FOREIGNERS IN ITALIAN ARMY TOLD TO MOVE

Ordered to Clear Out of Bolzano Province

TWO AMERICANS ARE IN DISTRICT

Paris, Meanwhile, Issues Expulsion Order to Italian Newspaper Correspondent

Rome, July 12.—(AP)—The Italian government disclosed today that Premier Mussolini himself had ordered all foreigners cleared out of Bolzano province as a "political and military" measure directed against anti-Fascism.

Two American women notified the United States embassy they had received orders to leave Bolzano within 48 hours, but representations by Ambassador William Phillips brought a promise of "every consideration" in their case.

Dorothea Watts of Newport, R. I., maintained that to leave on such short notice would endanger her mother's health. Phillips discussed the case with acting Foreign Minister Bastianini, who promised that the Americans would have additional time for their departure.

Officials said that no exceptions would be made except in cases of illness.

Among Americans vacationing in Bolzano province were Graham H. Kemper, consul general at Rome, and his family and others. Presumably they also will be required to leave.

A communique said Il Duce, as minister of the interior, had ordered the expulsions from the northern frontier of Tyrol province, which Italy gained from Austria in the World war.

He said the action was taken in conjunction with Italy's black-shirt organization for the suppression of anti-Fascism because of "the activity of some elements from western nations and residents in the province of Bolzano."

COUNTER ACTION TAKEN BY FRANCE AGAINST GERMANS Paris, July 12.—(AP)—France issued an expulsion order against the Paris correspondent of the Italian newspaper, Il Popolo di Roma, today while the French ambassador in Rome again protested against an Italian order forcing French citizens to leave Bolzano province.

UCC Receipts For State Is $25,039,594

Raleigh, July 12.—Total receipts of the North Carolina Department of Compensation Commission through July 6 amounted to $25,039,594, including $411,152.57 secured by interest due to the Federal government for balance in the United States Treasury. Benefit payments to unemployed persons during the same period—about 18 months—totaled $11,009,045.90, leaving a balance of over 14 million dollars.

The balance includes the pooled funds and monies being credited back to individual employers under the merit rating plan. The merit rating plan, authorized by the last legislative session, was endangered by amendments proposed in Congress, but these amendments have been withdrawn and it seems likely that North Carolina employers with unemployment records will continue to benefit under the plan.

REA To Consider Pitt Application

Raleigh, July 12.—(AP)—The Rural Electrification Authority will select a chairman and act on three requests for electric lines in Jones, Onslow, Randolph, Pitt and Greene counties at its July 20 meeting. Director Dudley Bagley said today.

Bagley said a committee had approved the following: Extension of Randolph Electric Membership Corporation's lines by 101 additional miles to serve 323 additional customers with a federal loan of $101,000; extension of Pitt-Greene Electric Membership Corporation's lines by 80 more miles, serving 375 more persons with an $80,000 loan; and the Jones-Onslow co-operative, which seeks 250 miles serving 725 customers at a cost of about $250,000.

The present chairman is Bagley.

SHELVE NEUTRALITY LEGISLATION

Senator Reynolds (left) and other officials in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today postponed consideration of neutrality legislation until the next session of Congress—the ballot was 12 to 11—Senators Walter F. George (seated) and Guy M. Gillette of Iowa, previously doubtful Democratic members of the committee, voted to delay. Thus two of the men whom the President attempted to "purge" in last year's elections administered the solar plexus blow to administration hopes of lifting the arms embargo of the present law at this session of Congress.

FIRE RAGES IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Three Small Communities Threatened By Blaze

Pacific, S. Dak., July 12.—(AP)—Three small communities west of Rapid City again were threatened early today by a forest fire raging in Black Hills.

Mrs. Bernice Muskamp, tourist camp operator, said a shift of the wind began blowing the fire toward Pacton, Silver City and Mystic.

"The fire is filling with smoke again," she said.

The blaze came within half a mile of Mystic and two miles of Pacton and Silver City before the wind shifted late yesterday and pushed the flames southward.

Mrs. Muskamp said residents of Sheridan, logging camp south of here, piled all their furniture in an open "flat" when the fire came within two miles of Sheridan.

The 270 residents of the other communities had piled their belongings on trucks.

In northern Colorado, 1,000 weary firefighters reported a conflagration in Roosevelt National Forest under control.

Raleigh, July 12.—(AP)—Governor Hoey today appointed Mrs. Quentin Gregory of Halifax to the board of trustees of the Confederate Women's Home at Fayetteville for a term expiring May 9, 1941, to succeed the late Dr. J. Frank Highsmith of Fayetteville.

