President Holds Conference with Loan Administrator Jones and Red Cross Head Davis

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt conferred with Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, and Norman Davis, chairman of the Red Cross, today on new plans for extending help to the civilian population of Finland.

Jones said upon leaving the chief executive's office that the question of what might be done for the Finnish people through the American government's lending agencies was under discussion.

No decisions were reached, he said, but if anything is done it may be a move toward getting to the Finnish people things to eat and wear.

Specifically he mentioned cotton, corn and wheat—products of which this country has a surplus.

Davis followed Jones into conference and told reporters afterwards that he also had talked with the president about relief for Finland.

Much is being done already, he said, mentioning the dispatch to Finland of an airplane with a cargo of medicine.

Mr. Roosevelt's consideration of new methods for extending non-military aid to Finnish citizens followed disclosure at his press conference yesterday that the next payment on the Finnish war debt, expected December 15, would be segregated in the treasury pending a determination by Congress whether the money should be used to help the Finnish people.

Home Robbed Of Estimated $29

Greenville police today were investigating a robbery at the home of Wyatt Brown on Dickinson avenue, discovered about 8 o'clock last night.

A sum of money said to have been approximately $29 was taken from a box in a desk in the hallway. The robbery was discovered after all members of the family returned to the front part of the house after dinner and found the cover had been torn from one of the beds and thrown about the bed room. A search revealed that the money had been taken.

It was at first reported that some one evidently entered the house while the family was at dinner but Chief Clark today questioned the Brown's cook, working on the theory that she might have taken the money and disarranged the bed cover to make it appear that some one had entered the house. Chief Clark was inclined to believe the latter theory.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Lewis of New York here are shown outside court with Magistrate Henry C. When they charged a construction company with violating the New York anti-noise ordinance, Magistrate Curran told them to have a good dinner, see a show, visit a night club, get a night's rest in a hotel and present the bill in court. They skipped show and night spot and the bill for the rest is to be paid by an "unknown benefactor." Note smiles in this picture.

REVEALS DATA ON FARM VOTE

Cotton Growers Decide on Control Program Saturday

Facts concerning the cotton referendum to be conducted Saturday were announced today at the offices of County Agent R. R. Bennett. Cotton-growing farmers will decide whether or not cotton marketing quotas will be in effect in 1940.

Polls will be open at the respective voting places from 7:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. The register of voters has been prepared from supervisors' reports and eligible voters have been notified of their respective polling places. Envelopes containing this data bear the farmer's serial number and each voter is urged to cooperate with the poll holders by carrying this envelope to the polls when they go to vote in order that his name may be more easily found on the register.

County Agent Bennett and AAA officials are urged to go to the polls and express themselves on the question of marketing quotas. A two-thirds majority is necessary to invoke quotas. The necessary majority was polled last year by cotton growers, although tobacco growers defeated the proposal. Tobacco farmers, however, reversed themselves this year and recently voted for control of the 1940 crop.

With War Seven Days Days Old Today—Finland's 22nd Anniversary—Soviet Forces Said to Have Driven Almost One-fifth of Way Across Baltic Foe; Finns Fight Stubbornly

Kirkenes, Norway (At the Finnish Frontier), Dec. 6.—(AP)—On this 22nd anniversary of Finnish independence a Soviet Russian army was reported to have driven almost a fifth of the way across northern Finland—apparently under orders to cut the country in two.

This army was said to have penetrated 35 miles into Finland, reaching Kuolajarvi on the seventh day of the war and leaving only 150 miles to be traversed before Finland would be bisected.

Completion of the drive would put Red forces on the Swedish border. Just beyond the border lie Sweden's rich iron mines. Observers saw in the relentlessly developing Russian strategy a great menace to Sweden—apart from the disaster it might mean for Finnish troops in the far north.

Finnish sources contended the Russian advance was discounted in advance because the region already penetrated is practically uninhabited. The Finns declared the invaders would encounter "unbreakable resistance" when they reach Finnish defense positions west of Kuolajarvi.

To support this drive the Soviet union continued the landing of troops along Petsamo fjord and aerial forays for reconnaissance and bombing.

Finns, fighting stubbornly in the cold and twilight of the Arctic told of repulsing sporadic Russian attacks and of shooting down a Russian bombing plane.

