RUSSIA DENOUNCES PEACE PACT WITH FINLAND

1940 PROGRAM IS ADOPTED BY C. OF C. BOARD

Outline To Be Presented at Full-Member Meet

PROVIDES FOR HIGHWAY SIGNS

Also Proposed That Diversified Farming Be Encouraged Through 4-H Clubs in County

An extensive program for 1940 was outlined at a meeting of the board of directors of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce last night and will be presented to the full membership at the regular annual meeting, set for January by the organization's by-laws.

Plans for the all-member meeting were discussed last night, but further arrangements will be made at the December session.

Two of the principal objectives for 1940 as outlined last night provide for the encouragement of diversified farming and the erection of highway markers within a radius of 100 miles.

It is proposed to encourage diversified farming through 4-H clubs and in cooperation with county agricultural authorities. It has been suggested that the organization furnish pure bred pigs to selected groups of 4-H club boys. It also is proposed to provide certified feed for various farm crops.

The advertising committee last night was authorized to investigate the cost, etc. of highway markers and make a report at the December meeting. It was pointed out that Greenville appears on only a few highway markers and the organization officials declare they feel this city is failing to get its proper share of advertising in this manner.

The complete program as outlined by the board of directors last night for presentation to the full membership meeting in January follows:

1. Continue efforts for development of a more balanced situation in the city and the county, to insure steady employment and a constant year round income, through:

(a) The location of new non-completed industries and businesses adapted to this section.

(b) Encourage diversified agriculture to provide cash income throughout the year and use the land made available as a result of the tobacco control program.

(c) Provide adequate markets for additional cash crops, through the establishment of new processing plants for farm crops.

(d) Encourage and extend all possible assistance in expansion of present industries.

2. Work for improvement of transportation facilities, through:

(a) Completion of N. C. Highway 11, north of Bethel to provide through north-south route.

(b) New all-weather roads to include the Belvoir, Pictolis, Stokes-Bear, Grass, and Arthur roads.

(c) Work for widening of all major highways through the county, including N. C. numbers 11 and 43, and U. S. 264.

(d) Continue cooperation with city to obtain adequate bus terminal facilities.

3. Use every effort for improved mail service in-bound and out-bound.

4. Continue cooperation with local interests in establishment of radio station.

5. Assist in finding means for removing congested parking situation.

6. Continue efforts to obtain all conventions which can be adequately accommodated and entertained.

7. Prepare for and handle all local details for the holding of the North Carolina Seed Exposition to be held in Greenville, February 1 and 2, 1940.

8. Cooperate with East Carolina Teachers college in any effort made to obtain a men's dormitory, and in other ways for the welfare of the institution.

9. Prepare and distribute attractive, illustrated publicity material, concerning city and county.

10. Continue cooperation with the Tobacco Board of Trade in its efforts to expand the Greenville Tobacco market.

11. Do all possible to further develop Greenville as a distribution center for Eastern North Carolina, stressing the added advantage of water transportation.

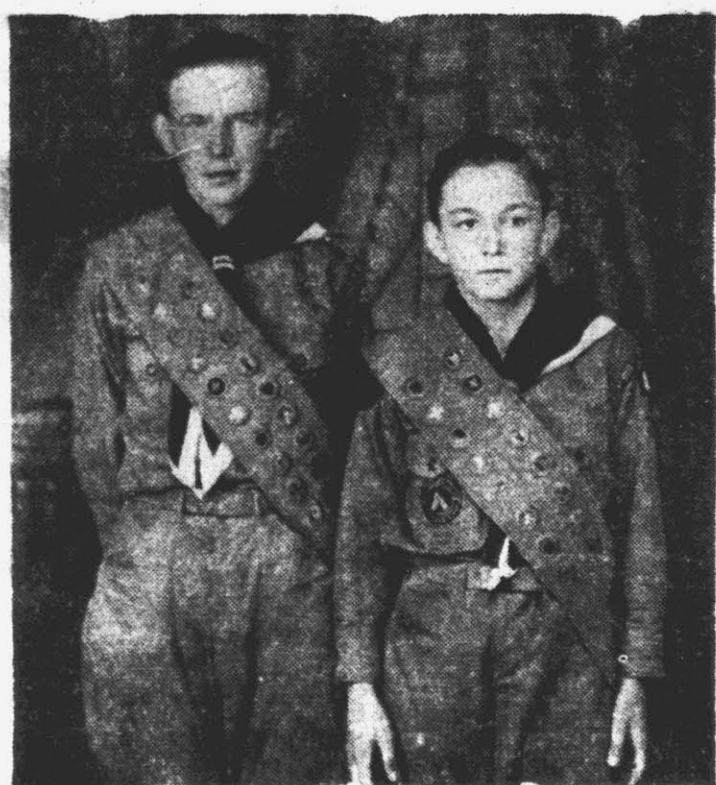

12. Continue active cooperation and assistance to other organizations and agencies on projects promoted for the general benefit of the community.

13. Continue operation of city directory, library, and general and tourists information.

14. Provide and erect highway markers within 100 mile radius of Greenville.

First Eagle Scouts of Grifton

Darrell Mumford, 16, and Mac Lee Mumford, 15, shown above left to right, are the first Boy Scouts in the Grifton troop to attain the rank of Eagle Scout. Sons of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Mumford, Darrell has been a Scout for four years and Mac for three years. Much of the credit for their achievements is due to the work of Jack Patrick, their former Scout leader. Mr. Patrick has moved to Everetts and was succeeded as Scout Master by Fodie Hodges, assistant principal of the Grifton school. These two Grifton boys not only reflect credit on their Scout troop, their leader, but on the entire community.

