BRITISH KING ENDS SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

New Session Scheduled to Open November 28th

BLAME FOR WAR IS LAID TO NAZIS

King George, VI, Declares War with Germany Being Fought To Preserve Birthright of Liberty

London, Nov. 23.—(AP)—King George, VI, prorogued Parliament today.

A new session is scheduled to open November 28 with a full dress debate on all aspects of the war.

The king's statement ending the present session declared the war with Germany was being fought to preserve the birthright of liberty.

He called the invasion of Poland a challenge "which we could not have declined without dishonor to ourselves and without peril to the cause of freedom and the progress of mankind."

The king's statement, read to the members, said that despite efforts of Britain to preserve peace, "Germany, in violation of her solemn undertakings, wantonly invaded Poland."

Of Britain's aims he said "we seek no material gain. Liberty and free institutions are our birthright which we, like our forefathers, are resolved to preserve."

Merchants Urged Buy Seal Stamps

Local merchants and business groups are urged by the Tuberculosis seal officials, of which J. H. Waldrop is president, to make advanced purchases of tuberculosis seal stamps for use upon their November monthly account letters and all out-going mail.

It is felt by the tuberculosis seal workers that in this manner the regular sale of the seals will be given the additional impetus necessary to put across a successful seal campaign which begins Monday, November 27.

The value of the money derived from the sale of these seals to the local county and state fight to the dread tuberculosis disease is too well known to be repeated at this time. The need is urgent, and the business men of Greenville are requested to respond in their usual and generous manner.

A large crowd of school patrons and teachers attended the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association held in the Pactolus school.

75 Million?

Despite the bad, rainy weather of the past few days, sales on the Greenville tobacco market are holding up surprisingly well. It was declared today, with 598,000 pounds having been sold yesterday to bring the season's offerings to 72,017,874 pounds. Although the selling season is rapidly drawing to a close, the belief is expressed by some that the 75 million pound mark will be reached this year.

CITY OFFICIAL IS DISCHARGED

Street Department Superintendent Lynch Fired

E. G. Lynch, on a tie vote broken by Mayor Jack Spain, last night was discharged as superintendent of the City Street department by the Greenville Board of Aldermen.

The services of the superintendent, who has been in the city employ for several years, will be dispensed with on November 30, but the board voted to pay him his salary for the month of December.

The motion was made by Aldermen R. E. Sellers and seconded by Alderman George Clapp after Mayor Spain had recommended that the personnel of the street department be changed. A similar recommendation was made at a previous meeting of this month, but no action was taken at that time.

Voting for the motion to relieve Mr. Lynch of his duties were Aldermen Sellers, Clapp, J. A. Collins and David Evans. Voting against the motion were Aldermen L. B. Fleming, J. A. Watson, J. M. Taft and M. B. Massey. Mayor Spain voted for the motion to break the tie.

The same division was recorded on the motion to dispense with the services of City Finance Officer and Purchasing Agent Marvin L. Westmoreland immediately after the new board took office. In each instance the four holdovers on the board voted against the motions.

Employment of a new street department head was deferred until a later meeting.

The board last night voted to purchase a new motor grader, an Allis Chalmers gas machine. A bid of $3,350 was submitted, but of this total amount the city is to trade in other equipment valued at $1,750, as follows: concrete mixer, $850; tractor, $750; grader, $150, leaving a net balance of $1,850.

The question of all-night parking for out-of-city cars was taken by the Board and it decided to allow visiting motorists to park their automobiles all night on the south side of Third street from Evans to Cotanche and on the west side of Washington between Third and Fourth.

Albion Dunn appeared before the board in behalf of Mrs. Hattie P. Shuff and requested that the action to extend the fire district taken at the last meeting be reversed. The board took no action on the matter, but left the matter open until the regular December meeting, at which time the public will be given an opportunity to be heard. Mrs. Shuff, it was pointed out, desires to erect a Negro tenant house on a section of Pitt street included in the extended fire district.

Officials To Attend Building Dedication

Local county and city officials have received invitations from Albert Coates, director of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill, to attend the formal opening of the Institute's new laboratory building on Wednesday of next week.

Congressman William Bankhead of Alabama, speaker of the National House of Representatives, together with the entire North Carolina Congressional delegation, will be present to join in the program with state, county and city officials.

The laboratory is the first of its kind ever to be opened in America.

Occasion for Discussion is Annual Fall Reception for Heads of Three Branches of Armed Forces; Polish Campaign and Future Plans for Western Front Principal Topics

Berlin, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler discussed the progress of the war today with leaders of Germany's armed forces in a meeting at the Chancellery.

It was the Fuehrer's annual fall reception for the heads of the three branches of the armed forces, with their staffs, at which he sets a record of the past year's military activities.

It was assumed the Polish campaign and the future campaign on the western front were the main topics.

DNB, official German news agency, in a report on war developments, asserted German submarines had sunk five fishing steamers guarding the northern entrance of the English channel.

The German high command reported "unusually valuable reconnaissance results" from aerial excursions over France and Great Britain "despite strong pursuit plane and anti-aircraft defense."

This morning's communique reported five French pursuit planes were shot down in border patrol combat yesterday, but acknowledged no German losses.

"This morning's French communique reported destruction of six German fighting planes yesterday, while London dispatches told of another shot down off the east coast of England last night."

HALF OF U. S. EATING TURKEY

'Second Table' to be Served on Next Thursday

Families in 25 states sat down today at the "first table" of the nation's dual Thanksgiving, joining in President Roosevelt's expressed hope that the world soon would be at peace.

The "second table" will not be served until next Thursday in states whose governors declined to follow the president's decision to advance the holiday a week.

Despite the confusion over the date, there was unanimity in pulpits and in quiet households in echoing Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation.

"Let us give thanks to the ruler of the universe x x x for the holiday that lives within us of the coming day when peace and the protective activities of peace shall reign on every continent."

