Soviets Quote Article From Estonian Newspaper

FINNS CHARGED WITH OBDRURACY

Official News Agency Also Charges Hate of Russians Being Taught in Army and Schools

Moscow, Nov. 16.—(AP) The Soviet Russian press, intensifying attacks on Finnish foreign policy, today quoted an Estonian newspaper as saying that Finland's "obduracy" was impairing her relations with the U. S. S. R.

In a dispatch from Tallinn Tass, official news agency, said an Estonian newspaper had criticized Finland's military preparations and urged that she "regulate relations with her great eastern neighbor as soon as possible."

"Finland is hurting herself—no one can deny that," the dispatch quoted the paper as saying. In another dispatch from Helsinki, capital of Finland, Tass charged that Finns were being taught to "hate Russians" with the encouragement of "the English bourgeoisie."

These attacks, reminiscent of Soviet newspaper comment preceding the Russian march into Poland two months ago, were interpreted by foreign observers as part of a campaign to induce Finland to grant Russia's demands for territorial concessions.

At the same time Great Britain was the object of sharp criticism in Pravda, Communist party newspaper, which commented on "deplorable conditions" in India under British rule.

In the Helsinki dispatch Tass declared that "Finnish 'reactionary elements' were fostering an 'anti-Soviet policy' and preaching a doctrine of 'hate' in the army and in the schools."

Act Provides For Young Employees

In discussing the provisions of the amended Social Security Act, R. E. Marshall, manager of the Rocky Mount field office of the Social Security Board, told today of provisions made for young workers.

The original act, passed in 1935 by Congress, was primarily an old-age insurance act in that only persons over age 65 could ever be eligible for monthly benefits. To young workers, age 65 often seemed a long way off. Where the young worker died, only a small lump-sum settlement was made. The amount of this settlement was 3 1/2 per cent of the employee's earnings. Now, however, said Mr. Marshall, since the act provides monthly benefits to survivors of young workers, this age group has an immediate stake in the act.

For example, if a young worker dies in January, 1940, and this worker had earned an average of $100 a month since January 1, 1937, under the old act his estate or family would have received a single lump-sum payment of $126. This would have been paid regardless of whether the employee had children or no children. Under the amended act, on the basis of an average wage of $100 a month, should the employee die and leave a widow with one child she would receive approximately $31.70 per month, until the child became 18. If two children under age 18 survived, there would be payments of approximately $44 per month.

Twenty-five out of every one hundred persons who applied for social security account numbers last year were boys and girls under the age of 19. More than 2 1/2 million workers under age 25 applied for social security account numbers in 1938. Over half of these were young men. At that time, few of them realized that a social security account meant future protection for their families as well as for themselves. Since Congress passed the amended act which provides supplemental monthly benefits for the aged wives and minor children of annuitants, and for the survivors of insured workers, applications for account numbers have increased.

Young workers under age 25 have received credit on the records of the Social Security Board for more than $ 1/2 billion dollars, since the old-age insurance system first went into operation less than three years ago. By now, some have a sizeable social security account and a corresponding equity in an old-age survivors insurance policy.

Supreme Court Justice Pierce Butler Succumbs At Washington Hospital

Justice Succumbs

Associate Justice Pierce Butler of the United States Supreme court died in a Washington hospital today after having been confined for most of the past several months. His death will mean that five of the nine justices on the high tribunal will be appointees of President Roosevelt.

CONFINED WITH SERIOUS ILLNESS

Death Means Five of Nine Justices on High Tribunal Will Be Roosevelt Appointees

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP) — Associate Justice Pierce Butler of the Supreme court died today.

The 73-year-old justice entered a hospital for treatment of bladder trouble last summer and with the exception of two weeks when he was able to return to his home he had remained there since.

His death meant that President Roosevelt appointees would be in the majority on the court. Mr. Roosevelt has named four of those on the nine-man tribunal.

Butler was a democrat, but officials of the Roosevelt administration had termed him one of the two "conservative" members of the court, the other being Justice James C. McReynolds.

Butler ranked next to McReynolds as the tribunal's leading dissenter.

Major decisions to which Butler dissented last term included rulings holding constitutional the 1933 Agricultural Adjustment act, holding that a group of private power companies could not attack the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Authority program, and that a state may impose an income tax on salary received by federal employees.

Surviving are Mrs. Butler and the following children: Pierce Butler, Jr., William Butler, Francis Butler, all of St. Paul, Minn.; Leo Butler and Miss Margaret Butler of Washington, and Mrs. Edward K. Dunn of Baltimore.

Death came so suddenly that neither his doctor nor members of his family were present.

