BRITISH BATTLESHIP SUNK WITH HEAVY LOSSES

CLAIMS ALWAYS WAITING FOR ACTION BY U. S.

Senator Frazier Says Neutrality Bill is Being Watched

OPPOSES REPEAL ARMS EMBARGO

Declares Repeal of Provision Would Be Evidence U. S. Willing to Back France and Britain

Washington, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Great Britain and France were accused today by Senator Frazier (D-N.D.) of "stalling" in their war with Germany until they can find out what kind of neutrality legislation this country will adopt.

Frazier asserted in a Senate speech that the administration neutrality bill "providing for repeal of the arms embargo was a step toward American involvement in this European mixup" and that the allied prosecution of the war would be influenced directly on whether or not to take that step.

"Hitler has not smashed the allies," Frazier said, "and if he is strong enough to do so there will be no war unless the United States gives evidence of its willingness to back the allies."

Repeat of the arms embargo would furnish such evidence, the North Dakota senator said.

Before the chamber met at noon for its tenth day of debate on this issue, Sen. George (D-Ga.), a supporter of the bill to repeal the embargo and make other changes in the neutrality law, suggested that the pending measure's credit provisions be overhauled.

George proposed that belligerent nations purchasing arms in this country be required to make payments in cash, but that they be allowed six months to pay for other purchases.

As the bill now stands, warning nations could obtain credits up to 90 days on all purchases if the president authorizes them.

Ingenuity Results In Arrests For Larceny

The ingenuity of Blake P. Skittlethorpe, owner of a bicycle shop, resulted in the arrest of three New Bern Negro youths on charges of stealing bicycles.

The trio went to Mr. Skittlethorpe and tried to sell him the bicycles, saying they were from Florida. Skeptical Mr. Skittlethorpe told the boys to go with him to see a prospective purchaser and took them to police headquarters.

It developed, according to police, that the three stole a bicycle each in New Bern and rode them over here for the purpose of selling them. They were returned to New Bern this afternoon by police.

To Sell Property Of City Saturday

City property at the corner of Fifth and Cotanche, location of the present Municipal building, fire and police departments, will be sold at public auction at 10 o'clock next Saturday morning.

The action was authorized by the Board of Aldermen at the beginning of this fiscal year.

Terms can be secured on a discount will be allowed for cash.

The plot will be divided into four lots and sold separately, with the city reserving the right to selling it as a whole or by groups.

The city reserves the right to occupy the building until the new Municipal building is completed.

Legion Post To Meet For Fish Fry Tuesday

The local post of the American Legion, Pitt County Post No. 39, will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock at the fair grounds, at which time a fish fry will be held.

Important matters are to be taken up and a large attendance is urged by officials of the post.

Display Flags

Managers of Greenville stores and other business houses are requested to display their flags on Sunday and Monday in connection with the installation of American Legion, Auxiliary and Forty and Eight officers.

Tells Of Purge

Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky, who said he was a member of the Soviet military intelligence for 15 years, here is shown testifying before the Dies committee at Washington. He told the committee that in the 1936-37 purge in Russia 35,000 members of the Russian army officers' corps lost their lives. The purge caused him to break with Stalin, the witness declared. Krivitsky also accused Stalin of sending from 300,000 to 400,000 persons to imprisonment or exile.

FIRE STATION IS COMPLETED

Officially Turned Over to Board of Aldermen

The Greenville Board of Aldermen, in special session last night, officially accepted the new fire station on West Fifth street from the architect and contractor and discussed details regarding the municipal building now under construction.

Although the fire station was accepted, it will be 30 days, or so before the building will be occupied, awaiting installation of the new fire alarm system.

The new station cost approximately $45,000 and was financed in part by the WPA. The building is a two-story structure, with exits both on Fifth and Green streets. Trucks and other equipment will be kept on the first floor, with a dormitory and recreation room on the upper floor.

Frank W. Benton and George A. Snyder, associate architects for the building, as well as for the city hall under construction at present, Mr. Snyder has moved to Greenville to supervise this and other work his firm has in Greenville.

The board last night agreed to a request from the contractor for an extension in time for completion of the municipal building. The structure was to have been completed and turned over to the city by December 7. It is estimated that it will take until February to complete the building. The city also agreed to request the PWA, which agency is furnishing 40 per cent of the cost, to agree to the extension.

Detour Necessitated By Broken Water Pipe

A broken water main just north of the Tar river bridge yesterday morning forced numerous persons coming to Greenville to detour all the way around Grimesland.

The exact cause of the break was not known, but it was pointed out that the road was recently worked on and the main might have been disturbed in some manner.

Water flooded the road for some time, completely halting traffic.

Busy Era For Our Ships and Sailors

Babson Says We Must Avoid China's Fatal Mistakes

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—The first result of the war to be noticed on the Pacific Ocean is the big increase in activity along the commerce lanes. The European war has hog-tied three of the leading trading nations of the world, Japan and the United States are falling heir to most of Germany's world commerce. Moreover, with England and France hardly able to hold their present trade, the United States and Japan will get the lion's share of the immense increase in world commerce which any extended European war inevitably means. America's Merchant Marine, now second largest in the world, will enjoy its busiest days since 1920.

The richest commercial prize that Germany's lack of sea-power has forced her to give up is her trade with Latin America. As I see it, the only obstacle to a boom in our trade with South American nations is the lack of buying power of these countries. Our difficulty is to find additional products which we can take from South America in exchange for our manufactured goods. Wool, hides, nitrates, and coffee can be imported, of course. But Latin America's principal surpluses are

FINNS - SOVIETS TALKS HALTED

Indefinite Postponement Leads To Speculation

Helsinki, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Indefinite postponement of further Finnish-Soviet Russian talks in Moscow led diplomatic circles to believe today that Finland had been faced with proposals she would find difficult to accept.

While the foreign office maintained silence on the progress of the conversations, reports circulated in the capital that Russia had asked the right to establish naval bases on certain Finnish islands in the Gulf of Finland.

However, Government quarters noted with apparent satisfaction that Russia's negotiations with Finland were taking much longer than those with Latvia and Estonia.

Spokesmen said they did not think it likely the Finnish delegation would return from Moscow before the Stockholm conference October 18 in which the kings of Sweden, Norway and Denmark and the president of Finland are to discuss their mutual interests.

The Chinese have hatched eggs of artificial heat for more than 1,000 years.

To Be Installed Monday

J. H. Rose, commander-elect of the North Carolina Department of the American Legion, and all other recently elected officers of the Legion, Auxiliary and Forty and Eight, will be installed at ceremonies tomorrow and Monday. The actual installation ceremonies will be held at the high school auditorium Monday night at 8 o'clock.