The governor reappointed for terms expiring in May, 1941, the following members of the home's board of trustees: Charles E. Rose, Mrs. E. R. McKeighan, W. W. Orne and Alexander Cook, all of Fayetteville, and Mrs. John H. Anderson of Raleigh and Mrs. Walter Woodard of Wilson.

Supplementary Sum Of $370,211,000 Announced

JOINS FRANCE IN AERIAL DISPLAY

Two European Democracies Enter Into Cross Channel Demonstration Strength

London, July 12.—(AP)—Britain added today 79,105,000 pounds (about $370,211,000) to her 1939-40 expenses for preparedness.

The government announced a supplementary estimate of that amount to meet the cost of army expansion, including her territorial army, which corresponds to the United States National Guard, and for the recently launched conscription program.

The additional figure was issued as Britain and France, having entered cross-channel aerial maneuvers as part of a consolidation of their aerial might, were reported considering flights to Poland and other British-French allies.

The British press delightedly described yesterday's initial round-trip excursion of 200 Royal Air Force bombers to French territory as a "flawless performance and an important demonstration to the world of British-French solidarity."

The British flight will be followed by a return visit from French war planes with more or less regular shuttle trips to follow.

The London Daily Mail said that other British allies, chiefly Poland, would be taken into the scheme after details have been worked out.

French and British anti-air forces were tied into the exercises, with reports to be exchanged on the theoretical results of these "duels" on each other's aircrafts.

Graham Signer Of Petition Inserted In Record

Washington, D. C., July 12.—(AP)—Senator Reynolds (D-N. C.) inserted in the Congressional Record today a petition signed by Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, and others, calling on the state's members of Congress to support neutrality legislation which would provide for the naming of aggressor nations.

Reynolds said the view expressed was contrary to his position.

"I'm against any proposal that would permit the naming of an aggressor," he asserted. "I believe that extension of the power to name an aggressor would inevitably draw us into war."

The petition, whose signers included A. W. McAlister, Greensboro, N. C., and R. O. Browning, Burlington, N. C., stated only two methods had been proposed to keep the United States out of a threatened World war.

"One is to do nothing, to let aggression take its course, to maintain a strict and therefore utterly impotent neutrality, to pursue a policy of unconcern and irresponsible isolation. The trouble with this method is that it is neither effective or ethical."

The other method, the petition asserted, was "the realistic common sense method which we use when domestic disorders arise."

"We locate the aggressor and we do all we can to render aggression uncomfortable and unpopular."

Discharged, He Asks Back Salary In Suit

A civil action has been instituted in Pitt Superior court on behalf of L. E. Palmer, who is seeking to recover $750 from J. M. Gregory, Wake county contractor who is erecting the classroom building at East Carolina Teachers College.

Palmer contends that Gregory employed him as superintendent of the construction job and on May 4 fired him without just cause, and is seeking salary for the period up to June 27 at the rate of $75 weekly and also $75 for the week, April 27-May 4.

The plaintiff is represented by Hamner Hannah and Albion Dunn.

Pair Held Five Hours In Parachute at Fair

New York, July 12.—(AP)—A pleasure seeking couple who dangled for five hours on a board seat 125 feet above ground at the World's Fair's parachute jump were rescued at dawn today after two daring mechanics cut the jammed diving wire which held them captive.

The aerial prisoners were Mr and Mrs. J. Cornelius Rathbone.

David M. Ellison (above) attorney general for Louisiana, whose request for federal records, evidence and testimony in connection with the current investigation of WPA activities in the state, was refused by U. S. Attorney General Frank Murphy. In a brief message to Ellison at Baton Rouge Murphy advised the request was "deemed inadvisable" pending further inquiry.

BREAK IS SEEN IN HEAT WAVE

Mid-West Suffering Under Temperatures Of 100

By The Associated Press A cold air mass from the North Pacific swung inland today to break up a heat wave that blistered much of the Midwest with temperatures in the 100's.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd of the United States Weather Bureau at Chicago said the area encompassed by the heat was one of the largest ever had recorded.

The breakup will occur in North Dakota, most of South Dakota and northwestern Nebraska today, Lloyd said, and will reach the Great Lakes region late tomorrow afternoon. He said readings would remain in the middle or upper 90's tomorrow in the southern Illinois, southern Missouri, southeastern Kansas, eastern and southern Indiana and southeastern Michigan.

Showers were expected to accompany the drop in temperature in many places.

