

COURT ORDERS DISMISSAL OF PITT'S APPEAL

Court Rules Action Against Judgment Improper

FURTHER ACTION WILL BE TAKEN Motion To Set Aside Judgment To Be Laid Before Court Clerk

The appeal by the county from the consent judgment against former Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst, entered in January before the Clerk of Court, was dismissed by Judge R. Hunt Parker here this morning.

In dismissing the appeal, the judge declared that the action was improperly brought in that according to the records the judgment was in order and his court had no jurisdiction over such an appeal. He explained that the proper action for the county to take in the matter was the filing of a motion before the clerk that the judgment be set aside.

The matter in question was a judgment filed in January which stated that the Whitehurst matter had been compromised and settled satisfactorily and that with the exception of such court costs as were taxed by the clerk, Whitehurst and his sureties were relieved of any further obligation to the county. The judgment was approved and consented to by S. O. Worthington, county attorney, and Albin Dunn, David M. Willford and J. B. James, attorneys for Whitehurst and the bonding company.

Review of Case The Whitehurst case dates back for two years when the Board of County Commissioners, in the face of a court order, refused to perform the duties of his office and for failure to turn over to the county funds alleged to be due by him. After several delays the matter finally came to hearing before the court in May of last year, in the form of a consent judgment, and concluded for several weeks. In the midst of the hearing there was a recess for several days during which time the Democratic primary was held and in the primary Whitehurst was renominated for the office of sheriff by an overwhelming majority and all of the board of commissioners with the exception of D. T. House, who was without opposition, were defeated. The hearing was resumed following the primary and resulted in Whitehurst's retirement from office and the withdrawal of his name from the ticket as Democratic nominee for sheriff under a consent judgment. The judgment stated, however, that same did not prejudice either the claims of the county against the former sheriff or his rights in the matter.

Based upon audits, the board of commissioners then filed suit against Whitehurst and his bondsmen for sums totaling approximately $17,000 and employed F. C. Harding, then county attorney, and Jesse A. Jones, of Kinston, to prosecute the case. Upon entering office in December the newly elected board of commissioners employed S. O. Worthington as county attorney to replace Harding.

At the January meeting of the board, W. O. Jolly made a motion that a compromise of the Whitehurst case, prepared by Worthington, whereby the county would settle with Whitehurst for a sum slightly above $1,000. At the meeting there were only four members present and the final vote on the motion was two in the affirmative, one in the negative and one not voting.

