REVEAL PLANS TO BUILD UP ARMY TO FULL LIMIT

Service To Be Expanded To Full Time Quota

MASS TRAINING ORDERS GO OUT

Five Full Divisions to Be Taken to Fort Benning, Georgia, For Large-Scale Training

Washington, Oct. 7. (AP)—The War Department announced intention today to expand the army to its full peace-time limit of 280,000 men and at the same time ordered mass training this winter of seven new "streamline" divisions.

Five divisions, an additional unit comprising more than 65,000 troops, will be concentrated first at scattered Southern points and then at Fort Benning, Georgia, for large-scale training as an army corps.

Two cavalry divisions will be concentrated at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex. A formal announcement by President Roosevelt disclosed the plans call for converting the peace-time army into a fully prepared fighting force.

With addition of 53,000 more regular troops "when and if authorized" by Congress, the second combat corps of four additional "streamline" divisions will be created.

The army's present first division, now stationed at 10 different posts in the northeast, will start moving about October 25 to Fort Benning. Other divisions will move "in rapid succession" first to other posts in the south, then concentrating with the first and with special corps units at Fort Benning.

During the training of this combat corps of five divisions national guard and reserve officers of upper ranks will be taken to Fort Benning for training.

The initial concentration points for the second division will be Fort Sam Houston in Texas. Newly organized special corps troops will mass at Fort Bragg, N. C., Fort Knox, Ky., and Camp Ord, Calif.

Transfers Hearing To Superior Court

County Clerk J. Frank Harrington today announced he had transferred to Pitt Superior court a petition to strike certain paragraphs from a petition filed in behalf of the county and asking that the consent judgment in the S. A. Whitehurst case be set aside.

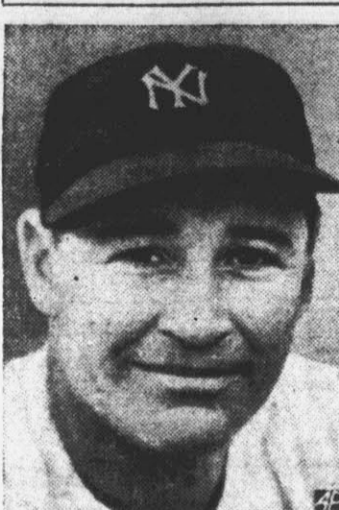

The petition itself was filed by Jesse Jones and Harding and Lee, attorneys for the county, and asks that the consent judgment filed last January which compromised the case for approximately $1,000 be set aside. The county contends that the former officer and his sureties are indebted to the county in the sum of approximately $17,000.

Subsequently a motion to strike was filed by J. B. James and Albion Dunn, attorneys for Mr. Whitehurst and his sureties contending that several paragraphs in the petition were irrelevant to the cause itself and asking that they be eliminated from the petition. "I treated the motion to strike as a practical demurrer to the petition and since I do not have jurisdiction to pass on demurrers, I have transferred the question directly to the Superior court," declared Judge Harrington.

He said the question probably would come up at the civil term beginning here October 23.

IRVING "BUMP" HADLEY The hurling for the New York Yankees was taken over by "Bump" Hadley at the start of the second inning in today's series game and after allowing two tallies in that frame, he held the Reds in check to win the third straight game for the Yanks.

PITTMAN AIRS VIEW ON PEACE

Says Efforts Abroad Necessary for FDR Intervention

Washington, Oct. 7. (AP)—Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), an administration leader on foreign affairs, today expressed the view that any peace move by President Roosevelt would have to be preceded by clear evidence that Europe's warring nations themselves "already had made efforts toward peace."

Although he said he had not conferred with the chief executive, Pittman added that he believed that if, under such circumstances, it appeared his ideas might be accepted, Mr. Roosevelt would not "hesitate to make any appropriate suggestions."

The President, now at his Hyde Park estate for a week-end of rest, maintained silence on the possibility of his offering his good offices for peace which was raised yesterday for the first time since the war started by German authoritative interpretations of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech.

Finland Building Up Its National Defense

Copenhagen, Oct. 7. (AP)—The Finnish Defense Ministry announced today it had called some reserve divisions to the colors "to strengthen the national neutrality" while the cabinet pondered a Russian invitation to send a special envoy to Moscow to discuss political and economic matters.

Visits of such envoys from Estonia and Latvia have resulted in concessions by those small states, greatly increasing Russian power around the Baltic.

The Defense Ministry's announcement said some of the additional troops might be used to build fortifications.

Hitler Proposes Peace Parley

Outstretched hands of Reichstag members saluted Adolf Hitler when he arose to deliver his address at Berlin in which he proposed a "laying down of arms" in Europe through a broad conference designed to bring about disarmament and new economic treaties. This radiophoto shows Hitler standing in the center of the rostrum beneath Field Marshal Goering, who presided over the extraordinary session of the Reichstag.

BLAST WRECKS HOME OF COUNTY SHERIFF

Bakersville, N. C., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Two terrific explosions within a few minutes of each other partly destroyed early today the homes of Sheriff Jeff Woody of Mitchell county and his father, N. B. Woody. No one was injured.

The sheriff and the other members of his family who miraculously escaped death could give no reason for the act. "I was awakened at 2:15 this morning by a terrific explosion," the sheriff said. "I rushed out of the house and saw my father's house across the road badly damaged.

After finding no one was injured I rushed back to my house in the feeling that it might be dynamited too. Within half a minute after my wife, son and other occupants of my home had rushed out another explosion split the air and half of my house fell in ruins. All probably would have been killed because we were sleeping on the side of the building that was destroyed.

Woody is the first democratic sheriff in the republican stronghold in Mitchell county in more than half a century.

RUSSIA SEEKS FINNISH PACT

Suggest Delegate Be Sent to Moscow For Talks

Helsinki, Finland, Oct. 7. (AP)—The Foreign Ministry announced today that the Russian government had suggested that Finland send a delegate to Moscow to discuss political and economic matters of mutual concern.