As a whole, Nebraska was the hottest state in the sweltering area. Omaha's 105 was the lowest maximum reported. Temperatures ranged from 96 to 110 in parts of Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Oklahoma and Iowa. Mountainous areas afforded some of the cool spots in the affected region.

The torrid wave caused some anxiety for crops in the corn belt. A. V. Nordquist, assistant state-federal agricultural statistician in Nebraska, said the heat unquestionably harmed the corn in that state, but weather in the grain belt was reported on the Chicago Board of Trade, where wheat prices rallied.

Breaks Both Legs In Road Accident

Two white men of the Black Jack community and seven Negroes of the Winterville section were injured last night in a head-on automobile collision on the Greenville-New Bern highway, about 17 miles from this city, and one of the Negroes is confined to Pitt General Hospital here with both legs broken.

Highway Patrolman W. W. Masengill, investigating, said an automobile driven by Zeno Brown, Winterville Negro, attempted to pass an other automobile and struck the motor vehicle operated by Lee Cox of Black Jack, head-on. The car driver by Cox belonged to Roy Mills and with Cox when the accident occurred.

Cox received lacerations of the face and his left hand was badly mangled in the accident. Mills received scalp lacerations. The only Negro in the accident admitted to the hospital, although occupants of both cars were treated, was Estel Williamson, aged Negro woman, who broke both legs and received painful body bruises.

Riding with Brown, who is charged with reckless driving, were Ella Banks, Hattie Pugh, Edna Bradie, Esther Williamson, Alice Corey and Leta Martin. All of the Negroes received severe bruises and lacerations. Bond for Brown was set at $100.

Aged Pitt Woman Claimed By Death

Mrs. Claude V. Tyson, 87, died at her home near Farmville today around 11 o'clock following a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the late home Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Gilbert Davis, Christian minister of Bellairthur, and burial will be in the family cemetery plot near Greenville.

Mrs. Tyson was born and reared and had spent her entire life in Pitt county. She was a member of Red Oak Christian Church.

Miner Killed And Four Others Wounded During Harlan Street Fighting

Union Member and Mother Wounded By Guardsmen

MORE THAN 100 BEING ARRESTED

Shooting Described As "Pitched Battle" Between Guardsmen and Union Miners

Harlan, Ky., July 12.—(AP)—One miner was shot fatally, four others wounded, including a National Guard officer, at a Harlan mine today and a few hours later a union miner and his mother were wounded on the streets of Harlan by guardsmen.

Governor Chandler at Ashland, on a tour of inspection of the eastern Kentucky mountain flood area, ordered two tanks and a number of machine gun units into Harlan county immediately.

The governor said two additional companies of guardsmen are already on their way to reinforce approximately 300 militiamen on duty here.

The earlier shooting was the first outbreak involving shooting which has resulted in casualties in the current labor strife in this eastern Kentucky soft coal field. It occurred at the Mahan-Ellison coal company's mine on a creek five miles southwest of here.

Ben Middleton, county jailer, said George Tittler, secretary-treasurer of the Harlan district United Mine Workers (U. M. W.), and his wife were jailed here shortly after the shooting. He said they were brought to jail by militiamen, but no charge was placed against them.

Lieutenant Dallas Keller of the guardsmen reported "more than 100" men were being brought to jail. Major Fred Staples, in command of the militiamen, left for the scene of the affray.

Two men suffered minor injuries at the time of the first shooting. J. A. Dickinson, an official of the Mahan-Ellison company, described the shooting as a "pitched battle" between guardsmen and union miners he said were picketing the mine.

LITTLE POLIO IN THIS STATE

Number of Cases Reported Below the Average

Raleigh, July 12.—(AP)—Dr. J. C. Knox, state epidemiologist, said today that the 25 cases of infantile paralysis reported in North Carolina this year through yesterday fell several cases below the normal average.

The normal expectancy by the end of July, he figured, was 33 cases. Dr. Knox said that Union county authorities had been advised to postpone opening of schools until October because there were cases in adjacent counties in South Carolina, though none have been reported in Union county.

On the other hand, Rutherford county officials were told to go ahead if they desired and open the schools as there were no cases 50 or 60 miles round the county. It was explained that the health board could not foretell what might happen, but there appeared to be no danger.

The twenty-fifth case was reported from Gaston county yesterday.

Eating Places Must Display Rating Card

Raleigh, July 12.—An appeal to the public for cooperation in reporting eating places which fail to post in conspicuous place the sanitary rating card, was made today by the state health authorities.