ABC OFFICERS GET BIG HAUL

Martin, Pitt and Beaufort Men Get Five Stills

ABC officers of three counties yesterday located and destroyed five stills four in Martin and one in Beaufort county. Two Pitt county officers joined with two from Beaufort and three from Martin in stamping out the source of liquor supply believed to be flowing in all three counties.

The Beaufort still and three of those in Martin county were said to be comparatively new. Only one, a Martin still, was in operation when officers raided it. One man, Elmer Rogers, 27-year-old Negro, was arrested at the scene and later given a hearing before a U. S. Commissioner in Williamston at which he was bound over to the April term of federal court to be held in Washington, Bond, set at $300, was expected to be provided today.

All five plants were located within a radius of four miles. The Martin stills were in the Bear Grass section and the Beaufort still was along Pine Log creek. Officers started out on their still-hunting expedition at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and it was 4:30 before they concluded their search.

A total of 3,890 gallons of beer was found at the five plants, although no liquor was found at any of the stills. The one plant in operation was said to have just been fired when officers arrived.

Two of the stills had 100-gallon copper stills and three were steam plants, two of 50-gallon capacity and one of 10-gallon capacity.

ABC officers in counties in this section work together, helping each other and on the theory that destroying a still in any county in this area cuts off the supply in all of the counties.

Pitt County Growing Apples In November

A small apple, the second crop this year for a tree at the Northside Lumber company was brought to the Reflector office yesterday afternoon by Charles R. Flye, who is employed at the lumber company.

The apple bloomed and produced its second crop of apples this year during the recent warm spell.

Blockade Against German Exports is Postponed; Britain Manifests Concern Over Finnish-Russian Dispute; Food Rationing to be Put Into Force on Small Scale January 8th

London, Nov. 28.—(AP)—King George assured the British empire today that the Royal navy was keeping sea lanes "free and open" despite the sinking of the armed British merchantman, the Rawalpindi, by two German warships and recent heavy shipping losses.

The monarch's assurance was given in a speech opening the first war session of parliament as the conflict with Germany brought these developments.

1. An authoritative statement said that application of the British-French blockade against German exports would be delayed until December 4 and perhaps a week longer to soften the blow to neutral shipping.

2. Britain manifested concern over the Finnish-Soviet frontier dispute.

3. It was announced that a British auxiliary cruiser landed 73 German prisoners, including 12 officers, at a Scottish port; they were understood to be the survivors of a sunken submarine and three German freighters whose fate was not disclosed.

4. The bombed merchantman Chiriac, which brought home 11 survivors of the Rawalpindi also landed 32 German sailors from a ship captured in the waters near Iceland in which the Rawalpindi was sunk.

5. The air ministry announced Royal Air Force planes made a "successful" flight over northwestern Germany last night.

6. Food Minister W. S. Morrison told the House of Commons that butter and bacon rationing would start January 8 with purchases restricted to four ounces a week. Consumers also will be asked to restrict sugar purchases to one pound per person, though sugar will not be rationed.

Morrison said that rationing originally scheduled for mid-December had been postponed until after Christmas because the general opinion was that "we should get over Christmas with as few restrictions as possible."

London, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The British government tonight issued a formal order in council extending the naval blockade to Germany's exports effective December 4.

The order is entitled "Reprisals against German commerce."

The delay in application of the order, which was signed by King George yesterday, was understood to be to give neutral shippers an opportunity to make arrangements to avoid undue hardships.

The order provides that a merchant ship may be seized if it is found to be carrying goods to Germany.

ACREAGES SET FOR '40 UNDER AAA PROGRAM

Total For Next Year To Be the Same As Last

REDUCES QUOTA FOR N.C. TOBACCO

Payments for Compliance Raised from Eight-tenths of Cent to One Cent on Flue Cured

Washington, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration today set the 1940 goal for soil depleting crops at 270,000,000 to 285,000,000 acres, the same as this year.

It increased the acreage for wheat and cut the rate of soil conservation payments on that grain to nine cents a bushel from this year's 17 cents.

The corn acreage goal was lowered slightly and the payments to cooperating farmers set at 10 cents a bushel, compared with nine cents this year.

Cotton acreage was unchanged and the rate lowered to 1.6 cents a pound from 1.8 cents.

Acreage goals were raised also for rice and type 41 Georgia, Florida type 62 tobacco. They were lowered for peanuts and burley, flue cured and fire and dark air cured tobacco.

"In so far as authorized funds permit," said R. M. Evans, AAA administrator, "the 1940 program continues the efforts of farmers toward abundance for the nation's consumers, conservation of our vital soil resources and parity income from agriculture."

At normal yields, officials said, the 1940 program would provide ample supplies for all domestic needs, export requirements and an adequate reserve for the world.

The national acreage goals for 1939 and 1940 include: cotton, 1940, 27,000,000 to 29,000,000, same as for 1939; flue cured tobacco for 1940, 73,000,000 to 77,000,000; 1939, 860,000,000 to 900,000,000.

Payments will be on the normal yield of 1940 acreage allotments. The comparative rate of payments includes cotton, per pound, 1940, 1.6 cents; 1939, 1.8 cents; flue cured tobacco, 1940, one cent; 1939, 8.

Pitt Cotton Farmers Invited To Meeting

In addition to the program itself, rules, eligibility and other information on the referendum to be held December 9 will be explained.

The dredge now is in the turning basin in Hardee's creek and working at top speed.

British Fleet Declared To Have Been Cleared from Both North Sea and North Atlantic After Having Been Frightened by Prowess of Combined German Air and Navy Forces

Berlin, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The British fleet, in the opinion of German military experts, now has been cleared not only from the North sea, but also from the north Atlantic.

