Hitler Holds Conference With British Ambassador At Fuehrer's Own Request

TO TURN DOWN APPEAL OF FDR

Official Nazi Quarters Represented as Believing That Eleventh-Hour Settlement Will Be Effected Through Capitulation of Poland and Her Guarantors

Berlin, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, was summoned suddenly to see Hitler this afternoon as authoritative Nazis forecast German refusal to follow President Roosevelt's suggestion for settlement of German-Polish differences.

No one here would intimate the nature of the conversation between Sir Neville and Hitler, which occurred shortly after 1 p. m. (7 a. m. EST).

Berlin, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Nazi rejection of President Roosevelt's peace appeal was forecast authoritatively today as German sources reported Soviet Russia was putting last-minute pressure on Poland to give in peacefully to Adolf Hitler's demand.

Hopes for a peaceful settlement through eleventh hour capitulation of Poland and her guarantors, Great Britain and France, was the keynote in official quarters here.

Competent sources expressed the belief that Germany had decided to postpone military action, at least for one more day.

This decision may have been taken at a long conference, lasting until 1 a. m., among Hitler, German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Goering and General Wilhelm Keitel, Hitler's closest military advisors.

Reported pressure on Poland through the Soviet ambassador to Warsaw, German efforts to bring Russia and Japan into a non-aggression treaty and to persuade Turkey to turn her back on her new alliance with Britain were the cards Germany was playing in her hope of getting what she wants without bloodshed.

The President's message suggesting that Poland and Germany settle their differences either through direct negotiations by arbitration or by conciliation was studied by the Fuehrer in the Reich chancellery this morning.

The answer is expected to be made public tonight.

Excellent sources said the reply would be negative in tone, with implications that President Roosevelt had sent his peace note to the wrong address.

"It should have gone," these sources said, "to England."

Meanwhile authoritative reports reached Berlin that Soviet Russia had exerted pressure at Warsaw for a peaceful settlement of the German-Polish quarrel.

Whether Hitler would send President Roosevelt a direct private reply or merely answer publicly as he did Roosevelt's last message in April, apparently had not been determined.

London, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, will fly to London tomorrow to report to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax on his talk today with Adolf Hitler.

The foreign office announced the ambassador would fly here to report and it was indicated he then would return shortly to Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Talk of a new peace offer in the German-Polish conflict was renewed this afternoon when news spread through the capital that the British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, had been closeted with Adolf Hitler in the early afternoon.

Latest estimates by informed observers indicated the armies of Europe, excluding naval and air forces, numbered nearly 10,000,000 men as the continent approached a new zero hour. Estimate of French armed strength is based on a new mobilization order.

ITALY ADDS TO ARMED FORCES

Two More Classes of Reservists Called to Colors

Rome, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Two classes of Italian reservists were called to the colors today, bringing those under arms to a total of six classes.

The classes called today were composed of those men born in 1903 and 1913.

They were unofficially estimated to add about half a million men to the 1,300,000 already under arms.

It was officially announced that the naval and air ranks of Italy's fighting machine had been "almost completely filled" since August 21.

In addition to the six army classes, 35 battalions of militiamen have been called up, as well as specialists of other army classes.

Mussolini made a brief appearance on the balcony of his Palazzo Venezia to acknowledge cheers of a crowd this morning, but refrained from speaking to the delegation of Italian school teachers and Albanians who had come for a glimpse of him.

His silence had been interpreted in foreign circles as indicating a desire to avoid any sabre-rattling that might make the situation worse.

Local Negro Charged With Driving Drunk

County Jailer W. G. Leggett said today that Charley Short, Greenville Negro, was jailed last night on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

URGES POLAND TO GUARD STEP

France Advises Against Any Pretext for Germany

Paris, Aug. 25.—(AP)—France today urged Poland to give Germany no excuse for charging maltreatment of Germans in Poland and to avoid any action that might serve as a pretext for border incidents.

It was stated at the same time that orders for the return of the French and British military missions at Moscow had not yet been given.

"They are remaining for the moment," informed circles said. They declined to give a reason for the delay in the expected recall.

French advisers today on the German-Soviet pact were that it resulted from a personal message from Hitler to Stalin. The negotiations had been going on for weeks and were brought to a successful issue only by Hitler's personal appeal. The French said they had learned.

The franc tumbled to 40 to the dollar at the unofficial bank rate this morning, following a similar drop of the pound sterling. This was a drop of 2.245 to the dollar against yesterday's official quota.

