NIPPON FLEET PREPARES FOR SOVIET THREAT

Battleships To Protect Coal And Oil Properties

SIZE OF FORCE NOT DISCLOSED

Japan Awaits Midnight Thursday As Deadline To See If Russia Will Confiscate Property

Tokyo, July 21.—(AP)—A naval ministry source disclosed today that a section of the Japanese fleet was assembling in northern waters as a result of a Soviet Russian threat to confiscate Japanese oil and coal properties.

The size of the naval force, its base and destination were not stated. The naval source declared, however, that "Our ships and men are ready."

A source in Japan was likely to take aimed action to prevent confiscation, he replied. "In my opinion that is possible. The situation is extremely grave."

On Monday, Soviet Russia announced rejection of a Japanese demand in ultimatum form regarding the rights of Japanese oil and coal concessionaires in Sakhalin Island, which is half Russian and half Japanese. It is of the Siberian coast.

The government awaited word as to whether Soviet authorities had carried out a threat to confiscate the property at the midnight Thursday deadline. No reports had been received thus far, either from Sakhalin or Moscow.

At Moscow, Japanese Ambassador Togo was engaged in negotiations with Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs, Lozovoy, in a last-minute effort to avert a clash.

Vice Admiral Sakonji, president of the North Sakhalin council, said, "Japan will never surrender her concessions."

"If necessary," he added, "we will occupy the island."

Official electric cables expressed a fear of the repetition of the massacre of 1920, when some 600 Japanese were slain.

Horton Pleads Cause Of Public Education

Columbia, S. C., July 21.—(AP)—Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton of Fribourg today told the Charlotte Civitan Club that "The cause of public education must not lag behind economic growth of the state."

"My hope," said Horton, "is that the state will continue to make use of local efforts we may bring to the North Carolina public school system to national recognition of its right to place."

Approves Bid.—(AP)—W. Vance Baine, chief highway engineer, said today that the highway commission had approved a low bid received last week for a project in South Carolina.

No Wagon.—(AP)—Local policemen have a "bring 'em back alive" technique that saves patrol-wagon deterioration. Four officers joined the chase after a burglarly suspect was flushed in front of a broken jewelry-store window. After a mile gallop, he was finally caught, but they didn't control the patrol wagon. The capture was made 50 feet from a police station.

National Guardsmen Write Home To Folks

Mothers and fathers, sisters and brothers of members of Battery A, 113th Field Artillery, encamped at Fort Bragg, have been receiving letters and post cards this week from 64 Greenville and Pitt county boys who left last Sunday for Fort Bragg.

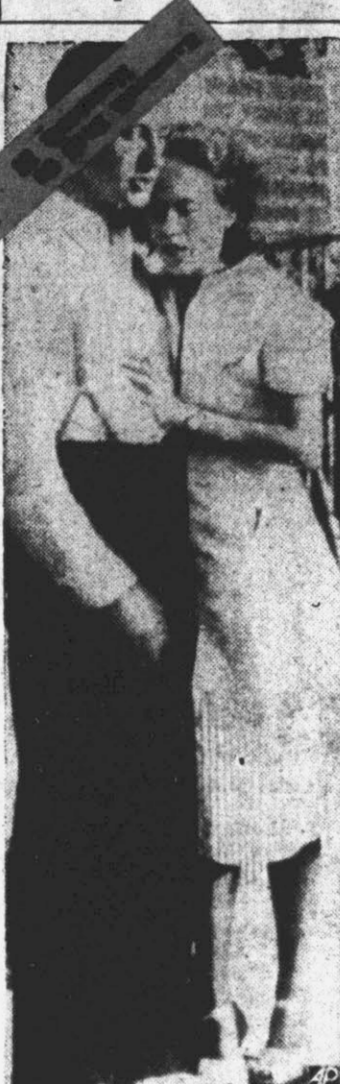

Saturday will complete the first half of maneuvers planned for Greenville and other National Guardsmen. The men will leave the range tomorrow and after a weekend of leisure will return to the field Monday morning and experience another full week of drills. They will journey home next week-end.

Heavy Downpour

J. A. Clark, official weather observer, today revealed that 2.91 inches of rain fell on Greenville through 24 hours ending this morning at 7 o'clock, one of the heaviest downpours ever recorded here.

Before last night's downpour, the total rainfall for the present month was recorded officially at 5.45 inches, and this figure, combined with the official report today, sets the number of inches of rainfall for the month at 8.36 inches.

Kidnaped Wife Safe

Mrs. Bernice Beckwith is shown safe in the arms of her husband, Cyril Beckwith, at Northampton, Mass., after state troopers found her in a lonely mountain cabin where she was taken by her former husband, James Kehoe. He was arrested on a charge that he kidnaped her.

NOTE DEMANDS RANSOM FUNDS

Jerusalem, July 21.—(AP)—A donkey boy brought to Jerusalem today a note from the Rev. G. R. Goldner of Meeclore, Ohio, assuring his father of his safety, but urging that the $5,000 ransom demanded by his Arab kidnapers be paid today if possible.

The same messenger brought a note from the leader of the band which kidnaped the Ohio pastor Wednesday, declaring that if the ransom were not paid the captors could not be responsible for Goldner's safety.

The first message delivered to Dr. Jacob Goldner, Cleveland, Ohio, pastor and father of the kidnaped man, said:

"Don't worry. I am sending this note by my donkey boy to you to assure you I am safe. Please bring the money, if possible, Friday. Affectionately, Jerry Gerould."

Two donkey boys accompanied the Goldners on the journey which resulted in the kidnaping. One was sent back with the father, who reached Jerusalem yesterday. The second was freed last night with the messages and reached Jerusalem this morning.

Enrollment Of 350 Expected For ECTC

Enrollment at East Carolina Teachers College for the second summer term is about half that of the preceding summer term. Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, registrar, revealed today.

Dr. McGinnis said that 325 registered Thursday and that 15 others had enrolled since the registration closed, and with a few more students "drifting in," the enrollment for the concluding summer term will center around the 350 mark.

There were 390 students enrolled of the first summer term, McGinnis said, but explained there are always fewer students for the second term than the first during the summer months.

Cotton Ginners Form A New Organization

Raleigh, July 21.—(AP)—Cotton ginners of North Carolina and Virginia formed the North Carolina-Virginia Ginner Association today and elected C. A. Johnson of Tarboro president.

James R. Miller of Pineville, Edwin Pate of Laurel Hill and W. M. Jenkins of Norfolk were elected vice presidents, with Fred P. Johnson, gin inspector for the State Department of Agriculture, named secretary-treasurer.

G. M. Lester of Jackson, Miss., urged the ginners to eliminate cut-throat competition by regulating themselves, as he argued that "politicians, legislators or Washington" could not "clean up" the industry. Lester said this was the only state without a ginners' association.

