WOULD REDUCE EXEMPTION ON INCOME TAXES

Garner Said To Be In Favor of Such Changes

SUGGESTS B A S E AS LOW AS $500.00

Would Slash Exemption for married persons to $1,200; Single Persons to $500

Washington, June 24. (AP)—Vice-President Garner is suggesting that Congress make drastic reductions in income tax exemptions at the next session, it was reliably reported today.

Garner contends, it was said, that the present $2,500 exemption for married couples should be slashed to $1,200 and that the $1,000 exemption for single persons should be reduced to $500.

In most cases this would increase the existing tax on married couples with incomes above $2,500 by $52 a year and the tax on single individuals with incomes above $1,000 by $29 a year.

The proposed changes would bring more than 2,000,000 "little fellows" under the federal income tax structure.

Informal persons said the Vice-President thinks a broadening of the income tax base would have two distinct benefits, that it would help narrow the federal operating deficit and make a more equitable distribution of the effects of deficit spending.

Mr. Garner, it was said, ultimately would result in pressure on Congress to reduce spending and balance the budget.

Meanwhile a slight feeling of relief thrives with respect in the State Department over the return next month of Admiral Harry Yarnell from the troubled Far East.

The Asiatic fleet commander has been saying "no" to the Japanese in China so firmly for nearly three years that the diplomats at times have sighed.

Secretary Hull backed him up quickly last Thursday when he rejected a Japanese warning to evacuate "third power" vessels from the harbor at Swatow and instead sent more American warships to the scene.

Also, Major General Schley, chief of army engineers, recommended to Congress modified plans for the channel connecting Thoroughfare bay with Cedar bay, N. C., estimated to cost $20,000.

The altered project would provide a depth of seven feet and increase the width at the channel ends.

Stone May Be Lost Colony Clue

For three hundred and forty-eight years the world has wondered what became of Virginia Dare, first white child born in America; her parents and other colonists who mysteriously vanished from Roanoke Island, North Carolina, in 1591. At last Dr. H. J. Pearce, president of Brenau College at Gainesville, Ga., has come into possession of what he regards as a clue. It is a roughly carved granite slab which he believes may prove to be the gravestone of Virginia. Signed with the name of Eleanor Dare, mother of Virginia, the stone bears inscriptions telling of the massacre of the colonists by Indians. Dr. Pearce is shown examining the slab which was found near Edenton, N. C., in 1937.

Senate To Vote Monday On Silver Price-Fixing

'KIDNAP' NOTE BELIEVED FAKE

Letter Thrown From Car Signed 'Gloria Vanderbilt'

Newland, N. C., June 24.—(AP)—Sheriff W. H. Hughes said today he believed a "kidnap" note reported thrown from a passing car at Elk Park was a prank.

He said G. B. Henry Henry, a utility station operator, reported yesterday this message was tossed from a vehicle near his station:

"Have been kidnaped by John Barrow gang and believe we are heading for Knoxville. Please notify police."

The note was signed "Gloria Vanderbilt," the sheriff was told.

"I don't see how she could have written that note if she had really been kidnaped," Hughes said.

He said that he had ordered neighboring officers notified.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 24.—(AP)—Authorities withdrew late last night from the Johnston City highway a force which had been sent out to intercept an automobile following reports of a kidnap note signed "Gloria Vanderbilt," thrown from a car at Elk Park, N. C.

Powell Is Goat When He Could Have Been a Hero

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, June 24. Charles G. Powell, chairman of the North Carolina Unemployment Compensation Commission, is again the "goat" in another sensational incident.

This time he is having more heat turned on him than was turned on the score of girls in his department who have fainted during the current hot spell.

Raleigh's morning newspaper, which delights in getting on somebody and staying there, is calling for Mr. Powell's resignation and generally raising all the row it can over the situation.

Yet if the thing is given calm, clear consideration it is difficult to pin any real fault on Mr. Powell's coat tail; though it is abundantly clear that he, as well as his commission partner, Mrs. J. B. Spillman, has missed a golden opportunity to become Public Hero No. 1 instead of the villain of the piece.

NIPPON ACTION IS CONDEMNED AS INSULTING

Chamberlain Terms Attitude As High-Handed

MAKES ADDRESS AT PARTY RALLY

Prime Minister Again Expresses Hope For Local Settlement Of Dispute

Cardiff, Wales, June 24.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain characterized today Japanese action in Tientsin as "high-handed and intolerably insulting" in a speech advising Tokyo "no British government could submit to dictation from another power as to its foreign policy."

The prime minister made a brief reference to the international situation in an address at an open-air Conservative party rally in Cardiff, which attracted thousands of his political supporters.

Chamberlain again expressed hope for a local adjustment of the trouble in Tientsin, where the Japanese were blockading the British and French concessions.

"A local dispute between ourselves and the Japanese over the alleged complicity of certain Chinese in a murder," he said, "has been followed by a blockade of the British and French concessions in Tientsin and by high-handed and intolerably insulting treatment of British subjects by Japanese soldiers."

"The matter is further complicated by public statements on the part of local Japanese officials making the incident a pretext for far-reaching and quite inadmissible claims for an alteration of the policy which we and other governments hitherto followed in these regions."

"It ought to be possible to settle it (the incident) by negotiations. I'm bound to add that no British government could submit to dictation from another power as to its foreign policy and I trust, therefore, that we are right in supposing no such intention is in the mind of the Japanese government."

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—Western Senators agreed today to end their lengthy speech-making on the administration's monetary bill by voting Monday on a silver price-fixing amendment.

Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky, obtained the agreement for a vote on the amendment, sponsored by Senator Pittman (D-Ne.) after the Senate had to send its sergeant of arms out to round up enough members to conduct business at the unusual Saturday session.

The amendment would require the Secretary of the Treasury to pay $1.27 an ounce for domestic silver, compared with the present price of 64.64 under the silver purchase program, continuation of which beyond the June 30 expiration date is provided in the monetary bill.

The agreement to vote was obtained after Majority Leader Barkley reprimanded the Senate for the half hour delay in obtaining a quorum of 49 members.

The fight over monetary legislation which extends for two years, the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and presidential powers for further gold devaluation, has threatened to hold up other important legislation that the administration wants passed before July 1, including the $1,700,000,000 relief bill.

