NEW TAX BILL IS COMPLETED BY COMMITTEE

House Action On Draft Expected Next Week

ASKS EXCLUSION OF PROFITS TAX

House Foreign Affairs Approve Change In Neutrality Act to Repeal Arms Embargo

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—The House tax committee completed the tentative outline of a tax revision bill today in preparation for expected House action on the legislation next week.

The proposed draft includes substitutions for the undistributed profits tax on an 18 per cent levy on corporations, which make more than $25,000 a year.

With the principal provision tentatively completed yesterday, the tax committee, a Ways and Means sub-committee, prepared three more non-technical revisions this morning.

The committee's general outline was sent immediately to the legislative drafting service for final preparations.

Other developments: Approval by the House Foreign Affairs committee of the administration's neutrality bill providing for repeal of the embargo on arms and ammunitions for nations at war.

Testimony before the Senate Banking committee, in which Edward E. Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, opposed such legislation designed to aid small business by government insurance on bank loans.

Disclosure to the House Appropriations committee by Col. F. G. Harrington, WPA administrator, that he planned administration changes to increase efficiency, but considered many charges directed against WPA inaccurate and "obviously unfair."

The contention by William Green, A. P. of L. president, that the present membership of the National Labor Relations Board should be replaced. Green testified before a House Labor committee.

John L. Lewis told the CIO executive board that the record of Congress in dealing with the unemployment problems this year is "worse than nothing."

Major General Julian Schley, chief of army engineers, advised Gen. Brehm reports on the pending district and division engineers on preliminary examination of the Smith river in Virginia and North Carolina had been received.

The examination was ordered by Congress last year to determine the advisability of flood control work.

Hazel W. Windham Claimed By Death

Hazel Wilson Windham, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Windham, and student in eighth grade at Greenville high school, died at the home of her parents at 113 West Ninth street today around one o'clock, following five weeks of illness.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but the funeral probably will be conducted Wednesday afternoon from the Eighth Street Christian Church, of which she was a member, by the Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor, assisted by the Rev. J. G. Sney, Pentecostal Holiness minister.

Miss Windham was born at Watsonton in Wilson county, later moving to Greenville with her parents, where she lived until her death. She was known among a wide circle of schoolmates.

Besides her parents, surviving are a sister, Mrs. Elsie Windham Simpson; a niece, Jonquely Ryan Simpson; and her grandfather, John A. Wilson, all of Greenville.

Four Are Injured In Strike Rioting

Milwaukee, June 13.—(AP)—Four persons, including two policemen, were injured and a street car was stoned in rioting in the strike-bound Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company plant in suburban West Allis today.

The injured officers were taken to hospitals.

Several policemen who, with sheriff's deputies, were attempting to prevent disturbances fired tear gas missiles into the picket lines.

The street car was attacked as it neared the plant with a load of office workers.

Dentist Pleads Murder Guilt

Dr. Norman Stewart, II, a dentist who turned bartender and married the former Margaret Adams of Moultrie, Ga., while working at a hotel bar in Jacksonville, Fla., pleaded guilty at his trial in Pittsburgh to charges that he murdered his first wife and son in that city four years ago. Dr. Stewart (left) is shown with a detective after entering his plea. He married Miss Adams under the name of Fred Lawson Flake. Then, without disclosing his identity to her, he suddenly left Jacksonville for Pittsburgh and surrendered.

BANK ROBBED AT ABERDEEN

Armed Man and Woman Take Undetermined Sum

Aberdeen, N. C., June 13.—(AP)—Cashier Francis Pleasant reported to Aberdeen police that an armed man and a woman companion held up the local branch of the Bank of Pinehurst today and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

The cashier said the robbery took place shortly after noon.

Pleasant told police the man entered the bank while he was alone and that the woman scooped up the money while the man pointed a pistol at him.

"The woman seemed a little slow in coming into the teller's cage and the bandit said, 'Get in there and get that money,' Pleasant said. 'I would just as soon kill you as kill him (Pleasant).'"

"The woman scooped all the money in sight and crammed it into a paper bag, Pleasant continued. 'The man then told me to lie down on the floor and the two of them ran out of the door.'"

The cashier said he thought the pair drove off in an old model sedan.

Hood Has Confidence In State's Banking System

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, June 13.—Banking Commissioner Gurney P. Hood said today that North Carolina's state banking system is one he believes will stand up under all conditions and circumstances, and which cannot be attacked by any future depression.

This statement followed announcement: "The liquidation of closed state banks has been completed in North Carolina, we hope and expect, forever." Commissioner Hood laid great emphasis on "expect."

On the subject of the banking system's future he pointed out that the assets of every state bank are in good condition, and there re-

New Schedule To Go Into Effect In Near Future

An order signed by the Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon provides air-conditioned passenger train service on a round-trip daily from Kinston to Rocky Mount, with Greenville one of the principal intermediate stops.

Although the new set-up does away with present passenger-mail service between Parmele and Weldon, and Parmele and Plymouth, no change is being made in the present passenger service between Parmele and Washington, with the exception that under the new schedule no Sunday service over that branch will be provided.

The new schedules will go into effect as soon as satisfactory arrangements for handling mail and express through points between Weldon and Parmele and Plymouth can be effected.

The order signed yesterday brings to an end the applications filed by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad and Washington, with the exception that under the new schedule no Sunday service over that branch will be provided.

Under the new arrangement, a train will leave Kinston for Rocky Mount around 9:30 in the morning, making connections in Rocky Mount with the northbound coast-line train No. 80. The train will remain in Rocky Mount for mail, express and passengers for the southbound train No. 89. It will return in the afternoon from Rocky Mount, arriving in Kinston about 6:45.

mains only a management problem in not more than five banks in the state. "A personal word," he said, "My sole ambition in life is to leave the good people of North Carolina and my three sons (as a heritage) a state banking system which will stand up under all conditions and which cannot be attacked by any future depression we may have. And I have every confidence that this can be accomplished and that we will have no more closed banks."

Liquidation of the last closed bank was completed yesterday with mailing of checks to 331 depositors in the Bank of Sumnerfield in the total sum of $10,070.91, which is the last and final dividend of 23.5 per cent. (Continued on Page Three)

Japs Threaten Blockade of Tientsin Concessions

BRITAIN FROWNS ON SUCH A MOVE

London Already Has Made It Clear That Any Blockade Shall Be Regarded as Illegal

London, June 13.—(AP)—The British government turned from immediate consideration of European problems today to try for solution of a difficult situation arising from a series of British-Japanese incidents in the Far East.

The cabinet foreign affairs committee met to decide what action will be taken if Japanese blockade the British and French concessions in Tientsin, one of the main points of British-Japanese tension.