SENATE GROUP SLASHES FDR'S LENDING PLAN

Makes Four Hundred Million Dollar Reduction

DISSATISFACTION STILL PREVAILS

Federal Loan Administrator Jones Brands Inference Of His Testimony As Ridiculous

Washington, July 21.—(AP)—The Senate Banking committee trimmed $400,000,000 from President Roosevelt's $2,800,000,000 lending program today and then added $90,000,000 for reclamation projects in the West.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), voicing the views of "minority committee members, told reporters Republicans still were "not satisfied" and would seek further curtailment of the measure.

The committee agreed to cut from $770,000,000 to $500,000,000 a proposed authorization for toll roads and from $500,000,000 to $350,000,000 the total which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could expend for railroad equipment to be leased to the carriers.

While the Senate committee was busy with details of the legislation, Jesse Jones, new federal loan administrator, told the House Banking committee that any inference drawn from previous testimony by him, and current in some congressional circles, that the lending legislation was unnecessary was, of course, ridiculous.

Jones was reported to have told the committee late yesterday that the RFC could finance the program for two years with its present borrowing authority, but that some amendments to existing law would be necessary.

HEAVY DOCKET IN CITY COURT

Probable cause was found by City court officials today in a case charging Arthur Spain, Greenville Negro, with first degree burglary, and the defendant was bound over to the next term of Pitt Superior court without privilege of bond.

Spain allegedly entered the home of Dr. Carl L. Adams, faculty member at East Carolina Teachers College and president of the Greenville Rotary Club, last Sunday night, went into Dr. Adams' room and removed some money from Dr. Adams' trousers pockets.

The Negro will be executed in the state gas chamber if adjudged guilty of the charge in higher court, in that conviction of first degree burglary in North Carolina carries the death penalty.

First Degree Burglary Case Sent To Superior Court

He said the worst of the rains were over but that intermittent showers could be expected in the east tomorrow.

Kichline said he had no reports of damage from torrential downpours at some places, but here the telephone company reported 1,200 telephones went out of order during the night, with all but 65 back in operation at mid-day today.

The Carolina Power and Light Company reported little damage in its territory but had a report that a "small twister" damaged a veneer plant at Sanford. No one was hurt.

Since Wednesday, rainfall reported by points in the eastern and central parts of the state included Fayetteville, three inches; Graham, three; Randleman, three and a quarter; Smithfield, nearly three and three-quarters; Raleigh, three and a quarter; Goldsboro, nearly four; Kinston, three and a half; Greenville, four and a quarter; Tarboro and Weldon, over three; and Williamston, nearly three.

The coastal section and mountains had rains, but not as heavy as those near the central part of the state.

R. R. Morrison Facing Manslaughter Charge

Raleigh, July 21.—(AP)—Coroner Roy Banks today ordered R. R. Morrison, Greenville hotel man, bound over to Superior court under $500 bond for grand jury consideration on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death June 26 here of Mrs. O. K. Henderson of Wendell. Mrs. Henderson was hurt June 25 in an auto accident while riding with Morrison.

Although the local WPA office said it had "no comment" to make on the effect of the government's slashing program in Pitt county, one of its officials admitted there were 250 persons of the Pitt WPA roles a month ago and that the number has now been reduced to 100.

Just how much the dismissals are going to effect WPA projects that are now under way in the county are not determined, but if employees on those jobs have been employed by the WPA 18 months, the projects will automatically be closed down.

Masseys And Whitneys Swap

Official Poland Shows Restraint

Warsaw, July 21.—(AP)—Official Poland sought today to keep public opinion within bounds in the face of continued incidents in Danzig.

News that three more Poles had been arrested in the Free City, which characterized the killing yesterday of a Polish frontier guard by a Danzig customs officer.

Polish newspapers put on their inside pages stories that a Polish priest, a postal worker and a railway worker were being held by Danzig authorities.

The papers said no reason was given for the arrest of the priest, but the postal worker was said to have been accused of smuggling Polish newspapers into the Free City.

While the railway employe was said to have been detained for "political reasons."

Official circles still declined to comment on the killing of the frontier guard until investigations are completed. It was believed, however, that apologies from Danzig authorities might be accepted as closing the incident.

An informed source said that if Poland exhibits restraint over what is happening in Danzig it is because we are determined to be objective in watching the situation and to be ready to act if it becomes necessary.

To lose restraint, to permit ourselves to be provoked, would be to respond as Germany wants us to respond.

DOWNPOURS IN WPA SLASHING EASTERN N. C. AFFECTS PITT

Revisions in an employment program originally designed to benefit the unemployment situation in the United States, which calls for the discharge of 650,000 WPA employes, have already taken root with unwelcome results in Pitt county.

Pitt WPA officials have already begun whittling names from their relief lists as a result of "orders from headquarters," and men and women of Pitt county are daily being confronted with the problem of discovering a new source of income.

Decreasing the size of the dole in Pitt is the outgrowth of a congressional measure enacted this session to banish all WPA employes who have been employed through government relief appropriations for 18 months.

September 1 has been set as the deadline for all dismissals, with 350,000 WPA employes to be dismissed this month and the remaining 300,000 during the ensuing month.

"Wholesale dismissals" appear to be producing the heaviest blow in Pitt as well as other counties. The most recent wholesale dismissal in Pitt came about when a sewing room sponsored by the WPA and employing 18 persons had to close because 15 had worked 18 months and the other employes were not enough to sustain the operation of the project.

Although the local WPA office said it had "no comment" to make on the effect of the government's slashing program in Pitt county, one of its officials admitted there were 250 persons of the Pitt WPA roles a month ago and that the number has now been reduced to 100.

Just how much the dismissals are going to effect WPA projects that are now under way in the county are not determined, but if employees on those jobs have been employed by the WPA 18 months, the projects will automatically be closed down.

Torrential Rains In Eastern And Central Areas

Raleigh, July 21.—(AP)—H. I. Kichline, the weather man, said today that the eastern and central sections of North Carolina had had their best rains in three months since Wednesday.

He said the worst of the rains were over but that intermittent showers could be expected in the east tomorrow.

Kichline said he had no reports of damage from torrential downpours at some places, but here the telephone company reported 1,200 telephones went out of order during the night, with all but 65 back in operation at mid-day today.

HITLER HOPES TO GET DANZIG WITHOUT WAR

German Spokesman Declares Fuehrer For Peace

HAS HOPES FOR BLOODLESS COUP

Official Says Fuehrer Intends To Stick To Statement On Peace Made At Nuernberg

Berlin, July 21.—(AP)—A German government spokesman in one of the most unequivocal recent utterances on Danzig said today Germany optimistically expects a solution of the problem favorable to the Reich, but rejects the idea of force to regain the Free City.

