TOLD TO GUARD AMERICAN WAY OF GOVERNMENT

Legionnaires Warned To Be Alert For Thrusts

5,000 ATTENDING N. C. CONVENTION

Sen. James Mead Of New York and Vice Commander Crawley Are Heard; Election Tuesday

Raleigh, June 26.—(AP)—North Carolina Legionnaires, in annual session here, were cautioned by two speakers today to be ever on the alert to parry thrusts at the American way of government.

Senator James Mead of New York warned that "meticulous care, powerful safeguards, and heroic defense must be provided by democracy's friends to ward off every malicious attack which threatens its welfare."

He added, however, that the history of governments, "predestines the failure of totalitarianism."

James Crawley of Mississippi, national vice commander of the Legion, asserted that organizations such as the German bunds were conducting campaigns openly to overthrow the United States government and told the World War veterans they must suppress enemies who are attacking from within.

Approximately 5,000 members of the North Carolina American Legion and affiliated organizations had registered this morning for the twenty-first annual department convention, which began yesterday. The meeting will end tomorrow following a speech by National Adjutant Frank Samuel, reports of committees and election of officers. J. H. Rose of Greenville, W. T. Dowd of Sanford and J. R. Johnson of Lenoir are candidates for state commander.

East Lions Clubs Hold Session Here

More than 75 incoming Lions Club officials, including presidents, secretaries and committee chairmen from 20 clubs of District 31C of the International Association, embracing the eastern third of North Carolina, assembled for an unofficial meeting in the Greenville Woman's Club at 2 o'clock.

Nell Hester, Raleigh newspaper editor, who is district governor-elect of District 31C, said the session, which lasted about two hours, was for the purpose of familiarizing the Lions of the district with objectives to be followed during the ensuing year and to acquaint the new officers with each other.

Building and Loan Activities Shown

Building and loan activities in North Carolina soared to a new five-year high in May. John B. Craven of Lexington, president of the North Carolina Building and Loan League, announced.

May loans totaling $2,377,000 were $27,000 above April, which was the best month in five years. One-third of the 1,518 loans made during May were for the construction of new homes, amounting to $1,088,000, and 296 loans, amounting to $319,000 were made for the purchase of homes. The balance of 718 loans, to the amount of $773,000, were for repairs, reconditioning, refinancing and miscellaneous purposes.

Maternal and Infant Clinics Held In Pitt

The maternal and infant welfare clinics for the month of June were being held in the Pitt county health department this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with another scheduled there tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A similar clinic will be held in Grimesland Wednesday afternoon at the same hour. Others were held in Ayden and Farmville last week. Among the Greenville club women assisting with the clinic are Mrs. N. D. Harren, Mrs. Leslie Babcock, Mrs. Jack Spain and Mrs. Picklen Arthur.

Vote Denies President Of Devaluation Power

Senate Approves 77.4 Cents For Domestic Silver

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—The Senate approved today a price of 77.4 cents an ounce for domestic mined silver under provisions of a proclamation which expires June 30.

The treasury now is paying 64.64 cents an ounce for domestically mined silver under provisions of a proclamation which expires June 30.

Action to cut off Mr. Roosevelt's authority to devalue the dollar came on an amendment to eliminate the devaluation power from pending monetary legislation.

The vote was announced as 47 to 31 in favor of the amendment.

Administration supporters waged a vigorous fight against the amendment, which was offered by Senator Adams (D-Colo.). The administration group argued that the devaluation power was necessary to prevent damage to United States trade of other countries depreciated their currency.

The Senate rejected a proposal to fix the treasury's price for domestically mined silver at $1.16 an ounce. The vote was announced as 52 to 26.

Files Application To Maintain Line

Washington, D. C., June 26.—(AP)—The Atlantic and East Carolina Railway Company asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to lease and operate the 94-mile line of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company between Goldsboro and Morehead City, N. C.

North Carolina owns 72 per cent of the stock of the Atlantic and North Carolina line. The Norfolk Southern railroad, formerly leased, the line, but after reversionary proceedings in 1935, the state took it over.

The applicant proposed issuing $110,000 capital stock, using the proceeds to purchase motor equipment. This amount, less than operating cost in previous years, would be achieved by using gasoline and Diesel power instead of coal and by more efficient management, the applicant said.

Pedestrian Big Problem In Highway Safety Drive

Chicago, June 26.—The pedestrian is a curious creature. He is at one and the same time the forgotten man and the problem child of traffic. He has been neglected, but he also has been pampered and spoiled.

The time has come to clamp down on him and make him obey traffic rules as motorists are made to obey them. But the time also has come to give him the same attention and protection that the motorist gets.

Those are the findings of a committee of the National Safety Council which has been studying the pedestrian problem for three years and which climaxed its work by recommending today that workers be made to obey stop signals and other traffic laws just as drivers must obey them—in business districts, at least.

The pedestrian, the council com-

Chamberlain, Therefore, Refuses To Make Statement

NEW INCIDENT IN FAR EAST CRISIS

British-Japanese Situation Aggravated by Latest Stripping Incident In Tientsin

By The Associated Press British Prime Minister Chamberlain, speaking in the House of Commons today, following British charges of a new stripping incident at Tientsin, said he had "some reason to hope" that discussions in Tokyo would lead to a settlement of the Far Eastern dispute with Japan.

Because he held this hope, he said, he did not want to make any statement which "might prejudice the prospects" of a satisfactory settlement of the crisis in China.

Chamberlain spoke after the foreign affairs committee of the cabinet had discussed the Far Eastern situation, highlighted by the case of a British subject and his wife who said they were forced by Japanese sentries to undress at the entrance to the foreign area at Tientsin, now in its thirteenth day of blockade.

British Consul Major G. A. Herbert at Tientsin announced the Briton was forced to strip naked and his wife to undress down to a girdle before a Japanese sentry, but a Japanese spokesman at Tientsin said Japan would not investigate the case because "in principle such a case could not happen."

The British ambassador to Tokyo, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, was said to have lodged another protest with the Japanese government against indignities suffered by Britons at Tientsin worded more sharply than previous protests.

There was British-Japanese friction also at another Chinese port, Swatow, in the south, where wire barricades around British walks created a possible new source of trouble. Japanese naval spokesmen in Shanghai said that only one British merchantman weekly would be allowed to enter Swatow harbor. The port was captured by the Japanese last week.

Local Man Reported Involved In Accident

R. R. Morrison, assistant manager of the Proctor Hotel, was reported here to have been in an automobile accident near Raleigh yesterday, but details of the wreck or to what extent he was injured were not available here.

