GREAT BRITAIN SEEKS TO CURB MINE MENACE

Naval Experts Shape Methods to Combat Attacks

LIST OF SUNKEN SHIPS INCREASES

Approximately 25 British and Neutral Vessels Said to have Been Sunk Within Past Six Days

London, Nov. 24.—(AP)—British naval experts shaped methods today to combat mines, which are taking a rising toll of merchant shipping along the British east coast.

Britain, apprehensively watching the list of sunken ships grow, wondered whether the secret weapon which Germany has hinted she possesses might have entered the war at sea.

Within the last six days about 25 British and neutral vessels have been sunk, some by German submarines, but most by mines.

The British press charged Germany with sowing magnetic mine explosive mines in shallow east coast shipping lanes, with mine-laying airplanes and small submarines.

Disclosure last night of two more sinkings raised those for yesterday alone to eight. One was the 315-ton British mine sweeper Aragonite, which the admiral said struck a mine yesterday.

The other was the 974-ton London steamer Lowland, which, it was disclosed, sank in the North sea with nine men missing and one dead. The cause of the sinking was not given.

London, Nov. 24.—(AP)—German planes flew over the Shetland Islands again today resulting in a 90-minute air raid warning.

London, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The sinking of the 5,133-ton Netherlands tanker, Slidrecht by a submarine was disclosed today with the landing of five survivors in a north-west coast port.

The five were seven and one half days in an open boat before being rescued by a trawler.

London, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Mines off England's east coast sank another British vessel today, the 8,886-ton steamer Mangalore as British naval experts struggled to check shipping losses.

The Mangalore was the 83rd British vessel, navy and merchant lost since the start of the war.

TESTIMONY OF KUHN REFUTED

Bund Leader's 'Golden Angel' Contradicts Evidence

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Blonde Mrs. Florence Camp, once termed "my golden angel" by Fritz Kuhn, bluntly and repeatedly contradicted the German-American Bund leader's testimony today when she was called as a rebuttal witness at Kuhn's trial on a grand larceny charge.

Both sides rested shortly after she left the stand.

Mrs. Camp testified that Kuhn urged her to divorce her husband, Charles, and to bring her furniture to New York so that they could use it after their marriage. Kuhn already was married and the father of two children.

She contradicted Kuhn's testimony that she had given the Bund official $565.76 in cash in return for Kuhn's financing the transportation of her furniture from Los Angeles to New York later under questioning by the court, however, Mrs. Camp acknowledged she had given Kuhn $600 in three installments. Kuhn had thus accounted for part of the money which he is accused of stealing from the funds of his organization.

The witness testified that Kuhn gave her a ring in August, 1938. She identified the diamond which Kuhn had testified was not the one he had bought.

Mrs. Camp, whom Kuhn had described as a "patriotic lady" interested in supporting the Bund, said she had never contributed to the Bund, had never become a member of the woman's auxiliary and had never even sympathized with it.

"I knew nothing about the Bund," she said.

Calls On Citizens To Purchase Seals

Jack Spain, Mayor of Greenville, has issued a proclamation urging the citizens of this community to purchase Christmas seals as liberally as possible.

Mayor Spain's statement follows in full: "The approach of the holiday season once again brings the simple, direct appeal of Christmas seals to the citizens of Greenville.

To protect homes from the tragedy caused by the dread ravages of tuberculosis is the never-ending objective of the Christmas seal campaign. In the final analysis, ours is a community of homes and what could be more vital than the unceasing vigilance and protection of these homes.

"As Mayor of Greenville, it gives me great pleasure and a sense of fulfilling official duty, to endorse wholeheartedly the purchase of Christmas seals as a method of raising funds for the fight against tuberculosis. As Mayor and as a private citizen I hope that all our citizens will buy as many seals as possible and that every greeting card and gift package going forth from our community will carry this decoration, attesting that Greenville is doing its part in a great drive."

City Checks Go To New York Banks

Checks totaling $30,777.50 and representing principal and interest payments on city bonds, were being prepared today for mailing to New York city banks. The payments are due November 30.

Of the total amount $22,000 represents principal payments and of the principal $13,000 is for payment on Water and Light Commission bonds, for which the commission turned over the funds to the city treasurer. The city is making the final payment of $6,000 on a $104,000 paving bond issued in December, 1917. In addition the city is paying $3,070 on a street improvement bond issued in 1923.

Of the total interest payments, $7,431.25 is for the Water and Light commission, the remaining $1,346.25 being for various city bonds.

Japs On March

Hongkong, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Japanese army headquarters here announced tonight that Japanese forces had entered Nanning, Kwangsi province capital, early this afternoon.

The Japanese troops moved into the city which lies on a key supply route from French Indo China after artillery and air bombardments had reduced its defenses. The announcement said. The way was further prepared by thrusts of Japanese cavalry units which crossed the shallow Pearl river on which Nanning lies.

LIQUOR FUNDS HELPING POOR

ABC Board turns over $25,000 Check to Pitt County

A check for $25,000, representing profits of sale of liquor by ABC stores, was turned over to the county auditor by Dr. Charles O'H. Horne, ABC board chairman, this morning.

The $25,000 check is the first of four of like amount the ABC board hopes to turn over to the county during the current fiscal year. The $100,000 was figured on when the budget was made up and this expected revenue enabled the county to hold the tax rate at its 70 cent rate.

A good portion of the ABC liquor profits will be used for the poor and needy in the county.

County Auditor J. H. Coward said $25,000 would be distributed as follows: General fund, $15,000; county home, $2,000; outside poor and relief, $3,500; social security, $1,500; and health department, $3,000.

Mr. Coward further explained that no taxes were levied for the general fund, county home fund, outside poor and relief fund and for the health department. These departments being maintained almost entirely from ABC funds. He added he believed this was the only county with such an arrangement. In addition to the above, ABC funds also are used to help provide pension funds.

The county has a tax rate of 70 cents, divided as follows: Pensions, eight per cent; schools, seven per cent; debt service, 55 per cent.

The extent to which the county relies on ABC funds to hold down the tax rate is shown by the fact that liquor profits are counted on to provide the following during the fiscal year: General, $58,507.25; county home, $8,415; outside poor and relief, $13,266; pensions, $6,600; health department, $13,211.75.