"Our Fuehrer is 100 per cent for peace," he said. "Now, as before, he expects an uncompromising solution of the Danzig situation along peaceful lines."

Germany has not the least desire for a conflict of arms to bring about the uncompromising solution which we confidently expect. We reject 100 per cent such a warlike solution and would regret extremely if that were the only way."

Saying that Adolf Hitler clung to the definition of the Nazi party convention at Nuernberg, September 2-11, as "the party day of peace," the spokesman added:

"If he did not mean it, don't you suppose we would have started to prepare the public by a press and propaganda campaign for another eventuality?"

Poles in Danzig are seeking to fix responsibility for a border incident in which a Polish soldier was killed yesterday by a Danzig Nazi official.

Poles accused the Danziger of shooting across the frontier without warning, but the official Danzig explanation was that he fired in self defense.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—(AP) Senator Borah (R-Idaho) suggested today that the customary injunction against discussion of what goes on at White House conferences should be lifted so that "both sides" could tell what happened in them.

The senator made the suggestion after President Roosevelt told his press conference at Hyde Park that there had been only one controversy at Tuesday night's bi-partisan conference on neutrality at the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt said Borah intimated rather clearly and definitely that his private information from Europe was better than that received by the United States government.

Declining to comment on this, Borah said:

"I don't propose to enter into any controversy with the President if it can be avoided, but I do think that these bans on White House conferences ought to be lifted when the conference adjourns so that more than one side can do the talking."

The Idahoan, ranking Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, was represented by some of those who attended the meeting, as having engaged in a rather heated exchange with the President.

This was said to have been over Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that responsibility for failure to act on neutrality legislation in this session be placed on the Senate and that the country be informed that the responsibility rested there.

1939 Highway Deaths Above Toll Last Year

Raleigh, July 21.—(AP)—The first half of 1939 brought 396 motor vehicle fatalities in this state and 3,056 injuries, whereas the same period last year saw 383 highway deaths and 3,820 injuries.

Director Ronald Heintz of the Highway Safety Division, in releasing the report today, said that total accidents dropped from 3,718 through June last year to 3,346 from January, 1939, to July, 1939.

Local Warehouseman With Farmville Firm

C. H. Webb who for the past nine years has operated Webb's warehouse in Greenville, has become associated with J. N. Fountain of Farmville in the operation of Fountain's warehouse in Farmville.

In announcing the merger, the two Farmville warehousemen said, "We extend to every farmer in this section a cordial invitation to visit our warehouse and watch our operation of sales."

Only Slight Damage By Fire Last Night

Fire Chief George Gardner said today that a slight blaze at the home of Dora Johnson, Negro, did damage estimated from $15 to $25. The blaze broke out last night shortly before midnight at the home on Clark street.

Fire Chief Gardner said the blaze was caused when a lamp near the window upset and ignited a curtain. However, the blaze was quickly extinguished as soon as members of the fire department arrived.

Borah Wants Right To Discuss White House Parleys

Board To Accept Projects Monday

D. H. Conley, county school superintendent, said today that a meeting of the Pitt County Board of Education will be held Monday for the purpose of accepting or rejecting school projects just completed and costing $163,181.

School officials, architects and engineers visited Grimesland, Arthur and Farmville yesterday to view the work, and after completing the survey a FWA engineer with the project said the work had met with the National Specifications and recommended that the projects be accepted by the Board of Education.

Superintendent Conley said he was well pleased with the work and reiterated his contention that the work just completed was "valuable additions that will result in bettering the school building facilities for students in the district."

The projects just completed were finished through district bonds and a federal grant of 45 per cent of the total cost. A building project was completed at Chicod and accepted some time ago.

CLAIMS DELAY ON ARMS BILL HURT BUSINESS

View Expressed By President At Press Parley

SAYS DECISION KILLING 'BOOM'

Chief Executive Quotes Business Men In Expressing Regret At Action To Defer Bill

Hyde Park, July 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt contended at a press conference today that a decision to defer action on neutrality legislation until the next congressional session would hurt business.

Prominent business men, Mr. Roosevelt said, told him recently that failure of Congress to act on neutrality was killing the "nicest little business boom you ever saw."

Business men, the President asserted, do not want to make commitments because they do not know what form neutrality legislation may take when Congress convenes next year. They do not want to place orders or take them, he said.

For instance, he said, a newspaper owner, not knowing how a war might affect his business, would hesitate to place an order for a new press. At the same time, the President said, it would take more than a mere crisis to impel him to call Congress into a special session to come to grips with the neutrality problem.

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 21.—(AP) President Roosevelt, in discussing neutrality legislation today, said that from every capital in Europe without exception there was evidence of preparations for an eventuality that was believed fairly close.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt said it should be emphasized that there were no allegations of probabilities of trouble abroad, only statements of possibilities.

He contended at a press conference that a decision to defer action on neutrality legislation until the next session of Congress would hurt business.

Honored At Mexican Party.
 Mrs. Arthur B. Corey was hostess at bridge on Wednesday evening, at her home on Woodlawn avenue, honoring her house guest, Mrs. J. Preston Corey of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Four tables were arranged in rooms beautifully decorated with mixed summer flowers. An attractive Mexican motif was carried out in the table decorations and tallies. At the conclusion of the games, Mrs. A. E. Hobbog was awarded the high score prize, a Mexican treasure chest containing dusting powder. The low score prize, faintly handkerchiefs, was presented to Mrs. Lindsay Savage.

The hostess served a tempting ice course with salted nuts. The nuts were served from an old Mexican gourd.
 The honor guest was remembered with a Mexican tree trunk containing bath cologne and Mrs. Ida S. Evans, mother of Mrs. Lindsay Savage, was also remembered with handkerchiefs.

 to
 Mr. George Walton Thomason of Toccoa, Ga., and Greenville, N. C. The wedding will take place on September 6th.

The engagement of Miss Opal Claire Harris to Mr. George Walton Thomason of Toccoa, Ga., and Greenville, N. C., was announced by Mrs. Herbert Harris, mother of the bride-elect, last evening at a buffet supper at her home on Pitt street.

Colorful summer flowers beautifully arranged, formed an appropriate setting for the party.

The guests were greeted by Miss Belva Dare Harris and Miss Janet Styron.

Each place was marked by a miniature white satin bag filled with rice, gathered in the center with a bow of white ribbon and lace fern, and bearing the engagement announcement.

Mrs. Carl Langley, Mrs. Penrose Perkins and the bride-elect found their places marked with corsages of red, white and pink roses, respectively.

A delicious two-course supper was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. T. J. Swain.

At the close of the evening, Mrs.