MANY EXHIBITS ON BOOK WEEK

Business Houses Provide Window Space For Displays

The business houses of Greenville, exhibiting their usual willingness to cooperate, this week are giving prominent window space to special displays in observance of Book Week.

The organized and active clubs and groups of the city have matched the merchants by a use of their time and talent in arranging the displays. Much of the material for use in the windows was borrowed from Sheppard Memorial library.

Of special note was a streamer in blue and orange announcing that Book week is here. This motto is in each decorative window.

At Nisbet-Proctor's a window arranged by the Pitt County Home Demonstration club shows books and posters, one group showing desirable window treatments, another telling that club members during the closing year had read 1791 books.

Kares' window decorated by the Clio Book club effectively developed the idea of international friendship through books.

The Junior Woman's club made up a very attractive display of colorful magazines and periodicals in the window at Sally Frocks.

The Pitt county health department used a window at Warren Drug company. Bows of autumn leaves gave color to their display of books and pamphlets giving the reader information on how to keep well, the object of all health department activities.

In Frank Wilson's window the Chatham Book club displayed new fiction with attractive dolls in national costumes arranged around a globe illustrating the Book Week motto. Books around the world.

The spacious window of C. Heber Forbes was filled by the San Souci Book club, using Europe's war as their topic. A battlefield with the trenches and awful instruments of war in daily use now was shown in contrast with a peaceful American home, adults about their daily tasks and children playing on the lawn. Very impressive!

The next window was tastefully arranged by the Garden club using books and magazines, bulbs and flowers and garden tools. The floral display as a result of "gardening" was lovely.

The center window at J. C. Penney's had been made into a room for a very young child. A desk and chair just his size formed a center for justly posters, picture books, educational toys and pre-primers. This was done by the Inter Se Book club.

The Literature department of the Woman's club emphasized recreation and hobbies in a window at Batchelor's. Their selection of books and lovely hand-made posters made one glad he had a hobby or made him decide to adopt one at once.

The Athenium Book club in a window at the Ideal Beauty shop demonstrated the possibilities for a quiet, restful evening in an easy chair with a reading lamp nearby, surrounded by books and books.

Mr. Bourne and Mr. Leftwich of the local high school faculty using a window at the Merrit Electric shop called their display "Occupations." The books, working plans and finished products made it all seem easy.

In a Blount-Harvey window the End of the Century club used the Orient as their subject. Colorful tapestries and art objects were used with books on China and Japan.

At Hill-Horne's window the Round Table displayed North Carolina in letters. The state motto and (Continued on page four)

Study Proposal For Tax Program

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP)—John W. Hanes, acting treasury secretary, asserted today the administration has not decided on a tax program and that recommendation for higher taxes made by Chairman Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board did not represent official views.

Hanes, talking to reporters, had this to say about recommendation made by Eccles in a speech at St. Louis last week: "I'll say I don't think he spoke for the administration."

"I doubt seriously if he spoke for Congress. I am certain he didn't speak for the treasury."

The acting secretary said the administration had an "open mind" about taxes and was still studying suggestions from thousands of business men and particularly wanted to study the prospects of increased revenue from present tax rates.

Saying that business prospects for the next six months were "optimistic," Hanes expressed belief that present tax rates probably would yield considerably more revenue.

MRS. BOLLING REPORT CASES NEW UDC HEAD OF PARALYSIS

Fayetteville Nov. 16.—(AP)—Fayetteville public schools were ordered closed as a precautionary measure today after two cases of infantile paralysis had been reported from the Haywood grammar school.

Dr. J. C. Knox of Raleigh said the disease was not considered epidemic in the area months and that the two cases here were probably incidental or sporadic, but city authorities decided to take precautions.

Children under 15 were banned from attending in this picture show, Sunday school and other gatherings.

Those in charge of Fayetteville's sequel annual celebration, which begins Sunday after months of preparation, decided to continue with their plans although they feared the discovery of the two cases would have an adverse effect.

Al Capone Released by Federal Officials Upon Completion of Sentence

Former Gang Leader Discharged at Lewisburg, Pa.

TERM BEGUN SEVEN YEARS AGO

Scarface Al Linked With Assassination Of Chicago Turfman Even as He is Released

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP) — "Scarface Al" Capone, notorious gangster of prohibition days, was released today by federal prison officials.

James V. Bennett, director of federal prisons, made the announcement.

He said: "This morning the sentence of Alphonse Capone having expired today, he was discharged from the U. S. penitentiary at Lewisburg to his relatives."

"Capone was transferred today from the federal correctional institution near Los Angeles to Lewisburg."