Key Men In Roosevelt's Lending Program

John J. Carmody (left) of New York, chief of the Rural Electrification Authority, was nominated by President Roosevelt to head the new Federal Works Agency, one of the two key positions in the President's proposed $3,860,000,000 lending program.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt named Jesse H. Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to the other key position as administrator of the Federal Loan Agency. Adjusting his hat, Jones is shown leaving the White House after his nomination.

CITY OFFICIAL CLUB SPEAKER

M. L. Westmoreland Addresses Local Kiwanians

Marvin L. Westmoreland, finance officer and purchasing agent for Greenville, addressing the Kiwanis Club last night, related some of the difficulties encountered by municipalities in appropriating funds to the many causes presented to them.

"Many times cities are called upon to do certain things which would appear simple, but under the law are forbidden, although the governing body be in full accord with the project," declared the city official.

He explained that under the law few expenses are considered "necessary," pointing out that the State Supreme court had held that expenditures for schools are not a necessity. Mr. Westmoreland said this appeared unusual in that members of the tribunal were educated in the public schools.

This is just one incident among many, he declared. Apparently it would seem that cities could go ahead with school improvements, but they are restricted under the law, he added.

"Necessary" expenditures are limited to only a few undertakings, he said, including health and public welfare, such as police and fire protection.

The speaker related that much legislation had been enacted in recent years, as well as the recent constitutional amendment, as to debts which vitally affect municipal governments.

He declared that the fiscal control act was "very helpful" in the control of budget requirements, appropriations and the safeguards under the act which requires municipalities to stay within their budget appropriations.

Mayor M. K. Blount introduced Westmoreland as "One of the best informed young men on municipal government in North Carolina." Westmoreland served as accountant for the city of Charlotte for five years and as assistant accountant for the same number of years. "In these capacities," declared Mayor Blount, "he was able to familiarize himself with the operations of municipal government."

Revenue from rural lines during the year 1935 totaled $21,485.95, while last year it amounted to $39,559.12.

Mr. Swartz explained that all rural lines operated by the Greenville-owned plant were self-supporting.

It also was revealed that the average monthly consumption per rural customer in 1935 was 593 k.w.h. and the average monthly bill was $3.24, while last year the average consumer used 792 k.w.h. and (Continued on page six)

The plane was flying at a low altitude in a general northeasterly direction.

Bank Depositors Squeezed Again Babson Says Savings Accounts Not Worth Much Any More

Babson Park, Mass., June 23.—Savings depositors are soon to get another kick in the pants. In certain states, interest on these accounts is to be slashed again to as low as one per cent in many cases. In some banks, depositors, whose accounts are below a certain minimum, will receive no interest. Cost of these reductions to bank depositors may run into hundreds of millions of dollars. This is a far cry from 10 years ago when banks begged people to deposit their money at four per cent interest.

All of the 45,000,000 owners of bank accounts realize that the return on their money has been drastically cut. I doubt, however, if many recognize the far-reaching social and economic effects of this decline in interest rates. One of the biggest contributions to our present standard of living was the thrift of our fathers and grandfathers. Up to 1925-1930, thrift and initiative were encouraged, while indolence and carelessness were penalized. Today, the trend is in the opposite direction.

This trend, rather than the dollars and cents in interest lost to depositors, is the really significant point about the drop in interest rates on savings accounts. Let me explain the importance of this trend by following the situation step-by-step. Why is it that banks must cut interest rates again and must stop paying interest on small accounts? The answer is easy. The banks do not want any more deposits or deposits which many people are not in-

Jack Whichard, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., set a record for other young boys to shoot at when he landed a 10-pound cello while fishing off Morehead City Wednesday morning.

Jack is following in the footsteps of his father, who in the summer of 1937 landed the season's largest cello, a 38-pounder.

Jack's brother, David, 12, also has quite a reputation as a fisherman. Two years ago he landed a four-pound cello.

REVEALS DATA ON RURAL LINE

Local Power Plant Serves 1,000 Rural Customers

Following the action of the Board of Aldermen yesterday in approving a loan contract for $50,000 with the Rural Electrification Authority with which to extend the local power plant's rural lines, Martin Swartz, superintendent of the commission, revealed today that the local utility had 1,056 country consumers on January 1 of this year.

The new extension will serve approximately 400 customers.

Records at the Water and Light Commission show that it had only 437 rural customers on January 1, 1935. On January 1, 1936, it had 640; on January 1, 1937, 809; on January 1, 1938, 991, and on January 1, 1939, 1,056.

The average monthly k.w.h. consumption per customer has increased from 45.9 in January, 1935, to 79.3 in January, this year. In the meantime, the average cost per k.w.h. has decreased from 0584 in January, 1935, to 393 in January, 1939.

Revenue from rural lines during the year 1935 totaled $21,485.95, while last year it amounted to $39,559.12.

Dr. Reynolds Urges Care If Sun Stroke Suffered

Raleigh, June 24.—In view of the extreme heat wave through which this section is passing and the fact that recurrences may be expected from now on, Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer, has issued a statement which, he said, is designed to refresh the public's memory as to the difference between sunstroke and heat prostration, point out the symptoms and suggest first aid treatment until a physician can be summoned.

"At the outset," Dr. Reynolds declared, "it is imperative to bear in mind that all cases, whether of sunstroke or heat prostration, should be classed as emergencies and that competent medical advice should be immediately sought. In the meantime, an exercise of first aid knowledge is necessary and, in the application of that knowledge, the first aider should bear in mind the very important fact that the response to the call must be rendered promptly, not hurriedly and excitedly, and that complete control and strict supervision over the patient should be established until he can be placed in the hands of a physician."

Dr. Reynolds, clearing up a point on which many people are not in-

TOWNSENDITES SUPPORT CHIEF

Threatened Revolt Causes Convention Uproar

Indianapolis, June 24.—(AP)—The national convention of the Townsend old-age pension clubs was thrown into an uproar today by invention from the speakers' platform of a threatened revolt against the leadership of Dr. Francis Townsend.

Waving flags, programs and hats, every one of the delegates in the packed 10,000-seat hall stood to cheer their 72-year-old leader and shout, "We're with you, and Down with Smith, he's not one of us."