Although Raleigh, Wake county and state patrol headquarters reported they knew nothing of such a wreck, it was reliably stated here that the local hotel man was involved in a collision and it was understood that a companion was seriously injured.

Mr. Morrison had gone to Raleigh to attend the American Legion state convention.

SEEKS CHANGE IN LABOR ACT

Hoey Would Modify "Discriminatory" Sections of Law

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Gov. Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina said today that modification of "unfair and discriminatory" sections of the Wagner labor act would give confidence to industry and result in better business conditions.

Speaking here at the national convention of the Woodmen of the World, Governor Hoey said the tax bill recently passed by Congress also would give encouragement to business.

Americans should not be alarmed at their large public debt of $40,000,000,000, he said, because "we do not owe other nations, we owe largely ourselves."

"Encouragement will be given to business by the tax measure passed by Congress and further assurance would be afforded to industry by the modification of the unfair and discriminatory sections of the Wagner labor act. This would be more helpful to labor than any measure proposed because it would increase the demand for labor and furnish increased employment for the vast numbers who are seeking the privilege of working."

He did not explain which sections of the act he believed to be discriminatory.

Long Calls On Bedridden Governor Leche

Resignation of Gov. Richard W. Leche of Louisiana, who is ill in bed, will automatically promote Lieut.-Gov. Earl K. Long, brother of the late Senator Huey P. Long, to the governor's chair at Baton Rouge. Leche plans to resign by proclamation. Here, Long (left) shakes hands with the sick governor at the latter's home in Baton Rouge. FIX BLAME IN AUTO WRECK

Ten Persons Die In N. C. Over The Weekend

Beaufort, N. C., June 26.—(AP)—Coroner George Dill charged today that the State Highway department was responsible for the drowning of five Raleigh residents when their automobile ran off a Core sound ferry dock near here yesterday.

Dill said he would report to Carteret authorities that "the tragedy resulted from negligence on the part of the North Carolina State Highway department, which maintains the ferry slip and operates the ferry from Gloucester to Harker's island, the negligence being that no barricade was on the approach to the slip and no red light to warn motorists traveling at night that the slip was there."

The coroner, after an investigation, decided an inquest was not necessary. He exonerated the driver of the automobile.

The driver, W. C. Walker, his son, W. C. Walker, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Lee Hales, also in the car, escaped death.

Those drowned were Mr. and Mrs. Seba Hales; their daughter, Mrs. W. Walker, and two children of the Walkers, Ray and Peggy. The body of Pay, an infant, was recovered early today. The bodies of the other victims were recovered shortly after the accident.

SURVEY FLIGHT MADE BY P.C.A.

Consider Plane Service Across North Carolina

Norfolk, Va., June 26.—(AP)—With J. H. "Slim" Carmichael, veteran pilot and Pennsylvania Airlines operation manager, at the controls, a giant silver Pennsylvania Central Airlines plane winged westward today on the first survey flight along the proposed air route that would link Norfolk and Knoxville, Tenn.

The plane took off from the municipal airport here at 9:55 a. m. It planned to make stops at Elizabeth city, Rocky Mount, Raleigh, Greensboro, Winston-Salem and Asheville and land at Knoxville this afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

Among others aboard the plane were C. Bedel Monro, president of Pennsylvania-Central Airlines and co-pilot of the flight; Congressman Carl J. Durham of Chapel Hill, N. C.; Josh Horne, Jr., publisher of the Rocky Mount Evening Telegram and president of the association which has been leading the campaign for the proposed service; Herbert Peeler, editor and publisher of the Elizabeth City Daily Advance.

Nearly two-thirds of all drowning deaths last year in the U. S., occurred from May to August.

Local Project

DREDGING DUE START JULY 3

Preliminary Work Is Being Made On Tar River Project

Actual dredging work on the Tar river project from Washington to Greenville is scheduled to start on July 3, the Greenville Chamber of Commerce today revealed.

Dredging will start at Washington and work toward Greenville. The work scheduled to have been begun today, but a storm delayed transfer of equipment from Florida to Washington and the July 3 date now has been set.

The State Highway and Public Works Commission meanwhile is cutting out the right-of-way from the Washington highway to Hardee's creek, site of the terminal.

Work on warehouses, docks, etc., is being held up pending completion of the connecting highway which will provide a means for hauling timber, other material, etc., to the terminal.

The connecting link will run from a point about two miles from Greenville on route 264, Washington highway, to Hardee's creek a distance of about half a mile.

The Shell Producers company of Tampa, Fla., has the contract and is rapidly moving equipment to Washington preparatory to starting actual dredging.

A channel 12 feet deep and 100 feet wide to make Tar river navigable from Washington to Greenville is provided for in the quarter of a million dollar project. Local business men are optimistic over the results of the project, expressing the belief it will make Greenville one of the largest distributing centers in Eastern Carolina.

PITT FARMERS FAVOR GRADER

Vote In County Is 856 For and 88 Against Inspector

Complete returns on Pitt county's participation in the referendum to determine whether a federal grader shall work on the Greenville market in the future showed that 856 farmers favored the proposal, while 88 rejected it.

Since the referendum was conducted for all farmers who sold tobacco on the Greenville market in 1938, including out-of-state growers, the Pitt county vote does not provide the local market with a grader. The success of the referendum hinges on the vote of growers in other localities.

Only one other county has been heard from, that being Beaufort. There were 175 favoring federal inspection of all tobacco sold on the Greenville market, while 88 opposed it. The opposition in Beaufort was exactly that of Pitt county.

Figures on the Pitt county vote were released by R. R. Bennett, county agent. Balloting began last Monday and the deadline was Saturday at midnight. All letters containing ballots postmarked later than this time were declared void.

Votes cast in the referendum were sent directly to the offices of the county agents, where an affiliate of the marketing division of the United States Department of Agriculture was on hand to do the counting. As soon as they were counted, they were forwarded to W. R. Wilson, referendum supervisor and government inspector who is affiliated with the federal marketing service in Raleigh.

If the referendum is favorable in other areas, the Greenville market will be provided with a marketing news as well as a federal grader. The cost of both services would be defrayed by the federal government.

Four Judges Bat 1,000 In Supreme Court League

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, June 26.—Four of North Carolina's Superior court judges batted a cool 1,000 in the Supreme court, Tar Heel's major judicial league, during the 1939 spring term. At the other extreme a pair of the lower court judges fanned on their every chance in the higher court, for a big round zero average.

In between a dozen other judges did better than break even on their appellate records; six stood at the 50-50 point exactly, while another half dozen were sustained at least once, but were reversed in more than half their cases.