The Finnish government has not yet acted on the invitation. However, Finland's minister to Moscow is presently conferring with Soviet officials concerning a trade agreement.

Commerce between Finland and Russia has been very small since Finland obtained their independence in 1917, but the Finns have talked of a Russian trade agreement for years.

Early this year a special Finnish trade delegation visited Moscow seeking a trade agreement, but was unsuccessful because Moscow introduced extraneous questions such as the status of certain Finnish islands.

Senate Observes "Truce of Rest"

Washington, Oct. 7. (AP)—The Senate declared a "truce for rest" in its battle over the neutrality revision bill today.

Administration forces claimed additional votes for the repeal of the arms embargo and both sides prepared for a first test of strength Tuesday.

Although some Senators were scheduled even to carry on the battle over the radio during the week-end, most of them were weary of listening to thousands of words' worth of war and were glad to obtain a two-day rest.

Administration supporters said that with the anticipated arrival here Tuesday of Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky to take the seat of the late Sen. Logan, (D-NY) they would have 65 votes for the bill to lift the arms embargo and establish a "90-day credit and carry" system of handling all exports to belligerents.

They gave the opposition only 27 votes on their poll list and put question marks beside two of these. They listed only Senators Reynolds (D-N. C.), Gillette (D-Iowa), Gerry (D-R. I.) and Davis (R-Pa.) as doubtful.

The opposition disputed these claims, saying they had definite pledges against the bill of 32 to 34 senators. They predicted they could muster much greater strength for a substitute measure retaining the embargo on arms shipments and providing a strict "cash and carry" policy as to other goods sold the warring nations.

Levies Harvested By Local Stores

Greenville has an estimated 862 "unofficial tax collectors" who indirectly are helping local, state and national governments harvest their annual revenues, the National Consumers Tax Commission declared today.

The unofficial, and generally unwilling, "tax collectors," according to the NCTC are the proprietors and employees in the 178 local retail stores.

There are 2,008 official levying and spending governmental agencies in North Carolina," said Mrs. Melville Mucklesome, president of the nation-wide women's organization. "But every clerk behind a store counter is actually a tax collector, too."

"In every sale, these clerks collect fractions of hidden taxes that have increased the cost of production and distribution of the article purchased. These taxes, of necessity, must be passed on to the consumer as a part of the price. A major share of all local, state and national taxes now are hidden to the consumers who pay them this way."

"However, retail merchants should not be blamed. No business could possibly survive today if it attempted to absorb the multitude of taxes to which it is subject. In consequence, every ring of the register represents not only a sale but a tax payment."

The NCTC now has study groups in approximately 5,100 communities in 45 states in its educational campaign to expose "unnecessary consumer-penalizing taxes." Mrs. Mucklesome said. The crusade in this state is led by Mrs. William T. Harnham of Waynesville, state director and Mrs. J. Talbot Johnson, of Aberdeen, national committee member.

Two guards were taking the 29-year-old prisoner from an Atlanta hospital to the Umatilla county prison at Reidsville, 200 miles distant. Accompanying them was his wife, 23, and his mother, socially prominent Mrs. Worth E. Yankee.

Truth About China

Babson Says Chinese Incident May Be A Boon To Orient

Shanghai, China, Oct. 7. (AP)—I do not blame the Japanese for wanting to develop China. Their mistake is in the method they are using. The Japanese are strong on military strategy but they are weak on diplomatic psychology. They fail to realize that the world is ruled by feelings—rather than by figures.

Perhaps the blame for the present unfortunate situation belongs to the Americans and English for not taking a hand when Secretary Stimson urged such action ten years ago. That, however, is now water over the dam.

No event in history compares with the great evacuation and migration of the people of northwestern China during the past two years. Think of it! From 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 people have deserted their homes, packed their few clothes and belongings in push carts, and moved from 500 to 1,500 miles inland. The few rich went by planes; the mid-

Presbyterians Plan Chapel. Some weeks ago the active group of men in the Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church asked for some service project that would challenge them. A committee was appointed to suggest one. The result was a survey of the section across Tar river on Bethel highway near Fleming's crossroads. The community was surveyed and some three hundred persons were found ready to cooperate in a Sunday school and attend preaching services if conducted by the Presbyterians.

The interest grew. A lot was given by Flanagan-Warren Investment Corp. and another committee was appointed to have plans drawn for a chapel. In the meantime, Dr. R. S. Boyd, assisted by men of the Bible class, preached at open-air services for the past four months when as many as seventy-five persons attended. Interest is still growing, both in the community and in the Bible class.

At a supper and official gathering of some thirty-five members of the class last Friday night, plans were approved for a chapel to be known as "Meadowbrook Chapel." During the past week several men have been soliciting funds with which to erect the chapel; and it was reported that sufficient progress had been made to authorize the building committee to proceed at once to the erection of the edifice. Final bids will be submitted early this week and the work will soon be started. Additional funds are being solicited and it is hoped that it may be erected free of debt. Services will be held on the lot each Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. All friends are invited.

University Alumnae Meet. The Pitt County Alumnae of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina met in the high school library on Thursday night, October 5. This meeting was in celebration of the 47th anniversary of the founding of the college. The meeting opened with the singing of the college song and "Carolina." The president, Mrs. C. C. Hilton, then read letters from Dr. Graham Dr. Jackson and the alumnae president. There followed a brief program of "Campus Echoes" which gave interesting facts about the college today.

The new officers for the coming year were elected. Miss Eva Hodges succeeds Mrs. C. C. Hilton as president, and Miss Louise Dalton succeeds Mrs. Luther Herring as secretary. Mrs. C. A. Bowen was elected treasurer.

Plans for a February meeting and for making Woman's College more interesting to local high school seniors were discussed. -Reported.