The president and Mrs. Roosevelt led today's celebrations. As usual, Mr. Roosevelt will carve a big turkey tonight at the Warm Springs, Ga., infantile paralysis foundation.

Ten patients, chosen by lot, will sit at the same table with the president while he plies their plates with turkey, dressing, cranberries and all the other trimmings of a holiday dinner.

TREMORS FELT IN WIDE AREA

Earth Shocks Reported This Morning in Five States

St. Louis, Nov. 23.—(AP)—An earth shock which lasted an average of 30 seconds, but did no major damage was felt in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin today.

Most areas reported the tremor between 16 and 9:20 a. m. (CST) although others felt the shock as late as 9:30 a. m.

The Rev. James B. MacEwan, St. Louis university seismologist, said the center was 31 miles south of St. Louis.

This would place it near Sedalia and Crystal City, Mo., but which there disclosed no damage.

One of the needles of the St. Louis university seismograph was knocked off its hinges, so that was the shock.

Shocks were reported at Kansas City, Jefferson City, St. Genevieve, Columbia, Fulton, Cape Girardeau, Sedalia, Crystal City and Hannibal, Mo.; Belleville, Alton, Chester, Springfield, Deatur, Quincy, Taylorville, Edwardsville and Carlinville, Ill.; Iowa City and Des Moines, Iowa; and Janesville, Wis. The Marquette university seismograph at Milwaukee recorded a light earth shock.

Mrs. Nora Colligan at Clayton, Mo., near St. Louis, said she was "knocked off her feet by the tremor."

J. J. Auer, Wabash railroad passenger agent, said the shocks lasted a minute and a half and described them as "terrifying."

Dishes rattled, furniture was shaken and some buildings shook.

Dr. R. J. Rinehart, dean of the Kansas City Western Dental college, said his "whole house shook" and a 100-year-old clock which hadn't run for years was started by the shock.

OVER 1,200 IN LOCAL BUREAU

Farm Bureau Membership Drive Meets With Success

Over 1,200 memberships have been secured for the Pitt County Farm Bureau in the first month of the 1939 Membership drive, it was announced today by Wyatt Hincham, secretary of the local organization.

These figures were compiled after a fourth and last dinner meeting last night at the Woman's club for invited outstanding farmers of Pitt county.

The speakers last night explained that the pressure on getting so many memberships in such a short time was used because the number that is adopted as the official membership of the Farm Bureau for 1940 is the number on roll on November 30. A general solicitation all over the county will be carried on now.

"I don't want an organization to be myself among the farmers I am trying to get the farmers organized because Secretary Wallace of the United States Department of Agriculture asked me to. He said he wanted the farmers organized so that they can be consulted about proposed legislation for agriculture."

If farmers are not organized so they can help the Department of Agriculture what is best suited to their needs, how can the farmer?

Fall Court Term Brought To Close

This week's final session of superior court, the last of the fall term, was concluded here this afternoon. The spring term will begin on January 15, with Judge Walter Boone of Nashville presiding.

Judge G. V. Clapper of Kinston presiding over this week's session ordered a non-suit in the case of C. E. Hill vs. Hugh Winslow Hill, alleging that he was injured when the trailer came loose from a car being driven by Winslow, sought to recover $1,000 damages.

The State Bank and Trust company was concluded with a jury verdict in favor of the defendant. The plaintiff contended that the bank cashed a $75 check from his account which he did not sign. He claimed the check was forged, while the bank contended that it was the plaintiff's signature.

The judge ordered Shade Wilson, Negro, to pay his estranged wife the sum of $4.50 a week. A jury yesterday found that Wilson had separated himself from his wife and had failed to provide adequate support. He had been paying her $3 weekly.

Six more British, French and neutral vessels today were added to the heavy maritime losses of the past week from mine and submarine warfare.

In addition, the Exchange Telegraph agency reported that German planes flying low over the Thames estuary last night had sowed miniature high explosive mines by parachute.

The Admiralty related that the destroyer Gipsy was beached on the east coast Tuesday after striking a mine. Forty of her crew were missing and 21 injured.

It was officially announced that a German plane was shot down at sea and another driven off.

Minister Of Pitt Claimed By Death

Luther Joyner, 72, prominent citizen of the Red Bank community, died suddenly this morning at his home at 8:30 o'clock. He had not been ill and his sudden passing, probably from a heart attack, came as a distinct shock to his family and friends.

Funeral services will be conducted from the late home Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Elders W. B. Barnes of Saratoga and J. B. Robb, ministers of Farmville, primitive Baptist ministers, burial will follow in the family plot near the home.

Mr. Joyner was born in Pitt county April 4, 1867, and was a son of the late Luther and Artimissa Horton Joyner. He spent his entire life in Pitt county and was engaged in farming. For the past twenty years he had been a minister in the Primitive Baptist church.

The inauguration will take place on November 25, the homecoming day of the institution.

An interesting fact about Berea's new president is that he succeeds his father, Dr. William J. Hutchins, in the office. Also, the new president is brother to the famous head of the University of Chicago, Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, who was made president of that institution when he was only thirty.

Resignation Follows Closely Refusal of Rumania to Increase Exchange Rate of German Mark

Bucharest, Nov. 23.—(AP)—King Carol today asked Former Premier George P. Tatarescu to form a new government to replace the cabinet which resigned after a breakdown of trade negotiations with Germany.

The Nazis sought to obtain more oil and foodstuff from Rumania at a reduced cost.

Bucharest, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Rumanian government resigned today after a breakdown of trade negotiations in which Germany brought pressure to obtain more oil and foodstuff from Rumania at a lower cost.

Premier Constantin Argetoianu handed the cabinet resignation to King Carol, who asked him to attempt to form a new government.

Argetoianu formed the cabinet September 29.

