TAX REVISION BILL IS SENT TO THE PRESIDENT

House Makes Only Minor Changes In Measure

LITTLE TIME IS LOST IN PASSING

Roosevelt Signs Legislation Establishing Minimum Cotton Acreage

Washington, June 23. — (AP)—The House concurred today in minor Senate amendments to the business tax revision bill and sent the measure to President Roosevelt for his signature.

The legislation, rushed through both houses of Congress in less than a week, wiped out the undivided profits tax which many business men denounced and fixes a 16 per cent levy for large corporations.

Haste in pushing the bill through was motivated by expiration a week from today of excise levies which the measure re-enacts.

Political leaders, meanwhile, called for a post-adjournment study looking toward a top-to-bottom overhaul of the revenue structure next year.

A tax bill, carrying levies designed to put $1,600,000,000 in the federal till for 1940, swept to Senate passage late yesterday.

Other developments: Major General Julian Schley, chief of army engineers, recommended to Congress navigation improvements in the Cape Fear river between Wilmington and the sea.

The engineers proposed modifying existing plans to provide for lengthening the southern approach to the lockage basin from 1,500 to 4,500 feet and for a depth of 32 feet in the channel between the outer end of the ocean bar channel and Wilmington and in the turning basin.

Promotion of Brig. Gen. H. B. Ferguson, a native North Carolinian, president of the Mississippi River Commission, to the rank of major general was proposed by Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) in a resolution.

President Roosevelt signed legislation establishing a permanent minimum cotton acreage under the farm act at about 26,000,000 acres, or not less than 10,000,000 bales.

He approved amendments to the cotton sections of the 1938 agricultural adjustment act which makes permanent the limiting provisions that formerly operated only in 1939 and 1938.

Also, President Roosevelt said he would ask for new legislation to continue his monetary powers if the two-year extension bill pending in the Senate was killed by filibuster.

Asked at a press conference whether he would seek new legislation beyond June 30, when existing powers to devalue the dollar and operate the stabilization fund expire, the President replied in the affirmative and added it would be done this session.

Seeks To Recover $25,000 Damages

A $25,000 damage suit has been filed in Pitt Superior court against G. S. Porter and his son, Marvin Porter, in behalf of Mrs. Alma Mae Sutton as the result of an automobile accident in the town of Simpson, June 18.

The complaint asks the $25,000 Mrs. Sutton, alleging that she suffered internal injuries and a broken back or spine in a collision between a car driven by her husband, Mitchell Sutton, and one owned by Mr. Porter and driven by his son.

Another action brought in behalf of Mr. Sutton asks $225 for damages to his automobile.

Charles Whedbee is attorney for the plaintiffs.

No Polio Reported In Pitt Thus Far

Commenting on infantile paralysis which is causing so much concern in South Carolina, Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, today declared that not a single case had been reported in Pitt county this year.

Dr. Ennett said he fully agreed with Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer, who advised a few days ago that "parents refrain from carrying their children into sections where there is an unusual incidence of infantile paralysis."

He further stated that at present North Carolina has no more than what might be called a normal amount of infantile paralysis, "an example," he said, "from June 1 through June 10 of this year only one case of infantile paralysis was reported in the state. In the same period of 1938 there were three reported cases."

$88,000 REA Project Authorized For County

Project to Serve Approximately 400 Customers

The Greenville Board of Aldermen, in a called meeting last night, approved a loan contract whereby $88,000 will be borrowed from the federal government for the erection of extensions to existing rural power lines.

Marion Swartz, superintendent of the Water and Light Commission, declared that the new Rural Electrification Authority project provides for no extension of more than seven miles long.

Approximately 400 rural consumers will be served by the extensions, all of which live in Pitt county. Mr. Swartz said the lines would be placed in several sections of the county.

The contract provides for an interest rate of 2.73 per cent and neither the Water and Light Commission nor the city will be liable for the payment of principal or interest, all payments to come from the revenues of the project.

The contract states that on the face of each bond shall be the statement that "This bond is not a debt of the town, but is payable solely from the revenues of the undertaking for which it is issued, as provided by law and the proceedings in accordance therewith, and the holder hereof has no right to compel the levy of any tax for the payment of this bond or the interest to accrue hereon and has no charge, lien or encumbrance legal or equitable upon any property of said town."

The REA is expected to sign the loan contract immediately and the next step will be the securing of specifications for the purchase of materials. Mr. Swartz said he was unable to say exactly when actual work would be started and completed, but declared he expected the project to get under way in the near future.

The bonds are payable over a period of 25 years.

General Fund Revenues To Exceed $34,500,000

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, June 23.—North Carolina's general fund revenues for the fiscal year which ends in a week will exceed the thirty-four and a half million dollars upon which the 1939-41 biennium's budget was based, Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell said today.

Not only will it do that, he said, but it will go above the mark without any diversion of gasoline tax money from the highway funds. The 1939-41 budgetary estimate included in the $34,500,000 of likely general fund revenues, a transfer of $2,000,000 from the highway funds.

In view of the Maxwell statement, which is based on a close study of tax returns to date, it appears there will be no diversion of highway funds unless a thorough study now being made by Assistant Director of the Budget Robert Dayton should show that there will be more expenditures to charge against the current budget than have been anticipated.

Commissioner Maxwell made it perfectly plain that from the point of view of receipts alone there will be no reason whatever for diversion of any sort. He could not, of course, say just what expenditures will be charged against the current year's budget, and therefore was not in a position to make any authentic prediction of the actual general fund balance which will be shown as of June 30.

Britain Aroused At 'Intolerable' Insults By Japs

Nippon Ambassador Summoned To Conference With Lord Halifax Following New Tientsin Incidents

London, June 23.—(AP)—Japanese Ambassador Shigemitsu was called to the British foreign office today for consultation on what Prime Minister Chamberlain termed "intolerable insults" to British by Japanese at Tientsin.

The prime minister told the House of Commons that Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax had asked the Japanese ambassador to see him and that Halifax would "make it very clear" what he thought of the new incidents, reported last night.

Asked if the British government would put retaliatory measures into operation at once, Chamberlain said, "I do not think we have got to that stage yet."

Chamberlain made his statement on the Far Eastern situation in response to questions similar to the barrage directed at him yesterday urging "strong action" against Japan.

"The honorable members no doubt have seen reports of further indignities to which the British nationals have been subjected," Chamberlain said. "My noble friend (Lord Halifax) has requested the Japanese ambassador to see him in connection with these incidents today."