Y. W. C. A. Vesper Services. The speaker at the Y. W. C. A. vesper service Friday evening was Miss Lois Grigsby of the English department. She chose as her topic "On Being Called." Her first illustration was the story from Isaiah whom God actually called, and who answered and dedicated his life to God. Others whom she mentioned were Samuel, Saul, of Biblical times; and E. Stanley Jones, and later Kagawa of today. These she said were definitely called to spiritual service, and that is what we think of when we hear the words, "Being Called." There are many of us who never hear a voice calling us to the pulpit or the mission field, she said; but every one of us is called in some way, whether he responds or not, to help set up a better social order and so help bring the kingdom of God on earth. The speaker discussed four ways people may be called. We may be called through a desire to follow an ideal, as was Eugene Debs when he stood for peace during the first World war. Then, we are called through our admiration, as Stanley was induced to follow in the steps of Livingston.

Also, when people are affected by human needs around them and feel the wish to help, they are answering a "call." She used for example here Jane Adams. Later she discussed the called that comes through the gifts God has given every individual. Each of us should accept her call and do her best to answer it.

U. D. C. Meets. The George B. Singletary chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy was delightfully entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. F. C. Harding and Mrs. Richard Williams at the home of the former. The treasurer's report showed a nice balance after all obligations had been met. Among many funds contributed by the Daughters the special nurse fund for the Old Ladies' Home at Fayetteville is always considered a privilege. Two beds are kept at Sanatorium, and the Jefferson Davis scholarship. This scholarship is worth two hundred dollars, is competitive and open to any high school senior in the state.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. J. H. Randolph were elected delegates to the state convention at Asheville, October 10th, and Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. J. L. Fleming delegates to the general convention at Charleston S. C. in November. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. R. C. Deal, president; Mrs. J. L. Fleming, first vice president; Mrs. E. W. Harvey, second vice president; Mrs. E. L. Willard, secretary; Mrs. T. Hollingsworth, treasurer; Mrs. F. C. Harding, historian; Mrs. S. T. White, registrar; Mrs. J. H. Randolph, custodian of crosses; Mrs. T. A. Person, reporter. Ms. J. C. Wooten gave a most interesting program centering around Wilmington personalities of the sixties. Wilmington is rich in historical background and not only the Cape Fear section, but the whole state should and does take a just pride in. Another special guest adding pleasure to the occasion was Mrs. J. W. Kirkpatrick. Miss Mary Harding assisted the hostesses in serving a sweet course.

First Presbyterian Church. It's Rally Day at the church school Sunday morning at 9:45. All former pupils enrolled and new members are invited to be present. A short "Rally Day" program will be rendered at the opening of the school, assembled in the church auditorium. Both children and adults will have part on this program which promises to be interesting. The goal for attendance Sunday is 225. Both young men and young women of the college are urged to be present. Miss Sarah Dudley Whitmore will teach the girls and Capt. T. K. Fountain the boys. Mrs. Davis of Moody Church, Chicago, Ill., the mother of Mr. W. R. Davis of Davis Hosery ly returned from a tour of England, Scotland and Ireland, and the folks at the luncheon had the glad hand out. Gene had his hand out, too, to all the folks.

The place was crowded with a bus-load of tourists, and more than once as we ate and talked one of them would come forward with an autograph book. Gene had his pen going, and his smile, even before they'd asked him to sign.

"Glad to do it!" he said to all. We ordered the house specialty, the Gene Autry Cowboy Sandwich. Filet, shoestring potatoes, French-fried onions, broiled tomato. Gene said he didn't think it up; the house did, and named it after him.

Gene said he had a great time in the British Isles, and incidentally picked up the rights to a new song, "South of the Border," for use in a picture. Gene likes to use song titles for his pictures, and this one he thinks especially good. The English lads who wrote it have never seen Mexico, or north of the border for that matter, but it's still a good song, said Gene. Gene is making a couple more westerns before he goes into "Jumbo" with Jane Withers at 20th Century—first picture he'll have made away from Republic. He thinks Jane is a swell little kid. He thinks the old Will Rogers film story will be something different—they're going to make the hero a cowboy as he was in the first Rogers (silent) version.

Outside the bus-load of tourists is gathered in force. They have books and cameras out. They don't gang him; they do it politely, and Gene is as usual, "glad to do it." He's glad, too, to turn around and grin for the touring cameras, and to let the folks know when they ask him, that his next picture is "Rovin' Tumbleweeds." "Oh, we'll wait for it," leans one tourist, "but then we never miss any of 'em."

Gene's costume was comparatively mild, at that. It was the wildest I'd ever seen, but he said it was just a run-of-the-mill outfit. Tenggallon hat of course, and red leather boots, and a quiet plaid shirt, white with stripes; a handkerchief, low tie, white with red and green design; and a suit of bright orange. "People expect a cowboy to dress this way, that's all," said Gene. "They'd be disappointed if I didn't."

Local Phantoms Score 20-0 Victory Over Ayden Stars

2ND TRIUMPH OF THIS YEAR

George Sakas Gets Off Beautiful Runs to Feature

George Sakas featured for Greenville high under the arcs last night as the locals blanked Ayden high school 20-0 in their second consecutive triumph of the current season.

Sakas started the exciting scoring party with an 85-yard sprint in the first drive of the opening period and made another brilliant 40-yard dash in the same quarter for the second touchdown.

Marvin Stocks, who place-kicked the extra points in the first quarter, got on the big end of a score late in the third quarter when he made a five-yard dash through the line. Sakas carried the ball from the 25-yard stripe to the 20-yard marker.

Coach Bo Farley sent his second string in the game before play was concluded. Ayden fought doggedly, but was completely outclassed by the well-tutored Greenville griders.

Offensive stars for Greenville were Sakas, Stocks, J. R. Kittrell and George Tyndall. Warren Parrish, Russell Ross, Earl Kittrell, Charles Williams, John Collins, Paul Scott were the starting linemen.

Tripp and Kinlaw played best for Ayden.

