

MEANS SOUGHT TO STABILIZE LEAF AVERAGE

Prices in Carolinas Higher, But Lower In Georgia

FIVE-CENT GAP IN TWO BELTS

Farm Bureau President Winslow to Name Committee to Consider Referendum on Control

By The Associated Press Growers and other tobacco men turned their attention today to a search for some means of stabilizing bright leaf auction prices as markets closed for the regular Saturday holiday with a five-cent gap between the bidding in South Carolina and Georgia.

Fractional advances were recorded in South Carolina, but Georgia bids dropped toward the 13-14 cents groove. At Raleigh, President J. E. Winslow of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, said he would select a statewide committee of growers to look into the feasibility of a referendum on control of the 1940 tobacco crop. He was instructed to appoint the committee by a mass meeting of growers Wednesday.

In Washington, tobacco experts of the Agriculture Department arranged for a conference of flue-cured tobacco growers and manufacturers Wednesday on the price and marketing situation.

Governor Rivers of Georgia charged prices were "artificially low." Eight of ten South Carolina markets reported an advance to 19 cents or better on the second day, following the opening days average of 18 cents or better. One market had an average of 17.97 and one of 18. In Georgia the bidding hovered around the 14-cent average. Harris's sales supervisor reported second week sales total 1,854,456 pounds for an average of 13.33. C. E. Isom at Moultrie said his market sold 3,366,900 pounds at 13.84. In South Carolina and North Carolina, sales and average prices yesterday included: Fairmont, 668,806 pounds; average, 17.97. Timmonsville, 492,000 pounds; average, 19.14.

Convict Slain By Another Prisoner

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Harold Jones, 34-year-old Negro who was serving a life term for second degree burglary, died at Central prison this morning from cut wounds inflicted Thursday by another Negro prisoner.

Warden H. H. Wilson said Booker T. Watson, who is serving life for murder, admitted doing the cutting with a razor blade, but contended he acted in self defense.

Prison records showed that Watson was once condemned to die but that his sentence was commuted in April, 1935. He was sent up from North Carolina.

Woman Is Killed; Nine People Hurt

Clinton, N. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Julian Parrish, 50, of Greensboro, was fatally injured and nine other persons were hurt near here early today in a head-on collision between two automobiles on the Winston highway. Mrs. Parrish died shortly after arrival at a Fayetteville hospital.

The injured are Miss Vivian Beal, 17; Miss Hilda Beal; W. A. Bein, 51; and his wife, 48, all of Graham and occupants of the Parrish car; Braxton Thornton, Albert Bryan, Lloyd and John Futrell and Earl Hill, all of Newton Grove. The Beal sisters suffered head injuries and the younger was unconscious. Bein and his wife were critically hurt, as well as Hill and Bryan. All suffered shocks and bruises.

The accident occurred about 4:50 a. m. as the car of Mrs. Parrish was proceeding to Wilmington, bound for an outing on the beach. An inquest will be held later. Goldsboro, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Three of the injured persons in the automobile accident near Clinton, in which Mrs. Julian Parrish of Greensboro was killed and nine others hurt, were brought to a Goldsboro hospital today. They were Albert Bryan, 21, fractured skull and forearm; Henry Boyd Futrell, Jr., 21, fractures of lower jaw; John Futrell, 23, superficial injuries. All are of Newton Grove.

Troops Disarm Deputies In Colorado Strike

In the wake of two clashes between union men and deputies at Green Mountain dam in Colorado, national guardsmen are shown disarming the special deputies as they fled through a gate leading to the dam, a $4,000,000 project of the reclamation bureau. Gov. Carr of Colorado placed troops in control of the strike zone after the fights in which seven men were wounded.

G-M PLANNING RESUME WORK

Union Members To Ratify CIO-UAW Agreement

Detroit, Aug. 5.—(AP)—William F. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corporation, said today that the corporation's plants that have been affected by the CIO-UAW tool and die-makers' strike would be in operation by Monday or Tuesday and that 1940 production would be "at least" as great as the 1939 model year.

His assertion was made on the assumption that a settlement agreement between the corporation and the CIO-UAW officers would be ratified by union members, regarded in most quarters as a virtual certainty. Knudsen said that the corporation payroll would be about the same ($400,000,000) as in the last production year. The agreement for a return to work by skilled employees of the corporation included a union promise of no more work stoppages during the coming production season and granted wage increases for some of the skilled workers. On the subject of wage increases mentioned in the settlement memorandum, Knudsen said: "There is no new general higher scale. The increases are for men who have been earning the low minimum, or for men who have been deserving a raise but who have not received raises."

Mrs. Annie Willis Dies In Vanceboro

Mrs. Annie Barrington Willis, 57, died at her home near Vanceboro Saturday morning at 4 o'clock following a few days of critical illness. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the late home by the Rev. Bruce Barrow, pastor of Macedonia Free Will Baptist Church of Snow Hill. Burial will be in the Willis family cemetery nearby.

Farmers Fail To Display Indignation At Meeting

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Aug. 5.—North Carolina farmers may be made as wet hens about tobacco price prospects. They may, too, favor all kinds of crop control. But if they are either or both they failed completely to indicate it yesterday when what was ballyhooed in advance as a great mass meeting of protest against impending starvation, turned out to be nothing more or less than a perfunctory, cut-and-dried annual session of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation.

Maybe the farmers were just too busy to come to Raleigh. They have tobacco in the fields to prepare for market. Maybe they were more than a little encouraged by opening prices on the Border belt Thursday, though there is reason to believe that there

Greenville Girl Hurt In Automobile Wreck

Miss Ella Frances Evans, daughter of Mrs. Sallie Evans of Greenville, today was reported as "doing nicely" following injuries received Thursday night when the automobile in which she was riding was wrecked near Raleigh. Miss Evans was a popular member of the Greenville High school student body last year and is known among a wide circle of friends here. Details of the accident were not known here.

TUNNEL BLAST FATAL TO ONE

Four Others Feared Killed on Express Highway

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 5.—(AP)—John Lowry, an ambulance driver, reported today one man was killed and four others were believed killed in an accident in the Laurel Hill tunnel on the state's $70,000,000 express highway near here. Lowry said the four were trapped under a fall of rock at the base of operations in the tunnel, 15 miles west of this western Pennsylvania mountain town. He said it was believed certain they were dead.

The victim Lowry brought here died in the ambulance. His arm had been amputated in order to remove him from the rock fall. Identification of the dead man or those reported caught in the rock fall was not immediately available.