Record Offerings First Three Days

The Greenville tobacco market set a record during the first three days of the 1939 season with offerings totaling 4,788,224 pounds—more than a million and a half for each day of sales.

The offerings for the first three days of this season compare with 4,108,000 pounds sold on the Greenville warehouse floors during the first five days of last year.

Despite the unusually large quantity of offerings, a large percentage of which was damaged or in high order, the average price for the first week of sales was officially figured at $15.26 per hundredweight.

NO CERTAINTY OF WAR SEEN BY ROOSEVELT

NO DECISION ON SPECIAL SESSION

Says Pressing of Button all Needed to Put Preparedness Machinery in Operation

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he did not regard present European situations as certain to result in war.

The Chief Executive, discussing the critical foreign situation at a press conference, made this statement when asked whether he would call a special session of Congress to act on new neutrality legislation.

Speaking to reporters only a few hours after he had addressed peace appeals to Adolf Hitler and Polish President Mostkiewicz, Mr. Roosevelt said he had made perfectly clear before that he would not call Congress unless it was reasonably certain that war was imminent.

Saying there had been some confusion over the word "imminent," he declared it carried the connotation of certainty and then went on to say he did not believe the present situation was certain to bring hostilities.

"Everyone—nearly—hopes that war is not certain," he declared.

Asked whether the hope of which he spoke was based on any specific knowledge, the President replied he had no more news than the newspapermen present.

Discussing the critical state of world affairs in a calm, deliberate tone, the President said he had no replies as yet from his messages to Germany and Poland to settle their differences either by direct negotiation, impartial arbitration or through a neutral moderator, or to his earlier appeals of yesterday to the king of Italy to intervene in behalf of peace.

Asked about American preparedness measures, Mr. Roosevelt said the machinery which began to take form two years ago had been perfected in the last year and the only question remaining was the pressing of the button to put it in operation at the proper time.

British - French - Soviet Representatives Hold Unexpected Conference

Talks Come as Surprise Since British and French Missions Had Been Preparing to Leave for Home; Russian Parliament Summoned for Extraordinary Session Monday

Moscow, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Commissar Vorosylovoff and the heads of the British and French military missions met in an unexpected conference this afternoon.

Russian officials and foreign quarters would neither affirm nor disclaim Berlin's report the Soviets were seeking a peaceful solution of the Danzig issue through the ambassador to Poland.

The British and French missions had been preparing to depart for home soon, because the German-Russian non-aggression pact apparently ended the likelihood of a British-French-Russian military agreement.

Moscow, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Russia's Supreme Soviet, or Parliament, today was summoned for extraordinary session next Monday to ratify the new non-aggression pact with Germany and hear Premier-Foreign Commissar Molotov explain Moscow's startling shift in foreign policy in the midst of international crises.

Molotov's speech was eagerly awaited in foreign quarters for an exposition of the Soviet's turn to isolationism, and for possible light on the breakdown in military staff talks here with Britain and France for a tri-power alliance.

Council members in outposts of Russia's vast territory began their journeys to the capital by plane today in an effort to arrive by Monday.

There were unconfirmed reports that immediately the pact is ratified, Molotov will fly to Berlin to exchange ratified treaties with the German government.

One stipulation of the agreement was that ratification should take place as soon as possible.

Stalin is expected to attend the council meeting, the fourth since establishment of a new constitution in 1937.

Arrange Sessions For Weed Grading

R. R. Bennett, Pitt county farm agent, today announced that J. O. Armistead, of the United States Department of Agriculture, will conduct four tobacco grading demonstrations in Pitt county, August 28 and 29, with morning sessions beginning at 10 o'clock and afternoon sessions at 2:30 o'clock.

Monday demonstrations are at W. C. and S. J. Vincent's, four miles from Greenville on the Creek road, at 10 o'clock, and W. R. Tyson's pack barn, in the old store building at Bell's crossroads at 2:30 o'clock.

The Tuesday morning demonstration will be held at Hubert Crawford's at the Elias Crawford home six miles west of Greenville back of Piney Grove Church, while the afternoon session will be held at J. R. Mills', six miles east of Greenville on the Washington highway.

Bennett said that producers who are interested in attending these meetings are urged to be present and requested that they bring their tobacco graders to the sessions.

Correction

In listing four civil cases filed in Pitt Superior court Tuesday, The Reflector on Wednesday stated that two actions had been brought against E. L. Baker.