DO NOT EXPECT ANY REFUGEES

But Response to Diocese's Offer Is Favorable

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, July 21.—Bishop Eugene J. McGuinness, head of Catholic diocese of North Carolina, reports most favorable reaction all over the country to his recent proposal that the Catholic orphanage here would care for 200 European refugee children if Congress votes to admit them to this country. He doubts that such action will be taken.

There are only about one hundred children at the orphanage now and facilities there will easily take care of two hundred more.
 There has been no concerted effort among Catholics throughout the country to foster such a plan, and although several inquiries have been received from other dioceses none has offered full co-operation in the scheme pending further study.

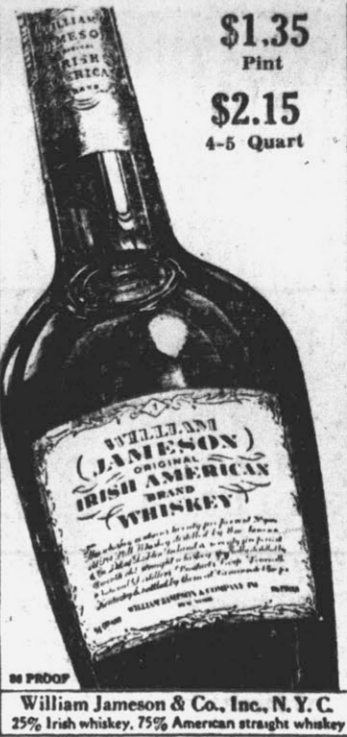

Answering suggestions that the whole scheme is just one of proselyting local Catholic authorities declare that the offer was made in good faith as a humanitarian gesture. No effort would be made to force the refugees into the Catholic Church. However, only in the case of Jews would their own religious counselors be invited in.

Neither Bishop McGuinness nor any of his close associates has done anything at all toward "lobbying" the bill through Congress and no effort will be made. If the children are admitted to this country and other more satisfactory provisions cannot be made for them, the Nazareth Orphanage will accept any number up to the 200 maximum.

SEEK LEAGUE TO PROVIDE POST-GRAD ATHLETICS

South Bend, Ind., AP—Athletic competition shouldn't stop with graduation, say the organizers of the South Bend A. A. A. With that idea in mind, Coach

John Nicholson of Notre Dame and George Cooper of the South Bend Y. M. C. Six Runs In Five Innings Give Greenies 6-2 Triumph

DONALD KING HANDLES HILL

Red and Alex Lead Hitting With Two Blows Each

Don King hurled four-hit ball in an abbreviated game at Goldsboro last night, but when rain intervened the Greenies had piled up a four-run advantage and emerged with a 6-2 victory in a game that lasted five innings.

King's hurling was quite effective and the Bugs were held scoreless every inning except the first two, when Polly Pawlak and Tom Burnette hit circuit drives when Donald shot a pair of home-run throws across the plate.

Greenie lost little time in moving ahead by taking a four-run lead in the opening inning and definitely sewed up the game by adding two more runs to its first-inning scores in the sixth.

Red Christopher and Alex Daniels got two hits apiece for three official trips to the plate to feature the local hitting attack. The homers by Pawlak and Burnette were the most damaging blows executed by the Bugs.

The locals will play here again Saturday afternoon and night. They will play Snow Hill, with the afternoon game starting at 3 o'clock. The night game will start at the usual time 8:15 o'clock.

Rube and his boys also play here Sunday, with the Williamston Martins furnishing the opposition. This contest will start at 3 p. m.

Official Scorer

Ray Goodman, league president, today advised that Aubrey Shackelford, statistician for the Coastal Plain League, would serve in the capacity of official scorer for the All-Star game to be played in the Guy Smith stadium Monday night at 8:15 o'clock.

President Goodman is making certain that the press is taken care of for the game, at which a special section will be reserved for the "fourth estate," representatives of which will be here from many East Carolina towns and cities.

RAIN GO AWAY HOPE PREVAILS

But It Failed To Produce Results For Losers

Rain was the most unwelcome feature in games played last night in the Coastal Plain League, particularly for the losers, who left the ball park in towns throughout the league with the optimistic attitude that "We could've beat 'em if it hadn't rained."

Despite the rain, results of the games show that the winners boasted an advantage large enough to clinch the win. The Wilson-Williamston contest was the only one in which rain did not interfere.

Williamston held a 4-2 lead until the eighth last night, but an unexpected five-run party was produced by Wilson's Tobs, the latter coming out on the big end of a 7-4 score. Pitching honors went to Fern Bissette and Jack Threlfall.

When rain splashed the Kinston park the Eagles were out in front, 6-0 over the Tarboro Serpents.

Perhaps the Serpents were glad to see the rain but not their sixteenth consecutive defeat. It was the eagles' third straight win.

New Bern turned back Snow Hill, 11-8, in a game that was featured by round-trippers and walks. Jim McMullen, former Greenie, took over the hill, relieving Bull Pen Berry when the game was about half over.

TO HOLD AUTO RACES SUNDAY

Large Field Entered In Rocky Mount Contest

Rocky Mount, July 20.—Anxiously awaiting the starting time for the big auto racing program to be presented here Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m., the large field of contestants was busy this week checking every little detail about their racing units, with which they hope to grab a large slice of the folding money to be offered here this week.

Still riding the waves of pre-race favoritism in this section is Flying Freddie Bailes of Beckley, W. Va., the new scourge of the southern tracks and a sure first flight man even though he fails to kick home a winner.

Bailes outlanded from North Carolina tracks last season because of his devil-may-care attitude while turning the dirt course in competition, was reinstated only a few weeks ago and since that time has made a number of new marks for the local dust-eaters to think about.

His recent half-mile record run at Greensboro will likely stand for some time to come, since very few of the experienced speedsters will attempt to "crack that 28-second mark."

Not to be discounted entirely for the coming events, however, are Bert Heimuller and Al Fleming, Jr., two daredevils whose only love is burning speed whipped up by a special-built, highly sensitive motor that can coast into the hundreds without heating the water.

Another top-ranking driver not to be overlooked is Dub McLeod of Matthews, N. C., who held the state dirt track title during 1938 as the "Crown Prince of Speed." McLeod is known in racing circles throughout the nation.

IT'S THE MOST ECONOMICAL CAR IN ITS FIELD!

And remember this — Chevrolet's 85-h.p. valve-in-head engine excels in performance as well as economy.

THOUSANDS of motorists have subjected 1939 Chevrolets to the Mileage Meter test. In cars with gauges feeding a measured quantity of fuel to the engine, these thousands have seen how the 1939 Chevrolet stretches out each gallon of fuel to make it go farther—extra miles farther.