Two School Issues Favored In County

Farmville voters yesterday balloted the Pitt county town's way to a 12-year school system and a nine-month term in a special election. Voting in both improvements for the Farmville school district produced rather favorable results, with the vote on the 12th grade being 374 for and 16 against; and the ninth month, 336 for and 17 against. A tax not to exceed eight cents will be levied for the 12th grade and a tax not to exceed 12-1/2 cents will be levied on the $100 property valuation for the ninth month.

The Pitt County Board of Education was petitioned by Farmville school officials with the approval of the State School Commission before the election was authorized. A special registration was required for the election and all who registered and failed to participate were regarded as being against the proposals.

ICC SANCTIONS LEASE OF LINE

Atlantic and East Carolina to Run A. and N. C.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Atlantic and East Carolina Railway Company received permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission today to lease the railroad properties of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company.

The Atlantic and East Carolinas will pay an annual rental of $60,500. The Atlantic and North Carolina company is controlled by the state of North Carolina through ownership of about 72 per cent of its capital stock. The ICC also authorized the Atlantic and East Carolina to issue $100,000 of six per cent non-cumulative preferred stock, consisting of 1,000 shares of $100 par value and 1,000 shares of common value stock without par value.

The issue will provide the company with a $50,000 cash bond to guarantee the performance of its obligations under the lease, $25,000 for working capital, $25,000 for cash payment for new equipment to cost $50,000 and funds for other corporate purposes.

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne said today that early next week he would grant his permission for the Atlantic and East Carolina Railroad to lease the properties of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Company.

Charges Are Brought In Local Auto Wreck

Officer S. Bowen Dorsey last night charged Jesse J. Brown with operating a motor vehicle in a careless and reckless manner following an accident on East Third street, in which Brown's automobile struck another motor vehicle belonging to Mrs. Garland Hudson. Police said that Mrs. Hudson's car was parked at the time of the accident, but no one occupied the automobile. No one was injured seriously in the Brown car and damage was slight, police said.

Merchant Board Meet Will Be Held Monday

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Greenville Merchants Association will be held in the organization's offices at 8 p. m. Monday night. Mrs. Cora S. Powell, executive secretary, said a number of important problems would be discussed and urged a full attendance.

Capitol Hill Aids Business Babson Says Congress Has Done Fairly Good Job

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 4.—Congress has done a pretty good job, considering the pressure groups which have harassed it so continually. Naturally, I do not like the huge spending plans which have been okayed. On the other hand, the money is not going out of the country. It is merely being shifted from the East to the West or from the employed to the unemployed. This policy cannot be continued much longer without disaster; but what has been done in the past few months may have been justified. At any rate, Congress might have been much worse. I am delighted at the President's action on the Neutrality bill, although I believe we should—and will

WAY CLEARED FOR CONGRESS TO QUIT THIS P. M.

Senate-House Group Agrees on Deficiency Issue

MEASURE TO AID NATION'S FARMS

If Senate Approves Third Appropriations Bill, Congress Can Conclude Session

Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The way was cleared for prompt adjournment of Congress today when a joint Senate-House committee agreed this afternoon on terms of a $185,000,000 appropriation bill, the session's last major measure.

Conferees agreed to retention in the measure of $119,599,918 for the Commodity Credit Corporation, to be used to bolster farm prices. Secretary Wallace and President Roosevelt had both said this appropriation was necessary to maintain the administration's farm price program.

Representative Taber (R-N.Y.) said he and Representative Ditter (R-Pa.) refused to sign the conference report.

"It was awful," Taber said. "The House members gave in on everything."

As originally passed by the House the deficiency measure totalled only $5,000,000. The Senate inserted so many new items, including the commodity credit fund, that the total of the bill went up to $189,000,000.

The task before the conference committee is to work out a compromise which would be acceptable to both branches. In order to do this the committee trimmed about $4,000,000 out of the Senate bill.

The compromise bill went first to the House, where leaders expressed belief that despite inclusion of many items opposed by the economy bloc, it would be accepted without extraordinary protests.

From the House the bill goes to the Senate and once it has the approval of that body Congress can adjourn.

Speculation on the actual hour of adjournment had ranged from 3 p. m. to the hour fixed by Republican Leader Martin of the House, to 5 p. m., the estimate of House Majority Leader Rayburn.

The House had awaited the conference committee report. President Roosevelt vetoed a Senate bill which would have granted another four-year extension of the time in which banks must terminate interlocking directorates.

Last Rites Are Held For Eula J. Farmer

Eula Jane Farmer, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Farmer, died at the home of her parents in Martin county Friday night, following a stroke of paralysis. Funeral services were conducted at Rose of Sharon Free Will Baptist Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Abram. Free Will Baptist minister of Rocky Mount. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Besides her parents, surviving are one brother, Raymond Farmer of the home; three sisters, Ruby Gray, Caddie May and Evie Lee, all of the home; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Terry of Martin county, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mollie Farmer of Beaufort county.

Congressmen Ready to Go Home

The approaching week-end found members of the lower house in Congress ready to adjourn just as soon as the Senate speeds through its last-minute rush. House leaders are shown conferring over final details of business. Left to right: Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, Democrat of Illinois, chairman of the powerful Rules committee; Rep. Sam Rayburn, Democrat of Texas, floor leader, and Speaker William B. Bankhead of Alabama.

20-Year-Old Engages In One Crime Filled Week

MAKING PLANS FOR BIG EVENT

State-Wide Meeting In Set For Greenville

Plans are going forward for the annual meeting and seed exposition of the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association to be held in Greenville the latter part of January or the first week in February. Willard T. Kizer, secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, revealed today.

Chamber of Commerce officials, representatives of the Merchants' Association met with dignitaries of the Crop Improvement Association and R. R. Bennett, county agent, and C. D. Griggs, assistant county agent, last night to map plans for the meeting.

Kizer said the state would sponsor 12 educational exhibits along with many other booths for the exposition, held last year in Rocky Mount. The entire exposition will be educational and is expected to attract about 2,000 people.

Being host city for the state-wide affair gives Greenville the distinction of being the most distant eastern city in which an annual meeting of the association has been held. One hundred judging teams will be on hand for the exposition. There are four persons for each team, with one alternate, which gives a combined total of 500 persons. Kizer said that 100 4-H club boys would be in attendance to assist with the program.

Out-of-town officials attending last night's meeting were Dr. J. B. Colner, director in charge of the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association, and A. D. Stuart, state seed specialist, each of whom is expected to do much in promoting the success of the occasion.

A definite date for the meeting has not been set pending a study of other events in the city, in that sponsors do not want to conflict with any other occasion that may be planned around the time of the association's annual meeting.

Kills One, Wounds Sweetheart, Stages Nine Hold-Ups

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Working for his father bored Leonard Nugent, 20, a high school graduate, so he ran away, and today police charged him with having killed a man, wounded his sweetheart and staged nine hold-ups in one week.