American League Aces Dominate Graham's All-Star Team

Rookie Williams' Hitting Wins Him Right Field Berth

By DILLON GRAHAM

Sports Editor AP Feature Service

New York — There are only two easy jobs in choosing an All-Star baseball team scribbling Joe DiMaggio and Bucky Walters on your ballot.

Then the sniping begins from all sides.

Any sports writer who dares to name a team of aces can probably ward off any objections to Bill Dickey's selection but the arguments will come thick and fast as the other stars are nominated.

But to daily no longer, here is our idea of the 1939 major league All-Star personnel: First base, Jimmy Fox; Boston Red Sox. Second base, Joe Gordon; New York Yankees. Shortstop, Joe Cronin; Boston Red Sox. Third base, Robert (Red) Rolfe; Yankees. Left field, Joe Medwick; St. Louis Cardinals. Center field, Joe DiMaggio; Yankees. Right field, Ted Williams; Boston Red Sox. Catcher, Bill Dickey; Yankees. Pitchers, Bucky Walters and Paul Deringer; Cincinnati Reds; Bob Feller; Cleveland Indians; and Charles (Red) Ruffing; Yankees.

This is Why.

Here are the reasons.

First base: Fox is one of the marvels of the age. When most veterans are beginning to cool off, Fox still is at his peak. He won the batting championship in 1938 and was runner-up to DiMaggio this season with a .358 figure. He was out the last few weeks of the season because of an appendectomy. Johnny Mize, a wheel-horse of the mercenary St. Louis Cardinals, is serious consideration because he was National league batting champion. However, his average .349, isn't as good as Fox's, and in a full season he drove in only four more runs than Fox's 105 in an abbreviated campaign. Fox is a better defensive player. These two get the edge over such other aces as Frank McCormick of the Reds, George McQuinn of the Browns, Hal Trosky of the Indians, Hank Greenberg of the Tigers and Dolph Camilli of the Dodgers.

Second base: In our book, Gordon is a bit better than Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox. Charles Gehring of the Tigers, Linus Frye of the Reds, and the others. He can cover more ground than most of them and come up with impressive plays. Both Doerr and Gehring have outlived him, but Gordon has driven in far more runs.

Shortstop: It's a duel between Joe Cronin, Luke Appling of the White Sox, Jimmy Brown of the Cardinals, and Frank Crosetti of the Yankees. Cronin gets the nomination chiefly because he carries the heaviest bat and is a fighter all down the line. He won't cover ground with the others. Weak hitting removes Crosetti.

Third base: Rolfe is at his peak this year and has a slight margin over Ken Keltner of the Indians. Rolfe led his league in runs hits and doubles.

Left field: This spot gave us our toughest problem and, in a sort of flip-the-coin decision, we picked Medwick over that grand Philadelphia Athletics veteran, Bob Johnson. Big Bob had his best season with an average of .338 and with 110 runs batted in. Medwick, whose bat helped keep St. Louis in the National league race right down the stretch, hit 333 and knocked in 115 runs.

Center field: There was no argument — DiMaggio.

Right field: There were several crack right fielders, some better defensive men than Williams, but a man, even a rookie, who leads both leagues in the important runs-batted-in column can't be left off an All-Star team. Williams hit 327 and knocked in 142 runs.

Catcher: Dickey batted in more runs than any other catcher hit 393 and was perhaps the best hander of pitchers among the backstops.

Pitchers: Walters turned in the best National league record since Diz Dean's helmed with the Cards. He won 27, while losing 10. He was more responsible than any other one player in Cincinnati's winning the National league flag. His partner, Derringer, won 25 and lost 7. Paul, with a victory string of 10 straight during the late weeks of a hot campaign, was just as dependable as Walters. Feller, the boy wonder of three years ago, finally reached his peak. He won 24 games and lost 9. And for the fourth straight year Red Ruffing won more than 20 games for the Yankees. His mark was 21 and 7.

PLAN DISPLAY OF HOWITZERS

Caissons Will Roll Along to State Fair

Raleigh, Oct. 6 — Fort Bragg's representation at the State Fair here next week will give thousands of North Carolinians a chance to see what these "howitzers" they talk so much about in the war news look like.

For the caissons are going to roll along to the ground and bring Battery E, 17th Field Artillery and its 155 millimeter howitzers for all and sundry to inspect at their pleasure and leisure.

According to word from First Lieutenant Paul Clark, Public Relations officer at Fort Bragg, the battery will proceed from Fort Bragg to Raleigh on Oct. 9th for the purpose of establishing and operating an exhibit in Field Artillery material and equipment in the State Fair at that city during the period October 15-14.

The battery is classed as medium artillery and is equipped with 155 millimeter howitzers (roughly equivalent to six-inch field guns). The full equipment of this type battery will be on hand for display.

Captain John D. Salmon will be in command of the battery and he will deal directly with Manager J. S. Dorton of the Fair in cooperating to make the exhibit as easily accessible as possible. Adequate personnel of the battery will be present with the exhibit during hours when the Fair is in progress to explain to the public the various items of equipment on display.

While in Raleigh the personnel will be quartered and messed at the Army of the Service Company, 120th Infantry, North Carolina National Guard.

Makes Perfect Score On Enlistment Test

William Burgess Whitehurst of Bethel made a grade of 100 on the mental test given as a prerequisite to his enlistment in the U. S. Navy in Raleigh Thursday. It has been announced by A. S. Joyner, Jr., recruiting officer for that district.

Mr. Joyner said that he could remember only two previous instances where an applicant had made a perfect score on mental tests.

Whitehurst, 20, is a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson Whitehurst, Jr., of Bethel.

MORRISON ONE OF OLD TIMERS

Most Officials of Regime Now Out Of Picture

Reflector Bureau.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 6—Celebration of the seventieth birthday of tobacco chewing Cameron Morrison at Charlotte yesterday recalled two particular items which probably would otherwise escape public notice.

First—Morrison is one of ten men in the history of North Carolina who served his state both as governor and as a United States senator.

