THIS SECTION IS PREPARED FOR MART OPENING

Heavy Opening Day Break Anticipated Here

AUCTIONS BEGIN TOMORROW A. M.

General Air of Optimism Prevails on Eve of 1939 Tobacco Marketing Season Opening

With more than a million pounds of tobacco on warehouse floors in Greenville, in anticipation of one of the biggest opening day breaks in the history of the market tomorrow morning, this entire section today awaited the initial auctions, the trend of which will indicate what the farmer will receive for his year's labors.

Activity throughout the city during the past week has been indicative of the approaching marketing season—the time of the year which the community takes on new life. Farmers have been bringing their tobacco here for several days and large quantities have been placed on all warehouse floors, those with second sales as well as those starting off with first sales.

Farmers, business men and all others directly or indirectly dependent on the golden weed appear encouraged over the outlook of the season. Prices paid on the Border market led citizens of Eastern Carolina to look for a price range around the 18-cent mark.

Whatever the price trend, the quantity of tobacco this year is almost a record and farmers claim they have much good leaf to offer on the warehouse floors.

But an estimate of what prices will be paid can be only a guess, for no one can foretell, and the final price chanted by the auctioneer will have to be awaited.

The warehouses have made extensive preparations for the 1939 season. All ten warehouses are anticipating a banner year and the factories have been operating several weeks, working Georgia and Border belt offerings, and are now ready to handle Eastern Carolina's crop.

A government grader will be on the Greenville market this year for the first time and farmers will be able to compare the gradings of the buyers with that of a disinterested, official representative of the Department of Agriculture.

Eighty-seven per cent of the farmers selling tobacco on the Greenville market, recently voted for the services of a government grader. First sales tomorrow will be at Smith & Sugg No. one; New Carolina, Keel's, Harris & Rogers, and Centre Brick.

Try Sixteen Cases In Monday Session

Sixteen cases were aired before Judge Louis C. Skinner in the regular Monday morning session of City Recorder's court.

Elisha Monroe, drunkenness, costs or 30 days; Barron Dean, drunkenness, costs or 30 days; Matt Long and June Tripp, operating motor vehicles in a careless and reckless manner, Tripp not guilty and Long ordered to pay the costs.

Ola Jones, drunkenness, costs or 30 days; James Roberson, Negro, drunkenness, costs or 30 days; James Sharpe and Sam Monroe, Negroes, larceny, adjudged not guilty; Lawson Alligood, drunkenness and disorderly conduct, costs or 30 days.

J. C. Clark, Negro, carrying a concealed weapon, 90 days in the county jail, suspended upon payment of $50 and costs; Willie Jackson, drunkenness, costs or 30 days; Walter Williams, Negro, engaging in disorderly conduct and using vulgar and profane language, 30 days, suspended upon condition that the defendant remain of good behavior for one year.

Junior Steppes, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, 90 days, suspended upon payment of $50 and costs and upon further condition that the driving license of the defendant be revoked two years.

Charlie McLawhorn, Negro, drunkenness, costs or 30 days; George Barnes, Negro, larceny, six months; Mack Lindsay, vagrancy, 30 days; Jack Thompson, larceny, nolle prosequi and Johnnie White, Negro, assault on female, nolle prosequi.

Big Opening Day Break Expected In All Markets

Rogge's After Him

From New Orleans, where he's back on the job of investigating Louisiana's troubled affairs, Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge announced his intention of sooner or later bringing Freeman W. Burford (above), Texas oil millionaire, to New Orleans to face indictment for alleged "hot oil" conspiracy. Burford is shown at Dallas after the government lost its case to remove him to New Orleans.

GERMAN ARMY STANDS READY

Geared for Tightening Push into North Slovakia

Zilina, Slovakia, Aug. 21.—(AP)—German army divisions, geared for lightning action, pushed on to northern Slovakia today.

Motorized units fully equipped with anti-aircraft guns and light auxiliary, massed at the frontier. Slovakia's most traveled road to Poland was commanded by German armed forces.

As large-scale operations continued, involving a force estimated at 250,000 men, observers asserted the strategy was plain.

If the Danzig dispute should start another war, German forces now are in position for a sweeping action against Poland's southern front.

Silenced by the government, the controlled press left Slovakia's public in almost complete ignorance of developments on the vital northern frontier.

Chas. Cobb Named Asst. Supervisor

Charles D. Cobb, who has had several seasons of experience on the Greenville tobacco market in various capacities, will serve as assistant sales supervisor on the market this season.

Announcement of the appointment was made today by the executive committee of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade. The assistant sales supervisor is the son of K. W. Cobb, who resigned as sales supervisor several months ago after having been connected with the market for 15 years.

R. C. Rankin is sales supervisor.

Five Are Indicted In New Orleans

New Orleans, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Abraham L. Shushan, powerful politician and former close associate of Huey Long, was indicted by the federal grand jury here today with four other persons on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The indictment concerned a New Orleans levee board refunding act in which Shushan allegedly received $132,740.

Named with the 300-pound former president of the levee board whose name was stripped from Shushan airport here two weeks ago were Robert J. Newman and Marvin T. Harris, Jr., members of the prominent investment firm of Newman, Harris and Company; Herbert Waguesack, member of the levee board at the time of the transaction, and Henry J. Miller, an accountant, all of whom allegedly shared in a $496,000 fee paid in the refunding.