Carol was expected to call a meeting of the Crown Council to consider the crisis and any emergency steps to be taken. Informed persons said that German pressure caused a cabinet split. Some members wanted to yield to demands of the Reich while others did not.

Argetoianu was named premier a week ago, after resignation of Premier Armand Calinescu by members of the outlawed Fascist Iron Guard.

The resignation followed closely upon Rumania's refusal to grant an increase of nearly 50 per cent in the exchange rate of the German mark—a blow at German hopes for greater trade with this country.

Railroad Payment Made In Advance

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Governor Hooey received a letter today from H. P. Edwards, who operates the state-owned Atlantic and North Carolina railroad under lease, saying that a $5,000 advance payment had been made on the rental charges for the line.

Edwards advised the governor that business had been unexpectedly good since he took over the route between Goldsboro and Morehead City and that he could make another $5,000 payment if it was needed to wind up the affairs of the railroad.

The railroad was operated independently under a state controlled corporation until September 1 as a losing proposition. Edwards is to pay $60,500 yearly as rent, the first payment being due January 1 under his contract.

Clothing Missing In Ayden Robbery

The R. L. Turnage general department store in Ayden was entered some time between 10 o'clock and daylight last night and several men's suits and other wearing apparel taken, but no money was stolen.

The plate glass in the front door was broken to open the door. In addition to the suits, some hats, leather jackets and other clothing was reported missing.

No attempt was made to enter the safe and a cash drawer said to have been left open with approximately $30 in it was not bothered.

The store was the victim of at least one robbery last year. Officers were at work on the robbery, but no arrests had been made this afternoon.

HAVE A STEAK MR. GIGANTOCAMELUS

Oshkosh, Neb.—(AP)—Once upon a time a meat eating camel 12 feet tall roamed the pre-historic Nebraska plains near here. His name is Gigantocamelus Fricki and he was the biggest camel ever seen on the earth.

C. R. Bertrand Schultz, head of a University of Nebraska museum party, explained that the huge animal lived about half to three-quarters of a million years ago. He probably came to North America over the land bridge which once linked Alaska with Asia. That was about the time of the hairy mammoths, and they may have been his traveling companions. Schultz found a rich fossil bed with complete skeletons of the ancient camels. He believes they lived in a warm interglacial period, but no one knows what caused their extinction.

CAMPAIGN FOR DINNER OPENS

Larkins Establishes Jackson Day Headquarters

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 23.—They finally roped, tied and branded State Senator John D. Larkins, Jr., of Jones county; and so he has opened up Jackson Day campaign headquarters right here on the second floor of the Sir Walter hotel.

"They" were State Chairman Gregg Cherry of the Democratic party in North Carolina. "Lon" Folger, our state's Democratic National Committeeman, and Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. The roping, branding and tying was necessary because Larkins headed the Jackson Day affair last year, made a whooping, howling success of it, and therefore he was entitled to "let George do it" this year.

It was just a case of refusal to accept the Larkins resignation and once they got the Jones county man to go up to Washington to talk things over it was just too bad for him and his home folks. He is definitely "it" in big letters, and is again assuming the responsibility of raising funds for next year's Democratic campaign.

There is little doubt that Larkins will get the Jackson Day dinner a swell speaker. Last year he got Kentucky's Governor Happy Chandler and also got himself made a Kentucky Colonel as a result. He'll repeat on the selection of an acceptable chap to make the big talk, though he may not get any "military" title or promotion thereby.

Larkins is just a bit gloomy about the raising of much money this time; but in the end he'll likely prove himself quite a successful wheeler. He hasn't any definite plans yet; but he's got an office and an able assistant, Mrs. Mary Pollard—and given that much of a headstart, the young Senator is sure to make a go of things, if the future is to be judged by the past.

Yet Corbin won—and the score was 20 to 0!

"Protect Your Home From Tuberculosis" is the theme of this year's campaign," said Dr. Emmett. "As a symbol of that protection, Mr. Kent has used an angle with outstretched arm. Against a brilliant blue background, the double-barred cross, international symbol of the fight against tuberculosis, is prominently displayed."

Nearly every national park in the United States showed an increase in the number of hikers on forest trails. The overnight packhorse type of hiking gained especially in adherents.

Pueblo, Colo.—(AP)—Fifty-seven years ago 18 young women at Oxbow, Kans., formed the "Ladies Appoly Club." As long as they lived they kept in communication with each other and nine survivors still correspond by means of a "round robin" letter. Of the 18, all but one married and none was divorced.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crover

Washington—A fairly thorough canvass of Democratic house leaders who were defeated in 1938 discloses that amazingly few of them want to run again in 1940 unless the Democratic presidential candidate is Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In part their attitude is determined no doubt by a feeling of personal loyalty to the President and his New Deal program. It must be remembered that most of those Democrats who were nosed out last election were New Dealers. Further, however, their replies to interested questioners indicated they frankly thought that particular districts they could win become the native Republican without the Roosevelt influence.

Major Cause 3-k
The sources from which we obtained this information cautioned that it would be flying too fast to accept this as proof that only President Roosevelt among the Democrats can win next time. A thousand different factors bear on that situation.

But it does indicate that nearly four-score Democrats would not come back last time think they could be better off in a new race with Roosevelt as a candidate. Altogether the Democrats lost 70 seats in the house last election. A few of this number represented retirement, but by far the larger number were New Deal representatives who could not survive an off-year election in districts where Republican strength was solid and enduring.

It costs quite a pocket full of cash to run for congress, and one defeat chills the ardor even of an ardent liberal, particularly if he rode to victory on the tail of the Roosevelt comet, see no other comet he'll see as well, and is just naturally short of cash anyway, as many as congressmen or former congressmen is. Roosevelt supporters necessarily could look upon this poll of the defeated as reflecting sentiment in their districts. With Roosevelt they could win, they reported in large numbers to Washington. Without him they were not so happily confident. Correspondingly, Republicans could suggest that these former representatives are telling the world as clearly as anything that a heap of moral districts which moved out of the Democratic column in 1938 will be out again in 1940.