BUSY WEEK ON LOCAL MARKET LOCAL PARADE IS SCHEDULED

More Tobacco Here Than Any Week in Its History To Be Staged Monday Beginning at 4:30 O'clock

Four o'clock yesterday afternoon brought the busiest week the Greenville warehousemen have experienced this year to an end. It was a week, according to the old timers on the market, that brought more tobacco to Greenville than has ever been here during a similar period of time.

Market figures show that sales of

MILITARY LULL MAY CONTINUE WHILE LONGER

Germany Waiting On Word From Italy And Russia

CONVERSATIONS NOW UNDER WAY

Impression Prevails in Germany, However, That Vigorous Attacks Will Be Launched Shortly

Berlin, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The lull in military activity on the Western front is expected here to continue a little while longer—at least until Italy and Soviet Russia have spoken.

German conversations with these countries were said already to be under way. Only a few high-ranking Nazis, however, can predict Adolf Hitler's next step, now that Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain has rejected his terms for ending the war.

Informed German quarters said that nothing more may be expected from France or Britain, but they expressed the belief the door still is open for a neutral nation to step in as an intermediary.

The only official comment on the progress of hostilities in the West was a communique reporting that three enemy planes had been shot down near Coblenz. The supreme army command also noted "minor artillery activity."

In the east, the communique said, German occupation and Nazi "sphere of influence" in Poland was completed as troops took over "the last sectors at the Bug river."

Meanwhile, the impression prevailed that Germany would launch vigorous attacks from the sea, and from the air on the British navy and coastal points—which some Nazi strategists apparently believe are vulnerable.

TURKEY SIGNS RUSSIAN PACT

Treaty Protects Soviet Rights in the Black Sea

Moscow, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Turkey was reliably, but unofficially reported today to have signed an agreement with Soviet Russia protecting Russian rights in the Black sea and its outlet, the Dardanelles.

Announcement of the agreement, which was described as not as sweeping as the Moscow government had sought to make, was expected soon, perhaps tonight.

Observers believed the accord also would define Russian-Turkish relations with respect to their roles in the European war.

While Turkish Foreign Minister Sakir Caraculu was putting finishing touches on the pact in talks with Russian leaders, the Russian-Finnish talks which opened here Thursday were suspended.

Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, head of the Finnish delegation, was believed to be awaiting further instructions from his government.

Tass, official news agency, published an exchange of greetings between Russia and Lithuania as a sequel to the signing last Tuesday of a mutual assistance pact.

Weather For the Week

South Atlantic States—Fair most of week, except local showers in Florida; rising temperature; first part cooler toward close of week.

VIEW IMPLICATIONS OF SHIP'S SINKING

Washington, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Experts here viewed the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak as a severe blow to British sea power, but with more serious implications for the future than for the present.

If German submarines would be able thus to trim further the British-French six-to-one naval margin over the Nazi fleet, the sea blockade of Germany might be definitely threatened with collapse, experts said.

They were as much interested in the manner in which the battleship was sunk as in the loss itself.

Fighting Fin

Field Marshal Gustav Mannerheim (above), aged chief of Finland's army of about 300,000 men, has indicated a strong resolution to defend his country's boundaries in event Soviet Russia makes demands which Finland regards as extreme and contrary to her established national freedom.

RAZE BRIDGES ALONG BORDER

French Forces Destroy Three Railway Structures

Paris, Oct. 14.—(AP)—French military activities said today the destruction by the French of three big railway bridges over the Rhine river was to forestall any attempted German surprise offensive into French Alsace.

This action was taken after heavy German troop concentrations were reported along the frontier from Lauterbourg to Switzerland, heretofore a relatively quiet area.

Only two bridges remained across this portion of the historic river, both at Strasbourg, where they are incorporated in the Maginot and Siegfried lines.

North of the upper Rhine sector the Germans were reported in French advices to have massed enough tanks and heavy artillery between the Rhine and Moselle to launch a large-scale offensive at any moment.

French officers estimated the total German strength on the two main fronts of the upper Rhine and Rhine-Moselle and in close reserve at 2,000,000 men.

The Rhine-Moselle concentration, coupled with a sudden lull in activity of German patrols, kept French outposts on the alert as rain and fog settled over the Rhine after a day of clear crisp weather.

N. C. Farm Bureau To Conduct Fight

Kinston, Oct. 14.—(AP)—County Farm Bureau presidents and state executive committeemen of Eastern North Carolina passed a resolution here last night asking the Farm Bureau Federation to seek parity prices for 1939 tobacco.

The officers also went on record in favor of allowing a grower who is qualified and agrees to cooperate in the 1940 soil conservation program to serve on county tobacco committees.

E. F. Arnold, bureau executive secretary, said under the present move only those who complied with the 1939 conservation program could serve.

He added that if instructed to do so by all local bureau officials the organization would confer with the United States Department of Agriculture officials on the tobacco price problem.

Only 370 of 1,200 Saved In Disaster

British Admiralty Officially Announces Sinking of Royal Oak, But Fails to Reveal Where Sinking Occurred; Vessel Was Veteran of World War and Its Battle of Jutland

London, Oct. 14.—(AP) The Admiralty announced today the sinking of the battleship Royal Oak and placed at 370 the number of survivors known—so far—of the total crew of about 1,200.

The number missing, 830, far exceeded the 315 who lost their lives in Germany's first major success in the sea warfare, the sinking September 17 of the British aircraft carrier Courageous.

First announcement of the disaster by the admiralty expressed belief the $10,000,000 heavily-armored warship was the victim of "U-boat action."

A second admiralty communique issued this afternoon said:

"The secretary of the admiralty announced that so far as is known at present the number of survivors from the Royal Oak is approximately 370."

"As already stated, lists of survivors will be published as soon as the names have been received. The complement of the ship was approximately 1,200. The above figures include both officers and men."

The Royal Oak was a veteran of the World War and its battle of Jutland, where the sinking occurred August 1918.

The August 1938 naval list showed that the Royal Oak was commanded by Captain W. G. Benn.

With acknowledgment of the loss, responsible British naval sources amplified the government statement Friday that three German submarines had been sunk yesterday.

They described two of the three as of the enemy's largest ocean-going type.

Whether the new blow at the British navy marked the start of the "total war" threatened by Adolf Hitler following Prime Minister Chamberlain's rejection of German terms for peace remained to be seen.