What about oil? The fact is that the 1939 Chevrolet is unbelievably economical of oil—because the oil stays in the engine.

As to upkeep and tires—every motorist knows of Chevrolet's traditional record for low cost of maintenance.

See your Chevrolet dealer today! Take the wheel and learn of Chevrolet's remarkable economy.

Beating The Heat Is Hot Work

IN A TUB—This Buffalo, N. Y., girl looks cool, all right, but think of all the hot work it required for her to assemble the paraphernalia, including chunks of ice, an ice cream soda, and (hidden by the magazine) an electric fan.

ON A FIRE ESCAPE—Much the same thing goes for this lower east side New Yorker. He's all set to catch a vagrant breeze, but after tugging out pillows and sheets and ice water, what he really needs is three or four vagrant breezes.

UNDER THE FALLS—The French, too, take the heat the hard way—by hunting a waterfall, for instance, and scrambling over rocks to get under it. Doctors say one of the most sensible ways to beat the heat is simply doing nothing.

WITH A PUMP—Doing nothing seems a waste of time. So a Spokane, Wash., man put bellows on his shoes and ran tubing up his back. To keep cool, he kept moving.

Chapter 39 Hearts And Dowers

RICHARD CRAFTONBURY ADAMS was pleased. That was what he wanted. Saltair Acres to be a home. Not a showplace.

The fact that the Chiseler had looked over his abode and ratified it correctly flattered him.

"Well," he said, "I'm glad you felt that way. Too many people mistake my place for a picnic ground. They drive out here from the city, eat their lunches and litter the place up with newspapers and tin cans. And I'm going to put a stop to it. A stop to it, dammit!"

"Quite," said the Chiseler, bending this declaration to suit his own ends. "And nothing would give me more pleasure than to be of assistance to you."

"Assistance to me?" repeated Richard Craftonbury. "How?"

"I have," said the Chiseler smoothly, "what I believe may be a modest inspiration. Perhaps, Mr. Adams, I could offer you my services in the capacity of a kind of overseer or bailiff. Without, of course, having gone deeply into your problems, it would seem an excellent arrangement. My wife as housekeeper and myself as a steward, as it were."

It was his trump card. If it took his trick, a peaceful and comfortable vista stretched before him. Goodby to scheming and plotting with the ruffianly characters of the underworld. Goodby to association with mobsters of the Colletti ilk. Goodby to this perpetual game of hide and seek with the forces of law and order.

Richard Craftonbury Adams had been weighing the Chiseler's suggestion. Acceptance would keep Mrs. Dipsang in her job and Richard Craftonbury wanted definitely to retain the services of Mrs. Dipsang. He smote his left palm with his right fist.

"That's a brilliant idea. I'll make you a bailiff. Can you keep accounts?"

"I am," said the Chiseler, with modesty, "something of a mathematician."

"Can you handle men?"

"With tact and discretion," the Chiseler answered him.

"Well," said Richard Craftonbury decisively, "you're hired. I need a good man around here. Saving your wife, a lot of dunderheads have been running my house."

"What?" said the Chiseler. "Hobbies? Like to do anything in your off hours? Play any games? Cribbage, for instance? Well, speak up."

"Shiver my timbers, yes," said the Chiseler. "I fancy that I am one of the finest cribbage players that ever sailed the seven seas."

"Hey?" Mr. Adams jumped. He had not been prepared to have his bailiff speak up in such a big way. "Do you think you could beat me at cribbage?"

"Well," said the Chiseler, "you rank with one of the few great masters."

Everything else could wait until that matter was cleared up. "Come on," he roared. "Don't stand there mooning at a woman. You're in for a rough passage, my man. He dragged the Chiseler toward the door. "Make way, the rest of you. We're busy."

They went down the hall, the Chiseler's red and white undergarments billowing in triumph.

Peace had descended upon Saltair Acres. The party was over. All was quiet on all fronts. Mr. William Steele had departed, taking the East brothers with him. Miss Luella West and Mr. Jumbo Cutler had driven away, a couple of moon-struck lovebirds.

Mr. Harkness thanked the superintendent and forgot Miss Dorothy South within five minutes. After all, he couldn't worry about the idiosyncrasies of any one girl. Mr. Harkness knew many girls. And they all had idiosyncrasies.

At Saltair Acres, in the little den of the library, Richard Craftonbury Adams and the Chiseler were locked in a desperate, drawn struggle. The Krevickwinsky gambit favored by Richard Craftonbury was a rough, tough two-fisted game. But the gambit Cascedilla y Gomez, pet of the Chiseler, was proving that it could take it.

Life Begins OUT in the driveway Mr. Tacks Adams stood with an arm around the waist of Miss Patricia North. It was remarkable how quickly Mr. Adams had attained proficiency at putting his arm around the waist of Miss Patricia North. The observer would have been justified in concluding that he'd been doing it all his life.

That's what comes from not reading the newspapers; you never know what's going on in the world, do you?" she said half-aloud, and, since there was no one there to hear her, she looked off into the incredibly blue horizon for the answer. What story was she not to believe?

Doug—Douglas Stuart was Cecily's twin brother—was not an alarmist. It wasn't like him to worry her needlessly, she knew. She searched her mind for what could have been the reason for his message, which was cryptic. Obviously he wasn't ill, and it didn't seem likely that he had been seriously hurt in an accident, since he was arriving this afternoon.

His arrival was most certainly unexpected. He hadn't expected to join Cecily at their summer home on Cape Cod until his exams were over in June. He was graduating from Yale this year and preparing for medical school. Cecily had preceded him by a month because classes at art school in New York had adjourned two days before and she had left her small apartment for the beloved cottage on the Cape as quickly as she could get away.

Her concentration was interrupted by a little noisy fishing boat which hove into her view. It saluted the small figure on the sands with a raucous horn that split the silence. Cecily raised her arm and shouted, "Hi!"

She recognized the Portuguese fishermen and the familiar odor of mackerel. She liked that odor. She liked everything that it suggested. It was part of her enchanted summers. The happy sun-drenched days and fragrant nights. It was one with the sparkling waters, the purple-tinged pines, the glistering sands, the soft, wet fog. It was one with picnics, roasts on the beach, with lovely long nights before hickory fires in the heart of the pine-paneled living-room. It was one with everything in this

Chapter One Telegram

THE dinghy lay on the unpainted side. Cecily touched an experimental finger to the side that was uppermost, frowned and wiped her finger on the seat of her stained denim slacks which were hitched about her slender waist with a piece of string.

She got down, on all fours scouted at the section of boat on the underside which was above the sand and dropping to her stomach, dipped the brush into a can of white paint and wriggled forward comfortably. She propped herself up on her left elbow, cupped her chin in her left hand and happily pursued the even swish-swash of her brush as she wielded it expertly.