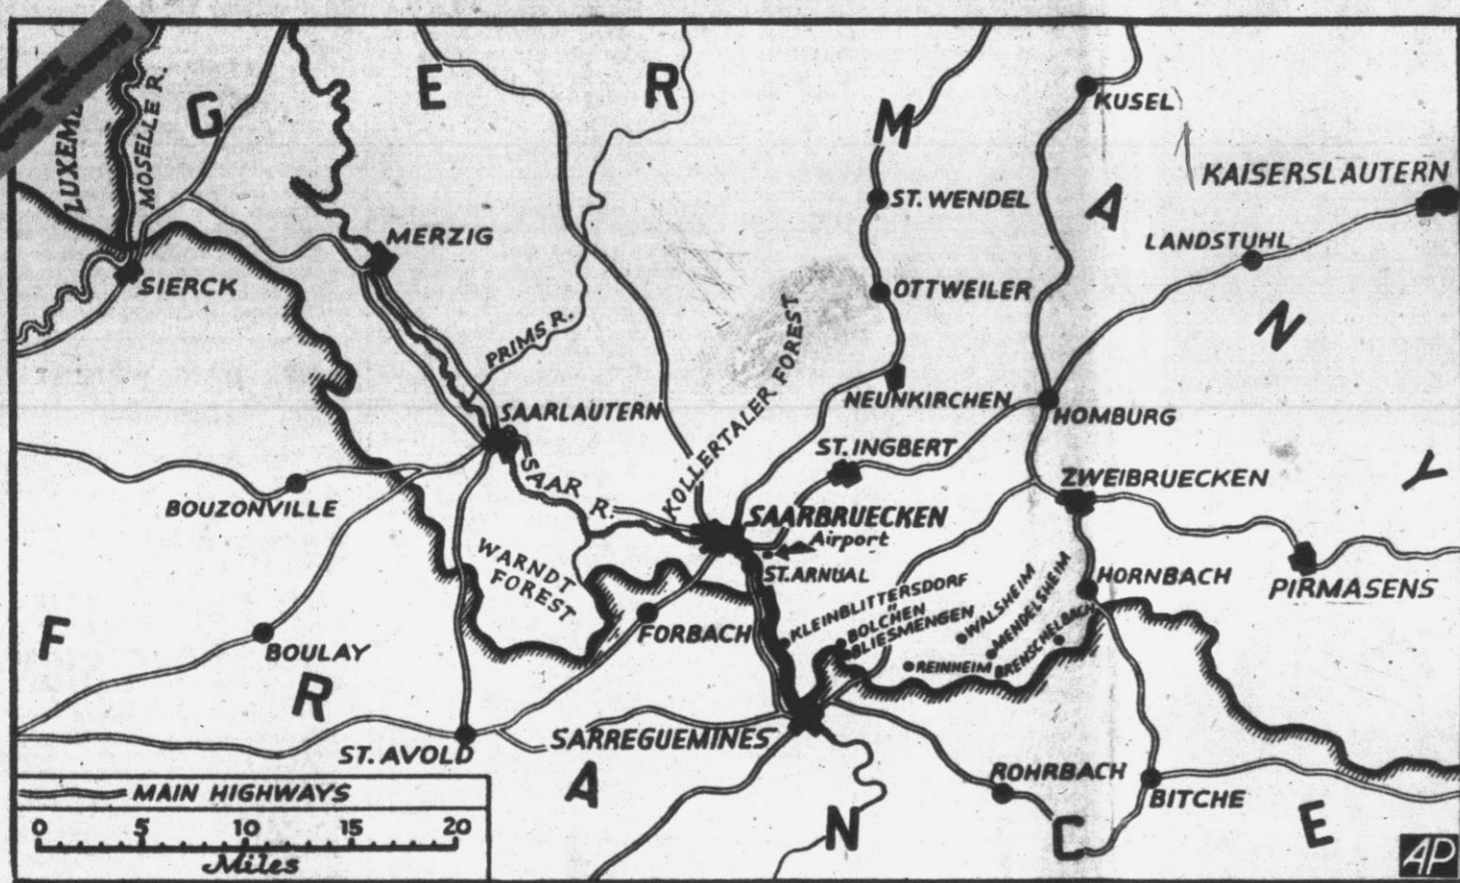

Acting on the assumption that the motion had carried because a majority of those voting had favored same, Worthington prepared the consent judgment now in question and filed same with the clerk of the county. However, that the motion had not carried because a majority of the board had not voted in favor of it, and it is upon this contention that the matter now rests.

When advised that the consent judgment had been entered with the clerk of court, Jesse A. Jones, one of the attorneys representing the county in the matter, filed notice of an appeal from the judgment.

At its meeting held the first Monday in this month, three members of the board, Jolly, Pittman and Porter, voted that Jones be dismissed as attorney representing the county in the matter and upon this action F. C. Harding, the other attorney employed in the case, likewise withdrew. At a special meeting last Monday, Porter made a motion that the action of the previous week be rescinded and House and Williams voted with him favoring the motion and Jones was notified to resume his actions in the case.

The appeal from the judgment was brought before Judge Parker this morning with the result that it (Continued on page 2)

Big Guns Again Make Noise Along Western Front

Things were far from quiet on the Western front as French attackers and German defenders struggled bitterly and bloodily for possession of the industrially important city of Saarbruecken, vital factor in the control of the rich Saar basin. French and German artillery made the earth tremble in a way reminiscent of the fiercest fighting during the World War. Reports said French tanks and armored cars already had gained the suburbs of the city, thereby hammering a wedge in the strongest point of the Siegfried line. Northwest of the city, near Luxembourg, French and German troops engaged in bayonet fighting. This map is a close-up of the northern flank of the Western front, scene of the terrific artillery duel. German fire was believed coming from the main Siegfried line positions seven miles behind Saarbruecken.

RAINS FALLING OVER POLAND

People Hope Weather Will Retard Nazi Advances

Budapest, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Heavy autumn rains for which all Poland has been praying to hamper Germany's motorized forces were reported today to have begun falling in the vicinity of Warsaw during the night.

A Warsaw correspondent of the Pestel Hirap wrote today that there was much rejoicing among the people of the besieged city.

A radio broadcast, the only source of news from the city, pictured scenes of death and desolation as prolonged bombardment by air and land forces continued unabated.

Most of the Polish government officials long since had fled the city. Eleven of them were reported last night to have crossed the southern Polish border into Rumania. One was identified as head of the Bank of Poland, another as the vice premier and finance minister.

Describing the situation in Warsaw in a broadcast from the capital city, Captain Polenski, of the Polish air forces, said the entire Prada district was in ruins and that many bodies, some of them women and children, lay in shell-scarred streets. Many were killed in churches where they sought safety. Others died in cemeteries where tombstones were smashed and bodies scattered about.

CONVICT THREE OF VIOLATIONS

Scrap Weed Law Investigators Pushing Drive

Three persons were convicted in Farmville city court today for violations of the state scrap tobacco act, but sentences, which ranged from two to six months, were suspended upon payment of costs and upon condition that the defendants refrain from engaging in future sales of scrap tobacco.

Lester McLawhorn of Ayden was given a 60-day road sentence, while Henry Sutton of Farmville and Simon Roberson of Wilson county were given sentences of six months, according to Deputy Commissioner J. B. Warren of the State Revenue Department, conducting investigations in the Farmville area. No arrests have been made in Greenville, but investigators have indicated they are gathering evidence preliminary to arrests. Arrests are pending against six more violators in the Farmville area.

Governor Urges Hasty Action on Neutrality

Favors Aid For Allies Against 'Ruthless Hitler'

Elon College, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Governor Clyde R. Hoey expressed hope today that Congress would quickly adopt the neutrality plan of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull so that the United States may sell supplies to the allies to aid them in fighting the "ruthless Hitler."

The President is speaking the language of peace and patriotism and North Carolina is standing squarely behind him in his efforts to preserve our peace," declared Governor Hoey.

"The nation and North Carolina both want peace, but we do not want to see Hitler win this war," said the governor. "If we do not want to fight we should be willing to sell our goods to those who are fighting the battle."

"It is safer to sell supplies than to send men, and if England and France can win this war, that is our best security for peace," he continued.

He explained that "To refuse to adopt a policy of selling supplies to nations that can buy and come for them would be to deny England and France the very necessary supplies Communistic Russia will furnish to Germany in an effort to destroy every vestige of freedom and liberty."

North Carolina's governor spoke at exercises commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Elon and congratulated the school on its distinctive public service and for the rich contributions it has made to Christian education.

Turning then to world affairs, the governor said he "thought safety and security of the United States and the well-being of the whole civilized world will be promoted by adopting the neutrality plan proposed by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull."

Mrs. Cicero Smith, 36, died at her home near Seaford in Greene county this morning at 10 o'clock after several weeks of serious illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the late home Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Spencer. Free Will Baptist minister of Ayden. Burial will be in the family cemetery plot. Mrs. Smith was born and reared near Ayden and had been living in Greene county for the last 10 years. Besides her husband, surviving are six sons, Elvin of Cannon's Crossroads, Harrell C., Robert Earl, J. E., Donald and an infant son, all of the home; two daughters, Alma Bell and Vivian Smith of the home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Williams of Cannon's Crossroads; two brothers, Larry Williams of Greene county and Lorrie Williams of New York; three sisters, Mrs. Essie Ray Styrton of Cannon's Crossroads, Mrs. Jim Simons of Bethel and Miss Mary Williams of Cannon's Crossroads.