The curly-haired, neatly-dressed boy fainted when police told him of the death of Isadore Cohen, 42, a button broker who police said was shot under the heart while grappling with Nugent.

Detective John J. Gallagher said the frightened boy had made a complete confession and gave this version of his week's activities: "Tiring of working as a 'printers' devil' in the engraving plant owned by his father, he left his Staten Island home after a bitter family quarrel.

He rented a furnished room and then found his funds running low and turned to robbery to make some 'easy money.' Working alone, he pulled off eight hold-ups successfully, in one robbing eight men in a washroom.

Yesterday Cohen entered a washroom in a building at Twenty-Eighth street and Broadway where Nugent had just taken $22 from Charles Getzel.

Cohen gave Nugent some small change in his pocket and then grabbed suddenly for Nugent's gun. Nugent stepped back and fired three times, two of the bullets going wild. Panicked, he fled to the West Forty-Sixth street office of Dr. A. M. Mulholland, where his girlfriend, Elizabeth Collins, 18, worked as a receptionist.

Shaking with fear he told her of the hold-up and babbled, "It's the first time I've been hood." Nugent tried to pull the gun from his pocket, but it accidentally discharged in his fumbling fingers. The bullet ripped through the girl's jaw. She dropped, seriously wounded.

Noted Educator Dies. Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Dr. James H. Kirkland, who served as chancellor of Vanderbilt University for 44 years—longer than any contemporary heading an American institution of higher learning—died today in Magnawan, Canada. He was 79.

JAPS IRKED AT WARNING FROM GREAT BRITAIN

"Extreme Irritation" Expressed at Declaration

NIPPON PAPERS DELATE THREAT

British and French Military Missions Leave meanwhile for Moscow Conversations

By The Associated Press A British-French military mission left for Moscow today as Japanese expressed "extreme irritation" over Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration that a British fleet might steam to the Orient "in certain circumstances."

"Britain is playing a dangerous game," said a war office spokesman, who interpreted Chamberlain's words in the House of Commons yesterday as "a shrewd remark designed to intimidate Japan."

Japanese newspapers printed Chamberlain's statement that Britain had not "in the Far East a fleet superior to the Japanese," but deleted the warning that naval reinforcements might be sent.

For the third successive day there was no meeting of British-Japanese negotiators who have been trying to solve differences between the two nations in the Far East.

The British-French military mission is to open staff talks with Soviet military leaders considering the practical means of collaboration among the three powers in case of a European war.

Definition of the term "indirect aggression" is the main subject which has held up Moscow conversations over a British-French-Soviet mutual defense pact.

As the military mission left, Britain announced that William Strang, its foreign office expert who is in Moscow, would return to London next week, but declared his departure "in no way indicates a change in the progress of negotiations."

Reports from China meanwhile indicated that Japan's anti-foreign campaign was taking on a definite anti-American tinge. United States citizens were said to be preparing to flee Kaifeng, in Honan province, because of such developments, but precise details were lacking because of broken communication lines.

Tobacco Night At Local Civic Club

18-TARBARO—The Greenville Kiwanis club is solidly behind the Greenville tobacco market was evidenced at the regular meeting of the club last night, at which time "tobacco night" was observed.

The "tobacco night" program was held in accordance with an agreement by all civic clubs in the city to devote one meeting to the market in an effort to bring about an even closer spirit of cooperation between "tobacco town" and the business men.

Kiwanian Ed Batchelor, who also is chairman of the Community Tobacco Market committee, had charge of the program. Among those appearing on the program were Sales Supervisor R. C. Raukin, Chamber of Commerce Secretary W. T. Kizer, B. B. Suggs, D. H. Conley, Dr. S. M. Crisp, G. V. Smith and B. W. Moseley.

The meeting was in the form of a round table discussion. Guests last night included Bruce Suggs, Jr., Hicks Corey, Jr., and Dr. George D. Wilson.

Many Inquiries Received For Information On N. C.

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—The governor's hospitality committee of the Department of Conservation and Development has received more than 48,000 requests for booklets and other information about North Carolina as a result of the display advertising done by the Division of State Advertising, Director R. Bruce Etheridge of the department said today. This does not include inquiries which have been coming in at a rate of 1,000 per week as a result of the North Carolina exhibit at the New York World's Fair, Etheridge said. From the spring and summer display advertising schedule, which started March 6, 12,301 inquiries arrived up to July 22, while in the rest of last month there were 2,787 more inquiries.

Whether it's the influence of the Elegant Eighties or the result of women's ennui with last year's silly hats, the new fall chapeaux have substance and they fit heads. Here is evidence in a gray felt whose brim rolls like a bowl and whose crown is covered with a gray-green plume. Walter Florelle designed it to go places with those first fall frocks.

Hatch Bill Signed, Hatch Happy

Senator Carl Hatch (left), Democrat of New Mexico, found reason to smile happily after learning his bill to regulate political activities of federal employes had been signed by President Roosevelt and made into law. The senator is shown talking it over with Vice-President Garner in the latter's office in the capitol at Washington.

Record Breakers Continue Flight

Humphrey Moody (left), 20, and his brother, Hunter (right), 25, continued their endurance flying over Springfield, Ill., after breaking the world's record for continuous flight in a light plane. They passed the light plane record of 218 hours and 43 minutes last Tuesday but kept on in hopes of breaking the heavy plane endurance record of 653 hours set by Al and Fred Keys at Meridian, Miss., in 1937. Shown with the Moody brothers just before they took off is LeRoy Murphy, their mechanic.

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

YES! ERDAY: Locks (Mr. Lochinvar) tells Cecily he will be in and out of her life. She decides to give a series of suppers and charge for them.

Chapter 14

Another Visit

"WE COULD charge thirty-five cents and..."

Laura put down her pencil. "Cecily Stuart, have you lost your mind? Thirty-five cents for that kind of a meal? In the first place, we'd go broke. In the second place, these colonists have lots of money and would be glad to pay a reasonable price for such grand food."

Cecily wasn't thinking of the colonists. She was thinking of a young man whose throat looked thin. A young man who lived in a ramshackle shack at the end of a lonely road. A shabby transient who had the manner of a cavalier. A man who might be able to pay thirty-five cents for a nutritious meal.

"That's the banker influence," she said, pretending to scold.

"Well, it's your business," Laura said resolutely and went to town to help Cecily get the word around.

Olivia protested the plan. "Cecily, if you want to run a book-shop as a whim, that's all right but I'd rather you didn't go in for restaurating. What will people think?"

Philip said he thought it was great fun and he was proud of Cecily. He said, he'd be there at six with other guests from Darelea.