In all, the Supreme court decided 184 cases during the term, affirming the judgment of the lower court 108 times, while finding some defect in the rulings below on 76 occasions.

JAPS RESTRICT BRITISH BOATS AT CHINA PORT

Forcibly Forbidden To Unload Their Passengers

ORDER IS ISSUED BY JAP OFFICIAL

Fresh Military Operations at Swatow Said To Be Reason For Action; Mail Exemption

Tokyo, June 26.—(AP)—Domei, Japanese news agency, reported in a dispatch from Swatow that Japanese officials forcibly prevented two British steamers from unloading passengers and freight at the South China port today.

The news agency said the vessels upon entering the port received this notification from the supreme commander of Japan's South China fleet:

"Swatow having become a center of fresh military operations, Japanese forces are not in a position to permit vessels to embark or disembark passengers, or load or unload freight with the exception of mail and provisions for foreign residents."

After several hours, Domei said the two steamers departed.

Pitt Represented At Legion Session

Approximately a score of Legionnaires from Pitt County Post 39 are attending the 21st annual state convention of the American Legion which got under way in Raleigh on Sunday.

Besides the local post, 14 other posts in the state have been instructed to support Junius H. Rose of Greenville in his race for State Legion commander. The convention will be brought to a close tomorrow, at which time the new commander is slated to be elected.

Included in the group attending the convention from Greenville are: J. H. Rose, T. J. Swain, Dr. J. L. Winstead, D. J. Whichard, Jr., A. B. Corey, J. Hicks Corey, H. P. Johnston, J. F. Arthur, P. J. Deiner, W. B. Dupree, C. W. Williams, P. L. Goodson, Coy Smith, J. B. Kittrell, W. L. Cherry, Herman McLawhorn, Kidd Tyson and the Rev. Worth Wicker.

Final Rites Held For Miss Phelps

Funeral services for Miss Fannie Phelps, 67, who died Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the home of her brother, L. D. Phelps, in Grimesland, were conducted at the late home yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The services for Miss Phelps, who had been critically ill for several weeks preceding her death, were conducted by the Rev. Dennis Warren Davis of Old Ford and pastor of the Grimesland Christian Church. Burial followed in the Fleming family cemetery near Housatonic.

Miss Phelps had made her home with her brother for the past eight years and had spent her entire life in Pitt county. She is survived by only one brother and 14 nieces and nephews. She was a sister of the late W. T. Phelps.

Progress Reported on Winterville Project

The water and sewer project under way at Winterville is making steady progress. Henry R. Rivers, engineers, reported today after an inspection of the work.

The project, costing $61,000, is expected to be completed about September 25.

Huggins-Nobles

Jarvis Memorial Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful wedding of widespread interest on Saturday afternoon at five-thirty o'clock, when Miss Huldah Elizabeth Nobles and Mr. Allen Everett Huggins of Wilmington, were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by the Reverend E. L. Hillman of New Bern, assisted by Reverend Thomas McM. Grant, pastor of the church.

The church with its background of banded Kentia palms and ferns centered with Easter lilies, and a semi-circle of cathedral candles flanked by baskets of Chiffon daisies, formed a lovely setting for the impressive ceremony. The pews reserved for members of the two families, were marked with orlidal tulle.

As the guests assembled "Elegy" by Massenet, "Ave Maria" by Gounod, and "Serenade" by Schubert, were rendered by the organist, Mrs. C. B. W. Hadley. Proceeding the entrance of the bride, a vested choir composed of Mrs. B. D. Johnston, Mrs. John Karsnak, Miss Helen Foley, Miss Lorraine Horne, Mr. E. O. Parkinson, Jr., Mr. Marshall Starkey, Mr. D. T. Beaman and Mr. Aubrey Talley, sang "Liebestraum" by Liszt.

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was used as the bridal processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was used as the recessional. Acting as ushers were B. P. Carter, Jr., of Richmond, Va., John C. Wessell, Jr., of Wilmington, Jesse Moye and Paul Fitzgerald, Jr., of Greenville.

The attendants of the bride were Mrs. John Everett Nobles, sister-in-law of the bride, matron of honor, and Miss Lucy Argen Nobles, sister of the bride, maid of honor. They wore princess gowns of green net, identical except in shade, with corresponding hats, and carried bouquets of Talisman roses.

The bride entered with her brother, John Everett Nobles, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, George Fowler of Statesville.

She wore a most becoming classic type gown of white chiffon, designed by Clementine. The round neck was shirred and the bodice full. The long sleeves, having a point over the hand, were applied in satin petals. The applique design was also carried out on the skirt and the long court train. The veil was worn with a pointed pearl halo and ample drape of net which was of full court length. The long face veil was draped from the back. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

As the bridal couple knelt at the altar for the final blessing, the choir sang "Benediction" by Lutkin.

Mrs. Joseph Everett Nobles, mother of the bride, wore light blue crepe and lace with a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Henry Allen Huggins of Wilmington, mother of the groom, was gowned in pink embroidered marquisette and her flowers were a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Huggins is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Everett Nobles. She attended the city schools of Greenville, Saint Mary's Junior College in Raleigh, and was graduated from East Carolina Teachers College. For the past two years she has been a member of the faculty of the city schools of Wilmington. Since the announcement of her engagement several weeks ago, she has been extended many social courtesies. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen Huggins of Wilmington, and was graduated from North Carolina State College where he was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He is now connected with George W. Huggins Co., of Wilmington.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Huggins left for a trip to Western North Carolina. The bride wore for traveling a suit of blue wool crepe, trimmed with grey fox, with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of white roses and valley lilies.

After July first, Mr. and Mrs. Huggins will be at home at 412 Market street, Wilmington.

Immediately following the rehearsal on Friday evening, Mrs. W. F. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moye entertained the bridal party and out-of-town guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moye.

The spacious home held many beautiful arrangements of gladioli and snapdragons.

A lovely three-tiered wedding cake on a reflector centered the table in the dining room. Attractive favors attached to white satin ribbons were placed beneath the cake. These were later drawn by the guests.

A tempting ice course with nuts and mints was served.

A series of pre-nuptial parties was concluded at one o'clock on Saturday, when Mrs. J. B. White, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Speight and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Purdie entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at luncheon at the home of Mrs. White.

The home was beautifully decorated throughout with gladioli.

The guests were greeted upon arrival by the hosts and hostesses, Mrs. J. E. Nobles, Sr., Miss Huldah Nobles, Mr. Everett Huggins and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Huggins of Wilmington.