Second—Of all the high ranking state officials of the Morrison gubernatorial regime, not one is now holding the same position as when Morrison went into office in 1921, and only one administrative official (Allen J. Maxwell) remains much in the public prints.

Taking up the second item first, for no particular reason here's a look at the official personnel of the Morrison administration as revealed in the North Carolina Manual of 1921.

Secretary of State: Bryan Grimes, of Washington was the incumbent in January, 1921. He died in 1923 and was succeeded by W. N. Everett of Rockingham, a Morrison appointee. Everett died in 1928.

Treasurer: Benjamin R. Lacy served throughout the Morrison administration, but died in 1929.

Auditor: Baxter Durham was in this office through the Morrison term, but was defeated in 1936 by George Ross Dou Durham is now holder of a federal job.

Superintendent of Public Instruction: Dr. E. C. Brooks began the Morrison regime, but was appointed President of State college in 1923. He has since died. Dr. Arch T. Allen who was named the Brooks successor died in 1934.

Attorney General: James S. Manning of Raleigh was in office all the time Morrison was governor. He died just last year.

Commissioner of Agriculture: Will A. Graham of Lincoln county was in office in 1921, but died in December, 1923. Morrison appointed Will A. Graham of Lincoln county his successor, naming the son to follow the father. The second Graham was beaten by Kerr Scott in 1936, and is now state senator from Lincoln county.

Commissioner of Labor: Mitchell Lee Shipman went through the Morrison administration, but was beaten in 1924 by Franklin D. Grist.

Insurance Commissioner: Stacey Wade served on to 1932 when he was elected secretary of state. He was in turn defeated in 1936 by Thad Eure and is now a federal social security official.

Commissioner of Revenue: A. D. Watts started, but resigned and was succeeded by Rufus A. Doughton.

Highway Commission Chairman: Frank Page, now deceased, was appointed by Morrison as one of the first steps in his good roads pro-

Tar Heel Mothers Strive For Peace

Chapel Hill, Oct. 5—Calling upon the women in the United States "to band together in this time of national emergency and express to their government their earnest desire for peace," an organization called "Mothers for Peace" has been formed in Chapel Hill.

The organization has "no dues, no political aims, no affiliations" and its sponsors express the hope it may grow into a nation-wide movement. Its initial efforts they say, have met with a cordial response in this vicinity.

Mrs. Mary deB. Graves is chairman of the group. Mrs. D. H. Buchanan is secretary, and Mrs. A. M. Jordan is program chairman. They have issued the following statement:

"There must be no more Gold Star Mothers in America. There will not if the women of America will join hands now in a united front for peace.

"The attitude so prevalent among the people, that our entrance into Europe's war is inevitable, is poisonous. It has its origin in fatalism and inertia, not in knowledge of the true conditions. The heart-breaking disillusionment following our part in the last war should never be forgotten. In those costly years planted the seeds which have since grown into a harvest of hate and misunderstanding. If we want to save our national integrity, if we value the lives of our men, as they value their own lives, we must prove it by making every possible effort to keep them at home.

"We therefore call upon all wom-

Marketing of the new crop of peanuts is expected to begin in eastern North Carolina by October 20, report county agents of the State College Extension service.

Washington Daybook
By Preston Green

Washington—It sounds funny to hear reputable military scholars talk about Hitler and maneuvering in terms of the psychological effect
they will have on one lone man
well removed from the battle-front,
but that is the sort of talk most current in informed spots in Washington.

"Hitler is a mystic," we are told.
"He has had phenomenal success with his guesses as to what will happen in Germany and what will not. He has consistently outguessed his generals. He has convinced a large part of the German population that he is infallible. Also he has convinced himself, and that makes him vulnerable."

That is a composite quotation from several sources. It represents what certain skilled observers believe to be the basis of French-British strategy. Constant pressure of the blockade, of propaganda
among the German population, of fighting on "German soil" on the west front—these and other factors are looked upon as likely to press Hitler into some decision which may turn out badly. The "myth" of infallibility will be shattered. Then might come a reshaping of German policy and an early end of the war.

Right
The thing sounds almost too slick
but there is a substantial tracery
of fact running through it.
It is generally accepted that Hitler
moved into the demilitarized Rhineland four years ago in violation of the advice of his army executives. They thought France would fight. They were wrong. Hitler was right.

The same thing happened in Austria. The generals were wrong again.
Neville Henderson, British Ambassador to Germany, stated in his report of conversations with Hitler
that when General Goering, No. 2
Nazi, was surprised and dismayed at the sudden move to spring into the rest of Czechoslovakia. Goering and the generals were wrong.
Nobody made a fight about it.
Hitler was right again about the speedy success of the drive through Poland. Again, reports here indicate some of his generals had been mistaken.

Keep It Up
Now informed sources have it that there is real conflict once more between Hitler and some of his generals as to whether a drive against France should be launched in event
no peace comes at the end of the Polish conquest. Strategists here say Hitler is not better than Germany to try a break through Belgium.
If such a drive were successful even in the beginning it might give Italy and Russia the incentive they need to come in with Germany for the final kill. In that event, Hitler would be right again and the generals all around would be wrong,
both in Germany and in the camps
of his enemies.
But if things went wrong on the western front a collapse of the "myth of infallibility" could bring on a quick end to the war.
The whole thing is tenuous but this is a very tenuous war. Even though the troops are arrayed in battle line, it still is a "war of nerves."

Together

"Ain't it the truth?" Webby asked, as if she had read his thought. "That's one who'll get the cream every time while her betters have to take skim milk. Miss Buff sure made a mistake when she hung Iris around her neck. Like as not, she'll be wiring again that she don't like Chicago."

"I hope she does," the young man said through set teeth. "I only hope she does!" He took Webby by her fat shoulders and spoke determinately. "From now on—or at least until Mr. Carroll comes—I'm looking after Miss Buff, understand?
You're to bring me all telegrams—or faxgrams, or the telephone when it's flat. She's not to be bothered with anything, least of all Miss De-Muth. Do I make myself plain, Webby?"

