GREAT BRITAIN SAYS PLEDGES WILL BE KEPT

Ambassador to Berlin To Deliver Message To Hitler

WILL RESIST ANY FORCE BY NAZIS

Declares Meanwhile Present Situation Involves No Question which Can Not Be Settled

London, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The British ambassador to Berlin flew to Berchtesgaden today to deliver to Adolf Hitler a declaration that Britain's guarantee to Poland remains unaltered by the projected German-Soviet Russian non-aggression pact and that Britain is determined to aid Poland if necessary.

It was disclosed that the envoy, Sir Neville Henderson, was instructed to say that his government "is determined to resist to the utmost any resort to force by Germany which Poland considered a threat to her independence and chose to resist."

The ambassador's instructions were said to be along the lines of a statement issued here last night after a long British cabinet meeting.

Meanwhile, the British committee of Imperial Defense, composed of representatives from the cabinet, dominions and military services, met during the morning.

Four Civil Cases Filed On Tuesday

Four civil actions were filed in Superior court yesterday as a result of highway accidents, two of the cases growing out of one mishap.

W. B. McLawhorn brought suit seeking $402 for damage to his automobile which was allegedly struck by a truck being operated by Arthur Whitehurst on the wrong side of the road on June 26.

Two cases were brought against E. L. Baker, one by Hubert Tripp seeking to recover $5,000 and the other by Coy Smith, seeking $2,500, for injuries allegedly suffered when an automobile owned by Baker was wrecked when a tire blew out on the Greenville-New Bern highway July 9.

The other highway collision case was brought by Mary Body against Sam C. Kimrey and B. Swartz & Co., Inc. It alleged that Kimrey, an agent of the company, shook animal hides in front of the plaintiff's mule; that the agent was engaged in purchasing the hides and was shaking them preparatory to packing them.

Three suits also have been filed this week against S. A. Harrington and R. H. Harrington seeking to recover surety on guardian bond. The actions were brought in behalf of Emily Louise Harrington Teel, Matthew H. Harrington and the late John J. Harrington. The complaints allege that no settlement has been made, despite the fact the two living plaintiffs have reached 21 years of age. They state that the guardian, S. A. Harrington, left the county about 10 years ago and can not be located. R. H. Harrington and C. D. Harrington were sureties, the latter having deceased. The suits were filed by Benjamin H. Thomas of Rocky Mount.

Heaviest Break in History of Greenville Market; Improvement Noted in Prices Following Early Sales Yesterday Continue Today; Further Rise in Prices Indicated

Prices on the Greenville tobacco market today continued about in line with those paid yesterday afternoon, when a marked increase was shown over the early auction sales, as Sales Supervisor Robert C. Rankin disclosed that a total of $276,578.91 was paid out on the local market opening day.

Yesterday's opening sale was at first estimated at approximately $15 per hundred pounds, but there was a slight market-wide advance in price trends yesterday afternoon and this morning.

The opening day break was the largest in the history of the market, a total of 1,730,262 pounds having been sold on the local warehouse floors. The offerings brought $276,578.91.

A marked increase in the price of tobacco was seen yesterday afternoon over the morning prices and the rise was said to be prevailing throughout the day.

Today's offerings consisted of yesterday's carry-over, with lots of damaged and high grade tobacco being on the floors.

Veteran observers expressed the belief that when the floors were cleared and the offerings are of better quality and properly handled, tobacco prices will show a much higher trend.

Much of the tobacco on the floors yesterday and today was brought in last week and had suffered damage while awaiting sales.

As was the case yesterday, practically no tags were being turned today and farmers in general, if not satisfied, apparently were resolved to the averages they were receiving, realizing that the quality of offerings were far inferior to those on the floors on recent previous opening days.

Considering the large amount of offerings and the unusually large percentage of poor or damaged tobacco on the floors, the prices here compared favorably with those on other market centers.

It is the general belief that prices will show a steady rise as the season moves on and the tobacco is marketed in a better condition and the percentage of damaged or poor quality tobacco is reduced.

District Supervisor Visits Pitt Offices

Miss Nell Johnston, district supervisor of the State Department of Welfare was in Greenville yesterday conferring with members of the office of K. T. Futrell, superintendent of public welfare in Pitt county.

The N. Y. A. program in the county, along with WPA referrals and the old-age assistance benefits, were among the matters taken up by the supervisor.

FDR ABANDONS TRIP TO STUDY NEW WAR FEAR

Gravely Concerned Over European Crisis

OFFICIAL BOATS HEADED FOR N. J.

Americans Meanwhile Ordered Not to Go to Europe in View of Present Situation

Aboard the U.S. Lang. at Sea, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Gravely concerned over the European crisis, President Roosevelt abandoned plans today for exploration of the Gulf Stream on a fishing trip and ordered the cruisers Tuscaloosa and Lang to speed to Sandy Hook, N. J.

The Tuscaloosa, carrying the President, is expected to arrive at Sandy Hook Thursday morning. Boarding a special train the President will arrive in Washington shortly before noon.

Mr. Roosevelt was silent on what steps, if any, he planned upon his return to the capital.