Promptly, Cecily said she'd rather he didn't. It wasn't a party, she said, and she would get along more efficiently without them if they wouldn't mind.

She was annoyed with Philip. He had refused flatly to autograph copies of Ride the Rainbow.

"It's not cricket," he said. "If I were a Shandy, I might, but I think it's a bit of showing off for me to do it."

She thought crisply that what was the first time Philip had objected to showing off. But she didn't press the point.

If he would only stay away the night of the supper.

He did, granting her that point. Cecily and Philip seemed always to be exchanging moves for move. She didn't like it but she had something else to think about.

She had tomatoes and lentils, spaghetti and salad on her mind.

She had to think of card tables and linens and service.

Oh, she found a great many things to think of so that she wouldn't think about whether or not Locke knew she was having a supper that she wanted him to come to.

She had said specifically on the little note she wrote to the summer cottagers that her suppers were from six to eight. It was quite plain that this was not to be a series of parties such as her first one.

Party or not, her first supper was a great success. She served twenty suppers at fifty cents a piece—Laura having won her point—and made a few cents over six dollars.

And by eight-thirty, the last of the supper guests had departed for the movies, and Cecily paid small Archibald his quarter for helping with the dishes.

Laura had been invited to play bridge with the MacGregors and Cecily had insisted that she go along with them. She really needed no help. It had been amazingly simple to put away the food in the ice-box, which was a recent addition, and to burn the paper plates and cups.

She thought: Laura was right. I could have charged a dollar and they would have paid it willingly. But I thought surely he would come and he couldn't afford so much. If I had known—

"Party over?"

"Only The Man Who—"

SHE dropped the plate she held in her hand, as his voice startled her, and bent over to pick it up, taking a long time to do it so that he would not see how suddenly crimson her face had turned when she heard his voice.

When she got the pieces together, she couldn't hold them in her hands. Her hands were foolishly trembling. Oh, she thought, this confusion is ridiculous. He is only a young man who—

She couldn't get any further. He was only the young man that she had wanted to see more than any one else. He was only the young man who had been haunting her.

He was only the person who turned her thoughts inside out, who made the world seem entirely new. He was only the person who reduced her now to a state where she could only say foolishly, "Oh, I'm glad you came. I didn't think you were going to."

"I've been hanging around waiting for the last hour," he said. "And now, it's over."

"Oh, no, it isn't," she said quickly. "I haven't had mine. We'll... we'll have it together."

She heard his plate with the steaming, succulent spaghetti re-with meat and mushroom sauce. She had to reheat it over the electric stove. She mixed a fresh salad and cut generous chunks of cheese.

"Why hang around? Why didn't you come in?"

"Well," he said, taking the vinegar away from her, "I thought you'd have too many people here. Which one of them was Callen?"

"He wasn't here," she said. "What are you doing with the vinegar?"

"Showing you how to mix real dressing," he answered impudently.

"If you don't like our service..."

"I know, don't tell me. I can go some place else."

"I wasn't going to say that," she said, making an attempt to eat heartily. She had already had her supper but she wanted him to feel at ease.

He did. He helped himself to a generous second portion of spaghetti. "I'm not easily discouraged," he said.

They ate silently for a few minutes. When the platter was clean and the last lettuce leaf used to absorb the last ounce of dressing, he sat back and drew a pipe from his coat pocket.

Cecily thought: He couldn't always have been so poor; that's an excellent coat. It was of the same kind that Doug used to order from England. His linen was fine, too, she noted. And his hair had been brushed to lie smooth. It didn't.

"Gal, did you cook this fine food?" he asked, lazily drawing on his pipe.

"I did. Will it do?"

"You'd make a wonderful wife for a poor man," he said contentedly. Cecily felt like an idiot because his careless compliment pleased her exorbitantly.

"Think so? Well, let's see what kind of a poor husband you'd make. You can wash the dishes."

"I'd make a very poor husband indeed," he responded promptly. "In fact, I'd make a bad one, but I'm a good companion."

Story Of Her Life

THE few dishes were washed and put in the cupboard and Cecily and her guest sat on a lounge. Cecily prayed that no one would be attracted by the light in her shop.

Along she said, "What makes you think you'd be a good companion? What are your attributes?"

"I'm a good listener."

"You'll need more than that, because I'm not a talker."

"G. on," he urged. "Tell me the story of your life."

"It's not interesting. I was born, then I grew. First I grew out and then I grew up and here I am."

"Nice work of growing," he said approvingly. "And since then?"

"Nothing," she finished.

"Then shall I tell you?" She nodded. "Well, then, Miss Cecily, you went to good schools, made a debut, got bored with the social life and opened a shop as a lark."

"Oh, no I didn't," she protested earnestly, anxious that he wouldn't think her like her cousin, Gloria.

"Then tell me about it."

"Oh, it's not interesting," she said, conscious of how dull she sounded. "I went to a good school. My father and mother died in a railroad accident. I have a twin brother, Doug, who is going to be a doctor. He's tutoring in France this summer. You'd like Doug."

"Would Doug like me?" he asked with one eyebrow raised crookedly.

"Yes, he would." She said it and realized that she meant it. Doug might not approve of her taking a transient under her wing but she felt that he would like Locke none the less.

"Ah, a little approbation goes to my head. Go on saying these nice things."

"You're laughing at me," she accused.

"I'm laughing with you," he corrected. "I amuse you, Cecily, and not many people do."

She had no answer to that.

"There are no lines of laughter in your face," he said after a little when she was silent. "Child, I don't think you've had much fun. I don't think you've laughed very much."

Cecily said quickly, "Of course I have! I'm not a very spontaneous person, if that's what you mean."

"That isn't what I mean. And what I do mean is something that you wouldn't understand because you are neither subjective in your point of view, nor introspective."

"Smile when you say that," she attempted lightly.

"I mean nothing but compliments, my gentle dove."

"Perhaps we'd better return to your companionable attributes. Now, that you've proved you're a good listener by listening to my life story, let's get on to the next."

"Oh, by the way, we mean through with your life story but we'll take it up in easy stages. To get back to me, I'm also a fine story-teller," he said, making a mockery of his modest expression.

"I've noted that," she replied wily. "I remember the nurse, the Kentucky Derby and..."

As a result, so 'tis said, the governor recently expressed to the commissioners his desire that something be done before many more moons have passed.

Making the Mitchell road even more a lively matter of interest is the approaching letting of contracts for two sections of the parkway in that section. These links will connect Bull Gap with Toe River Gap, and when they are completed it will be possible to follow the parkway from the Shenandoah section in Virginia all the way to Asheville, using existing roads over a small stretch in the Grandfather Mountain sector.