Finnish aviation had opened its offensive, a Finnish army communiqué reported. The fleet far outnumbered by the mighty Red air corps, were said to have attacked Russian troop concentrations yesterday.

DATE SET FOR 'TOY MATINEE'

Annual Affair To Be Presented Saturday, Dec. 16

The Pitt theatre Greenville fire department Boy Scouts and Salvation Army annual are planning to hold their annual toy matinee this Christmas season.

In accordance with the custom of several years all children will be admitted to a morning show at the Pitt theatre. The Boy Scouts will act as ushers and be available for odd jobs the firemen will repair and recondition toys and the Salvation Army will distribute them to the more unfortunate youngsters in the community.

The toy matinee will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, December 16, at which time the "Five Fathers" starring Jane Winters will be shown. The event has proved to be increasingly popular each year and last December hundreds of children were made happy who otherwise might have been forgotten.

Children are urged to bring only toys which can be fixed or non-perishable food, such as canned stews. Last year a quantity of toys beyond the repair stage were donated and had to be discarded.

Children are urged to look around their home, in the attic, basement or storerooms, find toys that are in fairly good condition, gather them up and hold them until Saturday of next week at which time they will be able to see one of their favorite movie actresses just by carrying them to the theatre. Admission will be by toys or food only.

While Greenville firemen have shown that they are adept at repairing toys, in the past they have received some that were in too bad condition to attempt to recondition. While the sponsors want every boy and girl in the community to attend, they urge the youngsters to bring toys which can be of some value to a less fortunate boy or girl.

The Salvation Army will make a survey of the needy homes and will distribute the toys to the youngsters who will truly appreciate them.

FELICITATIONS SENT FINLAND BY ROOSEVELT

President Expresses Hope That War Will End Soon

MESSAGE SENT ON ANNIVERSARY

Note to Finland Said To Have Gone Far Beyond Usual Expressions of Felicitations

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt expressed to President Kallio of Finland today his "earnest hope" that the Russo-Finnish war will end soon so that Finland may continue her steady development "untroubled."

The President cabled the Finnish leader on the occasion of the 22nd anniversary of Finland's independence.

"This anniversary," said Mr. Roosevelt, "on which the Finnish people recall with pride the achievement of their independence give me yet another welcome occasion to voice the wholehearted esteem felt for them and for their government by the people and government of the United States."

"It is my earnest hope that these tragic days may not be long in ending and to a happier era to permit the Finnish people to continue undisturbed the steady development of their free political and social institutions which have aroused the admiration of the American people."

President Roosevelt customarily cables the heads of foreign states on their occasion of anniversaries, but officials said his message to the president of Finland went far beyond his usual expressions of felicitations.

The president's hope that "these tragic days" may soon end recalled reports which have reached official quarters here in the last few days of intense peace moves under way to settle the Russo-Finnish conflict.

Meanwhile the United States government began a series of steps to aid the besieged people of Finland and emphasized its condemnation of Soviet Russia.

WILL PROTECT U. S. SHIPPING

Such is Indicated by State and Treasury Departments

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—State and Treasury department officials indicated today that the government intended to protect its rights under international law, even though this course might mean expense and delay to American shipping lines.

The question of American shipping rights arose informally in connection with a Great Britain's naval consultant's report under which British consular officials, naval certificates showing that American exports to neutral European countries are not objectionable to Great Britain.

The system was designed to expedite the flow of American commerce through the British contraband control to neutral countries—and to save time and trouble for the patrol. In most cases it would permit a ship's master carrying a cargo completely covered by marine insurance to pass quickly through the patrol.

There were reports that some shipping lines anxious to avoid the expensive delay involved when their vessels were ordered into port for inspection would refuse to accept unaccompanied shipments.

Regarding this as an infringement on rights of American exporters and the nation's maritime rights, the Treasury called attention to a 1917 statute permitting it to refuse sailing privileges to ships whose master declined to accept freight in good condition when he had space accommodations.

Nazi Liner Taken By British Craft

London, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A Reuters' British news agency dispatch from Capetown, South Africa today said British warships in the South Atlantic had captured the German liner Usukuma, 7,334-ton.