The landing of 158,000 British soldiers in France and British successes against German submarines had led London observers to declare that Britain was ready for Hitler's next move—whether in warfare or diplomacy.

Mutilated Victim Found To Be Man

New Castle, Pa., Oct. 14.—(AP)—An autopsy disclosed today that the body of a mutilated victim found in a "murder swamp" near here was that of a man and not a woman as first believed.

Coroner Charles Buyers made the announcement immediately after the autopsy.

It was explained that the headless torso which had been burned on a wood fire after the slaying was in such condition that it was mistaken for that of a woman.

Detective Peter Merlyo of Cleveland, who came here to study the case because of the possibility that Cleveland's "mad butcher of Kingsbury Run" might have changed the locale of his operations, withheld immediate comment.

The Aleuts, native race of the Aleutian Islands, number about 3,000 persons.

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Poindecker of Elkin, N. C., returned home today after visiting Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Gully.

Miss Evelyn Griffin of Goldsboro, is the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Whitchard, Jr.

Misses Hennie and Anna Long left this morning for Henderson to attend the wedding of Miss Clara Penner to Dr. Howard L. Allen, which was solemnized this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Holy Innocents Church.

Ed S. Williams, Jr., attended the football game in Chapel Hill today.

Mrs. Eleanor Yelverton of Goldsboro is a guest in the home of Dr. K. B. Pace.

Thornton Ryan, a student at Duke University, is spending the week-end here with his parents, Reverend and Mrs. W. A. Ryan.

Harold Staton is attending the N. Y. U. game at Chapel Hill today.

Mrs. H. Blount Hunter to Speak

The Greenville Garden Club is indeed fortunate in having the privilege of hearing Mrs. H. Blount Hunter, a prominent Rosarian, speak to the club on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 at the club house. This is one of the outstanding meetings of the year and a large attendance of club members is urged.

Council to Meet

The Women's Council of the Eighth Street Christian church will meet at 3:30 o'clock. The topic for this meeting will be "The Disciples of Christ Around the World." In view of the meeting of the International convention of the Disciples of Christ in Richmond, Va., this week, the women of the local congregation feel this will afford a splendid opportunity for preparation for the Richmond meeting by studying some of the world-wide interests and activities of the Disciples of Christ.

Bridal Party Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hagerty, entertained at an informal cake cutting on last evening at their home on Rotary avenue, honoring the Goodwin-Willard wedding party and out of town guests.

Fall flowers, in shades of pink and white, filled the home and white tapers afforded soft illumination in the rooms.

In the dining room a three tiered cake formed the center piece and white candles in silver holders burned at either end of the table.

Late in the evening a dainty ice course was served. The hostess was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. Louis Gaylord.

Entertains at Kitchen Shower

Miss Annie Lee Hooker entertained informally this morning at ten o'clock at breakfast and a kitchen shower, at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. E. Hooker, complimenting Miss Gretchen Willard.

Mixed vegetables centered the breakfast table and each guest found her place marked with a can of food on which was an appropriate place card.

Having breakfast with Miss Hooker were only a few intimate friends of the honor guest, Mrs. J. S. Willard, Mrs. Goodwin of Roanoke, Va., and Mrs. A. S. Jordan, of Washington, N. C.

Rev. May To Preach Here

Rev. Worth May of Clinton, who will conduct services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church tomorrow, will be especially interesting to the young people of the parish. Mr. May is actively interested in the Young People's Service League and is known to many of the boys and girls of the parish who have been to Camp Leach.

Today's Bride

Miss Gretchen Willard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Slade Willard, whose marriage to William C. Goodwin takes place in the First Christian Church here this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Bethel Round Table Club Meets

Bethel Oct. 14—The Round Table Club held its first meeting of the fall with Mrs. J. A. Staton on Tuesday. The hostess served a barbecue luncheon, after which a short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. A. M. McWhorter, was held. The president then presented Mrs. Connell Garrenton, who gave a very interesting and enlightening talk on "The Beginning of Opera." Guests of the club for the afternoon were Mrs. J. P. Harris, Mrs. R. L. Barnhill and Mrs. M. Y. Self.

Miss Willard Honored

Another of a series of charming social courtesies, complimenting Miss Gretchen Willard, was the supper party given Friday evening, when Mrs. A. S. Jordan, aunt of the bride-elect, entertained at her home on East Second street in Washington, N. C.

The living rooms and reception hall were beautifully decorated for the occasion. White dahlias and ivy were used in mantle arrangements in one living room, and in the second, fuchsia, cosmos and red zinnias were used with festoons of bamboo decorating the mantle.

Above the table of the bride-elect the chandelier was showered with bridal tulle. Burning white tapers in holders of silver added charm to the home.

Honored at Luncheon

Miss Gretchen Willard, who this afternoon will be married to Mr. William C. Goodwin, was honored at luncheon here today, when Mrs. David Proctor entertained at the Greenville Country Club.

Quantities of fall flowers, in shades of rose, mauve and gold, filled the club rooms. The colors were repeated in the table decorations.

Greeting the guests at the door were Mrs. William Taft and Mrs. M. B. Massey, who introduced them to a receiving line composed of the hostess, the honor guest, Mrs. Goodwin, mother of the groom, and Mrs. J. S. Willard, the bride-elect's mother.

A delicious barbecue luncheon was served from a central presided over by Mrs. W. W. Lee, and Mrs. Knott Proctor. They were assisted in serving by Misses Frances Willard, Elizabeth Kasey, and Virginia Morris. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Harry Hagerty and Miss Virginia Bradsher.

Bidding goodbyes to the guests, who attended this delightful affair was Mrs. M. T. Bradshaw.

Leaves for Philadelphia

Dr. W. M. B. Brown left today for Philadelphia to attend the meeting of the American College of Surgeons. The college will confer on Dr. Brown the F.A.C.S. degree at this meeting.

First Presbyterian Church

The attendance on Rally Day was most encouraging. Last Sunday was really a great day for this church. The church school meets each Sunday at 9:45 a. m. All those present last Sunday are invited to return and become members of the school. Repairs to the church have made additional classrooms and the church is prepared to care for a larger enrollment. Young People's and Adult classes have splendid teachers and invite you to enroll if you are not attending a church school.

Preaching service at 11 o'clock. Dr. Robert S. Boyd, pastor, will speak on the subject "Building the Church." The text will be Matt. 16:18. This passage of scripture brings assurance, and a challenge to all true Christians to be "builders with Him." Special music will be rendered by the chorus choir.