The law requires that such rates be posted after each inspection. Recently a Winston-Salem cafe operator was convicted and fined for refusal to comply with this law.

It is a civic duty for the patron to report any public eating place which is in an obviously unsanitary condition, as well as to report those failing to post rating cards, said a member of the sanitation division.

There are 400,000 bicycles in Copenhagen, Denmark — one for every two persons.

Named To Post

Paul V. McNutt, now American high commissioner to the Philippines, has been chosen by President Roosevelt to be federal security administrator. Whether the President was giving him a boost toward the Democratic nomination for the presidency, or just giving him a chance to show what he could do, was a question in the minds of capital observers.

COMPLETE LEG OF 2-DAY TOUR

Pitt Farm Men and Women Cover 75 Miles Today

Spurred by the incentive of learning better farming practices through travel and observation, a large number of Pitt county farm men and women and 4-H club boys and girls, today covered 75 miles of fertile land on the first leg of their two-day farm tour.

Pitt county's enthusiastic rural travelers left the farm office here this morning around nine o'clock and during the day visited points of interest on most of the big farms south of Greenville to complete the first phase of the third annual farm tour in the county.

What appeared to be one of the most refreshing and invigorating stops of the day came shortly after 12 o'clock when the tourists stopped at Mack Smith's farm at Bellairthur for a barbecue dinner to satisfy the appetites developed during the morning hours. Despite the moderate temperature, beads of perspiration stood on the forehead of some of the travelers at the noon hour, but body temperatures took an apparent drop behind cold lemonade, served with the appetizing barbecue.

One of the major stops of the morning, as far as learning better farming practices goes, was at M. O. Speight's farm, several miles from Greenville, where the tourists viewed a tobacco variety test, studied the quality of certified tobacco seed production, examined farm machinery and made a survey of certified oats.

Crop rotation on J. R. Harve's farm also proved of interest to the farmers, many of whom talked at random about what was being done on their farms in the way of conserving crops through rotation. Furbered Duror Jersey hogs were studied at the Jack Boyd farm.

This afternoon's program was well-filled, and included advantageous procedures in practically every means of farming. The first stop of the afternoon was at W. A. Pollard's, where the tourists viewed Mr. Pollard's shop and equipment and his farm sheds and machinery.

While at Mack Smith's where they had dinner, the tourists witnessed tobacco fertilizer demonstration. Points of interest on Miss Helen Smith's farm included swine sanitation, corn variety test, new feed barn and farrowing houses. Beef cattle were studied at W. A. Allen's farm, while dairy cattle, pastures, Kobe lespedeza and Sericea lespedeza was studied on the J. T. Thorne farm.

Visits sponsored primarily for the benefit of the women on tour during the day included Oscar Hardee's farm, where they viewed the kitchen; Mrs. T. S. Tyson's, where they saw the lawn; Mrs. A. P. L. E. and Earl Turnage's, where they were provided with home demonstration methods, including the lawn, pool, border plants and rose garden. The last stop of the day was at Inez and Ruth Allen's, where they studied room improvement, clothing, bath room and lawn.

The only phase of fruit culture discussed on today's journey was at Zilpha and R. A. McLawhorn's, where peach orchard pruning and peach borer control was studied and (Continued on page four)

BODY DECIDES TO DELAY ALL TAX MEASURES

Tax-Exemption Bill May Go To Next Session

TREASURY HAS SUGGESTIONS

Action Of The House Ways And Means Group Eliminates Adjournment Barrier

Washington, July 12.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means committee voted today to sidetrack until next session legislation to prohibit future issuance of tax-exempt securities and to reduce surtaxes on individual incomes in the higher brackets.

The treasury department had recommended a ban on future tax exemptions on the ground that they tended to deprive industry of much needed investment capital and interfered with the government tax system. Treasury officials explained that while surtaxes on individual incomes ranged as high as 70 per cent, investors were inclined to put their money in tax-exempt bonds rather than risk it in venturing enterprises.

Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) said the committee felt there was too little time left before adjournment to attempt passage of the legislation at this session.

The committee's action eliminated another possible barrier to adjournment.

Congressional leaders pressed forward with other work remaining to be done before adjournment while they watched the White House for signs of what President Roosevelt intended to do about neutrality legislation, which the Senate Foreign Relations committee voted yesterday to shelve for this session.

President Roosevelt soon may send a special message to Congress well informed Senators said, backing up his appeals for neutrality legislation at this session.