Bids for one section will be received about September 1 and for the other about September 15. Both were made possible as the result of the new congressional appropriation of $3,150,000 just made for the parkway. This brings total appropriated for the purpose up to $19,500,000 so far.

Construction of the new links, across the Craggies from Bull Gap to within a few miles of the Mitchell crest, will comprise some of the heaviest construction yet undertaken. Though the two links will total only 12.5 miles, it is estimated that they will require the moving of almost as much stone and dirt as in building 29.5 miles soon to be started in Virginia.

Adding to the importance of the Mount Mitchell road as one of the principal attractions offered in North Carolina from a scenic view point is the fact that completion of the parkway will unquestionably add thousands to the number of visitors to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, already the second most popular park in the United States.

For the first six months of this year the National Park Service reports that there was a big increase over figures for visitors during the first half of 1938.

From January through June, a total of 225,663 persons in 71,290 automobiles visited the park, according to actual count made by the service. During the corresponding period last year there were 212,794 visitors in 68,461 automobiles; giving and increase for the first half of this year of 12,869 persons and 2,829 automobiles.

During the calendar year 1938, a total of 706,563 persons and 215,654 cars visited the park and the service predicts that these figures will be exceeded this year.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coon

Hollywood—If you saw Vincent Price in "Service De Luxe" with Constance Bennett last year, you know he is a brunette. You think he is. That's because he is so tall—6 feet 4 inches.

He is as blond, actually, as Connie Bennett. His height made him a brunette—he was always above the range of the lights which were arranged for the star, so far above the wonder is that he was photographed at all.

That height is the thing that gets him down about picture-acting. On the stage (where he was Helen Hayes' Prince Albert in the original Broadway production of "Victoria Regina") he didn't mind. In pictures, he gets a form of claustrophobia, trying to toe the little white lines on the sound stages. It's because his feet are so far down, toeing the camera marks, that it makes him sort of dizzy. He wants to break away and run. On "Elizabeth and Essex," however, he had plenty of tall company, notably in Erroll Flynn, who is 6 feet 2.

How he came to "Victoria Regina" is an interesting tale. Having from St. Louis, Price went to Yale and finished there in 1933. He taught school briefly until he decided his pupils knew more than he did, then went abroad for further study—the history of art and politics.

Although he had played in amateur theatricals, and fancied himself a singer, he still wasn't stage-struck. But he woke up in Vienna one morning broke, and that circumstance led him into cafe singing. He sang, and guided tourists, enough to recoup his fortunes, continue his studies. In London, when he was broke again, he applied for an acting job at the Gate theater. The Gate didn't take inexperienced actors, but they took this one. He played a cop in "Chicago," also a judge in the last act.

And so it came about that when "Victoria Regina" was first projected at the Gate, the managers offered him the role of Albert to Pamela Stanley's queen. He faked the accent by copying those of all the German friends he'd made, and he clicked in the part. Gilbert Miller bought the play for Helen Hayes, took Vincent Price along and thus gave him a Broadway debut.

Mr. Miller's office had the reporters and photographers at the boat when I docked," he recalls ruefully, "but the effort was wasted. I was paying my own way, and I got off with the second-class passengers at the other end of the boat. I went around to the Miller office and I couldn't get in, which crippled my ego. An hour later Mr. Miller himself came out, fired the reception clerk, hired her right back, and I went to work."

For more than a year Price has been married to Edith Barrett of the stage, and they've been exchanging visits. He isn't married to Hollywood, by any means. "I like it—but I think the stage is more adventurous." He goes next into "The Invisible Man Returns," the role, as a voice without a body during much of the film.

His plaint: Nobody will give him a chance to sing!

A Fish Story From Gala, Va. Gala, Va.—(AP)—A perfect cast, a vicious strike, and Herbert Ruda, all veteran bass fisherman, heaped praise on the fighting heart of the old bronzeback at the end of his line. Then, to his surprise, he netted a three-pound James river catfish which had broken tradition by rising to his artificial lure, a wooden minnow.

Free Mt. Mitchell Road Now Up To Commission

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, Aug. 4.—The matter of providing a toll-free road to the summit of Mount Mitchell, highest peak in eastern America, is now squarely in the lap of the North Carolina Highway and Public Works Commission as completion of the Blue Ridge Parkway as far west as Asheville seems certain by next summer.

For more than a year the commission has been hemming and hawing, but it has done substantially nothing whatever about it; but now the parkway is about to be finished to a point where excellent hard-surfaced roads will connect directly with the present toll route to the Mitchell top, and there is every indication that powerful and prominent western North Carolina figures are beginning to turn plenty of "heat" on the commission. Only recently, it is reported from sources that usually know what goes on, Governor Clyde Hoey was told quite frankly that the west, or the part represented by the teller, is sick and tired of the methods of road allocating being followed by the present commissioners. The governor was informed that there will be a political revolt of much more than mild proportions if something isn't done soon in the matter of providing a toll-free road to the top of Mount Mitchell, along with other roads which serve better purposes than to run through land owned by the commissioners and their friends.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington.—These are the days of the great congressional jitters. Brave senators who never have wined under the exchange of oratorical punches on the Senate floor dread what they will find at home when they begin measuring the support they will have next year.

Some 435 House members return to the same situation. The reason for the worrying is this: While there are two summers between now and the 1940 elections, there is only one summer between now and the next primary. And that summer is the present one.

A few members of Congress live in states where the primary comes late next year, so they will have an opportunity to put up a case after the 1940 session of Congress. But most won't have any such opening. Any door-to-door and picnic-to-picnic visiting must be done this summer. Next year they will be tied up in Washington while the enemy is loose at home.

That situation really has the pudding in the neck of whole clusters of members. Two-thirds of the Senate can always laugh at the other third which comes up for election. They can laugh because they don't know how it feels to come up to the firing line and have to bid again for the old job.

ASHURST AGITATED
What they do chuckle at is the agitation of those members who never are in much danger and yet have the finest spells of pre-election torment. Senator Ashurst of Arizona is a case in point. He is all ways bubbling. But already his friends say he is worrying about little ripples of political activity out in Arizona, where he has not been beaten for the Senate in his whole life.

Observers say there isn't a chance of upsetting him in 1940, but he is taking no risks. On a recent date he put into the congressional record 39 columns of speeches, articles, news clippings and other pro-Ashurst matter that might be useful in saving his skin—even if it is not in danger.

In a somewhat frolicsome mood he urged the Senate the other day to adjourn so the members could get back home.

"I am advised today," he said, "that I have some political fences in a sad condition of disrepair."
Senator Pittman of Nevada is another who always suffers pre-election panics but comes up with post-election majorities. He didn't fight to stay out in the forefront of the silver group for nothing. Silver is important politics in Nevada.