The reference was to Harvey Smith of Covington, Ky., who had said he would lead a revolt against the organization's national officers. Smith was not present.

The demonstration came when John Weir of Los Angeles, convention chairman, asked the delegates their reaction to Smith's announced plans.

Threats of an "insurgent" convention, "possibly within a month," stirred the heat-harassed delegates as they faced another full schedule of oratory and looked forward to tonight's banquet, for which more than two miles of tables were lined up at the fair grounds.

Baxter G. Rankine, convention manager, said the Covington, Ky., club, of which Smith is president, had its charter suspended because of "protests of its own members over local administration of its activities."

Surviving are one son, J. D. Aman of Greenville; four daughters, Mrs. Vance Arnold, Greenville; Mrs. Henry King, Goldsboro; Mrs. Claude Morning, Beaufort, and Mrs. L. A. Morris of New Bern.

L. E. Smith, who was injured in an automobile accident in Washington, N. C., earlier this week, in which Chief of Police Waters was killed, is confined to Pitt General Hospital here with two broken arms.

Mr. Smith was brought to Greenville and it was at first believed he would remain at his home, but his condition was such that it was decided to take him to the local hospital.

Mrs. Smith, also injured in the wreck, is much improved and is up despite a cut on the head which required 14 stitches.

Using as their theme, "Support June Rose for State Commander of the American Legion," a large number of Legionnaires of the Greenville and Farmville posts of the Pitt county division of the American Legion began invading Raleigh today for the twenty-first annual state Legion convention starting tomorrow and lasting through Tuesday.

Pitt Legion Posts Off To Convention

Fourteen North Carolina Legion posts have already instructed their delegates to support the Greenville man, who is assured of support from other posts in the east and west.

Posts instructing support of their delegations were Franklinton, Louisburg, New Bern, Swansboro, Oxford, Henderson, Warrenton, Hyde County, Manteo, Washington, Tarboro, Plymouth, Greenville and Mount Olive.

JAPS TIGHTEN RESTRICTIONS IN CONCESSION

Tension Between Japan and Britain Increased

FOOD SHORTAGE FELT BY FRENCH

Temporary Martial Law Decreed For Jap Concession Adjoining French Area

Tientsin, June 24.—(AP)—Tension between Japanese and British communities in Tientsin mounted today with a general tightening of the restrictions by which Japanese have isolated the British and French concessions.

Japanese officers declared "temporary martial law" in the Japanese concession adjoining the French concession and cleared its main artery of all traffic. The move apparently was made because of the arrival of some high Japanese officials.

Earlier Japanese gendarmes had forced traffic in the area just outside the concession to a virtual standstill after reportedly discovering an attempt to smuggle in food.

Only a few Chinese were undertaking to pass the barriers into the British concession. In a drizzling rain they were searched with more than the usual thoroughness by the Japanese patrols.

The food scarcity continued. It became noticeable in the French area for the first time since Japanese imposed their blockade on June 14, when British authorities refused to hand over four alleged Chinese terrorists.

The French placed police guards about markets to prevent disorders among crowds of Chinese seeking food and to keep persons from buying more than the limited amounts allowed by newly imposed regulations.

For several days Mrs. R. E. Willoughby has suffered painful injuries received from a sprained ankle.

Upon her return from Montreal Monday night, Mrs. Gilbert Davis was called to Plymouth upon the death of a friend. She remained there all the week.

hot - stiflingly, strangelingly hot; and so when summer came on this year, Powell and Mrs. Spillman made one more effort to avert what they saw was coming. They knew that third floor was going to be even worse.

And so as early as the first week in May, a petition was circulated among the employees asking that summer working hours be established from 7 a. m. to 2 p. m. It was signed by practically the full force; nobody objecting and only those left off who for one reason or another were not approached.

Then Mrs. Spillman took the petition personally to Governor Clyde Hoey and discussed it with him, urging the many and manifest ad-advantages of the proposed hours. She was referred by the governor to Robert Deyton, who some days later told her that the commission might, of its own motion, dismiss some of the employees who work on the third floor a little earlier and let them start work a little earlier; but he refused the request, in the main, on the contention that the public outside of Raleigh expects the government offices to be open uniform hours, which in the summer time are from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., with an hour for lunch.

So that relief was cut off. Powell felt he couldn't operate the commission efficiently with varying hours for various groups of his employees—the duties are too closely co-ordinated, he said.

As a last resort, the Social Security Board was asked to furnish some score more electric fans, though there is general recognition that they would have done little more than stir hot air a little—there was already nearly 100 fans in operation on the third floor.

director of the division of contract and purchase back in early 1937. It is undisputed that even then Powell said they were "inadequate."

He had no say in the matter—just as he today hasn't any say as to quarters in which the 50-odd employment offices are located all over the state. The division of purchase and contract is solely charged with this responsibility.

In the next place, Powell protested when the original quarters, which were on the second floor, were extended to include the third floor. He sought transfer of the entire outfit to more commodious and better ventilated quarters.

When he was overruled he asked the Social Security Board (federal agency which pays the UCC's expenses and consequently is vested with control over what is and isn't spent) to approve an expenditure of approximately $3,500, for cooling units which would keep maximum temperatures on the third floor to about 85° rather than the 100 and up which have prevailed recently. The board refused his request.

He asked for $1,000 to cut windows in the south wall, which would give ventilation enough to keep down excessive heat. This, too, was refused.

And so there was Powell—in quarters against which he had protested and without the cooling agencies he had requested. There wasn't anything he could do about it except resign, and that wouldn't have remedied the conditions, just put him out of a job.

Last summer's experience, when the offices were confined to the second floor, showed that it gets Raleigh, June 24.—Anybody who thinks the First Congressional District isn't proud of its Representative Lindsay Warren should take just one peek at the program of the Hyde County Chamber of Commerce which has issued for "Lindsay C. Warren Week" at Ocracoke, July 3 to 8.

Typical is a page ad from the city of Washington (N. C.) which proclaims in big letters, "We are proud to be the home of Lindsay Warren," or words to that effect.