The German officers and crew were said to have been put aboard a British ship which was expected to bring the Usukuma to port as a prize of war.

Authorities said the Germans attempted to scuttle the vessel to avoid capture but were unsuccessful. It was the third German ship reported lost in the South Atlantic in two weeks.

Trotsky To Be Witness Before Dies Committee

To Testify At Hearing to be Held Near Mexican Line

Orange, Texas, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Chairman Martin Dies (D-Texas) of the House committee investigating un-Americanism, disclosed today through a secretary that Leon Trotsky and Diego Rivera, famed Mexican muralist, would testify next month on Communist activities in Latin-America.

The committee Secretary Robert E. Stripling said probably will hear Trotsky and Rivera "somewhere near the Mexican border" starting January 3.

The committee has come into possession of documents of an "authentic character" specifically revealing Communist plans for the spreading of their activities from Mexico into other Latin-American countries and into the United States, Stripling added.

Trotsky, former Soviet leader who broke with Stalin and now lives in Mexico, has furnished the committee investigators with information tending to prove the presence of a far-reaching Communist policy in Mexico.

Court Completed At P. M. Session

Working until late yesterday afternoon, this week's session of county court was completed after six cases had been disposed of after the luncheon recess.

Joe Condit colored convicted of possession of illegal liquor and driving liquor was given a six-months sentence suspended upon good behavior for two years and was ordered to pay $40 costs to be deducted and the balance to go as a fine.

H. J. Jolly, white, convicted of driving drunk, was fined $50, taxed with costs and had his driving license revoked for 12 months. The defendant appealed to Superior court and the court recommended that Jolly's license be suspended pending the appeal.

Willard Jackson white, was acquitted of a charge of driving carelessly and recklessly.

George Black white, was convicted of larceny and given a six-months sentence, from which he appealed.

Jack Bullock, white, pleaded guilty to possession of illegal liquor and was ordered to pay $25 costs to be deducted and the balance to go as a fine. In addition he was given a 60-day suspended sentence.

HOLDS TREATY IS NECESSARY

Communist Mouthpiece Suggests Rumania Act Immediately to Effect Pact with Russia Similar to Ones Negotiated with Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania Earlier this Year

Moscow, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Rumania was urged to sign a mutual assistance pact immediately with the Soviet Union in an article published today in "Communist International," mouthpiece of the International Communist organization.

The publication declared the pact should be similar to the treaties the U. S. signed recently with Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, through which she gained naval and military bases on the soil of the three Baltic states.

The article declared: "English and French reactionary bourgeoisie, supported by the American financial oligarchy, are striving to involve the small countries in an imperialistic war."

"The political and economic situation in Rumania," continued the paper, "makes it vitally necessary for the people inhabiting Rumania to establish most friendly relations with the Soviet Union."

Only a mutual assistance pact with Russia and the struggle of the "toilers of city and village" against all reactionary forces can prevent Rumania from becoming involved in a "second imperialistic war," the article declared.

Any attempt by Russia to bring Rumania to her knees by force might place Great Britain and France at war with the Soviet Union.

France and Britain on April 13, 1939, pledged themselves to give Rumania full military support if her independence were threatened by aggression.

Yale Puppeteers Here Tonight.

Those who attend the performance of the Yale Puppeteers at the college tonight will see not the usual children's program in sleeping beauty nor Little Red Riding Hood—but a clever, sophisticated musical revue which takes off figures in the news in a most entertaining manner. These puppeteers are the only troupe in this country playing strictly for adult audiences with highly adult material.

Someone has said: "Even the tiredst business man, dragged to the show by his wife, stays to applaud and enjoy the good-natured satire on notables of the day."

Puppets and human beings mingle in the usual performance. The pianist, who composed the lines and lyrics, acts also as master of ceremonies; and the creator of these "portrait puppets" works the strings in full view of the audience.