WEED QUOTAS BEING STUDIED

Seen as Possible Aid For Reopening of Markets

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP) Market quotas which have-cured tobacco growers rejected this year came to the front today as a possible aid for reopening the tobacco markets closed because of withdrawal of foreign buyers.

Growers, warehousemen and business men from five-cured growing states went on record yesterday as favoring an early election on quotas for 1940 and the Agriculture Department, working on ways to re-open the market this year, announced plans are being laid for a vote on an early date.

Tobacco conferees from Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia proposed that the election be held between September 30 and October 7. Belief was expressed that a favorable vote on 1940 quotas would have a stimulating effect this year.

Markets were demoralized when British interests, which normally take about 250 million pounds, quit buying because of war conditions in Europe. Quotas will limit the amount of tobacco each grower could sell without paying a penalty and would insure a sharp curtailment in 1940 production, off-setting somewhat the record billion-pound crop grown this year.

The Agriculture Department also disclosed that it is working on some plan to dispose of the types of tobacco which the British would have bought had they continued on the markets. Government loans or purchase were suggested. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace suggested it might require a $50,000,000 federal fund to meet the situation.

Mrs. B. A. Beverly Of Bethel Dead

Mrs. B. A. Beverly, 77, died today at her home near Bethel. Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the late home by her pastor, the Rev. Milford M. Johnson of the Bethel Baptist Church, assisted by the Rev. J. P. Harris, former pastor of the church. Burial will be in the family cemetery plot.

Mrs. Beverly was a daughter of the late John and Bettie Nelson of Bethel. Surviving are her husband, B. A. Beverly; seven daughters, Mrs. J. C. Taylor, Mrs. C. M. Hurst and Mrs. W. T. Hurst of Robersonville; Mrs. W. R. L. Purvis, Mrs. W. H. Carson, Mrs. D. L. Baker, all of Bethel; and Mrs. Roland Whitehead of Hogbog; two sisters and one brother, Mrs. Spier Cochran and Mrs. Baker Womack of Bethel, and Dr. R. J. Nelson of Robersonville.

Regular Patrol Meet Held In City Today Highway Patrolmen of the Eastern Division met at division headquarters in Greenville today in a regular meeting. New recruits, who received training some time ago and who have been working in the Eastern Division for some time, were assigned to permanent stations here today. Forty-two patrolmen from all parts of East Carolina were on hand for the meeting held here today.

Poles Surrender Gdynia; Nazi Bombings Attacked

HOUSE IS TOLD OF NEW STEPS

Seek to Eradicate Merciless Civilian Killings

London, Sept. 14.—(AP) Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that if Germany bombed civilians in Poland, it would strengthen the resolve of Britain and the allies to "insure the menace we are now fighting is finally removed."

The prime minister reiterated his statement made yesterday by Lord Halifax that Britain would claim free hand and take appropriate action if Germany bombed civilians.

Referring to the official German statement that severe measures would be taken to crush civilian resistance in Poland, he said, "His Majesty's government has noted the announcement which, in the face of it, is a flat contradiction of the German chancellor's recent statement before the Reichstag that Germany disclaims any desire to make war on women and children."

"The restrictions, which we and the French have imposed on the operation of our own forces, were based on conditions of similar restraints being observed by our opponents and His Majesty's government must, of course, hold itself free if such restraint is not in fact, said Chamberlain, "to take such action as it deems appropriate. I wish to add that whatever be the length to which others may go, His Majesty's government will never resort to deliberate attacks upon women, children and other civilians for the purpose of terrorism."

Lord Halifax announced in the House of Lords that the German government had notified Great Britain it would observe for the duration of the war the prohibition concerning use of poisonous gases laid down in the Geneva protocol of June, 1925. He said, however, that Germany reserves whole liberty of action in case any enemy power infringed on the provision of the protocol.

CONEY ISLAND FIRE IS RAGING

Blaze Is Sweeping Famous Park Boardwalk

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A raging fire today swept along the boardwalk and through Steeplechase park, oldest amusement area of historic Coney Island.

The first alarm sounded at 1:30 p. m., and four more alarms sounded within the next quarter of an hour. Firemen said the flames started nearby the boardwalk entrance to the park which covers a square block in the resort. Virtually all the structures are wood and wooden buildings are scattered throughout the adjacent area.

The last big fire in Coney Island, about a dozen years ago, destroyed a big section of the boardwalk. Fire boats were dispatched from the Battery at the foot of Manhattan some 15 miles from the scene. Half an hour after the first alarm sounded the Western Union marine ticker said the park was enveloped in flames and apparently was destroyed. The report came from a marine observer at Sandy Hook, N. J., about nine miles across the entrance of New York harbor.

Sub Believed Sighted Off Canadian Coast

St. Johns, New Brunswick, Sept. 14.—(Canadian Press)—A radio warning to all shipping in the Bay of Fundy was sent out from Red Head wireless station today after fishermen reported they sighted a craft last night which they believed may have been a submarine.

Fishermen, among those organized into a voluntary watch along the New Brunswick coast, told Marine Agent H. F. Morrissey they had sighted a vessel low in the water that appeared to have two masts, two miles off Grand Manan island. The island is 50 miles southwest of St. Johns harbor.

PORT IS TAKEN IN LONG DRIVE

Cut Off Since European Hostilities Opened

Berlin, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Surrender of the Polish port of Gdynia after two weeks of siege was announced today and Germany's eastern army was reported to have made some new advances in drives against Warsaw and two other objectives.