There was no intimation as to what decisions were reached, but official circles said British authorities at Tientsin were making every effort to avert a blockade. Britain already has made it clear she will consider such action illegal.

Reports from China said Japanese authorities had threatened a blockade as a result of Britain's refusal to turn over four Chinese accused by the Japanese of terrorism. British authorities demanded proof of the men's guilt first.

The British government was said also to be taking a "serious view" of the fatal bayoneting of R. M. Tinkler, British business man, who died June 7 after a scuffle with a Japanese naval landing party in Pootung, across the river from Shanghai.

The foreign office said the British ambassador to Japan, Sir Robert L. Craigie, had been instructed to make a formal protest in Tokyo, backing up the protest made by British authorities in Shanghai.

PREDICTS FDR WILL NOT RUN

Landon Says Roosevelt Will Not Be a Candidate Again

Roston, June 13.—(AP)—All M. Landon, unsuccessful Republican nominee in the last presidential election, predicted today that President Roosevelt would decline to become a candidate for a third term.

At the same time, in a speech prepared for delivery before the Business and Professional Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, the former Kansas governor sharply criticized New Deal economics and those who urge the President to run again in 1940.

"We are in the sixth year of an extraordinary government spending-to-save policy," Landon asserted, "yet discouragement and chronic unemployment are increasing. This, indeed is the Roosevelt depression."

"The citizens who are proposing and urging a third term for President Roosevelt will be marked by the future historians as bringing disaster to the republic if they succeed in their unworthy ends."

But there are enough Americans whose hearts are sound to stop them. Here indeed the republic has a rendezvous with destiny. However, I don't think any man with the exaltation and the sense of public service and patriotism that come from the high office of the President's seat will accede to such high demands."

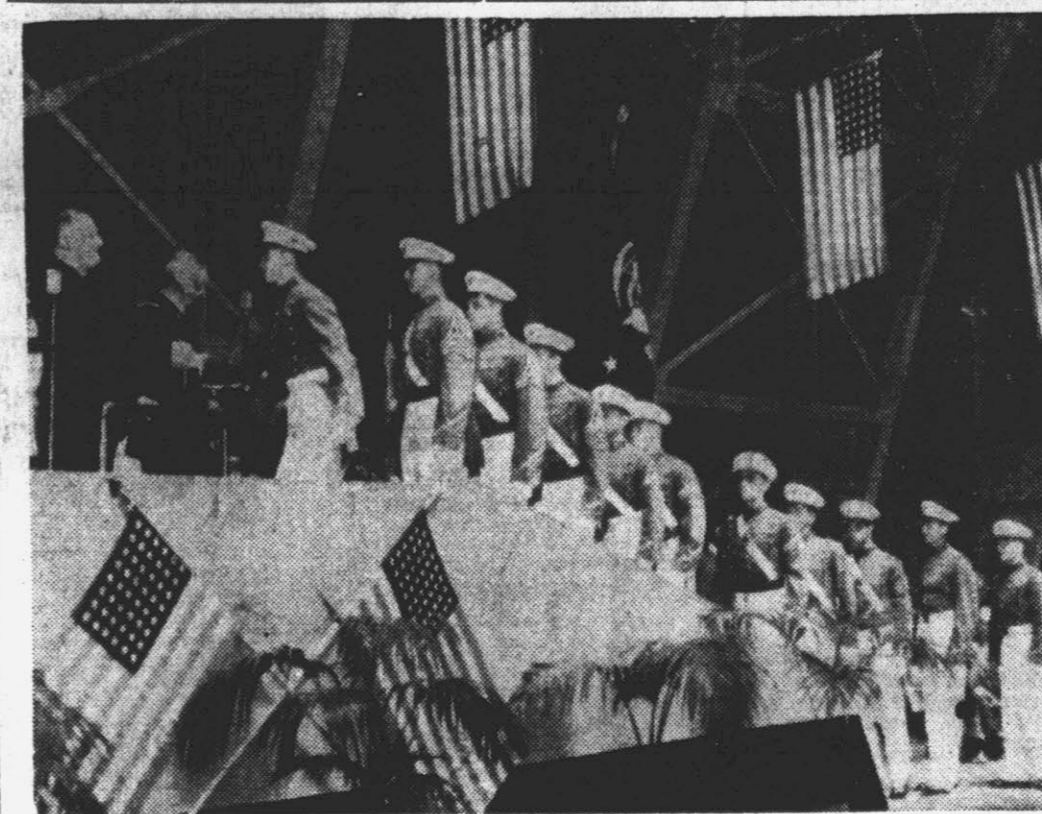

C. L. Russ Given Contract By Pitt

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners today awarded C. L. Russ of Greenville, the plumbing and heating contract for the Tucker building, owned by the county, in a special session held for the purpose of opening bids submitted for the contract.

Auditor J. H. Coward said the Greenville man submitted a low bid of $2,345. Other low bids were R. E. Deans of Wilson, $2,502; and the Harris Hardware Company of Washington, N. C., $2,644.

Coward explained that the contract will provide a complete automatic hot water and circulating heating system for the Tucker building, to which an addition is being made. Plans and specifications for the plumbing were prepared by B. C. Allen, Raleigh engineer.

West Point Graduates Get Diplomas From the Chief

This was the scene in the armory of the United States Military Academy at West Point as graduates filed forward to get handshakes, diplomas and second lieutenant's commissions from their chief, President Roosevelt (left). "International political considerations have required still greater emphasis upon the vitalization of our defense, for we have had dramatic illustrations of the fate of undefended nations," the President told the new officers.

AYDEN SECTION IS HIT BY HAIL

Rather Heavy Damage Reported On Some Farms

Damage by hail which struck in the Ayden, Centerville and Winterville sections of the county yesterday was rather heavy on some farms, while damage on others was rather light, a survey revealed today.

The hailstorm whipped in from Lenoir county and pellets of hail, some of them rather large, peppered tobacco plants in the area southeast of Ayden, where damage was heaviest. The Centerville section, below Ayden, reported rather heavy losses, with reports of light losses at Winterville.

A 60 per cent loss was reported on the Herbert Harris farm in the Ayden section, while the damage on the Brown Hodges farm in the Centerville section was said to have resulted in a total loss. A streak a half-mile wide and five miles long was said to have struck the area of the Jack Quinterly farm in the Ayden county.

Only slight damage was reported on the farm of Mrs. Sino Haddock, 18 miles south of Greenville on the Ayden highway. About five acres of tobacco were damaged on the E. O. Smith farm 13 miles from Greenville, east of Ayden.

The heaviest damage in the Winterville community was on the farm of G. N. Edwards, who lives about three miles west of Winterville. Twenty acres of tobacco were damaged on the Edwards farm. However, the hail pellets were small and the damage in general rather light.