"You sure do," the housekeeper
agreed; and added, with a sidelong glance to see how this addition would be received, "and high time, too!"

Buff awoke around one o'clock,
weak but free from pain and fever.
Tim would not let her talk.

"Wait till after the doctor comes," he bade her. "I'm expecting him any minute now."

In the middle of the afternoon
two cars made their way up the road: Dr. Westland's and Tim's, driven by Simons.

"Well?" demanded Tim anxiously when the physician came downstairs.

"Almost," Dr. Westland replied, smiling. "She's been a pretty sick girl, but you seem to have known what to do. She's to stay in bed for at least a week, and plenty of eggs beaten up in milk and cream, let plenty you get that, Corrie? No excitement of any kind. She's in a rundown condition. That's why this pleurisy hit her so hard. I've given Mrs. Webb thorough instructions, and I'll come out every day
—if the weather permits."

"How about wiring her parents?
They're in Arizona, you know."

"I'll attend to that myself. No need to alarm them—I'll tell them
so. As for you—"

"I'm staying here until she's well," Tim announced. "I won't tire myself. I won't do anything but stand by in case she gets worse. You can trust me, Doc!"

Dr. Westland inspected him over the rim of his spectacles.

"You're not particularly ill, I need here, but maybe it's just as well
somebody besides the servants should be in charge. I'll see about having the telephone fixed at once.
That's essential. I've given her a sedative—I want her to keep as quiet as possible for a day or two.
Don't go into her room, unless she asks for you. If she does, stay only a few minutes and don't talk any more than is necessary."

So began the fortnight of Tim's second stay at the ranch. Buff did little but sleep for the first few days; sleep and sip the glasses of creamy milk brought her by Web-by.

"Does she know I'm here?" Tim
asked the housekeeper wistfully.

Webby shook her head. "She don't hardly know anything. She's like a worn-out child. Sometimes she goes to sleep while I'm giving her her egg and cream. But Doc claims that she's not ready."

So Tim continued to tiptoe to his room, contenting himself with seeing that the house was kept warm, the road to the highway open, and the telephone in working order.

So infinitely Dear
"HE can sit up a while this afternoon," Dr. Westland announced at the end of the week.

"Don't go into her room, unless she
asks for you. If she does, stay only
a few minutes and don't talk any
more than is necessary."

"Could I—would it be all right for me to carry her down here?"

"The astute doctor hid a smile.
Webby reported that Tim's name was often on the patient's lips in her drug-induced sleep."

"I'll go back upstairs and tell her you're here," he said after a moment's thought. Presently he was down again, nodding reassurance
to the anxious Tim. "It's all right.
She'll be expecting you. But she's not to stay up longer than half an hour, and she's not to be excited in any way." He emphasized the final warning and took his departure, his smile growing broader as he mused on the romance unfolding
beneath his eyes. "It's a disease
like any other," he chuckled.

"Rapid pulse, delusions, loss of appetite, but it's a form of illness
most patients welcome, and more often than not convalescence is delayed until a really permanent relationship has been established between the youngsters," said Dr.
Westland who would be sixty-eight his next birthday and thought of Buff and Tim as barely out of childhood.

Webby came down importantly at three o'clock.

"She's ready, Mr. Tim!"
It required all his self-control to Getting back to incumbent state officials and possible opponents:—

Your correspondent was talking with Mrs. Stanley Wohl, who polled nearly 100,000 votes against Treas-speak quietly, even casually, to the slim girl in the warm bathrobe.

Her eyes were very blue in her pale face, but the smile he loved shone suddenly as she caught sight of him.

"Hello, Tim!"
"Hello, Buff!" Nice to find you looking so well, may I—? Without waiting for an answer he stooped and lifted her gently in his arms, bore her down the stairs,
He wondered if she could hear the pounding of his heart. So little, so infinitely dear and precious, and safe for the moment in his keeping!

Webby fussed about her in the living room. The big chair must be close, but not too close, to the fire.
A footstool beneath her feet, a light blanket over her knees. Was there anything else?

"Nothing, Webby," the girl answered for herself. "I'm perfectly comfortable, I'm grand—just where I am."

When the housekeeper withdrew at last, sending inquisitive glances over her shoulder, Tim pulled a cushion close to Buff's footstool and sat down. He dared not speak, he dared not let her see his face. Dr. Westland had warned him against exciting her.

"Yes, Buff," he said huskily.
"Why—why did you come? I mean—you didn't know I was ill,
did you? Webby said the telephone wires were down."

He kept his eyes on the fire.
"Let not talk about it until you're stronger. You've been a very sick little girl, you know."

She was silent for perhaps three minutes, a really remarkable feat
for Buff who was getting well.
Then:

"Tim, I want you to know about Iris. She's all right now, she's truly happy, she's—"

"Iris?" All his suppressed anger at the girl crackled in his voice. "What do I care about Iris?
It was she who was responsible for your illness. You wouldn't—?" He checked himself, gulping down the words which crowded to his lips.

"Look here, Buff, we mustn't talk.
Not this first time, anyway. I'm going to sit still and not open my mouth until it's time to take you upstairs. I had my orders from Dr.
Westland this morning."

"All right," she agreed meekly.
The minutes passed, slow-footed.
To have her so close, so sweet, so gentle and friendly, and not gather her to his heart, demanded a self-control which required all his strength.

He was electrified to feel the touch of a small hand on his head.
"Tim!"

"B—but—am I—your darling,
Tim?"

He turned toward her, knelt so that his face was on a level with hers.

"I love you with all my heart,
Buff," he said simply.

Her arms went round his neck
and she rested her head against his shoulder.

"Now I mustn't talk. Dr. Westland told me, too. But . . . but . . .
how long, Tim?"

Apparently he understood the cryptic question.

"Ever since I saw you, I think Since the first moment you came up the steps and spoke to me—I didn't want to know then that that I wasn't going to marry you, and my prestige as an assayer I'd lost, but my heart, too."