84 DEATHS IN U. S. THURSDAY

Death Toll Heavy As Nation Observes 1st Thanksgiving

By The Associated Press

At least 84 persons in 25 states were killed in accidents Thursday as the nation observed the first of its two Thanksgivings.

Most of the dead lost their lives in highway accidents. Five were killed while hunting. There were four fire victims and one died of drowning.

In Cleveland Mrs. Ida O'Loughlin, 69-year-old grandmother heard the screeching of brakes, ran out on her porch and dropped dead of a heart attack when she saw a small boy lying in the street. The boy, Roger Krull, seven, struck by a motorist who did not stop, died later.

The toll by states included: North Carolina, one.

Magistrate's Office Robbed During Night

The office of John Ivey Smith was entered and a radio stolen last night and an attempt was made to break into the offices of Arthur B. Corey, both located in the Blount building on Third street.

A desk in the offices of Mr. Smith was prized open, apparently with a letter file or chisel and a small radio taken. The lock on the door of Mr. Corey's office had been tampered with, but the intruder failed to get in.

Mr. Corey said this morning that for the benefit of the would-be robber, he was giving warning that he kept no money, nor even postage stamps in his office.

State Gets Ready For Visit by FDR

Asheville, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Final arrangements for the visit here Tuesday of President Roosevelt will be made at a conference of state, federal, city and county authorities Monday.

A preliminary conference was held yesterday by secret service agents attached to the White House staff and Lewis Padgett of Charlotte, agent in charge of the North Carolina district.

The president is expected to arrive here Tuesday morning en route from Warm Springs, Ga., where he spent Thanksgiving, to Washington. He is expected to remain here most of the afternoon.

City Accepts Invitation To Aid in Youth Training

The City of Greenville has accepted the invitation of Greenville High school to take part in training the youth of Greenville for jobs. The walls of the school have figuratively been extended to the city limits through the Diversified Occupations course.

And employers and workmen long out of touch with the school have become instructors or supervisors of high school students on their jobs. Thus is business being brought into closer contact with the school in our community; and what is perhaps more important, the school is attempting to provide for the needs of local business men by recognizing the need for trade and business training in many fields.

Sixteen high school students are now working part time in fourteen Greenville industries. For three or four hours of each school day, each of these young persons works in a trade or business which he has chosen with the help and approval of Coordinator Wallace Bourne, of the high school faculty, and his own employer. The remainder of the day is spent in regular school classes

ALLIES CLAIM NEW TRIUMPHS IN AERIAL WAR

Combat Reminiscent Of Dogfights Of World War days

NAZIS, HOWEVER REFUTE CLAIMS

German Sources Confirm Increased Warfare in Air, But Disagree on Reports As To Losses

Paris, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Allies reported today continuing triumphs in aerial combat on the Western front as the war turned skyward in a manner reminiscent of the dogfights and flying circuses of World war days.

In contrast with the grim waiting game on the ground, the French said that their aviators in American and French planes had shot down 11 German aircraft in the last three days.

Reports here also credited British fliers with destroying nine German planes in two days.

Germany confirmed the increase in aerial warfare, but disagreed on the result. Official news agency reports in Berlin declared that German fighters had shot down five enemy planes with only one German loss in six separate encounters over northwestern France in the last two days.

The French reported they shot down two German planes yesterday, six Wednesday and three Tuesday with only one of their own planes lost.

The British brought down seven Germans yesterday and two Wednesday without loss, correspondents with the Royal Air Force said.

PAYS PENALTY AT N. C. PRISON

Negro Executed after Absolving brother Of Blame

Raleigh, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Raymond Williams, 20-year-old Negro murderer whose confession saved the life of his brother, was executed by gas at state prison today.

The execution came a year and a day after Nathan Reef, a blanket salesman, was slain on Thanksgiving day in Sampson county by Raymond and Henry Williams and their brother-in-law Lee Simpson.

The brothers were both sentenced to be executed after Raymond confessed and took all responsibility. Gov. Hoey commuted Henry's sentence to life imprisonment. Simpson is serving a 30-year prison term.

As Raymond started his "last mile" walk into the death chamber he passed the cell in which his brother stood. They exchanged "good-byes," but had no other conversation. Henry will be removed from death row today or tomorrow to start his life term.

Consider Special Levy To Raise Expenditures For National Defense

Chief Executive Indicates Total Defense Costs May Exceed Two Billion Dollars; Talks about Defense and its Financing When Questioned About Business and Taxation

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that some consideration was being given the idea of a special tax to finance expenditures for national defense, which may be increased by $500,000,000 in the next fiscal year.

These defense expenditures, the president indicated at a press conference, will be in excess of $2,000,000,000 but probably not as high as $2,300,000,000. He differentiated, incidentally, between appropriations and expenditures for defense.

Questioned about business and taxation led the president into a discussion of defense and its financing.

Of course, he said, the objective of the administration was to cut down all expenditures which possibly could be whittled at the present time.

Assuming that reductions can be made in the budget that Congress does not appropriate large sums beyond the budget estimate and that tax revenues increase as they are now the President said the result would be a reduction in this year's deficit.

But undoubtedly because of the world situation, Mr. Roosevelt continued, a larger sum must be provided for defense—one about $500,000,000 more than was available this year.

The factor, he said, raises a question which he would like to submit to public discussion which he described as always helpful. The question is:

"Should we borrow money to pay for emergency expenditures for defense or pay as we go.

To an inquiry whether the budget would be balanced aside from defense outlays, Mr. Roosevelt replied in the negative. But, he said, there would be a very substantial decrease in the deficit, that it probably could be cut more than half.

PUT ON DANCE TO AID BLIND

Thirty-two Pitt Blind Persons In The Limelight

The 32 blind people in Pitt county are, for the first time, in the limelight!

For the purpose of raising funds whereby these people may be trained in useful handicrafts, the local Lions club is sponsoring next Wednesday night a Thanksgiving dance, Louis Skinner, president of the club, stated last night that plans were now complete for the dance and that every indication pointed to a successful affair.

George Wilkerson, chairman of blind work done by the local Lions, and Tubby Evans, chairman of the dance committee are eager that Greenville citizens cooperate in establishing a working fund for rehabilitating 32 worthy citizens in Pitt county.

The possibility of a teacher for assisting these people in learning useful handicrafts will be practically assured if the dance project now under way is successful. Part of the proceeds will also be used in instructing the blind in learning braille.