That Dur's feat in getting the Public Laws of 1939 into the hands of county clerks and others throughout the state before May 1, though the General Assembly did not adjourn until April 4, has received recognition in "State Government," publication of the Council of State Governments, in Chicago. The magazine says it is believed to be a speed record, not only for North Carolina but for the whole nation.

On the home front, however, that probably got himself into a bit of hot water by being so good in that case. Neither the "Public - Local Laws of 1939" nor the Journal of either House has yet been distributed, and folks are beginning to wonder "How come?"

The difference lies wholly in the publishing firms which got the contracts to do the printing. That which won the Publics of 1939 cooperated wholeheartedly in the speed effort. Those which got the others had not.

New member of the State Board of Agriculture Claude T. Hall was in Raleigh Friday. He told your correspondent about a mouse which killed a rattlesnake and promised to relate a "deer" story at some future date when his veracity has been sufficiently avouched.

Dudley, first governor of North Carolina elected by popular vote, 1836 (Wilmington); (3) Birthplace of George E. Badger, secretary of the navy, 1841 and U. S. Senator, 1846-55 (Craven county); (4) Site of State College, Raleigh; (5) Site of Wilcox Iron Works, important source of munitions during the American Revolution (Chatham county); (6) Birthplace of Thomas H. Benton, U. S. Senator from Missouri, 1821-51 (Orange county); (7) Cox's Mill, headquarters of David Fanning, noted Revolutionary War Tory leader (Randolph county); (8) Home of David S. Reid, governor 1851-54, Congressman and U. S. Senator (Richmond county); (9) House in which Stephen A. Douglas, Democratic presidential nominee, 1860, was married (Rockingham county); (10) Home of Alexander Martin, governor 1782-85 and 1789-92, office in Revolutionary War (Rockingham county); (11) The Troublesome Iron Works, where Greene camped in 1781, visited by Washington, 1791 (Rockingham county); and (12) Home of Benjamin Forsyth, officer in War of 1812, for whom Forsyth county was named (Forsyth).

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: After his first shock of discovery that Horace and the Siamese twins, Bill offers them $100 apiece to appear at the party. They accept, then dash away.

Chapter 18

Diffenderfer Himself

A SUDDEN grating noise behind Bill caused him to turn his head. And, in a blinding triumph of perception, William gathered the reason for the rout of his cohorts.

The reason was a huge individual in that distinctive genus of salt-and-pepper suit favored by hangers-on at Belmont Park and Pimlico. A brown felt hat, in a high state of disreputability, had slipped back from his massive shining forehead until it looked like a needy relation of one of the hanging gardens of Babylon. Tilted at an arrogant angle in a corner of his mouth was a half-smoked cigar. Beyond this the presence was noteworthy for taught save supreme unchuckiness and a protruding lower lip. William mistook the individual on sight. It became apparent presently that the individual mistook William.

For the space of two seconds he regarded Mr. Steele with disapproval. Then he removed the cigar from his mouth and spoke with a kind of brief brevity.

"You!" he said harshly. "Beat it!"

"Eh?" said William, blinking in surprise.

"You heard me!" averred the salt-and-pepper clad gentleman "Scram!"

William drew himself up. "And just why," he inquired, with hauteur, "should I scam?"

The paunchy gentleman approached two feet closer and lowered.

"Cause I'm tellin' you to," he said threateningly. "An' what's more, make it snappy. Unless you want to go out of here on your tin ear."

William gasped. This was a Torrid Terror of the Rose Bowl.

"Listen," he said cuttingly, "I don't know who you are and I don't want to. But you try throwing me out of here and I'll scramble your face like an egg. In fact, I'd enjoy scrambling your face. It's the kind of face that ought to be scrambled."

"It's a rotten face," said the man. "Yeah," confirmed William.

The big man took a puff of his cigar.

"Listen," he said gratingly, "you think I ain't wise who you are, you poor boob? You think I ain't hep that you're one of Bernie's guv's?"

"Bernie's guv's are they?" "You know darn well who Bernie's guv's are 'cause you're one of em," growled his antagonist, with irrefutable logic.

William made a diagnosis. "You're crazy," he said.

"Ha!" roared the elephant in the salt-and-pepper suit. "That's what you think. Well, let me tell you something, young fella! I ain't as crazy as I look. An' if you think Bernie Feldman can send the likes of you over here an' get away with stealin' my freaks, you're the one that's loony. An' Bernie Feldman, too," he added, with satisfaction.

"Bernie Feldman?" said Bill blankly. "Stealin' your freaks?"

The big man made a gesture of impatience. "Aw, cut the comedy! I's pose you're 'goin' to stand there an' tell me you ain't never heard of Bernie Feldman, that runs a freak show in South Brooklyn?"

"I've never heard of South Brooklyn," Bill said.

"'Dirty Work'?"

"'Gee that?'" he said, seeming to address Diffenderfers at large. "He ain't never heard of Bernie Feldman. He ain't never heard of South Brooklyn. Oh, no! He don't know anything about em. He's just him 'n' his freaks away from 'he house." Here the large man was forced to pause and blow his nose violently.

William leaned against the platform.

"I wonder," he said, "if you'd mind giving me the lowdown on this?"

"My?" An exasperated expression came to rest on his opponent's face. "You're from Bernie Feldman an' you've got the nerve to ask me for the lowdown. Listen, you know as well as I do that that dirty rotten skunk Bernie Feldman has been tryin' to pull fast one on me for the last twenty years, sendin' bums like you over to get my freaks so he can show 'em in his dump. Listen! When I had the Frog-Faced Phantom from Faraway France, who's him? Bernie sends a tramp over here to sneak him away from me. An' when the Wonder Woman from Walla-Walla, Washington was working for me, what happens? Bernie sends another tramp over. An' he tried to get the Howling Horned Hyena too. Fought 'em, he's gettin' in anger and disgust. He can't get nothin' or nobody unless Bernie Feldman sends some lug like you over here to pull dirty work. An' I got a snootful of it."

William surveyed him.

"Bernie ought to send somebody over to get that suit," he remarked.

"Huh?" "Oh, nothin'! I only said that it felt like rain."

"Rain, hey?" The big man thrust his face closer to William's. "Well, you got a swell chance of findin' out if it's rainin' or not. 'Cause I'm goin' to heave you out on your ear just as sure as my name's Diffenderfer."