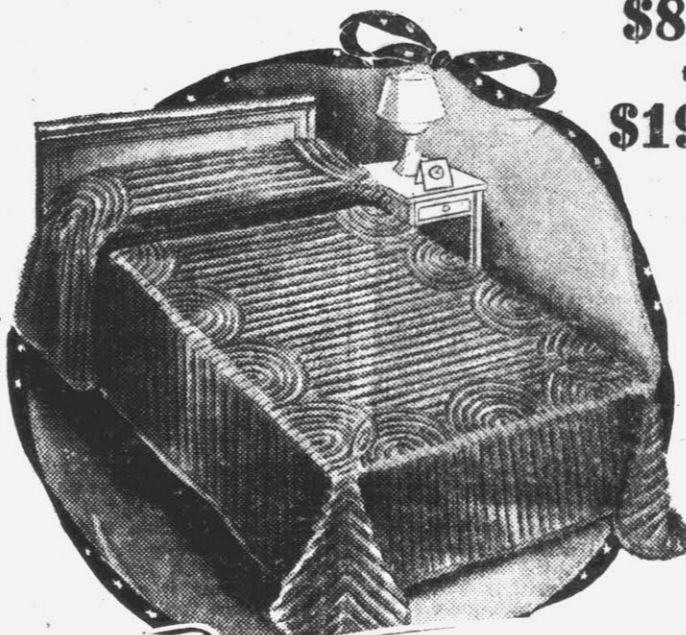

Of the show put on by this group James B. Pond, editor of Program

Magazine has this to say: "To me it is about the best entertainment I would be a knock-out. With them in it is a double K.O." The program will begin at eight o'clock tonight.

Small Hospitals For TB Suggested

Thirty-bed tuberculosis sanatoriums for every four-county unit throughout the state was recommended by Dr. G. C. Godwin, as a means of taking care of the advanced tubercular patients who are not accepted by the state sanatorium and to further check the spread of the disease within the families and communities of these victims.

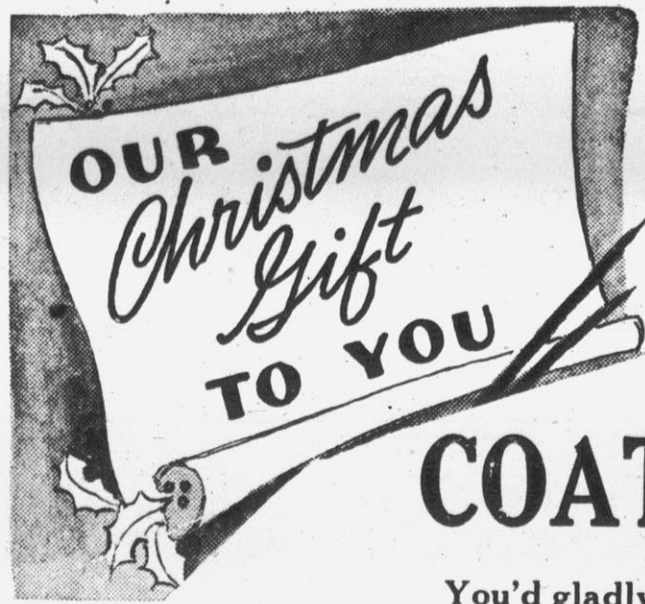

Dr. Godwin, specialist of the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, spoke last night at the Woman's club under the auspices of the Welfare Department of the Woman's club.

In discussing his subject Dr. Godwin quoted figures showing that North Carolina's death rate from tuberculosis is higher than that of the average of the other states. He stated that the disease is much more prevalent among the poorer classes than among the better cared for and more fortunate classes.

Through the nation wide effort of the various groups fighting tuberculosis, the speaker said that the national death rate has been reduced from 290 out of every 2,000 people to 49 out of every 2,000 people in the last 30 years.

The money derived from the sale of Christmas seals plays an important part in fighting this dread disease over the nation.

The moving picture, "Let My People Live," which was shown after the lecture effectively impressed the audience with the importance of early diagnosis of tuberculosis.

Raleigh, Dec. 6.—Lon Bolich, prominent Democratic worker from Winston-Salem was in Raleigh Tuesday, as usual, news men asked him questions about the political situation.

"I keep hearing that Bob Doughton is really going to retire from Congress this time and that he will not make the campaign next spring," said one reporter, "what do you think about that?"

"Well, I'll tell you," countered Lon, "I don't believe Pilot Mountain is going to fall down next spring and that will happen the same day that Doughton retires."