At 5 p. m. service will be conducted at Meadowbrook as an open air meeting. Friends of the community are invited. It is planned to begin the new chapel on that Monday morning, Oct. 16. The contract has been let to Mr. Lewis as builder, and the North Side Lumber Co. will furnish most of the materials. It is hoped that within a month services may be in the new chapel. About three-fourths of the money which to build it has been subscribed and it is hoped that all may be raised by the time it is completed. Frank W. Benton is the architect and the services were made gratis by Mr. George Snider, the local representative in Greenville. This contribution is greatly appreciated by the men's Bible class and the community.

Young people meet at the church at 6:30 and 7 o'clock for vesper services. No evening preaching service.

Miss Deane To Speak Here

Miss Sallie Deane of Richmond, former member of the National executive board of the Woman's Auxiliary, will conduct a series of evening meetings at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Monday, October 16, through Friday, October 20.

Miss Deane, a speaker of great charm, teaches at summer conferences and was at Kanuga last summer. Her talks in Greenville will be of interest to all members of the church as well as the members of the Auxiliary.

Members of all denominations and friends of the church are invited to hear Miss Deane. The nightly meetings will begin at 7:45.

Thomas-Ramage

Shelby, Oct. 14—Miss Dorothy Caroline Ramage of Atlanta, Ga., and Edward Galloway Thomas of Shelby were united in marriage Saturday, October 14, at high noon in a simple but beautiful wedding ceremony which took place in Winship Memorial Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church in Atlanta. The pastor, Dr. William V. Gardner, read the marriage ritual.

The vows were spoken before an altar made beautiful with an arrangement of white dahlias beneath an arch of 21 cathedral candles, the whole of which was posed against a background of palms and ferns. Two seven-point candelabra, holding cathedral candles, and a cluster of white dahlias on each side of the altar arch formed a frame for it.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Dr. Charles Sheldon, organist. whose numbers included Beethoven's "Minuet in G," "Because," by D'Hardelot, and "Sill As the Night," by Carl Bohm.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James B. Ramage of Atlanta. Miss Catherine Kamper of Atlanta, was her maid of honor and only attendant. P. R. Bailey, Jr., of Atlanta, R. Carl Byars of Greenville, S. C., and Maurice J. Dutera of West Point, Ga., were ushers, and John B. Thomas of Galatin, Tenn., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The maid of honor wore a dress of rose moire, fashioned with a square neckline, short puffed sleeves and high waist, outlined in an inverted "V" with wine velvet, which ended in a bow in the back. Her small hat was of wine velvet and she carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses tied with wine satin ribbon.

The bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with shirring marking the neckline and forming a deep "V" into the bodice to the waistline. Full puffed sleeves were finished with similar shirring, and a wide skirt fell in graceful lines from a satin girdle, which was caught into a bustle bow low in the back. Her four-tiered veil of bridal tulle was caught to her dark hair with a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley and swainsona.

Immediately after the wedding, Mrs. Ramage, mother of the bride, entertained at a reception at her home at 638 Cresthill avenue, N. E. Mrs. Ramage wore a gown of burgundy crepe with clips and belt of gold. Her hat and other accessories were black and she wore a corsage of Tullman roses.

The bride, an intelligent and charming young woman, is the elder daughter of Mrs. Sterling Combe Ramage and the late Mr. Ramage of Atlanta. She has lived in Atlanta most of her life. She was educated at the Decatur high school, Agnes Scott College in Decatur, and the Atlanta School of Interior Decoration.

Mr. Thomas is a native of Greenville, N. C., the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Thomas of that place. He was graduated from Duke University with the class of 32, and since his graduation has held positions with the Asheville Citizen and the Kinston Free Press. He came to Shelby during the past summer to become city editor of the Shelby Daily Star, and for a year and a half prior to his moving to Shelby he had been connected with an Atlanta advertising agency.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left for a wedding trip through the Smoky Mountains National Park. For traveling, the bride wore a dress of sheer grey woolen topped with a grey tweed coat. Her hat was an American Beauty felt and her other accessories were in black suede.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will be at home in Shelby after their return from the wedding trip.

Authorities estimate it takes 17 men in manufacturing and transport to maintain one soldier fighting at the front.

WELCOME, AMERICAN LEGION AND AUXILIARY

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we extend a most hearty welcome to visiting members of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary who are gathered in our city for the installation of the new officers of the North Carolina Department.
We are doubly proud to have such a gathering in our city, for during the more than 20 years of the existence of the Legion this is the first gathering of a statewide nature to be held in Greenville and at the same time the commander of the department to be installed
on Monday is the first member of Pitt County Post to hold this high office.

Our city's slogan is "Our Greenville, Yours If You Come," and we sincerely hope that you will accept this slogan literally. We are glad to have you. We hope you will have a delightful time and will want to pay a return visit to Greenville.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Oct. 14—Wonder how Senator Bob Reynolds liked the latest crack of the Washington Merry-Go-Round?
Said Drew Pearson and Robert S.
Allen: "Latest addition to the famed Garment Workers' Union musical comedy hit, 'Pins and Needles' is a skit entitled 'The Harmony Boys,'
with Senator Bob Reynolds, Fritz Kuhn and Father Coughlin as the characters. The skit replaces the hilarious 'Four Angels of Peace,'
which had Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini
and Chamberlain as stars."

Your correspondent spied two sports notables—Peahead Walker of Wake Forest and Blackie Carter, boss of the Commerce State League ball club, in close communion in the Sir Walter Loby Friday.
They were laughing heartily over an incident which occurred last winter when they collaborated to buy
a young pitcher for Peahead's Show Hill Coastal Plains club at the expense of one "Parker" apparently a boss of the Salisbury Giants of the State loop. It seems that Mr.
Parker was completely out-humored
in the matter and is still looking for Peahead with a vengeful gleam
in his eye.

Walker told this corner incidentally, that it's the newspaper men who have "put me on the spot for the last year." The pleasant Deacon mentor isn't really angry about it,
but contends that the scribes have overdrawn the picture of the football material at Wake.

"We just haven't got the fine football players the sports writers have been crediting us with," exploded Peahead.

"Blackie" who, in the off-season
from baseball, is one of the outstanding football and basketball officials of Dixie, contends that the

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Woot

YESTERDAY: Convinced that they have come to the University for a purpose and that Michael is holding out on her, Tuck decides to investigate. She invents a pretext for calling on Mrs. Marchion, who formerly lived in their house.