Find Encouragement
In any event the news would appear to be on the pro-Roosevelt side and we had just as well let you know that certain Democratic sources have found even more encouragement in the recent local elections.

The general results in Philadelphia were discouraging to the Democrats but they saw shreds of hope for them in other spots. Pittsburgh and the surrounding towns went on the Democratic side. They were especially pleased that young Botes Pennock could not win a house seat in Philadelphia in spite of bearing the name of the famous Republican party powerhouse of a generation ago.

On the other hand they were not so cheered by the recovery of Tammany in New York. To Democrats outside of New York Tammany is a bitter cross the party must bear. Already they can hear Republican crooning 1940 melodies in which the "terrible taint of Tammany" is the major theme.

SHORT SHOTS

Poleish Nov. 22—Member reports of the testimony of Harry R. Gardner, Wilmington man, before a Utility Commission hearing here this week were very embarrassing to him. According to the story he testified against the railroad in their request for higher rates in certain cases; when as a matter of fact he was one of the strongest witnesses for the railroad.

Gardner is a member of the New Hanover county board of commissioners, holds seniority rights as an A. C. L. engineer, and has been engaged in the trucking business—all of which adds up to the fact that he was very much concerned to be "put right"—so concerned that he wired Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne asking that the records be corrected, if they did in fact show him to have been a witness AGAINST the railroads.

State Senator Erskine Smith named candidate for lieutenant governor was in Raleigh Wednesday.

"Have you any announcement to make?" he was asked.

"Well, almost," he replied which may or may not mean anything.

State Auditor George Ross. Pou was with Senator Smith.

"I suppose you newspaper boys will be saving I'm egging Erk on just because you saw me with him but just let me set you straight on all these state races. No matter which one it is, the only sure and certain thing you can quote me as saying is that I am for George Ross Pou for State Auditor," said State Auditor George Ross Pou. Spounds logical.

Lynn Nisbet tells of the family he and his folks invited to have Thanksgiving dinner with them this year. All hands became quite confused about which Thursday to come on.

"So I finally wound up by telling them, 'Well, just compromise, come on up next Sunday for dinner,'" said Lynn.

Commissioner of Banks Gurney Hood is tickled to death with the bank statement just issued for the third quarter, but he predicts that the situation will look even brighter when the December 30 Abstract of Condition is issued. Total resources were shown in the third-quarter statement to be almost $387,000,000 and Commissioner Hood is convinced that right now the total has gone above $400,000,000 for the state's commercial banks.

He is also confident that the final statement of this year will show that the combined resources of banks in North Carolina—state, national and industrial—will be the highest in history. This despite the big decline in number of national banks in the state.

The State Highway Patrol, having just finished its fine job of handling Duke-Carolina football game traffic, is already looking forward to next year and making plans for even smoother work in 1940.

Major John Armstrong, commanding, is working on a plan for auto-ists to attach stickers on the day of the big games showing where they came from. This, he said, will make it easier for officers to steer them in the right direction.

"As it is now, we can't stop every car and ask whether the driver wants to go east or west, we just have to shoo them all out in the same direction. But if the cars bore stickers, we could turn them out of the parking lots in the direction they want to go," said the Major.

Honey-haired Harriet Haddon and Jackie Coogan, shown waiting dreamily together in a New York night club just before he went on the road with a play, have let it be known they plan to be married at the end of ten months—when Jackie's divorce from Betty Grable becomes final. TOMORROW NIGHT
Local football fans will have another opportunity to see the Greenville High School grid team in action tomorrow night. The boys have been playing good football this season and those who have not been attending games have missed some of the best football. We suggest you do not miss tomorrow's game.

TO BE DONE
The board of the Merchants Association requested the board of the city employees to take steps that will improve the public office. We feel that this is a good idea and will receive the support of not only the administration but also the local government divisions. Already the government requires employees to pay their taxes. It is not fair for business men to have to pay taxes and then in turn be asked to collect just debts from those who draw salaries from the tax money. The request of the Merchants Association is certainly reasonable.

BUY AND USE
CHRISTMAS SEALS
The annual sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and Christmas Seal Bonds will get under way here next Monday and the public generally is urged to buy and use the seals as an aid in the fight against the dread disease tuberculosis. While the sale is getting under way early in order that merchants and business houses might have the seals for use on their first of December mailings, it is pointed out that these seals are for sale not only to business houses but to every individual as well. The Christmas seals not only add an attractive touch to your personal correspondence and Christmas mailings, they tell to the world the user is doing his part to carry on the fight against tuberculosis. Farley Men to be Out for Seventh Win Friday Night

MEET KINSTON AT SMITH PARK

Green Phantoms Resting in Second Conference Berth

Bo Farley's powerful Greenville high school football Phantoms, who are resting in the number two berth of the Eastern Conference, will seek their seventh victory of the season when they play hosts to Frank L. Mocks Kinston Red Devils here tomorrow night. The game will get underway at 8 o'clock at Guy-Smith stadium.

The Green Phantoms hold the upper hand in weight and are favored to win. They have succeeded in stopping Kinston for the past fourteen seasons and expect to keep their record unmarred.

Marvin Stocks, fullback and triple threat, will not be here for the game as he is attending the National Guard encampment at Fort Bragg. His shoes will be filled by Buddy Harrington or John Spearman.

A veteran tackle, Earl Kittrell, will probably be out of the line-up. Kittrell is recovering from an infection of the ear and has been out of practice this week with flu. His position, it is thought, will be filled in by Spencer Carroll, who has seen much action this year.