Cheers greeted his statement. (Tientsin reports overnight had told how the British consulate general in Tientsin had issued a statement saying eight British subjects had been forced to submit to indignities, including stripings and lengthy examinations in full view of Chinese coolies.)

CITY RECEIVES ART GALLERY

Formal Opening For Center Held Last Night

A number of Greenville residents were on hand last night for the opening of the Greenville Federal Art Gallery, a local-federal sponsored project for Greenville and surrounding communities.

Mayor M. K. Blount received the spacious gallery for the city and offered appropriate words upon the reception.

Gen. Erwin of Chapel Hill, state director of the federal art project, which has established five such galleries in the state, two of which are in East Carolina, spoke briefly of state and national aspects of the program being undertaken "to stimulate interest in painting."

Miss Hilda Osgurn, who is directing the gallery, discussed the 17 paintings by renowned contemporary artists, that hung on the walls of the gallery last night. She outlined briefly anticipated displays for the future.

The theme of last night's fitting program, under the direction of Mrs. R. S. Neil, was "A cross section of American paintings of today."

The first Federal Art Gallery in the state was started in Raleigh in 1935, with four more, including the Greenville gallery, having been established since that time. Others are located in Wilmington, Sanford and Asheville.

Greenville's art gallery is one of 60 established in the United States under the direction of Holger Cahill, who recently set up an exhibit similar to Greenville's at the New York World's Fair.

Prospects Bright For N. C. Station

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Chances for establishment of a coast station at or near Wrightsville Beach, N. C., became brighter today after Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche, commandant of the coast guard, assured Senator Bailey (D-N.C.) that he favored it.

The site under consideration is 53 miles from the nearest station to the north and 25 miles from the nearest to the south.

From studies made by the coast guard, there appears to be justification for such a station, Bailey said. Waesche told him. The proposal must be approved by the Budget Bureau.

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—Two Decatur, Ill., aviators trying for a new world sustained flight record for light planes, passed the 41-hour mark today. Their second night in the air was without incident.

With a federal investigation of WPA activities in Louisiana under way, Leche announced he will quit office because of ill health.

'Lost Colony' Mystery May Have Been Solved

KEY POSITIONS FILLED BY FDR

Jones And Carmody Named To Head Lending Program

Washington, D. C., June 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt named Jesse Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and John Carmody, chief of the Rural Electrification Authority, today to fill the two key positions in his proposed $3,860,000,000 lending program.

He named Jones to administer the federal loan agency which will come into being July 1 and Carmody to run the federal works agency to be created at the same time. For the time being, he left vacant the position of the administrator of the security agency, third of the field of $12,000-a-year jobs established by re-grouping bureaus under terms of the government reorganization bill.

The appointments of Jones and Carmody must be confirmed by the Senate, to which Mr. Roosevelt submitted the nominations.

The board, in special session last night, gave the cemetery committee authority to act on the proposal and Chairman Jack Spain today effected the deal for the purchase of 19.09 acres of land from the W. B. Brown estate at $150 per acre, or a total outlay of $2,863.50. The site is located in the Cooper Field section of Greenville.

It was explained that legal phases of the project would be cleared up as soon as possible in order that the project may get under way in the immediate future. When completed, an adequate cemetery will be provided for the Negro race of Greenville.

Stone Might Have Marked Grave of Virginia Dare

Gainesville, Ga., June 23.—(AP)—The roughly carved lettering of a granite map that may prove to be the gravestone of Virginia Dare, first white child born in America, was disclosed today by Dr. H. J. Pearce, president of Brenau College.

In addition to Virginia Dare's, the stone bears the name of her father, Annetas Dare, and of 15 others presumably murdered by Indians in 1581, four years after they set foot on the new world. It is signed with the name of Eleanor Dare, mother of Virginia.

Dr. Pearce said that if the authenticity of this and a companion stone now in the Brenau College museum can be established the mystery of Sir Walter Raleigh's famed "lost colony" will be near solution.

One stone was found on the banks of the Chowan river near Edenton, N. C., in 1937 by a tourist. Its inscription purports to be a message from Eleanor Dare to her father, Governor John White, saying savages had slain all but seven of the colonists. It tells of the burial of 17 on a hill and referred to a stone at the burial site listing the dead.

Governor White had gone back to England for supplies soon after planting the colony in Roanoke Island at Raleigh's behest in 1587. European was delayed his return and when he sailed back four years later the colonists were gone and were never seen again by white men.

The Brenau president emphasized that the college makes no claims for the stones, but is so impressed by their potential value to history that excavations will be undertaken soon in the vicinity where the second was found.

SEEK NEW TAX TO BE LEVIED ON SECURITIES

Hope New Issue Will Not Be Exempted From Levy

WANTS CONGRESS MAKE IT CLEAR

Administration Leaders Meanwhile Investigate President's New Vast Spending Program

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt expressed the hope today that government securities issued to finance his proposed $3,860,000,000 spending program would not be tax exempt.

As administration leaders studied the vast spending proposal to determine what new legislation may be necessary, the President answered many new questions about it at a press conference.

Asked whether the securities, which would be issued by various federal agencies to raise funds to lend on a wide variety of self-liquidating projects, would be exempt from taxes, the President said he did not know the law on that point, but hoped they would not.

He added he hoped Congress would make it clear that no public securities would be exempt from taxation.

Replying to a question as to the interest rate to be charged local governments on the loan, the President said this should be as low as possible and he expected both the principal and interest to be paid.

Most of the lending would be done by the new federal works agency which, under the recently approved government reorganization plan, goes into operation July 1.

The President said he expected to send to the Senate during the day the nomination to head that agency and one of the other two new agencies under the reorganization.

Because Congress already is rushed with pre-adjournment legislation, there were some expressions of doubt that it could enact this session the six-point, seven-year plan involving projects classified as self-liquidating.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
Friday, June 3, 1899

Report now says that the potato drummer, who was chastised with horse whips at Washington Thursday morning, can establish his innocence. It seems that his assailants got hold of the wrong man and the thing is going to make a big stir before it is ended.

Greensboro College Alumnae Picnic.
The last meeting of the year of the Pitt county chapter of Greensboro College Alumnae took the form of a family picnic. The picnic was held Wednesday evening, June 21, at the country garden homeplace of Mr. Herman McLawhorn.

Members of the chapter, with their families and their guests, met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Grant on Tenth street extension, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon and motored from there to these delightful and well-kept gardens, located near Winterville.

A superb-bountiful dinner was spread immediately from well-filled baskets, and everyone ate and drank until he, or she, could eat and drink no more of fried chicken and ham and of a wide variety of sandwiches, of deviled eggs, olives and pickles and what-not, of meat loaf and potato salad, sliced home-made cake and lemonade. Then picnic baskets had to be refilled with an abundance of left-over food and brought back home again.