Farmers Hoping for Average of 18 Cents or Better on New Bright Belt Auction Centers Tomorrow; Warehousemen Say Offerings of 'Fair to Good' Grades

Raleigh, Aug. 21.—(AP) Offerings, which warehousemen termed "fair to good" grades, flooded 14 auction markets of the New Bright belt today on the eve of the opening of the 1939 sales season.

Farmers, hoping for an average of 18 cents a pound or better, were generally optimistic. Border belt averages of 18 cents lent weight to this view.

Offerings have been piling up on warehouse floors for more than a week and opening breaks of more than one million pounds, were expected on several markets.

The weather was generally fair throughout the belt. At Wilson, largest market in the world, preparations were made for handling the largest opening day in history.

Walter Jones, president of the Ki-owa Tobacco Board of Trade, estimated between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 pounds would be on the floor there tomorrow. Offerings were over a wide range with a considerable sprinkling of tips, he said.

At Greenville, an opening break in excess of 1,000,000 pounds was expected. Offerings consisted chiefly of first primings and the quality was described as fair by warehousemen. The Greenville market has a federal grader this season for the first time, following a vote of farmers.

From 500,000 to 700,000 pounds already were on the floors at Smithfield and the market was expected to block the first day. J. A. Morgan, farm agent, predicted $8,000,000 pounds would be raised in Johnston county this year. The previous high was $2,000,000 two years ago. Quality of offerings was fair to good.

More than 300,000 pounds were on the floors at Tarboro. Offerings were of fair grade.

At mid-morning, an estimated 350,000 pounds were on the floors at Goldsboro and warehousemen predicted the largest opening break in history. The quality of offerings was fair.

Death Is Termed A Suicide By Jury

Coroner A. A. Ellwanger today declared the death of Dempsey Bruce Owens, 23, a suicide following an inquest into the death held at Fountain.

The coroner's jury decided the deceased came to his death through self-inflicted rifle wounds.

Dempsey Owens, son of Jim Owens, farmer, was found dead at his residence early today by his roommate, but no explanation for the suicide was offered.

It was disclosed at the inquest that Owens and a friend had set an alarm clock to awaken them at 3 a. m. When Owens' friend got up at this hour, he found that Owens was dead.

Owens made his home on the Fountain-Wilson highway.

Bring Liquor Charge Against Local Citizen

Sheriff's officers said today that Jasper House, Greenville man, was indicted Saturday night on a charge of illegal possession of liquor for purpose of sale.

Officers said that 12 pints of ABC liquor were found at a filling station operated by House on the Greenville-Washington highway about three miles from this city.

House was released under a $200 furnished bond.

White couples to whom licenses were issued were Alf Sosefson of Port Washington, N. Y., and Miss Marguerite Anna Blades of Elizabeth City; Wilbur Harris and Miss Alice Mae Fussell, both of Greenville township; Roy Sutton, Jr. and Miss Minnie Mae Adams, both of Chicod township, and Woodrow Ten and Miss Susie Blackburn, both of Pitt county.

Negro couples securing a license were Johnnie Pettiford and Rebecca Hemby, both of Greenville; August Spruill and Mabel Moore, both of Greenville; Harry C. Kelvin and Mabel Adell Hylar, both of Greenville; Ed Pratt and Gertrude Carr, Greenville township; Griffin Edwards and Marian Daniels, Greenville township, and Major Fleming and Geneva Johnson, Greenville township.

Pliny, a Roman writer of the first century A.D., recorded that soaps were known to the Germans. The soaps, however, were not used for housecleaning, and only by the more progressive individuals for bathing.

Peddler Accused

Held at an undisclosed jail in Texas, John C. Story (above), 60-year-old soap peddler, is accused of the flaming smoke at Durant, Okla., last August. The murder charge was filed at Durant by County Attorney Bill Steger after Story's arrest at DeQueen, Ark. Steger said three sons of the peddler had died violently but no charges were filed in these deaths. In all four deaths, Story collected double indemnity insurance policies, Steger declared.

CALL SESSIONS ON WAR CRISIS

British Cabinet Will Reconvene Immediately

London, Aug. 21.—(AP)—A decision to hold a full cabinet session tomorrow coincident with a French cabinet session indicated important joint action was intended in the grave European situation as Belgium today suddenly called seven small powers to a conference Wednesday.

Full cabinet status was given to tomorrow's meeting of British ministers, after Prime Minister Chamberlain, returning from a holiday in Scotland, had conferred with Lord Halifax, foreign secretary.

Belgium's move in calling the foreign ministers of the six other neutral states to a conference in Brussels Wednesday offered the possibility of some British-French action toward a settlement of the German-Polish dispute over Danzig.

A joint statement by Britain and France reaffirming in strong terms their pledge to aid Poland in event of an attack upon her, but at the same time advocating negotiations by Germany and Poland, was considered another possibility.

In some political quarters there were suggestions the British parliament should be recalled immediately and used as a medium for a new British warning to Germany.

License Issuances Increase In County

Ten licenses to weed were issued during the past week through the office of J. C. Gaskins, Pitt county register of deeds, bringing about one of the heaviest weeks for license issuances in some time.

White couples to whom licenses were issued were Alf Sosefson of Port Washington, N. Y., and Miss Marguerite Anna Blades of Elizabeth City; Wilbur Harris and Miss Alice Mae Fussell, both of Greenville township; Roy Sutton, Jr. and Miss Minnie Mae Adams, both of Chicod township, and Woodrow Ten and Miss Susie Blackburn, both of Pitt county.