He told reporters yesterday that if a foreign war should break out before the present law was revised, Congress would find it extremely difficult to take such action.

Much of the credit, he said, is due State Bank Commissioner Gurney Hood.

A number of other speakers were on the program.

Eighth of Acre Yields $137. Baton Rouge, La.—(AP)—A return of $137 from an eighth of an acre, making the soil yield at the rate of more than $1,000 an acre, sounds more like some kind of minor operation than farming.

L. E. Hopper, East Baton Rouge parish, did it with tomatoes. He picked one of the hottest months of the year, planted a heat-resistant variety, fertilized well, irrigated his rows, sprayed to keep down insect pests, reaped a bumper harvest and sold it at a fancy price.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—(AP)—Co-eds at Western States Teachers College fired right back at men students who criticized their dress as "dowdy."

The girls posted these suggestions for the men on a bulletin board: 1—Shave. Why increase blue Monday with a blue beard? 2—Wash your neck daily. 3—Wear a shirt under your sweater and have the sweater cleaned occasionally. 4—Press your trousers so they will look less like burlap sacks. 5—Carry a handkerchief.

WHEN DOES A TRAILER BECOME A HOUSE?

Jamesville, Wis.—(AP)—When, if ever, does an automobile trailer become a house? City officials would like to know, because several families are living in trailers which no longer have wheels. Some have telephone and electric service.

If they are trailers, they are forbidden by ordinance from remaining within the city limits. If they are houses, the city requires a building permit.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds By Robbin Coops

Hollywood.—Every other actor you meet will confide, sooner or later, that his real ambition is to become a director. Hearing it so often, you become skeptical—but looking back on the past few years there's evidence aplenty that the boys do mean it.

Richard Dix, so set on directing, once had a contract that allowed him that privilege as well as acting, but "Man of Conquest" has delayed the day for him again. George Raft is talking about it now—or "some day"—and Lew Ayres, who talked about it, already has had one fling behind the cameras, admits now he wasn't yet ready. But several actors—notably Norman Foster, Glenn Tryon, Raoul Walsh, Ricardo Cortez—have made the switch in the past dozen years or so.

There's nothing new about it. A long time ago Mack Sennett was acting in his own comedies, and from his comedies came directors like Mal St. Clair, Eddie Cline, Wesley Ruggles. David Butler hammed about before he got on the right side of the camera—behind it.

The other day Irving Cummings celebrated 30 years in the movie industry, where many another has been engaged that long without cause to celebrate. Cummings, too, was once an actor.

Commercial tie-up aside, it was an interesting gathering. Cummings told how Francis Powers, pioneer director among the guests, had introduced him, then a resplendent stage juvenile, to appear in the scorned flickers for a salary of $30 a week, and subsequently had let him go because he demanded $35.

Cummings draws his present four figures weekly because, after a term of years as leading man and star (remember him with Kettle Pickford in that fabulous serial, "The Diamond from the Sky"?), he noted when shaving one morning that his hair was thinning and his chin was showing a slight tendency toward repeating itself.

Both physical manifestations being incompatible with the status of romantic leads of the day (though nowadays they're laughed off with a toupee and chin exercises), Cummings decided to break over them and there.

It was as tough then to convince producers that an actor could direct other actors as it is today. Nobody would take a chance on him, although many producers offered him roles in which to peddle his brand of pork. So Cummings mortgaged his house and lot and borrowed $6,000 and by self-proclamation became Irving Cummings, director.

"Oh! I really must hurry—this is the big day!"

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh July 12.—When State Auditor George Ross Pou sorted his mail yesterday he found that about 28 out of every 25 letters were about Confederate pensions. Transfer of so many widows to regular relief funds has caused a lot of misunderstanding and confusion. The new rule providing for monthly rather than semiannual payments to pensioners left on the pension rolls increased confusion. Mr. Pou's letters came from pensioners themselves, from lawyers and from clerks of courts. The prize letter was from one court clerk who asked for the names of the sponsors and all legislators who voted for the 1939 law changing the method of paying pensions, and who said he wanted the information for his files as "that was the most damnable piece of legislation" he had ever heard about.

Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, state superintendent of public instruction, is at home this week. That's almost news in itself, for Dr. Erwin has run Governor Hoey a close second in number of miles traveled and speeches made this year. Yesterday afternoon the state superintendent reverted to the role of school teacher. He was host speaker to the class in school administration at Duke University summer school. This class is made up of school officials from almost every state in the union and each of the "pupils" voiced keen interest in North Carolina's educational set-up. They were also impressed by the new offices of the state department of education and the state school commission.