A short business meeting followed the picnic, while guests enjoyed the beautiful grounds in the cool of the day.

With members seated upon the green grass, Mrs. J. R. Gullledge, president, called the informal meeting to order and asked for the report of the secretary. Mrs. F. P. Brooks responded, dispensing with the roll call and reading the minutes of the May meeting. She also read a couple of interesting and cordial letters from Miss Mary Brock of Greensboro, who is general alumnae secretary. In these letters, Miss Brock expressed her interest in this particular group, her thanks for the gift sent to the college by this chapter and her congratulations on our having won the Certificate of Award for publicity display of chapter activities at the recent commencement of the college.

This artistic and hand-made certificate, bearing the gold seal of the college, was then passed around for everyone to see.

Mrs. W. C. Harris, treasurer, respectfully submitted a detailed summary of her annual report of receipts and disbursements, showing that $16.20 had been sent to Miss Brock on May 23, for dues and that $7.50 had been sent at the same time as a special gift to the college to be used for the alumnae endowment fund. An official receipt from the college was read and turned over to Mrs. Gullledge, with a copy of the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Gullledge then asked Mrs. Harris to make important announcements of interest to alumnae members, and Mrs. Harris responded by reading excerpts from the two or three letters she had received recently from Miss Brock.

Mrs. Gullledge named the following committee for next year: Program, Mrs. Brooks, chairman; Mrs. Douglas Creech and Mrs. S. Murray Hodges, Ways and Means, Mrs. R. Taylor, chairman; Mrs. J. C. Galloway and Mrs. Wiley Brown.

In Mrs. Gullledge's closing remarks she expressed her pleasure in having worked with the group in the past year, satisfaction in what we had been able to accomplish, hope for greater progress and better work in the coming year, and her thanks for the cooperation she said she had received.

Appreciation to Mr. Herman McLawhorn was expressed for his graciousness in allowing us the privilege of using his gardens for this delightful occasion, and a motion was carried to make this picnic feature of our programs an annual affair—an occasion to which we can look forward with an accumulation of pleasure from year to year.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Grant and Mrs. Wyatt Brown were special guests at this time.—Re ported.

RED OAK NEWS

Red Oak Club.

The Red Oak Club held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, June 7, with 43 present. The meeting was called to order by the president, "Little Sir Echo," a 4-H club song, was sung. The minutes of last meeting were read and as the roll was called, each member presented her gift to the club, some being cups, dessert saucers, glasses and money. Our leaders turned in very helpful reports on Canning, Gardening, Health, Sanitation, Poultry, etc.

Eighteen of our boys and girls from the Red Oak community reported a very wonderful week at White Lake. We surely do miss Miss Niece at our meetings, but we wish her "bon voyage." We can hardly wait for the interesting things that she will have to tell us about her trip. Won't it be interesting to know how the women of England, France, Switzerland and Germany carry on their projects?

We do wish to thank our many friends for contributions and those who have so unselfishly worked for the wonderful success we have had in our building. Interesting suggestions that were given us in June by solicitations, cakes, vanilla, candies, eggs, flowers, and a quilt, we have a total of $128.40 in our treasury.

Miss Inez Allen and Mrs. James Allen presented the skit (our county report) which they gave at the district meeting in Windsor.

Mrs. Pat Vainright most ably presented the subject for the afternoon, "Kitchen Walls." She gave illustrations showing the best type of walls suitable for the kitchen, keeping in mind that they must be easily cleaned.

After adjournment we were served buttered nuts, iced drinks and chicken salad sandwiches by our hostesses, Mesdames Amos, Godfrey, Herman Evans and Mrs. H. R. Savage.

Woman's Council Meets.

The Woman's Council of Red Oak Church held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, June 21, at the church with nine present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Travis Crawford, who then conducted the devotional exercises. Although a small audience, we welcomed Mr. Clifton Crawford as the speaker of the afternoon, who gave us a vivid account of the religious customs of India, as well as how they dressed and lived. As the Indians do not believe in killing anything, quite naturally there are in India many beasts and poisonous reptiles, among them the cobra. They believe a spirit lives in them, and so they are permitted to live. They thus cause many deaths among the natives. One little boy was held spell-bound as Mr. Crawford described the scene of an Indian gourd. Often times the snakes are found in the homes, probably hiding over the door to nip one as they go in.

There are many castes in India. These are designated by the way in which they dress—and also in the way they live. There is the caste of "The Untouchables." To be born of this race is unfortunate because they are thought to be unclean. If one has money it has to fall to the ground before another person can receive it. There is the instance of the child who fell into the well—an "untouchable" rescued her but when the parents found out who he was they drove him away and filled the well because they thought it had been polluted.

Living conditions are very crowded. Oftentime, 8 to 12 people are in one crowded room. These superstitions, customs and conditions are giving way in many instances to the teachings of Jesus Christ. They are becoming more westernized as the years pass by through the efforts of our foreign missionaries.

We thank Mr. Crawford and hope that he will be with us again.

Let's try to have a larger group for our next meeting. We missed you who were absent. Our next meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 18. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

—Mrs. James Allen.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—Was Al Jolson being a little acid with that trade ad of his on "Rose of Washington Square" in which he clicked a come-back? "I never knew I had so many friends," he said. (And Al ought to know—what with those years he wasn't doing much in pictures.)

How—times—have—changed—note: Time was when stars tried to hush it when they had voice doubles. Saw Olivia de Havilland on her home lot again (she's been on loan) and she said, "I came over for a voice-pitch test. . . . They're looking for a singing double for me in 'Elizabeth and Essex'."

How—times—have—NOT—changed—note: Gene Towne's new picture will wear the stamp, "The Play's the Thing Productions." Adolph Zukor, years ago said it "Famous Players in Famous Plays." Says Gene, who as a writer had a share of grief with producers and hence is on the spot: "The play must stand or fall on its own. No star can redeem a poor play. The powerful play brings out powerful performances, and powerful performances make stars—and four-star pictures. . . . Ambitious start, huh?"

Three lovely stiffs of lovely Louise Campbell bit the reject dust when they passed through studio inspection—looked too much like studio's Colbert. . . . But it was her "Star-Maker" banks that did it.

Ever see a nightmare walking? You will, around television studios, if they follow Max Factor, Jr.'s, "official make-up chart" for appearances, to wit: light tan foundation, jet black eyebrows and lashes, deep blue eyelids, bright red or white highlighting around the eyes, nostrils and neckline, dark red lipstick with blue undertone, and soft powdering on cheeks. . . . Factor's says this standard is observed in London, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Philadelphia telecasts.