Reporters recalled his recent press conference statement that congressional refusal to enact neutrality legislation had tied his hands and prevented American attempts to avert war.

However, the question of whether the United States would take any sort of peace move in an effort to stem the increasingly grave tide of events in Europe may be discussed in Washington tomorrow when the President confers with his advisors on foreign affairs.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said at his press conference today that Secretary Hull and he expected to see the chief executive soon after his return.

Washington, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Americans are being advised by the State Department not to go to war-torn Europe.

The reply is being given, he said, in view of the very uncertain state of affairs in Europe, the State Department certainly would not encourage American citizens to go there if they could see their way clear not to do so.

With regard to American citizens already abroad, Welles said the State Department is giving the fullest discretion to the American diplomats in various capitals.

If the diplomats feel it advisable, they may advise Americans to leave Europe as soon as possible.

The American embassies in Poland and France have given United States citizens suggestions to that effect.

(Reports from Berlin stated that all avenues leading from Germany were filled with foreigners leaving the country. Britons and Frenchmen especially were deserting the nation.)

Plan to Return Gray Youth to Greenville

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Huber C. Gray, 18-year-old Greenville, N. C. youth, prepared today to return to North Carolina to face grand larceny charges.

Governor George A. Wilson signed extradition papers yesterday for the return of Gray.

Sheriff J. Knott Proctor of Greenville said the youth is alleged to have stolen the automobile of H. J. Gray, his father. Young Gray has been confined in jail at Denison since his arrest July 28.

"Big Arrest" Is Made By Officer In County

Deputy Sheriff R. W. Tyson made a "big arrest" last night. Jesse Dixon, Negro, was lodged in the county jail under a $50 bond on a charge of being drunk on the highway.

The Negro weighed 200 pounds.

Police Arrest Only Two On Tuesday

Despite the large number of persons who sold tobacco and visited the opening sales on the Greenville market yesterday, law violations were practically extinct, local police disclosed today.

Only two arrests were made during the day. Juanita Blount, Negro, was jailed on a charge of engaging in disorderly conduct and assault. Nell Pearsall, white, was jailed on a drunkenness count.

Frontier Clash Reported Between Poles And Nazis

Nazi-Soviet Pact Casts Shadow Over Europe

This map shows how a new non-aggression pact projected between Germany and Russia presaged possible partition of Poland, which has been defying Germany on the Danzig and Polish Corridor questions. It would be the fourth part of an agreement, territorial origins of which are seen on this map.

Speculation was raised that the Soviets might regain Bessarabia, Bulgaria, take the Dobruja territory, Hungary might regain Transylvania, and the Soviets take the Baltic states. Italy, which also has a non-aggression pact with Russia, has historic claims on the Dalmatian coast. If England wanted to fight for Poland she would have a back door through the Black Sea into Rumania unless Russia closed it.

From One to Two Million in Partial Mobilization

Paris, Aug. 23.—(AP)—France tonight ordered partial mobilization after an emergency meeting of her National Defense council.

The order meant that French troops called to the colors will number somewhere between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000.

It meant further that men who had completed their military service less than two years ago or were specialists had already been called.

A communication issued after the meeting said that "because of the international situation the government has decided to complete the military measures already taken by recalling an additional contingent of reserve soldiers."

It was learned that the new call will be made by plastering posters on the walls of police stations, which in France usually means partial mobilization.

The decision was reached at a meeting of France's ranking army, navy and air chiefs at the war ministry under Premier Daladier.

Election Of N. C. Indians Is Only Two Weeks Away

Raleigh, Aug. 23.—Columns of space have already been devoted to North Carolina's gubernatorial election, still some nine months off, and practically none to another election within the state which is scarcely two weeks away and which has important and far-reaching implications.

The impending poll is due to be held September 7 by the Cherokee Indians, who are to elect a chief and tribal council, and the importance of it lies in its possible effect upon completion of the Blue Ridge Parkway, great scenic highway which will eventually connect the Great Smoky Mountains and the Shenandoah National Parks.

For a year or more, the Cherokees, purportedly influenced by their present chief, Fred Bauer, have consistently and flatly refused to cede a right of way for the parkway through their reservation.

Any settlement, however, would have to be approved by the tribal council which will be chosen September 7, and that's why the election is viewed as of importance; though there is general agreement that a decided upset of the present council, or its policies, is only a very remote possibility.

However, there will be a chance to negotiate with the new council for a settlement. The Indians very tentatively suggested they might be (Continued on page four)

SAYS GERMANS STARTED FIRE

Shooting Along Border Declared to have Started When German Soldiers in Full Uniform Crossed Line in Pursuit of Three German Deserters; Poland Heartened By Reassurance of Guarantors

Warsaw, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Polish telegraph agency reported today a brief frontier clash between Polish and German soldiers at Kluczno, facing Breslau, north of Silesia.

This report said three German soldiers in full uniform crossed the frontier in pursuit of German deserters. Entering a windmill 150 yards from the frontier, they were seen by Polish soldiers who ordered them to halt.

Shots were exchanged with the Germans commencing the shooting, according to the Polish report, which said the Germans escaped and one apparently was wounded.