Dr. J. C. Knox, head of the division of epidemiology in the department of Health, crossed his fingers and tapped on wood as he answered a question about the South Carolina epidemic of infantile paralysis. North Carolina has had only 20 cases reported this year. A 10-year average, excluding the epidemic year of 1935, is 76 cases annually. On that basis the state should have had 38 cases reported by July 1. The "bad year," 1935, brought more than 600. Early summer is usually the danger period, and Dr. Knox believes that 1939 will not exceed the normal, and he hopes it will reduce the average.

Tax gatherers and other collectors are interested in a news report from Muskogee, Okla. The American Legion post in that city has a pet (1939) skunk. Post by-laws provide that the skunk shall be placed in the care of the member furthest behind in the payment of his dues. It is said that dues are seldom more than one day delinquent after delivery of the "pet."

North Carolina missed a first, but made second place in number of new laws passed this year. Forty-four state legislatures were in session some time this year. Florida led with 123 new laws, a big majority of them purely local in nature. North Carolina was second with 1,051. Arizona trailed along with a mere 90. South Carolina held the record for long session—a full six months.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Ruff

YESTERDAY: When they get into a fist fight with each other the East twins become two, and admit they're fake freaks. Meanwhile, Richard Craftsbury Adams, owner of Seltair Acres, is bearing down on his uninvited guests. Meanwhile, also, the Chiseler is reconnoitering.

Chapter 31 The King Of Hearts

THE Chiseler inspected the upper stories of the house. They were in total darkness. Having noted this salubrious fact, the Chiseler glided across the lawn and fumbled along the side of the house until he found a rainspout. Peering aloft, he perceived that this rainspout, on its gay journey to the roof, ran close to an iron balcony some fifteen or twenty feet off the ground.

"Okiedoke," muttered the Chiseler, who occasionally permitted himself the luxury of lapsing into the vernacular.

In his youth Mr. Jennings had been no mean porch-climber. And the art of porch-climbing is similar in certain respects to those of swimming and bicycle riding. One forgets the finer points with the passing years, but the rudiments remain. In short, one porch-climber always a porch-climber. Mindful of the crying need for absolute quiet, the Chiseler removed his shoes and secured them in his belt. Then he went up the rainspout nimbly.

He gained the balcony without nimbly and climb cautiously over the rail. But all of a sudden, he paused. A light had been switched on in one of the rooms that gave on the balcony.

Drawing back into a darkened corner, the Chiseler took counsel with himself. He speedily came to the conclusion that it would be the height of folly to be stepped by this slight untoward occurrence. Doubtless the light had been snapped on by a maid who was turning down a bed or something. She'd probably be gone in a minute. He resigned himself to wait.

Five minutes passed. Ten. Fifteen. And during them there came at intervals to the Chiseler's ears small slithering sounds as of birds fluttering their wings. The sounds issued from the open window of the lighted room and the Chiseler was at a loss to account for them. He began to fidget. Valuable time was passing.

He permitted another two minutes to go by. Then he came to the conclusion that the maid, having turned down the bed, had left and neglected to switch off the light. He stole forward stealthily and looked in the window. At a table appeared a portly woman playing what appeared to be solitaire. And the sounds he had heard were by the cards as she shuffled and rifled them.

Mrs. Dipsang, housekeeper at Seltair Acres, had called it a day. Having made adequate provision for the party of Mr. Jonathan's, she had turned the reins of government over to Matherton and his subordinates. Then she had slipped up to her room, intent upon a quiet cup of tea.

Before ringing for it, however, she had sat down to tell her fortune a few times. Mrs. Dipsang was an inveterate teller of fortunes. True, it was very seldom that the events prophesied by Mrs. Dipsang ever came off or anybody else ever came off. Nevertheless she persisted, buoyed by the fact that upon the night of the decease of the late Dipsang a seafaring man lost overboard in a blow off Cape Hatteras, the jack of spades had come up no less than seven times in spots significant of disaster. In Mrs. Dipsang's occult scheme of things, the jack of spades was a bird of ill-omen.

The present set-up of the cards indicated nothing exciting. Mrs. Dipsang sighed, gathered up the pack and tried again. And this time it was apparent from the first that something big was about to happen. Propitious card after propitious card flew from the deck and fell in the proper juxtaposition with one another. Cards indicative of health, wealth and happiness practically twined together. The eyes of Mrs. Dipsang bulged and the Dipsang knees trembled. Never before had she had such a fortune. Great events, all of a favorable nature, were ganging up with a view to transpiring in the near future. The stars were whirling in their courses. The world was shaking and jittering, just prior to flinging itself, at Mrs. Dipsang's feet. With nervous fingers she flipped over the next card. And a little cry left her throat. The card was the king of hearts.