Authoritative commentators said that the British "auxiliary cruiser Rawalpindi, destroyed in a naval engagement off the coast of Iceland, was discovered absolutely alone between the Far Islands and Greenland. Moreover, they stated 26 of the Rawalpindi crewmen whose rescue was announced today as saying they "were 100 per cent surprised" to find a whole German group including at least one heavy cruiser so far out in the Atlantic.

The British Admiralty announced that the Rawalpindi was sunk by the German 10,000-ton pocket battleship Deutschland, which technically is a heavy cruiser. London dispatches said a British rescue ship had landed 11 survivors and the admiralty had estimate that about 30 men had been saved by the Germans. They listed the remainder of the crew of almost 300 as lost.

The engagement of the German units with the Rawalpindi is described as the first between German and British fighting craft. This, however, does not take into account possible encounters in other parts of the world of which German naval authorities learned only through neutral or enemy reports.

Military experts further claimed supremacy in the air over all of France and practically all of England. Last week alone, they said, scouting planes over the British naval base of Scapa Flow north of Scotland three times, bringing to nine the total number of such flights since the beginning of the war.

Finland Is Shocked By Blunt Move Of Russians

Non-Aggression Pact Concluded in 1932 And Subsequent Treaties Had Pledged Two Countries to Good Neighborly Relations and Established Finnish-Soviet Frontier

Helsinki, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman announced tonight that Russia had denounced her non-aggression pact with Finland in a note handed to the Finnish minister in Moscow.

Soviet Russia and Finland concluded their non-aggression pact in 1932 and supplemented it the following year with an agreement defining an aggressor.

Subsequent pacts in 1937 and 1938 pledged them to good neighborly relations and defined the Finnish-Soviet frontier.

The Soviet action, though received with outward calm by the foreign office, shocked Finland more than any other single step in the "war of nerves" which mounted in the Baltic region after the German-Soviet partition of Poland.

A spokesman said the Russian note was "very unconciliatory" but declined further comment while the foreign office was receiving communication from the Moscow legation.

Only a few moments before the first word of the Russian move came from Moscow, a spokesman declared "we can not be shaken by these Russian demonstrations no matter what form they may take."

"We know we are right. There can be no doubt of it."

The Soviet denunciation of the treaty was a distinct surprise, however, in Finland, where the pact (Continued on page six)

Cleared Mystery

The mysterious day-and-night guard over the office of the late Rep. J. She explained the guard was requested because her father's office in Knoxville, Tenn., was broken into and his papers were ransacked after his death.

KUHN COUNSEL IS DENOUNCED

Branded By Prosecution as "A Caliban Of Ethics"

New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Assistant District Attorney Herman J. McCarthy, summing up for the state today at the larceny trial of Fritz Kuhn, reiterated his charge that the German-American band leader stole bond funds. He attacked Kuhn's counsel, Peter I. F. Sabbatino as a "caliban of ethics."

McCarthy replied to Sabbatino's intimation made yesterday that McCarthy kept a "tryst" in Miami with Mrs. Florence Camp, the "golden angel" of Kuhn's love letters. Mrs. Camp testified for the state.

"This caliban of ethics hasn't yet learned the prime requisite of a gentleman or of a lawyer—decency—the young prosecutor declared, looking directly at Sabbatino, a former city magistrate.

Sabbatino argued in his summation yesterday that Kuhn, though he might have fallen in love with Mrs. Camp, was not the first married man to fall in love with another woman.

But McCarthy told the jury he would keep to the record.

The state, he said, charged that Kuhn stole $400 listed in the bond treasury as having been paid to James Murray, lawyer, for services in a criminal action against bond members.

Kuhn is also accused of stealing $717.92 which the state contends went to Mrs. Camp's moving expenses.

Five full sets of covers will be on the Greenville market at least through Monday, the executive committee of the Tobacco Board of Trade having decided to resume sales with all buyers on the floors Monday, following the Thanksgiving holidays from Wednesday afternoon until Monday morning.

The unexpected leave offerings which continue here prompted the decision. An unusually heavy day is expected Monday.

Ordering of 1-45,927 pounds of tobacco for the season's total to 75,517,710 pounds for which farmers have been paid a total of $12,425,708.24, or an average of 16.45 cents per pound.

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds

By Robbin Coon

Hollywood.—"Lost, strayed or stolen: Four brain-children, all girls, young, attractive, valuable. Return to Fannie Hurst, scrivener, or pay suitable recompense for their services."

If Miss Hurst had put it that way, instead of in the more formal and technically involved language of legal procedure, her suit against the Warner studios might have drawn as big an audience elsewhere as it has in this suit-conscious town.

The novelist, contributor to the screen of such successful pieces as "Humoresque," "Lumoux," "Imitation of Life" and "Four Daughters," is asking the film factory how come. She wants to know why.

Miss Hurst wrote a book called "Sister Act" which the Warners bought and filmed as "Four Daughters." Delighted and a little amazed at its success—because the picture had no "names" but made several including Priscilla Lane, John Garfield and Jeffrey Lynn—the studio promptly began work on "Daughters Courageous," employing virtually the same cast without benefit of a Hurst story. This too was a wow, and the boys warmed up to the third film, a sequel to the first and called "Four Wives."

Shortly before the preview Miss Hurst's how-come suit was filed. She wants more do-re-mi or else (presumably) her characters back.

It's an interesting question the suit raises: when a writer puts a story in the movie marble game is he playing for keeps with the characters as well as with the plot?

The answer More personality interested are those scribes who still enjoy the profits from brain-children delivered in the past, even though now their only work upon them is the periodical endorsement of a check. On the other side of the fence the studios—ever alert to opportunities for saving a few thousand to apply to their favorite charities where charity begins—are not exactly looking the other way.

There seems to be no precedent here for the question, which has arisen before for the good reason that studios still pay out sizeable wads of cash for all rights (when they can get 'em) including the Scandinavian and television.