Other reports from the frontier said that Polish peasants were busy engaged in assisting in the construction of trenches and defense fortifications. In Keting, in Pomerania province, it was reported that all women, old and young, shouldered spades and dug trenches.

Poland, heartened by the firm attitude of her guarantors, Britain and France, sought meanwhile to discount the possible consequences of a Russian-German non-aggression treaty.

The Polish people also found reassurance in the fact that the projected pact has not been concluded. The Soviet communications which referred to the "beginning of negotiations" with Germany was used to emphasize this.

Reports on Weed Offered Growers

Federal graders working on the Greenville tobacco market by virtue of a referendum held among all growers who sold tobacco on the local market during 1938, today offered farmers a report showing various grades of tobacco averaged on the preceding day.

Tobacco placed on the warehouse floors is inspected by the graders before it is weighed and the grade is placed on the ticket. After the sale, a copy of the ticket showing the price is tabulated by the government inspection division. Reports are then mimeographed and made available to farmers on the warehouse floor as a guide in selling his tobacco.

Grading service is free to the producers, but, according to County Agent R. R. Bennett, will benefit only those who use the service. Bennett declared, "I am sure that it is understood that this government grading does not price the tobacco, but gives the farmers a standard of grades and the corresponding average price for that grade as sold on the previous day."

He said also "Producers who use this information will no doubt find it helpful as a guide in marketing his tobacco. From these price reports, producers will be able to keep up with the market, even though he does not spend considerable time following the sales."

Under Indictment On Racing Charge

Chicago, Aug. 23.—(AP)—M. L. Annenberg, millionaire publisher, today was accused of conspiracy by a federal grand jury which also recommended the dissolution of his vast racing news empire because it "depended almost entirely on illegal gambling."

The special federal grand jury, in session 27 days in its inquiry into alleged violation of monopoly and racketeering laws, returned a presentment along with its indictment of Annenberg and three others on charges of conspiracy to influence a witness before the jury.

Today's action was entirely separate from that of another grand jury which on August 11 accused Annenberg of the largest personal income tax evasion on record, more than $5,500,000 including penalties, and yesterday accused him and seven others of conspiracy to violate the income tax law in the operation of one of his companies.

FAIR FACTS
By R. GREY
A beautiful monument has been erected on the Pitt County Fair Grounds facing the highway dedicated to the dead heroes of Pitt County, a tribute the American Legion is proud to present, with the idea in mind to beautify the ground with shrubbery, holding a memorial service some time during the week of the Fair.

This being the Fourth Annual Pitt County Fair, it is gratifying to know the co-operation and better understanding in the building of such an institution is more evident as each year takes toll of the last. Surely a Fair is for the betterment of Agricultural Interest of the people, for the people, by the people. A lasting tribute for the whole of the community.

With the idea in mind to secure a wholesome, clean mid-way, and yet one with an entertaining value, a new Carnival company has been booked for the week of October 9; a week earlier, thus eliminating the possibility of cold weather. The Art Lewis Shows is one of the largest of its kind, and the first appearance in this community. Mr. Lewis is a past master in his line and promises to bring to Greenville, one of the most outstanding traveling caravans of the day.

Something novel in the way of fireworks will be presented this year, an aerial display portraying one standing anywhere on the Fair Grounds to view this spectacular array of exhibitional magnificence.

Never heat fat until it is smoking.
Try cooking your jams and butters in the oven instead of on top of the stove. You'll avoid a lot of spattering. ## THREE MOTOR LINES IN SCRAP

Seek Vegetable Franchise In North Carolina

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Aug. 23.—Three motor truck lines are scrapping briskly in competition for a franchise which would enable the winner to supply a section of western North Carolina with vegetables and truck farm products from eastern North Carolina.

The area at present is served with vegetables almost exclusively from South Carolina, it was testified at a Utility Commission hearing by Randall B. Etheridge, chief of the State Department of Agriculture's market-division.

Though the three companies present varying routes in their petitions, the objective is to connect the eastern truck farm area with North Wilkesboro and that section of western Carolina, with the Raleigh-Asheboro highway link as the principal bone of contention.

In testifying before Commissioner Stanley Winborne, Etheridge said that a route of the kind sought would give farmers of the Wilmington area and the farming section between the New Hanover county seat and Goldsboro a fine market for their produce. This produce is now brought into North Wilkesboro and vicinity from South Carolina, he said. Such a route would not put the eastern farmers in competition with those of the immediate North Wilkesboro section, either, he added because they do not produce the same things at the same time.

The Capital Transport wants a franchise of the Raleigh to North Wilkesboro route via Siler City, Asheboro, Lexington, Mocksville and Harmony.
The Central Motors wants an Asheboro to Raleigh and an Asheboro to Charlotte via New London franchise. It already holds a franchise west of Asheboro.

The Helms Motors, holder of a Raleigh-Fittsboro franchise, wants permission to run from Fittsboro to Albemarle via Siler City, Asheboro and New London.

BETTER REPORTING SYSTEM NEEDED

In view of the wide variance of estimates and reports on the sales of tobacco, in spite of the fact that many such reports are labeled "Official," it seems to us that one thing this and other tobacco market states need is an adequate market reporting system that really is "Official," and gives the information to the public while it is still new rather than a week or two weeks old, as is now the case, with the only official reports made public by the Department of Agriculture Crop Reporting Service.