Silence. The two before the fire had no idea whether it lasted two minutes or two hours when they heard Webby's scandalized voice.

"Mr. Tim! So this is how you take care of her, is it? I guess I'd better get Doc in the phone. I guess I'd better wire Mr. Carroll. I—"

Tim's shining eyes met hers
above Buff's golden head.

"She's mine now, Webby. If there's any consulting to be done,
I'm the one to offer suggestions."

He picked the girl up in his arms ("She's going back to bed. Oh, yes, you are darling. I can't have you tiring yourself.")

Webby followed close behind.
"Give you ought to see the kiss
he give her before he put her back in bed," she said to Simons that night. "I guess them movie censors would have to take their hair, it lasted so long. Then realizing that she had been betrayed by excitement and satisfaction into a somewhat intimate speech with the foreman,
she added: "But who's got a better right than them two? Going to be married as soon as her pa and ma get here from Arizona. Mr. Tim wants to take her to Florida to get her strength back."

At the telephone Tim was saying unsteadily: "That you, George?
Tim speaking. Just wanted to tell you to keep next Tuesday free; going to be a party out here. Sort of exclusive, too. Buff and her father and another. Dr. Westland and a minister and you and Simons—and yes, I expect to be among those present too! Guy, I'm that happy—!" Embarrassed by his own emotion he slammed the receiver on its hook before the dazed George could answer.

THE END
Charlie Johnson in 1936.
"Whatever you are going to run for this time?" he asked her.

"Well, I'm not saying I won't run," said Mrs. Wohl.

"You could run for treasurer

George Ross Pout—"

Penney Manager

C. R. McBrayer has arrived in Greenville and already has assumed his duties as manager of the local J. C. Penney store here.

Mr. McBrayer will succeed C. P. Earhart, who, at his own request, is retiring from active management of the Greenville store.

In speaking of his successor Mr. Earhart, who has made a large number of friends during his many years here, declared "I can conscientiously recommend Mr. McBrayer to Greenville and the surrounding territory. I am glad to have a man of such calibre succeed me in the capacity of manager of the Greenville Penney store." Mr. Earhart added the local store always would be his "first love" since he founded the establishment and would always be interested in its growth and success.

Mr. Earhart opened the Greenville store in August, 1925, and has served as manager since that date, but his services with the Penney company date back even farther than that. He has had 22 and one-half years experience with Penney's, starting in Utah and later working six years in Nebraska.

The new manager comes here from Harrisonburg, Va., but he is a native Tar Heel, having been born and reared in Shelby. He worked in the Penney store in Shelby for six years and had been in Harrisonburg three years before coming to Greenville.

meadow for their food; and they dig caves in the hill-side for their homes, shops, and little factories.

"World of Tomorrow"
If bombing planes are to determine the course of nations, then the Chinese are now blazing the trail for the "world of tomorrow."

Furthermore, while the Japanese are fighting communism, they are driving 100,000,000 Chinese to the most effective socialistic living withdrawal since the time of the early Christians. My few days in China convince me that, unless world peace is soon assured, large cities are now at their maximum size. Decentralization is ahead everywhere.

What will be the outcome of the present conflict? It will be a Japanese military victory. Furthermore, when one hears here on the ground both sides of the story, he begins to realize that the Japanese also have an argument. It is true that they have done heartless things and murdered thousands of innocent women and children, but such is modern warfare. The Japanese now have the large eastern Chinese cities and they will hold them for some years. Their armies have already penetrated China as far as they wish.

Will China Be Split In Two?
The undecided question is (1) whether China will be split into two nations—Northeastern China, controlled by Japanese through puppet rulers, and the rest of China under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek or (2) whether Chiang will be captured or overthrown so that all China will, for a time, become under Japanese domination. In either case, China will never be at peace again until the Japanese are absorbed. Everyone here feels that to reverse the centuries-old process of China's absorbing her conquerors is too big a job for even the Japanese to solve.

Certainly, Japan has a wonderful opportunity here. Her future, however, depends upon how she treats the Chinese people. Japan should not forget that China—thanks to American missionaries—is passing through a great spiritual revival. War lords whose families have for generations fought one another are now joining forces. China is learning much from this rebirth of patriotism. If Japan is wise enough to capitalize on this change, historians may some day write that this war marked a milestone in the development of both China and Japan. If, however, Japan fails psychologically, all her military strength will have been for naught.

"Open Door" Shut Tight
The Japanese have established a strict censorship of all business as a result of new regulations. The banks are doing very little business and, of course, most of the rich Chinese have fled to the interior or to foreign ports. Japanese came aboard our ship when we landed here. Their doctors looked at our tongues and their officials looked at our baggage. This interference with commerce and business and these dictatorial practices will surely last throughout the war and probably throughout Japan's so-called Five Year Plan of Rehabilitation. So it looks like the "open door" is closed to Occidentals—at least for many years to come.

I am very fond of the Japanese as a people. I have had one in my home for fifteen years. He has been faithful and kind. Some of my books have been translated into Japanese and I have other contracts for being provoked at China. The Japanese are a wonderful race. If they are now fair with China and the rest of the world, the Chinese "incident"—as they call it—may eventually help both nations. Let us hope that Japan will not make the same mistake in settling with China that the allies made in settling with Germany in 1919. Japan will be victorious in the end only by being just and generous now.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 7—(AP)—Leaders backed away in the stock market today, dropping fractions to around two points or more.

After a fairly fast opening, dealings lagged. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

Most traders, it was asserted, refrained from making possession, pending official declaration by the French and British governments to Hitler's peace proposals.

Meanwhile the "war infant" shares were more or less neglected, although most of the day's activity centered on the steels and these, along with the chemicals, took the worst fall.

Gets Set For Fair Opening

posts of the American Legion have conducted a fair in the county and steady progress has been made, each exposition showing an improvement over the previous year.

The American Legion ventured into the fair field with the idea of providing a real educational and agricultural exposition for Pitt county and surrounding areas.

