NOT TO ALLOW ANY CREDIT TO BELLIGERENTS

Administrat'n Agress To Embargo Bill Amendment

MOVE EXPECTED TO WIN FRIENDS

Provision To Be Removed Would Have Allowed Chief Executive to Pass on 90-Day Credits

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The administration leadership in the Senate agreed today to amend the arms embargo repeal bill to prohibit all credits to warring governments.

Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, proposed the amendment. It would wipe out the present bill's provision allowing credit of not more than 90 days.

In a statement to newspapermen Pittman said that inasmuch as it was the intention of his committee to require settlement in cash or cash equivalents as defined by the attorney general, he deemed it wise to "avoid any confusion or any misunderstanding" by striking out the entire provision.

Other senators predicted that the administration leaders would not make a further change suggested by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and some others that credit to firms in belligerent nations, as well as to the belligerent governments themselves be prohibited.

The provision to be removed gave the President discretion to allow the 90-day credits. His committee had considered, Pittman said, that the presidential discretion would be governed by an opinion of the attorney general in construing the Johnson act.

As a result of Pittman's move, administration leaders, content upon picking up the support of the majority of senators for the repeal of the arms embargo, but who want a "cash and carry" system for other exports which would be more strict than that in the bill.

British Battleship Sent to Bottom

Here is a picture of H.M.S. Royal Oak, $10,000,000 British battleship of 29,150 tons displacement, which was sunk somewhere in the theatre of war by a German submarine.

The first list of survivors indicated a loss of more than 800 officers and men. In Germany the news of the vessel's destruction by U-boat action was reportedly received with glee.

With all preliminary committee meetings and the parade behind them, North Carolina Legionnaires, members of the Auxiliary and also of the Forty and Eight prepared to bring the two-day program to a close tonight with the official installation of new officers.

J. H. Rose of Greenville will be inducted into office as commander of the North Carolina Department of the American Legion; Mrs. Weaver Mann of Newton as Auxiliary president; and Cecil Paie of Charlotte as Grand Chief de Gare of the Forty and Eight.

The parade here this afternoon was one of the most elaborate ever staged in Greenville and was viewed by a record crowd in a city decorated for the event.

Approximately 300 visitors were registered for the two-day program, which got under way yesterday.

One of the most important meetings held today was that of the old and new executive committees, held at the Country club at which dinner was served.

The present European crisis entered the discussions and the general opinion appeared to be that the Legion should make the world safe for democracy and stand up for the preservation of American democracy.

Ed Mulhoney of Wilmington, Del., national officer addressing the same group, called attention to the present night in Congress over neutrality legislation and said while legionnaires may have differing personal views on the question, first of all "we are Americans."

Several other men made brief talks at the banquet. The business session of the Forty and Eight was held yesterday afternoon in the court house, at which routine business and reports were taken up for consideration.

Four divorce cases are listed on the calendar, which sets all divorce cases for disposal on Monday.

The civil session will be followed by a week of criminal court beginning October 30.

German Aircraft Active As Well As Submarines

REPORT FRESH U-BOAT ACTION

Same Submarine Which Sank Royal Oak Saturday Claimed to Have Scored Torpedo Hit on Cruiser Replused, Putting Craft Out of Commission; Britain "Doesn't Bother" to Deny

Berlin, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The supreme command said today that the same submarine which sank the British battleship Royal Oak also scored a torpedo hit on the battle cruiser Repulse, putting her out of commission.

The submarine was said to have reached the safety of German waters, and a report from her commander was expected soon.

The Repulse, commissioned in 1916 and reconstructed in 1936 at a cost of about $5,500,000, displaces 3,200 tons and has a complement of 1,181 to 1,205 men.

Heavier than the 29,150-ton Royal Oak which was sunk Saturday, the Repulse carries six 15-inch guns, 20 four-inch guns, including eight for anti-aircraft and eight torpedo tubes, among lesser armaments. She carries four aircraft with catapults.

In London the British admiralty declined to comment on the German communique. A spokesman said the attitude of the admiralty was that it would not go to the trouble of "denying all these reports."

The German high command announced later in the day that two enemy airplanes, one French and one British, were shot down during the night in the region of Mainz and Frankfurt on the Main and that two crew members were killed and five were taken prisoners.

The British Air Ministry announced a successful reconnaissance over northern and central Germany last night.

Meanwhile the German command apparently was preparing to close its books on the Polish campaign. Its communique today announced that with completion of occupation of the German zone in Poland it would cease reporting from the east.