A communique telling of the fall of Gdynia which had been cut off almost since the opening of hostilities September 1 said German troops entered the city at 10:15 a. m. The Polish commandant surrendered the city.

"North of Gdynia the fighting is still going on," the communique said. A communique which told of advances in Poland said 60,000 prisoners had been captured and showed the eastern forces to be centering on three main maneuvers:

- 1.—To encircle Lublin completely. 2.—Cutting off Lublin from Lwow to prevent such government officials as may still be at Lublin from reaching the south. 3.—Advance with East Prussian divisions on a place 110 miles east of Warsaw.

Earlier today a commentary which usually presents the German foreign office's opinion attributed to President Roosevelt's interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine an attitude as "unfair and uncharacteristic" to say nothing of being "unneutral."

Coincidental publication of German newspapers said that the world that German submarines would do their utmost legitimately to prevent food and war materials from reaching Britain and France.

Operations on the western front, it said: "Stronger French forces than hitherto, advanced against German outposts between Saarbruecken and Hornbach, but were stopped by mine fields and German defense fire."

U. S. Liner Assists In Tanker Rescue

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The U. S. liner Manhattan radioed it had turned from its course to rescue the crew of the British tanker "British Influence." No position was given for the tanker.

The British Influence, a ship of 8,431 tons gross, owned by the British Tanker Company, Inc., was in the India-England trade. Its home port is London. Commodore A. B. Randall, master of the Manhattan which left New York last Saturday, did not give further details in his first message nor did he say what had happened to the tanker.

The New York office said that by now the Manhattan should be about 300 miles off the Irish coast.

Winslow To Speak At Kiwanis Meet

J. E. Winslow, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, will be the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis Club to be held in the Woman's Club building Friday evening, September 15, at 6:45 o'clock.

B. B. Sugg, past president of the Kiwanis Club and chairman of the club's committee on agriculture, will be in charge of the program.

Winslow was requested to appear before the Kiwanis and express his views on the present emergency in the selling of the 1939 crop and plans for 1940. A report of the Washington conference, attended by Winslow and Sugg, will be made at the meeting.

WARNING SENT TO EUROPEANS

United States to Reserve International Rights

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The American government served notice today to warring nations today it reserved all rights of the United States and its nationals under international law, and will take appropriate steps when these rights are violated.

Secretary Hull issued a formal statement declaring, "The government of the United States has not abandoned any of its rights as a neutral under international law."

He detailed the various steps taken through American legislation, such as restriction of travel on belligerent vessels and loans and credits to belligerents, but said these restrictive measures cannot and do not constitute a modification of the principles of international law, but require nationals of the United States to forego, until Congress shall decide otherwise, the exercise of certain rights under those principles.

Other Washington developments: The European war, particularly submarine operations and the sinking of the liner Athena and various other ships, was described officially as influencing President Roosevelt to call for an early special session of Congress.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, expressed belief that such events were taken into consideration by the President when he called Congress to meet September 21.

The secretary said it was too early yet to say anything about what kind of message the President would place before the session or whether he would address it in person.

A trip to the West Coast which the President had hoped to make next month was becoming increasingly doubtful, Early said, adding, "With Congress here in session, I think it's all but out."

President Roosevelt decreed stringent regulations for aircraft flights over the Panama Canal zone. The executive order created the canal zone a "military air space reservation," which includes territorial waters within the three-mile limit at both entrances of the waterway.

The order barred all flights except those specifically authorized by civil aeronautic authorities of the State Department. It detailed routes which must be followed, and directed that cameras must be sealed, and that foreign planes must be escorted by canal zone garrison planes.

Heavy Damage Done In Cleveland Storm

Shelby, N. C., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A severe storm did thousands of dollars worth of damage in the eastern section of Cleveland county last night. About $2,500 damage was done at the Cleveland fair grounds, where the roof was blown from the grandstand into an adjoining highway. Repairs were begun today to put the grounds into shape for the opening of the 1939 fair late this month. Small buildings were flattened and unpecked cotton was damaged on scores of farms. Telephone and power lines were disrupted and trees were uprooted by wind which was accompanied by hard rain and lightning.

1940 PROGRAM PLANS MAPPED

Farmers to Know Details Before Planting Time

College Station, Raleigh, Sept. 13 —Farmers will know full details of the 1940 AAA Farm program in plenty of time to plan cropping operations before planting time, E. F. Floyd, AAA executive officer at State College, said today.

The provisions of the program, which has already been approved, follow closely those in effect this year, especially the parts dealing with agricultural conservation.

The wheat allotment of 62,000,000 acres, larger by 7,000,000 acres than the 1939 allotment, has been announced, and acreage goals for other major cash crops, together with rates of payment, will be established later in view of developing conditions.

The State College AAA executive officer explained that changes in the 1940 program recognize special conditions in certain areas and emphasize soil conservation on all farms the country over.

Thorough consideration was given to the present European situation and its possible effects on American agriculture when the 1940 program was drafted. The aim of the program, Floyd explained, is to maintain a production of farm commodities in this country which will balance with the demand and to maintain and improve the fertility of farm land.

An important provision which will encourage further soil conservation measures on small farms insures that as much as $20 may be earned on every farm participating in the program.

Another important conservation provision will encourage the planting of forest trees on farms by allowing farmers to earn up to $30 for tree planting, in addition to the regular soil-building allowance for the farm.

NYA TO HELP IN EMERGENCY

Authorizes Unlimited Number of Referrals

Raleigh, September 3. — Recognizing the emergency in Eastern North Carolina caused by the closing of the tobacco markets, the National Youth Administration yesterday authorized an "unlimited number of referrals" of young people from 18 to 25 to the work experience program of the NYA.