The agricultural and educational exhibits have been improved each year, both in quantity and quality. The premium list has been increased each year and prizes totaling approximately $1,000 have been listed for the 1939 fair.

Sunday always is a busy day at any fair ground and tomorrow is expected to prove no exception at the Pitt grounds on the Falkland highway. The Art Lewis shows, which will provide rides and amusement on the midway will arrive in the city tomorrow and much activity will be in evidence as the tented city begins to make its appearance. Mr. Lewis himself will arrive in the city tomorrow by his private airplane and will personally supervise the erection of shows, rides, etc. The show comes here from the Southside Virginia fair in Petersburg and is said to be the largest ever to play in Greenville.

Seek Protect Quail in Pitt

ties are invading Pitt on lay days in their counties, he said.

A number of petitions have been circulated in behalf of establishing lay days in Pitt county and Mr. Cooper estimated that 90 per cent of Pitt's sportsmen favored the restrictions which apply in the other nearby counties. Monday, Wednesday and Friday are designated as lay days in these counties and it is the idea to have the same days set aside as lay days in Pitt.

In fact, it was explained, when the regulation was presented as to the other counties Pitt was supposed to have been included.

Mr. Cooper and State Senator Arthur B. Corey had planned to appear before the Division of Game and Inland Fisheries of the Department of Conservation and Development, but the meeting will be held in Mount Mitchell game refuge next Tuesday and the distance was considered too far for the local men to attempt to go. Mr. Cooper has been advised by J. D. Chalk, commissioner of the division, that he did not feel it was necessary for the local men to attend the meeting as he would be glad to handle the matter at the Western Carolina meeting.

Mr. Cooper pointed out that "Pitt county is fortunate in that we still have a good bit of game," but added that "unless some protective measures are taken, I am certain this county will be over-run with hunters and our quail destroyed by over hunting."

Exhibits of 4-H club members at the North Carolina State fair, October 10-14, are expected to be among the best ever displayed, says T. R. Warrill, 4-H club leader at State college.

Dr. I. O. Schaub, director of the State College Extension service, is urging all farm families to raise plenty of food and feed right on the home farm.

DENIES HINTS IN AGREEMENT OF MONOPOLY ON DIVERSION

Grissom Says Ragland Firm Received No Favors

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL.
Raleigh, Oct. 7.—William Grissom takes exception to and hotly denies very thinly-veiled hints in a recent story by "Fleet" Williams in the Raleigh News and Observer that big profits of the Southern Aggregates Corporation, under management of E. U. and W. T. Ragland, were due to favoritism or monopoly.

Mr. Grissom, a former collector of internal revenue for North Carolina and Republican candidate for governor in 1936, ought to have some knowledge of the facts whereof he speaks because he was receiver for the Aggregates for something like eighteen months—from late in 1937 to the middle of the current year. To be exact, he is still nominally receiver, as he has not been formally discharged by the federal court which appointed him, though he has taken no active part since an order of June 30.

"The Raglands' success in making money for the corporation is attributed to their outstanding genius of management," said Mr. Grissom. "It couldn't have been due to having a monopoly because there was competition from other companies for practically every contract they secured. The Raglands have been in the quarry business for eighteen years and they knew every minute what they were doing. Their act was strictly business and their success was due to their outstanding business ability."

The only possible monopoly which the Aggregates possessed was due to the fact that they had stone which passed the severest state and railroad tests more readily and with a greater margin than the stone of most of the other companies. Mr. Grissom said.

As for the possibility of "favoritism," which could have existed only in dealings with the State of North Carolina through the Highway Commission and the Division of Purchase and Contract, Mr. Grissom pointed out that the entire state business of the Aggregates was only a very small percentage of the business done. And so, he concluded, under no circumstances could this have been the cause of large profits on the part of the corporation.

In this connection he said that Southern Aggregates had strong competition not only for the state business it received but also in its dealings with private contractors and interests.

"In all the time I was active as receiver of the corporation, I never heard a single word which would reflect upon the ethics or character of the Raglands, nor any hint that their dealings with the State were not on the highest level of integrity," said Mr. Grissom.

"At all times their first consideration before taking any action was whether the proposed act was strictly in accord with the policy of the court which had charge of the company through the receivership proceedings; and on every such question they invariably sought my advice and permission before taking any action."

Mr. Grissom said that the quarry business of Southern Aggregates increased so greatly chiefly because of expanding activity in highway construction into which the Federal government poured large sums and because of the fact that railroads all over the country were conducting a systematic campaign to improve the ballasting of their road beds. North Carolina quarries, he pointed out, produce more than 600,000 tons of the 1,600,000 tons produced in the entire country, and the fact that Southern Aggregates dealt largely in railroad ballast quite naturally board will follow the unanimous recommendation; though it is problematical whether its action in so doing will silence all the clamor being raised by the gun and rod men. There have been dire threats of reprisals, and there will undoubtedly develop in the 1941 General Assembly a strong movement to take the Game and Fish division out from the Department of Conservation and Development's jurisdiction and set it up as a separate and autonomous unit.

But that has been an under-cover fight for so these many years and it is hardly likely that there will be any actual separation of the division from the department unless there are unexpected developments between then and now.

Also on the official agenda of the board's meeting next week is the matter of reviewing the quail situation, particularly with reference to "lay days," established in some half dozen counties this year for the first time. There is reported to be a desire in some other counties for lay days on which quail may not be shot, and if this should develop at the meeting there is no doubt that such days will be granted.

Not on the official list of things to be done, but almost certain to come up is the aggravating and almost perennial question of a toll-free road to the summit of Mount Mitchell. This problem would be likely at any meeting of the board, but in view of the fact that this session is to be held in the very shadow of the highest peak in Eastern America, it's a thousand to one shot that there will be discussion of the toll road matter. Of course, there seems nothing the board can do about it but again demand that the State Highway and Public Works Commission do something about it; and it's done that before without noticeable results.