The war in the west, it reported, still was inactive with only minor skirmishes and artillery fire.

Much Excitement As Old Car Catches Fire

An old, dilapidated automobile caught fire on Tenth street yesterday afternoon and caused considerable excitement among many citizens who they found out what was burning.

The alarm came from one of the principal tobacco factory districts in the city, on East Tenth street, and a large crowd quickly gathered, only to disperse as soon as it was discovered it was an automobile and none of the factories.

Six patrolmen were promoted to the rank of corporal, three corporals, I. L. Jackson, formerly of this city but now of Robersonville, J. A. Merritt of Kinston and G. L. Dail of Edenton, to sergeants.

Germans Massing For Attack?

Arrows on this map indicate areas where—according to French sources—enough German tanks and artillery have been massed to launch a large scale offensive at any time. The estimated number of German troops now on the Western front is 2,000,000 and, faced with the possibility of a German drive before winter grips the embattled Franco-German frontier, the Allies are concentrating both French and British soldiers in strategic positions.

French Fire Aimed At Massing German Forces

Paris, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Heavy French artillery was reported today to have opened fire on German forces massing behind the Western front in apparent preparation for a general offensive.

Military dispatches said the French guns were dropping a heavy barrage on German communication lines and troop concentration points along a 100-mile front extending from the Moselle river to the Haardt forests.

The sector on the French extreme left flank, had been reported earlier in the day in a general staff communique as the center of "great activity" within the German lines. Supplemental military advices said a Nazi attack appeared imminent.

French sources said that recent reinforcements had increased the German strength opposite the vital northern sector of the Maginot line to between 700,000 and 800,000 men.

The French said scouting parties sent into no man's land had reported that lights gleamed behind the German front throughout the night, apparently indicating that troops, tanks and trucks were moving up to "jump-off" points.

COAST ATTACK IS ATTEMPTED

Nazi Planes Reported To Have Been Driven Off by Royal Air Force Craft After Making Attempt to Attack Coastal Objectives in Scotland; Heavy German Casualties Reported.

Edinburgh, Scotland, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Anti-aircraft guns protecting Edinburgh went into action today, apparently against German aircraft which the Air Ministry announced had attempted to raid objectives along the Scottish coast.

Firing started shortly after 2 p. m. (8 a. m. EST). Unconfirmed reports said several planes had been sighted south of the city in pursuit of other planes.

A two-motored plane, presumed by observers to be a German bomber, was seen flying low between Edinburgh and Turnhouse, a small town west of the city. Machine gun fire greeted it and as the plane turned northward toward the Firth of Forth an anti-aircraft shell burst near its tail.

One report said three enemy planes had flown up the Firth of Forth, the great bay which dents the east coast of Scotland. Edinburgh is about 500 air miles from Germany.

Shell fragments were picked up in Edinburgh streets after the firing ceased. No air raid alarm sounded for the city.

London, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The Air Ministry today announced German aircraft had attempted to attack coastal objectives in Scotland this afternoon.

A communique said Royal Air Force planes had engaged the raiders and inflicted heavy casualties on them.

Earlier, British officials had reported the Royal Air Force made a successful reconnaissance over Germany last night.

The Air Ministry said British planes had flown over northern and central Germany. The announcement did not say whether they had encountered any resistance.

At the same time, naval observers predicted the new German submarine offensive which sent the Royal Oak to the bottom and destroyed three allied merchant vessels over the week-end would be quickly brought under control.

These sources interpreted the French Nazi onslaught as Adolf Hitler's reply to Great Britain's rejection of his peace gestures. They predicted, however, the campaign would be halted more speedily than the one Germany launched at the outbreak of hostilities.

Court To Pass On Anti-Trust Cases

Washington, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The Supreme court agreed today to pass on anti-trust litigation brought by the government mid-western oil companies and Chicago milk dealers.

Decisions adverse to the government were delivered by lower courts. The tribunal also consented to review a decision denying the amalgamated utility workers a CIO affiliate, the right to press a charge of contempt against the Consolidated Edison Company of New York, for alleged violation of a National Labor Relations Board order.

Arguments in the milk case were set for November 13 in response to a government motion to expedite the litigation.

Christian Science Services. "Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, October 15.

The golden text was from I John 2:1. "If any man sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world that we might live through him. And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world." (I John 4:9-14).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We acknowledge Jesus' atonement as the evidence of divine, efficacious love, unfolding man's unity with God through Christ Jesus the Way-shower; and we acknowledge that man is saved through Christ, through Truth, Life and Love as demonstrated by the Galilean Prophet in healing the sick and overcoming sin and death."