Under the present plan any market, person or warehouseman may report for publication any kind of figures he desires, just so long as he reports the correct figures to the Crop Reporting Service on his weekly sworn report. After the Crop Reporting Service receives and compiles its sworn figures another week has elapsed and figures released by the department are two weeks old and useless from the standpoint of being of value to the tobacco growers.

It seems to us that if the Department of Agriculture would work out some plan whereby there was one person designated on each market to receive "sworn" warehouse figures each day, compile them and then give out the official report each day as coming from the government, it would prove of great value to the tobacco growers, for it would enable them to really know from day to day just what the markets were doing and they could plan their sales accordingly. When such figures were thus sworn to they would become government reports and no person would dare deliberately or carelessly make padded reports, as many persons believe are now given out to the public before the official reports are finally made to the government.

Despite the fact that figures carried by this paper today regarding the local and outside markets, bear the word "official" and were accepted by us as such, there will be hundreds upon hundreds of our readers who will doubt them because they are familiar with the fact that such figures have not yet become government reports and are subject to change or "correction" before they become final.

The public is entitled to know the truth of what is going on and under our present system of reporting tobacco sales, the government reports are so old when they are released that they are of little or no value.

SHORT SHOTS

Raleigh, Aug. 23.—Governor Clyde Healy, back from a vacation spent in the western part of the state, sat in his office Tuesday and regaled sweating reporters with stories of how nice and cool it was up around Blowing Rock.

"We had a nice fire going Sunday night and I slept under a double blanket," he said.

Incidentally, the Governor "restrained" himself well on the trip, and made only four speeches. He split the fact that he was brought to make at least two more.

As a result, Bob Thompson, gubernatorial secretary, loses a bet of six cents. When His Excellency had arranged for his trip, Bob offered to wager he'd make at least two more on his trip.

In Raleigh they call Arthur Morris, Negro condemned to die for first degree burglary, the "Gray Mouse." In Durham, where he perpetrated some two score or more crimes he is called the "Eel."

Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill is still considering appeals for commutation for Morris, but it is perhaps significant that he makes no secret of the fact he considers both nicknames quite appropriate to the subject.

A reliable source reports that when J. M. Broughton spoke at the convention of county commissioners he suggested that the state has already encroached far enough, perhaps too far, on local tax revenues.

Whereat, forceful John Skinner, head man of the commissioners' organization, sang out, "There's our man. That's the kind of man we want."

Which may have been just an emotional outburst, or may be an indication that Broughton will have a really powerful backer for the governor's chair.

"Lon" Bolch, once a national officer of the Young Democrats, has reached the conclusion he's now "just a Democrat, not a Young Democrat."

Asked when the period of transition between the "young" and the "just" is reached, he answered:

"When a fellow's teeth begin to drop out it's time for him to quit fooling himself that he's still a Young Democrat or a young anything else. That's what's happening to me."

Speaking of Young Democrats reminds that it's not much more than two weeks before the state convention at Charlotte and there has still been no announcement of a speaker to the Young Democrats.

Gordon Gray, Y. W. president, must be convinced by now that there's much truth in the old song "A Good Man is Hard to Find."

All the fuss and fury about the killing of a dog in Raleigh started from a campaign against rabies.

In this connection it might not be amiss to cite State Board of Health figures showing that there have been only six deaths in North Carolina from rabies since January, 1936, an average of less than two deaths a year.

Which would seem to indicate there's much more hysteria than fact as foundation for perennial "mad dog" scares.

Chatham's Judge Daniel Bell is chairman of an "invitation committee" of his county's proposed "Horton for Governor" rally next month.

What do you think of the chances that J. M. Broughton, Willis Smith, Tom Cooper and A. J. Maxwell will get "r.s.v.p." bids from the judge?

Washington — Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese generalissimo, is using a propaganda trick that Washington officials are watching closely and considering for possible use in South America.

Chiang uses loud speakers to broadcast his propaganda. Reports here say it is tremendously effective. It is hard for the Japanese to stop.

An ordinary radio will do in a pinch. It is tuned in on one of General Chiang's broadcasts and, with the volume up, it can reach dozens of Chinese who otherwise never would hear a word of what is going on except through the Japanese. Chiang broadcasts in 18 dialects during the day, urging Chinese unity. It is his only way of reaching his people. Probably not one in ten thousand owns a radio.

In Latin America a similar situation exists. It is estimated there are 2-3 million receiving sets in Latin America. Only a fraction of those are all-wave sets capable of receiving short-wave broadcasts

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Bizard

YESTERDAY: Cecily pays a visit to Locke's cabin but finds no identification on any of his things. He possesses expensive suits, luggage, and black pearl studs. Cecily tries to put him out of her mind by preparing for the Yacht Club dance.

Chapter 29
Back Again

"AND what are we to do for men?" Tony persisted. "Oh, there's Manuel and Armando, and they both do the Suzy-Q to perfection. Also, I've wired the Penny twins to pack their dinner jackets and come and rescue us. Or have you, someone in mind, Tony?"