"For your information," said Bill, "I don't know this Bernie Feldman and I don't work for him. And I'm not trying to get your freaks away from you. So keep your shirt on. And don't stick that dead fish you call a face so close to mine or I'm liable to forget myself and obliterate it."

"Aaaaah!" sneered Mr. Diffenderfer. "So you don't work for Bernie, eh? Then maybe you'll tell me this. What about that hundred bucks apiece you was offerin' them two heels Horace and Morris when I come up behind you?"

It seemed to be a sweeping Diffenderfer victory. William, opening his mouth to reply, perceived that he had no adequate reply. To explain his reason for favoring Horace and Morris East with a brace of century notes to this cross soul would be, he was certain, the height of folly. Mr. Diffenderfer, at his best, was doubtless a skeptic.

And the fact that he had overheard William mentioning money arrived upon his face. Mr. Diffenderfer, therefore he closed his mouth again and because he knew that words were expected of him and he had no words, he, in blank astonishment, looked at the looker-upon his face. Mr. Diffenderfer, noting his confusion, guffawed raucously.

Three Chins

HAD the Diffenderfer guffaw been alone and unsupported, William might have endured it. The trouble was that the guffaw received backing.

The freaks on the platform, perceiving now that their boss was making jokes, considered it the better part of valor to join in the hilarity. So did the group of bystanders who had likewise been an interested audience. The result was a symphony of laughter, ranging from the deep sonorous notes of the base to the trilling, fluting tones of the treble.

Mrs. Gussie Zilch, alias Madame Abdullah, the Fastest Woman In The World, emitted a sound as of a clock about to strike, slapped both knees simultaneously, threw back her head and gave herself up to a loud merriment after which, for an interminable period of time, her 660 pounds shook like a vat of blanc mague. The Light Lavender Lady From The Limpopo laughed with more politeness, yet uncontrollably, than any of the other women.

At this an expression which might have passed for a sardonic grin in the world of basiks appeared on the face under discussion. It spread in a kind of glassy horror.

"Oh, yeah?" said the big man. "Yeah," confirmed William.

The big man took a puff of his cigar.

"Listen," he said gratingly, "you think I ain't wise who you are, you poor boob? You think I ain't hep that you're one of Bernie's guv's?"

"Bernie's guv's are they?" "You know darn well who Bernie's guv's are 'cause you're one of em," growled his antagonist, with irrefutable logic.

William made a diagnosis. "You're crazy," he said.

"Ha!" roared the elephant in the salt-and-pepper suit. "That's what you think. Well, let me tell you something, young fella! I ain't as crazy as I look. An' if you think Bernie Feldman can send the likes of you over here an' get away with stealin' my freaks, you're the one that's loony. An' Bernie Feldman, too," he added, with satisfaction.

"Bernie Feldman?" said Bill blankly. "Stealin' your freaks?"

The big man made a gesture of impatience. "Aw, cut the comedy! I's pose you're 'goin' to stand there an' tell me you ain't never heard of Bernie Feldman, that runs a freak show in South Brooklyn?"

"I've never heard of South Brooklyn," Bill said.

"'Dirty Work'?"

"'Gee that?'" he said, seeming to address Diffenderfers at large. "He ain't never heard of Bernie Feldman. He ain't never heard of South Brooklyn. Oh, no! He don't know anything about em. He's just him 'n' his freaks away from 'he house." Here the large man was forced to pause and blow his nose violently.

William leaned against the platform.

"I wonder," he said, "if you'd mind giving me the lowdown on this?"

"My?" An exasperated expression came to rest on his opponent's face. "You're from Bernie Feldman an' you've got the nerve to ask me for the lowdown. Listen, you know as well as I do that that dirty rotten skunk Bernie Feldman has been tryin' to pull fast one on me for the last twenty years, sendin' bums like you over to get my freaks so he can show 'em in his dump. Listen! When I had the Frog-Faced Phantom from Faraway France, who's him? Bernie sends a tramp over here to sneak him away from me. An' when the Wonder Woman from Walla-Walla, Washington was working for me, what happens? Bernie sends another tramp over. An' he tried to get the Howling Horned Hyena too. Fought 'em, he's gettin' in anger and disgust. He can't get nothin' or nobody unless Bernie Feldman sends some lug like you over here to pull dirty work. An' I got a snootful of it."

William surveyed him.

"Bernie ought to send somebody over to get that suit," he remarked.

"Huh?" "Oh, nothin'! I only said that it felt like rain."

Why do they not want more deposits? Because they cannot invest money with safety and get a sufficient return to pay 2 or 3 1/2 per cent on their deposits. There are only a few ways in which banks can invest their money—bonds, real estate and commercial loans. Just glance at these outlets for banks' money and you will see that they have no choice but to cut their interest rates.

Good $1000 bonds, for instance, carrying a coupon of 3 1/2 per cent, are selling for $1,100. This means that banks have to pay a $100 premium for the privilege of investing their money at 3 1/2 per cent. Banks have been discouraged from making real estate loans except through the FHA. Even here, interest rates are being cut 4 1/2 and 4 3/4 per cent. If a bank can loan money to a good reputable business concern on a short-term basis at 2 per cent it is lucky. As far as government bonds are concerned, banks are fortunate if they can get a 1 per cent return.

The next question is: Why are these interest rates so low? In the first place, the banks have more cash on hand than they ever had in their history. In the second place, with the exception of the government, no one wants to borrow this money. However, there are so many banks and other institutions crazy to gobble up every new government loan that the returns on government bonds are at an all-time historical low. Money rates on business loans are extremely easy because business men do not need to borrow money—they are not expanding nor are they starting new businesses.

Taxes Big Handicap

The next question is: Why are business men not starting new businesses and expanding their present businesses? The biggest reason is our tax system. The tax handicap why Congress and state and local authorities do not correct it. When business men borrow money to start new businesses and to provide new jobs, no one helps them if they fail; but when they succeed, the tax authorities take practically all the profits away from them.

These business men know that they can now retire with enough to provide for themselves and family even though their income has been sharply reduced. So, why take chances on a "heads-you-win, tails-you-lose" basis? Not until the capital gains tax is drastically reduced will we see new businesses started and existing businesses expanding. If addition, there are hundreds of other taxes which retard business. Some of these, however, are now being adjusted by Congress.