Chapter Seven
Feminine Curiosity

"I THOUGHT I left nothing in the house," said Mrs. Marchion.
"Just this book," Tuck said. "I didn't think the book was important—perhaps it had belonged to your maid. But it had in it a lovely carved ivory bridge pencil for a marker, and I thought you might not like to lose it."

There was a tinge of hot color
at the base of Mrs. Marchion's throat as she took "The Bartered Bride" from Tuck's hands. "Thank you for the pencil," she said. "My maid, yes."

"And this pipe," Tuck went on.
"If your husband is as devoted to his old pipes as mine is..." she stopped.

Mrs. Marchion had dropped the book. Both hands were at her heart. She was staring at the pipe in Tuck's hand with some terrible surmise in her face.

"The pipe—he has had it studying in Germany—"

"Then I'm glad I found it," Tuck
said eagerly.

The woman looked up. "Where have you found it?" she said tensely.
"It is never out of my hand."

"I found it in the little drawer
just under the leaf for the typewriter—in the big desk in the study," Mrs. Marchion said. Tuck replied, "I am sorry if your husband has been searching for it."

She still held the pipe out but the woman did not touch it. Tuck glanced at her sharply.

The woman caught the glance.
She moistened her dry lips and straightened her shoulders.

"Thank you for it, then," she said
more composedly, took it from Tuck's outstretched hand and stepped back. Tuck took the hint, said goodby and ran down the steps.

"Now, what's that all about?"
she said to herself. The woman's attitude was certainly strange.

That afternoon, when Bunny came out from a half-day relieving at the office, she had something more to add to the picture.

Tuck, almost bursting to tell her of the events of the morning, had come to the University to meet her and as they walked back through the dim green woodland path had told her of the affair of the pipe.

She had a terribly frightened look. Bunny—surprised and frightened. Now why? Why should the sight of an old pipe whose husband had left behind, even if he had
and it ever since he was a student in Germany—why should that set a woman so?

"I don't think it was the pipe that set her," Bunny said slowly. "I think it was the fact of your having it."

"What do you mean, Bunny?"
"Why—I thought I'd do a little sleuthing too. So I telephoned the University and asked for Dr. Murchison—" she broke off suddenly—and looked at Tuck. "You remember Tuck, that Higgins was quite willing to tell where Mrs.
Marchion was, and where the brother was, but when it came to Dr. Murchison himself he wiggled
and squirmed?"

"Yes—and Michael, right after he had finished saying that he didn't know a thing about the Mur-chisons, asked where Dr. Murchison was! How did he know Murchison was a doctor? That's what made me suspect Michael! Bunny
—that's right. He's the man the mystery's about."

"My idea too."

"What did they say at the University?"

"Said he was off on a business trip and they didn't have his address. So I phoned his wife."

"Bunny—go on!"

"Well—Bunny stopped, pulled off her hat and lifted her face to the cool evening breeze—"Well—
I thought I'd better be a little wary—
so I said I was the Customs Office
and had a box of books for Dr.
Murchison and that there was duty
on them."

"Go on, Bunny—you're exasperating."

"Yes, dear. And I asked for Dr.
Murchison's address to notify him."

"And what did she say?"

"Well, she waited a little while before she answered me, and then she said she'd tell me herself."

"Oh," Tuck said disappointedly.
"I thought maybe..." I didn't know."

"Me too," Bunny agreed. "But wait a minute. I said 'How soon can you let us know?' Because if he didn't clear them in a week we've got to send them back."

"And she said, very slowly—
Send them back then. I cannot get an answer in a week!"

Nocturnal Prowling

THAT night, falling to sleep late,
Tuck dreamed of walking past
a gigantic rock crusher, which rumbled menacingly and then fell suddenly across her feet. When she struggled to dislodge it she awoke, to find Agamemnon pur-
ring and applying his claws
into the eiderdown over her knees.
She reached down, slapped his paws, patted his head and com-

about the fastest piece of Class "D"
machinery in the country.

an idea struck her which awakened
her like a dash of ice water.

What was the cat doing here?

She remembered distinctly putting him out herself after all the doors and windows were locked;
and yet, here he was!

With a thumping heart she rushed out cautiously and turned on the little lamp beside her bed.
Michael was sleeping peacefully with his back turned, and she had to cross three feet of dark floor before she could wake him.

She put her hand tightly over his mouth. "Michael!"

He groaned.

"Michael! Wake up, quick!" She drew her feet up suddenly and knelt on the bed.

He opened an eye, scowled at her
and turned over.

She grasped his shoulder and covered his mouth again. "Michael,
you must get up, quick," she whispered into his ear. "It's burglars!
I'm scared!"

"Burglars!" he mumbled under her hand. The exclamation point was in his eyes.

"The cat's in, and we put him
out!"

He pushed her hand away, and sat up. "He must have got in a window."

"You know perfectly well none of the downstairs windows are open. I'm sure there's somebody in the house!"

With a comical look of surrender he seized his dressing gown, thrust
his feet into his slippers at the side of the bed, and started for the door.

Tuck turned and frowned at her.
"What are you coming for?"

"Do you expect me to stay here alone? I should say not! And don't make so much noise, Michael,
they'll hear us."

"Tuck, you've let that fool kid put notions into your head," he said. Nevertheless he lowered his voice to a whisper as they went quietly down the wide staircase
to the living room.

The Study

HE tried the front door opening off the little hall. It was locked. With Tuck at his heels he crossed the room and pushed at the glass doors into the dining room; but they did not swing open at his touch as usual. He pushed.
They were solid.

"What's the matter with the darr-ning door," he muttered. "Turn on the light."

But she did not obey. She leaned over and pressed her ear instead to the crack of the door, listening intently. Michael could not see her expression in the dim moonlight.
She straightened up suddenly.

"It's the study," she whispered
tensely. They've locked this door on the other side to keep us out."

"You can hear something?" he stared at her incredulously.

"Listen!"

He put his ear to the door. Silence. Then, not in the dining room, but in the study beyond it
he heard a small, subdued tapping which stopped, began again, went on steadily, stopped again.

Tuck clutched his arm tightly.
"There is someone, Michael!"

"It must be Bunny," he whispered.

"Of course it isn't Bunny. Don't be stodgy, Michael—what are we going to do?"

"I want to know what the devil
this is all about," he said. He turned and ran softly up the front stair to the landing, then down the servant's stair to the kitchen. Tuck after him like a little shadow.

There was another glass door between the dining room and the study, and there was a door, of course, from the kitchen into the dining room.

That door was locked!

Michael wasted no time now, but dashed to the outside kitchen door.
He turned the key in the lock and pulled the door open. Immediately the quiet of the night was shattered by a terrific metallic clatter and bang as some object that had been propped upon the door knob
fell to the floor.