Capone began service of a 10-year penitentiary sentence for evasion of income taxes May 4, 1932, and completed his portion of his sentence on January 10, 1939, upon which date he began service of the sentence of one year for failure to file his income tax returns.

"With allowances for good behavior and credit for three days spent in jail in October, 1931, Capone's sentence expired November 16, 1939."

Even as Capone was released, Captain Daniel Gilbert of the state attorney's office in Chicago, said of the recent assassination of Turfman Edward J. O'Hare:

"There's no longer any doubt about it being a Capone job."

By "the Capone job" Gilbert said he meant to lay the killing at the door of what is left of the gangster organization Al Capone once ruled.

ADMITS ERROR IN TESTIMONY

State Witness Reduces Sum Kuhn Allegedly Stole

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The state rested today in the larceny trial of Fritz Kuhn after admitting a major error in prosecution testimony. Discovery of the mistake reduced from $5,641 to $1,893 the amount which the state leader of the German-American bund is accused of stealing from his own organization.

The change was made when Benjamin Blattner, an accountant attached to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office, returned to the witness stand to amend his earlier testimony.

On Tuesday he had testified to a shortage of $4,243 in the bund's legal defense fund—one of the sources into which the state claims Kuhn dipped unlawfully—but today he said the figure was $674.

In addition to the $674, the middle age bund's treasurer now stands accused specifically of stealing $500 and $717. The $500 ostensibly was paid by Kuhn, James Murray, an attorney, for certain legal services and the $717 allegedly was taken from the treasury by Kuhn to pay the moving expenses of Mrs. Florence Kamp a woman friend.

After this sharp downward revision of the total amount involved in the prosecution, Defense Attorney Peter L. F. Sabatino vainly demanded a mistrial.

Children under 15 were banned from attending in this picture show, Sunday school and other gatherings.

Those in charge of Fayetteville's sequel annual celebration, which begins Sunday after months of preparation, decided to continue with their plans although they feared the discovery of the two cases would have an adverse effect.

Nazi Source Says Germany will Tear Down Power

PLAN TO OFFER NO PEACE TERMS

Statement Made in Connection with Reply of 'No' to Latest Proposal for Mediation of War

Berlin, Nov. 16.—(AP)—An authoritative source announced today that Germany had decided to "fight until British supremacy in the world is destroyed."

Germany, this source said, "will have no peace terms to offer until such a victory has been won."

The statement was made in connection with the German reply to the mediation offer of The Netherlands and Belgium and in answer to the question, "What might Germany's peace terms be?"

(Germany's reply to the mediation offer, made orally by her foreign minister, was a polite "no.")

"It is no longer a question of German peace terms," the Berlin official stated.

"Such a question might be raised in Paris or London, but not in Berlin. We are far beyond that and there will be no peace terms until we reach success. We are as ready to fight as we were for peace."

This source said there was speculation throughout the world over why Germany did not attack.

"We have no fear of attacking, but intend to let military judgment choose the time and not to be goaded into it by foreign propaganda," he said.

His statement emphasized that it "would be a great mistake for the outside world to get the impression there was weakness here."

Today's communique of the German high command was confined to four words: "No special events yesterday."

Deal Has Article In Bank Magazine

The Tarheel Banker for October carries in its pages an article by Professor R. C. Deal, of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers college, called "The Small Depositor and the Bank," which he was asked to write for that publication.

In the article Mr. Deal discusses the change that has come about within a generation or two in the number of small depositors in banks, with possibly 75 per cent of all deposits today being those of the "little man," and points out the advantages to both the depositor and the bank from this change.

He gives briefly a number of advantages of a checking account for the small depositor and then discusses in more detail the chief advantages to the bank—not always seen-of having the "confidence, good-will, and friendship of that legion of folks, that group that is perhaps after all the main-stay of a nation, that certainly makes up the bulk of our population—the small-salaried folks."

Large Delegation To Be At Meeting

A large delegation from the city and county schools of Pitt are expected to be present at the Classroom Teachers Association's annual dinner meeting to be held in the Carolina room of the Christian church at Wilson tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The session will be held in connection with the annual Northeastern Conference of the North Carolina Teachers Association.

The Classroom Teachers Association will hold its annual dinner in the Carolina room of the Christian church at Wilson at 8 o'clock when the Northeastern District of the North Carolina Education Association meets Friday, November 17.

Dr. Carlisle Campbell, president of Meredith College in Raleigh, will be the guest speaker to the teachers. This is his first year at Meredith, but he has built his reputation as an outstanding educator at Coker college in South Carolina and in the English department at State college in Raleigh, so he will be no stranger to many present.