To Offer Artists On Tuesday Night

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will present the first in a series of entertainments at the high school auditorium tomorrow night, when it will present Pietro Mordella and his musical merry-makers. Coming from an old Italian family, he absorbed music at an early age in his father's workshop. For his father was an accordion-maker of the old school and in fact made the first accordion ever built in this country. Naturally Pietro learned to play as a child, and toddled around with a small accordion strapped to him when other children were still learning their ABC's.

But when young Pietro was 16, his father sent him back to the old country to Genoa, to learn to build pipe-organs. A little of that was enough, however, and back he came to the United States, land of his choice, and he has never been far from a piano-accordion since. Almost as interesting is the story of his daughters, who will be with him on this tour, and who almost match their talented father in ability on the traditional family instrument. Daughter Rita was graduated from Tufts in 1938, with a Phi Beta Kappa key to indicate that her time had been well spent. This past June daughter Flora was graduated from Boston University, honored with membership in Phi Mu Epsilon, national professional music sorority. While in college she won the all-New England Beethoven prize for voice, and the audience here will have the opportunity to hear and feel the beauty and charm of her fine soprano. Last March Miss Flora played and sang the feminine lead in Boston University's presentation of "The Student Prince."

Hospital In City On Approved List

The Pitt General hospital again has been placed on the approved list by the American College of Surgeons. The list of 2,720 was announced at the 22nd annual Hospital Standardization conference which opened in Philadelphia this morning.

On the first list of approved hospitals of the American College of Surgeons 22 years ago, the names of only 89 hospitals appeared, the remaining hospitals on the list having earned the right to appear on the rolls in this relatively short time.

Requirements for being placed on the list include a modern physical plant, clearly defined organization, competent well-trained superintendents, adequate and efficient personnel, organized medical staff, adequate diagnostic and therapeutic facilities, accurate and complete medical records, regular group conferences of the administrative staff and a humanitarian spirit.

The Pitt General hospital has accepted the minimum requirements but for lack of time or other reasons acceptable to the College has not yet been able to carry them out in every particular and for this reason was placed on the provisional list.

Caught By Rain, Inspect Display At Art Gallery

One rainy day recently Jimmy and Jean were on their way home from school when a shower of rain surprised them. They dashed into the Greenville WPA Art Gallery to stay until the rain stopped. It happened just after the Colored Lithographs were placed on exhibition. Their attention was first attracted by a beautifully colored picture called "Goldfish."

"Is that a picture somebody took with a camera, or did they paint it with watercolors?" The question was asked by Jimmy who had previously expressed an interest in drawing and painting.

"Neither," answered the gallery attendant. "They are prints made from drawings on smooth surfaces of stone."

"I don't see how that can be possible," Jimmy replied, looking somewhat puzzled.

"If you and Jimmy are really interested and would like to sit down here and listen, I'll be glad to tell you something about how it was made possible."

With a glance at the rain dashing against the window panes, the children settled themselves in comfortable chairs. "Lithography" is a big word but simply means "writing on stone." It is a method of printing which was discovered just about the time that Thomas Jefferson became the president of the United States. However, the discovery was made in a foreign country called Bavaria.

One day a printer over there named Alois Senefelder found, near his home, a stone which he used as an ink slab. He discovered that the stone had an equal liking for grease and water. Then he began experimenting. He tried writing on the stone with a grease pencil, and the idea occurred to him to see if he could get a printed impression from it.

"He moistened the stone with water, but the greasy part would not take the water. When he ran an ink roller over the stone, the ink stuck to the greasy writing but would not stick to the parts that had been wet with water. When he placed a piece of paper over the stone, it picked up ink from the lettering. He had thus invented a new process of printing or reproduction which is called Lithography."

"But how can these pictures have so many colors in them?" Jean had been attracted by the "Perilous Merry-Go-Round."

"I am not sure that I understand about Lithographs, but I do know a little more about them than I did before," Jimmy said. "The best way to learn is to try things out for yourself, Jimmy. When you have had some lessons in drawing, maybe some day you will be a great Lithographer, who knows? The best known lithographers of all times are probably Currier and Ives. Their work is very rare. We may be able to show of their lithographs here some day. These that are on the walls now were made by artists on the Federal Art Project, and are very well done examples of this type of work. They will stay on view through October 21."