The hot mid-May sun had warmed the sands beneath and she was pleasantly aware of the heat that yet summered on her Cape and the breeze that came from water and flapped her trouser legs against her ankles in short socks was cold. That same breeze brought the clean, exhilarating smell of sea-salt to her eager nostrils.

She wriggled back out of the shade of the dinghy and sat up. She had done as much as she could. "Doggone!" she said to two small sandpipers who had been watching her interestingly. "That won't be dry until tomorrow and I wanted it to be a surprise for Doug."

A slight frown darkened the clear gray eyes beneath her smooth brow outlined by short, tawny hair blown by the wind. She felt in the pockets of her leather jacket and brought out a small square of yellow paper, the telegram that had arrived that morning. She unfolded it and read it again, trying to read more than the words told her.

He was graduating from Yale this year and preparing for medical school. Cecily had preceded him by a month because classes at art school in New York had adjourned two days before and she had left her small apartment for the beloved cottage on the Cape as quickly as she could get away.

Her concentration was interrupted by a little noisy fishing boat which hove into her view. It saluted the small figure on the sands with a raucous horn that split the silence. Cecily raised her arm and shouted, "Hi!"

She recognized the Portuguese fishermen and the familiar odor of mackerel. She liked that odor. She liked everything that it suggested. It was part of her enchanted summers. The happy sun-drenched days and fragrant nights. It was one with the sparkling waters, the purple-tinged pines, the glistering sands, the soft, wet fog. It was one with picnics, roasts on the beach, with lovely long nights before hickory fires in the heart of the pine-paneled living-room. It was one with everything in this small world of Doug and Cecily that needed no others.

Cecily wondered what her brother's cryptic message meant.

'Not The Type' THEY had had no others for the last six years since they were left orphans by a railroad accident. They had had Lathrop Duncan who had managed their generous trust funds, and they had had Libby, their old nurse. And they had wanted no one else, they had stated firmly at the age of fifteen.

Those two, so straight, so poised, so quietly firm and so identical even to the number of freckles on their noses, had met with little opposition.

Their only close relative was Olivia Watts, Franklin Stuart's sister, known to the opera world as Madame Olivia Darrell, one of its great stars. Olivia said, of course, she would bring up "those poor babies" as though they were her own. Wasn't Cecily the same age as her own daughter, Gloria? But Olivia retreated gracefully with her smelling salts, her maid and her secretary before the inevitable resolve of the twins to manage their own lives. Olivia's retreat was not without relief to all of them.

Cecily thought of those six years as she sat there on the sands. They'd been like the sky above her, she thought—cloudless! They'd had minor troubles—they'd had the mumps, much to their disgust. Doug had had his tonsils out and nearly fallen in love. The latter had given Cecily a bad turn. She knew that some day he would find a girl, but she asked a few more years of his companionship for herself. She wanted no other. She wasn't a mixer.

Aunt Olivia had offered to give her a coming-out party the year before when Gloria made her debut, but Cecily had laughed at the idea.

"I'd have to paint my fingernails red, wear spike heels and stay up all night, Aunt Olivia, and I'm not the type."

Aunt Olivia had secretly agreed and sighed thankfully that her own high-society, glamorous Gloria was the type. Gloria had had a very successful first season.

So Cecily had forgotten about it and gone about quietly living the life that she liked best. She wasn't much of an artist, she knew, but she enrolled at an art school, found herself a modest apartment in Greenwich Village and gathered books and people that she enjoyed about her to pass the time between summers.

She erased the frown from her forehead and looked at her small, businesslike watch. As she suspected, it was luncheon. She thought: There can't be anything to worry about, and brushed the troublesome, persistent query away with the sand that clung to her.

The spot where the dinghy was beached formed a cove and the winter tides had washed away the wooden steps leading to the ground above. Cecily clambered nimbly up the sides of the little bluff and paused as her eyes came level with the ground. She paused to look approvingly at the cottage set in the pines. It shone white in the sunlight. The cottage and the low Cape Cod picket fence had been newly painted and the effect was like a picture on a postcard. Cecily thought,

Other developments: Philip Clowes, sub regional director of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee in Allegheny county, Pa., told Congress that if the Wagner Labor Relations act is amended "Well give you a fight."

He appeared before the House Labor committee.

With a critic of the Wagner act as its probable chairman, a special committee of five House members will begin a far-reaching investigation into activities of the National Labor Relations Board shortly after Congress adjourns.

Maybe He'd Belled Lock It Up. Laramie, Wyo.—(AP)—Kenneth Emerson is thinking of leaving his car in a garage for a few days, until his luck changes.

In a two-day period, because of accidents in which he was involved, he had to buy three new fenders. Then someone stole a tire and wheel from his car.

There was double trouble in one of the accidents. Emerson collided with a police patrol car.

Bank Pays Big Dividend. Henderson, July 21.—(AP)—Executive Vice President R. G. Harrison of the First National Bank in Henderson announced today that shareholders in the bank would receive a 50 per cent common stock dividend of $50,000 as of July 31.

PICTURE NEWS

GAL FROM GALVESTON—Texas florists attending a convention in Galveston found that Esther Mae Colombo was as decorative in her way as above glass and floral centerpiece identified as a certain world's fair trylon and perisphere.