Miss Kay V. Anthony of Richmond, regional director of the Southeastern District of classroom teachers, will be present and bring greetings to the group. This is her first appearance in the state since her election at the national meeting in San Francisco last June. A regional director for the Southeastern district of the National Education Association is a new office in the organization and her work is just in the pioneer stage.

Justus Allison of Asheville who is state president of classroom teachers, will bring greetings, and there will be others to appear for brief remarks.

New officers will be elected at this meeting for the coming year and there will be other business also to clear at this time.

Following the dinner, the Wilson Merchants' Association, the Cotton Club and the Wilson City schools will give a dance in the ballroom of the Hotel Cherry to all teachers attending the meeting.

To these was added pie-eating and jitterbug contests topped by a grand cake walk in which six delicious cakes were given away.

Mayor Jack Spain was at his best as master of ceremonies. The refreshment stands were kept busy all evening.

Mrs. Joe Van Hoy graciously entertained members of the Clio Book Club Tuesday afternoon in Ragsdale Hall. Mrs. Roy Barrett, president, presided over a short business meeting. The club voted to donate $10 to Sheppard Memorial Library.

Continuing the series of programs on foreign countries, Mrs. James Johnston gave a most energizing paper on Italy. She briefly mentioned the historical background, Italy's romantic interests, her legends, heroes, triumphs, misfortunes and culture. Italy, occupying the same amount of territory as the states of California and Maine, is a weird combination of beautiful scenery, earthquakes, vineyards and volcanoes.

Mrs. Johnston next made a comparison of the living conditions in Italy with those in the United States. She said Italy finds it difficult to provide enough bread, meat, butter and eggs for her people. There are nine times as many people to the square mile over there as in the United States. Standards of living are far below that of our country. Italy's literacy is 78 per cent as compared to United States, 95 per cent. Italy's bank deposits were $47 per capita in 1935 as compared to $423 per capita in the United States.

Mrs. Johnston presented interesting sidelights on the life, personality and characteristics of Mussolini. She mentioned the three women who have been most influential on his life, namely his mother, Rosa Mussolini; Antoinette Balaban, who schooled him in practical politics; Switzerland, and his daughter, Edda, the most outstanding in ability, personality and intelligence of the Mussolini children.

In conclusion the speaker, discussed the political situation in Italy today. She gave various opinions as to why Italy is remaining neutral. The consensus of opinion is that Italy will remain neutral until she is pretty sure which is the winning side and then join the victors to divide the spoils.

Following Mrs. Johnston's informative talk, current events relating to Italy, were given and discussed by the members. The hostess served a delicious sweet course with coffee.

The club was delighted to have Mrs. William Padgett of Greensboro, Misses Lena Ellis and Mary Coughy of E. C. T. C., as guests for the afternoon.—Reported.

Griffith-Taylor.

Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock the marriage of Miss Marie Louise Taylor to Mr. James Walter Griffith junior, was solemnized in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in a ceremony characterized by beauty and dignity.

The vows were spoken before the altar banked with Kenia palms and ferns. Cathedral candles burned in Gothic arch arrangement and in seven-branched candelabra interspersed between floor standards of large white chrysanthemums.

Organist for the ceremony was Mrs. George B. W. Hadley, whose musical program included Liszt's "Liebestraum," Wagner's "To An Evening Star," "I Love You Truly," and Schubert's "Ava Maria."

Prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Miss Camella Foreman of Elizabeth City, former classmate of the bride, sang "Serenade" by Schubert, and "At Dawning" by Cadman. Miss Foreman's gown was of blue velvet with matching accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of Sunset roses.

To the strains of the Bridal Chorus from the opera "Lohengrin" the ushers and bridesmaids entered the church. The ushers were Roger Taylor, brother of the bride, Simon Move, junior, of Greenville, Georgia, and William Milligan of Henderson, North Carolina.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Reynolds May and Miss Pearl Lautares of this city, Miss Helen Tankard of Washington, North Carolina, and Miss Tommie Mitchell of Kinston, wore dresses of Congo gold satin, with sweetheart necklines and full skirts extending to slight trains at the back. Their small velvet hats, were fashioned entirely of small thatched petals and ribbon caught at the back, matching the color of their dresses. They carried arm bouquets of Bronze Roy chrysanthemums, tied with bronze ribbon.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Ruby Taylor. The dame of honor was Mrs. Robert Pate of New Bern, aunt of the bride. They were gowned in watermelon blue satin fashioned on identical lines as those worn by the bridesmaids. Their hats of velvet matched their gowns. Their costumes were complemented with beautiful bouquets of Sun glow chrysanthemums, tied with yellow satin ribbon.