In the dining room a delicious buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. Nancy Brown of Statesville, and Mrs. Edward Purdie of Dunn, seated at opposite ends of the table.

The luncheon table was spread with lace and held an exquisite centerpiece of pink and blue painted daisies and baby's breath. From the chandelier hung a shower of white satin ribbon, bridal tulle and gypsophylla.

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Purdie were assisted in serving by Mrs. J. L. Winstead, Mrs. Jesse Moye, Mrs. Curtis Perkins and Miss Lucy Nobles.

WHAT THE WINDS BROUGHT—Fast a tug in N. Y. harbor pulls a square-rigged, three-master Norwegian training ship, Christian Radich. It carries 14 officers, 94 cadets, and engine.

A HIT—"With elusive graces she stopped the show." Thus one critic hailed Carmen Miranda (above), Brazilian who's starring in a Broadway revue, "Streets of Paris."

ELECTED—A Kiwanian since 1922, Bennett O. Knudson (above), attorney in Albert Lea, Minn., has been chosen the president of Kiwanis International for 1939-40.

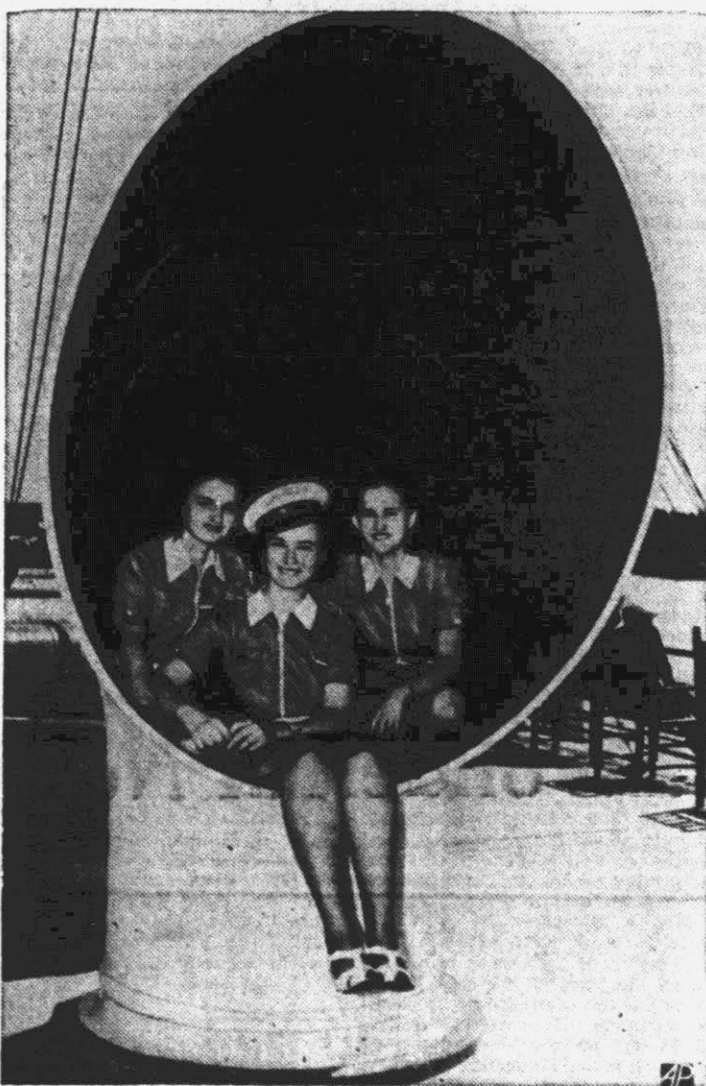

MICHIGAN FERVOR—Devoutly Luren D. Dickinson (foreground), 80, Michigan governor, joins the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist minister, in prayer at an open-air service on Detroit's Belle Isle. Later the crowd, estimated by police at 8,000, sang "It's the old-time religion." Dickinson succeeded Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, who died Mar. 16.

HAT IN RING?—Hand on the White House door, Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri pauses momentarily before going in for a chat with a certain Franklin D. Roosevelt whose intentions regarding that address, after 1940, are still not known. Stark is considered of possible vice presidential timber.

WOE—Amendment of her divorce decree against Producer Phillip Rossiter is asked by Evelyn Kowe, N. Y. show girl. She didn't ask alimony, now learns ex-hubby is rich.

MEMORIES—Back to 1889, the year of his graduation from Harvard, turns mind of Financier J. Pierpont Morgan, seen at class reunion.

SMALL EDITION OF 'PICKABACK' PLANE—A duet performance is scheduled for above model being checked by its builder, Capt. S. T. Grant of Bournemouth, England. The model is a small-scale reproduction of the Mayo composite aircraft. In operation, the smaller machine rides on larger one to a height of 300 feet where they separate. Each ship lands "on its own."

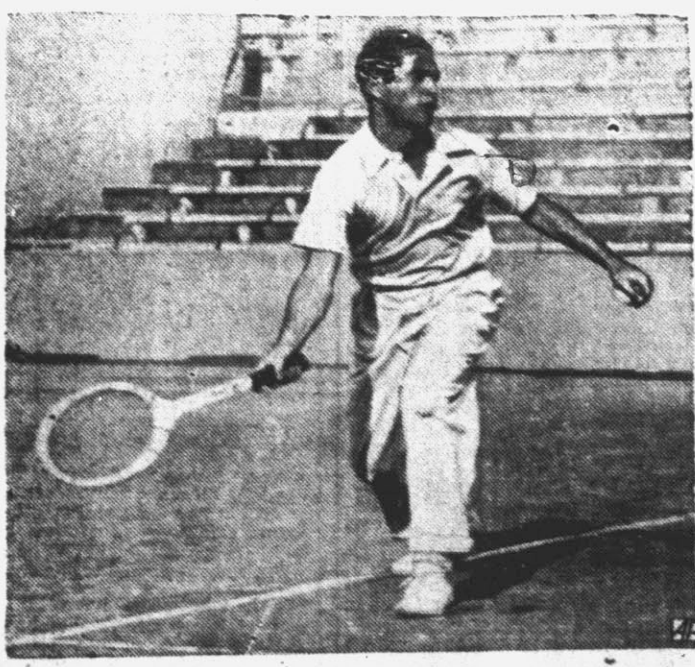

HUNTSMAN—That object near J. Hampton Rich at N. Y. Museum of Modern Art isn't anything he shot. It's a Lipsitz bronze and Mr. Rich of Winston-Salem likes it. Wearing a coonskin cap, he and 175-year-old rifle visited museum.