In a telegram to R. Hugh Evans, eastern district NYA supervisor in Kinston, John A. Lang, State Youth Administrator, stated: "Emergency tobacco conditions in East make NYA employment increase inevitable in your district. Bring NYA services to attention of county officers in affording needed relief. Unlimited number of referrals will be accepted."

Mr. Lang also informed Mrs. W. T. Bost, Commissioner of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, that the NYA was prepared to receive youth workers "as rapidly as they can be certified and referred by county welfare officers." He asked Mrs. Bost to call the attention of welfare officers "to the resources of the NYA in meeting the emergency needs of young people in eastern counties at this time."

The National Youth Administration provides part-time work and payment for young people in construction and non-construction public work programs and complements this work activity with a coordinated program of related training, designed to give the youth worker a better understanding of the job he is performing and the responsibilities of work.

Coons, already has pointed out. The million-dollar productions will disappear and in their places will come the small-budget pictures.

But we have an idea that ace producers, directors, writers and casts, working on limited funds, will try themselves and the result—and we will venture a ticket to the Radio City Music Hall on it if you are in a betting mood—will be better entertainment than you have had in a long time. Wasn't there something somewhere about necessity being the mother of somebody or other?

Mr. Bill Smith,
Advertising Representative,
The Daily Reflector,
Greenville, N. C.

Dear Bill:—

In Tuesday's Reflector I ran an advertisement announcing our formal opening after remodeling, to be held that night from 7:30' til 9:00 o'clock.

I am pleased to announce that during these 90 minutes well over 500 people visited and inspected our modern and complete plant. The results far surpassed our fondest expectations.

Using this one example as a gauge, I am forced to advise you that the Daily Reflector is by far the most effective means of advertising that has come to our attention during the several years that we have experienced successful operation.

Thanking you for the results proved and the assistance given, I am,

Very truly yours,
ROY L. TRIPP,
College View Cleaners.

To The Daily Reflector:

May I suggest through The Daily Reflector that those folk who sincerely desire to keep the United States out of the present European conflict write to their Representatives and Senators before the special session of Congress convenes and urge them to place an embargo not only upon arms but also upon all other war materials.

Such a program should go a long way toward the keeping of the United States out of the war. The last war proved that economic and commercial involvement leads to military participation.

Such an embargo would conserve our natural resources. From the national standpoint, to manufacture more of our natural resources into war materials than are needed for our own self-defense is a false policy.

We need all our coal, timber, iron, and oil to build up our own nation. We need most of our milk, fruits, and grains to feed our own people.

When the last novel of poverty has been abolished in this country, and the last streeturchin stomach properly filled, and proper clothes placed upon his back and shoes upon his feet, we shall have plenty of time to worry about the sale of our surplus, if any, to warring nations.

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL

YESTERDAY: George tells Buff Tim's story. Tim took over specimens from the land Iris wanted him to buy, but Iris had an opportunity to change the specimens before Tim could test them.

Chapter 10 A Girl Proposes

DINNER was early that evening for two reasons: Buff and Tim were faint with hunger, and George Weekes had to return to Boulder before nightfall.

"And even though the late lamented Atkins improved your road somewhat, I'd like a little light on my flying trapeze act," he told Buff.

He happened to be in the hall when the girl came downstairs, and he gave a low whistle when he saw her. For reasons best known to herself, she had changed into the one dressy frock she had at the ranch. Its material was chiffon, its color pale green, and its floating hem almost touched the floor.

Buff was transformed. Weekes told himself. He had seen her hitherto only in her favorite knitted suits, more often than not almost obliterated by one of Mrs. Webb's voluminous kitchen aprons. Also she had changed the style of her hair. The severe, the severely plain knot was loosened a trifle, allowing silky little waves and tendrils to escape; and to top it all, she had used a knowing bit of lipstick, and clasped a sparkling bracelet about a slender wrist.

"Help!" exclaimed the visitor. Buff extended a satin sandal toward the fire.

"Like the getup? It's to celebrate!"

"Celebrate?" Tim put the question from the doorway where he had halted at the sight of her.

"Celebrate. First the route—horse, foot and dragons—of the Hunts—appropriate figure of speech, don't you think?—second, a good meal which, oh, rapture! I didn't cook myself. Though perhaps in the interests of accuracy, I should say I didn't try to cook.

All in all, I thought the occasion warranted a bit of dressing up." She smoothed the folds of chiffon complacently.

"Gosh, I'd hate to see you when you really celebrated," George told her. "As it is, it's only the knowledge of my penniless condition that—" He halted abruptly, aware of the tightening of Tim's jaw.

It was a gala meal. Mrs. Webb apparently labored under the illusion that the three would have no opportunity to eat again for days, and supplied them with food accordingly. Buff was equally relieved by the departure of the Hunts and the restoration of the housekeeper to her proper duties. George gratefully seconded her effort at light-hearted badinage. Tim did his best to share their festive mood but Buff's eyes rested on him thoughtfully. Just so did her father look when life occasionally seemed too difficult for him.

George took his departure with effusive thanks and admonitions to his partner to stay on as long as Buff can put up with you.

"Which will be no longer than tomorrow," Tim said. They had returned to the fire. Buff curled upon a fat pillow on the floor. Tim occupying the hardest and straightest chair the room afforded. "No use telling George so. All he'd do would be to argue—" to quote the doctors, and so on.

"Well, but—but—you aren't really well, Tim? And if you go forward I find another foreman, that will leave Mrs. Webb and me alone here!"

He smiled. "May I point out (a) that you are a singularly fearless young person? And that (b) I'm not much of a protector to anyone but my present state?"

"Aha!" she said triumphantly. "You admit then that your present state isn't normal?"

"I admit nothing. I merely announce that the sooner I get back to work the better for everybody, myself included. You've been heavenly good to me," he continued, "and with no reason on earth except that it appears to come natural to you to help lame dogs over stiles. Will you accept my most earnest thanks and—goodbye?"