Next to enter was the flower girl, Miss Mary Spence Sugg, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sugg of this city. She wore a lovely frock of blue taffeta and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of tiny pompons showered with Sweetheart roses.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the chancel by the bridegroom and his brother, Mr. Robert McKennin Griffith of Savannah, Georgia, as best man.

The bride's wedding gown, fashioned by Le Long, of frost white Bridal satin, was made on princess lines, having a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves extending to a point on the hands. Her bodice was tight-fitting with a bustle effect at the waistline and the long full skirt forming a full circular train. Tiny buttons extended from the waist to the neckline. Her long veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of seed pearls and net, caught in the back with orange blossoms. Her semi-colonial bouquet was of Killarney roses showered with lilies of the valley and tied with white satin ribbon and maline. The bride's only ornament was a necklace of exquisite pearls, a gift of the groom.

The vows were spoken before the Reverend T. McM. Grant, pastor of the church.

During the ceremony, Mrs. Hadley softly played "Because" by De Hardelet. The Wedding March from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," was played as the wedding party left the church.

For the wedding, Mrs. Henry Lawrence Taylor, mother of the bride, wore King's Blue velvet with matching accessories and a corsage of Tallman roses and valley lilies. Mrs. James Walter Griffith, senior, mother of the bridegroom, wore black lace with black and white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Griffith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lawrence Taylor of this city, attended the public schools of Greenville and received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Greensboro College, Greensboro. Since her graduation, she has been a member of the faculty of the Washington high school, Washington, North Carolina.

Mr. Griffith, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Walter Griffith of Savannah, Georgia, received his Science degree in architecture at the Georgia School of Technology. At present he is connected with A. J. Maxwell, Junior, Goldsboro, North Carolina.

After an informal reception held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Griffith left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. After November 27th they will make their home at 211 East Spruce street, Goldsboro.

For traveling, Mrs. Griffith wore a costume suit styled by Molynex. The dress was of burnt sugar wool made with high neckline and long sleeves. The coat being short, was made of shirred beaver fur. With her costume she selected brown suede accessories and wore a small brown hat trimmed with fur, matching her coat. She wore a corsage of Tallman roses and valley lilies.

Following the wedding ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor entertained at a small informal reception at their home for members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests. Colorful fall flowers and burning white tapers decorated the rooms in which the guests were received. In the dining room, the table was covered with an embroidered white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white roses and snapdragons, flanked by burning white tapers in silver holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hugh Edwards received the guests and presented them to the receiving line, which was composed of the bridal party and parents of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Z. V. Murphy showed the guests to the punch room where punch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sugg, Mr. Reynolds May and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wilkerson presided over the bride's book. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Move, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Sugg, Miss Ann McCormick, Mr. Burney Warren, Jr., and Mr. John Collins, Jr., greeted guests in the gift room. Rev. and Mrs. T. McM. Grant directed the guests to the dining room where ice cream and individual white-iced cakes, mints and nuts were served by Mrs. H. C. Sugg and Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, assisted by Miss Ruby Grant, Miss Mary Woolard, Miss Jean Harrington and Miss Frances Glass. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Garris.

Those from out-of-town here for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. James Walter Griffith, Mr. Mack Griffith, Mr. James Houlihan of Savannah, Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Maxwell, Jr., of Goldsboro; Mr. and Mrs. William Milligan of Henderson; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Crutchfield of Thomasville; Mr. and Mrs. John Atwater of Greensboro; Mr. T. A. Mitchell, Miss Tommie Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pate, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Pate of Kinston; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pate of New Bern; Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Grimes, Mrs. D. W. Miller, Miss Berta Holland, Mr. Ray Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elderidge, Miss Annie Fowle, Miss Mary Fowle, Mr. and Mrs. James Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. E. Frank Rubie, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Sanctuary Laundry

Huntington, W. Va.—(AP)—It wouldn't have been so bad, philosophized Mrs. Virginia Stover, if her morning's work hadn't gone along with the clothes.

She told police that a thief waited until after she had washed her family's clothing and then disappeared with them from out of the tub.

A HANDSOME STORE
Would Be a Credit to a City

Two strangers stood talking together on Evans street. Said one: "I never saw a town come out like Greenville has in the last few months. But a short while ago right along here was a nest of old frame buildings that were unsightly and dangerous. Now you will not find a better looking business street in any town than this. And just look at that splendid two-story building across the street there. That house would do credit to a place ten times as large as Greenville. There is not a handsomer store in the state. Whose is it? Why, C. T. Munford is the owner and he is getting ready to move in and occupy it. Talk about enterprise, you find a manifestation of it right there that speaks for itself. He came to Greenville nearly fourteen years ago and began business in a small way, and he has pushed onward and upward until now he is surpassed by none. His store has always been a providing place for the people, and he has always dealt honestly with everyone, hence his success."