Throughout the United States thousands of blind people are aided yearly through the Lions clubs of the country. This type of assistance is the proud heritage of nearly every club in America. The local Lions are especially eager to cooperate with such unfortunates who are included in no other form of public assistance or charity.

The dance will be given as a Thanksgiving dance on next Wednesday evening from ten until two. Rudy Walters and his orchestra will play for the dance, which will be held in the high school gymnasium.

Decorations are in charge of Mrs. A. L. Dittmer and the art classes of Greenville high school.

Mr. Woolard said so far as he knew at the present, no one else from here was planning to attend the conference, at which experienced bankers will conduct forum discussions on the program which will have as its theme "Banking's Part in Business Development."

MORE REPORTS THAT BRITISH SHIP DAMAGED

Submarine Corroborates Statement Cruiser Hit

SECOND REPORT WARSHIP STRUCK

New York Time Declares That U-Boats Launched Attack after Slipping Thru Defense

Berlin, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The German high command reported today it had corroboration from a submarine of reported heavy damage to the 10,000-ton British cruiser Belfast in the Firth of Forth.

(The New York Times said Wednesday that "for the second time since the outbreak of the war a German submarine had slipped through the defenses of a British naval base and launched an attack on a British warship, according to private advices received in New York last night.")

(The newspaper said the extent of the damage was not disclosed, but that the submarine was reported to have escaped.)

(Private information reaching the Associated Press in New York indicated that the Belfast had suffered damage, but that it might have been caused by a mine and not by a submarine torpedo.)

The high command said German forces had brought down three enemy aircraft—two British and one French—and that Nazi fliers had returned unharmed from "frequent air fights" with the enemy.

In the West livelier scouting and artillery activity," the communique said.

London, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Admiralty maintained silence today on the German assertion that the British cruiser Belfast had been torpedoed and badly damaged.

Tenth Street Homes Invaded By Prowler

One home on East Tenth street was entered by a Negro prowler last night and another home just across the street is believed to have been the intended victim of the same Negro.

Police officers reported that a Negro went to the home of S. O. Worthington and rang the front door bell. Mrs. Worthington went to the door and the Negro asked for food.

The same Negro is then said to have gone across the street to a home occupied by two families, Crown and Stafford. The Negro is said to have entered the home, frightening a young boy who ran out the back door screaming. The Negro is believed to have fled out the back door after the boy left.

Burns Are Fatal To Bethel Student

Charles D. Rollins, Jr., 17-year-old Bethel high school student, died at 11:45 o'clock this morning in Pitt General Hospital of burns he suffered two weeks ago today.

The young man is said to have thrown some gasoline in an old oil drum used for waste back of a cafe and then to have thrown a burning match in the drum.

He was burned from his waistline to his neck. Rushed to the local hospital, he had been in a critical condition since.

Funeral services are tentatively set for Sunday afternoon in the Bethel Holiness church. Complete details had not been arranged.

The high school student is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Rollins, Jr., and several brothers and sisters. His father is a painter by trade.

Gray Haired and Over Forty

And Beautifully Dressed By FORBES

The Forbes reputation for beautiful clothes is not in the hands of the debutantes alone; women of every age, mothers as well as daughters, look to this store to accomplish the "glorifying" process which makes life worth living, and clothes worth buying. Now, with the Winter season rolling on toward its holiday heights the desire to look her best is uppermost in every woman's mind, and the Forbes' interest in the "gray haired and over forty," our inspiring handling of her clothes and figure problems, are more than ever appreciated.

Vestry Entertains Parishioners
One of the highlights in St. Paul's Parish for the year was the supper last evening at the Parish House, when the vestry entertained the parishioners. Over one hundred guests were present.

Dr. James B. Hawes presided in the absence of the senior warden, Mr. W. H. Dall.
Two groups of songs were delightfully rendered by Miss Ella Frances Evans and the Misses Crumpler.

Reports were given from the various church organizations. Mrs. Curtis Perkins reported for St. Mary's Auxiliary. Mrs. W. I. Wooten gave a report from St. Paul's Auxiliary. Miss Hennie Long represented the church school. Mrs. Picklesimer, the student worker, reported for the college group. Miss Margaret Jones told of the activities of the Young People's Service League. Mrs. C. A. White reported for the choir.

The Diocesan budget for the year was reviewed by the Rev. W. R. Noe, Diocesan executive secretary of Wilmington.

The Rev. John R. Tolar of Wilmington, who for the past month has been rector-in-charge of St. Paul's, presented the Parish budget. The climax of the meeting was an address by the Rt. Rev. Thomas C. Darst, Bishop of East Carolina.

Special Service Sunday Night
At the Christian Church Sunday morning, Rev. Gilbert Davis, pastor, will use a theme connected with the observance of Woman's Day. The night service will consist chiefly of a playlet, "As Often," presented by the Missionary Society. The following will be on the program: Mrs. Earl Flake, Mrs. G. T. Tyson, Mrs. Josie McArthur, Miss Verna Joyner, Mr. Russell Jefferson, Robert McArthur, Mrs. Mack Smith, Mrs. R. E. Willoughby. The first Sunday in December is annually observed as Woman's Day, but due to the fact that our pastor is not with us on the first Sunday we are using the fourth Sunday in November. We hope that all members and many visitors will be present for both the morning and night services.

Mr. Alfred Earl Hemby is at home from Norfolk for the Thanksgiving holidays being observed in that state this week-end.
Mr. C. C. Hilton of Greenville was in the community Thursday.