"Tell Me About It!"

"GOODBYE—tonight!" She rose to a kneeling position on her pillow and looked at him with startled eyes. "Why tonight?"

"I thought it would be easier all round if I left before you were up tomorrow," he explained. "Mrs. Webb will give me an early breakfast. George," he went on, "thought he was being mighty careful and discreet, but it happens that I know what took him back in such a hurry tonight. The poor guy's been doing two men's work while I loafed and moaned around here."

to him. I shall make it up to him," he said with quiet firmness. "Tim." The word came in the merest whisper. "We're both of us in—in a fix, do you realize that? How would it be if—if we joined forces?"

He turned a perplexed and frowning look upon her. "How do you mean—join forces?"

"I need someone to take care of. You need to be taken care of," she said simply.

"Both your premises are false, my dear. If you even if they were not, what could we do about it?"

"They're not false!" Stars of anger shone in her eyes. "I took a course in psychology—it lasted only four months because Lance had to go to England—or thought he had—but I had my textbooks and I kept on studying. I discovered that I'm definitely the maternal type." A flush rose in her cheeks, either from the heat of the fire or from embarrassment. Tim could not decide which. "I'll always need someone to take care of. And if you don't need to be looked after, you'll need to be looked after. You do—you will, for months. You have," she finished proudly, "a scar on your psyche."

"Great guns!" was his startled comment. "If that's the sort of thing you learned in your course, I'd have you drop them before I get without it. 'Scar on my psyche,' indeed! It sounds as if I'd had my appendix out, or had stopped a bullet!"

"You're simply betraying how little you know of psychology! I shall pay no attention to you any more than you would to me if I came in all excited over finding a bit of fool's gold in the mountains and declaring to you it was the real thing! Then seeing his expression change, she hurried on: "What matters—the thing that really counts—is that we should, as I remarked before, join forces."

"Meaning—?"

"Meaning marriage," she said, though this time the fire could not be held responsible for the bright color in her face.

A Woman's Privilege, Too

"BUFF, you're crazy! I think it's—you who have—what was it?—'Gosh! Marry you because I let woman fool me! Dump my troubles on a child? Ask you to—' 'Child! I'm twenty years old, Tim Corliss!"

"And I, my dear, will be twenty-seven in November!" "So what?" Buff demanded, striving to maintain her usual composure. She was remembering several conversations with her friends in which it had been decided that it was as much the woman's privilege to propose marriage as it was the man's.

"So you will advertise for another foreman—or didn't you say that Dr. Westland could get you somebody?—and will run along to Cairo or Chicago or wherever your parents are anxiously awaiting you; and I will hustle to Boulder and relieve old George. In a couple of months you will say—if someone should happen to mention the unlucky whig who put you to so much trouble here—'Let me see. What on earth was his name? Tim something or the other. A perfect nuisance, but I did my Boy Scout good deed for months to come because of him.'"

"You seem to have forgotten the letter I had from Eleanor—from my mother. They—they want to be alone for a few months; perhaps for a year. They'd be glad if I were—were married, or something!"

"Make it 'something' then," was his advice. "See here, Buff! I've never studied psychology but I seem to know more about its practical application than you do. It's plain that your father and mother want you to build up a life of your own for your sake, not for theirs. You're an odd sort of girl, did you know it? Modern to your finger tips in most things, but a regular old-fashioned daughter just the same. The kind that would forego matrimony and devote herself to the care of an invalid parent—of that sort of thing."

"But your father and mother are both perfectly healthy people, so far as I can make out; amply able to take care of themselves. So forget all this duty business, turn over the lead, and go in for something on your own."

"As for instance?"

"Well—dancing and—er—well, dancing Parties. New clothes. Isn't that what interests most girls?"

"None that I know. One of my friends lives in New York and has a good position in an advertising firm. Another is an interior decorator—"

He interrupted her wildly. "Whatever you decide on, promise me you won't interior decorate! Great Scott, the crimes that are committed under that head—especially by your sex! Seems to me their sole object is to make a room as hideous and uncomfortable as possible. Take this living room now—"

"What's the matter with it?" she asked belligerently.

"Nothing. That's what I'm getting at. Simple and restful. Nothing to be knocked over or off. Room for a man to stretch himself. Comfortable couch and chairs and a fireplace. My idea of what a room should be."

Just peace that would end war, he was handicapped at every turn because his country had been engaged on the victorious side in economic and military operations and was naturally regarded, therefore, by the defeated foes as partisan and insincere.

We can't expect to be umpires of the ball games we play. Neither can we be regarded as fair arbitrators at peace conferences that close wars in which we have been engaged. R. L. HILLDRUP, East Carolina Teachers College, Sept. 12th.

Washington Daybook

Washington.—The sugar hoarding that began in this country in the first week of the war is a sample of the sort of baseless frenzy that war can breed. There is plenty of sugar. A survey of resources available to this country indicates there is far more than we can consume. Potential production is far greater than during the World War. An untouched productive capacity has been beyond world needs ever since the World War. And yet—

Housewives in Portland, Maine, cleaned out store stocks in an excited effort to get a spare supply in their own hands. Washington, D. C. grocers jacked the price up about two cents a pound almost overnight. Wholesalers pleaded they could not get supplies from brokers or manufacturers.

A few factories, which had already sold out their annual quota under the sugar marketing act, yelled that the government was causing an artificial sugar shortage by preventing sale of the surplus. Back of it, of course, was the recollection that sugar prices rocketed to 25 cents a pound when we were in the World War.

NO REPEAT SHOW Department of Agriculture specialists insist there isn't the remotest chance of a repetition of this rise. They concede an increase over the low prices of recent years may be sustained for some time. Without other comment, however, they point out that the President has indicated he will act against profiteering.