The defendant was E. L. Barber and not E. L. Baker as reported. E. L. Baker is a member of the firm of Baker & Davis hardware store and had no connection with the case, which grew out of an automobile wreck.

Each Nation Pledges Aid In Case Of Oppression

Signing of New Agreement Even More Inclusive That Previous Provisional Treaty Settles Once and for all Stand Which Britain Will Take if Poland Attacked

London, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A formal agreement of mutual assistance between Great Britain and Poland was signed at the foreign office late today by Lord Halifax, the British foreign secretary, and Ambassador Count Raczynski.

The agreement consists of eight articles, setting forth circumstances under which the parties would come to the other's assistance.

"It is a source of lively satisfaction to both governments that the negotiations for the present agreement have been so speedily and satisfactorily concluded, a foreign office statement said.

"This agreement replaces and gives formal effect to the provisional agreement reached between the United Kingdom government and the Polish government during Foreign Minister Beck's visit to London last spring and announced in the House of Commons April 6," the statement added.

Timing of the announcement of the signatures was considered significant in the light of the reported attitude of skeptics in Germany toward Britain's determination to aid Poland.

The pact provides that if one of the contracting powers becomes engaged in hostilities with a third power in consequence of aggression by the third power, the other immediately will render every support and assistance.

In event of any action by a European power which clearly threatened, directly or indirectly, the independence of one of the contracting parties and was of such nature that the nation in question considered it vital to resist with its armed forces, the other would be obligated to give it aid.

Aid would be given also if one nation becomes engaged with a third power on consequence of action by that power which threatened the independence or neutrality of another European state in such a way as to constitute a clear menace to the security of the contracting party. The action would be taken "without prejudice" to the rights of the fourth state concerned.

Mutual aid also is pledged if any power attempts to undermine the independence of one of the contracting parties.

Croatia's Battle Ends in Triumph

Belgrade, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Croatia's 20-year fight for a voice in the national government of Yugoslavia was crowned with triumph tonight as Premier Cvetkovich began reorganizing his cabinet to include Croat ministers.

He returned to Bled later to consult again with Regent Prince Paul.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crover

Washington.—It is a fair bet that any Russo-German treaty of non-aggression will send England on a chase for a new "friend" that may take her right to the door of Japan
—with whom she now is mildly at odds.

If she does that, the United States
may get upset again at the thought of having an alliance of two powerful fleets, one on either side of us.

That situation, which once existed,
filled us with such alarm a few years ago that we virtually compelled England to break an alliance with Japan with which both had been very happy. Neither England nor Japan has been especially happy internationally since.

England's hunt for a "friend" to help her against some uprising enemy has been the big diplomatic ferment for generations. It has been the "big story" of the present situation.

Years ago, when your grandfather
and our grandfather were worried about affairs in Europe, England was hunting for friends to help her keep down France. She had agreements with Germany and Russia at various times to take care of that.
Then began the consolidation of the German states into one big family.

As adept as Eliza crossing the Raphanhook on the ice, England began to toe-dance her way into a new arrangement.

RUSSIA REMEMBERS
Germany whipped France so badly that she no longer was a danger to England. Germany became the danger. By the turn of the century this situation was so well developed that England was truly in a bind. She never could depend on the United States as an ally, although she made every effort to keep this country friendly.

First she tried to wane Russia into an agreement. Russia did not over too fast. She has a history of disagreements with England that her rulers do not forget. England has kept Russia out of the Balkans for more than a half century, and once went to war about it.

Remember the poem about "cannons to the right of them, cannons to the left of them"? Those were Russian cannons, the English poet was talking about.

When Russia failed to come along
as a friend as promptly as England wished, British diplomats began hunting for others. She had France as an ally and Germany as a potential enemy. Italy was not much of a nation at the time and the United States was out of reach. Who was left? Nobody but Japan. So in 1902 England drew up an alliance with Japan pledging mutual assistance.

The situation now is not nearly the same pattern. And the situation is ripening for her to find a friend in Japan. The proposed non-aggression treaty between Germany and Russia makes the three-cornered anti-Communist treaty between Germany, Italy and Japan look silly. Germany can't be both anti-Russian and pro-Russian at the same time. The moment she becomes pro-Russian she becomes anti-Japanese.