Work Resumed At Automobile Plants

Flint, Mich., June 13.—(AP)—Members of the two United Auto Workers' unions clashed today at the gates of Fisher Body plant No. 1, but after a brief fist fight this plant and all other units of General Motors Corporation in Flint and Saginaw opened for the day.

Workers were knocked out and several suffered bruises, but police broke up the struggle and said no one was severely hurt.

The General Motors strike was called last week by the U. A. W. (A. F. of L.) headed by Homer Martin. The U. A. W. (C. I. O.) has opposed it from the start and its members have been forming the picket lines.

Today's melee involved about 100 men on each side. A. F. of L. pickets charging a line of C. I. O. men who appeared opposite the north gate of Fisher No. 1 wearing white arm bands as a distinguishing badge.

Fisher No. 1 supplies Buick division is considered relatively strong in Fisher No. 1.

N. C. Railroad Audit Is Nearly Completed

Raleigh, June 13.—(AP)—State Auditor George Ross Pou said the audit of the state-controlled Atlantic and North Carolina railroad would be completed some time today.

The typed audit prepared by the auditor's office will be ready for presentation to Governor Hoy and the Council of State by July 1. Pou returned from a week-end business trip to Morehead City, where he conferred with members of his staff finishing the audit.

Fatal Wreck

Tarboro, June 13.—(AP)—Pete Bridges, about 60, a farmer who lives near here, was struck by a truck and instantly killed about three miles south of here early today.

The witnesses told officers the driver did not stop. Later, State Highway Patrolman H. W. Rothrock of Weldon said a man who gave his name as Robert Pace of Wilson was taken into custody for questioning. The man was quoted as disclaiming knowledge of the accident.

ATTACK FATAL TO FIRE CHIEF

Norfolk Official Dies At Convention In Durham

Durham, June 13.—(AP)—Richard S. Baughan, 56, Norfolk fire chief, dropped dead in the bathroom of his hotel here this morning at 7 o'clock.

Baughan was in the best of spirits yesterday, but was taken ill about 4 o'clock this morning with what seemed merely a case of indigestion. His roommate doubled up a blanket and placed it underneath Baughan's pillow, lifting his head somewhat and Baughan said he felt better. Other friends among the visiting fire chiefs were called, but Baughan assured them there was no need to call in a doctor.

At seven he arose and went to the bathroom. Those in his room heard a thump, hurried to the bathroom and found that he had dropped dead. He had suffered for some years with heart trouble and presumably death came from a heart attack.

Baughan was secretary-treasurer of the Southeastern Fire Chiefs Association, which is in convention here. He was a past president of the Southeastern body.

It was expected that the funeral would be held Wednesday in Norfolk.

W. B. Dupree Accepts Position

Mr. W. B. Dupree, who has been located in Petersburg, Va., for the last two or three years, has returned to Greenville and accepted a position with H. A. White and Sons as manager of their farm loan department. Mr. Dupree's new duties will carry him into several counties of Eastern Carolina, as H. A. White and Sons are exclusive agents for the Prudential Insurance Company Farm Loan Department.

Supreme Court Expected Rule On Sales Tax Law

Raleigh, June 13.—Constitutionality of North Carolina's six-year-old sales tax and of its two-year-old tax on display of goods in hotel rooms probably will be decided by the State Supreme court this week; as cases involving both questions are among the approximately 35 which the seven justices have heard argued but in which they have not yet handed down opinions.

Also likely to be settled is the last judicial stand of five men convicted of capital felonies. In addition, there are, of course, a number of causes of primary importance to the litigants involved, but of lesser interest to the public at large.

SAY FDR ASKED TO VISIT KING

Washington Catches Breath After Royalty Departure

Washington, June 13.—(AP)—Now that this admiring capitol is catching its breath after the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, the big tea-table topic is: Will President and the first lady be guests at Buckingham palace this fall?

Many Washingtonians argue that the King undoubtedly gave an informal invitation to Mr. Roosevelt toward their farewell at Hyde Park Sunday night. Whether he did so probably will never be known officially unless the President should accept.

The subject wasn't mentioned in a message which the British sovereign sent Mr. Roosevelt late yesterday, for that wouldn't be according to protocol.

The message came to the chief executive while he was returning to Washington from Hyde Park, that the King and Queen were "deeply grateful for your hospitality."

"Though this was our first visit to your great country," the message continued, "and though it has necessarily only a brief one, it has given us memories of kindly feeling and good will that we shall always treasure."

The consensus here is that the Roosevelts will not return the visit while the President is in office.

Clinics Under Way To End On June 23

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, today called attention to the fact that the typhoid clinics started in the county will be continued through Friday, June 23.

During the last week of the clinics, when the patients get their last dose of vaccine, the health department secures the name and address of the patients for permanent files in the health department offices.

Writing these names during the clinics calls for extra help and the Greenville Service League has secured several Greenville ladies to serve as clinic clerks. Dr. Ennett declared.

The clinic clerks are Jean Gaskins, Mary L. Horne, Mrs. Tyson Bill, Mrs. Iverson Skinner, Mrs. Cecil Bilbro, Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. Carroll Waldrop and Mrs. Needham Ward.

Dr. Ennett expressed his appreciation for the assistance being offered by "this group of civic-minded women."

ACCUSE BRITON WITH ANOTHER SERIOUS COUNT

Questioned About Bullet Hole In Royalty's Window

ALREADY FACING FIREARM CHARGE

Bullet Hole Found on Same Day Steel Worker Arrested for Belgrave Square Shooting

London, June 13.—(AP)—A 45-year-old steel worker held in connection with the mysterious discharge of a sawed-off rifle near the Duchess of Kent on June 5, also has been accused in connection with the discovery about the same time of a bullet hole in the window of the residence of the Princess Royal.

Police Prosecutor H. A. K. Morgan disclosed the new charge today when the prisoner, L. Vincent Lawlar, was brought again before a magistrate. He had been arraigned in connection with the shooting in Belgrave Square the day after the episode.

The prosecutor said Lawlar had come to England April 6 and was an Australian. He had been working on Waterloo bridge as a welder's assistant.

The first charge against the prisoner was that he "did on June 5 at Belgrave Square (where the Kents' residence is located) have in his possession a firearm and ammunition with intent by means thereof to endanger life or cause serious injury to property contrary to the firearms act of 1937."

The prosecutor told the magistrate today that 21 rounds of ammunition for the seized one-foot-long sawed-off rifle was found in Lawlar's possession, together with 10 airgun pellets. One thousand more pellets were found in Lawlar's beddings, the prosecutor declared.

A bullet hole was found in the window of the residence of the Princess Royal and her husband, the Earl of Harewood, on the same day the shooting took place in Belgrave Square.