Aurania Rouverol, author of the play "Skidding" which evolved on the screen into the immortal Hardy

Family series, has a share in each of the films although she no longer writes them.

Leslie Charteris, creator of "The Saint," has a different arrangement. RKO pays Charteris for each "Saint" used, has an option on all his stories involving the detective-adventurer, but must buy a Charteris book even if the studio wants to place the character in a story of its own making.

The widow of Earl Derr Biggers, creator of "Charlie Chan," receives $7500 every time a Chan goes into production, and only the Biggers character is involved, his new adventures being concocted by studio staff writers.

Katharine Kavanaugh originated the screen's first modern "family" series, but the studio immediately purchased all rights to the Jones Family characters, for a flat sum, as soon as it was decided to perpetuate them.

The Warner-Hurst controversy may produce different angles, including possibly the question of a studio's right to make two pictures from one novel if that is what has been done.

In any event, it's going to be one legal-lit'ry tilt with a punch.

If you can get a contract to go to work for one cent on the first day providing your salary is doubled every day for thirty days. At the end of the month your day's pay would be $5,368,709.12.

AN APOLOGY
Last Friday we offered this same menu to celebrate the grand opening of our newly remodeled drug store. Frankly, we were unprepared for the tremendous popular response. To those who were not served, or who were poorly served because of the rush, we'd like to say "We are sorry." This time we are ready with enough for everyone. Come on down and celebrate Thanksgiving with us.

To Speak At College

The Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. of the college will bring Mrs. Mildred I. Morgan, a noted lecturer on family relationships and personal adjustments, to the E. C. T. C. campus immediately after the Thanksgiving recess. She will spend Tuesday, December 5, on the campus, speaking at chapel at noon, in the "Y" hut in the afternoon, and at an open meeting in the Austin auditorium at night, and holding an open forum in the afternoon.

Mrs. Morgan is well known because of her work as a lecturer and leader of discussion groups and forums on problems of personal adjustment and personal relationships—between parents and children, men and women. In such a capacity, she has visited over a hundred fifty colleges and high schools and taken part in numberless community, state and national conferences of various kinds. She and her husband, a member of the faculty of the University of Iowa, teach regularly at the "Y" conferences held at Blue Ridge in the summer. She is the mother of two children.

As to Mrs. Morgan's training there can be no question. She has a Master's degree in Religious Education from Columbia University and is now about to complete her work for her doctorate in Child Welfare and Parent Education at the same university.

As a lecturer in her particular field, Mrs. Morgan has been connected with a number of educational institutions, among them the University of Iowa and the University of Delaware.

For some time she has been giving a series of lectures each fall in this part of the South, under the sponsorship of the combined Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Because of her numerous engagements, she could be secured for only one day here.

TO ISSUE LAWS ON GAS TRUCKS

Regulations to be Revealed by Maxwell Soon

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 27.—Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell will issue detailed regulations this week governing the transportation of gasoline in huge tank trucks. December 1 is the likely date of these regulations.

So far there has been no official revelation of what the regulations will provide, but it is generally accepted as a fact that a speed limit not exceeding 40 miles per hour will be placed upon the larger and heavier trucks. In discussion of the regulations with truck owners some officials of the Department, including the Commissioner, felt that even this speed is too high for the lumbering, tremendous gasoline trucks, but representatives of the truckers are said to have been able to convince the officials that a top of 40 miles per hour is not per se dangerous.

Another likely feature of the regulations will be provisions for improved breaking minimums. There has been considerable discussion of the Department's legal right to prescribe brakes by strict and definite specification, though there is on the statutes a requirement that all motor vehicles be equipped with "adequate" brakes.

A couple of accidents in Albemarle centered attention on the braking situation and it is expected that truckers will readily agree to abide by specifications which the Commissioner has worked out with their cooperation.

Throughout the discussion of gasoline transportation on the highways the truck people have cooperated well. Department officials agree, but Commissioner Maxwell has repeatedly pointed out that even the best of voluntary cooperation must be supplemented by strict rules and strict enforcement of them. Come December 1 and these regulations will come into being.

So Far Not So Good
Roanoke, Va.—(AP)—Two Virginia Tech professors have discovered a rich deposit of the mineral gallium. Now they are trying to find what to do with it.

J. W. Whitmore and P. S. Dear of the Tech ceramics department found a mineral containing 2 per cent of gallium which, according to the U. S. bureau of standards, is the richest mineral in gallium content known.

So far, however, gallium is only a laboratory curiosity. The total world output in 1937 was 50 kilograms, or 110 pounds, produced chiefly in Germany. This commanded a price of about $1,800 a pound. Any extensive increase in production would make it a "drug on the market" until some commercial use is found for it.

The only advantage to be gained by increasing production and lowering the cost would be that more people could experiment with gallium in a search for its possible industrial use.

Somebody Loves Him, Anyway
Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—John Luther Callaway, 6-foot, 6-inch, 215-pound Centertown, Ky. giant, was too much of a good thing the Marine Corps decided in rejecting his enlistment application.

Sergeant Homer Callahan explained the Marines couldn't go in for extremes of build because of their service in foreign lands. "Suppose we were in China or the Philippines," the sergeant said, "and a man of Callaway's size needed a pair of shoes. You couldn't get them over there and it might take weeks to have them shipped."

So Callaway went to the Coast Artillery station and enlisted in the regular army. He was accepted.

SHOULD PROBE NEW INDUSTRY

Anderson Warns Against Unreliable Factories

Reflector Bureau.
By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Nov. 27.—All industries are not desirable or reliable and North Carolina cities and towns desiring to "capture" new ones should go very slow in offering "bait" in the form of tax exemptions, cash payments and the like. James T. Anderson, industrial engineer for the Department of Conservation and Development, warns.