Whether they were whistling to keep up their courage or problematical, but the McNutt boosters who called on state officials here Tuesday expressed the opinion that President Roosevelt will not run for a third term.

Indiana's national committeeman Frank McHale of Indianapolis, who acted as spokesman for a group, made it perfectly clear that McNutt will not run in the event the President does seek to get the nomination.

DEMAND NOTED FOR FELDSPAR

Mountaineers Get Christmas Money From 'War Baby'

Raleigh, Dec. 4.—Many a mountaineer and farmer in Western North Carolina is going to have real "Santa Claus money" this year as a result of a "war baby"—the feldspar industry.

State Geologist H. J. Bryson reports that this industry is booming as it has not done in the last decade, and he assigns most of the credit to the European war which has reduced imports to a minimum and increased tremendously the demand for North Carolina feldspar for use in china making.

"Far back in the mountains, the farmers and mountaineers are digging feldspar from scores, if not hundreds of small mines which are little more than holes in the ground but which produce feldspar of just as good grade as that from the largest deposits and workings. They are hauling it to crushing plants and getting real money for it—and it's the first time in many years that a lot of them have had any cash for Christmas," said Bryson.

North Carolina is the largest producer of feldspar in the United States, the only other states which have any at all in commercial quantities being Colorado and South Dakota and they are both badly handicapped by the distance from the china plants, located mostly in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. For many years this state has produced half the feldspar used in the country and now it is being called on for practically all, since imports are almost nil.

There are several very large plants in the Spruce Pine area and probably a hundred small mines scattered over the western section. Last year the state produced approximately a million dollars worth of feldspar.

Announcement of Lieutenant Governor Horton that he will run for governor has put ideas in other heads, it appears.

It now seems absolutely certain that Thad Eure will have amended and very serious opposition in the Secretary of State before this week is out.

One of the capital felony appeals which will be argued before the Supreme court next week is making its second appearance there.

The "Sheriff's Case" from Alamance, which is reaching the Supreme court next week, almost in record time, may not determine once and for all whether the constitutional amendment of 1938 extended the terms of sheriffs elected at the same time.

Reason for this is that in the case at bar the office is held by an appointee, who took office after death of the official elected in 1938. That complicates the matter, in that it raises the question whether the appointment was for the "unexpired term" or "until the next general election."

If the Supreme court should take the latter view, then the main question would not be decided at all, as courts never go out of their way to pass on the constitutionality of any statute or even amendment to the organic law.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

By SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has promised to make a magic doll for the King of Westphalia whose kingdom was badly wrecked the night the god of lightning gave a feast for his son and set him off on his adventures.

Chapter Three THE NEW DOLL

Santa sprang from his bed the next morning the minute the sun pink-tinted the icicles hanging outside his window. He hummed a little tune as he pulled on his red breeches. He hummed as he tugged a silver comb through his long, white beard.

things that would interest a King. So Santa was thinking hard by the time he went out into the toyshop workroom. Mrs. Santa was setting breakfast. She put out pretty pewter dishes for Santa and herself. Little, tiny crystal dishes for the visiting woods fairies. Bright red dishes for the soldiers and the dolls.

Santa was so silent at breakfast that Mrs. Santa asked, "Are you worried about this doll?" Santa put down his cup, scratched his forehead, and said, "Well, I guess I am. I don't seem to see just how to make her. What do you think she ought to be?"

Plenty Of Ideas Quick as a flash Mrs. Santa said, "She should have faith if she is to comfort the King." "Right," said Santa, "and what else?" "She must think of other people before herself," said the captain of the soldiers.

And when the smoke cleared there stood the doll.

"Not too pretty," said another soldier.

"No? How?" asked Santa. "Oh," said a woods fairy, "make her thoughtful looking with large eyes and a mouth that smiles easily."

"She should speak only the truth," said a tin soldier. "Good gracious," said Santa, "there are plenty of ideas. Now Mrs. Santa, what should she wear?"

"Oh, let her have yellow hair," said Mrs. Santa, "and a dress of soft blue chiton with a little silver necklace and some cornflowers in her hair."

Wishes Come True Just then there was a puff of white smoke at the bottom of the huge Christmas tree that stands in the middle of the toyshop. And when the smoke cleared there stood the very doll about which they had all been talking. Santa hopped up with surprise and ran over to her. She was almost as tall as he was.