"Babes in Toyland" will skip the Mormon leader's 27 rules, but not polygamy as a historical element in the film's background.

Brenda Joyce ("The Rains Came") has started out right, anyway. . . . Her first car since the landslide of luck that picked her from non-pro to Big Time is an expensive 1936 model. . . . "I won't go into debt for a car, and this is the best I can afford right now," she told the bosses who thought a glamorous gal ought to drive a glamorous-bug.

Through Cary Grant's hotel window on "Memory of Love" set at RKO an electric sign can be seen flashing "Hotel Imperial"—which is title of a Paramount picture. . . . Time was when such a coincidence could have spurred a merger rumor.

Wonder if Louis B. Mayer's new honorary degree—LL.D. from University of New Brunswick—is going to make him more the absent-minded prof when he's speech-making. . . . There's no man speaking more oblivious to time's passing than Joan Crawford is one up on Norma Shearer on "The Woman" set. . . . Joan has two canvas chairs to Norma's one. . . . And maybe you won't recognize the slim voluptuous corset model in one of Norma's

Witness Bond Fraud

Big Crosby's brother Everett, just back from a honeymoon in Europe, is shown in Federal court in New York after testifying that one of William P. Buckner, Jr.'s, co-defendants tried to persuade him in Hollywood last summer to contribute $35,000 to a "definitely off-color deal" involving the purchase of defaulted Philippine railway bonds.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York—I cannot tell a lie.

It's Roy Post's fault.

Roy took me into his little upstairs inner sanctum just off Fifth avenue. It's above the optician's shop which he runs and which his father ran before him. He sat me down in a chair before a cabinet not unlike a radio. He clamped little metal pads, like wrist watches without dials into the palms of my hands. I looked at the machine in front of me, where single arrows trembled in several dials.

"Watch that large one," he said, "while I ask you a few questions. Answer 'yes' or 'no'—take your choice—to every question I ask. Tell the truth or a lie, as it suits you."

And while that strange tingling that comes from facing the mysterious played up and down my spine, Roy Post told me where I was born, on what day, whether I was married, and gave me the answers to a dozen personal secrets that he couldn't possibly have known in advance.

Every time I lied—and I put all the subterfuge I know (which I must, in all modesty, admit, Roy isn't much) into my answers—Roy nailed me right before my eyes. Because that little needle on the big dial turned somersaults in spite of every effort on my part to keep it still.

That's half (I found out later) of Roy's success. The more you try to lie the worse off you are. "Hold Tight" would be a good theme song for the actions of those who try to beat Roy's lie detector. (He calls it a Truthometer, as well as a Post-meter)—but the lighter you hold, the bigger Mar you are and the trouble is you KNOW it!

Roy Post (and since I cannot tell a lie, that's not his real name, he having changed it to avoid the charge that he's seeking publicity for his spectacle business) has been an amateur detective for about 30 years. Perhaps I shouldn't call him an amateur since he's done a lot of professional work (mostly all grunts) and solved about as many crimes as the next fellow who spends all his earning time at it. For 15 years he has been dabbling with this lie detector idea and now he has got it—go tit well enough that he was invited to demonstrate the thing at the local World's Fair.

It's really an emotion meter and its delicate mechanism works on the infallible (says Roy) theory that the adrenal glands control all emotion. Since a person cannot live without them, it's no use to think you can get around the truthometer, unless you're dead—in which case, it really doesn't matter.

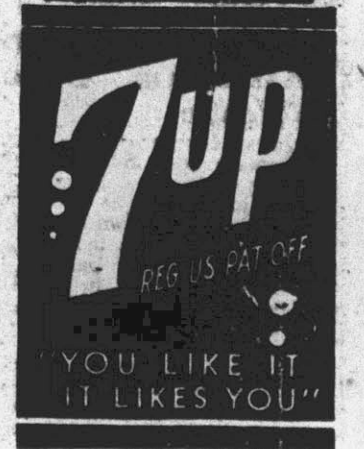

Roy's system of questioning is really so simple, it hurts to tell it. Suppose you (or I, let's don't get personal) had stolen $25. Roy wouldn't think of asking you whether you had stolen the money or not. He'd ask you a lot of questions about do you like chocolate ice cream sodas, and did you sit in the eighth row at the Roxy Saturday night, and could that house you live in possibly be on 88th street? And somehow, if you are $25 ahead of where you ought to be by honest toil, that little arrow will start jiggling all over the place and you'll say, "Call a steno, Mr. Post, I gotta confess." At least that's the way it has been too many times to recount.

Anyway, that's what Roy says—and sure as shootin', a guy who invented a diabolical machine like that wouldn't be booting the truth around, now would he?

Sunday School Lesson

By Rev. D. A. WINDHAM

We come now in our study to bid adieu to the greatest personality in the Christian era, one who stands head and shoulders above all others. When the city of Rome was burned the Christians were blamed for the conflagration and were seized in great numbers and cast into prison. Paul was seized in Nicopolis, a city of Epirus, and carried in chains to Rome over the famous African way. I have a photograph of that way in my home and the heart melts to tenderness when we look at ground touched by the feet of the loved apostle to the Gentiles. They could bind him in chains but they could never bind the Evangelist he preached.

The leaves have their time to fall when the north wind has turned them to red and gold and stars to set and then oh, death, spares neither youth nor manhood's prime.

Before closing these expositions on the life of St. Paul, let me direct a moment's attention, not to the whole, but in part to a few outstanding features in the life of this great man. One of the first features of his character as exemplified in his action is that perfect and undivided energy with which he devotes himself to one object. As a Jewish persecutor he did nothing but persecute; as a Christian apostle he did nothing but journey, visit, pray, preach and write. Even when it was necessary for him to work with his own hands he still continued to go into the synagogue on the Sabbath and persuade Jew and Gentile, and when this interval was passed with an individual energy he again devoted himself to his own work. Hear his own account in journeying, often weary and in pain; often in hunger and in thirst, in cold and heat, he moved on in his task.

It is unnecessary to make more than a passing remark upon the personal courage with which he was endowed which in prophetic view of "bonds and imprisonments" could easily reply "None of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself."

A truth once confirmed he never doubts; a prejudice once uprooted he never suffers to be replanted; a purpose once formed no obstruction can induce him to relax his efforts for its accomplishment. He acts as one who has "set the Lord before him" and whatever may betide him can never be unduly moved.