John Collins and Larry James will start at ends; Paul Scott and Warren Parrish at guards; Russell Ferguson and Earl Kittrell or Spencer Carroll at tackle and Polly Williams at center for the local line. In the Phantom backfield will be J. B. Kittrell, halfback, George Sakas, quarterback, George Tyndall, halfback and Buddy Harrington or John Spearman, fullback.

Halfback Harvey Carrow, of the Devils, suffered a broken nose last week and will be out of action for the rest of the year. Ellis Aboud, guard, sustained a dislocated arm and will be missed.

Captain Bill Taylor and Tom Moseley guards and Henry Harlan at center. His backfield will be composed of Mickey Wetherington, quarterback and signal-barker; Howard Chapin, halfback; Roland Paylor, halfback and Eborn Pittman, fullback. Thornton Hood, end, is expected to be a frequent substitute.

Greenville ends its season here Wednesday evening with its arch-rival, Washington. Kinston plays Goldsboro on the same day. Both are conference tilts.

TO END ERA AT NCS SATURDAY

Duke Game To Be Last For Protesges Of Anderson

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Nov. 23.—Saturday's football game here in which North Carolina State's somewhat clack-marked Wolfpack will attempt to accomplish the incredible by stopping Duke's laurel-crowned Blue Devils will be more than just another gridiron affair—it will mark the definite end of an era, so far as Raleigh and the Pack are concerned.

When the final whistle blows approximately half a score of State players will have made their last appearance before the folks of this capital city. They are not just seniors, playing their ultimate home game—they are the Old Guard, the last visible and tangible reminders of the ill-starred Hunk Anderson regime—a regime which ended in an unedifying exchange of criminalities and recriminations as ever marked the firing of a coach.

There has been no intimation from any source that the boys who came to State as freshmen while Hunk was serving his final year have failed to give their very best efforts in every game and practice; but there is a distinct feeling of relief in many alumni quarters that beginning with next year Coach Doc Newton's team will be absolutely and entirely his own. He will stand or fall on the record of his "country boys"—the soph and juniors who this year have made the State team appear just a trifle more spirited, if not more competent, when they are in the game.

The lads who will be showing before a home crowd for the last time Saturday include Co-Captains Bill Retter and Andy Pavlovsky, backs Artie Rooney, Bobby Sabolyk, Tony DiYeso and Don Traylor, tackle Ed (Ty) Coon, guard Cavint and end Sullivan. A right respectable array of football talent, and yet an array which has been disappointingly unsuccessful in bringing victory to the Wolfpack.

They will get their last chance Saturday to show their fellow students and a home crowd what they can do. They will go into the fray with nothing whatever to lose except their breath—as the Pack isn't supposed to have even an outside chance of beating back the advance of Wallace Wade's heavy battalions.

It puts them in a spot to unwrap the prize package of 1939 in the way of a football upset, and if they could manage it they would live in State college history as the greatest collection of miracle workers ever. They might even have statues erected in their memory.

But whatever they do or don't do, the matter of winning, they can be counted on to give the best they have. That probably won't be enough, but nobody can do more.

Your correspondent specifically disclaims any reflections on the Anderson carry-overs. As already said, they have done their very best. Certainly no collection of boys would have continued to take the packings State has consistently absorbed unless they were fully supplied with intestinal fortitude.

And yet there is no gainsaying the fact that State college football will be the gamier by their departure.

Vol Backers Call Team All Time Best

By ESCAR THOMPSON. Knoxville, Tenn.—(AP)—In any discussion of the University of Tennessee football team, the question arises: Is this year's eleven as strong as the 1938 Southeastern Conference championship outfit?

Coaches and experts who have seen Major Bob Neyland's wrecking crew in action are of one accord that the Vols are stronger.

Frank Thomas, Alabama mentor whose Crimson Tide bowed to the Vols 13-0 last year and 21-0 this fall, says the present aggregation is not only stronger, but also is the finest any of his Alabama teams ever met. Since Thomas has made three Rose Bowl junkets in the last eight years that's especially pleasing comment for the bowl-minded Tennessee followers.

Jock Sutherland, former Pitts-coach, saw the Vols trample Alabama and immediately went overboard on them, describing them as the nearest thing to a "perfect team" he ever saw.

That's part of the case for those who insist Tennessee is not only a better team today than a year ago, but also one of the finest gridiron machines ever moulded.

Neyland, himself, when the question is put to him, parries: "I honestly can't say. I think the team has possibilities of becoming a great one, perhaps better than last year's; but beyond that I can't say."

"I think perhaps our defense is as strong at this stage of the season as it was last season, maybe stronger. Offensively, though, we've made several mistakes. On occasion the timing of plays has been ragged and the blocking anything but smooth."

"No, I'm not ready to go overboard yet and call this team a great one."

It should be explained for the benefit of those who do not know

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

YESTERDAY: Mr. Deane tells Michael that Mrs. Murchison was out with a man the evening Mrs. Devoe disappeared. Later that evening, Mrs. Devoe is found dead on the cliff.

Chapter 41 Return To Life

TUCK was sitting up in bed drinking the cocoa Bunny had just brought her. Michael, in dressing gown and slippers, was stalking restlessly about the room, and Bunny was perched on the foot of Tuck's bed, pale and quiet. Bunny was not talking a great deal these terrible days. There was so little to say that did not touch on the mystery; so little that did not remind her of Michael's warning. The world seemed rather a terrible, unfriendly, deceiving place.

"Michael," Tuck set down her cup and snuggled down into her pillows. "Michael, why did she do it?"

He did not answer for a minute. Then he turned and faced her, leaning over the foot of his own bed.

"You mean," he said slowly, "if she had done it, why would she have done it?"

Tuck gasped. "Murder?" she asked in a breathless whisper.

"Any observant person who has lived near Mrs. Devoe for a number of years would know she was left handed. Easiest thing in the world to drape that left hand around the knife in her heart."