BOOK REVIEWS
ORDAL IN ENGLAND
By Philip Gibbs

It is unusual to find a contemporary Englishman of letters laying part of the blame for the present war on his own country's rejection of Hitler's peace overtures. Mr. Gibbs does just that, and supports his hypothesis by some interesting historical reporting. The book covers the period beginning with the death of King George V, and ending with the coronation of England's present king, George VI. We all have a fairly good knowledge of the history-making events that took place during these years: the world-wide movement of the breakdown of the League of Nations, the abdication of Edward Windsor; but Mr. Gibbs takes us behind the scenes into the clubs, or out to tea or into a gathering of students, and we are able to feel here the pulse of individual English thought and reaction to those events. Side by side with his theory that Germany could have been brought back into the family of nations had she not been treated with suspicion and distrust, the author develops the theme of British superiority in intelligence, in understanding of the problems confronting the world, and in patience in dealing with other peoples. He is proud of the superior English spirit and tradition, even when he deplores some of the lapses and mistakes of the leaders. He is like the person who believes the other fellow 90 per cent wrong and himself 90 per cent right, but nevertheless, blames himself for not being 100 per cent; implying that if he had been so, it would compensate for the errors of the other person. The pen portraits that accompany the text are sympathetic, but not glossed over. England's kings: George V, Edward VIII, and George VI; and other figures of contemporary importance in England, such as Harold Laski, Hore-Bellisha, David Lloyd George and Winston Churchill are paraded before our eyes, clothed partly in their glory, and partly in their humble flesh. These sketches add color to a book that is of lively and practical significance to us in arriving

ONE PHASE OF RED CROSS WORK

First aid has long been stressed by the local chapter of the Red Cross, which organization will hold its annual roll call tomorrow, and at least one life has been credited with being saved through training provided by the Red Cross. W. E. Hill, employee of the Water and Light Commission, came in contact with 6,000 volts of electricity and was hurled 15 feet down a pole. Fellow workmen, trained in first aid treatment, at once went to work on Hill, applying artificial respiration. This action was credited with saving Hill's life. C. W. Willard is chairman of the first aid committee of the local Red Cross unit. Shown below are two pictures relating to the first aid training courses here.

The above picture was taken during practical training given at a first aid class conducted here. Clarence Little, left, is shown with splints on his arms, as is S. D. Roberts, right. C. W. Willard is shown stooping over and James Brewer, only part of whom can be seen, is looking on.

LET THE RECORD SPEAK
By Dorothy Thompson
"No other woman, and very few men, can compare with Dorothy Thompson in the influence which she exerts, without the aid of office, on the ideas and the feelings of her fellow American." —Ralph Pulitzer.
Dorothy Thompson is a power, a power to be reckoned with in creating and moulding public opinion today. As a columnist, an author, and a speaker, there is a brilliant effectiveness and a convincing power in her argument. Her good horse-sense combined with her vivid memory, her enthusiasm, touched with emotion, makes her one of the most interesting personalities in America today. One may not always agree with her, yet she stimulates clear thinking and courageous sympathy. Almost all of her readers are her friends.

Transcript terms this "a deeply moving lyric."
A particularly interesting chapter is a speech on Horace Mann, this shows skilled library craftsmanship. With almost prophetic vision, Miss Thompson gives a dramatic running account of the Nazi advance in the remaining chapters of "Let the Record Speak."
This book, on the shelves of the Sheppard Memorial Library, is available to the Greenville public. —Mrs. S. J. Everett.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Nov. 16.—The State of North Carolina has entered upon a crusade for economy in government —if signs in some of the wash rooms of office buildings are really indicative.
"Wet the hands first. Use very little soap," read the placards in bold black capitals.
Now there will be money to pay the teachers, this column is certain.

Claude F. Gaddy, Raleigh's superintendent of public schools turns out to be a very unusual sort of person—he actually believes that sports in the schools are primarily intended for the students of the schools. Such heresy!!!
Superintendent Gaddy has refused point blank to schedule Raleigh's big high school game with Durham as a night affair; although it has been sharply pointed out to him that a nocturnal battle would draw a much bigger crowd, with correspondingly increased gate receipts.
But to all such pleas, Gaddy is deaf. He holds that the afternoon staging of the affair makes it much safer for students travelling from Durham to Raleigh, and vice versa, than they would be at night.

John Caffey will be the only "major" candidate for Guilford from the 1940 sixth District Congressional primary, predicts Major J. P. McLendon, former chairman of the state board of elections and a potent political factor in Greensboro and the Sixth.
Last time the perennial Greensboro-High Point feud prevented the county from presenting a united front in the first primary.