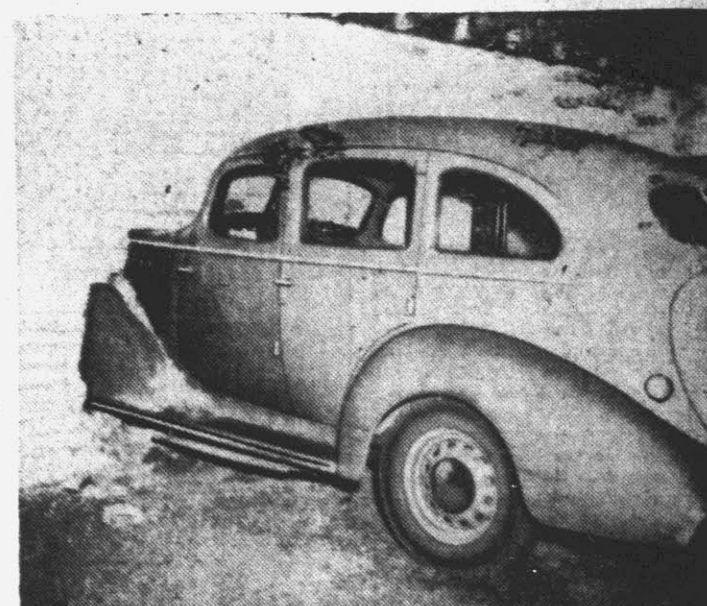

JUST A HARVARD 'BULL SESSION'—Members of Harvard class of '24 went mad in a big way at university's 288th class day celebration, and entered the stadium dressed as bullfighters. Among the important guests at exercises were Banker J. P. Morgan, whose class of 1889 was holding its 50th anniversary, and Massachusetts governor, Leverett Saltonstall.

IT HAPPENED HERE—When Michael Lewis, 9-year-old son of Columnist Dorothy Thompson and Novelist Sinclair Lewis, visited Hollywood he wanted to meet some movie actresses. He did—and had lunch with two junior film stars, Virginia Weiler and Ann Gillis (right). The cake marks a ninth birthday for Michael, who was visiting Hollywood with his mother.

READY FOR FRAY—Although he lost the seeded No. 1 position to Britain's Bunny Austin, Bobby Riggs (above), the Chicago tennis ace seen at practice abroad, promises a good fight in the Wimbledon matches in England.

CAR... JAR... MARRIED!—The wall and the car suffered the most damage in this freak auto rampage at Sacramento, Cal., where the auto driven by Mrs. Maria Steiner nosed into this brick wall. Neither Mrs. Steiner nor the two persons with her were seriously hurt when the car, after a collision with another, bounced into a gas tank and then ran partly through wall.

Washington Daybook

Washington. — Random information service:
Three days before the king and queen of England met members of Congress in the domed rotunda of the Capitol, a bronze statue of America's great humorist, Will Rogers, was unveiled there, a quizzical expression on his face, as if he were about to chuckle:
"God save the king."
His most quoted quip was: "The United States never lost a war nor won a conference."

Note from the navy's Hydrographic Bulletin: "Officer R. E. Hudgins of the American Steamer Jean reports that on May 6, from 1800 to 2100 (Greenwich time—1 to 4 p. m. Atlantic coast time), while between Barnegat and Scotland lightships, on a passage from Port St. Joe, Fla., to New York, a mirage was observed during which vessels met with at first appeared double with one image inverted above the other, and with masts and smokestacks joined."

Dear Officer Hudgins: Did you ever drive between two motorcycles at night and find they were a truck?

WAR COSTS ALREADY

The war that hasn't started in Europe is already piling up war costs in the United States. The State Department has informed Congress that cable tolls after Munich ran $140,000 over the budget.

It has also informed Congress that it has one typewriter 31 years old and 100 or more which would be 16 years old, all of which are beyond life expectancy and it would like changed so it could be a little more up to date in its method of writing diplomatic messages.

And we can't overlook the air-conditioning system installed in the legation at Baghdad which must be mighty popular now, what with desert winds blowing hot the way they do. Incidentally, it is the only one in the department. Even the main building in Washington hasn't one.

The foreign service also spends $4,594 for ice and drinking water in its various foreign posts. In some spots the water has to be hauled long distances donkey-back in jars. Actually there is no telling where these State Department reports may lead to. We find in one that the United States contributes $55 each year to keep certain tribes in Africa from getting spirituous liquors. They may have wines, of course.

Moreover, the German exchange manipulation that has tormented this government for several years now is working to our benefit in one respect. For $52,000 of Yankee money the State Department is able to get Germans to do $700,000 worth of work rehabilitating the old Blucher Palace in Berlin for use as an embassy. They are going ahead with the work even if our ambassador doesn't live there anymore. That ought to be plenty of proof that we expect to be friendly with Germany again some day.

THINGS STILL DARK

As long as we are into this business we might just as well let you know that George S. Messersmith, assistant secretary of state, is not too optimistic about a quick return to world normalcy. Supporting claims before the House Appropriations committee for more State Department money, he said:
"Even though war may be avoided and the way opened for a return to more peaceful and normal conditions, the political, economic and financial and general trading structure of the world has been so upset

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: Diffenderfer, the freak show boss, tells Bill to scam. He accuses one Bill of trying to steal the freaks. Bill gets mad and aims for Diffenderfer's three chins.

Chapter 17 The Law Steps In

HAD Papa Chin taken this herculean effort cleanly it is probable that Mr. Diffenderfer might subsequently have been sold for a jig-saw puzzle. But as the intended hawkmaster was a wild through space Mr. Diffenderfer moved slightly. The blow landed, with sickening force, on the borderline between Papa Chin and Mama Chin. But, even so, it played havoc with Mr. Diffenderfer. Mr. Diffenderfer toppled to his knees.

It says much for the staying power of Mr. Diffenderfer's disreputable brown felt hat that it managed to retain its hold on any familiar territory whatsoever. True, when the hurricane struck it was forced to give ground. But it gave it grudgingly, retiring in good order to the vicinity of the Diffenderfer left ear. The cigar, however, couldn't take it. The cigar was knocked out of the parish altogether. It flew from Mr. Diffenderfer's lips like a small brown dart. Mr. Diffenderfer let it go without protest. Mr. Diffenderfer was too busy calling for reinforcements.

"Harry!" bawled Mr. Diffenderfer in a voice that would have turned back Genghis Khan. "Joe!" There was a rush of feet and a parting of the crowd. Harry and Joe came up on the skyline. Bullet-headed, slab-jawed, ape-armed, they were the answer to the boss racketeer's prayer for a bodyguard. By profession Harry and Joe were the bouncers at Diffenderfer's.