This shows you what a jacket can do to give a suave finish to a winter frock. Germaine Monteil designed it of black wool. The jacket, which fits closely under the bust, is banded in flame jersey studded with jet on decoration lines recalling those of ski jackets. More flame jersey makes a bodice top for the dress.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. D. A. WINDHAM

The incidents of today's lesson took place about the last of March and in the Orient at this season of the year it is often very sultry. The Master has finished a day of teaching and was, as he was human as well as divine, tired and weary; and he engaged for the quiet of the region beyond Galilee. Six miles of water lay between him and that peaceful rest on that eastern shore where scarcely an inhabitant was to be found.
But before the boat could be pushed off another remarkable interruption occurred. Three of his listeners desired to attach themselves to him as permanent disciples. The first one was a Scribe who desired to follow him. But in spite of his high position to glowing promises, he who cared less than nothing for lip service and who preferred the modesty of duty to the rattling tongue of audacious eloquence; checked his would-be follower. He who had called the hated publican gave no encouragement to the reputable Scribe. He did not reject the service, neither did he accept it. He pointed out that his service was not one of wealth, or honor, or delight; not one in which any could hope for earthly gain. The Master said: "The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have their nests but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head. As birds do not live in nests, the Greek term will bear this rendering 'have shekels.' The title 'Son of Man' had reference to his Messianic office. See Dan. 7:13 and John 12:34.
Vessels 21 and 22 should be understood as follows: this disciple wanted to return and remain with his father while he lived and after his death he would follow him; but the Lord reminds him that father should be loved but a Redeemer should be preferred. If such a delay was to be tolerated it must cause indifference or even complete apathy. There is no time better to do good than the eternal NOW.
So, then, these fresh delays were over and the little vessel could spread her sails for the voyage, one of the most outstanding in the world's history. Yet at any rate Jesus in his own boat and amid his own trusted disciples he could rest undisturbed; and as soon as they were away from shore, he laid his weary head on the cushion of the steersman and was sleeping the sleep of the worn and weary—the calm sleep of those who are at peace with God.
One of the fierce storms peculiar to that deep hollow in the earth's surface swept down on that little inland sea. With scarcely a moment's notice the air was filled with whirlwinds and the sea buffeted into tempest. The danger was extreme. The boat was again and again buried amid the foam and breakers.
So weary and worn amid all the turmoil he lay on the open deck at the stern calmly sleeping on—undisturbed, and as yet no one ventured to awake him.
There is a touch of tragic surprise in the autos de ekathende of Matt. 8:24 rendered "But He Himself was sleeping—but that sleep was soon to be disturbed with the vehement cries of terror 'Lord! Master! Master! save! we perish!

GRANGE SEEKS HELP FARMERS

Continued Federal Aid Demanded at Annual Meet

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Continued federal aid to farmers pending the establishment of a permanent agricultural program was demanded today by the National Grange at the final session of its 71st annual convention.

Delegates representing 800,000 Grange members adopted a committee report which held that federal benefit payments were justifiable until agriculture is accorded a bigger share of the national income.

The report demanded adjustments in taxation, interest charges, wage levels and transportation rates to "equalize existing inequalities" for agriculture and proposed both an emergency and a long-time farm program.

The temporary program advocated compensatory payments on domestically consumed portions of export crops to provide parity prices; similar payments for production quotas to be determined on the basis of land use, acreage, crops and farm equipment; safeguards for tenant interests and continued use of tariff revenues to reduce surpluses at home and abroad.

The Grange, opposing any form of processing taxes, recommended that funds for the temporary program be obtained from tariff revenues, supplemented by excise taxes on manufactured products.

lating in believing that Christ on board that half wrecked fishing boat did utter his mandate, and that he who works and none hinders. He who speaks and it is done; is today bending low in his mercy that His listening ear may catch the prayer of faith coming from the heart of his endangered child—his LORD save or I perish, can speak to the troubled soul and that invisible sea will fold into tranquility and the lilies of contentment will mirror their grace in its tide.

Washington. — Correspondence

Any farmers who get war frenzy
over the prospect that the war may bring higher prices can't blame the Department of Agriculture.
Scarcely a piece of farm mail goes out for general distribution that doesn't warn farmers that war holds nothing but misery and deception for them. The last war brought riches for many who plowed up the plains for grain. The gains, say the department, have been lost a thousandfold in dust storms, ruined farms
and foreclosed mortgages.
Secretary Wallace is himself a passes a press conference without

in the war business.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Sholley, Wees

YESTERDAY: Murder, not suicide, is Michael's verdict. Also,
Mrs. Murchison is a bigamist. Devoe bought her first husband. Murchison bought the diamonds to cover Maria's theft of them. War-pension Smith tells Michael he saw Murchison buying an ear-lock.

Chapter 42 The Hairpin

SEVERAL hours later, on the afternoon of the same day, Tuck stood looking out of a window in the living room overlooking the beach. A car drove up to the Devil door, and Mrs. Murchison accompanied by Jared Devoe came out of the house and drove away.

"Bunny," she exclaimed, "He's gone, Jared Devoe, I mean."
Bunny looked up from the needlepoint chair cover she was working at. "Well, Tuck?"
"Don't you see? It's all right—let's go out and hunt for your Creeping Man, Bunny! Out where you saw him, the other night! Maybe he had a ladder, and came up over the cliff. We could find the cliff, perhaps. You know Michael hasn't paid any attention to that story, because he seemed to have his mind just set on Duncan being guilty. Do you believe Duncan is guilty, Bunny?"

Bunny laid down her work and crossed her hands over her knee.
She looked up at Tuck with a hint
of pain in the deep gray eyes.
"I don't know what to think," she said. "Michael's awfully clever, and awfully decent. He wouldn't talk that way to me about Duncan unless he had some basis for it. He never talks like that without a reason.
But honestly, looking at Duncan, listening to him talk, can you believe that he is the... the fiend who is running wild here?"

"No," said Tuck promptly. "I cannot. I don't think Michael's telling fibs, but I think he's mistaken.
I think he's prejudiced, for the first time since I've known him. So, let's go ourselves, Bunny, and find out what we can... if we can find out anything, I'll go to Father 'orrester with it if Michael won't listen."
"Michael would listen. He is fair minded, lamb. I don't want to admit it, but I must."

"Bunny," Tuck said, her eyes on the geraniums blooming in the window boxes, "are you in love with Duncan?"

Bunny frowned. "I don't know,"
she said, as if they were discussing a remote question. "I don't honestly know. I could have been, I suppose, if I'd seen more of him. I'm all upset and sort of miserable these days because it seems as if his no use having faith in human-nature any longer if that nice boy turns out to be a dreadful criminal.
I didn't see very much of him."
"No, Well, I like him. I'd like you to marry him. You make a lovely looking couple, both of you so tall,
and his eyes so blue, and his hair
so wavy, and his shoulders so broad, and you slim and gray-eyed and black-haired and generally darling."

Bunny laughed in spite of herself, and jumped up to give Tuck a hug. "You are a lamb," she said. "I feel better. Do we go to the woods, then?"
"Feeling quite sure," said Tuck seriously, in a lowered tone, "that the real villain of the piece, as yet unmasked, has gone away—I'm not afraid to go. What could he do to us, anyway? Nothing."