"Can we conscript men?" Tony asked with that lazy voice of hers. "Can't think of anybody worth conscripting around here unless—let me see, what have we in the way of bachelors? I have it. We've our leading banker, Donald Hemingway. He may be a bit rusty on the turns but he's one of those strong, silent men that I could go for."

Cecily tried to kick her cousin under the table before she said more.

Laura said, "Miss Watts, I'm afraid Donald is spoken for. He's going to the dance with me. But I'll give each of you a dance. He's very good."

Good for Laura! Cecily thought. Tony said, "I saw something that looked good to me today. He came in on the bus, waved to a couple of people, which made me think he might belong around here."

"If he was attractive," Gloria said, "he doesn't! Nothing under sixty visits here in the summer except as a house-guest. What was he like?"

Tony stabbed an olive. "Oh, tall and rangy, Graceful, well turned-out. Nice lean look around his eyes. That's why I wanted to know what the fellow was about conscription."

"Maybe, he's at the inn and we could look him up," Olivia suggested. "He wouldn't be hard to find there," Gloria said.

"I looked into that quite thoroughly," Tony added. "No one there of his description. Who lives out at some place called the North road?"

Cecily deliberately chased an errant onion around the plate, speared it and held it suspended in the air unable to make any further movement.

Could it be that Locke had come back? If he had, it would mean that all was well. It was an overpowering thought. Cecily found that she could finish her dinner, sustained by the faint hope that it was true.

The committee sat in the chilly main hall of the Yacht Club and discussed the relative merits of a band from Portland with two drummers as against two saxophonists of the band from Bangor.

The saxophonists won and the committee took up the subject of decorations. Laura suggested nothing more than a profusion of greens, and the Club's flags.

Laura went into detail as to the simplicity of the operation. A small boy, she pointed out, could gather branches enough to transform the whole Yacht Club into a sort of sylvan glade. With lights adroitly placed and a great yellow bulb back of a circle of orange paper, a harvest moon could be simulated.

Cecily nodded, clapped, seconded motions. She heard herself saying that she thought ice-cream and cake too banal and what did the committee think of serving long cool drinks, with a hot soup and salads at intermission? She heard herself, as though she were someone else, saying, "... at this time of year when it is cool..." and so she went on.

There He Is! SHE gave a very nice performance of a girl whose entire attention was fixed on what she was doing. You'd never have known that there was a sing-song in her ears which said over and over again, "There couldn't be anyone else going down the North road. It would have to be Locke, and if Locke is back, it will mean that all is well." The words began to take on a meter.

Philip gathered his "girls"—Tony, Laura, Cecily and Gloria—around him. Philip was at his best with all the girls.

As they were leaving, somebody said, "How formal is it going to be?"

The entire committee echoed, "Formal! No tails, but dinner jackets or flannels for the men and all ladies in evening dress."

"My old yellow," Cecily murmured. "My new turquoise," Laura said with a light in her eyes. Donald had never seen her in evening clothes.

"Mrs. Goodale in her ten diamond bracelets," Gloria said sarcastically. "Give the women a chance to break out in their time up here and they'll blossom like Christmas trees. It's sort of a summer inhibition creeping out. Well, Philip, do we toss to see who stands treat for ice-cream?"

Philip made a move of being tremendously hurt, and herded them together.

Cecily waved good night, said things about seeing the other committee members at the dance, did all the mechanical things and wished it were over.

She tried. She tried her best to get into the spirit of it as they found their way back to town. She felt infinitely weary and the prospect of sitting up in a drug-store eating ice-cream seemed a waste of precious energy.

The clerk said, "What'll it be?" They played handies over their sodas. Gloria tried a trick, building a structure of matches. Tony stared out the window. Suddenly she grabbed Gloria's arm.

"There he is!" she said. "Who? You nearly ruined my beautiful edifice, just when I had at least a hundred matches..."

"The man that got off the bus! Look, over there by the gas station. The one in white flannels. Isn't he cute?"

Cecily put down her straw and followed Tony's stare. She had to bend her head to see past the glass jar in the drug-store window to the brilliantly lighted gas station.

And here, calmly leaning against the gas pump, looking as though he'd stepped out of a fashion page, his long legs in spotless flannels, his broad, lean shoulders smoothly encased in rough, careless tweeds was Mr. Lochinvar.

"The brute!" Cecily muttered under her breath.

"You're in Love"

CECILY'S dustcloth flicked angrily over her bookshelves. Her gestures were more energetic than thorough. Resolutely, she kept her eyes from the street.

She inspected the hearth, found a few escaped wood chips and brushed them up. Then she stood poised in the middle of the room and swept it with her gaze.

Laura said, "You might borrow a step-ladder and have a go at the ceiling. It's the only point you've missed."

Cecily found an ash-tray that she had overlooked. She took it to the back and scrubbed it polished with a cloth and, bringing it back, plopped herself down disconsolately in a big chair.

Laura said, "I don't mean to probe, darling, but would you like to tell me what brought this outbreak on? You've been clearing the daylight out of everything around here. That's a well-known feminine gesture for getting things off your mind."