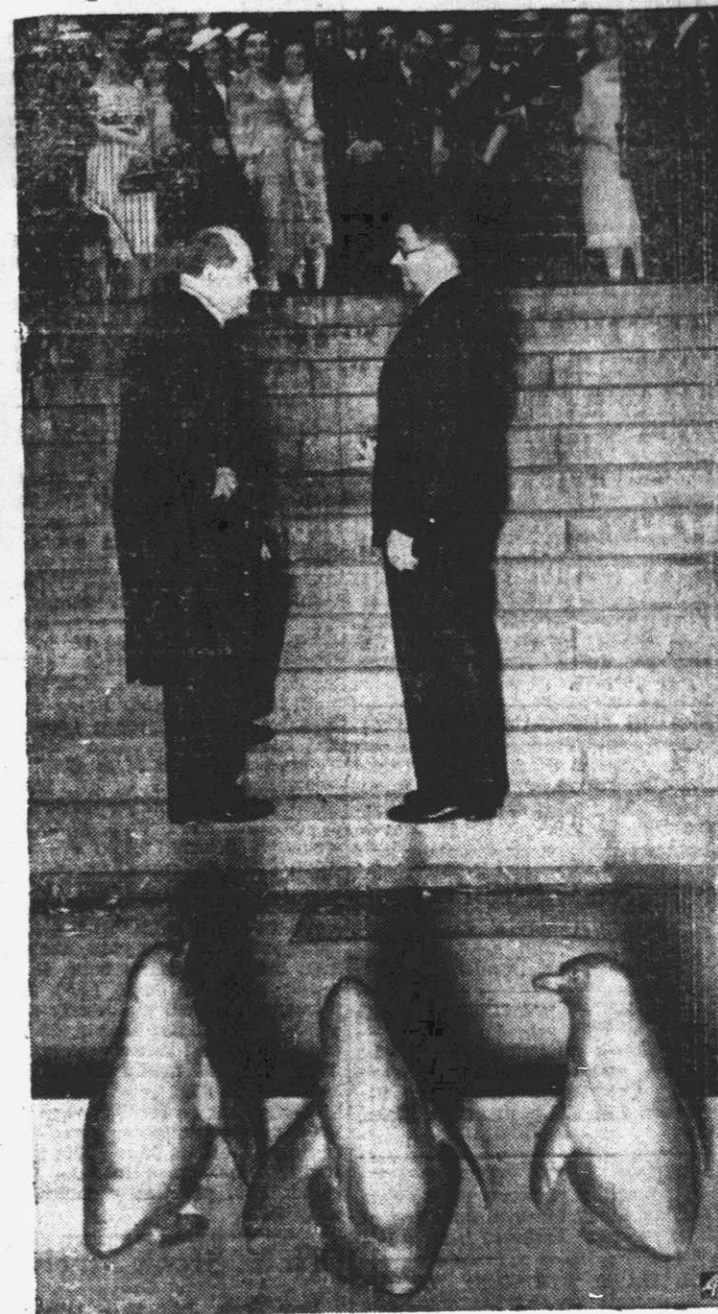

FIERY—Hollywood judges saw red, picking Susan Hayward, a movie actress from Brooklyn, as U.S. redhead queen.

ANOTHER BOTTLE BABY—Ordinary household pets don't interest Barbara Lee, niece of Animal Trainer Clyde Beatty, now that she's become foster-mother to a lion cub at the pier, Atlantic City. But her other pets stick around, anyhow.

MOTOR MISS—When Flint pays tribute to the auto industry during that city's second annual motor festival, Aug. 3-6, Bernice Henthorn, 21, will reign as motor queen.

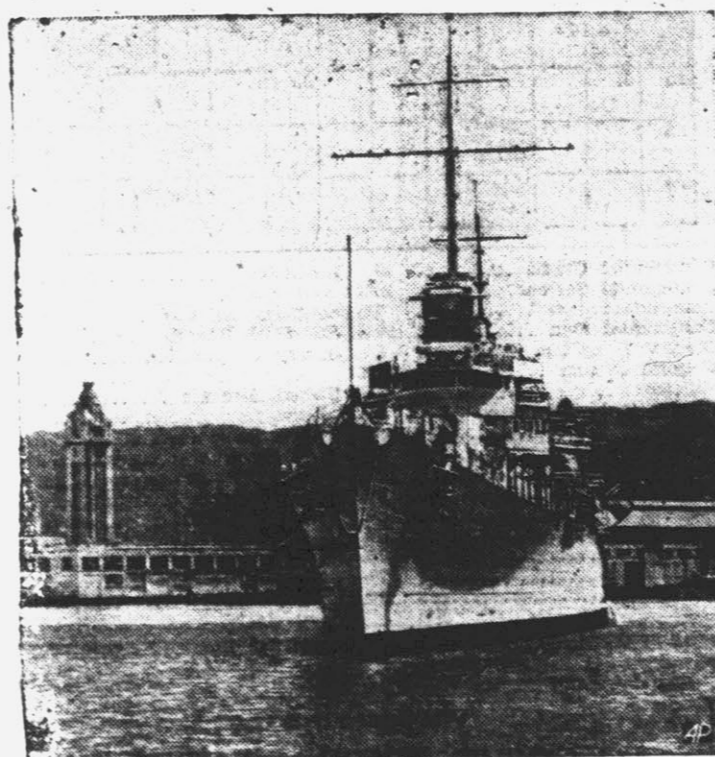

GETTING THE BIRD?—With the anxiety of watchful crisis-weary statesmen, these penguins at the Bulgarian embassy in Berlin seem to eye Bulgaria's prime minister, George Kiossevanoff (left), whose visit to Hitler alarmed Rumania. Rumanian newspapers, commenting, asked if Germany and Italy had promised to help Bulgaria reclaim land from Rumania.

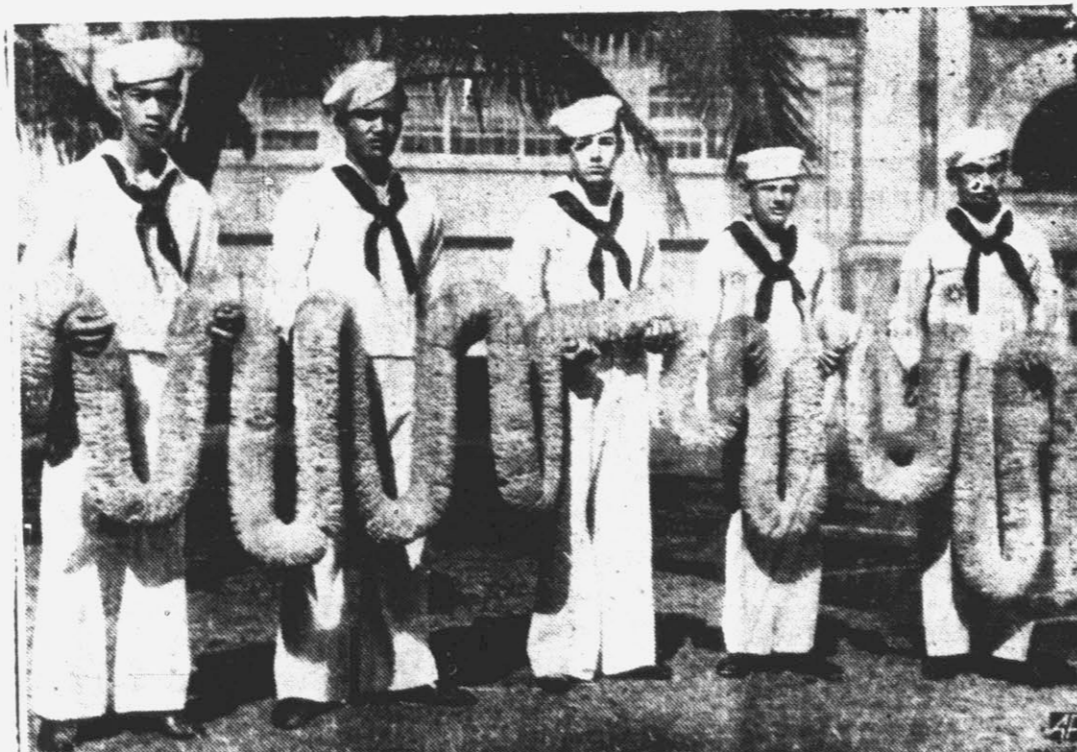

YOU'D BAWL, TOO—There's no doubt as to the feelings of 18-month-old Rodney Hemenway, who wails that it's not any fun to be homeless, along with some 89 others in a $200,000 fire at Dover, N. H. He's on his sister's lap.