Furthermore, our labor laws in their present form are stifling jobs and holding back employers. The Unemployment Compensation tax of 3 per cent, the Wage and Hour act with its overtime provisions, the one-sided Wagner Labor act, all discourage employers from expanding or starting new businesses, limiting opportunities for profitable investment of bank deposits, and handicapping the creation of new jobs for the unemployed.

Because of this, unemployment holds close to its all-time peak. Someone has to provide welfare and relief for the jobless and the government has taken over the task. So on the one hand the government is discouraging employers, and on the other hand is spending billions of taxpayers' money to provide relief for the unemployed.

Therefore, demand for money and the opportunities for profitable investment of bank deposits are constantly becoming less and less. So banks have to cut their interest on deposits. This discourages people from building up reserves and encourages them to spend their money on frills and wasteful luxuries. When these people lose their jobs or get into difficulties, they have to come to the government for help.

A Smile, Please, Governor!

After a sleepless night spent in political conferences in preparation for him to become governor of Louisiana next week, Gov. Earl K. Long found it a bit difficult to muster a smile for his pretty wife to take his picture in New Orleans. Gov. Richard W. Latta has announced he will resign June 26 and Long will succeed him.

thus adding to government expenses, causing higher taxes, further discouraging employers and limiting opportunities for bank loans—and on around the vicious circle again.

Sieminski Balks In 11th To Give Greenies a 7-6 Win

BLACK'S ERROR TIES UP SCORE

Harry Jenkins Blasts 390-Foot Homer Over Center

By JAMES WHITFIELD
Sieminski balked in the eleventh inning last night, scoring King who had singled and advanced to third via Allen's single, to give Wilson's Greenies a 7-6 win over Mile Shirley's Gold Bugs.

An estimated 1,700 fans were on hand for last night's jamboree, about 800 of this number being Farmville residents who were here in celebration of "Farmville Night" as hosts of the local club.

Greenville held a 6-4 lead until the ninth inning, at which time the Bugs came through with a pair of failures to deadlock the score at 6-4. Glenn Mullinax blasted a 350-foot homer over the right field wall for the first run of this verse and Arnette singled, advanced to second when Overton reached first on Jenkins' error and scored when Shirley got on via Black's error.

Allen, the first batter to confront Goldsboro's X. Brown, was hit by a pitched ball. Black and Heavener walked to load the sacks. Allen scored on Heavener's sacrifice fly to center and Harry Jenkins poled a 390-foot homer over the centerfield fence two abrad. This was the first homer over center since the fence was moved back.

Goldsboro made a slight scoring spurt in the second inning when Blaylock doubled and scored on Pawlock's single to left. A double was also hit in the first inning, but Vaughn who got the blow went further than third, in that Arnette hit into a double play. Arnette also hit into a double play in the fifth inning.

Rube's boys matched the Bugs' second inning tally in their half of the second when Morris Wilson singled, advanced to third on Gracie Allen's double and scored on Black's sacrifice to center.

Wilson, starting hurler, was yanked in the sixth inning after the visitors scored two runs on a single by Peele, scoring Capps who singled and Overton who doubled. Don King relieved Breezy Beard, who went in for Wilson, after Goldsboro had reached him for a trio of runs to deadlock the score. King allowed one hit in three verses.

Wilson continued its efforts to regain the Coastal Plain pinnacle yesterday by turning back New Bern 8-5 in a game that produced an identical score the day before. Peahead Walker's Billies won the game in the "lucky seventh" when Harry Soufas, Joe Bistoff's home run twin, hit for the circuit with two aboard in this verse. The Bears were unable to go ahead after that. It was Ladies Day at Wilson, but that didn't keep Manager Frank Rodgers from making a "Wilson Day" out of the affair as the Tobs won 5-1 in the second phase of a two-game series. Kingston's Ople Pace settled down to a thrilling pitching performance as the Eagles trounced Tarboro by the close score of 2-1.

Guy Smith Stadium

Wilson Stadium To Be Dedicated Next Wednesday

From WPA workers, Wilson has obtained the above new ball park, athletic field, which is to be dedicated Wednesday afternoon, June 28, at 3 o'clock, when Wilson and Williamston ball clubs play a double-header. Wilson's mayor, William Daniels, City Manager W. M. Wiggins, and the baseball club's president, A. W. Flemming, have invited city officials and delegations from all municipalities within a 50-mile radius to attend the dedicatory celebration. At that time, C. C. McGinnis, state WPA administrator, will formally present the field to the town of Wilson. Providing work for 100 Wilson needy unemployed, the elaborate plant was completed in 1 1/2 months. No benches are in the grandstand; 2,934 individual chairs enable Wilson fans to watch games in comfort and take defeats at ease. The WPA-built brick, steel and concrete structure contains shower and dressing rooms, offices, rest rooms and concession stands. The fence is corrugated iron on steel framing. The lighting system, for night games, is unusual. No light posts obstruct the view in front of the stands—instead, two modern light towers have been placed on the roof—nor are there any wires visible. The wiring system is entirely underground. James R. Collier, WPA county engineer, was in charge of construction. Judge Charles B. McLean, Wilson's mayor while the project was underway, claims it to be the finest baseball park in the state.

Seventeen Boys And Girls Get Swimming Buttons

42 — AQUA ... FRANKS... At the end of the first two-weeks' period, 17 girls and boys from in and near Greenville had passed swimming tests at the local municipal pool.

Ruth Taylor, David Whichard and Sammy White were awarded American Red Cross swimmers' buttons. To pass the swimming test, the candidates were required to tread water, float motionless, dive from the side of the pool, swim 100 yards, witness a demonstration of artificial respiration, swim 50 feet on back using legs only, and surface dive in eight feet of water to recover an object.

Peggy Edwards, Billie Dove, J. C. Cockerall, Muriel Shotworth, Billy Ryan, Claude Pleyer, John Howard Proctor and Janice Campbell passed the Red Cross beginners' test and were awarded beginners' buttons. Beginners must be able to jump into deep water, swim 25 feet, turn around and return to the side of the pool.