Meetings Started For Tobacco Vote

Township meetings which are a preliminary to the referendum to be held in the county June 19-24 on proposals to provide free inspection of all tobacco offered for sale on the Greenville market during the ensuing season, got under way last night in Ayden and Paoletts.

Last night's meeting in the respective townships were conducted by representatives of the county agent's office and representatives of the government inspection division of the United States Department of Agriculture. After the federal dignitaries had explained the grading setup, questions were asked and answered by those in attendance.

Two more of a series of these township meetings will be held tonight in the Belvoir and Fountain communities.

Only growers who sold tobacco on the Greenville market in 1938 will be permitted to participate in the referendum. Ballots will be mailed to farmers whose names appear on the market list for 1938.

JUNE JUMBLES Can Be Taken Without Sauce

Stickier closer than a brother—this humidity.

The showers are doing the street sprinkling this week.

This is the time of year when winter whiskers are harvested.

It takes history years to repeat itself, but gossip travels faster and is repeated many times each day.

The spring chicken has at last made bold to leave the wing of mother hen and come to market. But he demands his weight in cash when he stops.

At the conclusion of the game, Mrs. John Adams was presented high score prize and Mrs. Phil Kramer low score prize.

The honoree was presented a large silver bell which contained a lingerie doily.

Misses Laura Fleming and Margaret Henry, brides-elect, and Mrs. J. E. Nobles, Jr. and Mrs. Tom Rivers, recent brides, were remembered with crystal hand vases. Miss Nobles was given silver in her selected pattern.

The bride's table for serving was centered by a miniature bride and groom flanked by lighted cathedral candles reflected in a mirror which was banked with white lilies.

A dainty ice course carrying out the bridal motif was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Studie D. Corey, and her niece, Miss Mary Burden Taylor.

Mrs. J. E. Nobles and Miss Lucy Nobles were guests for refreshments.

In Washington Hospital. Friends of Mrs. W. T. Cullipher will regret to learn that she is in Taylor Hospital, Washington, undergoing an operation.

Christian Science Church. "God the Preserver of Man," was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, June 11.

The golden text was from Psalms 36:6. "Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep; O Lord, thou preservest man and beast."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "I will extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. The Lord preserveth all them that love him." (Ps. 15:1, 2, 20)

The lesson-sermon also included the following from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man remaining perfect, the divine idea or reflection, man, remains perfect. Man is the expression of God's being. If there ever was a moment when man did not express the divine perfection, then there was a moment when man did not express God, and consequently a time when Deity was unexpressed—that is, without entity. If man has lost perfection, then he has lost his perfect Principle, the divine Mind. If man ever existed without this perfect Principle or Mind, then man's existence was a myth. The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science; and Science knows no lapse from nor return to harmony, but holds the divine order or spiritual law, in which God and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history."

Auto Supply Not Moving. An item in the "Newcomers and Removals" printed in the Reflector yesterday might be taken by some to indicate that the Western Auto and Supply Company was moving from its location at 329 Dickinson avenue. The store will remain at its present site, but the portion of the building which housed the Singer Sewing Machine Company is being renovated and will be occupied by a ladies' ready-to-wear department.

Both of these magazines are on the reading table at Sheppard Memorial Library with the compliments of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company.

"Mr. Dependancy's Daughter," by Parrish; "The World Is Mine," by Blake; "Aut in Season," by Thorne. One copy of each of these three recent novels has been given to Sheppard Memorial Library by the Athenaeum Book Club. Light summer reading is in great demand now.

If you haven't heard about the exposed midriff in summer sports fashions, you will. Here you see one version of it in a costume that can go to the beach or stay at home for dinner on the terrace. It's unbleached muslin skirt, hand-dyed in blue and green sea horses, and its deep blue muslin brassiere top, part company to leave a bit of epidermis in view. More blue muslin makes the boero worn over it. (Costume assembled by Saks Fifth Avenue).

Broadway musical. As with Deanna, Pasternak has cast Gloria in a role in which she is only incidentally a singer. The "under-pup" is a poor little girl with a lot of family who wins a prize that sends her to an exclusive camp for wealthy girls whose families are too "busy" to bother much. Gloria gets into trouble, but she wins out in the end. The story is that simple—with adornments of human interest and occasional song—and it's the formula, if you want to call it that, that has made the Durbin films so appealing. In person, Gloria is "sweet" rather than "cute," and she has the same sort of pose that distinguished Deanna at her debut. The amazing resemblance between her and her idol (Deanna) is more easily noted in real life than on film. She also shares with Deanna a resemblance in some facial characteristics, to another singer—Marion Talley.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Rabbin Coom

Hollywood. Only yesterday Hollywood planted a crop of singing stardlets and reaped a harvest, mainly through Deanna Durbin and Judy Garland. Today Deanna and Judy are entering their more gracious teens—and the second crop is ready to go to market.

Maybe there always were children who could turn a coloratura trick. Deanna put the spotlight on them, and by her own screen work paved their way. There are now at least four youngsters who can and do tackle operatic arias with collected calmness—youthsters who are making it tough for the "just-so-cute" school of kiddie actors whose principal assets are curls, a smile and baby talk.

Jacqueline Nash, 9, is being introduced in "Music School" with Jasohat Helfetz. Linda Ware, 13, is hitting the high notes in "The Star-Maker" with Bing Crosby. Leni Lynn, also 13, has just had her option lifted by Metro (which ought to please the Passaic, N. J., school-makes who financed her trip here with their dimes) and is getting her chance to sing in "Babes in Arms." And Joe Pasternak, the producer who promoted Durbin, has a new one in Gloria Jean, 11, from Buffalo, N. Y.

same tactics with Gloria. There is "hush-hush" at Paramount, too, when mention is made of Linda's vocalizations. You're supposed to be surprised. (Please do, won't you?) Linda Ware and Jackie Nash, because their pictures started first, will be up for inspection before Leni and Gloria. On Pasternak's record with Durbin films, I'd predict that Gloria will have the most fortunate debut of the quartet—simply because the story in which she appears, "The Under-Pup," is a story built around a little girl and her problems. Linda Ware appears as a "discovery" of star-maker Crosby. Jackie sings as a pupil in the "music school" of her film, and Leni is spotted in the filming of a

CONSIDER LAW ON FERTILIZER

Uniform Act for Carolinas and Virginia Sought

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 13.—Efforts to enact a uniform fertilizer law for Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas will be initiated at a meeting of the Southeastern Association of Seed, Food and Drug Officials here June 19 and 20, D. S. Coltrane, assistant state commissioner of agriculture, said today.

He announced acceptance by the organization of an invitation to hold its two-day session here and said there will be delegates from all four states from which the group is drawn.