ENGLAND WAS CAUTIOUS
How a renewed Japanese-British alliance would affect us is problematical. Before their old treaty was very old, England insisted on attaching to it a provision stating that it would not obligate England to take sides with Japan in a war between Japan and the United States.
Yet in spite of that provision, the United States never felt comfortable
and insisted at the Washington

YESTERDAY: No explanations yet forthcoming when Cecily and Donald and Laura and Locke near his cabin. Cecily can't understand. Locke acts as if the situation were perfectly normal.
Later, Laura sends for Cecily, but she won't go.

Chapter 33 In The Dark

CECILY said, "Yesterday, I made up my mind that I had stirred up a situation out of whole cloth, imagined something important—
even though you had known where it was—and that it was a silly, senseless thing to do.

"I put myself on the carpet and went at it analytically. My resulting conclusion was that I wasn't quite bright. I decided that I was as romantic as any foolish heroine of a cheap love story. Just because I didn't know anything about the man I'd fallen in love with, I clothed him with all sorts of backgrounds of a most lurid past."

"Cecily, when women fall in love, they always do that. A woman never takes a man for what he is, as she does other women;
she always makes him into what she wants him to be."

"We're getting away from the point, aren't we? You that nearly fazed this whole thing. I don't go what I thought was the right value: a simple situation I had made into a melodrama. And then, having decided this, all of a sudden a great big mystery—a real mystery—breaks over my head.
It's like a nightmare. No explanations for it."

Laura took one of Cecily's hands
into her own. "Listen to me, Cecily, I've got more to lose, probably,"
she was thinking of Donald—"than you have. I'm going to ask you to believe me. Your hand that there was something peculiar going on was intuitively correct. There is!
And I'm as much in the dark as you are."

"But Locke? You said . . ."
"I know. I said that I was bound to secrecy, and I am. But I'm almost as much in the dark as you are."

Cecily let her breath out in a long, patient sigh.
"But, Laura, why did you say you'd turned your ankle?"
"Now, Cecily, act your age!
Where else was there to say?"
There was a moment of heavy silence.

Then Laura said with dignity,
"Cecily, I won't attempt to explain anything else to you. I'm sure that you are quite well aware that I had a good reason for not coming to see you on your last night.
And that there was nothing improper in my not doing so."

"I know it, Laura. You need not say anything more to me. May I ask you one more question?"
"Certainly."

"Did Locke say anything . . .
anything personal about me?"
Laura wanted to give her some crumb of comfort but she answered honestly. "No, he didn't."
Cecily But . . . whatever you're thinking, I don't want you to think," she finished rather incoherently.

Cecily wasn't paying much attention to Laura's last words. A pall of finality had settled upon her.

"You're looking pretty fagged, Laura. I think I'll run along."
"No," Laura asked, holding out her hand.
"No," Cecily said, sealing the word with a handclasp.

Only A Dream

A PALL of finality. An acceptance that her dream was only a dream. Lines she had read into a blank page. Music heard there were no notes. Face she witnessed the silence of and Cecily Stuart. Strange that here could be such emptiness when there had been nothing more but a dream to occupy this now-empty space.

As a good sport about it, Cecily tried to shut your mind and not with your heart. Pay your losses with dignity, and go on to something else. Nothing stands still You have things to do. You have one business to wind up and another to start. Be alert. Be gay!

Cecily made arrangements to have her things taken to the Dorelea for winter storage. She had her stock packed to ship to New York the first of October. She made a careful inventory. She mended book-backs, filed letters, catalogued her cards.

"She wrote to Hilda Froman.
"Keep a weather eye out for a spot for me in our old neighborhood. I won't want a big place," she wrote, "and I won't go for a large stock of new books. The circulating department and a magazine stand should provide a reasonable living and that's all I want."
Aunt Olivia had said that she would prefer having me stay with her in New York to going back to my own apartment, so I'm leaving

naul conference in 1922 that England scrap the treaty. She did, accepting the various four-power and nine-power treaties as a substitute.
Those treaties are dead since England said to it that they never were enforced against Japan. It begins now to appear why England never burns a bridge behind her.

Critical illness of the State Department of Agriculture's statistician-in-chief, W. H. Rhodes, has been a tremendous blow to Louis H.

tions chief.

"When you asked him for figures
on anything in the department you got them today—not in a week or so," said out by way of tribute to the Rhodes efficiency.

She put down her pen. I have been selfish, she thought, thinking only of myself. I've given poor return for all that Aunt Olivia has done for me. She likes gayety around her and I've done very little to add to it.