Every remarkable incident of his life exemplifies the readiness of the apostle. Take the example of his use of the Greek with Lysias and his immediate transition to the Hebrew when he addresses the Jews, who did not generally speak Hebrew but who held it in high reverence. His readiness to put forward his faith in the resurrection. Mark again his readiness and graphic accuracy with which he distinguishes between Felix and Agrippa, sizing at a glance the peculiarities of each, flattering neither, but conciliating both and with similar readiness he appeals to Caesar (Nero).

When the cowardly sailors were about the first to move, we find him detaining them on board at the agencies of the general safety and when the crew and passengers were alike exhausted with labor and fasting we find him again by precept, example and promise, cheering their drooping spirits; and when they had escaped from shipwreck with the same readiness "gathers a bundle of sticks and lays them on the fire"—and when bitten by a viper—the emblem of Satan's enmity when God's children escape from the moral storms he is permitted to raise; we find him unmoved, cast the venomous creature back into the fire the emblem of that judgment prepared for the devil and his angels.

Paul certainly stands assimilated to the character of our Lord beyond any other apostle. Our Lord was never taken unawares or unprepared. Paul in an eminent degree realized the promise of our Lord

Slain By 'Sadist'

The nude body of 12-year-old Henry Doto (above) of Buffalo, N. Y., was found in a dump of bushes near Port Erie, Ontario, and police said he was slain by a "sadist." His wrists were bound with rope and one arm had been cut. A man listed as Stewart Mighwender, 25, also of Buffalo, was held under guard in a Port Erie hospital while officers investigated the slaying.

because in an eminent degree he was filled with his spirit. We came now to the close of Paul's worldly life. As our Lord stood before Pilate alone for his disciples had forsaken him and fled; Paul stands before heartless Nero forsaken by all his friends. As the angel came to our Lord in the garden, so Christ came to Paul at his trial and spared him from the lions. No such horrible death must come

WILSON PLANS FOR BIG EVENT

Auctioneers "Tune Up" For Festival Contest

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 23.—Travelers in the tobacco growing sections of this and neighboring states who hear strange, weird noises emanating from houses, or from other unusual sources, need not conclude that the program of a well-known cigarette is being broadcast—it may be just one of the several hundred ambitious fellows warming up and getting in trim for the first World's Tobacco Auctioneer Championship, scheduled to be held at Wilson, July 18, in connection with the North Carolina Tobacco Festival.

There aren't too many folks actually engaged in this highly specialized vocation, but what is making nights hideous are the amateurs battling grimly and gamely to learn the tongue-twisting, ear-splitting song.

Dozens of professionals and goodness only knows how many amateurs are expected to participate, provided they don't strain their larynxes too much before the contest date.

Champions in both classes will be awarded trophies. Judging will not only be on "intelligibility," but also "eye action" and "hand action."

to him. The last chapter of Second Timothy is one of the most solemn charges ever written. Paul's death sentence had probably been signed by Nero and life's little day was soon to fade away into the silent night of death, and soon the footsteps of the prison guard would be heard coming for him, yet he was "ready to be offered up" or as it is in the Greek, "being offered up," and the time of my departure is at hand. Certainly he had "fought a good fight" even if it was at times a losing fight. He had finished his course and finished it well, and had kept the faith that in darkness would feel no doubt.

Though the executioner's cap could close his eyes for his death it would not hide the crown of life which the righteous Jude would give at his appearing. Though friends had forsaken, yet there was one who would be with him in six troubles and in the seventh would not leave him alone.

The valley might be cold and chill, the shadows might be deep and long; but in the language of the poet, "He would not have to cross Jordan alone."

On June 29th in A.D. 66, the guillotine fell and the soul of the noble saint winged its flight through the golden gates of life's crimson sun to somewhere out yonder where the Lamb is the light and where the surges cease to roll.

Consider Making Shrine Of Jefferson Davis Home

Bloom, Miss., June 21.—(AP)—Loyal Mississippi Sons and Confederate veterans see their chance at last to turn Beauvoir, Gulf Coast home of Jefferson Davis, into a shrine they hope will be the Mount Vernon of the South.

The old building, surrounded by oaks, cedars and magnolias, stands near here on the long highway bordering the Gulf.

For years the state has been supporting Beauvoir as a home for Southern veterans of the Civil War and the widows of veterans. Now only seven old soldiers and a few widows are left. Therefore, the state doesn't want to spend any more money keeping up the place.

The Sons want to take it over and Governor Hugh White promised to help them make the place a shrine for the South.

Davis bought the building in 1879 and there started his book, "The Rise and Fall of the Confederacy." He died in 1889 and four years later his body was sent to Richmond, Va.

After his death, Beauvoir fell into partial ruin, was rescued by the

If they are successful in really making it a shrine they will charge admission and in this way finance purchase of Davis furniture and relics and pay for research work on his life and the causes of the War Between the States.

In Japan women work as bus conductors and gasoline station attendants.

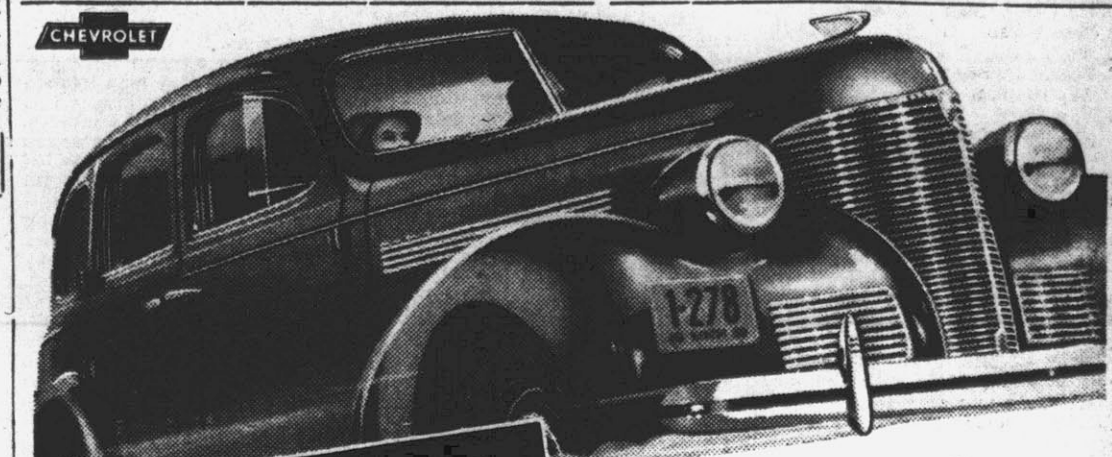

Japanese police statistics show that most crimes are committed by unemployed men.