Coltrane is chairman on arrangements and will conduct a round table discussion on fertilizer control problems. Dr. J. Frampton King of the Georgia Department of Agriculture will lead a discussion on feed control problems and George W. Amburgey, Department of Agriculture will preside over a round table discussion of seed control problems.

On the subject of uniformity of laws, Coltrane said: "Among the most important problems to be discussed will be that of obtaining a uniform fertilizer law for Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas. The soil conditions and crops of these four states are similar and there is no reason why uniform fertilizer laws should not be passed."

Other speakers will include L. B. Rhodes, associate chemist of the department, who will speak on "Some Observations on a Canning Survey in North Carolina"; Dr. E. W. Constable, associate chemist, on "Speeding up the Acid Base Analysis of Commercial Fertilizer"; and W. Amburgey, microscopist, who will talk on "The Value of Microscopic Analysis of Mixed Feeds." Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott will also speak on the program. Dr. B. W. Kilgore, chief of the department's chemistry division, will deliver the address of welcome.

SUPREME COURT EXPECTED RULE ON SALES TAX LAW

an evasion of the real issue by the justices on the grounds that the plaintiff, Leonard, has no right to bring the case at all because he has not shown wherein he was damaged.

The display of goods is at issue in the case of Best and Co. vs. Maxwell, commissioner, and involves the question whether or not the state has a right to lay a tax on out of the state firms which come into North Carolina, rent a hotel room, display goods therein and either sell directly or take orders for merchandise so displayed.

The statute in question was enacted by the 1937 General Assembly with a view to protecting local merchants against competition of the kind mentioned, and also with an eye to making up for the sales tax which "Display" merchants practically never paid into the Department of Revenue.

Outstanding among the capital cases is that of James Godwin, youth who made screaming headlines throughout the state by his spectacular criminal activities last year.

He broke jail in Davidson county with the aid of the jailer's daughter, commandeered a taxicab and its driver at the point of a gun, drove to High Point and allegedly shot down a local textile worker in an effort to obtain possession of another automobile. There were no eye witnesses to the killing, but Godwin was convicted on alleged "admissions" and upon strong circumstantial evidence. His counsel raised the point that he was entitled as a matter of right to have a jury empaneled to pass on his sanity when the question had been raised after verdict but before imposition of sentence. They also rely upon many other of the 97 exceptions they noted.

The other capital cases involve three Negroes and a Robeson county Indian.

Julius Buchanan and James Cureton, Forsyth Negroes, were convicted of first degree murder; as was James Henderson, New Hanover Negro whose trial for the killing of a white woman created a strong sensation. The Indian, Bricey Hammonds, was also sentenced to die for murder.

cent. A former dividend of 10 per cent had been paid. Mr. Hood said that since 1927 there have been liquidated 185 closed banks with total resources of $135,357,800.09, including stockholders liability of $13,516,116.79. Total collections, including offsets, etc., amounted to $78,610,654.27, while the total expense of liquidation was $4,401,705.41 or 5.6 per cent of total receipts. Income reached $4,034,484.95, making the net cost of liquidation for the entire period $367,220.48, or 47 cents of each hundred dollars collected.

Depositors and other creditors were paid on an average $72.55 of each $100 due them. Collection was made of 49.67 per cent of stockholders' liability, and 53.15 per cent of all other assets.

MAKES SURVEY OF N. C. STAPLE

Remarkable Progress Made By Farmers Since 1928

Raleigh, June 13.—North Carolina farmers have made remarkable progress since 1928 in the improvement in the staple length of their cotton, it is revealed by a study made by the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station of State College, in co-operation with the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. During the period, 1928 to 1936, the average length increased from 14.69-16th inch to slightly more than one inch.

The study was made by Glenn E. Smith and Ralph H. Raper of the North Carolina Experiment Station and W. B. Lanham of the B. A. E. They were assisted by Dr. G. W. Forster, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at State College, and Florena Cleaves of the B. A. E.

The results of the investigations are contained in Experiment Station Bulletin No. 323, which is available free to interested citizens of North Carolina upon application to the agricultural editor, State College, Raleigh. The title of the bulletin is "Quality of North Carolina Cotton—1928-1936."

In a summary of the studies, the research men note that the improvement in staple length was brought about by the farmers shifting from the production of cotton varieties having a staple length of less than 15-16 inch to varieties having a staple length of 15-16 to 1 1/2-16 inches. Approximately 80 per cent of the cotton grown in the state in 1928 had a staple less than 15-16 inch, but in 1936 only 13 per cent of the cotton was this short and 85 per cent was between 15-16 inch and 1 1/2-16 inches.

The report points out that the increased staple length has increased the value of the crop, but that improvement of grade, which also is important for premium prices, has not made satisfactory progress.

Other speakers will include L. B. Rhodes, associate chemist of the department, who will speak on "Some Observations on a Canning Survey in North Carolina"; Dr. E. W. Constable, associate chemist, on "Speeding up the Acid Base Analysis of Commercial Fertilizer"; and W. Amburgey, microscopist, who will talk on "The Value of Microscopic Analysis of Mixed Feeds."

Complete Session Of County Court

Seven cases were removed from the County court docket this morning in a busy session which was completed at the luncheon recess hour.

The court's docket was declared at the completion of the session to be "in good shape."

A nol pro's with leave was taken in the case charging Curtis Morris and Garland Stancil, Sr., with larceny of peanuts, but Stancil was convicted of receiving stolen property and was given a six months road sentence.

Bruce McLawhorn pleaded guilty to driving careless and reckless and was given a 60-day road sentence, suspended upon payment of $25, costs to be deducted and the balance to go as a fine. The defendant's driving license was ordered suspended for two years, but the order to be terminated any time after 90 days if adequate settlement is made for damages sustained in a wreck.

Jesse Cannon was given a four months term on the roads for driving drunk, but the defendant appealed to Superior court and bond was set at $100.

C. A. Williams pleaded guilty to being drunk on the highway and was given a 60-day sentence, suspended upon payment of $25. The defendant's driving license was ordered revoked for 12 months. John Wilbur Monette pleaded guilty to driving drunk and was given a four months road sentence, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and court costs. Th judgment also provided that the defendant show good behavior for two years, and that he be denied a driver's license for 12 months.

J. D. Andrews, charged with non-support, was given a six months sentence, suspended upon payment of $2 today and $2 each Monday before noon. The defendant appealed and bond was set at $200.

The session was unusual in that not a Negro defendant was tried.

Washington Daybook

Washington. — There is an old story hanging about the navy that officers who lose ships for whatever cause are doomed to oblivion, with no promotion nor new commands in sight, but our probing about official files failed to support the idea and official sources called it a myth.