"Well, damn it!" Michael said bitterly.

He jumped from the edge of the porch and raced toward the corner of the house with Tuck still at his heels. The moon was going down and only the faintest gray light lay over the garden. The sundial stood out in the center, holding on its white surface a certain glimmer
as they reached the house that glimmer was for a moment obscured. It was as if a shadow passed before it and was gone. But Michael, intent only on the study door, did not notice.

That door, reached through the sun porch, was locked, but yielded instantly to Michael's touch. He swung it open and stepped back against the porch wall, holding Tuck beside him. Nothing happened.

"Of course he'd be gone," Michael said disgustedly. He peered off through the darkness.

"Michael, you mustn't go after him! It's no use—it's too dark out there, and you don't know where he's gone. He—he might have a gun, Michael!"

"It isn't any use, all right," Michael conceded grudgingly. He reached around the corner of the doorway and switched on the lights, waiting for a moment before he looked into the room.

It was empty.

Friday the Thirteenth was not unlucky for the State Fair. After a pretty bad Thursday, it fared up beautifully for Young North Carolinians Day at the big exposition run
by Commissioner Kerr Scott, Dr. J.
S. Dorton and Louis Wilson.

Another Fair You Might Take In Golovin, Alaska—(AP)—This
reindeer station and trading village
is only two degrees below the Arctic circle, but its eskimos plan to become market gardeners. Under the leadership of School Teacher A. D.
Johnson and two traders, George Folger and Joe Dexter, they already are planning an annual vegetable fair.

Their first garden show, held last month, drew a good display of choice "garden sass"—the result of the long hours of summer sunshine
and a judicious application of herring refuse as fertilizer.

"This is an ideal spot for root vegetables," said Johnson, "and we are going to create a market for them
as a commercial prospect. Then too, the eskimos can store away an annual supply for the long winter months."

From the angle of pride. During this outstanding and direct attack Jesus
again gives an outstanding quotation from God's word, the most effective weapon against the Devil himself, the second crushing defeat.

From thence, he is taken to an exceedingly high mountain where the kingdoms of the world were put on open display before the princely eyes of the Messiah. You and I have both heard the statement that the Devil led us to the world to see our Lord came into the world to redeem, isn't it probable that the nations belong to the devil. The word
"Redeem" in the Bible and the same word in our Law Books mean precisely the same. A person, therefore, to redeem something must become the possessor of that thing of which they have been in possession before they were taken to the devil. I rather think the Devil for one time was telling the truth but the word
"Lead" here is suggesting another short cut to the ends of which he came into the world. This would have eliminated three and a half years privation which would give an opportunity of immediate return to his father without tasting the horrible cup of the Crucifixion. It was a clever compromise and the Lord
so saw it and again with the magic words of Scripture, he says, "Get Thee Behind Me Satan. Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God and Him only shalt thou serve," and we are told that the Devil left Him for a season but in leaving him personally
does not mean that he was left free of Satanic influences for during his entire ministry through human instrumentality the Devil has harassed and tried to hinder the works of righteousness and through whom instrumentality will continue to harass and hinder until our Lord's second return when his work shall be ultimately destroyed.

We do not have to win a victory
over the Devil with our own strength. We have only to trust in Him and share in the victory already won.

We are told that at the close of the temptation the angels came and ministered unto Him. Ministered is from a Greek term signifying "to wait upon another" and is used six times elsewhere in the New Testament. Therefore, God would have us understand that the angels came with Heavenly prepared food and supplied what the human in him desired. As to Him in his divine person they ministered to His human needs these Heavenly messenger will administer to the spiritual needs of His followers and will not suffer them to be tempted with more than they are able to bear.

Phantoms Defeat Plymouth 13-0 in Hard-Fought Battle

LINE HOLDS IN LAST MINUTES

Coach Bo Farley's Charges Rack Up Third Victory

The Phantoms of Greenville High school yesterday afternoon marked up their third successive victory of the season, turning back a stubborn Plymouth eleven, 13-0.

After receiving the opening kickoff the Plymouth boys turned loose an aerial attack that had the local team completely baffled for a few moments. The charges of Coach Bo Farley, however, soon got down to business and took the ball in their possession and later in the first period scored on an off-tackle jump by George Sakas. Stocks converted for the extra point.

Neither side was able to do much in the second quarter, with both teams putting up a fine brand of offensive play.

Greenville scored early in the third quarter when Larry James snatched a pass in the end zone after the Phantoms had forced Plymouth's back to their wall.

The locals threatened in the final quarter with passes and running plays clicking—that is until they got within scoring territory. The Plymouth boys then tightened their defense and took the ball on downs within their own 10-yard stripe.

Trailing 13-0, Plymouth resorted to the "sleeping end" play and it almost worked, but Sakas raced down the field to overtake the Plymouth man and drag him down after a gain of 90 yards. It was first and goal (eight yards) to go for the Plymouth lads, but the Greenville wall held and took the ball on downs and kicked Trotman Nobles. However, returned the pilskin deep into Greenville territory. After several line plays, Plymouth was within one yard of the pay-off stripe. Three minutes remained in the game with Plymouth on the one-yard stripe with a first down. Try as they could, however, the Farley-men held until the referee's whistle ended the game.

Farmers To Repay Operating Loans

With the reopening of the tobacco markets, indications are that members of the Greenville Production Credit Association will be able to pay the balances due on their loans for operating expenses, according to Robert A. Darr, secretary-treasurer of the association.

"Our association loaned in excess of a third of a million dollars last year to farmers in Pitt and Greene counties," Mr. Darr said, "and since the loans were made on a basis of the farmer's ability to repay from operations, our members repaid their loans one hundred per cent."

Mr. Darr stated that his institution loaned approximately $400,000, and with the reopening of the markets he anticipates another perfect collection record.

"Collections prior to the marketing holiday were very satisfactory," he said, "and repayments during the past few days have been sufficient to demonstrate the fact that our members are desirous of meeting their obligations as promptly as possible."

The Greenville Production Credit Association, a farmers' cooperative lending institution incorporated under the Farm Credit Act of 1933, has loaned $1,598,000 since organization.

Persons desiring to attend the first of State College's new six-weeks' short courses, which open October 18, are being instructed to see their county agents for complete details.

The new Irish potato variety, Sequoia, is arousing much interest among North Carolina farmers, says M. E. Gardner of State College, who was in charge of experiment which developed it.