Twenty-three states since 1921 have passed acts levying taxes on cigarettes.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington.—It would be hard to find a piece of legislation carrying more armor against attack than the new relief bill piloted through the House.

The House Appropriations committee knew it would find hearty opposition to any hard-headed control of relief spending, so it fell back for assistance on a device as old as the Congress — an investigation.
Nearly every piece of "liberal" legislation is preceded by a harrowing investigation to present to the public eye the evils to be trodden down.
This time the direction was somewhat the reverse of "liberal" as that term is interpreted these days. The committee had decided to be less liberal. It would abolish some of the "left wing" features that had crept into the relief business, such as the federal theater project and the writers' project. Also it would write into the bill some restraints on the administration of relief. And the committee decided that if an investigation was useful to the goose
it could be used by the gander.

THEATER PROJECT HIT

Probably most subject to public criticism was the federal theater project, centered largely in New York. The committee brought in witnesses who testified that it was a "hothead of communism."

Representative Woodrum of Virginia, who headed the investigation,
also presented the bill to the House
as acting chairman of the appropriations committee. He laid the whip on the theater project. He held out one of its productions, "Sing for Your Supper," as a horrible example. He thought it was naughty.
And out went the theater project.
"If there is a line in it that contributes to American culture," he said, "I will eat the whole manuscript of the bill it up to view." And it cost over $200,000 to produce.

Next in order the committee went after those who were described as making a career out of WPA. They discovered that 17 per cent of WPA employees in the country had been on the payroll for three years or more. In New York City, 44 per cent had been on WPA for three years or more.

So they ordered a rotation of jobs.
Those who have been on a long time will have to move off for a spell while some other deserving person goes on the payroll—that is,
if the Senate approves what the House has done.

New York City evidently was in for the stiffest trimming and the committee armed itself with evidence. It disclosed that some place in a park improvement project was an appropriation for a WPA exhibit at the World's Fair. Moreover, it found that skilled workmen not on the relief rolls had been permitted to work long enough to earn $200
to $250 a month of WPA money
where the top earnings were supposed to be limited to $85.

FURORE ON FAIRMS

Vociferous criticism has come from the country districts that the city relief rolls were faster than out at the cross roads. So a new system of apportioning the relief money among the states was framed to remedy that in part.

The one-man rule by Harry Hopkins prior to his appointment as secretary of commerce also had been a bright target for critics, so under the new bill a three-man
board would administer WPA.

The committee did not get by without a struggle. After the first day of debate in the House, the committee had to band together in emergency session and work out emergency bills to save major

Chapter 15

Invitation To The Ball

THE undivided attention of the entire company of freaks was now riveted on the shooting-gallery man and William. So was the undivided attention of the group of bystanders. The shooting-gallery man, evidently accustomed to publicity, bore up exceedingly well under these batteries of eyes.
Not so William. He began to feel acutely uncomfortable. Striving for nonchalance, he passed a finger around the inside of his collar.
Then, aware immediately that this gesture had failed to establish him
as a gentleman who is confidently at ease, he took off his hat and wiped his face with a handkerchief.

"See here," gurgled Pearl the snake-charmer, in the midst of this operation.
William reddened. His not to know that Pearl was merely giggling out of the lightness of her heart.

The shooting-gallery magnate spoke again, testily.
"Well, c'mon, c'mon," he said to Horace and Morris. "What's da matter wid you dopes?"

The fact that they were sent for seemed to dawn simultaneously on Horace and Morris East. They arose as one. As one they pushed their way through the assemblage of monstrosities. As one they covered the few feet to the edge of the platform. And Mr. William Steele, gazing at them with eyes that would have been notable even in the head of a flabbergasted goldfish, experienced a sudden sinking sensation. He gripped the platform with both hands and turned to the shooting-gallery man.

"Good gosh," he exclaimed
hoarsely, "what is it?"

The shooting-gallery man was a stickler for facts.
"It ain't an 'it,'" he corrected.
"It's two of 'em."

"Yes, I see. B-but..."

"Aw," said the shooting-gallery man, "what's da matter? Ain't ya never seen Siamese twins before?"

Came the dawn for Mr. William Steele of California. At long last he understood the mystery of those perplexing letters after the name of the East brothers in the Manhattan telephone directory. He was suddenly aware of the reason for the sinister leer and cryptic
speech of the delicatessen man.
And he was likewise aware that,
unless he wanted to drop one thousand cold smackers, he would appear in due course in a fashionable section of Long Island looking like the guy who invented that useful crack anent two birds and but a single stone.

Recovering somewhat from his astonishment, he now took time out and studied the Messrs. East.
They were small men, smooth-faced and owlish of eye. Separated from the other, either would have been a Grade A nonentity. They got across purely because they were joined together. Morris lay a short degree to the left of Horace and at a weird, oblique angle. Horace returned the compliment by striking off a short degree to the right of Morris at a similar angle.
To add to the confusion, they were dead ringers for each other. Further than that, through long and close association perhaps, they had formed the habit of acting simultaneously. Did Horace cough, Morris did likewise. Were Morris to incline his head in one direction, Horace felt it incumbent to incline his head in the same direction. In Horace's nose twitched slightly, so did the nose of Morris.

Verbal Bait

THE shooting-gallery man made
a tall talk.
"Dey was born dis way," said
the shooting-gallery man, with a certain ill-concealed satisfaction.
William turned to the East brothers.

"Is that a fact?" he said pleasantly.
"Absolutely," said Mr. Horace
East.

"Positively," said Mr. Morris
East.

"Morris," said Horace, "be quiet."

"But I only said..."
An exasperated expression
crossed the face of Horace East.

"Morris," he demanded sharply,
"who is the brains of the act?"

"Why—er—oh, I suppose you are," said Morris gloomily.
"Exactly. Now will you be quiet and let me handle this?"

Mr. William Steele, the first fine
flush of his embarrassment gone, had been probing the recesses of his mind for some enticing verbal bait with which to lure Horace and Morris East to Long Island and still abide by the rules of the game of North, South, East and West. Nothing, however, of a very exhilarating nature had occurred to him. But he realized that he was on the spot here.

"Listen," he said abruptly, "you fellows want to go on a swell loop?" He was aware, as he spoke,
that this reference to festivities might be construed as a breach of the rules. But, for the moment, he waived the rules. William was feeling hard-pressed.

"Loop?" said the section of the East brothers known as Horace, blankly.

"Yes. You know, sort of a party."