Brimming Cup

Mrs. Dipsang's cup was complete. The king of hearts, turning up with other cards of salutary significance, could mean but one thing. A large light man of regal bearing was about to come into her life. And in addition to entering her life, this large light man was predestined to remain in it, doubtless replacing the nautical Dipsang who had so carelessly gone to Javy Jones off Hatteras. Yes, destiny was arranged on the side of Mrs. Dipsang. And Mrs. Dipsang, heart a-flutter, sat back gasping, the happiest woman on Long Island.

It was at this momentous instant in the world's history that Chiseler Jennings essayed to vacate the balcony.

COMPLETE LEG OF TWO-DAY TOUR

Farm officials and experts on today's tour were: R. R. Bennett, county farm agent; C. D. Gignett, assistant county agent; Miss Ethel Nice, home demonstration agent; H. B. James, assistant farm management specialist; and L. I. Case, beef cattle specialist, both of State College. Dr. F. R. Poole and Dr. Luther Shuman, plant pathologists,

The Chiseler had come to a conclusion. So far as he could see, the fat woman within the room had settled down for an all-night session. It was a touch of bad luck, but no matter. He was a man of resource. He would simply go quietly down the rainspout and try in another quarter.

As the Chiseler turned to depart the head of a rusty nail, protruding from the side of the house, came in contact with his neat dark gray trousers. And as his right leg shot forward, there was a ripping rending tearing sound. The next instant the night breeze was riffling the Chiseler's underpants through a gap that a bull terrier would have been proud to exhibit to his kinfolk.

Wherefore the Chiseler may, at this point, be forgiven for making one of the few mistakes of a long and dishonorable career. "Strike me pink," quoth the Chiseler, in a hoarse and sibilant whisper.

Startled, Mrs. Dipsang leapt to her feet and rushed to the window. She was, in no sense of the word, frightened. On the contrary, her condition was one of happy excitement. The cards had indicated a large light gentleman of kingly presence just around the corner. She popped her head out of the window and perceived the Chiseler, now dancing in some confusion near the end of the balcony.

Mrs. Dipsang was an assiduous reader of mystery thrillers. Therefore, she knew just how to accost shadowy figures who danced uninvited upon her balcony.

"Stop, thief!" said Mrs. Dipsang. But, fortunately for the Chiseler, she said it in a low throaty voice. The Chiseler abruptly ceased to dance. As a matter of fact, he had been dancing only temporarily, while making up his mind as to how to proceed next. And in an instant his stupendous intellect was swarming to his aid. This card-playing woman looked like a simple soul. He would, therefore, hold her in play with the heavy artillery of his vocabulary until some cock-and-bull story occurred to him.

"Sssh!" he whispered, by way of kicking off. "There is no call for hysteria, my good woman."

He might well have omitted reference to hysteria. Mrs. Dipsang had no intention of indulging in a fit of nerves. "Come here," she ordered peremptorily.

Better Balconies

THE Chiseler hesitated. He had a congenial objection to allowing his particular cast of countenance to be observed while on balconies attached to the better homes of Long Island.

Mrs. Dipsang, however, was not altogether a fool. "Come here," she commanded again, a little stridently. "If you don't, I'll scream."

The Chiseler waved his hands in front of his face in an agitated attempt to divert the threatening larynx of Mrs. Dipsang.

"Madam," he said, striving for composure, "in the delightful conversation that will presently ensue, I must beg of you to modulate your voice. I can explain everything to your entire satisfaction."

"Then come here," said Mrs. Dipsang. Hers was a single-track mind. When it went after a point, it went after it like a bloodhound. The Chiseler came, sidling a little in deference to his sick trousers.

In the illumination that poured from the window, Mrs. Dipsang subjected him to a critical inspection. Nor was she ill-pleased by what she saw. Here stood a tall ascetic-looking gentleman of dignified bearing. His complexion was delicately the light side. And as if to clinch this fact, he sported a pair of sand-colored mustaches that would have brought tears to the eyes of a bull walrus. Mrs. Dipsang's mood changed from one of faint suspicion to that of extreme affability.

"Come in," she said courteously, suddenly throwing open a door which gave on the balcony.