Negro couples securing a license were Johnnie Pettiford and Rebecca Hemby, both of Greenville; August Spruill and Mabel Moore, both of Greenville; Harry C. Kelvin and Mabel Adell Hylar, both of Greenville; Ed Pratt and Gertrude Carr, Greenville township; Griffin Edwards and Marian Daniels, Greenville township, and Major Fleming and Geneva Johnson, Greenville township.

FEAR OF AXIS TO OPPOSE ANY FURTHER MOVE

In No Mood to Make Brussels Another 'Munich'

BRITISH POLICY IS REAFFIRMED

Reasserts Stand Further Aggression Will Result in 'Fulfillment of Our Pledges'

London, Aug. 21.—(AP) Great Britain reaffirmed her policy of resistance to "aggression" today as King Leopold of Belgium initiated a peace plea in behalf of the small European powers.

Meanwhile, a British government spokesman, referring to a statement of policy by Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax on July 29, declared, "The position remains as stated and is unchanged in any respect."

In that statement, Halifax said that the doctrine of force "bars the way to settlement" of Germany's claims and that "in the event of further aggression we are resolved to use at once the whole of our strength in fulfillment of our pledges."

The spokesman said Germany and Italy had no opportunity to be familiar with this policy.

Paris, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Premier Daladier, after a long talk today with British War Minister Leslie More-Belisha, called an emergency meeting of the French cabinet for 5 p. m. (11 a. m., Tuesday).

The meeting undoubtedly will consider King Leopold's call for a conference Wednesday of the foreign ministers of the seven small nations to discuss a peace plea to larger powers, but informed French sources emphasized that "France is in no mood to make Brussels another Munich."

The cabinet was called also for a second meeting Thursday.

Forests Afire In Northwest States

Seattle, Aug. 21.—(AP)—British Columbia and Washington forests were closed today as Pacific Northwest firefighters continued a battle against multiple flames that taxed available man power.

The British Columbia order closed the forests to everyone—loggers, miners, trappers and vacationists; but in Washington the order affected only loggers in the western part of the state.

These measures were taken as California controlled its dangerous blazes; and Oregon, heaviest loser of the four commonwealths so far, found new hope in rising humidity.

A plan to close Oregon forest was held in abeyance, due to improved weather. Idaho fires no longer threatened inhabited communities, although at least one still burned out of control.

To Buy Furniture For New City Hall

Sealed proposals for the purchase of furniture and equipment for the municipal building now under construction will be received by the Greenville Board of Aldermen at the present City Hall up to 10 o'clock, Thursday, September 7.

Bids previously called for were opened several weeks ago, but were rejected because of lack of competition, and the bid groupings were revised and new bids asked.

Plans and specifications and complete documents are open to public inspection at the office of the mayor, or may be obtained from Frank W. Benton, architect.

The amount estimated to be available to finance the furniture contracts was set at $5,714.29.

Dog In City Becomes Mother Of 14 Puppies

A liver-spotted pointer belonging to Walter Lewis of Greenville gave birth to 14 puppies last Friday night, and although several of the pups died, is still a proud mother.

Lewis said that seven of the pups were dead when discovered Saturday morning, but their death is believed to have resulted from suffocation, in that there were so many of the pups. Two more of the pups died Saturday night, but five others are still healthy and thriving.

Small European Nations To Make Plea For Peace At Brussels Conference

Hungary's Position Matter Of Concern

A matter of no small concern in the affairs of troubled Europe is which way Hungary will jump in the event of war. This map shows (low-est arrow) Hungary's importance as an ally of the Rome-Berlin axis in the event of a clash with Poland over the Danzig question, since Poland could be struck through the Carpatho-Ukraine with Hungary's assent. Count Stefan Osaky, Hungarian foreign minister, recently visited Germany and now is in Italy.

Reiterates Advice to Poland to Negotiate

Rome, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini refrained from giving any indication that he would intervene with plan to avert possible war over German demands for Danzig.

To suggestions that Italy "save the peace" by intervention in the German-Polish situation, well informed Italians answered that she would follow the joint policy of the Rome-Berlin axis.

They reiterated that Italy had advised Poland to negotiate directly with Germany for a settlement of the Danzig problems. The Italian press has urged Warsaw specifically to accept the proposal of Adolf Hitler last April for return of the Free City to Germany, with a German road across the Polish Corridor to connect Germany proper with Russia.

The Fascist press and other official Italian comment has indicated that Italy does not want to become involved in a war over Danzig.

Foreign observers believed Mussolini would act willingly as intermediary for a settlement of the Danzig problem as he did last September in arranging the Munich settlement, which led to the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

But London and Paris have shown little inclination to lend themselves to another settlement of the Munich type.

William C. Padello, Tarboro Negro, yesterday was jailed by Highway Patrolman C. R. Williams on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

The Negro was lodged in the Pitt county jail and will be given a hearing in the next term of county court.

Negroes Are Unhurt In Highway Accident

Highway Patrolman W. W. Massengill investigated an accident on the Greenville-Washington highway yesterday morning around 2 o'clock when automobiles driven by Negroes side-swiped, but no one was injured.

The patrolman said the motor vehicles were operated by Milton Gray, headed toward Greenville, and Lonnie Reeves, headed toward Grimesland. Both are Pitt county Negroes. There was no extensive damage to either of the automobiles.

College Refused Germany's Offer

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—(AP) John Harvey Sherman, president of Tampa (Fla.) University, told the Dies committee that a high German consular official had offered to donate books to his university's library, but that the offer was rejected.

The official, whom Sherman named in testifying at the committee's inquiry into un-American practices, was Baron Edgar von Zuprekheim, consul general at New Orleans.