"She could have let him in, that night, couldn't she?" Bunny asked.
"It's all there. Motive, opportunity, everything. You know, Tuckie, I think Duncan believes that too.
He's afraid he can't prove it. He hates Devoe. It was Devoe he was threatening to kill, Tuck. It must have been. He didn't mean it, but you can't blame him for saying it.
He doesn't know the truth, and he thinks that woman is his sister-in-law, and"—she paused—"he hates her too, in spite of what they're trying to make out. I'm sure of that much."

They reached the garden gate,
and stood hesitantly there; behind them the house and security; before them the dark woods, but, perhaps, the unraveling of a secret.

Dark Woods

AT THE moment, Charlotte Jean came running down the path.
"Mrs. Forrester, ma'am, you gave me quite a start, indeed you did," she said, wiping her hands on her apron. "Mr. Michael said that I was to keep my eye on you, and if you started off into the woods,
like, I was to tell you to come back. I was to tell you to come back."

Tuck's eyes were round and innocent. "But why, Charlotte Jean?
It's perfectly safe now."
The two girls went on down the path, reached the fork where the fainter trail turned off toward the river and followed it. The woods were dark and full of mysterious shadows; Tuck jumped off the path,
when a rabbit hopped out of the underbrush.

"I don't have the slightest idea
what I'm afraid of," she whispered,
"but the place gets me. Oh!"
"What is it?"

Tuck put her hand over Bunny's.
"Something moved. I saw something there, in the shadows. It moved against the light. It just ahead in that clump of trees
there!" She clutched Bunny's arm as she spoke. "Don't you see?"

Bunny did not need to answer,
for just as Tuck spoke the figure in the shadows resolved itself into Dr.
McBain, wandering along the path toward them, head down, pipe in his mouth. He looked up quickly and was obviously as startled to see them as they had been to see him.

"I hope I didn't startle you?" he said in a moment.

"I'm afraid you did," Tuck's voice was shaky. "It's such an eerie place, and we weren't looking for anyone to be here."

"Eerie? I'm afraid I hadn't noticed it. I come here frequently to think out any problem that comes up." He looked at them kindly, and yet inquiringly. "You're both pale," he said sharply. "I suppose it's this air of mystery and terror surrounding us. My wife is really ill with it all."

"It's been awful, hasn't it?" Tuck said. "I thought Mrs. McBain couldn't be well. She looked dreadfully pale yesterday."

"I'm glad she isn't living as close to it as you are," he said, tapping his pipe on his boot heel. "Your husband is working hard, I suppose? I haven't had a long talk with him for several days. I dropped his voice. 'I sincerely hope he is making headway,' he said."

"I think he is. He's down town working this morning. He doesn't tell us very much, you know. It's a very complicated business." McBain's face was stern. "It is that," he agreed heartily. "We shall be more than glad when it is cleared up. It is terrible—terrible.
I do not... oh, I shouldn't say that ... I did not believe that Dr. Murchison could possibly be dead. I am getting to change my opinion." He drew a deep breath. "Oh, well, I mustn't burden you with my feelings. I'm thankful that it's Mr. Forrester, and not I, who has to deal with it. He is a very keen lad. I noticed how very cleverly he concealed his real knowledge at the inquest, regarding Miss Lissey's last talk with you. No one who didn't know... or who hadn't suspected the truth... would have guessed that he didn't tell all he knew."

"No, I don't believe they would.
Of course he couldn't possibly tell everything he told us."
"No, Poor soul! I detested her heartily in life, but it seems a very small thing to cost one one's life.
However... I must be off. I have a lecture. Good afternoon... and a pleasant walk."

Big Log

THE two girls went on only a few steps until they came to the end of the path, or, rather, to the edge of the wood. Perhaps at some time the trees here had extended to the water's edge, but they had been cleared for a distance of an eighth of a mile along the river and perhaps twenty feet back from the edge. This was the rocky stretch of ground... although Michael had not told them... where he had seen Miss Lissey with her reading glass. This also was the place, just at the end of the path, where Mrs.
Devoe's body had been found. Not knowing the exact spot, they did not shiver, and avoid it, but went on, slowly, up the bank.

Do you see that big log, about half way up the clearing?" Bunny asked quietly. "It's just under the overhang of the trees. Look... that big stump is almost directly between it and the water. Tuck, that's where we were sitting the night we saw the Creeping Man. On that log, you know, we stopped suddenly, and turned to Tuck. 'It never occurred to me before. How stupid we were! That man... he could perfectly well have been hidden on the other side of the stump. Perhaps not hidden at all. Tuck, perhaps just somebody sitting there enjoying the sunset. Then we came along,
and sat down, and perhaps he didn't like to startle us by getting up suddenly. So he just crept away quietly when it got dark. Oh, Tuck, of course that's the explanation!"
Tuck said nothing, although her nervous face betrayed her feelings.
They had reached the stump, now and leaned against it. Bunny looked behind her swiftly to the fallen log, where she and Duncan had sat. "Tuck, you slip down on the other side of the stump," she commanded, "and 'll go and sit on the log. Then, we'll see if that idea could be possible. It would certainly answer a big question in my mind."

"No, we better trade places.
You're bigger than I. This stump isn't so awfully tall, Bunny. You come, a man would be more your size."
So Bunny went over and dropped down behind the stump
as if she were a man smoking his after-dinner pipe. Tuck surveyed her from the log.

"I can almost nearly see the top of your head, but not quite," she said. "But it might have been done.
Still... I don't see how you and Duncan could possibly have come all along the bank and not seen him, if he were sitting there all the time. There's no underbrush around at all."

Bunny got up and came over to her. She bent down and picked up something from the ground. "This must be yours, Tuck, this hairpin,"
she said.

"Dear gray shell? Who in the world would part gray shell hairpins in this day and age?"
The answer came to both of them at once. "Mrs. Devoe did!" Bunny said quietly. "She must have walked along here just before..."
Tuck jumped up. "Hush, Bunny.
Don't say it!"

And then they heard, only a faintly, the murmur of voices.
Bunny swung around and gazed
into the woods, where all was still.
Tuck, keener of hearing, perhaps,
went forward cautiously and peered over the steep cliff. She gazed down incredulously for a moment, then tiptoed back to Bunny. "You know what it is?" she demanded. "It's that Michael Forrester, with Gordon Deane, drifting down-stream in a brand new gray boat. Cushions and everything. Isn't that terrible?" She looked at Bunny tragically. "Bunny, do you suppose he's lost his
mind?"