"Thank you for telling us about the pictures. Let's look at them better, Jean. Then we must go home for the shower is over."

"Jimmy, I'm going to look for you at the sketch class next Tuesday afternoon, and Jean, don't forget the Puppet Show Thursday October 19, at 4 p. m. Remember it is "Simple Simon at the Fair."

"Oh, we can't forget that!"

TO DECIDE ON SLOT MACHINE

Perennial Problem To Be Argued Next Week

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL Raleigh, Oct. 14.—The perennial problem of slot machines will bob up again in North Carolina's Supreme Court next week, when the case of State vs. L. F. Cox will be argued orally before the seven justices.

The case, which is making its second trip up from Rowan county, will be one of six criminal and thirteen civil cases on the court's calendar. Appeals from the Sixth District will be called Tuesday and so the Cox case, which is from the other district to be called, the Fifteenth, will not be reached that day but will be the first on Wednesday's calendar unless there is an unfinished argument when court quits Tuesday afternoon.

Two of the criminal cases are appeals from death sentences in the courts below—State vs. Henry and Raymond Williams, and State vs. Holland.

The slot machine case does not involve a test of the current statutes, which have resulted in such a horrible scrambling of the entire situation, nor even of the clean-cut ban on all slots imposed by the Flanagan act; but it has a background of lower and higher court action so intricate as to amount to confusion worse confounded. When it was up before Chief Justice Walter Stacy sent it back with the frank admission that not even he could make heads or tails of the thing and with the expressed hope that it could be disposed of below without again bothering the Supreme court.

But here it is again, with the defendant's counsel, among whom is Pete Murphy, dean of all North Carolina legislators, presenting nine as involved "Questions" as ever confronted Justice Stacy et alis. Root of the whole argument is confiscation and destruction of some machines admitted by the defendant Cox to have been illegal. The case was tried in Rowan county court originally and upon the Cox plea of nolo contendere (I don't want to fight) the slots were ordered destroyed after confiscation.

Thereafter an appeal was taken to Superior court, but before trial it was attempted to vacate the appeal and modify the county court decision so that the defendant would have some time in which to remove the machines from the state of North Carolina. And that really began the fun, if that's the right term for it. Since then the case has been shuffled and shuttled from court to court with startling rapidity, each shuffle and shuttle adding to the evergrowing confusion.

Judge Frank Armstrong of Superior court seems to have escaped the necessity of making a final decision by gracefully calling himself "prejudiced" against the defendant and turning the thing over to the judge of a succeeding term.

Harlingen, Tex.—(AP)—Thirteen years ago, while Walter Martin of Port Isabel, Tex., was in Denver, Colo. participating in the Great Western handicap, a valuable gun was stolen from him. He reported the theft to police. Denver officers just informed him the gun had been recovered in a pawn shop and was being returned to him. Martin said the pawn shop ticket indicated the gun had been pledged for a loan made to a Wyoming man who apparently had taken good care of the weapon because it was in excellent condition when it was returned to its legal owner.

EXPECT CROWD AT NEGRO TILT

A & T and Virginia Eleven to Meet At Wilson

Wilson, N. C. - One of the largest crowds ever to attend a sports event in Eastern North Carolina is expected to gather at Wilson's new $76,000 Municipal stadium on Friday night, October 20th, to witness a football struggle between two titans of Negro college football. The A & T Aggies of Greensboro and the Virginia University Panthers of Richmond, Va.

The game, originally scheduled for Richmond, was switched to Wilson through the combined efforts of the city's stadium commission and a committee of prominent Negro citizens, who will attempt to bring other Negro sporting events to this section for the enjoyment of white as well as Negro fans.

Both the Aggies and Panthers are undefeated so far this season. Each team got away to a flying start by rolling up identical scores of 40 to 0 over strong opponents. The North Carolina eleven has also a scoreless tie with the 1938 national champions, the Florida Rattlers.

Thirty-five eastern North Carolina high school football teams have been extended invitations to attend the contest, which is the first Negro gridiron classic ever to be held in the eastern part of the state. A parade will be staged prior to the game, ending at the stadium where an elaborate display of fireworks will be set off for the entertainment of the crowd. Plans are being made to take care of 6,000.

The event has been widely advertised from Greensboro east, committee members personally visiting 84 North Carolina and Virginia towns.