"The baron said," Sherman testified, "it was a practice they followed to encourage the study of German in American colleges."

KING LEOPOLD CALLS PARLEY

Monarch Often Hailed as Potential Mediator of Europe's Troubles, Invites Ministers of Six Countries to Rush to Brussels in Plea to Big Powers

Brussels, Belgium, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The government of 37-year-old King Leopold of Belgium, often hailed as a potential mediator of Europe's troubles, today suddenly invited the ministers of six small powers to rush here by airplanes to join Belgium in a peace plea to the larger nations of the Old World.

The consuls will meet not later than Wednesday. If all of those invited arrive earlier there may be preliminary discussions Tuesday.

The seven nations associated in the Oslo trade convention were asked to send their foreign ministers.

The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland. It was understood that all had accepted.

A spokesman for the foreign office said that the precise agenda for the conference was not yet available, but that it would devote much of its attention to economic questions, as well as the international outlook.

Preliminary soundings for such a conference were made privately at the inter-parliamentary union congress, which closed Saturday at Oslo.

The reaction was found to be favorable and with the Central European outlook gradually becoming more grave, invitations were dispatched urgently.

The Swedish and Norwegian foreign ministers immediately engaged airplanes for the trip here.

Tobacco Graders Establish Office

The United States Department of Agriculture's tobacco division marketing service, which is providing free federal grading on the market this season, is opening offices in the Edwards building.

At least 15 inspectors will be on the Greenville market and additional help will be employed by the service.

W. G. Harmon of Powellsville will be market supervisor in the tobacco inspection bureau here.

Others to be here for the work include Charles W. Donaldson, who came here from Greenville, Tenn.; Vernon B. Porter of Mayfield, Ky.; Joe Mac Lipscomb of Kentucky; J. C. Mace of Danville, Va.; H. G. Cunningham of Virginia; C. C. Hopper of Maysville, Ky.; Wiley H. Brewer and Felix G. Powell of Clarksville, Tenn.; Cecil H. Gossett and W. M. Whitney of Fulton, Ky.; F. W. A. Mills of Bowling Green, Ky.; Sherill M. Smith of Clarksville, Va.; Samuel B. Goldson of Seaboard, Va.; Benjamin W. Marshall of Pamplin, Va., and Herschel Bell.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds
By Robba Coon

Hollywood—Artie Shaw, the swingman, left "Dancing Co-ed" in too much of a hurry, pretty fed up with pictures. They paroled his remaining dialogue to Lee Bowman already in the picture.

Once upon a time there was a charming young fellow who dropped in on Hollywood with a suitcase, a few suits of clothes, and fewer dollars. He had met Sally Blane in London, so he went calling, was invited to remain to dinner with the family. He looked hungrier than his grandiose talk admitted. Sally and her sister, Loretta Young and their mother urged him to be their house guest until he "got settled." The chap demurred, having (he said) taken a beautiful home of his own. The Young family suggested going to see this mansion—and that's what broke David Niven. He confessed, accepted their invitation, remained four months—and he did "get settled" with a nice contract, recently upped. All the Youngs now are his professional guides, and Loretta-David teaming begun in "Four Men and a Prayer" and "Three Blind Mice" continues in their current "Eternally Yours."

The old times are with us again. Mack Sennett back at a desk. D. W. Griffith active in an advisory capacity at Hal Roach's. Leatrice Joy, from a somewhat later era than theirs, playing her first role in 10 years. And Mae Marsh the Little Sister of Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation," doing a stint in "Drums Along the Mohawk." It's her second comeback. She retired as a star in 1925, married, and reared three children. Then she was brought out again for the month-er role in "Over the Hill." Lately she has been a real estate agent, but she liked the movies better. Her role now is that of one of the American settlers driven from their homes during the Revolutionary war by Indians. Which reminds her of some of her early films with Griffith. In "The Battle of Elderberry Bush" she and Lillian Gish played Indian-harried pioneer daughters in the morning scenes. Miss Marsh would don block wig and play squaw in the afternoon shots. Next day she would play a pioneer mother, returning to her original role after lurch—all for the

Will Durant of Hollywood is no relation to the philosopher of that name. He must be sustained, however, by some spark of the philosopher's spirit. In a town where Glamour is the word, Will's work is with rags and tatters. He takes nice clothes and ruins them—to order. Only recently he worked out on the Confederate uniforms in "Game With the Wind" then reported to RKO to give artistic attention to 2,500 new costumes to be worn by extras playing beggars in riff-raff in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Durant's "ragging" process is simple for a town that usually does things the hard way. His main implement is a beer-can opener, the sharp pointed type. ## N. C. COMPANY TO OPEN MINE

Old Elk Knob Mine In Watauga to Turn Out Copper

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 11.—The Carolina Copper Corporation, one of the few mining companies financed principally with North Carolina capital, will reopen its old Elk Knob mine in Watauga county almost immediately, according to State Geologist H. J. Bryson of the Department of Construction and Development. The vein, known as the Elk Knob vein, is about 15 miles northwest of Boone in Watauga and was worked successfully more than 40 years ago, closing down about 1900. At that time the ore used to be hauled in wagons to Abingdon, Va. Now that good highways are available, owners of the company feel that profitable operation will again be possible.

John L. Crist of Charlotte is president of the new corporation which will operate the mine. Leland G. Atkins, also of Charlotte, is secretary.

Core drilling is in progress now and it is said by Mr. Bryson that plans are being made to build a crushing and flotation mill at the mine.