She took a day off and asked
Philip to drive her to Portland.
And found, to her surprise, that she enjoyed that day.

They started early in the morning, arriving in time for lunch.

"There is a constantly growing interest in the Department of Labor and in labor in general throughout North Carolina," says Commissioner of Labor Forest Shuford.

"I have received so many invitations to speak about the Department and its activities that I just haven't been able to accept even half of them this summer," he added.

Regardless of calendar or climate,
the fall fishing season is underway in North Carolina. Sports fishermen count the seasons by their catches and all reports reaching here indicate these catches are truly
"fishing" right now.

At the new 1,000 foot pier at Nags Head bluefish ranging up to four pounds are being landed. Further down the coast, around Wilmington, surf fishermen are preparing for the channel bass which will work in that direction by Sept. 1.

Need For Compliments

SHE carried the dress away to the hairdresser's and, with it in mind, told the hairdresser to do something "new" with her hair.
It was a nightmare. No explanations for it."

Philip said he didn't like it. "It isn't like you," he said.
"Have you any idea what I'm really like?"
He merely shrugged his shoulders.

He couldn't understand why she should feel let down. She wanted Philip to pay her compliments. She never had before. Now she needed them. Her vanity had taken a blow as deep as her heart.
Driving back over the ribbons of road, she stuck her hands in her pockets and groaned into the darkness. She thought she'd probably be like the legions of women who spend all their time thinking up flattering remarks to make to men, making a life-long frantic effort to get back their self-respect. She could almost hear herself saying:

"Eloise, I think I'll have red. No,
I don't like it but I'm having dinner tonight with a gentleman who does. What am I wearing? Black?
Men do like black, don't they?
Personally I feel out of character."
"Mr. Snipswitch, you're the great explorer, aren't you? I've read every word in the newspapers about your discovery in the Malay country. Oh, look, there's a cozy corner where we won't be disturbed. Please do tell me about it in your own words. . . Oh, must you leave?"

Not on your life, Cecily Stuart!
You're not going to be one of those Besides, what makes you think you'd ever have a chance of being interesting to a man? Even old Philip here—good old Philip,
the life of the party, the hostess'
delight, the super-sponger, the colossal Callen — sponges, you haven't got a lick of sex appeal.
He's just been using you a prop to get himself a soft vacation. He likes celebrities, and Aunt Olivia is a celebrity. He cats up her "dear perfect guest!" He likes his awak-

He likes the rugged life served up by a proper butler. He likes ice-cream in a drug-store. He likes presents and doesn't mind the ants.
He likes everything so darn much he'll let you insult him as long as you don't take his fun away.

She thought, wickedly: I'll ask him if there's anything he doesn't like. She already had an answer to that. He didn't like work.
"Philip," she said, "is there very much money in writing?"
"Sometimes," he said noncommittally.

Cecily pursued the subject maliciously. "You don't mind my asking you?"
"Of course not." Not said very cordially.

"But, Philip, darling, what are we going to live on?"
Cecily shouldn't have said that as the bar rounded a turn. Philip swung the wheel too violently.
"Or had you forgotten that I am
you fiancée?"
He laughed.

He's worried, she thought.
Goody!

Greenies Win And Lose In Two-Way Affair In Wilson

WILSON HURLS LOCALS TO WIN

Tobs Fade Greenville 2-1 With King On The Mound

Wilson took the first game of a night double-header with the Greenies 2-1 but Rube and his boys showed an air of rejuvenation in the abbreviated encounter and trounced the Tobs 4-2.

Don King was matched with Wilson's Jack Threlfall in the opener, with Threlfall taking the verdict behind his three-hit hurling.

Greenie's only run in the first game came after two players had walked and Harry Jenkins and Vincent Smith singled.

Wilson jumped on King for five hits in the opening inning, but Don settled down and limited the Tobs to only a pair of safeties the rest of the route.

Greenie got its hits of the first game in the fifth inning. Manager Rodgers' boys made a two-run splurge in the opening inning of the seven-inning affair and held the Greenies scoreless until the fifth, when the locals jumped on the losers for two runs and topped off things with another run in the sixth.

Morris Wilson hurled the win in the final game. Wilson used two pitchers, Parker and Creason.

Kinston Triumphs Again In Eastern Scout Meet

Boy Scouts of the Kinston District, winners in 1938 competition, last night scored 29 points against 28 chalked up by the Rocky Mount district to win first place in the annual swimming meet of the East Carolina Council of Boy Scouts. The Greenville and Roanoke Rapids districts scored 12 points apiece to tie for third place.