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 24.—Congressman Graham (Hap) Barden of the Third
was in Raleigh Thursday but declined to admit that his visit has any official or political import.

He put in a long spell with Commissioner of Labor Forrest H. Shuford, giving rise to speculation whether he was discussing the wage-hour bill (to which Barden offered many amendments at the last Congress session), but neither he nor the commissioner would say so.
"We were just discussing—and settling, perhaps—the war in Europe when you came in," Barden told a pair of news men who invaded the Shuford office while he was there.

Pressed on the subject, the Third District representative did admit he hoped "they'll let me alone" in his district next year. He pointed out that in three and a half years of office he has been through seven separate and distinct campaigns, which ought to entitle him to a Sabbatical year—or something. Certainly it must be something of a record.

Talk is cheap, but it cost Giles Yoeman Newton $100 to file officially as a candidate for Congress from the Eighth District. He thereby became the first qualified candidate for next May's primary and served

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.
Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning above that may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.
Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Phantoms All Set For Kinston Contest Here Tonight

KICK-OFF SET FOR 8:15 P. M.

Game To Be Played Under Lights At Smith Park

The kick-off will be at 8:15 p. m. When the Green Phantoms march out under the lights of the Guy Smith field tonight to engage in combat with the Kinston Red Devils, fans will witness another thrill a minute affair. This is the fifth Eastern conference game of the season for the Greens. They have taken three and dropped one.

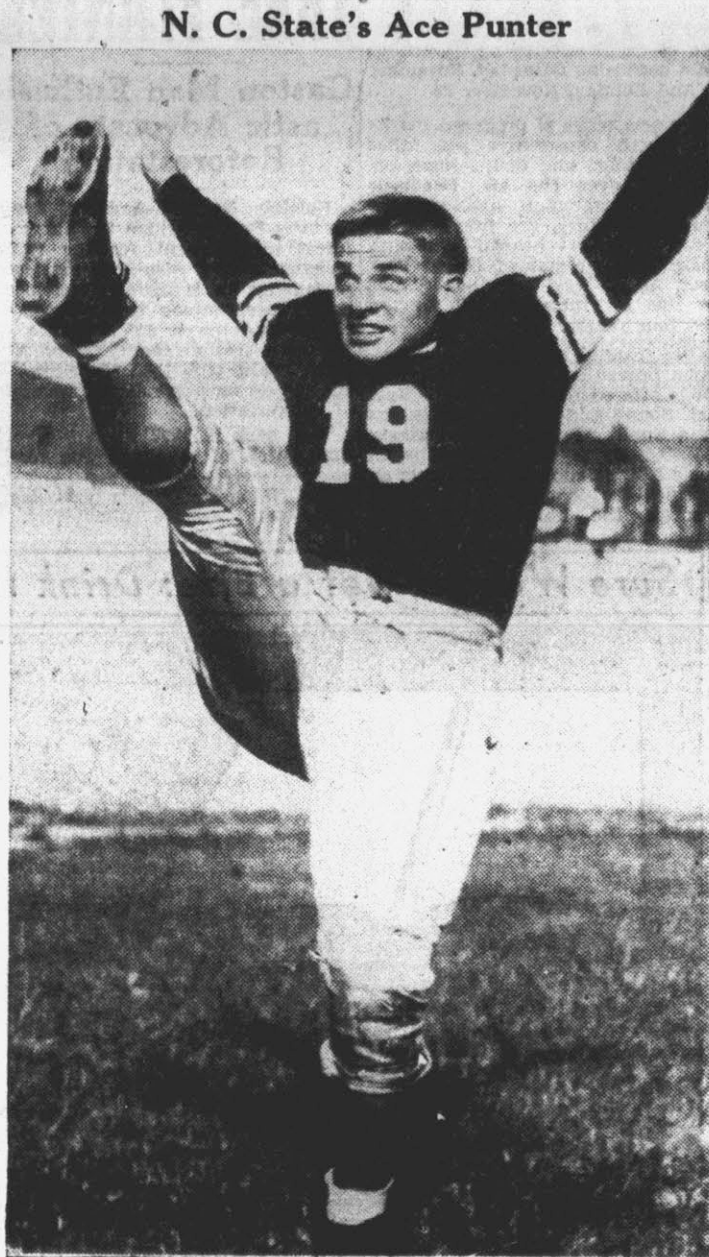

Even though the Farley men are favored to win over the Devils it is evident it will be no pushover because the Red Devils are seeking revenge over 14 consecutive years of defeats at the feet of the Greens. Kinston has defeated Plymouth, Edenton, Williamston, New Bern and Edward Military Institute. While Greenville has taken games from Ayden, Windsor, Plymouth, New Bern, Goldsboro and Edenton. So far this season the locals have scored 177 points to their opponents 27.

Bo Farley and Herman Fulkerson have taken advantage of their few days of practice by running plenty to get the Green and White in shape.

The Phantoms play Washington Wednesday night at Guy Smith stadium. This is their closing game of the season.

The probable lineup: Greenville—Larry James, John Collins, Spencer Carroll, Russell Rogerson, Warren Parrish, Paul Scott, Charles Williams, J. B. Kittrell, George Tyn-dall, Buddy Harrington, and George Sakas. Kinston—Grady Moore, Johnson, Lee, Taylor, Moseley Harlan, Harper, Wooten, Stallings and Hood.

Overcrowding in the Campo Santo cemetery in Genoa, Italy, resulted in the erection of rows of marble tombs on the flat roof of its great public mausoleum.

When it comes time to punt this is the lad who gets the call for the N. C. State Wolfpack. He is Little Artie Rooney, senior quarterback, who has pulled the Wolves out of the holes all season. Rooney probably will be in the starting lineup when N. C. State faces Duke in the finale at home Saturday at 2 p. m. The game will be played in Riddick stadium, Raleigh.

Sophomores Counted on In Duke-State Contest

Game To Be Played At Raleigh Saturday Afternoon

Raleigh, Nov. 24.—While some of the most stellar stars in the North Carolina State and Duke gridiron firmaments will be blinking their last time on North Carolina soil Saturday in the State-Duke game here, it may fall the lot of the sophomore greats of the two Southern conference teams to do the lion's share of shining.