The only industries worth having, he points out, are those financially stable enough to establish and support themselves. Others will prove complete flops or will be left on the hands of the cities which induce them to come in.

"New industries that want a city or town to provide free factory space, or space without rent or a cash bonus usually cannot be depended upon and are likely to prove fly-by-night concerns," Anderson said pointedly. "They should be thoroughly investigated and required to post a bond or adequate security before anything is done to help them."

"If this is not done, the city or town is likely to have an experience similar to that of a Missouri town, which in order to get a shoe factory offered the company free factory space for ten years and in addition put up $1,000,000 in cash, demanded by the company so that it might finance a training period for the unskilled workers of the community."

"A big celebration was held when the shoe factory opened up and the town thought it was on its way to permanent prosperity. The $50,000 a year payroll failed to materialize and the factory never employed more than 90 workers even at its

Institute of Government Plans Open New Building

Chapel Hill, Nov. 27.—The Institute of Government, which will open its new $50,000 laboratory building here Wednesday and Thursday with Speaker William B. Bankhead, Governor Clyde R. Hoey, and other notables taking part, has had an interesting history and a unique record of service to the state.

Growing out of the classroom of Prof. Albert Coates, founder and director, and his desire to teach law and government in practice as well as theory, the organization's work and services now extend to every federal agency, state department, court house, and city hall in the state.

Housed at one time in a corner of the law school basement and the attic of the state capitol, it now has its own 20-room, 4-story building. And it has five staff members and five additional consultants at work on day-to-day problems for officials and citizens throughout the state.

The organization, which has issued 29 guidebooks for officials, held 50 training schools and conferences with an attendance of 3,000 officials and citizens, and answered inquiries running into the thousands, has received wide recognition and many glowing tributes.

One of the finest was that of President Roosevelt, who declared that "The Institute of Government has and will render fine service to its state and nation. I hope that states having no comparable agency will recognize and follow its leadership."

In addition to its work with officials, the Institute has prepared a volume of material awaiting publication for citizens' study and discussion programs and texts for students and teachers of government.

"The primary purposes and tasks of the Institute," according to Director Coates, "are three-fold. First, to aid the officials in their efforts to do a better job. Second, to put citizens in touch with their government and keep them in touch with it. And third, to bridge the gap between government as it is practiced and as it is taught in the schools."

The organization is unique in that it is the first to bring together all groups of officials, and also citizens and future citizens, working on the same problems for the same people in overlapping units.

"The Institute is non-partisan and non-profit," Mr. Coates went on, "and works always to inform rather than reform. Any improvements are, and must remain, the job of the officials, citizens, and schools. If we can help furnish them the facts and materials, our work will be cut out."

The Institute's new building will house its demonstration laboratory, training schools, library and clearing house of information, club rooms for officials, staff offices, and miscellaneous services.

"We hope to build here central demonstration laboratory," Mr. Coates declared, "to which officials, citizens and students may raise the standard of governmental performance by lifting the poorest practices to the level of the best."

How well he has succeeded to date is shown by the fact that officials and citizens of the state have come to the support of the program and built a shelter over its work. But Mr. Coates declares "the work has just begun" and maintains he wouldn't swap his "teaching for any job on earth."

Washington Daybook By Preston Grover

Washington—The health and disease-control methods employed in the CCC camps could easily prove the most valuable contribution of this agency.

On a strictly voluntary basis, two new vaccines have been tried out on CCC enrollees, one for pneumonia and one for typhoid. That does not mean the enrollees were used as human guinea-pigs as were the heroic soldiers who helped Dr. Reed stamp out yellow fever. But as test cases they have given the medical world a big field for statistical observation.

The annual report of the War Department on its participation in the CCC work tells part of the story. Lt. Col. Charles G. Souder, in charge of the CCC Medical Service, supplemented this for us with much background.

Pneumonia is not one of the most prevalent diseases but it has an exceptionally high death rate among its victims. During the past fiscal year, however, the pneumonia death rate even in the comparatively healthy CCC camps was cut to one-third of the rate for the past five years.

Tough On Rubals Pneumonia doesn't play square with country boys. It hits them harder and more often than city boys. The reason is not exactly known but widely suspected. Medical men believe that city boys, because of constant public contacts, develop greater immunity to pneumonia than country boys. This is true also for diphtheria.

New England's CCC enrollees, largely from cities, had a minimum of pneumonia despite the rigorous climate. Most pneumonia was among CCC groups in the South. There a larger portion of both negro and white enrollees are from rural areas. Negroes seem especially susceptible to this disease either from an hereditary characteristic or less resistance due to other causes. Evidence of the vaccine's benefit to them was less certain. But the vaccine worked especially well with southern whites.

More Virulent Success with a new typhoid vaccine was also apparent. All typhoid vaccine used by the British and until recently by the U. S. Army and Navy came from one source, serum taken from a British soldier in the Boer War more than 40 years ago. His was the starting "culture." The U. S. Army got a "start" of the Boer War bred from the British in 1911. But lately the army has believed the British stock not sufficiently virulent. The army wanted a tougher variety which would produce a sounder immunity. A Yankee soldier on duty in Panama was found to be a carrier of a type of adequate virulence. Since 1937 it has been used in the CCC camps and even longer in the army.

Its use has been accompanied by a steady decrease of the disease in CCC camps. Much of this reduction the army attributes to increasingly sanitary conditions. Anyway, CCC typhoid cases were reduced to nine last year, with no deaths among the 230,000 enrollees.

Veneral Cases Detained Venereal diseases presented a special problem. Discharge of infected enrollees was found to be an "unsatisfactory" procedure because it endangered others. More recently a new plan was adopted. Victims of the disease are sent at once to a hospital for isolation and treatment. Gonorrhea victims are cured and discharged.