Forty Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
Monday, August 21, 1939
About 200,000 Pounds On Market

After being hemmed in by a week of stormy weather and prevented from getting to market, the tobacco farmers were glad to see the fair days Saturday and Sunday, and they were not at all slow about bringing a load to market today. By time this morning carts and wagons were rolling in, and the day had not advanced far before in and around every warehouse was crowded. Everything possible was put to unloading so as to begin the sale promptly at 9 o'clock, for it looked like unless fast work was done a block sale was inevitable.

All of the warehouses were well filled and there were several loads that could not get on the floor. A conservative estimate of the day's sale is that it reached 200,000 pounds. From nine o'clock until dinner, only two of the warehouses could be finished, and that left sales for three more hours in the afternoon.

The farmers like the Greenville market, for they know that here they get the best prices and the best treatment.

COTTON plays an important part in building CONCRETE ROADS

MORE than 20,000,000 pounds of cotton is used annually by the cement industry for sack-cement. Heavy cotton mats are used now for "curing" freshly placed concrete, protecting it from the summer sun while hardening. 1,200,000 sq. yds. of these heavy mats have been used in the last few years.

Concrete road construction offers a vast market for your cotton and besides concrete is the real low cost road, superior in durability, safety and economy.

WELCOME TO GREENVILLE

To the thousands of visitors who will attend the opening of the tobacco market here tomorrow we extend a cordial welcome. Every warehouseman, business man and individual citizen is glad to see the opening of the tobacco market, which brings so many visitors to our city. Whether you visit the warehouses or the stores, you will find a cordial welcome awaiting you. Greenville is always glad to have visitors and more especially is this so at tobacco market time.

A GOOD MOVE

The recently enacted city ordinance that will provide unloading zones in the business section for trucks and prohibit them from stopping promiscuously at will all over the streets is certainly a good move and should result in eliminating a lot of congestion in the business district. Since the installation of traffic lights, the practice of letting trucks stop anywhere they please and stay there for unlimited time, has greatly slowed down the traffic movement. This new ordinance should relieve this congestion and speed up traffic considerably in the downtown area.

MAKE IT EASIER FOR THEM

All Greenville is looking forward to the opportunity of welcoming thousands of visitors to our city tomorrow. One good way to make the visits of these thousands more pleasant is an effort to provide parking places for them. If our people who do not absolutely need their cars downtown tomorrow will leave them at home there will be more parking room for the visitors and they will be relieved of the necessity of riding around block after block seeking a place to park their cars. By leaving your car at home tomorrow you will help to make the parking problem for the visitors an easier one and will add to their pleasure of visiting Greenville. A cordial welcome to tomorrow's visitors will cause them to want to come back to Greenville again.

YESTERDAY: Locke tells Cecily she won't always be disappointed in him. Laura takes yarn to Mrs. Brewster's secretary and hears that the Rathbones have left. The day of the dinner party the cook bough raspberries from a strange man.

Chapter 27

Unsuccessful Quest

CECILY tried to laugh. "Do you know where else a man could sell that many raspberries?" "Let me see... well, how about the inn?" said Laura. "No, it couldn't have been the inn. I saw Johnnie Eider driving in with his baskets full myself yesterday morning. Johnnie always supplies the inn with things like that."

"Cecily, you're not trying to make out that the berry man could have gone in there and stolen Lady Rathbone's heirloom, are you? How would he have known it was there?"

"Of course I'm not!" Cecily said savagely. "But you must admit that things would look pretty bad for him, if the pin doesn't turn up and there's no one else to fasten suspicion on." Laura said weakly that it probably would. "Only I don't see why you should worry about it, Cecily. Your whole party was cleared when Mrs. Brewster said she'd take personal responsibility for you."

"Oh, I'm not worried." Cecily picked up some booklets. They slipped out of her hands. She bent to pick them up, decided it was not possible for her to dissemble any longer.

"Laura, Locke was the man who sold those berries to Mrs. Brewster's Addie."

"Locke? Well, then—" Laura deprecated the idea that Cecily was obviously trying to express.

"Don't you see?" "No, I don't, Cecily. Suppose you explain?"

"That's just it—there isn't anything to explain! I was only thinking that Locke... Locke is a stranger here, and in case... just in case... anything should come of it, well... he ought to have a chance to clear himself."

"You don't think that he'd do that, do you?" "Laura, at will, you know I don't! He... he couldn't! Besides, like Mrs. Brewster, I don't believe anything was stolen. It's just a lot of ado over nothing."

"Mrs. Brewster does believe the pin was stolen," Laura said quietly. "And I'm going to betray a confidence to you, Cecily. She's sending for a detective."

Cecily felt as though the missing pin were burning a hole in her very own pocket. "Thanks for telling me," she said. "I won't tell anyone, Laura."

She went to the back of the shop and put on her coat. "When she came back, Laura placed a timorous hand on her arm. "Where are you going, Cecily?"

"To find Locke." "What for? If you don't believe he had anything to do with this, why do you get so concerned about it?"

Cecily wet her lips. "I'm going to find him and tell him to go right up to Mrs. Brewster's and clear himself."

"Wouldn't it be better for you not to do it, dear? I mean, since you were there, wouldn't it be better if I were to go and find him for you?" Cecily dropped her eyes. She took her coat off.

"You're a lamb, Laura, and you see more than you pretend to, don't you?" "I'd be blind not to, I don't blame you, Cecily. I like him, too."

"You don't think he had anything to do with it, do you?" "I don't know," Laura answered honestly. "Neither of us knows anything about him, after all. But suppose you let me speak to him? Have you any idea where I'll find him?"

