to throw your arms around her and . . . Ah, here's the car! Well, best of luck, lover. We'll wait here till you come back."
The elevator bore Jumbo away
An hour passed. Another hour
The terrace of the Penguin Club became deserted of all except Messrs. North, South and East.
"Looks to me," said Steele at last, "as if Jumbo's made the grade."
Van Harkness sipped his drink.
"Oh, Jumbo's not so dumb. Bet you he signs up his girl first."
"I . . ." began Tacks and stopped.
A subdued clanging announced the arrival of the elevator at the terrace. The elevator door opened.
Mr. Jumbo Cutler lurched out.
That, however, is an inaccuracy.
It would be more truthful to say that what remained of Mr. Jumbo Cutler lurched out.

hug his head—"I bought a piece of raw beef and put it on my eye."
Titters broke from Van and Steele. Tacks, however, assumed a stern expression.
"Slovenly Work"
"THIS is no laughing matter," he said. "Cutler was commissioned to go see a Miss West. He sees her for ten minutes and wastes the rest of his time meandering around town holding a beefsteak over his eye. That's what I call slovenly work. Where's this beef now, Cutler?"
"I don't know," cried Jumbo
testily. "I threw it away."
"Get that, fellows! He threw the beef away. Wasting good food.
However, to resume: Cutler maintains that he did see the girl for a short time. Describe this Luella West, Cutler!"
"How's that? Describe?" Jumbo covered his injured eye and closed his good one. "Well, now I think of it, she isn't bad looking."
"Color of hair?"
"I don't know. Darkish, I guess."
"Eyes?"
"Gee, I can't remember. I . . ."
"Black," put in Steele. "She goes in for black eyes." He smiled wickedly at Jumbo.
"All right," said Tacks. "Perfectly presentable, fairly good-looking girl. How did you approach this woman, Cutler?"
"Well," said Jumbo; "I rang her bell and she came to 'he door . . .
I engaged her in conversation."
"Quite correct. What did you say?"
"I said I was a poor boy working my way through college by selling encyclopedias."
Harkness clapped him on the back. "Boy, you're good. I doubt if even I would have thought of that."
"I thought it was good too,"
said Jumbo morosely. "But she wouldn't believe me."
"No? Why not?"
"She said college was over for this year."
"A point well taken. What did you say then?"
"I said I had to think of next year."
"Very clever, Cutler."
"Yeah, but she said I looked too
old for a college boy and, anyhow,
she already had an encyclopedia."
Continued tomorrow.

MEDICAL BODY HEARS REPORT

Dr. Ennett Tells Of Activities For May

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, last night made a report before the regular monthly meeting of the Pitt County Medical Society.
The report follows:
The chief activities of the Pitt County Health Department for the month of May were: The State Tuberculosis Clinic, Maternal and Infant Welfare Work, Venereal Disease Clinics, Community Sanitation, Cafe and Dairy Inspections.
The contagious disease situation
is about normal except that whooping cough is quite prevalent, especially in Greenville.

The Pre School Work begun in April was finished up during May.
Our State Tuberculosis Clinic
conducted by Dr. G. C. Godwin covered the period of May 8th to May 22nd. We had four clinic centers in the county and the total attendance was 734 as compared with last year's total of 577. The number of X-rays and fluoroscopies made was 494. It is encouraging that the citizens have become so much interested in tuberculosis control that it seems desirable that we have two clinics per year, instead of one. Our plan it to have a fall clinic as well as a spring clinic.

The Venereal Disease work showed a considerable increase over the previous month. For instance, during April we gave 1814 treatments for syphilis, while in May, we gave

2,051 treatments. The number of blood tests for April was 371, while for May they were 464.
The Maternal and Infant Welfare Work is holding up well when we take into consideration that the rural people are now unusually busy in their crops and it is difficult for patients to get to the clinic.
The State monthly Orthopedic Clinic had an attendance of 33 and is one of the most popular phases of the public health program.
Our sanitary inspectors are giving much attention to the Community Sanitation Program and the in-

Tobs Defeat Martins In Only C. P. L. Game Thursday

BUGS TO PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Wilson Hands Williamston 6-2 Loss; Creason Fans 9

Pirpo Creason allowed 7 hits and whiffed 9 batters as Wilson defeated Williamston's Martins 6-2 at Williamston yesterday in the only contest played in the Coastal Plain League the others having been washed out.

Greenville will resume its see-saw battle for top place tonight when Rube Wilson's Greenies tackle Mule Shirley's Goldsboro Gold Bugs in a game starting in the Guy Smith park at 8:15 o'clock.