"But the knife itself it was her own, out of her handbag. Why should she have been carrying it?"

"I always have a penknife in my handbag," Bunny said in her low voice, after a minute. She was thinking it over.

"Yes. And the point is... the blade isn't over two inches long. Pretty hard to stab yourself with a blade two inches long, I should imagine."

"Will you tell me why she did it?" Tuck said after a minute or two. Her voice was very small and tired.

Michael drew a deep breath and straightened his shoulders. "I'll tell you a story," he said, "and you can draw your own conclusions."

"It's a story of the necklace," he went on. "I'll tell it briefly. It began in Williston, six years ago. At the time, a very wealthy woman had as her maid a pretty French girl whose name was Marie Duval. The girl..."

Tuck gasped weakly. "The girl seemed thoroughly trustworthy, although she was much too fond of the men to please her mistress entirely. One of her particular admirers was the mistress's nephew who was at the time attending the University there. The second—and the two men did not know of each other, remember that—was another student, a younger fellow, to whom she paid little attention, although he seems to have been quite mad about her. I do not know the details of their acquaintanceship. The older chap had no prospects of inheriting money, although his aunt was wealthy, and if the younger had any money he kept it to himself for some time."

"It is possible that it did not seem important to him, since he was deeply interested in science and not in money or commerce. The mistress was rather a connoisseur of jewels, and so the maid handled many of them. It must have been a temptation to a nature such as hers; one realizes that she finally succumbed to that temptation. However, she did not steal from her mistress; she took a diamond necklace which she was supposed to be returning to a shop. It was a week or two before the theft was discovered, the mistress and the jeweler each thinking the other had the necklace. By this time the girl had repented of her action, and would have given up the jewels, perhaps, save that it meant a confession of what she had done. When the questioning began she was in an agony of apprehension, denying that she had not returned the jewels. This was obviously untrue, and drastic steps were about to be taken when to the tremendous surprise of all concerned, the girl paid for the diamonds, announced that she was married and left her position. She had told the younger of the two men to whom I have referred to her trouble, and he had offered to marry her and pay for the jewels. He had had a recent inheritance of something over fifty thousand dollars."

Blank Astonishment
"OF COURSE you know of whom I am speaking, Marie Duval married Edgar Murchison to save herself from prison. The unfortunate part of the matter," said Michael dryly, "was that she had already married Jared Devoe."

If he expected blank astonishment from his audience, he got it. Neither girl could speak. Michael lit a cigarette. "So," he went on after a pause, "you get the situation. Marie is apparently still in love with her own husband. She engineered rather cleverly the business of getting him here into this University, through passing him off as her cousin. They are not unlike in appearance, although there is not the slightest relationship. He is quite mad about her too, I think, although he may be tiring of her just a bit. Still, those letters didn't sound as if he were, did they?"

"Letters?"
"In the box, honey. The warm, friendly ones."

"Michael Bruce Forrester! How long have you known that?"
"Oh, quite a while."

Bunny laughed suddenly. "I thought perhaps they were one of the unrepentable things Duncan was responsible for," she said.

"No." He blew a smoke ring. "So you see," he went on, "why Mrs. Devoe would have committed suicide if she had committed suicide. Which she didn't."

"What makes you so sure she didn't, Michael?"

"The same thing that explains why she might have. Her temperament and her religion. She was a very moody, serious minded, earnest Christian woman. She has been wringing her hands and praying for a long time now, worrying herself sick over the sins of her only child. But suicide in her eyes must have been a greater sin than all; she wouldn't pile one sin on another. No. But it must have been rather awful for her... for you see," Michael said quietly, "she didn't know into what black depths Devoe and his wife had been led in order to conceal their relationship."

"Then, if it isn't suicide, Michael—why was she murdered? Because she knew too much? Like Miss Lissey? Old Mrs. Devoe? Is what you have told us the thing..." Bunnys eyes widened.

Michael drew a deep breath. "That's a question I should like to be able to answer," he said dependently.

The inquest, followed so closely by old Mrs. Devoe's death, marked the end of the period of seeming inaction for Michael. He was away from home most of the time, on mysterious errands which he did not explain. One of these errands was in answer to a telephone call from the Veterans' Hospital—

Michael asked him to come to the hospital immediately, as one of the patients wanted to see him. As Michael knew it must be, it was Smith. He was pitifully thin and pale. As they came in he jumped up and gazed at them frantically. His eyes were burning with an insane light.

"It's you!" he choked out.
"Yes," Michael said cheerfully. "What can I do for you, old man?"

"With My Own Eyes"
SMITH relaxed a little. He sank back into the pillows, but his hands still clawed nervously at the edge of the blankets. He looked at the doctor. "I got to talk to him alone," he said.

The doctor went out and shut the door quietly. Smith dropped his voice to an accusing whisper. "You said as how I didn't need to be afraid of him no longer," he said hoarsely. "You said as how he was gone away, and wouldn't never come back. You said as I was safe. Didn't you? Didn't you?"

"Yes."
"Well, you got that paper, ain't you? Can't you do something for me? Can't you get him locked up?"

"Locked up?" Michael repeated in amazement.

"He'll be hangin' around here in a day or two, like as not. Send in' for me, that's what he'll be doin'. I won't go. I tell you, I won't go. Nothing on earth can make me go."

"Listen," said Michael tersely. "Act like a man, will you? You're acting like a damned rabbit!"

Smith wiped the sweat from his face. "You ain't never been shell shocked," he mumbled.

"No. I don't know what it's like. But talk sense, anyway. I told you the other day you were safe. Safe as anything on God's earth could make you—from Murchison. He's dead, man."

Smith stared at him. His eyes were starting from his head. "Dead?" he whispered. "Dead? Didn't I see him with my own eyes no later than yesterday?"

"What?"