"There isn't anything on my mind," Cecily said miserably. Laura shrugged her shoulders.

"Then, let's just call it one of those days. It's after six and don't suppose there'll be anyone along now. Why don't you run along? I'll stay around for another half hour."

"It is after six?" Cecily asked. Then suddenly she dropped her head down on the arm of the chair and tears spilled over.

Instantly Laura's arms were around her; Laura's voice made soothing sounds. The sobbing increased and when Cecily had cried herself out, when her nose was pink and her eyes swollen, she let Laura bathe the rim with cold water.

"I feel better now," she said, making an effort to recapture her dignity. "I suppose you think I'm acting like a little idiot?"

"Not at all, dear. Only I haven't the least idea what it's all about. I'd like to help you if you'll let me."

Cecily tried to speak. She wanted to tell Laura about the state of her jumbled mind. It wasn't easy; Cecily had never known a confidante. It had always been part of her code to keep things to herself. But the code was an old one that belonged to that part of her life before she had grown up.

"It's about Locke," she blurted out. "I thought so. You're in love with him, aren't you, Cecily?"

"I don't know," she replied, trying to be honest. "Perhaps you can tell me."

Laura shook her head slowly. "If you are, I won't have to tell you. Do you think he's in love with you?"

Cecily nodded negatively and two big tears spilled over again. "Of course he isn't! I guess I was just silly to imagine that he felt anything for me."

"But why be so unhappy about it? Nothing has happened."

"But it has! Don't you see, Laura? You don't take this Brewster matter importantly, but I have to! I don't know anything about Locke, but I have even told me his name. Locke? What kind of a name is that? And... and I have something to confess. When I heard he had gone off suddenly to Bangor—oh, you know what I was thinking—I was afraid that he was guilty. I went to his cabin."

"Cecily, you didn't!"

"I know it was a dreadful thing to do, Laura, but I simply had to know. And at his place I found something."

Laura's eyes were round as saucers. "Guns?"

Cecily had to laugh. "No, Laura, nothing like that. But I did find English-made suits—not the sort of thing he wears around here—a pigskin bag that shrieked Bond Street and... and two black pearl studs."

"So, is that supposed to make him an international crook?" Laura demanded, miffed and fussy. "Can't a man own studs and decent clothes without exciting suspicion?"

"But perfect black pearls! Laura! What would a man in Locke's circumstances be doing with anything like that?"

"I'm sure I don't know, Cecily, but I do know that you can't be in love with him or you would not be so ready to be suspicious of him. It seems to me that you're making a mountain out of a molehill and being unfair in the bargain."

is, however, that the American broadcasts will be so objective and straightforward in presenting news and other matter that no real objection can be found.

So far the thing is just an idea. As an idea it has one notable drawback. The same loudspeaker that would broadcast Yankee messages of good will could be used by Hitler.

That FCC Order Also you may just as well know that the State Department was as much upset as the broadcasting companies over that order of the Federal Communications Commission directing the big radio systems to reflect only true American culture in their foreign programs.

For months the State Department has been working quietly with the radio companies to design programs that would reflect American culture and help promote the good neighbor policy in Latin America. There was nothing formal or official about it, but it was operating very well.

Being patriotic didn't interfere with the revenue from the foreign broadcasts. Not a handful of revenue comes from these short-wave broadcasts.

But just as the thing was working along at its smoothest the communications commission, long at odds within itself, tried to make it official by a formal order. The commission was compelled to repeal it later. The State Department had to be its very smoothest to restore the old accord with the broadcasting systems.

will send representatives to the education board meeting is problematical. There has developed a wide difference of opinion within this class about where additional increments should be applied to salary scales. Some want more pay for "starters" in the profession. Some contend that a teacher reaches maximum efficiency about the fourth year of experience and seek highest pay for that bracket. Others want increments for teachers of from five to eight years experience. Still others are contending insistently for a new ninth experience increment.

Members of the board are Governor Hoey, Attorney General Harry McMillan, Secretary of State Thad Eure, Treasurer Charlie Johnson, Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin and State Auditor George Ross Pou.

BOARD OF EDUCATION WILL GET BUSY WITH ITS MONEY

(Continued from Page One) has not quite carried out this intent. There is no certainty that other interested groups will not want to be heard, though so far there has been little talk of any controversy over application of $117,000 of the $289,000 to a partial bridging of the gap of some 30 per cent now existing between the salary schedules of white and Negro teachers holding the same certificates and doing the same work.

Quite naturally not all the Negro teachers or leaders are satisfied with the reported amount which will be used in reducing differentials in pay. There are radicals in their number who insist that the present differentials in schedules should be completely eliminated, even if it called for reduction in white teacher salaries to provide funds for the elimination.

This radical group, however, is in a decided minority amount. Negroes who are school-minded feel that there is much more to be gained by a policy of conciliation and compromise than by any drastic action which would alienate the support of powerful white groups which now agree with them in principle and who are willing to proceed, albeit somewhat cautiously, in an effort to close the existing gap.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 23.—Preparation for production of 1940 models has been completed at the Buick plants at Flint and this division of General Motors started its assembly lines with the first shift Monday morning. Volume will be accelerated steadily during the next few weeks until capacity output is reached.