"Yes, he was in while you were out. He said he was going berrying over in the patch." She described the place as Locke had described it to her.

Gone

AT half-past twelve Cecily began to expect Laura—with Locke, perhaps.

Two small girls came in to buy a book of paper dolls. Cecily got out her stock obligingly and pondered the problem with her two young customers.

Automatically, she changed a quarter and gave the girls two dimes. She couldn't think in terms of nickels and dimes when her mind was occupied with more personal problems.

Half-past one. Two o'clock. Laura should have had time to find Locke, to tell him and to bring him back. Perhaps they had both gone right on to Mrs. Brewster's.

An old gentleman from the inn came in, seeking an historical novel. Cecily showed him detective stories, biographies, made no sale, saw her first disgruntled customer leave.

Where were they? Where was Laura? What kind of a girl was Cecily Stuart that she didn't trust her own judgment? Locke was honest. He was whimsical; he wasn't evasive.

At three o'clock Laura came back. "What did he say?" Cecily couldn't wait. "I didn't find him."

"But he said..." Cecily didn't finish her sentence. Laura busied herself with the mail she had brought from the postoffice. "I got so hungry—we had an early breakfast, if you'll remember—that I simply had to stop and get myself a bite to eat. Have you had anything?"

Cecily shook her head. She wasn't interested in talking about food. "He could have gone to some other place, changed his mind. Where else could he have gone, Laura?"

"Bangor! What... what do you mean?" "Things don't look on the up and up with him, Cecily. I went to the berry patch and he wasn't there. I kept on going, got a lift with the meat man down the North road, I thought I'd leave a note at his place."

"Go on..." "Well... there wasn't anyone there. I banged on the door for a few minutes, found it locked and went back to the road. I waited for the meat man to pick me up—he said he'd give me a lift back—and when he came along he said, 'Nobody home back there, I guess. Young feller took the train to Bangor this noon.'"

"Thanks." That was all that Cecily said. In a little while she said, "If you're going to stick around, I think I'll go on home and get something to eat."

Welter of Confusion
WHEN Cecily Stuart left her shop, she was not going to Dorelea to get a bite of lunch as she said. She couldn't have got a morsel past the lump in her throat. The nectar and ambrosia of the gods would have tasted like ashes in her mouth.

The taste of ashes was already there. The inanimate dust of them was in her heart. The gray film of them covered her mind, shutting out all thinking processes. Her mind was a welter of confusion.

What had Locke to do with the missing pin? He wasn't guilty of stealing it! Yet he had gone away. He had told her that he was going berrying. Instead, he had taken a train for Bangor.

The memory of his clear eyes, his laughing mouth, his gay mockery, rose before her eyes. A man like that couldn't do such a thing. But what did she know of a man like that? She knew him well enough to love him, but she knew nothing else of him. He came out of the blue—Mr. Lochinvar—and for all she knew, he might have been anything before he came into her shop.

Raffles, Tony had said, "Do I look like Raffles?" Mr. Raffles was a smooth sort of person and Locke was smooth.

"If only Doug were here, he'd know," she said to herself, thinking that there was no one in whom she could confide, no one to tell her what he thought of Locke, no one who knew him.

There was Laura—Cecily found her feet carrying her not toward Dorelea but toward the railroad station. Perhaps the meat man— whoever he was—had been mistaken. There were other people who could have taken the noon train.

The railroad station slumbered in the mid-afternoon lethargy of all small stations. There were no signs of life in the dusty interior. There were only two trains a day. The noon train for Bangor and the incoming train which arrived at nine at night.

"Yoo-hoo!" Cecily called experimentally. Joe Wilson popped an inquisitive head through the baggage-room door, shifted his tobacco from one side of his mouth to the other and touched his cap.

"Ain't nuthin' come fer you to-day, Miz St'r't. Expectin' somethin'?" "Ye-es," Cecily said, glad for an excuse for conversation. "Maybe it'll come tomorrow. How's business, Joe?"

"Ain't so good. Nobody travels on trains no more. Seems like everybody comes to Vickersport comes in their own automobiles and the rest of 'em comes in busses."

"Nothing will ever take the place of the train," Cecily pronounced sentimentally. "That's what I tell 'em, but don't make no difference, it seems."

"There's been a number of short-staying guests at the inn, Don't they travel on trains?" She thought: I'll lead up to it so that Joe won't be suspicious.

"Nope," he answered dolefully. "Ain't nobody takin' the noon train out of here in three days."

Cecily's heart zoomed up in her throat. "Cecily, the high-falutin' folks from Toronto come to visit Miz Brewster. They went off to-day."

"Goodness!" Cecily clucked in her throat. "How can the road afford to keep a station like this if that's all the customers you have?" "There was that other young feller. The one that has the Soder-son place down the North road."

Cecily's heart sank painfully again. Continued tomorrow.

had been pouring steadily down for many hours. "How are you, Will?" he was greeted as he came in. "Huh, if this keeps up any longer I'll be web-footed," came back the dejected but ready retort.

Allen's Ninth-Inning Blast Gives Greenies 1-0 Win

KING PRODUCES 20TH TRIUMPH

ECTC is Club Guests For Game Tomorrow Night

Greenville and Wilson went for eight scoreless innings in the last scheduled Sunday home game of the season yesterday, but a timely blow by Gracie Allen in the ninth inning gave Greenville a 1-0 win over the Wilsons.