If what happened in last week's State-Furman and Duke-Carolina games is any indication certainly the sophs will be the big guns in the 2 p. m. game.

State's sophomore country boys, paced by quarterback Lux Watts, halfback Jack Huckabee, ends

Frank Owens and Wade Brown, tackle Woody Jones and Curtis Ramsey, fullback Bob Cathy and Guard J. D. Jones, played such bang-up ball against Furman that the veterans, following in their shoes, were inspired beyond words. The result was that State recorded its first victory since the season's opener with Davidson on September 23.

Meanwhile Duke's Steve Lach, Winston Siegfried, Frank Killian and Frank Swiger, sophomores about whom little had been heard, literally romped over Carolina for the most glorious Duke victory imaginable.

Ahead of these backs were Guards John Niani and Charley Jett, tackle Mike Karmazin and End Al Piasecky doing yeoman service that spelled out trouble for State's force.

All year long the sophomores have been the rage of the Wolfpack's spotty performances. Their spirited play choked Tennessee, North Carolina, Duquesne, Clemson and Detroit rallies and accounted for touchdowns against Davidson, Clemson, Detroit and Furman. In numbers the sophomore brigade runs up to 18.

Duke's sophomores had had little

N. C. Building Shifts To Residential Construction

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Nov. 24.—Report of building permits issued in 21 North Carolina cities during the month of October indicate that the big boom due to PWA construction has ended; but on the other hand construction of residential structures has taken up the resulting slack to an extent well worth noting.

To make this clear only a casual inspection of the figures is needed. For instance, the October report of the Commissioner of Labor shows that construction permits for non-residential buildings fell, in estimated cost, by no less than 58 per cent from October, 1938, as compared with last month; yet the increase in residential costs (42.9 per cent) was sufficient to make the grand total show an increase over the corresponding month of last year.

For October, this year, as compared with the preceding month of September, the comparison was even more distinct, with cost of non-residential structures dropping no less than 77.3 per cent only to be almost compensated for by an increase of 27.9 per cent in cost of residential structures.

But getting away from percentages, which make dry reading at the very best, it is worth noting that last month's construction in the 21 cities provided living quarters for 784 families, far more than twice as many of the 345 shown in October's report last year. Principal cause of the tremendous increase was Charlotte's record of issuing permits for construction of residence space for 516 families.

The entire estimated amount to be spent on residential construction in October reached $1,874,474 for the 308 buildings authorized. Last October's figures showed expenditures of $1,311,853 for 284 buildings.

Multi-family residences accounted for by far the greater part of the total, the 50 such structures being estimated to cost $1,062,469. There were 233 one-family dwellings authorized to cost $639,215, and 23 two-family buildings at a cost of $55,790. Two other non-housekeeping dwellings were estimated to cost $117,000.

Of the 21 reporting cities only New Bern failed to show that a single new residence had been authorized. Charlotte's 47 buildings topped the list as did its 516 families provided for, as already mentioned.

part in that team's many conquests up until the Carolina game, but they have convinced that they can deliver the goods when called on.

CAMPAIGN AID IS NOT BANNED

Hatch Law No Alibi Against "Catching Up" Funds

Raleigh, Nov. 24.—Federal officials and employees who have been chucking almost audibly over the Hatch anti-political activity bill are soon going to learn with a rude shock that it gives them no alibi whatever against coughing up campaign contributions when the party machines begin to function in search of money to make the mare go in next year's battles.

At least that's the considered opinion of Senator Hatch, author of the much discussed bill. State Senator John D. Larkins, in charge of North Carolina's Jackson Day campaign, has a copy of that opinion and is prepared to flash it in the face of any Federal who, tongue in cheek and repressing a desire to appear joyous on the surface, sadly tells how glad he would be to give to the Democratic campaign fund if it were not for the fact that he is prohibited by law from so doing. "Restrictions on political activity of employees in the executive branch of the Federal government, under the Hatch act, are not as severe as indicated in the metropolitan press, according to Senator Carl Hatch," runs a news release with which Democratic headquarters in Washington has armed Senator Larkins. According to the Hatch opinion, as stated in the release, it is not unlawful to solicit subscriptions from Federal employees other than those paid from relief funds and "voluntary contributions to campaign committees or organizations are permitted, except those receiving compensation of any sort from appropriations."

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The stock market made faint passes at recovery in today's market, but generally failed to accomplish much.

Small, fractional advances predominated in slow early dealings, but these were erased in many cases later and near the fourth hour quotations were well mixed. Some losses ran to two points, but the majority of gains and reversals were minor.

Wall street came back from its holiday more inclined to "talk turkey" literally than to take any long chances on either side of the speculative fence.

group is high and several of the individual's grades have shown decided improvement since entering the Diversified Occupations classes.

Due to the fact that the purpose of the program is to train students for entrance into local industries, it has been suggested that one result to be expected from this type of training is that many of the more ambitious and intelligent students will plan to work and live in Greenville. This result will come from training received in the community and from loyalties formed during the training period.

The following students are now doing Diversified Occupations work:

Howard Simpson, Carolina Dairy; Benny Thigpen, City Power Plant; Thomas Langley, City Power Plant; Dewitt Barnhill, Standard Auto Parts; Thomas Campbell White Chevrolet; Harry Wilson, Flannagan Buggy Company; Billy Guiley, City Water Plant; Bud Moore, Martin Moore Dredging Company; Travis Flanagan, Hooker and Buchanan Insurance Company; Joe Broadhurst, City Electric Company; Edmund Boyd, O. G. Guiley, Construction; Ward Williams, Carolina Sales Corporation; Allen Brace, Municipal Government; Charles Ward, White's Store—meat cutting; Bill Taylor, Penney's Store; Clara Louise Peal, Lelia Higgs Studios.

Juneau, Alaska.—(AP)—Otto Nelson and his partner, both fishermen, found some unusual rock ashore while fishing in the McLean Arm inlet four years ago. They brought it to the assay office here.

Now they're mining the property and installing a mill.

Uncle Natchel, Sonny Will Be Heard Again

Uncle Natchel and Sonny, the two characters who have won friends throughout the South, as the featured characters in the Chilean Nitrate of Soda advertising, return to radio beginning Saturday, November 25, and Sunday, November 26.