And in the case of sugar he has already played an ace by suspending the sugar quota act. Because the price of sugar in the United States is higher than the world price, in spite of the war, sugar can pour in here by the shipload now that the bars are down. Here is the situation in a sugar-shell.

To stabilize the American market and protect the domestic industry from low-cost island production, a quota system was adopted in 1934. For 1939, United States consumption was estimated at 6,755,386 tons. Of this total, Puerto Rico was permitted to supply 806,642 tons. That would leave her with 300,000 tons of unsold surplus on hand and 300,000 tons left in the cane.

Hawaii was allowed to ship 948,218 tons here. The Philippine islands could ship 1,041,023 tons, but as the islands ship only the 800,000 tons which can come in duty free, there would have been a big surplus, as her production is above a million tons.

crisis. He has written the British ambassador at Washington to "appeal to you with the hope that you might find it possible to intercede with your government in returning to the American tobacco markets buyers representing the Imperial Tobacco Company, and that this company could in some way be persuaded to buy the usual amount of tobacco."

Incidentally the Lieutenant Governor distinguishes his case from those of other "unannounced" candidates for Governor. "They want to pick up a title," he said, "while all I want to do is to lose the first half of the one I've got."

"We cannot now have government by that embodiment of democracy, the town meeting in this complex age. Power must reside somewhere, after the democratic process has been exhausted as in the case at hand," contend counsel for the Board of Education of Vance county in defending its action in electing a principal of a school in Dabney township after a lengthy wrangle with the district school committee.

It's getting harder and harder for the gubernatorial candidates (unannounced) to compete with the European war and the tobacco crisis for headlines.

NOTICE OF SALE OF LAND UNDER DEED OF TRUST

By virtue of the power of sale and authority contained in a certain deed of trust executed by Levi Dixon, Lonnie Wilson and Jim Latham, Trustees of the United American Free Will Baptist Church of J. W. Rook, Trustee, dated the 18th day of February, 1937, and recorded in Book Y-21, page 421 of the Pitt County Registry; and default in the payment having been made as the payments are provided for in said deed of trust, and the owner of the note having requested the undersigned Trustee to sell said land, and a sale and re-sale having been made, and the bidder having failed to keep his bid, and the Court having ordered another sale; the undersigned will on Monday, the 9th day of October, 1939 at 12 o'clock, noon before the Court House door in Greenville, N. C., expose to public sale the following described tract of land:

Lying and being in Bethel Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows: Adjoining and being on the South side of the U. S. Highway No. 64 about two miles West of Bethel, N. C. and being described as follows: Adjoining the lands of Lizzie James and Newsom Worsley.

United States beet sugar producers have a quota of 1,566,719. Until 1938 they rarely filled it. They have consistently fallen nearly 200,000 tons short. Last year, however, they exceeded the quota by nearly 500,000 tons and will slightly exceed it again this year. That provides another source of surplus sugar.

United States cane sugar producers, with a quota of 424,727 tons, produced 580,000 tons last year and probably will exceed the quota this year. While the potential surpluses of other food supplies are not as great as that of sugar, nevertheless the Department of Agriculture found adequate or surplus supplies of 17 other major food sources—all within this country. And production could be increased in any group within a year.

However, the department expects that seeds of families will stop by the grocery to pack in a few more pounds of this and that—just in case. Figures won't upset a war scare.

SHORT SHOTS

Raleigh, Sept. 14.—While state game authorities and Federal Park Service men battle over the matter of shipping deer from North Carolina's Pisgah National Forest to other states, an epidemic has broken out among the deer population which may make the whole thing an academic argument.

Already at least a hundred deer have died of the disease which is called by the typographical terror of a name "hemorrhagic septicaemia."

Authorities are hopeful, however, that the coming of the first frost will check the spread of the epidemic before much further damage is done.

It isn't unprecedented—deer in Pisgah were afflicted the same way some fifteen years ago and again only about three years since.

Lieutenant Governor Wilkins Horton has joined in efforts to find a remedy for the present tobacco

HIGH GRIDDERS WORKING HARD

Playing Schedule Is Rapidly Approaching

Preparing for the most formidable schedule ever to face a Greenville football team, the high school gridmen are working hard and earnestly to be ready to go, by the last of September.

With two weeks of concentrated work in conditioning and fundamentals in weather most suitable for baseball, the players are beginning to reach the stage where they can endure the rough contact work. Blocking, charging and tackling are coming in for the lion's share of this week's doings.

It is a little too early to try to predict the outcome of the season, but Coach Farley is not shedding any tears. Last from last year's hard-charging line are Edgar Gibson, fast-stepping end; Wayland Tucker, fast and aggressive guard; Claude Hardy, strong and dependable tackle; and John Vincent, Kenneth Woolard and Leslie Babcock, who saw much action during the year. The backfield suffered only one major loss in the person of diminutive Ford McGowan, but was weakened by the graduation of several backs who gave plenty of service, namely, Billy Moore, John Lauter and St. Clair Webb.

While the reserve situation will doubtless give Coaches Farley and Filkerson plenty of anxious moments, the team can be put on the field that will have experience, power and versatility. Lettermen are available for every position, but capable replacements must be found before the team can cope successfully with the strong opposition that will be faced this season. Particularly is this true of the backfield. The four lettermen who were regulars last year are the only backs available who have earned a uniform before the present season. There are a few promising youngsters who are very young and inexperienced, who might come through and relieve the situation somewhat.

Lettermen slated to fill the line are Collins and James, ends; Carroll, Kittrell and Rogerson, tackles; Scott and Parrish, guards; Williams, center. Linebackers are J. B. Kittrell, George Tyndall, Marvin Stocks and George Sikes. The most prospective new men are Pace and Allen, line men; and Spearman, Musserwhite and the Brierly's in the backfield. Practice sessions are held daily at Third Street field, but the games will be played under lights at the Guy Smith stadium.