The first woman attorney ever to be regularly employed by North Carolina's attorney general office will be Miss Cornelia McKimmon of Raleigh, who today will go on the job of codifying the statutes of the state.
Attorney General Harry McMullan announced her appointment yesterday. Miss McKimmon, employed for some time in the revenue department, is a M. A. from the Greensboro branch of the University of North Carolina, and passed her state bar examination for law license after studying at night school here.

State Senator John Umstead is preparing to entertain all members of the state's upper house at Chapel Hill on the occasion of the Carolina-Virginia football game Thanksgiving day. He extended the invitation during the last senate session of this year, and has recently written all his colleagues reminding them of the bid.
In developing home grounds, simplicity is one requisite that should always be kept in mind, says John H. Harris, extension landscape specialist at State college.

Played Major Role in Family Tragedy

Evidence that Tuberculosis is contracted in childhood but usually does not appear as a disease until adult life.
"In the neat frame cottage pictured above, many years ago tuberculosis played a terrible role in a family tragedy. The head of the family, a prosperous farmer, died of tuberculosis. He left a healthy wife, who lived to be eighty, and nine children. All of the children lived to reach maturity. Soon after her marriage, the oldest girl died of the disease. A few years later the second and third daughters succumbed. Later on, the fourth daughter, who had married, died of the same disease. Finally, a son who had become

"Torpedo" Styling has taken America by storm

If it isn't a Pontiac it isn't a "Torpedo"

NO, "Torpedo styling" isn't a term like "four-wheel brakes" or "safety glass." It doesn't denote a development that's industry-wide—as yet! It's the colorful phrase that America adopted to describe the boldly different beauty of the biggest, smartest, most luxurious Pontiac ever built. Without that sparkling jewel-like front-end and its cresting Silver Streak—without those flaring fenders fore and aft taper aft, it could only be "just another car." But NOT A PONTIAC "TORPEDO"—with its rich interior luxury and the thrilling, thrifty eight-performance for which Pontiac is renowned. So when you can't resist the urge to own an eight with "Torpedo" styling, come in and get the only car that has it—the leader of Pontiac's 1940 line of 17 sixes and eights... all supremely smart and brilliantly beautiful!

Phantoms Playing Edent on High Eleven This Afternoon

TWO REGULARS WILL NOT PLAY

Earl Kittrell and Marvin Stocks on Injured List

SPORTS.—48—PHANTOMS .M. Greenville high's powerful football machine left this morning for Edenton for their fourth Eastern Conference tilt. Kickoff time is set for three o'clock this afternoon.

Until yesterday Greenville was doped as slight favorites, but two regulars, Earl Kittrell and Marvin Stocks will be out of action because of injuries. Kittrell, senior tackle, and one of the heaviest men on the squad is suffering from a burst blood vessel in an ear. Stocks will be out because of a shoulder injury sustained in practice.

Buddy Harrington, who is on a football eleven for the first time, will fill Stocks' absence, unless Coach Farley does some unexpected shifting. Stocks is a fullback. It is thought that Spencer Carroll, second string tackle will be called to take over Kittrell's position.

In the Phantom line will be Larry James and John Collins, ends; Paul Scott and Warren Parrish, guards; Russell Rogerson and Spencer Carroll, tackles; and Polly Williams, center.

Greenville's fleet-footed backfield will be composed of J. B. Kittrell, George Sakas, George Tyndall and Buddy Harrington.

Even though the hosts have failed to break into the win column this season, they possess a good, hard-charging team. The Phantoms are aware that they will have a fighting team opposing them.

Greenville has racked in 193 points in seven games, while they have given up only 27 points. Five wins, one loss and one tie game is the record for the locals. They have, in addition to the Edenton game, contests with Kinston and Washington. Both are conference games to be played here under lights.

Cooperation Plea Comes From Duke

Durham, Nov. 16—Duke university officials again appeal to those planning to attend the Duke-Carolina game in Duke stadium Saturday to cooperate in every possible way toward eliminating traffic hazards, drinking and disorderly conduct at the contest.

Placards calling attention to the state law in regard to drinking in public will be displayed in Duke stadium and on the approaches to the stadium and rigid compliance to the law will be expected, it was stated.

Capt. W. J. Croom, director of public safety of Durham will be in charge of 200 state, county and city officers with instructions from City Manager H. A. Yancey of Durham to see that the law is enforced. Persons under the influence of liquor will not be permitted to enter the stadium.