But to discharge a syphilis sufferer, either at the end of his enrollment or before final treatment was completed, would make him a public menace. Now these are discharged only when public agencies will continue the treatment until danger of spreading the infection is

Chapter 45 Twilight

TUCK, lying alone on the big hammock on the sun porch, was puzzled. She had a strange feeling that she had been sick and out of the world for days, that many things had happened during that time that she did not know of. There were queer gaps in her knowledge; and yet it had been only yesterday that they had arrested Duncan Murchison.

Michael, she reflected, hadn't been quite himself throughout this system. She knew there were great many things he hadn't told her. For instance, what had he been doing that day on the river with Gordon, drifting along the bank in the gray boat? He'd been looking for something.

Why did this murderer—not Duncan, of course, but the real murderer—why did he want to kill them? Was it because Michael really knew the truth, and the murderer guessed? If Michael did know the truth, it was certain he'd found out a great many things he hadn't told. That was like him.

What could he have found out? Perhaps he knew at last where Murchison's body had been taken. Perhaps that's what he was looking for in the boat—a weighted body that had been dropped from the cliff above.

And Michael was so strange tonight. He had sat still through dinner awfully preoccupied, not answering when he was spoken to at all. Finally he had looked over at Bunny, and said, without warning, "Do you believe he's guilty?"

Bunny was pale with great black rings around her eyes. She had been pretty sick after the gas. She had looked up and said, "Don't ask me, Michael. How can I tell? I don't feel that possible he's guilty, if that's what you mean."

"That'll do," Michael had said gravely. Then, after a minute, "It's lonely in prison, I've heard. We won't let him out on bail. How'd you like to come down and tell him you think he's innocent?"

"Bunny had been sort of frozen at this question, and she had stared at him. "What do you mean, Michael?"

"Do you remember exactly what I said to you about Duncan? That if you knew as much as I do about this case you would never speak to him again?"

"Yes, can't you imagine what that means, Bunny?" Tuck's head hurt again. It had been swimming at dinner, and she herself simply couldn't imagine what that meant, except what it said. Evidently it didn't mean that Bunny saw. She jumped up from the table, her hand at her throat, and said, "Michael! Is that it?"

"That's it. Will you go?" "Must we wait for dessert?" Michael got up too. He came over to Tuck, sitting at the foot of the table, picked her up and carried her to the porch hammock. Then he kissed her. "You're still sick, aren't you?" "Lie here in the fresh air until we come back, and we'll explain."

Charlotte Jean had brought an aspirin, then, and Tuck had taken it. Perhaps that's what made her head feel fuzzy. The cool twilight air was wonderful. It made one sleepy.

There was a rap at the door. "Mrs. Forrester," Mr. Deane's querulous squeaky voice said, "is your husband in?" "No, he isn't," she answered, "trying to rouse herself. Can I do something?"

"Gordon's conscious. I don't think you can. He is trying to tell your husband something, and we can't understand him."

"What about Mr. Deane? About who hit him?" "No. Nothing so sensible. Something about a 'creeping man' he keeps saying it over and over and he's so anxious to tell Mr. Forrester that we decided we must get him."

Tuck's brain cleared like magic. She stood up. "I'll come," she said instantly. "Maybe he won't stay conscious very long."

SHORT SHOTS

Reflector Bureau. By HENRY AVERILL. Raleigh, Nov. 28. — Raleigh's Christmas lights began blazing along Fayetteville street the past week-end, and will remain up until New Year's Day.

The capital city again showed that its citizens are suckers for a parade by packing and jamming the streets Saturday morning to watch a Christmas procession move along rather slowly and with no great amount of precision.

Early in the season there were reports on all sides that Wake Forest's football coach, D. C. (Peabody) Walker, was in great danger of losing his job. There is still some talk about Walker's moving elsewhere to be replaced by a "big name" such as Jock Sutherland.

All of which is as it may be; but there is one thing that Wake Forest needs, and needs very badly if it ever expects to get any sort of recognition in big time football circles. That's a Grade A athletic publicity man like Carolina's Bob Madry, Duke's Ted Mann, or State's Wade Olson.

Incidentally this corner takes off its cap and makes its very lowest and most sweeping bow to the last named of these three. Why? The Wolfpack's Ty Coon has been named on the second all-American, picked by the NEA service. And if that isn't a triumph of press agency, please advise this bureau what is.

On the other hand Wake's Rupert Pate, a far greater tackle in this corner's book than Coon will ever be, wasn't even mentioned, much less picked.

Commander Garland E. Bobbitt of Raleigh's American Legion Post doesn't know whether to be angry or just amazed at a letter he got recently from a self-styled "disabled veteran" who made a proposition which he noted in his letter "may be a little against the law."

The Department of Agriculture's publications chief, Louis H. Wilson, returned to his office Monday after a week's absence while he was being operated upon for a sinus infection.

Louis has a bit of Yankee twang, but otherwise seems to have recovered completely.

Raymond Maxwell, secretary of the state board of elections, is tidying up his office for next year's primary campaign; but so far he hasn't had to register but one candidate—Giles Newton who forked over his 100 fee as a Congressional candidate in the Eighth District.

Newton was a real early bird, according to Maxwell, who doesn't expect to take in much cash before February and March of next year.

Twenty-five years ago, on Thanksgiving Day, North Carolina's Tar Heels lost to Virginia's Cavaliers for the ninth consecutive year. They played at Richmond before the largest crowd (10,000) ever to see a football game in Virginia.

All the shoes are on other feet this year as the Old Dominion team prepares for a "forlorn hope" invasion of Chapel Hill Thursday.

Man About Manhattan By George Tucker. New York.—A lone rider came down the dusty road. His blue denim fit him tightly. His high heels clattered on the sidewalk. He didn't have his horse, but the street, which was 49th street, was dusty anyway.