Frank Rodgers, Wilson manager, hit for the circuit with two men on bases in the opening verse to give the Tobooshies a lead which they never relinquished during the remainder of the game. Players scoring on Rodgers blow were Bier-shenk and Sanford, who had been issued free tickets by the Martin hurler.

Two more runs were added to the Tobs' total in the seventh via a sacrifice, two singles and a pair of walks. Wilson's final run came in the ninth when Smith doubled and scored on an infield out.

The only runs the Martins managed to send across the plate were in the eighth inning when Albritton singled, Earp doubled and Diem got a single.

Leading with the stick for the Martins was Earp, who got a brace or doubles. Setting the pace for Wilson was Smith with a trio of safeties. Tom Burnette was next best with a pair of hits.

'Barber Shop Cord' Lacks Tone And Is Now Off Key

Reflector Bureau. Sir Walter Hotel

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, June 8.—There's no harmony in North Carolina's barber shop chord—it's way off key. Under the surface and without any blaring trumpets one of the bitterest, nastiest petty political battles is being waged over a membership on the State Board of Barber examiners.

The term of M. C. Whitey, master barber of Winston-Salem, expires on July 1 and Governor Clyde Hoye is being besieged with pleas not to name him again to the post.

There doesn't seem to be anything in particular against Whitney personally, the description "master barber" explaining the whole cause for the battling. It's just a revival of the ancient feud of journeymen barbers against master barbers—a civil war that has been raging from the time the first barber board bill was introduced in the General Assembly.

The journeymen barbers are said to be out for the Whitney scalp with a vengeance this time—they want him off in order to make room for one of their own number. The journeymen are unionized and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. They are using their unionism for all its worth and are soliciting aid and comfort from other crafts as they bring all the pressure possible to attain their ends.

The journeymen contend that there are some 4,000 of them in the state, while there are less than 500 master barbers. They think they ought to have at least one of the three members of the examining board and they are determined in going after it.

They never have linked the barber examining board and law-claiming it is a "racket" for the benefit of the board members who draw fat per diem and expenses and who, the journeymen claim, inspect shops except those which have not paid up their assessments for maintenance of the board. They also assert they were promised representation on the board in 1937 as recompense for not pushing for changes in the law. The whole thing may be a tea pot, but it's still quite a tempest.

Report Is Issued For State Clinics

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, today released a brief report on the State tuberculosis clinic held in Pitt county from May 8 to 22.

The clinics were held in Ayden, Bethel, Farmville, Greenville and Grimesland for the benefit of persons living in various townships in the county. The clinic served both white and colored and was conducted by Dr. H. C. Godwin of State Sanatorium.

As evidence of the growing popularity of the clinic, Dr. Ennett called attention to the fact that attendance at the annual clinic in 1937 was 720; 577 in 1938, and that this year's clinic attendance was 734.

"On account of the increased interest on the part of the citizens in the matter of tuberculosis," declared Dr. Ennett, "we are now trying to arrange to have two State tuberculosis clinics in the county each year instead of one."

The number of tuberculin tests in the last clinic was 244, while the number of fluoroscopies and X-ray examinations was 499. The large number of free X-rays was made possible by dues for membership in

Farm Marketing Service Bill Backed By Gardner

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, June 9.—Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott today announced that former Governor O. Max Gardner, National Grange Master L. J. Tabor and Editor Paul D. Sanders of the "Southern Planter" are "active in their support" of Senator Bailey's bill to provide a federal appropriation of $5,000,000 for marketing services for farm commodities.

As chairman of the National Association of Agricultural Commissioners' marketing committee, Commissioner Scott will leave Raleigh for Washington Sunday night to further push the Bailey measure which would give North Carolina approximately $150,000 with which to conduct an adequate marketing program. The bill, now before the Senate Agricultural Committee, calls for distribution of the funds on the basis of population, but many agricultural leaders have suggested that money be apportioned on the basis of "farm population."

Gardner, North Carolina's noted live-at-home Governor, termed the marketing bill "most important." "You may rely upon me to do everything in my power to encourage its passage," he told Commissioner Scott. "I will leave no stone unturned wherever I think I may be helpful."

Editor Sanders said that he would "not only speak to Secretary Wallace about the measure, but to some of our agricultural leaders in the Congress."

National Grange Master Tabor said he believed that "just now a few dollars spent in finding markets for American products will do the farmers more good in years to come than ten times that amount spent in benefit payments."

"I agree that our problem is marketing," Tabor continued. "We must find a solution to this question."

and ages of fish as the use of dynamite. We are going to make it harder and harder for the dynamiters."