Rube Wilson Greenies' Big Fielding Chieftan

Fielding honors for the Greenies during the past season go to Skipper Rube Wilson who, during the current season took full charge of the first sack. Rube played in 122 games during the season, during which he had a total of 1,179 chances and made only 10 miscues for a percentage of .991. Following close on the heels of the Skipper was Whitey Heavener, centerfielder. Whitey had only 195 chances in the 36 games in which he participated, and made three errors for a percentage of .985. Vincent Smith was third in fielding honors handling a total of 667 chances, and made 13 miscues for a percentage of .981. Also, the Skipper took first place honors in participating in double plays. The number of times he actually handled the ball in double-play executions was 110, a league record. His running mates in this division were Red Christopher with 89, and Gracie Allen with 68. The following is the fielding averages of the entire Greenville baseball club for the past season, the averages being official from the records of Aubrey Shackell, league statistician.

It's Up To The Irish To Fight This Year

By EARL HILLIGAN
AP Feature Service
South Bend, Ind.—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame may need every bit of scrap they can muster this fall. Facing potentially the hardest schedule of recent years, the Notre Dame football squad must go through nine games without a single breather. But for all that, Coach Elmer Layden and his staff are optimistic over 1939 prospects.

THE "S" MEN—Halfbacks Sheridan, Stevenson, Saggau, and Quarterback Sitko.

The Irish open at home with Purdue—which will have a fast, speedy attack operating behind a good line—on September 30. Then, bang, bang, bang, come games with Georgia Tech, Southern Methodist, Navy at Cleveland, Carnegie Tech, Army at New York, Iowa, Northwestern and Southern California.

100 in No. 1 Squad
Layden had nearly 100 men out for the pre-school practices. He must develop replacements for the 16 returning lettermen. Graduation took all the first-string line but John Kelly, right end. The second-string line will move in almost intact to replace stars like Earl Brown, Ed Beiner and Ed Longhi.

In the backfield, Layden will have an experienced quartet. Steve Sitko, quarterback, Bob Saggau and Lou Zontini, halfbacks, and Fullback Joe Thesing will give the Irish power and speed on offense. Sheridan Back
Ben Sheridan, speedster sparkplug of the Irish attack in so many games last fall, will be available for use in scoring spots again while Harry Stevenson is an experienced passer and reliable punter. Sheridan and Stevenson, with Sitko and Saggau, make up Notre Dame's "S-Men" quartet.

Milt Piepul is slated for fullback duty. He came through often as the Irish won eight of nine games in 1938. "I really never know how good we'll be," Layden says. "Notre Dame teams always come up with a lot of fight when it's most needed, and I hope this 1939 team has it often. That schedule is enough to frighten anyone—but we'll have a ball club." Probably a pretty good one, too, Elmer, Notre Dame usually has.

UNC IS HAVING SINGLE DRILLS

Hour Is Approaching For Big Clash With Citadel

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 14.—Registration for classes has put an end to morning drills at North Carolina. Nevertheless, the Tar Heels will be limited to one practice a day, but Coach Ray Wolf will work them early and late afternoons. A scant 10 days remain to get ready for The Citadel and Wake Forest's highly touted Deacons come here in the second test, and the Tar Heels have lots of work left to do for both contests.

Although George Stirnweis, Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin, Jim Malloy, and some of the other standouts have been showing up well individually, and can be counted on to supply Carolina crowds their share of thrills, the team as a whole has been shaping up slowly, both offensively and defensively. The blocking yesterday was at best "sooty," and the team play still showed lots of flaws and rough spots. About even here the Tar Heels still have lots of work to do on their blocking and pass protection before they can hope for an aerial game.

Injuries to George Radman and Sid Sadoff have also thrown a crimp in the drilling of the first backfield unit. Although their injuries are not serious, they are enough to keep the two veterans out of the heavy work for a few days. And these are the days which count most in Coach Wolfe's efforts to develop a strong starting backfield and a good running attack to go with Carolina's passing game. Don Baker and Bill Little have been getting the call most often in Radman's place, and Harry Dunkle has taken over Sadoff's duties for the present. Although Baker is very speedy, being a sprinter on the track team, he and Little, who is also a reserve, have had little experience and Dunkle is just a sophomore.

Another Collector.
Bowling Green, Ky.—Miss Florence Marshall collects almost everything: Chewing gum wrappers, postmarks, powder boxes, lipstick tubes, stamps, place cards, banquet menus, rules of games, jokes, old songbooks and newspaper clippings about Gov. A. B. Chandler.

Contest Is Ready For Train Naming

New York, Sept. 14.—A contest seeking a name for the new streamlined train with which the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad and the Florida East Coast Railway will operate daily service between New York and Miami this winter, was announced today by these railroads.

Prizes of $650 were offered in the contest, with a first award of $300. Second prize will be $150, third prize $75, and 5 other awards of $5. The awards will be made on the basis of suitability of the name, together with the contestant's brief explanation of the name chosen by him.

The rules announced that the first prize would be awarded to the person submitting the best name, whether it is used for the train or not, together with the most appropriate reason for such a name. The second, third and other awards are to be made in the order of excellence, and may or may not be the same name as that used by the first prize winner.

The rules stated that all entries must be delivered or bear postmark prior to midnight October 10. The awards will be made by November 1.

The streamlined cars, of lightweight stainless steel construction are now being built in the Budd plant at Philadelphia. The 2,000-horsepower diesel locomotives are being built by the Electro-Motive Corporation, LaGrange, Ill. The train is expected to go into service about December 1 on a New York-Miami schedule of 25 hours, the fastest ever set up for that run.

More than five and a half million acres of North Carolina crop land have lost 25 per cent or more of their topsoil, says W. D. Lee, soil conservationist of the State College Extension Service.