Earlier, Attorney P. C. Harding of Greenville, president of the East Carolina Council, embracing nine districts in 21 counties, presented B-books Peters, Jr., mayor of Tarboro, with an Elk Skin award shapely as an arrowhead. The award was made for the fine reception extended the Scouts by Peters who was camporee mayor at Tarboro in April.

In last night's eight scoring events, which required nearly two hours to reel off, Phillip Roundtree was the star attraction for the winners. He took first place in the backstroke (two lengths), free style relay and swam with Taylor and Perry to take first place in the Medley relay.

Wade Pitt of Troop 7, Rocky Mount district, took first place in the free style (one length), while Olin Peritt of Troop 5 in the same district was first in the breaststroke, and Edward Taylor also of Troop 5 was first in the plunse for distance.

Dallas Peele of Troop 13, Greenville district, took second place in the free style relay (one length), third in the backstroke (two lengths). Billie Turner of Greenville was second in the backstroke (one length) and swam with Lee and Taylor for fourth in the Medley relay.

Districts represented in the meet were Wilson, Rocky Mount, Greenville, Washington, N. C., Kinston, Roanoke Rapids, Tarboro, Plymouth and Williamston. The districts embrace 127 troops, membership of which is composed of 127 troops.

Roy M. Campbell of Greenville was general chairman of the meet, general activities of which were directed by John Sigwald, Scout Executive of the East Carolina Council.

NO HIT, NO RUN GAME IN C.P.L.

Ed Chapman hurls performance for Goldsboro

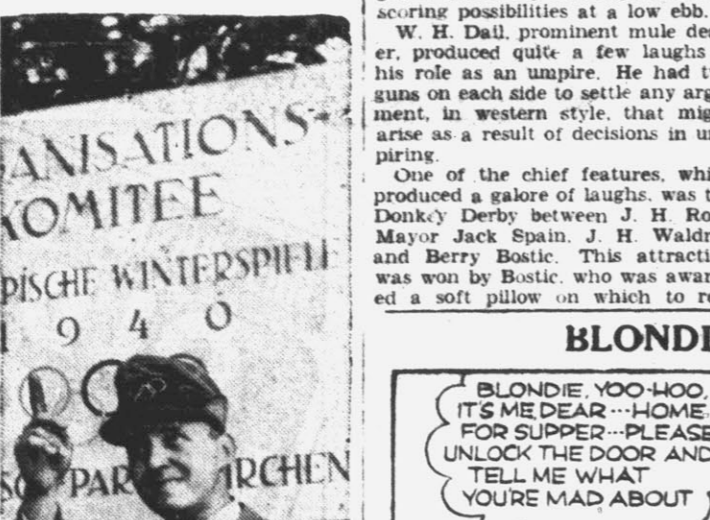

Rain blocked two contests in Coastal Plain play yesterday but there were two other exciting thrillers.

Ed Chapman lanky Goldsboro hurler hurled no-hit ball as Goldsboro shutout Williamston 9-0 in one of the most thrilling games ever witnessed on the Goldsboro diamond.

Twenty-seven batters faced Chapman, but only two got on base. One of the players was eliminated via the double-play route and another was caught napping on first by Catcher Overton.

Mule and his boys collected 15 hits to celebrate the victory but the star performer was Ed Chapman and today his name was being sung in Goldsboro sports circles.

In the only other game, Wilson defeated Greenville 2-1 in the first game of a twin bill and the Greenies won 4-2 in the final game.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 25. (AP)—Wall Street saw faint chances of at least temporary European peace today and traders bid up stock market favorites one to around four points at the best.

The conclusion of the optimist was that some plan to settle the Danzig controversy was in the wind, although no thing definite was forthcoming before the close. Transfers approximated 750,000 shares. Final prices were under the tops in a majority of the cases.

Britain Primes Her Guns and Stands Prepared

A gun crew hurries ammunition to a dump in Hyde Park, London, as Air-Raid Precaution measures were invoked full blast on the heels of the new Russo-German pact. Emergency Parliament and Cabinet meetings brought King George hurrying home from his vacation as the tense London watched the international situation. The man in the street, however, voiced his confidence. "We're ready now—we weren't last September," he said. This picture was transmitted from London to New York by cable.