"It's true! I might have known that devil had you fooled. He's too smart. Dead! I was in a store, way on the other side of town. University folks don't go over there. He's hidin'. I say God knows what for. He come in the store, and I saw him coming. I got down behind a counter quick. He never saw me at all. But I saw him, the devil! Dead! Not on your life: he isn't dead."

"Just a minute," said Michael quietly. "You're not doing yourself any good. You say you saw him yesterday. Are you sure you're not mistaken?"

"I am not. It's Murchison. I saw him plain."

"Describe him."

"Well—he looked just the same as ever except he had on a coat. One of them dusty looking raincoats it was, and a fawn hat. He's tall... clean shaved, dark. What else is there?"

"You'd swear on the Bible that it was Edgar Murchison?"

"I would."

"What kind of a store?" Michael asked after a moment.

"A hardware store. I was buyin' a bit of tape to mend my crutch."
"What was he buying?"
"That's what I asked the clerk when he went out. I thought it might be... Smith shuddered, caught Michael's eye, and controlled himself. "He was buying an oar-lock," he said.

Soviet Can't Send Much To Nazis Without Sacrificing 5-Year Plan

By MORGAN BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer
Washington.—One glance at the blueprint of the current Soviet five-year plan, and you wonder whether Stalin is (1) sacrificing the plan on the altar of Russo-German trade, or (2) pulling Hitler's leg.

Go back, as I did, to January of this year, when Stalin laid down the law for the third five-year plan (1938-42). Here's a part of what he said:

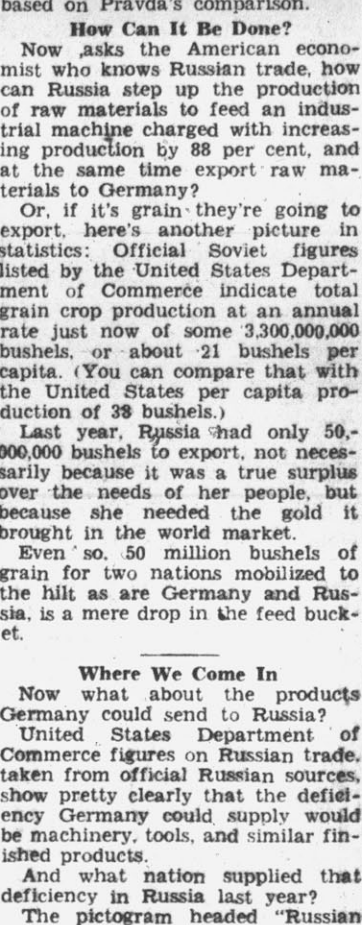

"It is undeniable that... the country (U.S.S.R.) still lags behind the capitalist states in an economic sense... Because of the low level of industrial production which prevailed before the World war, the present level is still below that of capitalist countries with respect to per capita production... in such respects as electric power, pig iron, steel and coal production and the manufacture of consumption goods, such as textiles, paper, soap and many others, the U. S. S. R. is still backward... This backwardness must be completely overcome before communism can triumph in its historic competition with capitalism."

Stalin was concerned with communist stomachs, too. He said: "The third plan period is to carry further the satisfaction of the needs and desires of the workers for foodstuffs, housing facilities and services of a domestic and cultural nature."

And how did Stalin plan to carry through this advancement? He decreed in the same speech an increase in production all along the line. He ordered industry to increase the value of its output by 88 per cent, come 1942. Agriculture got instructions to step up its output 53 per cent.

All of this was "duly reported in the official Russian newspaper, Pravda, and translated and reproduced in bulletins by the United States Department of Commerce."

Production (Per Capita)

Where We Come In

Now what about the products Germany could send to Russia? United States Department of Commerce figures on Russian trade, taken from official Russian sources, show pretty clearly that the deficiency Germany could supply would be machinery, tools, and similar finished products.

Here's A Catch

Therefore, if Russia plans to switch all that machine business to Germany, she must face the prospect of a costly re-tooling of many large machine units in her production plants. You can't have machinery of one pattern turning out part of a product, and machinery of another pattern turning out the rest of it. Not only would the process of re-tooling be extremely costly, but it would have a tendency to slow down production all along the assembly lines. And that would probably slow down the pace of Stalin's ambitious third five-year plan.

Therefore, American economists are wondering whether Stalin is going to sacrifice part of his plan, or pull Hitler's leg and send no raw materials to Germany.

Trying to swing both the trade agreement with Germany and a third five year plan at the same time, would be a good deal like trying to have one's cake and eat it too.

Accused

Lawrence Frize calmly smoked a cigarette after the district attorney's office in the Bronx, New York, quoted him as confessing he strangled to death his 80-year-old foster grandmother, Mrs. Henrietta Lohman, because she scolded him "for running around with girls" and refused to give him money.

No Markets Today

New York, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Almost complete closing down of the country's principal and commodity exchanges today accompanied the observance of Thanksgiving a week earlier than the traditional time in most states where important markets are located.

Banks and all security and commodity markets in New York were shut down, as well as grain markets at Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis.

It is more important now than at any other time that farmers organize in the opinion of B. B. Sugg and J. H. Blount stated at last night's gathering. They said they expected the war to keep our normal tobacco market from operating and federal assistance is going to be necessary but it will be up to the farmers to see that the proper legislation is passed by the 1940 Congress to permit the government's helping with the 1940 crop.

R. G. Arnold, representing the National Farm Bureau, told of the many things the Farm Bureau has done for farmers in the past and "an do in the future. He said he was firmly convinced every farmer would join who had the purpose of the Farm Bureau clearly explained. E. F. Arnold, executive secretary of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, explained the difference between the A. A. A. committee and the Farm Bureau. He explained that the committee men are employees of the United States government carrying out certain instructions. The Farm Bureau Federation is an organization of farmers who advise the government as to what works out to the most fair and just handling of the "overments efforts to help the farmer—and only the dirt farmer knows what is the best for the farmer.