An acre was originally defined as the area a yoke of oxen could plow in a day.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO BREAK JAM

Other statements may Follow that of Gravely

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Oct. 16. - Announcement by former State Senator Lee Gravely that he will "if living" make "application" in the governorship race at the "proper time" is quite likely to break the log jam started by Governor Clyde Hoey's "no early announcement" pronouncement.

In other words and in a phrase once favored by all the wise crackers "it won't be long now" until there comes a flood of specific statements that the authors thereof are desirous of serving the State in the capacity of its chief executive (salary $11,000, together with occupancy of a large, if somewhat ugly, mansion in the city of Raleigh for four years).

This is the more likely in view of the fact that partisans of what has become known in some quarters as the "Big Two" have for several weeks been spreading great robes of propaganda to the effect that other candidates will never get around to making the race. The "Big Two" it should be stated are J. M. Broughton, Raleigh attorney, and Lieutenant Governor Wilkins P. Horton, and the "will never run" rumors are being circulated about Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell and Raleigh Attorney Willis Smith; quite obviously with a view to discouraging friends of the latter pair.

It is a slight variation of the "He hasn't got a chance" tactics so effectively employed by Governor Hoey's side against Sandy Graham in 1936. Just about this stage of the heated contest state employees with automobiles and traveling jobs began circulating all over Raleigh passing out word that Graham, while a fine fellow and all that sort of thing just couldn't possibly make the grade and so there was nothing left to do but back Hoey to save the state from Communism and Ralph McDonald.

It worked well, and the biggest single obstacle the Graham people had to overcome and one they never did successfully get over, was the psychology created by this sort of stuff.

So now it is obvious that Horton and Broughton supporters (with no common agreement, of course) are attempting something of the same sort. So far as this correspondent has observed the ruse is being tried more seriously by the Horton forces, with the Revenue Commissioner as the fellow they hope to hurt.

The technique is simple. The Horton partisan, without revealing his personal leanings, gets into a political discussion with the fellow he wants to inoculate with the anti-Maxwell virus; and in the course of the conversation observers that "Maxwell isn't going to run. He'll never pay his filing fee."

Pressed for reasons, as he naturally is, the Horton man then cites three which are alleged to be conclusive.

He will say: (1) That while former Governor O. Max did or said during his visit here, this corner knows nothing, nor is it in position to deny positively that Governor Hoey has intimated to Maxwell that he should resign if he makes the race for the No. 1 post. There is so much precedent to the contrary, however, that any such action on the part of the Governor seems very unlikely.

The "won't run" propaganda against Smith isn't being anything like as vigorously pushed, but it looms up every once in so often. It appears that the Horton backers are responsible for starting this sort of thing, and that Broughtonites have followed suit on simple theory that it helps them too.

As a result there is no question that Maxwell partisans are beginning to get a bit restive and they are importuning their favorite to get in the race formally and definitely in order that they can point

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 16. (AP) - Buyers made feeble passes at the stock market today and managed to push up leading issues fractions to a point or two.

The proceedings were lethargic throughout with the turnover indicated as the lightest since the start of the European war. Advances were fairly well held near the fourth hour, but numerous issues were unable to register much progress.

Foreign markets were mixed with American securities down at Amsterdam. Bonds and commodities also were uneven. The British pound sterling rallied in terms of the dollar.

Steels, rails and aircrafts led the stock list on the selective comeback after considerable early spottiness.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 16. (AP) - Cotton futures opened three higher to two lower.

Price-fixing orders in December and some local buying absorbed scattered hedging and liquidation during the second hour. October was down one at 9.13 and May was ahead one at 8.46.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker
New York - If Spencer Tracy is looking for a hat he left in a hat shop in Rockefeller Center he can have it by getting in touch with this department. It just fits me. I found this out under extraordinary circumstances, as it was a very foul day and I was treating myself to a new raincoat, the first I have owned in ten years.

While trying on the coat I remembered that I had bought a hat in this place several months previously, and had neglected to take the old one home with me. As I needed a good fishing hat, I asked the manager if he thought there was a chance to reclaim the old one, and he obliged by taking me down in the store room, where a lot of neglected hats were on pegs.

Mine was there all right, and so was Tracy's. They were much alike, except that his fitted me better and I took it. Only after I got it home did I find the name, Spencer Tracy, under the band.

I'm afraid he isn't going to like the looks of the band any more. I hooked a couple of flies in it. And it has a little smear of oil on the brim from the outboard motor. But outside of that it is in first-class condition, and if Spencer won't accept an apology he'll just have to sue.