The Chiseler had suspected the presence of this door. But he had not seen it since it was near the opposite end of the balcony. Now that it was open, however, he did not care to go through it. In his opinion, it was not a good idea for this matronly woman, obviously an inmate of the house, to see too much of him.

"I very much regret," he said now, clearing his throat, "that I shall be unable to—er—to enjoy your kind offer of hospitalities. Before going, however, I feel that you are due an explanation of my rather unconventional method of appearing on your balcony."

"I certainly am," said Mrs. Dipsang, decisively. "Come in and do your explaining."

"There are reasons," said the Chiseler, "why I prefer to remain here."

Malone And King Hurl Victories Over Wilson Tobs

SIMPSON BACK IN THE LINEUP

Greenies Win 5-3, 4-2 In Pair of Ball Games

Greenville strengthened its lead in the Coastal Plain League in games with Wilson yesterday afternoon at night, defeating the Tobs 5-3 in the first encounter and trouncing them 4-2 in the night-cap.

Rube and his boys will not play in Greenville again until Friday night, at which time all ladies will be admitted free. Kinston's Eagles will entertain the Greenies Friday.

Johnnie Yent pitched 1-1-3 innings in the afternoon game, being relieved by Pat Malone, who turned in his fourth win for the Greenies. It was learned last night that Yent had been given his walking papers by virtue of yesterday's bad showing.

Ralph Simpson, valuable Greenville centerfielder, finally returned to the lineup last night, and drew one of the biggest hands ever allotted any player. Ralph, out of the game because of injuries received several weeks ago, hit two hard blows to left field, last night, but the Tobs left-fielder happened to be waiting for them.

In the night doings, Don King came out on the big end of a pitching argument that he and Frank Bisette, Wilson high school youth of last year, had created. However, the youthful Wilson boy turned in a good performance, limiting the locals to three hits in 2-3 innings. Joe Talley, afternoon pitcher, relieved Bisette after Greenville had scored its last run of the game in the seventh inning.

Despite his win, King wasn't up to his usual standard last night and that Wilson bunch caused beads of perspiration to trickle across his brow. Don's weakness was probably due to the fact that someone told him about a $37.50 watch he was supposed to receive if he won the ball game. He got the watch, but almost lost the game. The watch was awarded to the valuable Greenville left-hander by Lauters Brothers, local jewelers.

Both teams collected eight hits apiece yesterday afternoon, and in the last innings of the game, the Wilson players made steady as long singles to the outfield in big league style. Gracie Allen featured afield for the Greenies afternoon and night.

Wilson jumped to a two-run lead in the afternoon game via two singles, but Greenville clinched the win with a four-run party in the second inning on Rube Wilson's fielder's choice coupled with Jirak's error. Gracie Allen's two-run double and Vincent Smith's single.

Jirak reached first on Red Christopher's error in the first inning of the night game, advanced on an infield out and scored on Manager Frank Rodgers' single to right field.

Greenville's first runs of the night game came in the fourth. Daniels singled and McCall walked. Ralph Simpson then hit to Biershenk, who made a wild throw to second in an effort to get McCall, and the Greenies who were aboard scored. The locals scored two more in the seventh on Don King's single and Christopher's walk with the sacks loaded.

Wilson's final run came in the ninth when Blaine Smith walked, advanced to second on Anderson's walk and scored when Baba, batting for Carnahan, singled to left field. Retiring the side with two men on base prevented the game from going beyond the regulation distance.

FURNISH DRUG TO PHYSICIANS

State To Provide Anti-Syphilitic Medicine Free

Raleigh, July 12. - As a further step in North Carolina's anti-syphilitic campaign, the State Board of Health announces that doctors engaged in private practice may obtain from local health departments free medicines for the treatment of cases in their care. A rather intricate system of application and report blanks must be used, and in counties without local health units the drugs may be obtained direct from the state board.
Arsenical drugs will be distributed only in individual dose packages except where previous arrangements for larger quantities are made by the doctor.

In the course of a casual conversation today Dr. J. C. Knox, head of the division of epidemiology of the health department, stated that surveys indicate about ten per cent of the population of the state affected by syphilis. Sixty per cent of this number, or about six per cent of the entire population, comes within the marriageable ages.
"It requires no imagination," said Dr. Knox, "to see that this situation presents a most serious problem and makes careful observance of the new physical tests for marriage of the greatest importance to this and to the next generation."

Dr. Knox confirmed the opinion voiced by Dr. Tom Long, who as a member of the State Senate sponsored the marriage test law, that its effectiveness depends largely upon full cooperation of the medical profession.