According to early indications, Virginia-type peanuts are running much smaller in size than those of last year, says Dr. I. O. Schaub, director of the State College Extension Service.

Bain To Be Here

Colonel Edgar H. Bain of Goldsboro, state director of the Brewers and North Carolina Beer distributors committee, will be in Greenville for the installation of the newly elected officers of the North Carolina department of the American Legion.

Colonel Bain is a member of the important department publications committee which supervises the publication of the department's monthly newspaper, the North Carolina Legion News. The committee holds its annual meeting here today. Twice (1937 and 1939) member of the state senate and decorated for bravery in the world war, Colonel Bain took over the state directorship of the Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors committee last May. The North Carolina committee, in cooperation with law enforcement agencies, has taken drastic steps to "clean up or close up" the small minority of retailers who operate in flagrant violation of law, order and public decency, the colonel remarked.

The program's main objective in North Carolina is to safeguard the social, moral and economic benefits of the state's $15,000,000 legalized beer industry, which pays over $1,500,000 annually in state taxes and local fees, and provides a payroll of approximately $9,200,000 for North Carolinians, he said.

Colonel Bain arrived in Greenville this morning from his Goldsboro home and plans to go to Wilmington tomorrow.

Busy Week on Local Market

(Continued from Page One) started on Tuesday more than 5,000,000 pounds of tobacco were on the floors of the market's 10 houses and just as fast as these floors were cleared they were filled again.

Official figures for the week, released this morning, show that 7,166,252 pounds of tobacco was disposed of during the week and that the growers were paid $1,103,897.61, or an average of 15.40 for this tobacco. The market figures also show a total of 30,123,688 pounds sold for the season.

The official market reports make two facts very clear. Sales were conducted, orderly and at a uniform rate of speed which is proven by a comparison of daily sales which were near the same figure each day. Prices were firm and stabilized from Monday afternoon to Friday afternoon, as by the daily averages which varied little.

A separate record was kept of the warehouse sale's reports on the tobacco that was on the floor opening day. These figures show that the tobacco which was on the floor on Tuesday weighed 5,051,104 pounds and sold for $776,131.40, averaging $15.37 per hundred.

Local Parade Is Scheduled

(Continued from page one) Elizabeth and Latham streets and is scheduled to start marching at 4:30 o'clock. New officers of the three organizations will head the parade, with only Auxiliary members and Gold Star Mothers riding in automobiles.

The parade will proceed down Fifth street to Washington, down Washington to Third, down Third to Evans and on Evans to Five Points, thence to East Carolina Teachers College, where it will disband.

The following organizations are scheduled to take part in the parade: Goldsboro's Sons of Legion drum and bugle corps, Greenville High School band, East Carolina Teachers band, Washington High School band, Plymouth High School band, Edenton High School band, the drum and bugle corps of the Durham Legion post, the local National Guard unit, Legionnaires, Auxiliary, Gold Star Mothers, boys and girls on horseback, school children on bicycles and marching, boy and girl scouts and school safety patrol.

BABSON

(Continued from Page One) copper, oil, and farm products. These we do not need. The riddle will be partially solved by our selling manufactured goods to South America, carrying her food products to Europe and bringing back such things as glassware, olive oil, linen and china.

Europe to Pay Cash. Europe must increase her use of South American food. She will have to pay for it in cash rather than by the barter method of the past few years. This additional cash should help to solve South America's problem of finding the necessary buying power to purchase American goods. Moreover, the United States will probably contribute substantially by extending additional credits to South America through our Export-Import Bank.

We have already granted substantial credits to Brazil and other Latin American countries. Biggest gain in our world commerce will be in our manufactured goods. These were the type of goods that Germany was selling in South America and in other parts of the world. Japan and the United States will grab most of Germany's and some of France's and Britain's former trade in such products as cutlery, bicycles, railroad equipment, chemicals, machinery, high-grade textiles, and the like. We should have the upper hand over Japan, particularly in the case of the most high-specialized manufactures, because Japan's products are cheap in quality and narrow in range of selection. With the present line-up of belligerents, I cannot, however, see any immediate big increase in our exports of farm products—not even cotton.

Daring Boatman Brought Home

Rescued from his sinking sail boat by the Italian freighter Belvedere off the Azores October 2. Guy C. Avery (right), 35, of Tampa, Fla. is shown with Capt. Romano Tomich, master of the ship, upon docking at Hoboken, N. J. Witness said Avery did not want to leave his small craft. He set out from Tampa several months ago on a projected trans-Atlantic trip.

in American countries.

know that American ships will not be carrying even a loaf of bread to the belligerent nations. Shippers will like this additional safety of our vessels and will find the resulting lower risk insurance on American ships attractive. Hence, busy days are ahead for the American Merchant Marine. I doubt, however, if this active era for our shipping will continue after the war is over. As I arrive home from my trip to the Orient, I am convinced of one thing: Japan and China can together create the most formidable industrial machine in the world. They can make and export products at unbelievably low prices. They can sweep the goods of every other nation, with the possible exception of Russia, off the seas. The only way other nations can compete with Japan and China is by entirely changing their present economic set-up.

Self-Sufficiency a Snare. I am very bullish on the United States for the next few years, but sooner or later we are going into a real depression. As I reflect on living habits and standards in my home town of Wellesley, they seem so artificial and wasteful that I wonder how long they can continue. We are all living in a fool's paradise with no regard for what the future has in store for our children.

By our policy of isolation and our walls of tariff, are we not following the Chinese? The reason China is so weak today is because her people felt sufficient unto themselves and refused to compete with the rest of the world in scientific methods and progressive learning. We are as foolish in reducing hours and fixing prices as were the Chinese in their belief that because they were the greatest, oldest, and richest nation they had nothing to fear. I wonder if some day there may be a parallel in our histories. We expect to save ourselves by a great tariff wall just as the Chinese tried to save themselves by a great stone wall.

Japan Our Industrial "Enemy"

The Japanese have kept their heads and have not tried such silly notions. As a result, I think that they can, with the help of China, control the manufactures of the world. The United States can keep out foreign goods with a tariff wall, but our wall can not prevent the Japanese from flooding our customers in South and Central America and in other world markets with manufactured goods.

America, to save herself, must change her attitude toward union labor, price-fixing, hour limitations, and the like. I wish Frances Perkins had been with me on my trip. I am not appealing for manufacturers. I know their faults. I am advocating that we cut out all artificial stuff and be ready to compete with the rest of the world now and in the future. To do this we must adjust wages, hours, and living habits. Such a policy is the only one which will save our children and grandchildren.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures recovered about half of morning losses, today on short covering in the final minutes of trading and closed unchanged to four lower.