He looked lonesome, and melancholy. Finally he turned into one of these cheap, little restaurants that is noisy and always filled with smoke.

He walked up to the counter and leaned against it. "How much," he asked, "how much you sell your beans for?" "Do you want 'em cooked?" "I ain't never eat 'em raw yet."

thing now. Down home we big like this all the time. Down home that bean bowl wouldn't even be big enough for the kittens. I shore feel good."

Phantoms Expect Hard Fight From Washington Eleven

TO END SEASON WITH OLD FOE

Bo Farley's Team to Meet Doug Kelly's Eleven

Bo Farley's Flying Phantoms will clash with Doug Kelly's Pam Pack in the Guy Smith stadium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock sharp. Farley's Phantoms outwitted the strong Washington team 13-0 last season.

The Pam Pack will be out for revenge. While the Phantoms will be out for the Pam Pack. It is said that either team would give up any victory this season for this one. Washington defeated Kingston 13-6 and Greenville defeated Kingston 13-6. If comparing scores means anything this should prove to be a close game. Two years ago Greenville had a highly-touted ball club that had lost only one game of the season until they met Washington. The Pam Pack did not have as good a record as the Phantoms, but they laid for Greenville and pounced upon them to the tune of 33-0. Since then, however, Greenville has watched their step and won over the Pam Pack. Greenville is watching their step in this game and hope for the same results.

Here is a quotation straight from Washington. "One thing is certain. If anything can be certain in football that Greenville will not come to victory over Washington playing straight football. Only one team has and that is Elizabeth City."

At the first of the season Washington's offensive play was based on pass plays. Since then, however, the Pack have moved Woolard, 185 pound lineman, to the backfield and now they gain their laurels on the ground. Greenville has a strong offensive team, mostly on the ground also. However, both teams take to the air occasionally.

Farley and Fulkerson gave their 34 strong men a stiff work out yesterday, pointing mostly to running plays. The linemen coached by Fulkerson practiced getting lined up on the ball as they have been penalized severely this season for offenses.

The probable starting lineup is as follows: John Collins and Larry James ends; Earl Kittrell and Russell Rogerson, tackles; Warren Parrish and Paul Scott at guard posts and Charles Williams at center.

The four horsemen will probably be composed of George Sakas, George Tyndal, Marvin Stocks and Buddy Harrington.

This is the last game of the season and a capacity crowd is expected.

GHS Makes Plans For Thanksgiving

Festivities for Thanksgiving will get under way tomorrow night with a double-barrel program of entertainment. Immediately following the Greenville - Washington football classic a gala dance, sponsored by the Lions club, will take place in the high school auditorium.

The dance, to which all citizens interested in aiding the blind of Pitt county are invited, will be the outstanding holiday affair in Greenville.

Plans are now complete for the

VIRGINIA TEAM IS NOT SET-UP

Record About as good As Any Previous Foe of UNC

Chapel Hill, Nov. 28.—The records Virginia's backfielders will carry into their Thanksgiving classic with North Carolina here this week are almost as impressive and spectacular as those any opponents the Tar Heels have faced this season.

One of the finest backs in the South for the past three seasons, Co-Captain Gillette sports the most notable mark. Leading scorer in 1937 and 1938, Gillette is again high man with 36 points. He is also pacesetter on offense with a total gain of 485 yards in rushing and passing.

In addition, Gillette has passed for four touchdowns, and his punting average for the season is 40 yards. His kicking averages were 41 yards against Navy, 46 against Hampden-Sydney, 43 against Washington and Lee, and 48 against Chicago. From his left halfback position, he is the best defensive back on the squad and hasn't missed starting a single game since his freshman year.

LeRoy Neustetter, big sophomore fullback, is second to Gillette in offensive strength. Neustetter has netted 444 yards on rushing and pass receiving, has scored one touchdown, and lateraled for four others. His best game was against V. M. I. when he paced the Virginia ground gainers with a net total of 158 yards. On defense he is a work-horse in backing up the line.

Bill Dudley, sophomore quarterback, has turned in the third best all-round performance. Featuring his offensive exploits were a 45-yard touchdown run and 40-yard punt return against Navy and an 80-yard return of a kickoff against V. M. I. He stands third in rushing and passing with gains of 346 yards. He has scored two touchdowns and kicked nine extra points for second place in individual scoring with 21 points. He is a fair passer and an excellent punter, having averaged 43 yards for the season.

Conservatively estimating, it seems certain that at least $10,000 has been paid in to the game and fish division annually for licenses sold because of the Pisgah hunt.

Two years' loss at this rate almost, exactly equals the approximately $20,000 which will be diverted from the game funds to the forestry division. (A recent compromise set this diversion at about $12,000 for the coming year, and $8,000 for next year.)

It cannot be explained here why the Federal service is not permitting, or requiring the state license sale this year. Mr. Findley said it is his understanding that state licenses are required for similar hunts in every other state in which they are held. He was unable to addition any reason why the license will not be required in North Carolina.

One possible explanation is that the Federal service is none too eager to aid Chalk and his division in view of the fact that its officials blame the North Carolina game head for the recent controversy. The suit before Judge Meekins in Federal court was brought by the Federals, but they claim they were forced into such action against their will and took the step only because Chalk ordered the arrest of Federal forestry men who sought to ship deer out of the state. Chalk called this a violation of a state law. The Federals claimed exclusive jurisdiction under a North Carolina act of 1915, and the District Judge sustained their contention.

land fisheries division, said he could not estimate the amount of revenue which would be lost, as the licenses ordinarily are sold in several different counties and there has never been any specific report made on the amount of money paid in by those participating in the Pisgah hunt. Director John D. Chalk was out of town and could not be reached for an estimate.