This was announced today by Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager, who said that Buick is launched upon one of the largest manufacturing programs in the experience of the company, backed by new lines of cars expected greatly to increase its market for the coming season.

"We are scheduling the production of more cars during the remaining months of this year than we have ever built in any comparable period and I expect our plants to be operating at peak capacity throughout the fourth quarter," he said. "Assembly operations will be boosted steadily as production gets under way and it is anticipated that the peak will be reached by the middle of September and maintained through the last quarter.

"Our program calls for a substantial increase over the 1939 model season, in which we produced in excess of 200,000 cars, and production is so scheduled as to maintain high operating levels throughout the year. Meanwhile, it is planned to have substantial stocks in the hands of dealers within the next 45 days to insure prompt retail deliveries in the face of an expected heavily increased demand."

The executive said that resumption of final assembly affects the immediate return to work of more than 5,000 employees and re-employment by mid-September of Buick's full factory force of approximately 11,000. Re-employment will go forward at the rate of 2,000 men a week until an assembly rate of 1,200 cars a day is reached, he said.

One-Run Splurge In Ninth Gives Billies 3-2 Verdict

VINCENT SMITH A SHINING STAR

Wilson Will Play Greenies In Local Park Tonight

Exceptional hurling, spectacular fielding and a large turnout of excited fans featured the Greenville-Snow Hill game last night as D. C. Walker's Billies made a one-run splurge with the score tied at 2-2 in the ninth to triumph 3-2 over Rube Wilson's Greenies.

Tony Malsano drew a free ticket in the ninth to set the stage for the Billies' winning run. He advanced to second on Cicerali's fielder's choice, went to third on Gaines' sacrifice and scored on Felix Stewart's infield out.

Greenies will meet Manager Frank Rodgers' Wilson Tobs in the Guy Smith stadium tonight at 8 o'clock, and the Greenies will journey to Wilson tomorrow night for a two-way Bargain Night with the Tobs. The first game will get under way at 7:30 o'clock.

East Carolina Teachers College was the guest of the local club last night and three Greenville students were among those presented with prizes awarded by local firms. Students and prizes were: John David Bridgers, a cake; Bobbie Hollar, a shirt, and Miss Ethel Gaston, a smoking stand.

Vincent Smith took the laurels for the locals in last night's encounter. When Harry Soufas' another play which drew a hit, Smith ran out on the field, and instead of obtaining the assistance of his partners in a double play, he got Blaylock off second in a chase. Smith's triple also drove in the Greenies' first run.

Besides several commendable catches handled by Rusty McCauley, Harry Soufas' double play which drew a hit, Smith's triple also drove in the Greenies' first run.

Blaylock, catcher, and Bistoff, pitcher, were the winners. The box score:

MEAD OPPOSES FIGHT DECISION

Henry's Manager Seeks Reversal of Outcome

New York, Aug. 23. — (AP) — A night's rest failed to call off Eddie Mead, manager of Henry Armstrong, and he declared he was going to move heaven and earth if necessary to get a reversal of last night's decision which gave Lou Ambers victory over Henry and the lightweight boxing championship.

Mead said he would ask the New York State Athletic Commission, Tuesday, to reverse the decision.

Failing in that, he said, he will ask Secretary of State Michael Walsh in Albany for an investigation.

Mead also said he would ask the commission why Lou Beck, assistant secretary of the commission, sat on a stool in Ambers' corner and assisted in coaching him throughout the fight.

General John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, took Mead's criticism lightly.

"It was a unanimous and satisfactory decision," said the general.

By SID FEDER
Yankee Stadium, New York, Aug. 22. — (AP) — The world lightweight championship passed back to Lou Ambers tonight but only because Henry Armstrong was penalized five rounds by Referee Arthur Donovan for low punching.

If it hadn't been for those five heats, which provoked a howl of outraged protest from Armstrong's corner, Hammerin' Henry would have won—and retained the title—in a waltz.

All in all, therefore, there was nothing conclusive about the fight except that everything is all set now for a third meeting between the pair. They tangled the first time a year ago, and The Hammer dethroned the square-jawed little Italian.

THRILLS PLUS SPILLS IN CPL

Red and Bill Extend Pitching Wins to 20 Each

A one-sided game and a close one was offered fans who watched Williamston and Kinston hit away in an evening and night double-header yesterday.

Red Swain, chased in the afternoon as Kinston's Bill Herring hurled his 20th win of the season, but Red came from the dugout last night and hurled his 20th win of the season. The score for the night game was 2-1, evening game 13-2.

Wilson had little trouble taming the Tarboro Goobers, but it took a shut out by Charley Whitaker got a two-run homer in the ninth.

Snow Hill had a lucky ninth inning to defeat Greenville 3-2. This was the second win for the Billies in a two-game series with the Greenies.

OVER 80 BOYS IN SWIM MEET

Eastern Scouts Set for Aqua Competition Here Thursday

John J. Sigwald, executive of the East Carolina Council of Boy Scouts, today said that the annual council swimming meet to be held in the local municipal pool tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock will attract over 80 Scouts and from 500 to 600 visitors.