Selling met only limited trade buying and prices eased. July, however, was steady due to a fair amount of buying by spot interests and southern shippers. Middling spot 9.16, off one.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The European war-peace puzzle remained as the principal stock market handicap today and while weakness was absent in most cases throughout the session, leading issues inclined to back away moderately.

Exceptional lightness of selling was seen as a negatively encouraging factor by boardroom observers. Transfers for the two hours of around 300,000 shares were the smallest for any day since the outbreak of general hostilities abroad. Bonds were mixed as were commodities and securities at Amsterdam, only important market open abroad today, performed sluggishly.

Group Meetings.

The Falkland group teachers met at the Falkland school Monday after the close of school. All teachers were present and a large number of parents. After the opening, the president turned the meeting over to the chairman of the program committee, who brought to the group Dennis Dupree as speaker for the day. He spoke on "Gardening," and gave to the audience definite information about how to produce a good garden beginning with the selection of the spot and the preparation of the soil, fertilization, selection of seeds and plants and what to plant in the proper seasons. The audience had opportunity to ask questions at the close of his address.

Mr. Smith, a merchant of Fountain was present and gave a few words of encouragement to the group, and gave some suggestions to them on gardening. The parents then invited the group to a lunch which was enjoyed by all. Fountain school has been remodeled and is much better fitted to provide better accommodation to its community and school and the parents, having helped to make it so are proud of it.

On Tuesday, after school, the Falkland group met at Running Branch school, and after the opening, the president presented as speaker for the day Golden Roland, farm demonstration agent for the Arden district. He chose "Gardening" as his subject and presented it in such way that all felt that they had a clearer knowledge of how to have a good garden the year around. In an open forum many worth while suggestions were brought out. May Bell Dupree, the teacher, assisted by the parents, served the group at the close of the meeting.

Wednesday after school, the Bethel group met at Piney Grove school. After the opening, the program committee presented Mrs. Anna H. Turner, home economics teacher in the Belvoir high school. She chose as her subject "What Is Home Economics?" She stressed the importance of more home knowledge of how to make the home a more convenient, attractive and happier place to live. All these things serve to make the children love to stay at home and to appreciate the finer things of life. The group has as its project for the year "Home Improvement," and felt that such a contribution was a great achievement.

Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power and George Brent share stellar honors in "The Rains Came," which opened at the Pitt today.

dition to their year's program. The parents, with the teacher, Mary Dupree, served the group a delicious lunch.

On Thursday the Grimesland group met at the Grimesland school and after the opening the committee on the selection of a project for the year made their report. After discussion the group selected "Citizenship" as the project for the year. The next meeting will be held November 14 at the Simpson school. On Friday, October 27, the group will give a banquet at the Grimesland school for the young people of all the schools in that group. How to dress for every occasion, the way to serve, etc., will be the object lesson of that occasion. The meetings will be moved to different schools during the year and the parents and young people of school age and those who are out of school are members of the group.

Dr. Simons To Begin Second Year In City

Dr. J. D. Simons has just completed his first year as pastor of Memorial Baptist church, during which time enrollment of the Sunday school increased from 300 to 419.

In addition, the cradle roll and extension departments have been added. Miss Louise Carter has been secured as educational director and a church office has been established in the old parsonage, which has been converted into an educational building.

During the past year the membership of the church has been increased by almost one hundred. Improvements have been made in the church property and certain equipment purchased.

Dr. Simons begins his second year this Sunday with a bright outlook, and excellent spirit said to be prevailing in the church.

U. S. Vessel Saves Tanker Survivors

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—The American freighter Black Hawk reported today it had rescued 39 survivors of the French tanker Emile Miguet, destroyed by fire off the Irish coast Thursday. One was reported dead.

Captain Raymond Hodge wirelessed the Black Diamond line, owners of the ship, that he would take the survivors to Boston. He gave his position as 298 miles west of Bishop Rock, England.

The President Harding of the Officials said it was hard to tell how many visiting Legionnaires and Auxiliary members would be here, but all sections of the state will be represented.

Family Institute Is Brought To Close

At the final session of the Family Life Institute, held at the college Thursday and Friday, Miss Pauline Gordon, Home management specialist of the State Extension service, spoke on the management of the family finances, and led a general discussion of the topic, with Miss Lois Rainwater, Home Demonstration agent, Wilson, Mrs. R. B. Robinson, representative of the Home Demonstration clubs, and Mrs. P. F. Watson, P. T. A. representative, contributing, as did also a number of members from the floor.

In closing the session, Miss Catherine Dennis summarized the talks at the various meetings. Mrs. Florence Cardoza, Morehead City, presented the following recommendations:

1. That the institute be continued.
2. That the meetings be held earlier in the year—possibly September.
3. That the meetings be held Friday or Saturday so that more teachers can come.
4. That each organization give more publicity to the institute and urge leaders to attend.
5. That each go home and tell what was done and begin to think about next year.
6. That committees appointed to arrange time and place and program.
7. That each session be summarized.
8. That next year the program center around the problems growing out of these meetings and suggestions for their solution be brought out.
9. That the expression of hospitality shown the group by the college is greatly appreciated.
10. That much credit is due Mrs. Rosa, Miss Dennis, members of the college staff, and all others taking part in making this first Institute on Home and Family Life the success it has had.
11. That less time be allowed between meetings.

The recommendations were adopted. Over 51 North Carolina communities were represented at the Family Life Institute.

Modelers Club Hears Talk By Naval Pilot

Members of the Hub City modelers, a local organization composed of model airplane enthusiasts, last night heard Charles King, naval flying school graduate as their guest speaker.

Mr. King, who graduated from the Pensacola, Fla., training school, will be located at Norfolk, Va., with the aircraft carrier Ranger. He spoke on naval flight training, relating the different steps necessary to become a pilot. He demonstrated several maneuvers, including loops, slow rolls, snap rolls, tailspins, etc. The speaker also related some of his experiences, much to the delight of the club members.

United States lines reported yesterday she had reached the 14-155-ton Emile Miguet to find the vessel in flames and no sign of the crew. The line assumed then that the crew was lost, explaining it was customary for ships to notify other vessels proceeding to the scene of a catastrophe when a rescue had been made.

Captain Hodge did not explain his delay in reporting the rescue. The Emile Miguet, largest merchant vessel lost in the current war, left Corpus Christi, Texas, September 17 with 160,000 barrels of caseload gasoline blended with crude oil. She presumably was bound for Havre, France.