Harry, Joe's senior in the job, constituted himself spokesman. "Wuz ya wantin' us, Chief?" he inquired of Mr. Diffenderfer, who still maintained an attitude favored by monks at prayer.

Mr. Diffenderfer gestured at William. "Throw that guy out," he commanded tersely.

"Okay, Chief," assented Harry, with relish. He beckoned Joe. "C'mon, mug!"

Mr. William Steele, however, had no intention of meekly submitting to the ministrations of these exponents of La Bourne. He backed up against the platform and stood in an emboldened position, awaiting the charge. It came presently, Harry leading Joe by a step. The fact that Harry was in motion and that William, solid and stationary, might have been doubling for King James's rock made all the difference. William was able to get set. His right, warmed up by its work on Mr. Diffenderfer's jaw, now ascended to dizzy pinnacles of achievement. Hazy coming in fast, led with his stomach. William planted the right squarely in the middle of this useful organ.

"Ooooh!" said Harry, and sat down abruptly. But there was no time for Mr. Steele to deal satisfactorily with Joe. Joe, moving hard on Harry's heels, nimbly evaded the colorful apparatus of his confederate and aimed gallant punch. It brushed by William's ear. William, without opportunity to strike, clinched. Like two mastodons fighting it out in some primordial swamp they waltzed about Diffenderfer's, strewing havoc.

At this point the cops arrived.

Patrolman Terence O'Mahoney had been patrolling outside the penny arcade when it became apparent to him, from certain sounds arising within, that there was a gilded apparatus of his confederate stuffed. But lion-hearted though he was, the scion of the O'Mahoneys hesitated to enter alone. Bitter experience had taught him that a brawl in Diffenderfer's usually involved a respectable portion of New York's citizenry. Wherefore Patrolman O'Mahoney played it safe. He summoned to his side Patrolmen Denis Finn, Benjamin Druckenbratter and Ira Smith. Together, avenging angels in blue, they invaded Diffenderfer's.

Low Estate

WHEN you come right down to it four policemen are nothing more than a complete backfield, a bottled flush, a set of quadruplets or any other arrangement requiring, for full numerical strength, the multiplication by two. But such is the majesty of the law that to the jaundiced eye of the malefactor, four policemen look like the hordes of Attila. William, embracing and embraced by Joe and beating a tattoo over Joe's kidneys, received an impression as of the Mediterranean in brass but tons pouring into the penny arcade. At almost the same moment Joe became aware of the constabulary. He dropped William like a hot potato and stood to one side with an I-didn't-do-nuthin' air.

Patrolman Terence O'Mahoney advanced with nightstick drawn. "Now then," inquired Patrolman O'Mahoney, glancing from beneath beetling brows, "what's goin' on in here?"

Herman J. Diffenderfer, having enjoyed the benefit of a long count, heaved himself up from his devotions. He pointed to William. "That guy," he roared. "He tried to start a riot in my ay-ter."

The spotlight centered on William. "Did you," demanded Patrolman O'Mahoney, "try to start a riot in this ay-ter?"

Bill opened his mouth to reply, but Mr. Diffenderfer beat him to it. "Did he," said Mr. Diffenderfer with fine scorn. "He was tryin' to hire a couple of my freaks away from me. He work. Mr. Diffenderfer had not the chance to make mention of the loathsome Bernie Feldman—"for a guy named Feldman that's always tryin' to get my freaks away from me..."

He was interrupted by a hushed titter which escaped Patrolman Ira Smith. To Patrolman Smith the idea of anyone wishing to hire such freaks as he perceived before him was extremely ludicrous.

Patrolman Terence O'Mahoney silenced Patrolman Ira Smith with a look. "Proceed," Patrolman O'Mahoney ordered Mr. Diffenderfer. Patrolman O'Mahoney had visions of one day being a big-time cross-examiner.

"Naturally," proceeded Mr. Diffenderfer, "when a fella comes into my ay-ter and starts tryin' to pinch my freaks, I object."

This appeared reasonable to Patrolman Benjamin Druckenbratter. He murmured sympathetically. "So," concluded Mr. Diffenderfer, skipping lightly over a few minor details, "I told him to scam an' he up an' socked me in the jaw."

"Wait!" said William, at this point. "That isn't quite so tight." Mr. Diffenderfer ignored him with magnificence. Triumphantly he indicated Harry, the bouncer, who still sat on the floor wondering why he had chosen to stop the Twentieth Century with the pit of his stomach. "An' not only that, but he hit one of my bouncers in the stummick an' knocked him out."

Having gotten this over, he became conversational. "Now you know, Officer, I can't have that kind of thing goin' on. I keep a respectable place. I want that young fella locked up. I'm goin' to prefer charges."

Patrolman O'Mahoney nodded. So far as he was concerned the evidence was in and the case closed. He was, of course, jurist enough to recognize that Bill might have a version of the affair. But William had (a) socked a jaw and (b) socked a stomach. To Patrolman O'Mahoney's mind these facts overshadowed all else.

"Okay, boys," he said now to his cohorts. "Take him along."

"But," objected William, with heat, "you haven't heard my side of yet."

Patrolman O'Mahoney frowned upon him darkly. "You can tell your side of it," he said unencouragingly. "To the desk-sergeant. Come on, boys."

Patrolman Ira Smith snapped into position on William's right. He grasped William's arm. Patrolman Benjamin Druckenbratter arranged himself on William's left. He grasped William's other arm. Patrolman Denis Finn got immediately behind William. He grasped his nightstick. Patrolman Terence O'Mahoney took a stance some recognition. They marched in a body they marched out of Diffenderfer's. They marched past the shooting-gallery tycoon, who favored William, now that evil days were upon him, with a glassy stare of non-recognition. They marched out into the blinding publicity of East Forty-second Street. And through a crimson spot of embarrassment came to dye the tan on each of Bill Steele's cheeks, he held his head high. He was ashamed, disgraced, fallen, and lowly. But, as he tramped out of Diffenderfer's with his official escort there clung to him a certain nobility, such as may have invested the person of Caracacus walking in the chains of the Romans.

It is surmised that the Highway Commission hopes the Park service—national or state, or something—may eventually do something and thereby relieve it of the necessity for spending money on the road which, incidentally, wouldn't run through where votes are to be gathered.

Chairman Charles G. Powell of the Unemployment Compensation Commission estimates that his force of workers suffered an efficiency loss of at least 25 per cent during the hot period which brought a score of prostrations among the girls on the super-heated third floor of the U.C.C. quarters.