The new series of programs marks the fourth consecutive year that Uncle Natchel and Sonny have entertained over the air. Dramatic stories, based upon highlights of Southern history, are presented by a cast of actors headed by Frank Wilson, former star of Green Pastures, and Porgy, who has played the role of Uncle Natchel for the past four years.

The general style of program, which proved so successful last season is offered this year. Uncle Natchel, Sonny and the young folks go for a Sunday ramble in the woods. Old time songs are followed by an Uncle Natchel story, dramatizing a historical incident of the old South. Through the half-hour program, Uncle Natchel expounds his homely home-spun "natchel" philosophy.

IS PERSISTENT TREE PLANTER

Gaston Man Enthusiastic Advocate of Reforestation

Raleigh, Nov. 24.—Assistant State Forester F. H. Claridge, in charge of forest management for the State Department of Conservation and Development, is firmly convinced that the champion tree planter of North Carolina is R. L. Stowe of Belmont, Gaston county. The forester is also sure that Mr. Stowe is the state's most persistent advocate of reforestation.

Way back in 1927 when the very first batch of seedlings was ready, Uncle Natchel expounds his homely home-spun "natchel" philosophy.

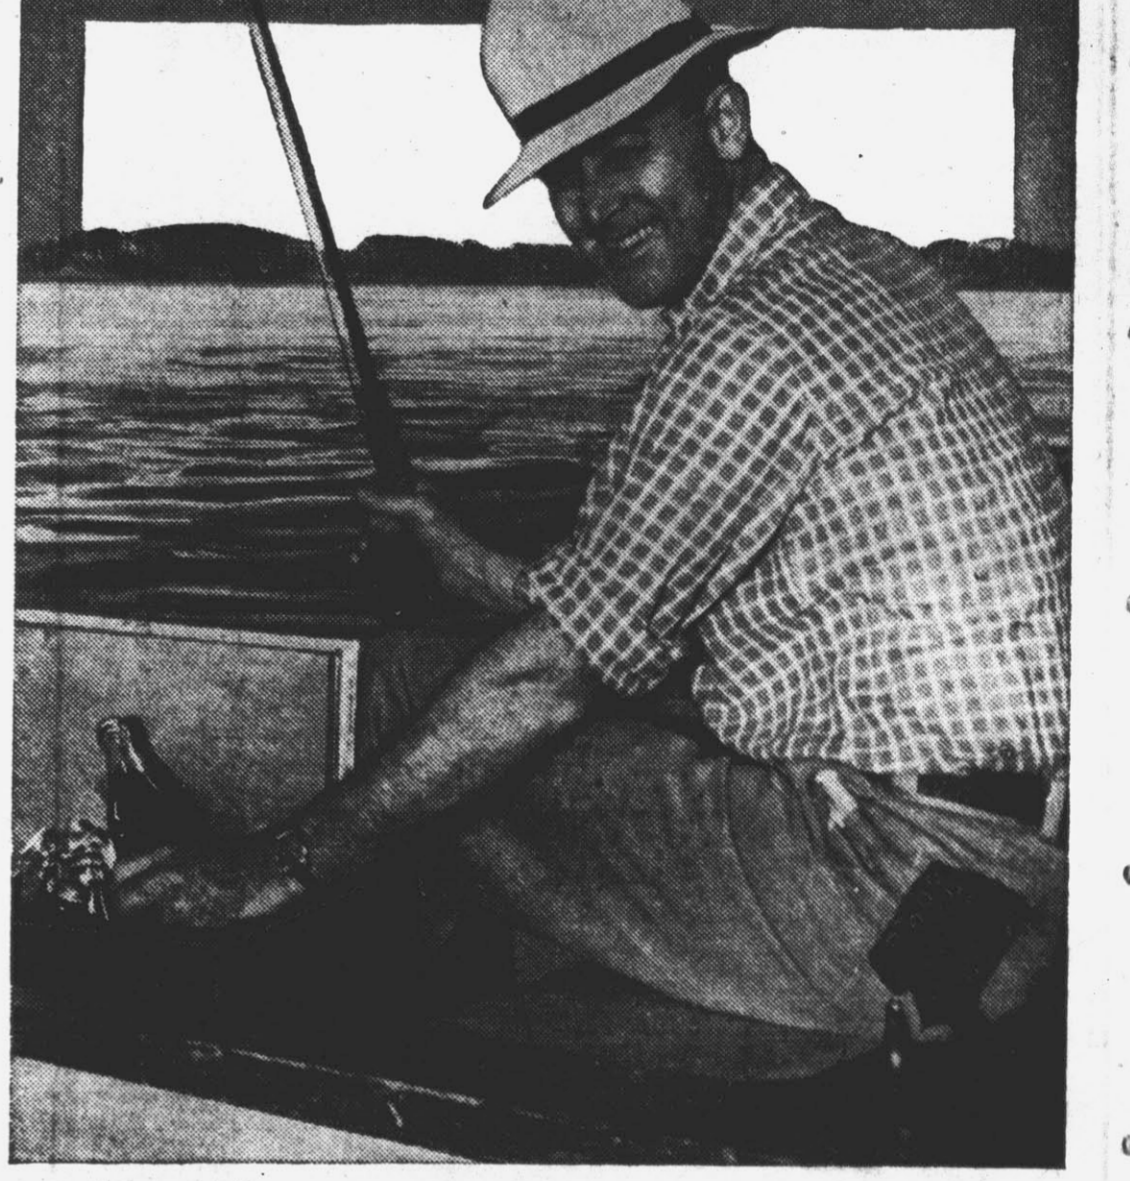

to be distributed from the State Forest Nursery in Johnston county. Mr. Stowe put in his order for 500 loblolly pine seedlings—received them and since has planted between four and five thousand seedlings every year.

The Belmonter has his order in for 4,000 red cedar seedlings this winter. At this rate, Claridge figures, Stowe will have planted well in excess of 50,000 trees, come next spring.

"Most of the seedlings Mr. Stowe has planted have been loblolly pines but a good many have been of other species such as shortleaf pine, black locust, longleaf pine, white pine, slash pine and yellow poplar," said Claridge. "And now this winter, he intends to set out 4,000 red cedars."

All plantings have been made on a farm owned by Mr. Stowe. The earlier plantings are now excellent examples of what reforestation will accomplish on wornout farm land, Claridge said. The plantings, too, have served as a valuable and actual demonstration of forest plantings—an example from which other farmers have profited.