Blue Devil Leader

CAPT. ALLEN JOHNSON

Allen (Sweet Pea) Johnson, pictured above, will play his last game against the University of North Carolina on Saturday afternoon when he leads the Duke University Blue Devils against the Tar Heels in Duke stadium. Johnson is captain of this year's Duke eleven and is winding up three brilliant years of varsity play. He ranks among the finest guards in the Southern conference. He was dubbed "Sweet Pea" back in his freshman days and the name has stuck. But against the Tar Heels, he's likely to be most anything but sweet!

Devils and Tar Heels Set for Scoring Orgy

Both Teams Will Throw Strong Attacks into Clash

Durham, Nov. 16—More than 52,000 people—the largest crowd in the history of southern football—will witness the gridiron struggle Saturday between Duke university's Blue Devils and the University of North Carolina's Tar Heels in Duke stadium. The game has been sold out for two weeks.

There are any number of reasons why the game has been a sure-fire attraction from the start. The Duke-Carolina series is 51 years old and ever since that first meeting of the two schools back in 1888 it has been a bustling, blistering rivalry, hard to duplicate the country over. It is a rivalry unexcelled for tradition.

But perhaps the chief reason why the turnstiles in Duke stadium will sing their merriest tune on Saturday concerns the kind of football battle everyone is expecting to see. It is likely to be the most thrilling scoring melee Duke and Carolina have ever staged.

Nobody has to be told of Carolina's flashy passing attack—the quick-striking aerial antics that beat N. Y. U., buffaloed Pennsylvania, and tied the mighty Green Wave of Tulane. Nobody needs to hear about the brilliance of those talented touchdown twins—George Stimweiss and "Sweet Jim" Lallane, the boys who have alternately sparked the Tar Heel offense.

That the Tar Heels are quite efficient in using this style of attack to pile up points can be gathered from the fact that they are one of the nation's leading teams in scoring. They have racked up 206 points in eight games.

Coach Wallace Wade's Blue Devils have turned much of their attention to offense this year. Their play has scarcely been reminiscent of those famous Iron Dukes of a year ago. They have scored 142 points in seven contests, exceeding by 25 markers the total compiled by the Rose Bowlers.

George and Wes McAfee, Rorer Robinson, and Frank Killian have been the principal Duke groundgainers. They will carry most of the Blue Devil hopes Saturday. They will lead the boys in blue, probably along the land route.

It looks like Carolina air power against the Duke land force in Saturday's classic of classics.

PIRATES FACE STRONG RIVAL

ECTC Clashes With High Point Eleven Saturday

With only two days remaining before the ECTC-High Point football clash to be staged here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, local sports fans were recalling a thrilling upset against the Panthers three years ago when Bill Shelton took the ball on the kick-off and raced 95 yards for a touchdown. It was a victory for the locals.

Even though the mind of most grid fans is centered on the Duke-Carolina battle to be waged on the old conflict grounds this week-end those who can not journey upstate have expressed the intention of seeing the local entry play its last home game of the season.

Rock Venter, line powerhouse of Aviden, has an injured leg and will likely have to remain out of the lineup on Saturday. However, he still has time for satisfactory recuperation. This brings the Pirates' injury list to an even higher standard as far as ailments go. They apparently come instead of go on the Pirate squad.

Seymour Franklin, an end, who hails from Freeport, New York, will be the fellow to keep the spirit of the Panthers high in Saturday's game. Seymour is a senior, one of the few on the squad. Although light as ends come, he plays his position cooly, heady, and capably. He is co-captain of the Purple Panthers.

Another player the Pirates and fans are likely to watch is Vernon Forney, guard, who would make any coach smile. He is fast, pulling out of the line many times to smear would-be tacklers of Panther ball carriers.

Nick Zuras, a freshman back, may see action in Saturday's game. A triple-threat man in every sense of the word, Nick excels in passing and punting, being one of the most valuable in both on the squad. He is also a hard, shift runner, and specializes in jaunts around the ends.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York Nov. 16.—(AP)—Quiet buying in stocks and a number of other recent laggards today put a little more heart into the stock market. Slightly lower levels prevailed at the start, but minus signs were soon erased in most cases. Dealings picked up on the comeback, but were still relatively sluggish. Gains ran to a point or so for favorites near the fourth hour.

Like Father Yakima, Wash.—(AP)—Lanny Dale, aged two, took a notion to walk off the end of a 10-foot diving board last summer when his father wasn't looking. He's been diving ever since. Lanny caught on to diving so quickly that he does things many grownups wouldn't attempt. He uses a sort of natural swim dive, striking the water at a slight angle. The boy's father, Tex Dale, says he also dives from the three-foot board, but prefers the 10-foot height. The father is a former lifeguard.