Continued tomorrow.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, June 23.—Those who attended North Carolina Day at the New York World's Fair came back with the assertion that Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell and Raleigh Attorney J. M. Broughton stole a march on all the other candidates for governorship by being on hand for the gala occasion
in the big city.

There were more North Carolinians there than could possibly have been found in any other one spot, it is declared, and Lieut. Gov.
Wilkins Horton, Mayor Tom Cooper
and the other would-be tenants of the Governor's Mansion missed a good bet by not being there—even though absentee voting will not be permitted in the 1940 primary.

Governor Clyde Hoy said much of the credit for the success of North Carolina Day to Bill Sharp, head of the News Bureau of the Department of Conservation and Development; though, of course, His Excellency doesn't mean that Bill was the whole cheese by any means.

Yet the fact that New York papers and other out-of-state journals gave North Carolina such a good press is attributed quite justly to Bill's indefatigable efforts and his knowledge of the newspaper game.

That Mr. Fortel, who couldn't forget the sex of his offspring,
ought to change his name.

No six or seven men are going to die in the gas chamber at central prison on July 7, despite the fact that is the schedule now.

"We don't want any such wholesale slaughter," said the governor in making it clear there will be some reprieves, at least, if no commutations.

Governor's Secretary Bob Thompson is sporting "the cutest" straw hat, marked "Fifth Avenue" inside;
but close questioning revealed it wasn't bought in the metropolis during Bob's visit to the World's Fair. The hat is Fifth Avenue, but it was bought on Fayetteville street
in Raleigh, it seems.

Walter Dustman, able United Press news gatherer is back on the job after a vacation in his home
city—New Orleans.

He says it isn't quite as hot here
as it was there; and adds that political scandals in the Pelican state are hotter than the weather anywhere.

North Carolina is afflicted with a few dumb officials, but practically nobody questions their integrity,
which gives us Tar Heels something else to brag about.

Soundest and wisest judicial decision this column has noted lately was action of Judge "Buck" Harris, hearing a long legal argument in New Hanover Superior court, in moving the courtroom down to the breezy porches of the Ocean Terrace
Hotel at Wrightsville Beach.

Verily a Daniel come to judgment.

North Carolina's State Employment Service has only 1.7 per cent of those registered with state services throughout the nation; but it has placed 2.7 per cent of all those for whom jobs have been found during May.

Incidentally, the average gain in placements for all offices was 52 per cent over May of 1938.

GENERAL FUND REVENUES TO EXCEED $34,500,000

Governor Clyde Hoy said he prefers not to make any statement on the subject of possible diversion or upon the general budgetary outlook because "I might have to take it all back and recede from an announced position" if the Dayton study shows expenses heavier than anticipated.

The Maxwell statement of expected revenue was based on reports which show that July revenue is likely to be something more than was estimated even a few weeks ago.
Sales tax receipts, the commissioner said, are holding a steady lead of something like $100,000 over last June's returns; and the prospects
now are that the year's sales tax collections will not lag far behind those for 1937-38, though it is highly improbable that they will quite reach the $11,134,333 collected in the last named year.

Through May, sales tax collections amounted to $10,065,759 or approximately $250,000 less than during the first 11 months of the previous year. Should this month's collections prove $100,000 higher than last June's, the year's decrease will be cut to less than $150,000, perhaps to less than $100,000 if final days of the month bring returns as favorable as those of the day immediately following the 15th.

It seems safe to predict now that the year's sales tax revenue will reach $11,000,000, as compared with the original estimate of $9,612,000.

Commissioner Maxwell attributes increased tax collections to better business trends in North Carolina.
He has been in many sections of the state recently and reports that there seems an unquestioned pickup almost everywhere.

He cited improvement in the textile business and unusually fine sales
at High Point's Furniture Expon-sition as among concrete examples of improvement.

He pointed out that the two best indices of business—sales tax and gasoline gallonage tax receipts—are both moving steadily upward. The gas tax has increased steadily almost every month of the current fiscal year, while the sales tax collections did a complete about face in January, since when they have shown a consistent gain as oppos-

to a consistent monthly loss for the first half of the year.

You Can Look Now—Greenville Is On Top Again

LOCALS DIVIDE WITH THE BUGS

Farmville Is Guest of City at Tonight's Ball Game

Yes, Greenville's on top again. They elevated themselves to the upper bracket yesterday by virtue of dividing a twin bill with Mule Shirley's Goldsboro Gold Bugs.

Rube and his boys took a thrilling afternoon affair by the small score of 2-1, but sustained an 8-3 defeat in the nighttime.

Greenville has Wilson to thank for today's top-place honors, in that the Tobs. trounced Williamston's Martins, who were "up there" yesterday, by the close score of 9-8.

Three eighth-inning errors enabled Greenville to forge to the front with an extra run to win the afternoon game. The score became deadlocked at 1-1 after Lefty Lightning Spence of Greenville and Granly of Goldsboro got mixed in an exciting pitching argument.

The score became tied by the Greens in the fourth frame via Manager Wilson's double, an infield out, and Daniels' single to right field.

Everything that can possibly happen to any pitcher took place last night in Hoodie Riggs' performance on the mound. There were walks, hits by pitched balls, balks and other things.

One of the most thrilling phases of the night affair was a round-tripper by Catcher Vincent Smith.

"Tonight the Greens will play the Bugs in the Guy Smith stadium. Greenville will play host to Farmville in tonight's doings, which has been termed 'Farmville Night.' Residents of Farmville and community are being admitted to tonight's game free of cost, tickets having been distributed during the past week.

The league-leading Royal Crown softball team was upset last night by Carolina Sales, which won by a score of 5-1. The Sales team got off to a good start, scoring four runs in the initial frame, and were never overtaken. The winners added one more in the sixth, the same inning in which the Royal Crown team pushed across its single tally.

The Gulf team defeated Carolina Dairy by the one-sided score of 14-3 in the other contest of the evening. Gulf's big frame was in the second, when it made 10 tallies.

AQUATIC MEET IS SCHEDULED

Local Juniors And Midgets to Meet Goldsboro Teams

Vernon Ward, Greenville swimming coach, today announced that the Greenville Junior and Midget swimming teams will meet Goldsboro at the municipal pool Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Goldsboro will bring a well-trained aggregation of swimmers 14 years old and under. The Greenville teams have been organized only three weeks, and most of the local tanksters are inexperienced, never having competed in a meet before.