Scout troops from Wilson, Rocky Mount, Greenville, Washington, Kinston, Roanoke Rapids, Tarboro, Plymouth and Williamston will be represented in the meet, which offers eight different swimming events.

The Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce is handling arrangements, including seating and supplying equipment. Roy M. Campbell of Greenville, is chairman of the annual event, of which Sigwald is director.

This will be the second largest event of the year in East Carolina scouting, the first having been held off at the East Carolina camporee in Tarboro some time ago.

Conducting Revival

Fuquay Springs, Aug. 23. — Alvis M. Whitted, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Whitted of Varina, is conducting a series of revival services at the Fuquay Springs Baptist Church this week. He is assisted by John Moreno, who is directing the revival music program. Both are ministerial students.

PLAYERS PLAN RIDE DONKEYS

Lions Meet All-Stars In Unique Game Here

It begins to look like a capacity crowd will be on hand Thursday night to see the donkey baseball game played by the Lions Club and the softball league All-Stars at the Third Street Park. The game will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

An added attraction will be the Donkey Derby which will be run just before the game. Local dignitaries have been selected to be the jockeys. The winning jockey will be awarded a prize for his accomplishment.

The jockeys will be Berry Bostic, Jack Spain, J. H. Waldrop, J. O. Duval, J. H. Rose and Bo Farley.

The committee in charge of selecting the players for the donkey baseball game and the jockeys declare that they have organized two outstanding teams and a field of jockeys that cannot be surpassed. Much time and care was spent by the committee in the search for men who understand mule psychology and temperament.

The game will be umpired by Haywood Dall, prominent local mule dealer, who was chosen for his thorough understanding of the whys and wherefores of donkeys and has consented to serve in this capacity provided he is allowed the protection of two guns.

All the players must ride donkeys, but they get their feet on the ground once in a while. It is when they are batting that the men get a rest from riding. However, as soon as the batter hits the ball he must get aboard a donkey to ride to first base.

The Bar X Ranch troupe of baseball players are said to be in tip-top shape for the battle in searching for men who understand mule psychology and temperament.

The loss of Tipton, Spangler and O'Mara practically swept the backfield corps and here is the Duke mentor's big problem. For replacements in these spots he is looking to the McAfee brothers, George and Wesley, and to Roger Robinson. Both the McAfees saw action last year, although George was never a top shape due to an early foot ailment that kept him out until the final four games of the campaign. Robinson was substitute to O'Mara at fullback.

It appears that Eaves, W. and O. McAfee and Robinson will get the first call for the No. 1 backfield when the boys report to Coach Wade on the morning of September 1.

Bailey, Perdue and Darnell have the inside tracks to the end jobs with Jim Marion, reserve last year, and Tommy Prothro, sophomore, as the other outstanding candidates.

Ribar and Johnson will probably be at the guards and Gordon Burns, Dan Hill's sub for the past two seasons, a center. Should anything happen to Burns, Duke would be in a bad way for center material as Spencer Robb, reserves last year, is too light for full-time work and Aubrey Gill, outstanding soph candidate to help Ribar and Johnson include Red Lange, reserve end last season, Mike Karmazin and Charles Jetz, soph.

The Duke mentor also has his worries at the tackles. He was counting on Tom Maloney who blocked two punts in the Rose Bowl game but Maloney dropped out of school this spring due to financial reasons and with Ribar shifted to guard, the left no tackle candidate who has seen much action. The outstanding hopefuls are "True-Toe" Tony Ruffa, the placekick artist, and Alex Winterson, both of whom played a bit last fall, and Bob McDonough, a sophomore.

Other backfield candidates who will battle with Eaves, the McAfees and Robinson for the posts are Winston Siegfried, soph at quarterback; Jap Davis, reserve blocker last year, and George Bokinsky, sophomore, fullbacks; Carl Deane, reserve last year, and Grady Hedrick, sophomore, blocking

Gulf Concedes Series, Semifinals Start Tonight

Gulf having conceded the first round series to Double Cola, only one more game remains in the first round play and this will be played tonight following the first contest in the semi-finals.

In the initial semi-finals encounter Royal Crown will meet Double Cola in a game preceding the third game of the best-two-out-of-three home games. During the Greenies' travels, they have won a total of 28 games and lost 27 for almost a 50 per cent break.

Thirteen more games remain on the Greenies' schedule with five of these to be played at home. Four more games are scheduled with Kinston, three with Snow Hill, three with Wilson and three with Tarboro.

The Greenies, at present, are through with Goldsboro, Williamston and New Bern. Two games have been rained out with the Martins and one game has been rained out with the New Bern club. Goldsboro and Greenville have played their full schedule of games.

ALPHONSE-GASTON ACT ENTERS FOOTBALL

Knockville, Tenn. (AP) — The Southern Conference football championship will be decided here October 21 when Tennessee and Alabama clash—if Major Bob Neyland and Frank Thomas know their gridiron machines.

Neyland, tutor of the Volunteers, picked Alabama as the No. 1 team of the conference and Thomas kindly returned the compliment by selecting Tennessee.