NEW ALL-INCLUSIVE PACT

England and Poland agreed also to exchange quickly information concerning any development which might threaten their independence and to advise each other of present or future non-aggression pacts with other nations.

The agreement, made for a period of five years, also provided no armistice or treaty of peace would be concluded except by mutual consent.

Made effective upon affixing of the signatures, the pact may be denounced by either party by giving six months' notice.

Destroy Still On Pitt County Line

Pitt county ABC officers, assisted by Beaufort officers, early this morning seized and destroyed a copper still on the Pitt side of Tranter's creek.

The plant was of 100-gallon capacity. Approximately 2,000 gallons of newly made beer was found at the still site. Equipment included one 75-gallon pre-heating box with a copper heater, one copper condenser coil.

This was the second still located and destroyed on Tranter's creek within the past 10 days.

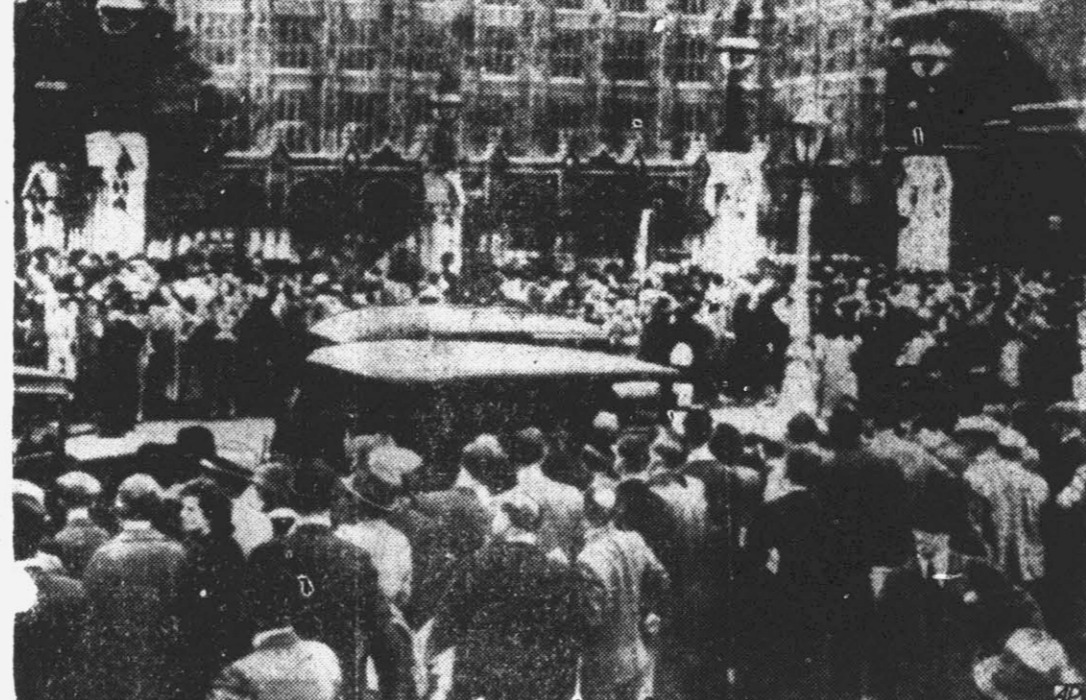

Twenty sticks of dynamite were used to destroy the plant.

GAIN SHOWN IN FOREST FIRES

July of This Year Worse Than Same Month in '38

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 25.—Forest fires in North Carolina were slightly more numerous and destructive in July than in the corresponding month of 1938, Assistant State Forester W. C. McCormick, chief of the Department of Conservation and Development's fire control division, said today.

Last month, 42 fires burned over a total of 2,147 acres for an average of 51 acres per fire. Average damage was $1,555 per acre. Figures for July, 1938, were 33 fires, 1,412 acres burned over, an average of 43 acres per fire and an average damage of $1,34 per acre.

"Although the July report isn't so bad," said Forester McCormick, "it does show that there is a distinct need for district and county wardens to keep constantly on their toes at all times. July, naturally, is not one of the really bad fire months, but we should remember that there are some every month and we should be on the lookout for them all the time."

Smokers, as is so often the case, were principal cause of forest fires, with 17 of last month's 42 ascribed to carelessness in throwing away cigarettes or putting out pipes, McCormick said.

Six fires were laid to lumbering operations, five to lightning, two to incendiaries, one to brush burning.