"Well!" exploded Santa. Then, "pop," the little Queen of Fairies appeared on the doll's shoulder. She said, "Santa you are always making gifts for other people. Here is a gift for you. I have let this doll grow as you talked, because you were really wishing. And I can make wishes come true."

"Can she talk to me after midnight?" asked Santa anxiously. "Can she talk of wars and crops and heaven and earth? That's what we need for the King."

"Wait and see," said the Fairy Queen and she twirled on her tiny toes. Mrs. Santa had walked to Santa's side and now she touched the long, full sleeve of the doll's dress. It was shimmering blue chiton just as she had wished, and about the doll's neck was a lovely silver chain made in the pattern of little clover leaves. And in her long yellow hair were some cornflowers.

"She looks as I wished," said Mrs. Santa. "So she must be as you wished. Now you must wait until midnight to find out."

There was great excitement in the toyshop that day. Santa went straight back to his work. And so did all the fairies that make dolls and wagons and doll furniture and horns and strings of beads. But they all kept stealing glances at the new doll.

After dinner the toys and fairies went to bed. Santa filled his pipe and sat down by the fire to wait for midnight.

Tomorrow: The son of Lightning comes to the Toyshop.

In 1913, after nearly 30 years of colonization, twenty thousand nationals at the very maximum had taken up residence in the whole of the German colonial Empire, says a study of "Population and Peace," issued by the Columbia University Press. This, it is pointed out, is considerably less than half the number of Germans living in 1930 in the Bronx Borough of New York City. It is also less than the number of Germans in Paris when the World War broke out in 1914.

To Be In Farmville

He has to have everything he wears or uses made to order with one exception, handkerchiefs. Even ties are too short. His gloves, made of leather, look like saddle bags and at a glance you would say they would each hold a peck of potatoes. At home he has a special built bed, 10 feet long, a special chair and table. On the road he finds hotel accommodations a bit cramped and sleeps in two double beds shoved together. Ordinarily, in winter, he sleeps under four blankets stitched together.

At home as on the road, Robert has no privacy. Whenever he goes folks gather around to ask him questions. When he goes to a theatre he sits in the rear of the house in a chair.

Robert is courteous, but he would rather not answer questions. "I get tired stooping over to answer them," he said.

Mr. Wadlow, Robert's father, who will accompany Robert to Farmville is a man about 6 feet tall. It is estimated that between three and five thousand people will be at the store of the Turnage Company next Thursday afternoon to see Robert.

Talk On Marriage Given At College

If we are to build up marriages of mutual happiness and lessen the number that end in divorce, we must re-think the standards guiding us in courtship and marriage, said Mrs. Mildred Morgan, the "Y" speaker at the college yesterday, as she discussed relationships between the sexes.

Introduced by Miss Sarah Ann Maxwell, Y. W. president, Mrs. Morgan spoke at the college assembly on "Trends in Relationships between Men and Women," pointing out that many of the patterns accepted in "dating" today make it not a preparation for marriage but only for further "dating."

Men jeopardize their chance of happiness in marriage if they take the attitude of "Oh, I'll probably get married sometime" and later go out and pick a wife "as though they were picking a car in a certain price range" making no attempt to think out standards or fit themselves to enter into a real partnership.

Women jeopardize their chances for similar happiness if they are eager to marry that they take any one who comes along, or if they think of marriage as an end in itself, with nothing to be done to it after the ceremony to keep the couple happy ever after."

Discussion groups met Mrs. Morgan in the afternoon, and at night questions in the same field, were handed in and discussed, with a large audience in attendance. Emmet Sawyer, Y. M. C. A. president, introduced the speaker at this meeting.

Mrs. Morgan's final summing up was that it is necessary for young people of today to rethink the standards they have acquired from the society around them. Keeping those patterns of behavior that contribute to the greatest happiness for the greatest number, and discarding all the others. She was the guest of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. in the college dining hall at lunch and dinner.

The speaker found it necessary to leave Greenville last night as she was on her way to a similar engagement in Greensboro. From there she will go to a number of other colleges before returning to her home in Iowa.