Harry Carter, Ralph Fleming, Haywood Sellers, Eugene Carter and Raleigh Lee, Jr., were able to swim 25 feet at the end of the two-weeks' course.

All pupils who attended classes regularly learned to swim at least 25 feet.

India, has decided to introduce prohibition. Main criticism of such proposals comes from those who say that India's economic system won't be able to stand the consequent loss of revenue.

Provinces of British India where prohibition already operates in certain areas are Bombay, Madras, the Central Provinces, the Northwest Frontier, Assam and Bihar, Bengal and the Punjab are the only provinces where some measure of prohibition isn't contemplated. The Orissa move followed a recent decision by the provincial government of Sind to introduce a seven-year prohibition scheme.

She Betrayed His Love — But All Is Forgiven

"Do you hate me?" Mrs. Lillian Schrein (left) asked her husband, Bert Schrein (right) in court at New York after she had admitted on the witness stand that she had engaged in intimate relations with his uncle, Martin Beck, the theatrical producer, for whom she worked. Schrein answered with a kiss and an embrace. Mrs. Schrein made the admission during her trial on a charge that she stole $60,000 from Beck.

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Both buyers and sellers pulled their punches in today's stock market, but the former seemed to have had a shade the better of the contest. It was about an even-steps argument until the latter part of the final hour when selected issues began to edge forward. Many leaders, however, were unable to get ahead and small minus signs were plentiful all the close. Transfers approximated 175,000 shares. Bonds were indefinite.

fatigue as far as possible. If one should feel dizzy or faint, the common sense procedure to avoid sun stroke or heat exhaustion would be to stop work temporarily, find a cool spot and lie down. The hands and face, in such a case, should be bathed in cold water which the patient also should be required to drink freely.

"As to symptoms, it may be said that usually there is a pain in the head, dizziness and a feeling of oppression which may extend to complete insensibility. This condition develops very rapidly. Its symptoms include a very red face, dilated pupils, hot dry skin, no perspiration, with labored breathing and sighing, pulse full and rapid, often spasms of the muscles, and very high temperature. The distinctive symptoms of heat exhaustion are dizziness, often nausea and vomiting, depression and weakness but not unconsciousness from which the patient cannot be aroused. In sun stroke, face pale but covered with perspiration, breathing shallow, pulse weak and rapid.

Referring to treatment which may be administered by the first aider, whose services Dr. Reynolds declared are very important, he re-emphasized the importance of sending for a doctor at once but, in the meantime, "remove the patient to a cooler and more comfortable location, loosening all the clothing and removing as much of the heat as possible by applying cold water over the face, neck, chest and armpits. It is important to emphasize that massaging the patient tends to prevent further shock by bringing the hot blood to the surface. In the case of sun stroke, stimulants should be avoided. In case of heat exhaustion the treatment is practically the same, except a stimulant, such as aromatic spirits of ammonia, should be used.

"Extreme precaution to avoid any of the conditions that bring about sun stroke or heat exhaustion should be taken by those suffering from any organic disorders, especially heart trouble. In many such cases, extreme heat has proved the last straw that broke the camel's back."

REVEALS DATA ON RURAL LINES

paid a monthly bill of $3.17.

Rural electrification is nothing new in Pitt County, the Greenville plant having started running lines into the country back in 1922. The commission did not go into the rural electrification business on any large scale, but put up lines only in areas where the service was justified and when funds were available. In 1936, when the Rural Electrification Authority came into being, the local plant was serving 640 customers. The Greenville utility does not serve any incorporated town in the county, but besides providing electricity to rural customers, furnishes the power to Stokes, Falkland, Bell, Arthur, Ballard's cross roads, Shellmerdine and other Pitt communities.

Annual Meet Planned For Town Farmville

The Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation, formed for the purpose of erecting 61 miles of rural electrification lines in the counties embracing the membership, will hold its first annual stockholders' meeting in Farmville next Saturday, July 1.

Featuring the meeting will be a barbecue dinner to be served on the grounds and a tour through the Farmville power plant. Added to the occasion will be a display of electrical appliances by merchants of Farmville.

Officers of the corporation are J. Lee Twigg, president; J. C. Parker, vice president; Seth Barrow, secretary-treasurer.

Seeking Fans For State UCC Office

Raleigh, June 24.—(AP)—The Social Security Board has turned down two proposed methods of lowering the temperature in UCC offices here, but another plan has been submitted to the board, Governor Hoes said today.

The new proposal would provide installation of eight suction fans at a cost of about $1,968. Hoes said the Social Security Board will meet Tuesday to consider this plan.

Engineers who worked out the proposal, Hoes said, told officials that the fans would improve the efficiency of employees in a month sufficiently to pay for the cost of the units and their installation.

The governor said the eight fans would be installed on the third floor and would not constitute a permanent improvement to the building as they could be moved to new headquarters of the commission now under construction here.

Numerous heat prostrations have been reported in the overcrowded state headquarters of the commission.

County Will Have Teacher For Blind

J. Vance Perkins, secretary-treasurer of the Greenville Lions Club, today revealed that the club had donated $25 toward paying a teacher to instruct the blind in Pitt county.

K. T. Putrell, superintendent of public welfare in the county, said that arrangements for the school, which will be opened some time in the near future, will be completed by Dr. C. B. Alexander, field supervisor of the State Commission of the Blind.

Miss Ruth Patterson, case worker with the welfare department, has been developing the project and some time ago invited a representative of the State Commission of the Blind to address the Lions Club.

Although all plans for the school have not been developed, they are progressing and both the instructor and school center will be designated in the near future. Dr. Alexander will select the instructor.

Jail Birds Won't Stay Out

Miami, Fla.—(AP)—Capt. Chris Switzer is having trouble with jail birds that he has to toss out.

They really are birds, flying in such mad quest of insects around the illuminated dome of the city's skyscraper jail that they wing right through the bars.

Switzer says he turns his office lights off, uses a flashlight to catch the night flying creatures and tosses them to freedom. Some are as fat as quails, he reported.

Man About Manhattan

New York—From short or from dock of a ferryboat the Hudson is a calm, placid river, flowing gently past West Point, past Bear Mountain to the sea.

But appearances are deceptive. There is a five-knot current sweeping headlong past the island, and when light cutters and ships launch on long range larger craft it requires the strength of a full crew to wait them in close.