R. R. Bennett, Pitt county farm agent, declared the farmers must have an organization that will represent them in the councils out of which comes the policies by which the Triple A is operated. He announced that the county committees of the Triple A will send their figures to the state office to be checked by the end of this week. These figures will be made available as soon as they get back from the state office.

A meeting has been announced for Wednesday night of next week at the court house in Greenville for the purpose of electing the Pitt county representatives to the National Farm Bureau Federation council in Chicago in December. It is open to the farmers of Pitt county.

THREE SEEKING TO BE SPEAKER

Guilford's Joe Carruthers Latest To Announce

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Nov. 23.—Tall, good-looking, cheerful Joe Carruthers of Guilford county has yanked off his hat and tossed it into the Speakership ring; thus becoming the third candidate who has flatly announced he seeks to sit where Libby Ward sat in the 1939 House.

Other two are George Ozzell of Rowan and Clarence E. Stone of Rockingham.

The Carruthers' decision to run was reached some time ago, it is reliably reported, but his announcement was withheld until his Guilford colleague, John Caffey, had made a final choice and had proclaimed his candidacy for Congress from the 8th district. Previously Caffey was generally regarded as a very serious obstacle to anyone else desiring to be Speaker.

Carruthers, attending the Fayetteville celebration this week, told friends that he positively will be a Speakership candidate.

He is one of the younger members of the House, but has served two terms and is almost unanimously regarded by news men and other competent observers as among the more influential members of the legislature, though he has always been among the less vocative. His voice was seldom heard in floor debate during either of his terms, but when he did have something to say, he was sure of an attentive hearing.

Some vital statistics: He was born December 11, 1906 in Greensboro and is a Duke graduate in law. He has been quite active in junior chamber of commerce and other civic organizations as well as in politics. He is married.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—If you know where to go you can see motion pictures of everything important and interesting that happens in this country. And it doesn't cost a cent. All this week I've been looking at play-by-play full-length pictures of important football games. I saw the SMU-Notre Dame thriller. I saw Alabama play Tennessee. I saw Ohio State lose to Cornell.

These are the coaches' textbooks. After each game the coaches put dunce-caps on the players' heads and make them look at the pictures. They sit there and watch themselves make incredible mistakes in the fundamentals of football, because of the errors, and the usual plays, the long touchdown runs, the down-field blocking was good, or bad, are run in slow motion.

And all through these pictures the coach lectures, and moans. If he is Lou Little he weeps softly but continuously. If he is Ducky Pond he gathers emotional momentum and then explodes. But the pictures are wonderful. You can see more "football" in an official film than you can in three stadiums.

Of equal interest are full-length motion pictures, with sound, of duck hunts, and fishing trips. Yesterday I saw an afternoon's shooting in a duck blind off the North Carolina coast. You could see the men with the dogs in the blind. You could see little specks on the far horizon that became living ducks as they whistled in. You could hear the swish of their wings, and the bark of the guns. Sometimes ducks fell; more often they kept right on going.

Late Pitt NEWS

Flier's Wife Back

Shown upon her arrival at Boston from Europe is Mrs. Edith Rogers Dahl, comely wife of Aviator Harold Dahl, who for two years and five months has been imprisoned in Spain. Her appeal to General Francisco Franco during the Spanish civil war caused reprieve to Dahl's death sentence. A violinist and singer, Mrs. Dahl said she had to return to the United States to earn a living, even though she was reluctant to return without her husband.

As one fellow described it, "I shot at some ducks, and they shot right back at me."

An incredible fund of these pictures, many in technicolor, have been made for devotees of all branches of sport. If you like to fish for swordfish, and nothing else, there is a swordfish picture. If you like to risk frost-bite by chasing polar bears across the ice floes in the Arctic, they have that too. There is salmon fishing in New Brunswick, and quail shooting in Alabama. There are muskalonge epics in Canada, and black bass orgies in Ontario.

I think they're wonderful, and I can't imagine anything better than having a library of these with a first class projection machine, wired for sound. Of course, that would cost a fortune. Only clubs and organizations have things like this.

But you can see these things—all of them, without cost—if you know where to go.

or writing songs, acquired an Irish setter last week and forthwith took it to a trainer, "for the usual course of instruction."

"Be more specific, Frank," the trainer suggested. "What do you want him trained for—pheasants or ducks?"

"Neither," said Frank, "golf balls."

It was during the rehearsal of the Milton Berle "Stop Me If You've Heard This One" program last Saturday night, that Harry Hershfield, Jay C. Flippen and Berle were tossing the quips back and forth.

HOLIDAY COOKING HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

If you want to remove pecan nuts in halves, cover the nuts with boiling water and let them stand 15 minutes. Crack carefully and pick out the meats.

Here is a Christmas gift idea that will make a hit—bake fruit cakes in star-shaped moulds and give the mould along with the cake as a present. Or let the star-shaped cakes help out with decorating your holiday tables. They carry out the Yuletide motif when decked with holly or other Christmas finery.

If citron is very hard for the holiday cakes or cookies, soak it for 10 minutes in fruit juice, cider or milk, then cut it into small pieces.

For extra flavor in dark fruit cakes, use cider or spiced fruit juices for the liquid.

Sift spices with the flour so they will be distributed properly throughout the batter or dough.

Often it's the glaze that gives the professional touch to your holiday cakes. So boil together 1 cup granulated sugar, 1-3 cup light corn syrup, and 2-3 cup water, until a soft ball forms when a portion is tested in cold water. Let cool and then quickly spread over the fruit cake when taken from the oven. After five minutes decorate the pudding with slices of candied fruits and nuts.

Be sure that the fruits and nuts are well distributed throughout your fruit-cake mixtures. Chop or grind them into uniform sized pieces and sprinkle them well with flour to prevent them from sticking together or remaining in one spot in the cake batter.