Which makes refusal of the Social Security Board to authorize either cooling units or windows appear very short-sighted even when viewed with a cold, calculating financial eye.

Cooling units cost $3,500, windows $1,000 at the most. The U. C. C. payroll is about $1,000,000 a year—say $3,300 a working day. Loss of 25 per cent efficiency would mean loss of more than $800 worth of work a day; which would pay for the windows in less than a week.

Incidentally, the U. C. C. office wasn't the only one in which the heat got the better of workereks of late.

Governor Clyde Roper's working space at the Capitol is about as airy as any in Raleigh, yet one of the ladies who works there was all but kayaked one day last week. She had to leave and go home, where her temperature rose to more than 102.

Not so long ago one of the ladies in the offices of Assistant Director Bob Devton's Budget Bureau had to be carried out.

Indications grow in volume that Willis Smith, Raleigh lawyer, is almost as certain a candidate as is his fellow attorney and townsman J. M. Broughton and that's saying a lot because everybody has Mr. Broughton actually and already running.

It's going to be interesting to watch Mr. Broughton's brother-in-law, Willard Dowell, the Merchants Association secretary, in the campaign—particularly if Broughton definitely declares for continuation of the sales tax.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, June 26.—Now that the first permanent Civilian Conservation Corps camp has been assigned to Mount Mitchell State Park, there is a deal of speculation over when, if ever, the State Highway and Public Works Commission will do something toward making one of Eastern America's most unusual scenic areas accessible to the public.

The Department of Conservation and Development—and particularly the Advertising Division—has been striving for many, many moons to get a toll-free road to the summit of Mount Mitchell, highest peak in Eastern America, but so far results have been practically nil.

It is surmised that the Highway Commission hopes the Park service—national or state, or something—may eventually do something and thereby relieve it of the necessity for spending money on the road which, incidentally, wouldn't run through where votes are to be gathered.

Chairman Charles G. Powell of the Unemployment Compensation Commission estimates that his force of workers suffered an efficiency loss of at least 25 per cent during the hot period which brought a score of prostrations among the girls on the super-heated third floor of the U.C.C. quarters.

Don King Hurls Second One-Hitter Of This Season

HOWARD EARP GETS THAT ONE

Damaging Hit Comes With Two Away In Ninth

By JAMES WHITFIELD

Don King's left hand sent the ball breezing across the plate for 2-3 innings against Williamston yesterday afternoon, holding the Martins runless and hitless. However, Howard Earp, who was supposed to be the last batter in the ninth, hammered a sizzling drive down the third base-line to smash the Greenville southpaw's hopes of a no-hitter.

That was the only hit of the game for the Martins and Rube Wilson's and his boys turned in four runs for a 4-0 triumph. The blow poled by Earp was hit so hard, it couldn't have been stopped if the entire Greenville team was in the third-base one. Then, too, the blow was a lucky one. Lucky for Earp, but not for King.

George Rimmer, Greenville cast-off, was the only other Martin to get on first. None of the visitors ever reached second. Rimmer's walk came in the fourth after Earp had gone out on a fly to right and Tierce had whiffed because of King's elusive pitch.

Williamston's only real threat of a hit before the ninth was in the eighth verse. Sellers, the first man to face King in this frame got a fluke hit to right field. However, Ed Black's superb sprinting and the height of the ball was hit caused the ball to land safely in Black's glove.

Greenville opened its scoring in the second inning when Harry Jenkins singled to left, advanced on an infield rap by Red Christopher and scored on Don King's single to left. The sacks became loaded after that, but with two men out, Black, last batter of the first-run second inning hit an infield fly which landed in Second-Sacker Tierce's glove to retire the side.

Rube Wilson singled in the second, advanced to third on Whitey Heavener's single to left and scored on Jenkins sacrifice fly to center-field. McCall, a newcomer to the left-field garden, reached first on Rimmer's error in the fifth, advanced to second on Jenkins' single and scored on Red Christopher's single. Heavener doubled in the seventh—the only extra base blow of the game—and scored on McCall's single.

Yesterday's game was the second one-hitter of the entire season for King, having turned in the same kind of performance over New Bern some time ago. New Bern's hit came in before two men were out in the ninth, however.

Harry Jenkins got two hits for two trips for a perfect day. He was trailed by Red Christopher who got three singles in four trips.

Ed Black tripled in the tenth and scored on a single by Manager Wilson to give Greenville a 5-4 win over Williamston there Saturday afternoon. This gave the Greenies a two-game advantage in the league lead and yesterday's triumph extended it to three.

Did It Again

This is Don King, as you know, sports fans. He's the Greenville hurler who limited Williamston Martins to only one safety in yesterday's thrilling but one-sided battle. That grin you see on his face is identical to the one he was wearing when Earp faced him with two away in the ninth. It would be discouraging to picture his facial expression after Earp blasted that scorching drive down the third base one. Don turned in a one-hitter against New Bern here some time ago.

Earl Long Isn't Just Like Huey, But . . .

Earl Long Better with His Fists

Baton Rouge, La.—(AP)—With Earl Long succeeding to the governorship, Louisiana promises to give the nation another political circus. For the brother of the late Kingfish, Huey P. Long, has a lot of the characteristics that helped keep Huey on front pages. And he has some newsmaking characteristics of his own.

Earl, who's 43, is completely unpredictable. He doesn't have his brother's flair for getting things his way nor does he have his brother's personality. But he's fearless, physically; he's waded into some vicious fist fights that Huey probably would have dodged.

Like Huey, Earl's an ex-traveling salesman. He's fiercely ambitious and has long coveted the governor's chair. In 1931, Huey wouldn't support him for lieutenant governor, so Earl ran on an opposition ticket. He finished last.

In 1933, Earl gave Huey one of his famous tongue lashings—"big belled coward" is one of the epithets he hurled. Although the brothers were reconciled, many people in Louisiana still distrust Earl a bit. Politicians fear him for his vindictiveness. There is little indication he has any great popular support.

Earl has lifted himself by his bootstraps. He likes social life. His hair is darker than Huey's; he's a little more sharp-faced and a little less stocky than his brother. But he's just as quick a thinker, just as plain-spoken and has the same dictatorial traits as Louisiana's more famous Long.

Their Aim: A Third Term For Roosevelt

A "third term for Roosevelt" organization has been started in Chicago, and here leaders in the movement watch Dr. John Lapp, educator and economist, register for membership No. 1. Left to right: James G. McConaughy, executive secretary of the organization; Peter M. Kelliher, chairman of the executive committee; Dr. Lapp and Dr. John Meade, vice president.