June Grad Daughter Of An A. B. Graduate

During the Alumnae Day program at the college this commencement, one of the June graduates was formally recognized by the president of the Alumnae Association as the first daughter of a graduate to obtain her A. B. degree at the college. However, it has since been discovered by the president of the association that a Greenville mother and daughter should at least have shared that honor. In fact, Miss Mary Belle Fleming, daughter of Mrs. Louise Fleming, of West Third street, Greenville, completed her work at E. T. C. C. in March, three months before the other young lady, although the girls received their diplomas together in June.

Mrs. Fleming, a graduate of the class of 1911, also had the first "alumna, son" to graduate from E. T. C. C. when Robert Sugg Fleming, now studying on a fellowship at the University of Chicago, was granted his degree in 1935.

BOY ABDUCTED BY GOVERNESS

The girl told Engler she was the daughter of Mrs. Graham Well of Nassau. She left home seven months ago and, although inexperienced, though she could "get by" because she was attractive.

She was employed a month ago by Mrs. Mabel Osborne as governess and decided to steal the child for ransom. Engler said, after learning Mrs. Osborne had $1,000 in the bank. The girl at first gave her name as Graham Gaylor, then changed it to Ruhama Graham Thames, then finally to Miss Well.

Seattle—(AP)—Associates decided to honor Dean Hugo Winkenwerder of the University of Washington school of forestry. They planned the name on a tree of a new species of dogwood developed by a school gardener. It's the "Cornus nuttallii Winkenwerderi."

Train Supervisors For Work In Pitt

R. R. Bennett, Pitt County farm agent, today declared that J. P. Harris of Bethel, county compliance supervisor, is taking an active part in training local supervisors whose duties will be to check compliances on Pitt County farms under the 1939 Agricultural Conservation program.

Bennett said that the local supervisors are to be spot checked by district supervisors working out of the state office as well as the county compliance supervisor before they are finally approved by the state office.

Each supervisor will receive cards which will be mailed to the producer giving proper notification of the approximate date the farm will be visited. Bennett called attention to the fact that the cards cannot state definitely when the supervisors will visit the farms because of the variation in the length of time required to check compliances on farms of varying size.

Supervisors who have been selected for training are:

W. D. McArthur, A. F. Kennedy, C. A. Tyson, L. Stancill, Edgar Gibson, Fred D. Tunage, J. F. Carney, J. L. Tyer, Roger Massey, J. R. Owens, Woodrow Taylor, Clyde W. Cannon, Frank L. Little, O. M. McLawhorn, T. J. M. Ecks, W. B. Cox, Vernon Tyson, D. C. Parker, W. B. Hill, C. H. Mayo, H. G. Mumford, H. B. Mayo, J. C. Parker, Ray Tolar, Alton Gray, C. P. Wildman, Joseph R. St. Clair, J. R. Cox, Archie Tyson and Wilson Tugwell.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Financial markets stepped out of the fog today and put on one of the sprightliest rallying performances of the past two weeks.

Following a hesitant start, bidding for stocks revived on a broad scale and leaders at the top were up fractions to three points.

There were one or two wider swings.

Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

FORCED TO PAY FINES OF $100

Fish Dynamiters In Western Counties Pay Big Fines

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, June 9.—Fishing with dynamite proved costly to four Caldwell county men and one from Alleghany county recently, according to Commissioner John D. Chalk of the game and inland fisheries division of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Each of the five men arrested for dynamiting fish was fined $100 and costs.

The four men arrested in Caldwell county by County Game Protector Clyde McLean and tried before A. R. Crisp in the Recorder's Court in Lenoir were: Ted Crisp, Luke Woods, John Mooney and Ered Beard, all of RFD No. 4, Lenoir. Each was fined $100 and $23.50 costs. Beard and Mooney were unable to pay their fines and were sentenced to six months on the road. Crisp and Woods appealed to the Superior Court and their appeal is still pending.

In Alleghany county, L. N. Farmer of Sparta was tried and convicted of dynamiting fish and Superior Court Judge J. H. Clement. He was fined $10 and costs of $24.75 and given an additional sentence of 30 days in jail, the jail sentence being suspended upon payment of the fine and costs.

"The courts are giving us the finest kind of cooperation in our efforts to stop the dynamiting of fish," Chalk said. "A few more stiff fines and sentences such as the ones given in Caldwell and Alleghany counties will help us materially in stopping this practice of killing hundreds of fish with dynamite so that the dynamiters may get a few large fish for their own use. There is no form of illegal fishing so destructive to all sizes