Larry Brown and Billy Turner look strong for the Greenville junior boys, while Jean Harrington, who starred in last year's meets, is showing good for the junior girls. Jimmie Cox, Gene Baker, Bobb, Earhart and Mary Whichard are the outstanding Midgets. All Juniors and Midgets must present birth certificates before the

Here's how to get rid of them. First, keep the floor under the sink, refrigerator, stove, etc., free from dampness and food particles. That's what attracts bugs. Second, get a can of Bee Brand Insect Powder. Sprinkle it in all corners, back of and under the sink, refrigerator, stove, etc., and around openings where pipes go through the floor. Blow it into cracks and crevices, back of and under wall boards. When roaches scurry out, give them another dose of powder. Third, sprinkle

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 23.—(AP)—A little short covering and quick-turn buying, based on the belief sellers were about of ammunition, enabled selected stocks to put on a modest rally in today's market.

Closing prices, however, were under the best and an assortment of small minus signs were in evidence. Transfers of about 475,000 shares were among the largest in several sessions.

Farming Was Never Quite Like This

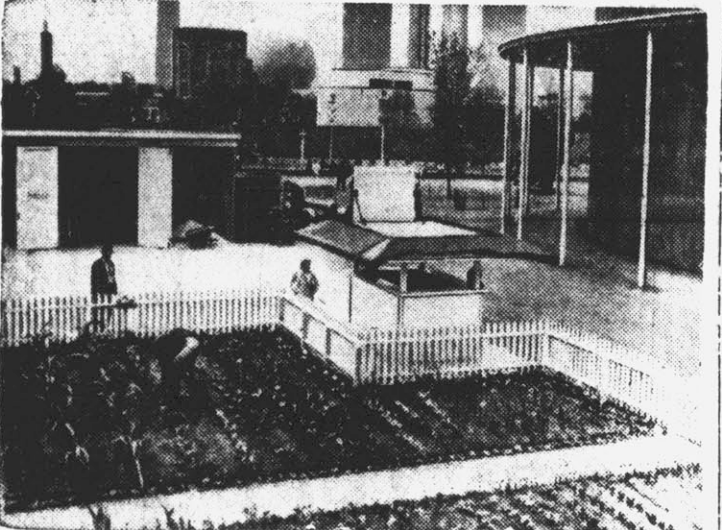

By The AP Feature Service
Meet the Jesse Moultons. They're farmers, but you don't find many like them. Their farm is only one acre and it's set right in the middle of the New York fair. They run the farm in full sight of thousands of people and when the fair closes down for the night, they go to sleep in the shadow of the Perisphere.

MR. MOULTON, shown at the farm's machine for preserving vegetables by quick freezing, does mostly administrative work. Fourteen young men from agricultural schools handle the chores and answer questions.

THIS VIEW is what Mrs. Moulton sees when she looks up from her reading. Foreground, the Moulton's vegetable patch. Background, the Perisphere. Visitors get a good view of the first floor of the two-story white cottage through huge glass windows in every room. The house is specially designed as a model, modern farmhouse. There's even an office and bath just off the back terrace where a farmer can do desk work—and change clothes before entering the house proper.

THE HOUSE gets a lot of attention from grownups—and the kids like the cows. Since the ground floor of the model house is on exhibit the Moultons live in the upstairs rooms, which are private. But visitors are so curious about what's upstairs that they run right up unless the door is kept locked. Moulton says city visitors have been more numerous than farmers—but they pay more attention to the house and its electrical appliances than to the farming angles.

SPANISH PILGRIMAGE—When some 3,000 Spanish soldiers visited the Vatican in Rome recently, they were given an audience by Pope Pius XII, whose ring is being kissed (above) by General Gambara. Gambara served under Franco.

ED. L. CLOYD

Edward Lamar Cloyd, dean of students at North Carolina State College, will be offered as a candidate for governor of the Carolinas' Kiwanis District at the annual district meeting to be held in Raleigh this fall. Ed Cloyd was president of the Raleigh club in 1935, lieutenant-governor of the Fifth Division in 1936, and has attended each district convention since his election as president of the Raleigh organization.

He has a memorable record in the Kiwanis work since 1932, serving on a number of important club, district and international committees and having attended international conventions at San Antonio, Texas, in 1935; Washington, D. C. in 1936, and Boston in 1939.

Born at Lenoir in Caldwell county, North Carolina, in 1891, Ed Cloyd was educated in the private and public schools of his home community and was graduated from State College in June, 1915. After teaching in the Lenoir High school, he entered commercial work, but returned to State College in 1918 as an instructor in the mechanical engineering department. He was appointed dean of students in September, 1921, and was awarded the Master's degree in 1927. He is a member of several scholarships and honorary fraternities, an elder in the West Raleigh Presbyterian Church, and a member of the North Carolina vocational guidance committee.

Dean Cloyd is known in Raleigh and throughout his home state for his interest in civic affairs, particularly in vocational guidance for young people. He has been active, also, on committees having for their purpose the support of churches in their spiritual aims.

The candidacy of the Raleigh Kiwanian has the active and unanimous support of his home club.

PLAN DRIVERS' SCHOOLS IN FIVE MORE N. C. CITIES

shows that the class is beginning to achieve results which will be easily appreciable.

Other cities with white classes are Asheville, Durham, Fayetteville, High Point, New Bern, Wilmington. Classes for Negroes are conducted in Raleigh and New Bern.

Donald Hocutt, director of the Safety Division, believes the WPA-sponsored drivers' classes are one of the most potent safety factors in his entire program of education.

Little Red Hen Is A Help To Horses

By The AP Feature Service

Des Moines, Ia.—Ewes led by the Little Red Hen have a major role in the nationwide fight to keep Old Dobbin from coming down with sleeping sickness (equine encephalomyelitis), which killed an estimated 30,000 horses last year.

Scientists recently perfected a vaccine derived from embryos of incubating chicks which produces, in horses, an immunity to the often deadly germ.

Loss Heaviest in Iowa

Federal agriculture department records on 30,000 vaccinated horses showed only half of one per cent developed the disease.

Veterinarians estimate the disease attacked around 150,000 horses in 39 states last year. About one-fifth of the cases were fatal, they report. Heaviest loss was in Iowa, where already more than 100,000 animals have been inoculated this year.

A vaccine produced from the brains of horses was used formerly. The new product can be produced in greater quantities and at a lower cost. Dr. K. W. Stouder, Iowa State College extension veterinarian, explains. In addition, he notes, it has proved to be more effective in raising resistance to infection.

Fly and Mosquito

Veterinarians believe the virus is transmitted to horses by insects, notably the fly and mosquito. Research workers have reported that in southwestern Massachusetts the virus found in horses was of the same type as that discovered in the brains of five children who died of sleeping sickness.

The pictures illustrate steps in warding off the disease.