On Building and Loan Program

Governor Clyde R. Hoey is one of the 125 individuals who are eligible for the special Certificate of Award to be presented to those who have served as directors or officers of building and loan associations for 25 years or more. These awards will be given at a special program on the evening of June 27 at the annual convention of the North Carolina Building and Loan League to be held at Wrightsville Beach.

The governor served continuously as director of the Shelby Building and Loan Association from 1905 until January, 1937. John B. Cravner of Lexington, president of the North Carolina Building and Loan League, is shown presenting Governor Hoey with one of the beautiful Certificates of Award. This certificate was presented in advance of the special program because the governor will be prevented from attending the convention due to the fact that he will preside at the National Conference of Governors in New York.

LOCALS HAVING PAIR OF NIGHTS

Two New Players On Greenie Roster Over Weekend

The Greenville baseball club will sponsor two "Nights" during the present week.

Residents of Bethel, Stokes and Pataolus will be hosts of the club Thursday night. All heroes of Greenville have been extended an invitation to be guests of the club at Saturday night's game.

Goldsboro will play the Greenies for the Thursday night entertainment while New Bern will play its fourth game of the week with the locals on Saturday. In "Farmville Night" last week, the Greenies and Gold Bugs went for 11 innings, with the locals winning on a balk.

L. C. Moore, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the local club, said the reason for combining towns in the club-sponsored nights is to include them all before the season ends. Other Pitt County towns will be invited to attend a game as guests of the club in the future.

Greenville added two new players to its roster over the weekend. Pat Malone, former Tarboro hurler, has joined the local hurling staff. He helped Greenville to win over Williamston Saturday. Rusty McCall of Concord, who has done some playing in the western part of the State, is now playing in the Greenies' left garden. Riggs, local hurler, is on the suspension list.

SNOW HILL IN 11-VERSE GAME

Billie Pitcher Hits A Single to Drive In Winning Run

Eleve innings were required for Snow Hill to edge a 5-4 win over Kinston yesterday. Before the Sunday game, the Eagles had recorded six straight wins.

Before the ninth, Kinston held a 4-1 advantage. Three singles, an error and a double deadlocked the score and the game was forced in to two extra innings of play. Bryson, second hurler of the game for the Billies, sent in the winning run with a single.

Five Tarboro errors, which featured in five of New Bern's runs, produced the dynamite in a 7-2 win for the Bears. Duber's third-inning homer with none aboard was the biggest blow of the game.

Don Kepler thought he could fool the Wilson Tobs yesterday, but the Tobs turned the tables and puzzled him to the tune of 16 hits for a 12 to 7 win over Goldsboro.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 26. - (AP) - The stock market suffered a few mild selling spasms today with fresh international irritations receiving the principal blame.
The list tripped up at the start on light selling. Volume except for brief periods, dwindled to a trickle.
Losses running to two or more for percentages at the worst were reduced in many cases at the finish. Transfers for the five hours approximated 500,000 shares.

FOUR JUDGES BAT 1,000

In Supreme Court League
Warlick, who were found wrong every time. Johnston, who was appointed in the Nineteenth, defeated the first time the people got a whack at him and then reappointed a special judge by Governor Hoye, was reversed three times; Warlick, resident judge in the Sixteenth, was overruled four times.
The judge whose opinion was the most frequently sustained by the Supreme court was Hubert E. Olive, who managed Governor Hoye's primary campaign before being appointed to the bench. His rulings were found correct nine times, while flaws were picked in only two of his rulings.

Most frequently overruled was Judge J. H. Clement, who also had the most cases appealed from his decisions. Of 15 cases tried before Clement, nine were found to need reversal, revision or retrial. Six stood as decided below.

As a group, special judges had the highest percentage of affirmation. Of the 36 cases tried before such judges, 24 were affirmed, 12 reversed, for a percentage of 66.7.
Resident judges tried by far the largest proportion of the cases which were appealed—133 in all—with 79 affirmed, 54 reversed, for an average of 59.4.
Emergency judges—three of them —were all below the 500 mark, with the group as a whole getting five affirmances against twice as many reversals.

Statistics on the appeals from the lower courts include both criminal and civil cases and were obtained by going through all advance sheets of opinions handed down during the 1939 spring term.

It should be pointed out, perhaps,
that the absolute percentage of reversals suffered by a lower court judge is not by any means a true indication of his efficiency as a jurist. In fact, the ideally perfect judge would be so good that no appeals would ever be taken from his rulings below. So far, neither North Carolina nor any other state has attained that standard.

Here's a table showing how the judges fared (affirmed, reversed and percent):

Grow plenty of tomatoes for home use. Tomatoes make a good diet, almost as good as fruit. Plant one or two rows this month and two more in July. They will do well in the fall. Tomatoes are very easily killed because of their high acid content.
Turnips, lettuce, spinach and cabbage do well when planted in July.
The work being done by the 4-H clubs in the county this year "caps the stack." Seemingly the rural boys and girls have awakened to their noble opportunities. One can readily see in these boys and girls the future farmers and home makers when visits the 4-H club meetings. There one hears reports on chickens, pigs, gardens, corn demonstrations, beautification of home-yards, rearing chicks, making do-steps and the canning of fruit and vegetables by the girls.

Researches conducted by many leaders during the last 10 years have demonstrated the truth of the chiropactic principle," says Dr.
Keuzenkamp. "The clinical researches carried on by Dr. Brownell with the aid of the X-ray prove conclusively that many kinds of diseases can be caused by distortions of the spinal vertebrae. Medical scientists are beginning to recognize this. We believe that the time is near at hand when all legalized systems of healing will be utilized by the government in the care of the sick."

Atlanta, Ga., June 26. - (AP) -
John Aht counsel for the Textile Workers Union of America, a CIO union, agreed in a hearing before Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer F.
Andrews today to furnish, with some reservations, information about its memberships and contracts as required by a new law mandating a 32-1-2 cents an hour wage minimum for the industry.

Aht said he would be willing to produce witnesses who would give all information except a breakdown between dues paying and non-paying union members, names of mills with which the union has contracts and terms of contracts.
His offer was in reply to a request in Washington last week by Terry Taylor, counsel for opponents of the wage minimum for the number of union members in the Northern and Southern mills with which the union has contracts and the minimum wages specified in the contracts.
Administrator Andrews said he would delay until tomorrow a ruling on Taylor's request to subpoena the union to supply the information.
Taylor's request was termed "irrelevant" and "not pertinent to the hearing" by Boris Sciskin, economist for the United Textile Workers of America, an A. F. of L. group.