We investigated the story because it had new birth in connection with the recent disaster to the submarine Squalus, commanded by Lieut.-Comdr. Oliver Negrin.

Previous experience indicates that is the board of inquiry finds him at fault he will have a hard time getting along in the navy hereafter. But if he is found not at fault he probably will do better than average, for accounts available so far indicate he handled the surviving members of the crew in good navy tradition.

There aren't many recent examples to work with. Besides the Squalus, four United States submarines have sunk in recent years. On three of these the commanders died, the F-4 at Honolulu, and the S-51 and S-4 near Portsmouth.

COMMENDED AND PROMOTED

The lieutenant commander of the S-5, which was rammed by a steamer off the Delaware Capes, is now a captain on duty in the navy department here and is a good bet for promotion to rear admiral.

With the craft down at one end, he assembled the crew in the other and directed that a hole be bored through the hull. His own shirt was hoisted on a stick through the hole and waved until it attracted a passing oil tanker. The tanker cut a bigger hole in the hull and the men were brought safely out.

Cook was commended and has since been twice promoted.

On the other hand, the commander of the cruiser Omaha which went aground among the Florida keys some time ago was relieved of his command.

But disaster didn't follow commanders of ships lost during the World war. We traced three of them.

Capt. H. H. Christy was commanding the armored cruiser San Diego when it ran into a mine laid by a German submarine off Fire Island, N. Y. He directed the removal of the men then jumped into the water as the cruiser rolled over and sank. Later he was promoted to rear admiral and now is in retirement, living at the Army and Navy Club in Washington.

OTHER EXAMPLES

Another sample is David W. Bagley, commander of the destroyer Jacob Jones, sunk by a German submarine December 6, 1917, off the coast of Ireland. For his efficiency, good judgment and courage in the emergency he was commended by Admiral Sims, was steadily promoted and now is a rear admiral in command of the Mare Island Navy Yard in San Francisco bay.

Walter N. Vernon was in command of a destroyer patrolling off Ireland during the war when he sighted a torpedo headed for his ship. He put his ship about and had almost escaped when the torpedo leaped out of the water as if to take a look around, veered off on a new angle and hit the destroyer far aft, taking off 35 feet of the rear of the ship.

A brave gunner's mate, Osmond E. Ingram, seeing the approaching torpedo, raced to the rear to dump off the depth charges so they would not be exploded by the torpedo. He was blown to atoms by the blast. The destroyer was kept afloat by closing her bulkheads and she was towed to port next day.

With promoted steadily

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY. Despite the fact that Packy North is the most beautiful girl in the world, she has a heart of steel. She refused to believe Tacks' story that he saw her on the street, and left her the previous Sunday. Packy happened to be out of town for the weekend.

Chapter Six Miss Dorothy South

THE terrace of the Penguin Club was deserted of all save Gus, the bartender, when Tacks returned. He entered Gus's domain with heavy tread and downcast eyes. In truth, Mr. Adams was not feeling so well. He was experiencing the same sensation that he had several years previously when, in the Yale-Harvard tussle, a beautiful forward pass had fallen into his arms behind the crimson goal-line and he had subsequently let it slip through his fingers. That had been a decidedly unpleasant feeling. But it was no worse than the one which afflicted him now. Mr. Tack Adams had made a sorry mess of it.

Of course, it wouldn't have been important had not Miss Patricia North been so like — well, like Miss Patricia North. Resting his elbows on the bar, Tacks gazed vacantly into space and marveled upon the shifting tides of life. An hour earlier he had set forth upon his mission, whole of heart and fancy-free. He would have been prepared to bet real money that he would return in the same condition and had he?

On the way back from Packy's apartment he had had the feeling of one who walks in chains. Now, with the sound of the slamming door only just beginning to quell his sensibilities, he was perceiving why. He was in love, that was all, suddenly, desperately in love.

Gus cut in upon these dark musings.

"Have anything, sir?" he inquired professionally.

Tacks regarded him with melancholy eye.

"Listen, Gus," he said, "what's the best drink when you're feeling sunk?"

Gus set himself for weighty speech.

"Well now, I'll tell you, sir," he said. "If you've maybe got a little unsettlin' on your stumck, there ain't nothing like a nice glass of gin and bitters." He eyed Tacks reprovingly. "If more of you young gentlemen was to drink gin with dashes of bitters in it, a lot of these personous cocktails, you'd be doing a better job for yourselves. I often says to my missus, I says —"

Tacks interrupted. He cared not what Gus often says to his missus.

"Put a bottle of gin where I can get at it," he ordered.

Gus reached for the bottle and Tacks returned to his self-upbraiding. If only he'd had the common sense to put his foot in the doorway, as Jumbo had done, and provoke a dash of bitters in it, a less adorable right fist in his eye.

That would have been better than nothing.

Something violent assaulted his back, causing his teeth to chatter. He turned his head wearily. Jumbo Cutler and Van Harkness stood there grinning hatefully.

"Hey, Tacks," said Jumbo, in alarm. "What's the matter? You look sort of green and kicked around."

"I feel sort of green and kicked around. Go away, will you? I want to be alone."

Callousness

"WHAT'S biting you, guy?" said Van.

"Nothing," said Tacks shortly. "Gone to see your girl yet?" inquired Jumbo, unwittingly rubbing his hand on an open wound.

"No," lied Tacks.

"Hi!" said Van, with sudden penetration. "I'll bet that's what's the matter with him. He probably saw her and she gave him the air. Well, cheer up, Tacks, my boy. Anyhow, you didn't stick your eye out like Jumbo did."

Tacks winced. What callousness! What brutality!

"I don't care to discuss my — er — Miss North with you," he said.

"Okay! Let's sit down and have one. By the way, Bill's out making a pass at the East brothers."

"I wish him luck," said Tacks listlessly.

Van ordered drinks.

"I know," he said, "that I agreed it was okay for Bill to bring one of these East fellows to this shindig. But I still think he has the softest."

The telephone, jangling behind the bar, interrupted him.

"Bar," said Gus, answering it. "Who's that? Just a minute." He beckoned Tacks. "For you, sir."

To the party on the other end of the wire, Tacks spoke for several minutes. And the astute observer would have gathered immediately that the person calling was pleading with Tacks for something. Whatever that something was, it seemed to be highly amusing to Mr. Adams. Despite the leaden weights oppressing his soul, a grin spread slowly over his face.

The person at the other end of the wire appeared to yammer, thereafter and now is rear admiral in command of the 15th Naval District, the Canal Zone.

Ingram is commemorated by being the only enlisted man for whom a destroyer was named.

The Japan-American conference, held to promote friendship between colleg students of the two countries, will meet at the University of Southern California in August.