NOT IN THE SCRIPT—The arrival of William Powell on a Hollywood movie lot, after an absence of a year and a half because of illness, called for this welcome from Myrna Loy. Man with sour "puss" is envious Director W. S. Van Dyke.

VISITS NAMESAKE CITY—With a 40-foot orange lei at her bow, the U.S.S. Honolulu, a 10,000-ton cruiser, idles in Honolulu waters during her first visit to namesake city. Aloha tower is at left of ship, which cost $15,000,000.

40 FEET LONG WAS THIS WELCOME—The largest lei ever made in Hawaii, a 40-foot orange strand, is held by five Sea Scouts awaiting the arrival of the U.S.S. Cruiser Honolulu, over whose bow the lei was hung. Capt. Oscar Smith commanded ship, on its maiden trip to Hawaii. Left to right: James Pillaau, Robert Kaneakua, Keith Padgett, Robert Duncan and Phil Kahuhu.

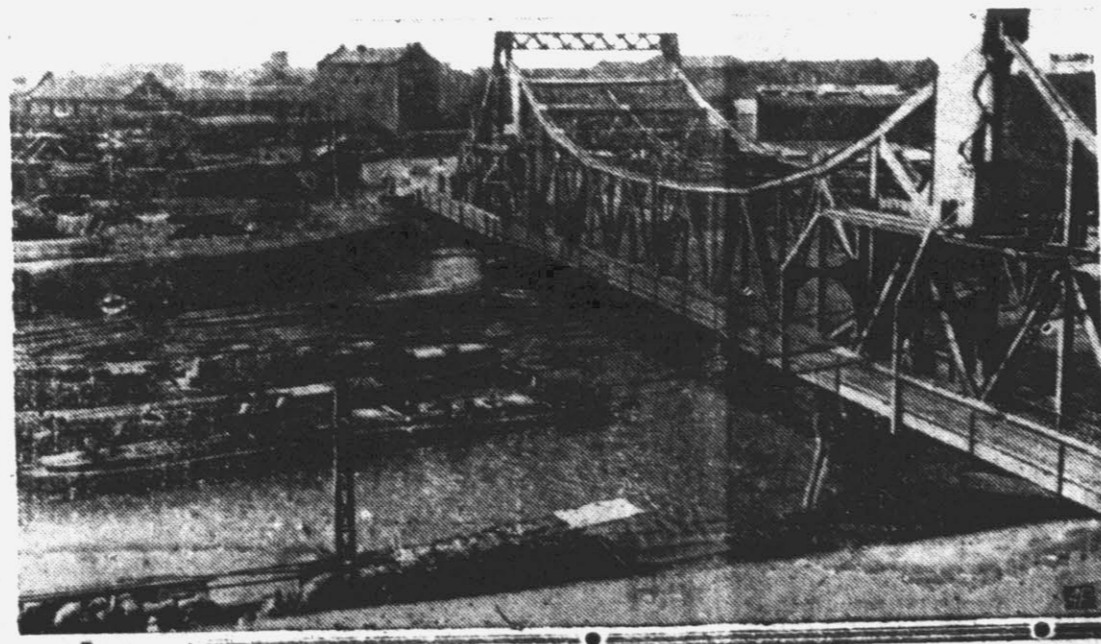

DONOR—To the new National Gallery of Art in Washington, Samuel H. Kress (above), chain store magnate, gave his collection of Italian art worth possibly $25,000,000.

TEXAS HIGHBALL—Little Eliza Jones didn't have far to go, to get a tasty chunk of watermelon. She's standing in a 63-pound beauty at Athens, Tex., where almost 1,000 melons of the current crop recently were shipped to market.

GIVE 'EM AIR—Rough and ready rugby is aptly demonstrated by bounding players in Melbourne, Australia.

AT WAR'S BREEDING PLACE—Serenity is this view of the much-discussed international bridge connecting the French concession at Tientsin, China, with Japanese part of city (far end).

MODEL OF BYRD SNOW CRUISER—With the model of a 40,000-pound snow and ice cruise expedition. Model was shown at Chicago.

HELP IS GIVEN STATE COUNCIL

New Apprentice Body Shows Receptive Spirit

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, July 21. - Clarence L. Beddingfield, executive secretary of the newly constituted apprenticeship council, auxiliary to the State Department of Labor, reports splendid co-operation among employers and workers alike in his preliminary surveys.

In an effort to ascertain the number of skilled workers in the various crafts and trades in North Carolina, so that the need for training replacements may be scientifically met, Mr. Beddingfield is assembling a comprehensive cross-file of workers. Information is being obtained from the state-federal employment agencies, from labor unions and from employers of labor.

When the project was undertaken it was feared that there might be some jealousy or resentment among workers already on the jobs and in their organizations. To the contrary, the State Federation of Labor has offered every possible assistance and made available essential records. Contractors and employers of skilled labor were expected to approve the plan, but the eager co-operation among them has also been agreeably surprising to the council.

The council has functioned only about ten days and of course hasn't accomplished a great deal. When the files now being developed are completed it will be possible within a few minutes to ascertain the number of master masons, electricians, carpenters, etc., in the state. These will be classified as employed or unemployed, as to age

When the project was undertaken it was feared that there might be some jealousy or resentment among workers already on the jobs and in their organizations. To the contrary, the State Federation of Labor has offered every possible assistance and made available essential records. Contractors and employers of skilled labor were expected to approve the plan, but the eager co-operation among them has also been agreeably surprising to the council.

The council has functioned only about ten days and of course hasn't accomplished a great deal. When the files now being developed are completed it will be possible within a few minutes to ascertain the number of master masons, electricians, carpenters, etc., in the state. These will be classified as employed or unemployed, as to age

New Apprentice Body Shows Receptive Spirit

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, July 21. - Clarence L. Beddingfield, executive secretary of the newly constituted apprenticeship council, auxiliary to the State Department of Labor, reports splendid co-operation among employers and workers alike in his preliminary surveys.

In an effort to ascertain the number of skilled workers in the various crafts and trades in North Carolina, so that the need for training replacements may be scientifically met, Mr. Beddingfield is assembling a comprehensive cross-file of workers. Information is being obtained from the state-federal employment agencies, from labor unions and from employers of labor.