Senator Connally of Texas is another pre-election fretter. The old-age pension movement has taken hold out his way. It helped elect Governor O'Daniel, the flour dealer. O'Daniel is a possible candidate for Connally's job. So you find Connally taking care of that situation by adding an amendment to the social security act designed to give two federal dollars for one dollar of state money in the lower pension brackets.

REASON TO WORRY
Of course there are some members who are expecting real trouble. Senator Truman of Missouri will be opposed for his party's nomination by popular Governor Stark, who rocketed to prominence as the result of exposure about the Fendergast machine in Kansas City.
In Wisconsin, the LaPollette organization was beaten last year, and next year "Young Bob" comes up for re-election. In Nebraska, Sen. Burke will get no support from the liberal wing of the party.

once ruled high in Pennsylvania, but is not so mighty now.

One of those who doesn't need to worry is Senator Hiram Johnson of California. They would elect him out there if he turned communist.

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—Revocation this week of 73 drivers licenses brought the state's grand total to 23,173. Driving drunk accounted for 63, either singly or in combination with some other offense. Other causes were driving after license revoked, 3; hit and run, 3; larceny of automobile, 2; perjury, 1; and manslaughter, 1.

Guilford courts took away 15 licenses. 14 in Greensboro, one in High Point. In Durham, 7 were revoked; in Wilmington, 6; Charlotte, 6; Chapel Hill 3; and Raleigh and Newlands, 3 each.

There are more than 5,000 persons employed in the life insurance business in North Carolina, according to an address made by J. M. Bryan, vice president of the Jefferson Standard, at the closing session of Duke University's conference on education.

More than 500 insurance companies operate in this state, 77 of them life companies, 11 of them with home offices in North Carolina.

While on the subject of statistics, Western Union in Raleigh is sending out with telegrams, etc., "Facts About the Western Union in Raleigh." According to these "facts" there are 399 telegraph offices in the state of North Carolina, 364 of them being Western Union offices. That's getting pretty close to the monopoly stage.

On the fifth floor of the Revenue building, just beside the elevator, there is a typewritten sign begging all and sundry not to throw paper into "this cuspidor." Later in the same typed appeal there is a further solicitation to all and sundry to preserve the inviolability of "this cuspidor."

It would all be very mysterious and intriguing but for the fact that a glance downward reveals a nice, shiny brass cuspidor—obviously the object of such repeated solicitude.

Negro graduate students this year will be eligible for the first time for assistance from the National Youth Administration funds to provide scholarships for needy students.

This because of the action of this year's General Assembly in providing for graduate work in the professional courses at the North Carolina College for Negroes in Durham.

No ceremonies attended the inauguration of a new motoring era in North Carolina, August 1, when the first 60-mile link of the Blue Ridge Parkway to be finished in western North Carolina was quite casually opened to traffic.

For months, however, motorists have been using the link on an "at your own risk" basis. It runs from Galax, Va., to Deep Gap near Boone.

"He's our Santa Claus," was the burden of introduction given R. M. Evans, national administrator of the Triple-A, at yesterday's farmer meeting at the Memorial auditorium.

(Continued from page one) must be willing to go further in solving their own problems. The solution lies in the abandonment of about one-third of the continent's railroad mileage. This can be accomplished gradually, without hurting anyone, as the workers get older and retire. The National Labor Relations act has not been amended as I had hoped, but the regulations of its board have been greatly modified. Moreover, their new member, William M. Leiserson, has the confidence of both employers and wage

What Is Your News I. Q.?

By The AP Feature Service

Each question counts 20. A score of 60 is fair, 80, good.

1. Where was this Oklahoma girl, Vivienne Kellems, rescued?
2. Do Matanuska, Alaska, colonists want (a) more U. S. aid, (b) free trips to U. S., (c) cooperative self-support?
3. Who carried the "Message to Garcia," and how did he get into the news recently?
4. Mars is closer to earth this summer than at any time in 15 years. True or false?
5. What vitamin is in spinach, coal tar and alfalfa?

News I. Q. Answers

1. On Alaskan coast, where her father's boat on Northwest Passage "expedition" was wrecked. Cooperative self-support.
2. Maj. Andrew Rowan, Congress passed act enabling him to receive a Cuban decoration.
3. True—36,000,000 miles on July 27.
4. Vitamin B, subject of new experiments, ...

workers. I know this man personally and think highly of him.

Certainly, Congress did a lot to help business in connection with tax revisions. Those of us who complain about an unbalanced budget must be willing to pay heavy taxes as well as to grouch about expenditures. The "small business man" has been especially favored by tax revisions. The holding-down of employer and employee contributions toward the federal old-age reserve fund is also a step in the right direction. This will be a real relief to wage workers and employers. More money will drift into retail stores; more orders will be received by factories; and more employees will be put to work. Some day, Congress must thoroughly and sensibly overhaul our entire tax system.

Young Justices Okay
In general, the congressional investigating committees have acted very well, particularly the so-called Monopoly committee. The latter did not pull any spectacular stunts and its first report is worthy of careful study by every citizen. The consolidation of administrative departments is also a step in the right direction. Personally, I do not object to younger men being appointed to the Supreme court. They will soon be older! Congress is surely to be commended for its WPA hours attitude and its refusal to be bulldozed by the recent strikes.

Having somewhat intimate contacts with senators and representatives, I feel that I am in a position to comment on another feature—namely, their deeper personal convictions. Democracy "can be saved" only through a spiritual revival and a return to representative government. We must elect good men and trust them for results. These men must consider what is best for the country as a whole and not selfishly represent specific groups or communities. I am convinced that if pressure groups would let congressmen alone these representatives would diligently strive along such lines.

Stands Behind Forecast
What does all this mean to business? To me, it means that we should quit cussing Roosevelt, Chamberlain, Hitler, Mussolini and others for the balance of this year and settle down to business. In my January forecast, I stated that 1939 business should average 20 per cent over 1938. Up to the present time this average shows an increase of 21 per cent. Moreover, if we all forget these rugged rocks and cool breezes of Cape Ann have pepped me up. Surely, something has!

Bullish on Autumn
Of course, severe unemployment and mammoth relief spending cannot continue indefinitely without disaster. Either we must return to a free market for labor, commodities, money and enterprise, or else we are headed for inflation and revolution. Such an outcome, however, is no more necessary than is another European war. But, whatever course we pursue, the final solution is still some distance ahead. For the moment, I am distinctly bullish, although most of my fellow commentators disagree with me. Perhaps these rugged rocks and cool breezes of Cape Ann have pepped me up. Surely, something has!