There was plenty going in the doubleheader in Wilson Saturday evening. Rain intervened after five innings of play and left the score knotted at 0-0. However, the Tobs came back in the night encounter and overpowered the Greenies, 8-4.

Snow Hill will play the Greenies here Tuesday night in the Guy Smith stadium, at which time the faculty and students of East Carolina Teachers College will be guests of the local club. The affair will be known as "ECTC Night."

Exceptional fielding thwarted the early scoring chances in yesterday's game and the plays of both teams drew a larger band than the pitching offered by the hurlers of either team.

Greenville's run came in the ninth when Heavener singled, advanced to second on King's sacrifice and scored on Allen's hit. Allen's blow struck the 320-foot marker on the left field wall. He never got to second, in that Heavener had scored to end the game. Officially it was a single. Deserving, it was a two-base knock.

Vincent Smith was hit by a pitched ball when Wilson was at bat in the seventh and had to leave the game. In the same inning, however, he made one of the prettiest catches of the game when Sanford's foul, which fell in front of the Wilson dugout, was taken by Smith.

Four well-executed double plays in the early stages of the game gained the applause of the spectators.

Gracie Allen got two hits in four turns to feature the Greenies' attack. Carnahan, Sanford and Rodgers got two pieces for the losers.

Daily Reflector Offers Its All-Star Selection

Still Trying Each Coastal Plain League Team is Represented

Having been blocked by rain on numerous occasions, an attempt will be made tonight to continue play in the softball first round series.

Double Cola vs. Gulf is scheduled to get under way at 8 o'clock, to be followed by a game between Blount-Harvey and Carolina Sales.

Weather permitting, Blount-Harvey and Carolina Sales will play the first game, with the Double Cola-Gulf affair to follow.

Carolina Dairy and Royal Crown will the first two in their first-round play and will enter the semifinals.

President J. D. Simpson said original plans for a three-game semifinals and a best three-out-of-five series would be waged in the finals.

BILLIES' HARRY HITS HIS 30TH

Blow Also Gives Snow Hill Unsurpassed Lead

42 - BILLIES' ... L.I. ... MOP Harry Soufas, Snow Hill first-sacker, is still leading the Coastal Plain League in home runs by virtue of the Billies' 8-4 triumph over Tarboro's Goobers yesterday afternoon.

Harry connected with one of Hammonds' first pitches and the ball took a high journey over the left field wall. This blow came in the first inning and gave the Billies a lead that the Peanuts never surpassed.

Tom Burnette, former Carolina athlete, got four hits in as many turns to feature a 15-4 victory of Mule Shirley's Goldsboro Gold Bugs over Red O'Malley's Williamston Martins.

Six costly errors produced a 5-3 downfall of Kinston's Eagles at the hands of Doc Smith's New Bern Bears. Sid Stringfellow, who has won 14 games for the Eagles, could do nothing behind the half-dozen errors.

In the only other game of the Coastal Plain League, Gracie Allen hit in the ninth, with two away, to give Greenville a 1-0 verdict over the Wilson Tobs.

DONKEY GAME THURSDAYNITE

Proceeds to Help the Blind and Softball League

A donkey baseball game is scheduled for Thursday night at 8 o'clock and will be played at the Third Street park. This game is being sponsored by the Greenville Lions Club and the profits realized will be used for the furtherance of the Greenville Softball League and the sight conservation and blind work of the Lions Club, two of Greenville's newest community projects.

Softball has brought recreation and enjoyment to numerous citizens during the summer months and the league is in need of funds to complete its program for the year. Pitt county has already received benefit from the work of the Lions in the form of the provision of funds for a home teacher for the blind, and this organization expects to carry on extensive work in the field of sight conservation in the future, for all of which additional funds are needed.

The donkey game is attracting city-wide interest and will offer an evening of hilarious entertainment to its patrons in addition to serving a cause worthy of the support of each and every public-spirited citizen.

Each Coastal Plain League Team is Represented

By JAMES WHITFIELD

Whenever a baseball season nears an end and the activities of the clubs become something for the record books, scribes undertake the task of making an All-Star selection. Today we are giving you the Daily Reflector's All-Star selection for the Coastal Plain League.

It's true that other East Carolina newspaper writers are going to make an All-Star selection and there will be just as much variation in the selections as opinions about a third term for President Roosevelt.

Even the best baseball experts make All-Star selections that fail to click with every fan, but the conclusion of the persons making such a selection, like that of the fans, is merely an opinion.

The Daily Reflector's selection is made not only from a statistical point of view, but also through teamwork displayed by a player, his ability to work under pressure and his sportsmanship.

With this brief introduction, we give you our first and second choice:

First Choice

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—New European war fears assailed the stock market today and drove down issues one to more than three points, many to lowest quotations since early July.

Dealings speeded up for a brief interval at the start, with motors and steels changing hands in blocks of from 1,000 to 4,000 shares. The pace slackened thereafter and closing prices were a point or so above the bottom.

Transfers approximated 850,000 shares.

B.-L. Associations Aid Home Builder

More than $900,000 of the total of $2,010,000 of loans made during July by the building, savings and loan associations of North Carolina were for construction of homes, according to R. H. Gregory of Rocky Mount, vice president of the North Carolina Building and Loan League.

He stated that an increasing percentage of the loans made by these institutions were for the construction of homes, the July figure amounting to 45 per cent of the entire loan volume. He estimated that in addition to the 500 homes constructed through the air of these institutions more than 250 were purchased, amounting to $440,000. One hundred and seventy-five homes to the amount of $305,000 were refinanced through the medium of the building and loan associations and the balance of $360,000 was loaned for repairs, remodeling and other miscellaneous purposes. He predicted that home loans made by the building, savings and loan associations of North Carolina during 1939 will equal those of 1938.