The slang expression, "I seen my duty and I done it," was a characteristic phrase of former Governor Jeremiah Busk of Wisconsin in the 1890's.

"Now, now," said Tacks soothingly, "don't get excited. Just take it like a man and we'll be around shortly."

He replaced the receiver, rejoined Van and Jumbo.

"Who was that?" Van demanded sharply.

"Bill," said Tacks, still grinning. "Well, what did he want?"

"He wants us," said Tacks, "to come around to the Forty-Sixth Street Police Station and bail him out. I don't know the details, but the charge is assault and battery. It appears that William has poked some guy called Dillenderfer in the jaw."

Fruitless Fencing

"A PE," said Miss Dorothy South, "if you had one more brain than you've already got, you'd still have just one."

Mr. Ape Coletti gazed at the lady who held such a trifling opinion of his mental qualifications. Mr. Coletti had a blue, granite-slab jaw; close-cropped head; the neck of a rhinoceros; and ears which could have been sold for tent flaps. No thing of beauty and joy forever. Mr. Coletti, he looked in fact with lobster a la Newburg and pistachio ice-cream. But if not exactly handsome, Mr. Coletti gave an impression of extreme capability. He was short and squat, with long arms and powerful shoulders, built generally along the same lines as a barge designed for heavy work around the back streets of Venice. He possessed a pair of small beady eyes, light-blue in color, in which leapt not the light of human intelligence. These eyes now wandered over the little figure of Miss Dorothy South as he rummaged what he was pleased to call his mind for some suitable rejoinder, to her terse statement regarding the contents of his cranium.

"You're a little nifty," he said.

"Yeah?" he said.

"Yeah," confirmed Miss South. "Imagine you having the crust to bawl me out — ME! Why, you big baboon, but for me you'd have been overlooking the Golden Gate from a third-story window in Alcatraz long ago."

Ape Coletti cast about him, found a convenient table and pounded it with hairy fist.

"Listen," he said, "dat ain't got nuttin' to do wid it. Wot I'm tellin' you is dis: Dey ain't no dame can give me de run-around."

"Well, darling," said Miss South in dulcet tones, "who's giving you the run-around?"

Mr. Coletti arose and pointed a short accusing finger at Miss South. So might Napoleon have commended himself when he got the goods on the Empress Josephine. She might great Caesar have charged Cleopatra with being a two-timer. But if these ladies quailed before that awful digit, they were not of the same caliber as Miss South. Miss South merely smoothed her platinum hair with slim left hand and laughed in Mr. Coletti's face.

"Ape," she said, "many's the dumb-bell that's come hot off the lower East Side. But you win the luck-toothed shaving-brush."

"Is that so?" said Miss South. "I says dat's so."

Miss South appeared to consider it time to drop this fruitless fencing.

"Sit down, Ape," she said. "To begin with, the gentleman that's got you all hot and bothered is none other than Mr. Van Rypper Harkness."

Mr. Coletti looked as if he would like to spit.

"Van Rypper!" he exclaimed disgustfully. "Wot a sissy moniker!"

"Is it," Miss South inquired sweetly, "any worse than Harold?"

Mr. Coletti winced. Among the other milstones which had been hung around his rhino neck at birth was the wholly unsuitable name of Harold. Under "Harold" the Pride of the Coletts had been forced to chafe until, having won his spurs in gangland, he more picturesquely and acceptably cognomen of "Ape" had been bestowed upon him. But though the horror of Harold was fast becoming a vanishing memory, memory still carried its sting.

"Nobody," the Ape stated now, "can call me Harold an' get away wid it."

Miss South waved a hand.

"I'm not interested in your foolish name," she said. "I'm asking you if you know who Van Rypper Harkness is?"

"An' I'm tellin' you," replied the Ape, "dat I ain't never hoid of him."

"Which shows," said Miss South promptly, "that if you'd did a little more reading of the Social Register and a little less of the Daily Racing Form, you'd know Van Rypper Harkness comes from one of the oldest and richest families in New York."

THE PRESIDENT MEETS THE QUEEN

Expressions on the faces of President Roosevelt and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain make this picture of their meeting at Washington stand out. Mrs. Roosevelt stands (back to camera) with her husband, waiting to be presented, while on the other side of Mr. Roosevelt is his sec. retary, Brig. Gen. E. M. Watson. King George stands behind the Queen.

Jewish Exiles Have Swelled The Population of Palestine

Because Jewish immigration would be sharply limited under Britain's new plan for Palestine, Jews have criticized it vehemently. Plan provides for gradual creation of a state in which Jews would be limited to one-third the population. Chart, based largely on British government figures (percentages are for 1937), shows Jews have increased in proportion to the Arabs, largely by immigration. Jews charge new plan places them at mercy of Arab majority; Arabs say it isn't fair to them, either. So the disorders continue.

Now from Mount Mitchell Game Refuge comes the story that a few days ago Junior Foresters Charlie Battorf, John Olsen and Al Maxwell parked a pickup truck near the South Toe river organization camp and locked the doors because their hunches were inside on the seat.

They had heard of a hungry three-year-old cub whose chief interest in life seems to be looking for something to eat.

Soon after the foresters had departed CCC boys working nearby heard a terrific commotion. They hurried to the scene just in time to see the bear crawling out of the cab through a broken windshield. Not being able to open the doors and tantalized by the appetizing smell of the lunch within, the bear had broken the windshield, crawled in and eaten to her heart's content.

Exemption of numerous counties by the 1939 legislature has led to a renewal of attacks upon the constitutionality of the dry cleaners commission setup. The General Assembly session this year was marked by long and bitter wrangling over the

Man About Manhattan

By George Tacker

New York—Every time the Normandie or the Queen Mary puts into port people go down and have their pictures taken against them. There is always a crowd of photographers with their buckets of developer hanging from tripods at the foot of the streets that lead to the piers.

But the pictures aren't very good. You get only a blurred background, and nothing of the graceful lines of an ocean palace. However, if you wander into any of the small dime studios in 14th street, you can have an excellent picture of yourself taken—against the Queen Mary or the Normandie. These are not crude imitations painted on a canvas backdrop, yet in picture form they are far more realistic and lifelike than the originals.

Billy the Oysterman is an important key to those who would understand something of the real old New York of sentimental, mellow days. For more than 50 years he has been a dictator to Manhattan epicures.

He has two restaurants now, fancy, impressive ones, in place of the waterfront spot the original Billy built. The original Billy, blunt, hearty, was the checker-board type, opening his oysters with oyster knives for his guests. He prospered and became almost legendary in Manhattan history.

And now Young Billy has become as important as his father. Although he has sold millions and millions of oysters he never eats them. Nor has a pearl ever been found in one of his restaurants. The reason he never eats oysters, he says, is not because he dislikes them. It is because he never thinks to order them.