NEW ZEALAND PLANS AHEAD
Wellington, N. Z. — (AP) — Announcement of a "New Zealand Government War Book," detailing plans for an emergency, has been made by Prime Minister Savage. The book is the result of 400 committee meetings and the co-operation of 40 government departments. Most of its chapters will remain secret until an emergency. Mr. Savage revealed the main headings: Emergency legislation; mobilization; medical examination of recruits; guards for vital points; overseas passenger traffic; control of navigational aids; coast watching; control of aliens; trading with the enemy; broadcasting; overseas telegraphic correspondence; priority of printing; accommodation for extra staff.

A comprehensive organization for supply is outlined, involving action by 24 departments and providing for foodstuffs control, medical and oil supplies and overseas trade. In the Civil war, 349,944 Union soldiers were killed or died of disease. The South lost 129,159 men.

Many women of India prefer soap nut, fruit of a tree, to soap for washing woollens and silks.

Bright Lights Cut Headaches. Columbia, Mo.—(AP)—Rural electrification has cured Missouri farmers of such things as headaches and indigestion, says K. B. Huff of the University of Missouri agricultural engineering department.

Locals Win 1-0; Snow Hill Here Sunday Afternoon

DON KING GETS 18TH 1939 WIN

Christopher Drives in 'Greenies' Lone Tally

Don King and X. Brown mixed in a hurling duel here last night and gave up 6-hits apiece, but Greenville scored a singleton in the fifth frame to win 1-0 over Goldsboro. It was King's 18th win of the season.

Greenville will meet Snow Hill here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Greenville had reached Brown for three hits until the fifth inning last night, when they scored a run on two hits. Smith singled, advanced to third on Allen's fly to center and King's sacrifice and scored on Red Christopher's single to center.

A hit batsmen, error and intended walk loaded the sacks for the Greenies in the eighth, but the side was retired with three men still aboard.

Goldsboro made one big serious threat to go ahead in the second when Overton and Mullinax singled and advanced a base on King's error. The inning ended with men on second and third.

Three nice double plays spotted scoring opportunities of the Gold Bugs, who put men in scoring position on several occasions.

Red Christopher was the only Greenie to collect more than one safety, while Mullinax got two in four official turns for the Bugs.

Falkland, Fountain, Grifton, Winterville and Grimesland were guests of the club in a "Big Five Night." In the only other games of the league yesterday, Kingston's Eagles defeated Tarboro 7-6 in a 16-inning game and Williamson's Martins turned in an 8-0 shutout over the Wilson Tobs. The New Bern-Snow Hill game was rained out.

Typical Teacher Just Talks. San Francisco.—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine D. Foy of Twin Buttes, Ariz., selected as the "most typical" one-room schoolhouse teacher, says she has no disciplinary problem with her varied pupils ranging from the first to eighth grade. "I just talk to them straight from the shoulder, and they know I mean what I say," she explained. "There'd be no use trying force, because some of the boys are bigger than I am."

A CIGAR ONCE REPLACED A CLOCK ON A MAIL PLANE AND BROUGHT THE MAIL THROUGH SAFELY!

Once, while flying the mail from Cleveland to New York, J. D. Hill, pilot, ran into bad weather, making it necessary to complete the route by instruments (Blind Flying) alone. He noticed that the clock on his dashboard had stopped. Hill was an inveterate smoker and knew that a cigar lasted about 75 miles. Knowing that he had about 275 miles to travel, he drew from his pocket, four cigars, and smoked them one after another. When he had consumed three and two-fifths cigars he dropped through the clouds and found his field of destination directly below him. Odd Isn't It?

Your Screen Test

- Many actresses are married to men who are prominent in their own right in Hollywood, though not as actors. Name and identify the husbands of the following stars: (a) Gloria Dickson (shown in the picture); (b) Myrna Loy; (c) Louise Fazenda; (d) Miriam Hopkins.
- What prominent actor has announced he will return to the Broadway stage next fall after an absence of seven years? His last play was "Counselor-At-Law."
- Name the picture which premiered with a great deal of fanfare in these cities: (a) Des Moines, Iowa; (b) Omaha, Neb.; (c) Springfield, Ill.; (d) Dodge City, Kas.; (e) Waukegan, Ill.

Count 20 points for each question correctly answered. A score of 60 is good, 80 is excellent, and 90 or above is colossal.

Flying Fortresses Skim Over Cradle of Aviation

Four of the army air corps' great flying fortresses are shown sailing over Dayton, Ohio, home of the Wright brothers, in a demonstration attack flight as a part of the War Department's celebration of the 30th anniversary of army flying. In 1909, just three years after the Wright brothers made the first flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., after long research at Dayton, the army bought its first plane from them.

'She Ruined Me,' Says Ex-Judge

Shown in court at Oklahoma City, Fred F. Branson (right) former Oklahoma Supreme court justice, told the judge his stormy love life cost him $140,000 in the last 15 years, left him with only $300 in the bank and forced his wife to divorce him. He spoke thus in fighting the suit of Madeline Branson (left) his former stenographer, who seeks validation of their marriage in 1930 and $500 a month separate maintenance.

No Game Tonight

Contrary to belief, there will not be a baseball game here tonight between Greenville and Snow Hill. Snow Hill club officials last night transferred the game to Greenville because the Snow Hill park was thought to be too wet for use. This afternoon they advised D. C. Moore, Jr., secretary of the club, that the game had been shifted to Snow Hill.

Eube Wilson was busy trying to round up his players after Snow Hill officials advised this afternoon that they'd like to play this afternoon. Whether they played or not is not known here, but there will not be any baseball in the local park tonight.

Reformed Man Is Denied Parole

Raleigh, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Paroles Commissioner Edwin Gill announced today that a parole had been denied Kohler Holdaway, who was once under death sentence in this state but who escaped and became a "model citizen" in Michigan.

Officials have concluded, Gill explained, that a parole now would be "premature" and the case has been continued for a year.

Holdaway was convicted of first degree murder in Catawba county in 1921 and sentenced to die. He received a commutation to life imprisonment and this sentence was later commuted to 23 to 30 years.

"We wish to commend the fine attitude of the prisoner since he began the service of his sentence after his escape," Gill said. "It is making progress which if it continues will probably lead to parole at a later date."

Goldsboro's Swimmers Double Score Over Locals

Goldsboro's swimming team doubled up on the Greenville swimmers in a meet held in Wayne county last night.

Greenville came out on the small end of a 95-49 score, with the Goldsboro girls winning, 49-21, and the Goldsboro boys winning, 46-28.

Featuring for the Goldsboro's girl entries was Prince Nufer, 16-year-old swimmer, who is destined to secure plenty of national Olympic honors in the future.