We had this experience boarding one of the great battleships in the river recently. The water looked calm as we cut toward the ship, but when we tried to run alongside, the current began tossing us about until finally the launch had to cast off, circle around, and come alongside again. Then four sailors, straining at the ropes (I know sailors don't like the word ropes, but being a landlubber, I don't know any better) had a battle on their hands before the launch was secure.

The only time when experienced eyes from shore are aware of the current's might is in winter when the ice floes come down. They sweep past with unbelievable speed. I remember once seeing four seals riding a cake of ice on which lay a straw hat. It seemed fairly to leap through the water and when I last saw it the floe, with the four seals (looking mighty bored by the way) and the straw hat were past Battery point and well into the bay.

New York is easiest to take after midnight under a starry summer sky. That is the time to walk and to relax and let the Indian breezes purge the cobwebs from your brain. The city is quiet then, too. Not deserted, but people are different, and the stone and the concrete are bathed in softened colors—moon color and the soft grays and blues of the shadows.

New York, unlike London, has no regimented lamp posts to stand through the night as sentinels. But it has cobble courts and the cries of numberless cats to echo through the streets. And sometimes there are for banks coming in from the sea which gather themselves in the shapes of ghost dirigibles and drift through the high summer sky as silently as Coleridge's painted ship upon a painted ocean.

And sometimes, too, the stillness of night in mid-Manhattan is shattered by the cry of a wild duck. This has an incongruous note, hasn't it? I agree with you. But there is a park of 857 acres on the island, and in this park are trees and a lake. And to this lake come flock after flock of wild ducks to fraternize for an hour or a week with their tame brothers there.

Somehow the tame ducks never cry like the wild ducks cry. There is nothing you could put your hand on. You couldn't analyze the difference. But it is there. You only have to hear it once to know.

Night under the Indian sky with the hot stars hanging low over Manhattan, low enough almost to tinge the skyscrapers with their phosphorescent glow. It is a thing, perhaps, for a poet to contemplate, or a painter if he would throw away his oils and dip his brush in the moon.

Final Rites Are Held For Native of County

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma L. Case Moore, 69, a native of Pitt county, were conducted this morning at 9 o'clock, at her home in Burlington. Mrs. Moore died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. H. Douglas, following an illness which lasted five months.

Mrs. Moore was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Green Case and the widow of J. H. Moore.

Besides her daughter with whom she lived surviving are two sons, W. G. Moore of Durham and J. E. Moore of Greensboro, and 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

President Resting At N. Y. Hill-Top Home

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned today to his family home, on a hill high above the Hudson river, for five days of work and recreation.

Only one caller dropped in today, the Right Rev. G. A. Oldham, Episcopalian bishop of Albany and a personal friend of long standing. The bishop motored down from Albany and talked with Mr. Roosevelt while the President was waiting to attend a reception following the wedding of his second cousin, Margaret Delano, to Drexel Paul.

Washington Daybook

Washington—A current inner-city story about Postmaster General Farley says that he went on his western tour to sound out party leaders on his own possibilities and ran into such a swell of third-term talk that his journey became almost a torch parade for President Roosevelt.

It turns the story of John Alden and Miles Standish into reverse. In that Pilgrim tale, John Alden went to the snow-decked cottage of the beautiful Priscilla to propose to her on behalf of his fighting friend, Standish.

"Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" said Priscilla, and the embarrassed young fellow backed out into the chill air, torn between loyalty to Standish and a desire to ask the prize for himself.

Democratic partisans insist Farley took his western swing to see whether his own enormous popularity could be converted into state delegations to support him in a bid for the presidential nomination. It was during an appearance in Arizona that he appears to have been left with the choice either of speaking out for himself or reaffirming for President Roosevelt.

Gasoline Thief Spoils Fire Truck Inaugural

Mosquero, N. M.—(AP)—For months the volunteer fire ladders of Mosquero waited for a chance to try out their shiny new truck at a blaze.

Came an alarm and all hands answered. One after another they took turns on the crank handle. But someone had filched the gasoline.

Meanwhile, the old Drake farm house burned to ashes.

Folly Want a Par?

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—A kibitzer with a falsetto voice unnerved players at a golf course.

The eerie sounds seemed to come just when golfers were preparing to swing. They stood it just so long, then set out to find "the voice." In a nearby tree they found a parrot which had escaped from its cage at a house not far away.

The owner explained "Polly" had a double-voice.

Dog 'Death Chamber'

Birds Landing, Calif.—(AP)—J. M. Talbert, county poundmaster, has ribbed up his own contraption for putting stray dogs to death and has it approved by the humans society.

It consists of a metal box with a pipe outlet, which Talbert connects with the exhaust of his automobile.

Fit Autogiro Into Air Force Plans

London.—(AP)—The air ministry has ordered seven autogiro aircraft for experimental flying in the belief they may be useful in districts where landing and take-off space is restricted.

The new machines may be flown off an acre little bigger than a tennis court and can "jump" vertically between 12 and 15 feet. They can be landed in a correspondingly small space.

Interstate Concentration

Welch, W. Va.—(AP)—In just one hen, L. B. Baker owns an interstate hatchery.

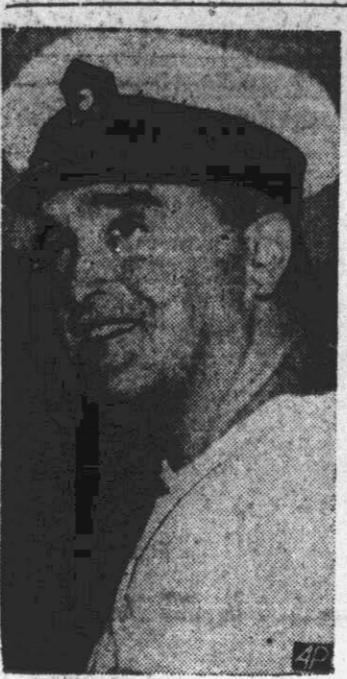

Visiting at his mother's home in Volney, Va., he was given a White Rock hen which had been set on 15 eggs.

The hen kept right at the job while Baker removed her to Welch, and about two weeks later hatched out a brood of 13 chicks.