They tell a story of his father who was going about his business one night when a stranger walked in and ordered a lobster. He had never before eaten lobster. When the dish was placed before him the young man glanced at the red, shelled creature and said, "What do I do?"

"I'll show you," announced Billy. Wherefore he pulled the plate before him and proceeded to eat the lobster. Then, turning to the astonished guest, "You may pay for the lobster, but there will be no charge for the lesson." He and Billy became warm friends and he always dined with Billy when in New York.

The current Billy always has claimed that nationality was never an indication of food preferences. Because a man is Italian is, to Billy, no sign that the fellow dotes on spaghetti. He knows celebrities by the score and can, on request, recite the special dishes admired by all.

Irish Chief Seized

Sean Russell (above), a reputed leader of the outlawed Irish Republican army, was arrested by federal officers at Detroit two days before King George and Queen Elizabeth were due to set foot on United States soil at Niagara Falls en route to Washington. It was reported Scotland Yard wanted to extradite him because of recent bombings in England.

Locals Triumph 6-1 To Stop Eagles' Winning Streak

WILLSON HURLS MATES TO WIN

Kinston To Confront Greenies Again Here Tonight

Rain took the afternoon phase of a Bargain Day in Kinston yesterday and Greenville took the night half by turning in a 6-1 victory over the Eagles to halt the winning streak of the losers, who stopped at the six-way mark in wins.

Kinston will have an opportunity to get revenge for last night's defeat when they encounter Rube Wilson's Greenies in the Guy Smith park tonight at 8:15 o'clock before one of the largest crowds of the season, which will be composed of an estimated 1,000 Ayden residents, who have been issued free tickets.

It was the hurling of Morris Wilson, veteran Greenie chucker, who set the Eagles down in fine style last night. The Eagles were unable to reach the Greenville hurler for effective hits as they went down in defeat.

Ope Pace also has a jinx on the Greenies. Pace, lanky left-hander, has whiffed the Greenies in previous games and he repeated his old tricks to the tune of eleven strikeouts last night. Poor support, coupled with a half-dozen walks, retarded Pace's progress.

The seventh was lucky for Greenville; at least, this was an inning in which they scored the most runs. Rube's boys collected three hits, which went for a trio of runs, in this stanza. Christopher, Wilson and Black did the hitting, and Kinston came through with a pair of errors to feature in the locals scoring spree.

It looked for a while as if the game would never start. Ordinarily the games start at 8 o'clock on the Kinston diamond, but the umpire decreed that it start at 8:15 and it finally got started shortly after 8:20. However, it wasn't too late for the Greenies to chalk up a win on the scoreboard.

Setting the pace in hitting ways for the Greenies was Black, center-fielder, who got a trio of safeties for four trips to the plate. Black is the fellow whom Greenville purchased from Tarboro recently, and is showing his appreciation to the local club by turning in his share of the hits.

BEARS GET WIN IN 76 MINUTES

Goldsboro In 1-0 Victory Over Tarboro Serpents

Only 76 minutes were required yesterday afternoon for Leonard Berry, Bullpen pitcher, to give up only two hits and give New Bern a 2-0 win over Wilson. In the night affair, however, Ed Parker hurled five-hit ball to give the Tobs a 7-5 verdict.

Pete Kunis paved the way for Goldsboro in a 1-0 victory over Tarboro as he allowed four hits and fooled nine Goldsboro sluggers. Yesterday's affair was the first close contest on Goldsboro soil for the season.

First-place Snow Hill and third-place Williamston were scheduled to get together yesterday afternoon, but rain intervened and the game was postponed.

Still Here

It was inadvertently stated yesterday that Hoodie Briggs, Greenville hurler, had been released. However, Hoodie has been suspended because of a sore arm and will see action with the Greenies again as soon as his arm is in shape for hurling assignments.

EAGLES TONITE WILSON ON WED

Local Club Host To Town of Ayden Here Tonight

Tonight, Wednesday afternoon and Wednesday night will be two big baseball periods in Greenville. Kinston will tackle the Greenies here tonight in a game starting at 8:15 o'clock and an estimated 1,000 residents of Ayden and vicinity will be on hand to witness the contest.

Wilson will play the Greenies Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and then again tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock. In view of the fact that Wednesday afternoon is a holiday period for local merchants and other business men, a large crowd is expected to witness tomorrow's game.

One of the largest Ayden turn-outs in Greenville history probably will be realized tonight, in that the Edwards Pharmacy, for the past two days, has been distributing over 1,000 free tickets turned over to it by the Greenville baseball club.

D. C. Moore, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the local club, said that Ray Goodman of Williamston, president of the Coastal Plain League, and Mayor Ormand of Ayden have been invited to participate in the festivities.

Before this season got started, Wilson took a lease on the Ayden baseball franchise, so the Ayden baseball fans have been patronizing the local club. Tonight, dubbed "Ayden Night," is being staged to show the appreciation of the local club for the Ayden attendance.

Contest Opened For Fishermen of State

Which North Carolina fisherman will enter the biggest black bass this year in Western Auto's third annual nation-wide "Big Bass" fishing contest? How lucky "Izaak Walton" is going to walk off with that first prize of fishing tackle worth $50. These are the questions that are being asked by local fishermen as better won in other localities. Five valuable prizes will be given to winning North Carolina fishermen at the close on the contest on September 30. Similar prize awards will be made in all participating states - 185 awards in all for the nation's fishermen. Four prizes in each state will be made up of selected, high-grade, nationally-known, assorted fishing tackle. First prizes will be valued at $50, second prizes, $35; third, $20, and fourth, $15. In addition a silver trophy cup will be presented to the fisherman in each state who enters the largest small-mouth bass, whether a prize winner or not.

Free entry blanks are available at any Western Auto store or Western Auto Associate store. Complete instructions are included with the blanks. Those who expect to enter the competition are being urged to secure entry blanks immediately; so that the necessary contest information may be filled in at the time the catch is made, and the record of the catch witnessed according to contest rules.

The "Big Bass" contest is promoted each year by the Western Auto Supply Company to increase public interest in the sport of fishing and to add to the sport the spirit of widespread friendly competition. This year interest in the contest is expected to be increased greatly, since there is a larger number of prizes of greater value being offered, and the contest is now recognized as a national event.

New Orleans - (AP) - Historic downtown St. Charles avenue with a two-century record of taking its liquid refreshments hard and straight, is gulping fruit and vegetable juices now and apparently liking it.
Old-timers on the avenue openly scoffed at the opening of a bar which offered only unfermented drinks. David L. Rush, 71-year-old candy store owner, claimed an exclusive juice diet brought him back