Liz Wells, Carolyn Hamric and Jane Harrison had to perform for the local girls in the absence of several valuable mainstays. Kittrell, Rowlette, Peele and Babcock turned in Greenville's first place in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

This was the final eastern association meet the Greenville swimmers will enter this season. The title of Eastern Carolina Swimming Association champs goes to Goldsboro, with Greenville and Tarboro deadlocked as runners-up.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Selling dried up in today's stock market and under the leadership of steel, selected issues regained fractions to around a point of Friday's losses.

While the comeback lacked vitality—the turnover was in the neighborhood of 250,000 shares—recovery forces were inclined to interpret it as a sign yesterday's tumble was more of a technical happening than a real reversal of trend.

Bonds were mixed.

There will be a musical given at Sycamore Hill Baptist church Sunday, August 6, at 8:00 P. M.

Everybody is invited. There will be special seats reserved for white friends. There will be a choir composed of 100 voices. Negro spirituals and other selections will be sung. Herman Forbes is director.

On last Sunday, July 30, several missionary workers left Greenville for Hookerton to attend the third mass meeting this year. Despite high water and detours on the way, they went like true missionaries to further the cause of Christ. At Hookerton they met a large delegation from the Washington district.

It is hard to describe the praise service which was held at the beginning of the meeting. It can only be said that God revealed himself to those present.

This meeting was presided over by our own local president, Mrs. Frances Tatum, and Mrs. Thigpen of Rocky Mount. During the service the district president, Mrs. Carrie Spaulding, gave space for a brief memorial service held for Rev. James King, who went to meet his reward June 2. Short talks were made by Mrs. Mary Godette and Mrs. Viola Kearney. A solo was sung by Mrs. Etta Dupree with Mrs. Cherry at the organ.

The reports from the district were fine. One could feel encouraged as a missionary.—Reported.

Farm and Home Convention. The thirty-sixth Farm and Home convention was held at North Carolina State College this week. About a thousand women attended. All classes were full and there was an interesting variety of subjects. The extension agents had their conferences during the week also. The following women from Pitt county spent the week: Mesdames H. B. McBride and G. E. Barber of Pacolus; L. S. Brown, J. H. Barnhill and Roy Worthington of Stokes; Elks and J. Brooks Tucker of Grimesland; Misses Gladys Reid Moore and Ella Nell Fletcher of Falkland; and Miss Ethel Nice the home agent. Others attending part of the week were: Mesdames C. R. Fleming, C. J. Satterthwaite, G. C. Williams, W. F. Little and J. Paul Davenport of Pacolus; J. R. Lewis, Arthur Forbes and John Thorne of Farmville.

On Friday, eighty-four women received certificates in a graduation exercise. Their ages ran from 22 to 78. Mrs. Berbee of Nash, was the oldest, and Miss Ardine Hamilton

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened unchanged to one lower in a small trade. Some Bombay and Liverpool buying in distant positions was offset by hedge selling and spot house liquidation.

At mid-morning, gains of five to six points ruled.

Final prices were one lower to one higher. Middling spot 9.55.

Poultry Notes

The following poultry notes are from the Poultry Department of the State Extension Staff.

1. Soybeans. Soybeans are proving to be an excellent crop on which to graze pullets. If these are planted in rows they provide shade for the birds as well as green food. If other supplies of green feed are exhausted or become tough in hot weather and soybeans cannot be grazed, then a limited amount may be cut daily and carried to the birds.

2. Alfalfa. A number of farmers in North Carolina have found it profitable to raise alfalfa and where proper preparations were made for growing this crop they could produce it very successfully. It has also been found to be a fine green crop for poultry. A number have indicated their desire to grow small patches of alfalfa for poultry this year and August is the month in which we should prepare the land which is to be seeded to alfalfa the first of September. So during August, break up and prepare a plot of land sufficiently large to furnish you with the alfalfa that you desire for your flock of poultry and get it in readiness to be planted around the first of September. The Agronomy department at State College indicates that farmers are getting very good results with such varieties of alfalfa as Kansas Common and Oklahoma Common. They recommend that alfalfa be seeded at the rate of 25 lbs. per acre and that the land be limed according to its needs. In order to determine the amount of lime to apply per acre, it is suggested that a sample of the soil be sent to the Soils Department, State College Station, Raleigh, for analysis. In addition to this, some good commercial fertilizer, like a 4-10-4 should be applied at the rate of 300 to 500 pounds per acre.

3. Rye Grass. Crimson Clover. Now is also the time to plan a green feed supply for fall and winter. Italian rye grass and crimson clover make excellent poultry grazing. These may both be sown in September. These two crops may be seeded alone or together, the time of seeding and grazing of both being about the same. Rye grass, in experiments in North Carolina, has proven to be one of the very best fall and winter green crops for poultry.

4. Oats. Barley. Rye. Wheat.

FARMERS FAIL TO DISPLAY INDIGNATION AT MEETING

error Dick Fountain, past-candidate for governor and United States senator, got no applause whatever after he had been recognized from the floor and had launched into a brief and somewhat impassioned oratorical plea for crop control.

E. F. Arnold, secretary of the Farm Bureau, read his annual report. That, too, was received by the membership and others present without apparent zest.

The tobacco growers may have crop control next year. They may even be worked up later over prices to the point where something will be done about marketing this season's bumper yield. It is much too early to predict anything about it.

Reports from the Border belt are too fragmentary to form any real opinion about the price trend in weeks to come. That "18-cent" opening may fade out as more leaf is dumped on the floors. Anything can happen, but it is completely obvious from yesterday's failure to get excited that Tar Heel growers are not going to be stamped one way or the other until they know more about what's going to happen.

They stayed away from Raleigh in tremendous numbers yesterday and those who did come were much more anxious to get back home and start preparing 18-cent tobacco for market than they were to hear about how to prevent the big companies from "stealing" the crop.

Several of them told our correspondent that even if the price should drop as low as 15 or 16 cents they will make as much money this year as they did last—and after all that's what they're interested in much more than in the price per pound. They said that not only have they more tobacco to sell, but that ## its production cost per pound is much lower this year than last because of the wonderful yield per acre.

And so, they contend, even should the price decline five or six cents per pound from last year's 22-cent (plus) average, they will do pretty well, thank you.

New Sign Erected on Washington Highway

Persons coming into Greenville from the Washington highway no longer will have to stop and wonder which road to take at the intersection on the edge of the city in order to reach the business section.

At the request of the Merchants Association the State Highway Commission has erected a sign at the intersection of the Washington highway and Tenth street extension which reads "To Greenville's Business Section."

The sign is expected to prove of much convenience to persons not familiar with the city.