For several years, however, an average of a thousand hunters have participated in the Pisgah chases each year, with at least two-thirds of the out-of-state men who otherwise would not have bought North Carolina hunting licenses, for which they have paid $15.25 each.

STATE TO LOSE GAME REVENUE

Meekins Rules No License Required in Park Area

Raleigh, Nov. 28.—The Game and Inland Fisheries division of the Department of Conservation and Development will in the next two years lose as much revenue from the Pisgah deer hunt alone as will be diverted from it to the Forestry Division. All this as the result of the controversy with the Federal Forestry Service which resulted in Judge I. M. Meekins' recent decision giving the U. S. Government exclusive control over deer and other wild life in the national forests of the state.

This estimate of course is based on the assumption that the decision isn't reversed on appeal to the higher Federal courts. So far no appeal has been taken and probably will never be, as it is known that the Attorney General's office is inclined to doubt strongly that there is a chance of success.

The game division's loss comes about through the fact that it will not receive the revenue it has for several years received from sale of hunting licenses to those sportsmen who have participated in the annual Pisgah Forest deer hunts. This year's hunt began yesterday and no state hunting license is being required in view of the Federal forestry service's exclusive control of the hunting.

Inventor Of Game Claimed By Death Lawrence, Kans., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Dr. James A. Naismith, 78, inventor of basketball, died at 1:50 a. m., today, of heart disease following a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. Naismith, professor emeritus of physical education at Kansas university, suffered a critical hemorrhage November 19, but rallied and returned home from a hospital last Wednesday. He was stricken again Friday with a heart attack.

With two peace baskets as equipment, Dr. Naismith originated basketball in 1891 as a winter sport for youth at the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. training school.

There were nine men on a team and the baskets were on the floor. Later he elevated the baskets, reduced the number of players and established rules that have been changed but little in the intervening years.

N. Y. Stock Market New York, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Steels returned to favor in today's stock market and helped prop many other recently wavering issues.

While dealings were quiet throughout, gains ran to more than a point at the best. Mild profit taking eventually appeared and top prices were faded in most cases near the fourth hour.

Business news remained encouraging for speculative forces, but brokerage quarters were a bit depressed by the fact demand for shares was still far under the mark where commission houses can operate "in the black."

Efforts Being Made To Attract Tourists

An extra effort is being made by the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce with headquarters in Kinston to attract more tourists through Eastern Carolina during this winter.

The organization has employed a northern agent to place advertising material of this section in South-bound cars before they reach the diversion points that would take them through other sections of the state. This literature will be given to them going South and when they start back in the spring a similar arrangement will be in effect in Florida.

It is very evident, according to those who have watched the South-bound and North-bound traffic within recent years, that an increase in number visits this section each year. The regional organization is appealing to hotels, filling stations, cafes and boarding houses along the routes to make the guests want to come back.

Tenants Aided In Purchasing Farms

The Tenant Purchase program through which at least six tenants in Pitt county will be aided in buying their own farms is making good progress in this area.

The county FSA supervisors with the aid of the TP committee have instructed six families to look for farms that would be suitable for their families to produce a living. The committee has viewed four farms for these families and instructed three of the families to obtain options.

Options have been obtained by Lester A. Clark of Route 4, Greenville; Willie Ray McLawhorn of Ayden; and LeRoy Gladson of Route 1, Grimesland. The district engineer and appraiser are expected in a few days to view these farms and make reports to the county committee. If reports are satisfactory, the committee will certify these farms and the loans will be closed. In case this is not done the applicants will be allowed to select other farms.

The county committee expects to select another group of tenants in a few days, who will be instructed to look for farms. The county supervisors are now at work getting more information on prospective families.

Orthopedic Clinic To Be Held Friday

The State Orthopedic Clinic will be held Friday in Greenville from 12:30 to 4 p. m.

This clinic takes all types of cripples, both white and colored, free of charge who are unable to afford private treatments. It is desired, though not required, that patients be referred by a physician or the welfare officer, and that the patient bring such note to the clinic.

The clinic is set up to serve especially the counties of Beaufort, Carteret, Pamlico, Pitt and Tyrrell, though patients from other counties who desire to come may do so.

The clinic is conducted by Dr. Hugh A. Thompson, orthopaedist, Raleigh. This clinic has been running for something over three years and is now serving a large number of cripples, adults as well as children, in this area.

The Pitt county health department offices are located at the corner of Third and Greene streets, Greenville, and it has recently expanded its office facilities.

Denying alleged "hostile action" toward Russia, the government last night notified Moscow it is ready to meet Soviet demands for withdrawal of Finnish troops along part of their common border on condition that the Red army likewise retire.

In a note addressed to the Kremlin, Foreign Minister Eljas Erkkö suggested that the proposal be referred to a joint commission established in 1938 to consider frontier problems.

Erkko's note replied to an ultimatum-like message from Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar Molotov protesting an alleged "border incident" Sunday in which the Russians said 13 red army soldiers were killed or wounded by Finnish artillery fire on the Karelian Isthmus.

Molotov requested the Finnish troops be withdrawn "without delay" to a distance of 12 to 15 miles as assurance against a repetition of the alleged incident.

The Finnish foreign minister advised Molotov that an investigation had shown that no shots were fired across the border by the Finns and asserted that "consequently there is no reason to remove troops from the frontier in the manner you suggested."

Finland left the door open today for arbitration of growing differences with Soviet Russia while apparently determined to refuse her mighty neighbor any one-sided concessions which might jeopardize her own defenses.

It was announced at the Health Department today that the Maternal and Infant Welfare clinic held at the Health Department yesterday was largely attended.

Members of the League assisting yesterday were: Mesdames Ficklen Arthur, John Adams, Sellers Crisp, Tom Smoot and R. C. Stokes, Jr.