Two Negroes Jailed In Greenville Today

One Negro was arrested by Greenville police today on a whiskey charge and another was jailed in an assault case.

Hardy Lee Washington, Negro, was nabbed on a charge of illegal possession of liquor for purpose of sale. Officer E. G. McMullan made the arrest.

James Dixon, Negro, is charged with carrying a concealed weapon and assault with a deadly weapon. Officers making the arrest were H. E. Wooten and McMullan.

Gaskins Plans Climax With Chicken Thieves

If there's any shooting or other excitement on East Eighth street tonight, it will be at the home of J. C. Gaskins. Pitt county register of deeds, who declared he is going to be waiting for the thief, or thieves, who have been stealing his chickens. Gaskins said he was buying more chickens today, in that a dozen were stolen from his coop last Friday night. He said also that he had purchased chickens several times recently, but someone molested his chicken house each time. Gaskins indicated that if a thief visits his hen house tonight, the intruder will find Gaskins as well as chickens.

Local Police Rather Busy Past Two Days

Greenville police had a rather busy week-end, a total of 19 persons having been booked on Saturday and Sunday.

In addition to the usual lists of drunks, etc., two Negroes were charged with breaking and entering another Negro's home.

The police blotter also listed one traffic collision over the week-end. Drivers of the cars involved were named as Matt Long and June Tripp. No one was injured in the wreck at the corner of Evans and Third streets Saturday night.

The largest one-building dormitory in the world is at Mississippi State College.

DARST CHOSEN FOR NEW POST

To Seek Better Preparation of Crops For Market

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 21.—Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott today announced the appointment of W. H. Darst, veteran agronomist, as farm crops marketing specialist for the North Carolina Department of Agriculture to develop a broad program looking toward better preparation of farm crops for market with emphasis on better handling, storage and grading.

Employment of Darst in another step in the department's program to increase much-needed services for farmers in the field of marketing, Commissioner Scott said.

Darst has had 29 years experience in agronomic work with state and federal agricultural agencies, having served agriculture more than 16 years in North Carolina prior to leaving the state two years ago to work on his doctor's degree at Cornell University.

He is a graduate of Ohio State University, B.S. degree in 1910, and received his master's degree from Cornell in 1925. From 1920 to 1937 he served as professor of agronomy at State College and from 1929 to 1937 was director of the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association and seed certification service.

In addition to his work in the state, he has been extension agronomist at Ohio State University, professor of farm crops at Pennsylvania State College, executive secretary of the Federated American Farm Bureau at Chicago (seed service) and senior agronomist with the United States Department of Agriculture.

While at State College as professor of agronomy, he was in charge of farm crop teaching in the school of agriculture, assisting in extension and vocational work, and was also in charge of the seed certification program.

The first turkeys were taken to Europe from America by Spaniards in 1498.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Green

Washington—We have been told by returning visitors that propaganda is rampant at the World's Fair. And why not? We ask. The foreign exhibitors paid for the privilege.

But the choicest piece of propaganda coming to our attention was a subtle little note on the bottom of the menu in the Russian cafe. "No tipping," it says. "All Soviet workers are adequately paid."

The only trouble with that bit of subtlety is that it isn't going to reach the masses. Not at the prices the foreign restaurateurs seem to be charging.

Just to preserve the foreign atmosphere for a moment we will tell you about our little Italian friend who is keeping his boy in school in Switzerland. The boy likes American clothes and since good ones are cheaper here than there Giuseppe buys them. But the duty on new clothes is terrific. It is practically nothing on second-hand clothes, so Giuseppe wears the clothes two weeks before he ships them.

Now Giuseppe is slight and while his boy was high-school size the system worked very well. The suits fit Giuseppe. But not any more. Nowadays he slops around his shop in brand new shoes size nine when his own size is six. He rolls up the cuffs of the trousers, takes in a hitch at the belt and turns the sleeves back under.

Colored News

The Negro county agent, Dennis DuPre, left with a group of 4-H Club children to attend the short course to be held at A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C. Accompanying the agent were Mrs. Mabel Wiling and Mrs. O. L. DuPre, 4-H Club voluntary leaders. The short course will last from August 21 to 26.

directorate" in 1934, but since then has kept postponing the effective date. The Federal Reserve Board would pass, so issued an order on its own account extending the date to next February 1. Almost at the same time the bill did pass and went up to the President. He promptly vetoed it, reminding Congress that it better make up its mind and either put an end to interlocking bank directorates or else repeal the law.

The President's veto didn't take effect. It killed the bill. But the Federal Reserve order was valid so bank directors can interlock until February 1.

You all know that Washington officials' wives hate to appear two times at formal functions in the same dress, which means buying a lot of dresses.

Trying to beat the game, one high ranking lady went to an exclusive shop and selected two formal dresses.

"I'll take these two home on trial and return the one I don't want," said she.

The shop knew what was up, but didn't know how to stop it without offending a valuable customer. As expected, the lady wore one dress to a formal function and a day or so later returned it to the shop, prepared to say she would keep the other. But meantime a store clerk had seen a news reel showing the lady wearing this same gown at a formal reception.

When the fine lady entered the shop the clerk was at her in a minute. "Dear Mrs. Fizzlesplits," said she, beaming. "You looked wonderful in this dress at the reception. I saw you in the news reel. But I agree with you it does need adjusting here on the shoulder. Then it will fit better."
